Closing Date Of Sale Set For
One O'clock Saturday Afternoon

Versatility of acts is the keynote for the 1931 edition of the Bison Brevities, annual all-college vaudeville show, to be presented by Blue Key fraternity Monday and Tuesday, March 2 and 3, at the Fargo High School auditorium.

In picking the competing groups, care was taken that all kinds of entertainment is offered, and that there will be no repetition of acts. Because of that policy, it is believed that the show will attain even more success than has been attained in the previous years.

A feature of the small acts will be the individual performance of Meridith Mattingly, representing the college Y. M. C. A. His act was framed for two performers of the athletic team, but as his assistant, Monroe Wright, sustained a sprained ankle in an accident, Mr. Mattingly is forced to go on alone. The loss of the assistant forces Mattingly to show comic ability as well as athletic skill.

Engineers Give Skit

Another small feature will be the Sigma Phi Delta "Shooting Star", in which Glenn Schoessow will display his ability in dusting off cigars held by his assistants. Surprising feats with the rifle promises an hour's entertainment sandwiched into eight minutes of time.

Besides the two features mentioned above, the Brevities are filled with the superlative in entertainment. Henry Presler, general manager of the production, promises a greater amount of fun. With the preparations nearly completed, and with the ticket sales competition response great the presentation, according to Mr. Presler, will be a huge success.

"The Brevities", said Mr. Presler, "are primarily a student affair, and it is the purpose of the management to have the student body represented at the presentation 100 percent." Mr. Presler also stated that the seating capacity for the show is limited, and that those wishing to attend must procure their tickets immediately to insure themselves the privilege of attending the show.

Because of the necessity of a thorough check-up, the close of the Bison Brevities ticket sales competition has been moved ahead to one o'clock Saturday, it is announced by Curtis Ball, sales manager. The splendid turnout of the campus organizations for the competition is the reason for the change.

Besides the competing organizations, Sherdahl's is equipped to furnish the public with both reserved and general admission tickets.

Euren Elected Prom Manager By Juniors

Isley Presides At Special Meet
Of Third Year Group
Thursday

William Euren was elected manager of the Junior Prom at a special meeting of the third year class in the chemistry building Thursday afternoon. Orville Isley, president, was in charge of the meeting.

Euren is a member of Alpha Kappa Phi, social fraternity, and Blue Key, service fraternity. He has been outstanding in musical circles on State campus for the last three years and is now assistant director of the Gold Star Band.

The prom committees will be announced at a later date, according to the manager.

Honored By College Council

Haile Chisholm at Work

Haile Chisholm will receive the honorary degree, Master of Artisans, when friends, faculty, and students assemble this afternoon to pay their respects to the college forge instructor.

Sigma Alpha Iota To Feature Pledges In Assembly Musicale

String Instrument Group Will Play On Thursday's Program

Convocation on Thursday morning at 9:40 in the armory will feature the pledges of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, on a program with a stringed instrument group. Omicron chapter of the fraternity recently became affiliated with the college.

Mary Powers, pianist, will open the program with two selections, Romance by Jean Sibelius and Prelude by Chopin. Liv Brakke, soprano soloist, is featured in the second group of selections, singing Spirit Flower by Campbell Tipton, and Sweet Phyllis.

Members of the string group, Mrs. E. A. Engebretson, Leah Shalit, Marjorie Larson, Elizabeth Cooke, Mrs. Eli Weston, Roseltha Nesheim, and Mrs. Fred Henderson, present Tchaikovsky's Andante from Fifth Symphony, and Tango by Albeniz.

Elegie by Ernst and Ovide Musin's Mexicana are the numbers chosen for Elizabeth Cooke, violinist. Solveig Headlund with Impromptu in A Sharp by Chopin and Witches Dance by McDowell conclude the piano selections.

The stringed group close the program with Serenade to the Moon by Camilo d'Alession and Grieg's Erotican.

Lorado Taft Third Number On Program

Lorado Taft, famous sculptor, will give his lecture on "How Statues Are Made" in the armory at 8:15 p. m. The program will be the third number on the college lyceum course.

Taft will be one of the guests tonight at the banquet in honor of Haile Chisholm in the Lincoln Log Cabin.

Dual Debate Between University And State Opens Week's Rivalry

Erickson, LeFor, Fredrikson To Represent Bison Here
On Thursday

A dual debate between the University of North Dakota and State College will open a three day schedule of rivalries between the two institutions. The forensic duels will take the form of decision affairs.

Leonard Gilles, Karl Gerteis, and Morris Olson will argue the affirmative side of the question, "Resolved, that chain stores are detrimental to the best interests of the American public." The meeting will take place at the University.

State's negative team, including Morris Erickson, Harold Fredrikson, and Mathias LeFor, will uphold the negative side of the chain store question against a picked team from Grand Forks, in the L. T. C. The University debaters are: Patrick Milloy, Linn Sherman, and Raymond Werner.

Sherman and Milloy are enrolled in the law school and are beginning their third year of debating. Werner has seen two years of active service on the team and is also taking legal work.

Erickson and LeFor have even more experience debating on intercollegiate team for four years. Fredrikson, for three years a member of Fargo high teams, is entering his first year of collegiate competition.

Letters are being mailed to all the lawyers in Fargo and Moorhead announcing the contest. Students will be admitted upon presentation of their registration cards.

Judges for the contest here include: Paul Rasmussen, coach of debate at Concordia; J. R. Mashey, coach at Fargo high; and Rev. Wm. Sainsbury. Bernard Benidt, commissioner of public speaking, will preside. Musical numbers will be furnished by Fredrick Martin.

PLAY CAST IS PRACTICING
DAILY FOR PERFORMANCE

The cast for "He Who Gets Slapped" has been practicing daily for the last two weeks in preparation for the showing of the powerful four act drama on March 13 and 14.

Some unusual lighting effects are being planned by Clark Fredrikson, head of the lighting committee. A large circus arc is being borrowed to illuminate the set which represents the dressing room of an indoor show in France.

McMillen Gains Judges Decision In Fight Tourney

Don Lieb, Bob Thompson, Ed
Kunkel Get Verdicts In Elimination Bouts

Wielding a mighty pair of pile-driving fists, "Ram" Rod McMillen smashed out a close decision win over Cliff Bollman, senior battler, in the main go of the second Golden Glove elimination series held in the armory last Saturday night.

The large crowd watched intently as the two big Bison gridders crashed and banged one another, both seeking victory in the conquest for the light-heavyweight leadership. McMillen proved to be the more aggressive of the two, boring in continually and forcing the fight onward at a gruelling speed.

Welters Fight to Draw

Roman Pung and Don Hammond proved to be evenly matched in their welterweight semi-windup scrap. Hammond, a freshman fighter, showed surprising ability and forced Pung, last year's runner-up in the welterweight division, to use considerable ring strategy to hold his own in the fast moving struggle. It was Hammond's second appearance in the Bison ring, having won a bout in the first series of contests by a technical knockout.

Probably the most scientific bout of the evening was the bantamweight match between Don Lieb and Johnnie Rice in which both displayed flashing bits of speed and clever boxing ability. Lieb was awarded the decision though many of the fans called for a tie verdict.

Ellison Wins Fight

A bloody gladiatorial combat was the Ellison-Hasselstrom bout in which the former was adjudged the victor. Ellison, a freshman griddler, gritted his teeth and charged continually at his opponent in a true "hammer and tongs" fashion, using a great amount of ferocity and a lesser quantity of boxing skill. Both received and handed out much body and face punishment in every one of the four rounds.

Bob Thompson won the judges' decision over Ralph Murray in their welterweight bout by showing a slightly superior punching ability and better boxing form. This was the first ring appearance of both freshman scrappers.

Though he was excessively aggressive, Weshnevski, known as the "Battling Pole", lost his slug fest with Ed Kunkel due to his inaccuracy with his driving fists. This was the only lightweight match of the evening.

About twelve hundred people witnessed the second Golden Glove series of matches, according to estimates from the athletic department. Judges for the fray were Capt. J. B. Conmy, John Martin, and C. F. Monroe. Bert Gorman was timekeeper, and Lieutenant Smith acted as referee, in the absence of Sam Chesley.

BREVITIES BROADCAST

Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Kappa Phi, and Phi Omega Pi will broadcast Bison Brevities radio skits over WDAY tonight from 9:15 to 9:30.

State and City Officials Lorado Taft and College Representatives Honor Master Artisan At Banquet Tonight.

Students, faculty, and friends of Haile Chisholm will gather in the department of public instruction this afternoon to pay their respects to the veteran iron-worker at a reception. At four o'clock the college council will grant him the honorary degree, Master of Artisans.

The recognition of the work done by Chisholm is perhaps the first of its kind in this country. The college blacksmith has had nearly thirty years' experience at the institution and will be eighty years old next fall. His work has received recognition all over the state; listed among his projects is the gate to the Roosevelt log cabin at Bismarck, decorative work on campus fraternity houses, and three massive chandeliers in the Lincoln log cabin.

Eighty guests, one for each year of the master craftsman's life have received invitations to a banquet this evening. Lorado Taft and President Shepperd will speak followed by short talks by some of the other guests. Representatives of the student body, faculty, and city, county and state officials will be present.

Chisholm was born in New York state in 1851. At the age of 14 he went to work for a smithy after having learned the trade from his father. He worked 14 years as railroad blacksmith in Vermont, 6 years as a foreman and 4 years as a journeyman. In 1888 he came to Fargo and worked for the Northern Pacific railroad company until 1902. He then signed up as an instructor at the college and has been here since that time.

He spends 10 hours a day working in his shop. During his leisure hours he is creating designs which he executes on his anvil.

Minard Will Speak For Phi Kappa Phi

Seven New Members Receive
Initiation Thursday Evening

"Making Our Own World" will be the topic for an address to be given by A. E. Minard, dean of the school of science and literature, at the banquet in honor of seven new members of Phi Kappa Phi, national honor society, in the Lincoln Log Cabin, Thursday.

Preceding the banquet, the new members will be initiated at services in the green room of the main building at 6 p. m. The committee chairmen for the banquet are: Dr. A. D. Whedon, general arrangements; Miss Harriet Pearson, decorations; and Dr. A. F. Hunsaker, program.

Students who will be initiated at the service are: Glen Schoessow, Embden; Marion South, Casselton; Elsmere Chamberlain, Kathryn Engebretson, Lillian Flatner, Reynold Fredeen, and Lois Klinsmann, all of Fargo.

HUNTOON ENTHUSIASTIC OVER FERBER'S CIMARRON

Although the coming week is crowded with various activities I feel that every student on the campus should take the time to see Edna Ferber's Cimarron, said Homer B. Huntoon yesterday. Huntoon saw the preview of the movie a week ago.

"It is perhaps the most valuable picture I have seen from a historical and dramatic standpoint. It has a fine cast portraying powerful human emotions. The picture is a more vivid account of the settlement of a state than literature is able to convey. The story of the founding of Oklahoma is told in the drama. I cannot recommend it too highly," concluded Huntoon.

HAILE CHISHOLM

Today the entire school honors Haile Chisholm, the College Smith. His services to the institution is by no means near its end but his work improves with the advancing years.

We could easily say that he wrought the stubborn iron into beautiful objects, we could easily say he is a master craftsman, but the most important thing to us is the fact that he is a man and as a man richly reserves the degree, "Master of Artisans." Eighty years is but a good start in life for this veteran forge instructor and his optimism and conscientious work have been shining examples to the youth of the school for nearly thirty years.

His life illustrates the work that will confront the graduate. Life is wrought iron from which they try to fashion noble lives. We are indebted to you for what you have shown us, Sturdy Smith, and today we honor you and look forward to your many years of active, helpful service with our school.

WESLEY COLLEGE

The housing of the school of religion on State College campus is a move that has become imperative in the last few years. The present building has long been inadequate to fill the needs of those students taking courses under Dr. Airheart and so his classes have been shoved from pillar to post in the different buildings of the campus.

With the proposed construction of a new building many of the present difficulties will be solved. However, we feel that the committee in charge has not taken into consideration the fact that they will be building for the North Dakota State College of the future as well as the present. In the construction of an auditorium on the third floor, according to present plans, there will be hardly enough room for 175 people. The present demands of the college in the school of religion would overtax that auditorium at the present time. There is little question in our mind that the third floor lecture room might easily be enlarged to say 500.

There is another matter to take into consideration when soliciting funds for the erection of such a building. How much of the building will serve its purpose? Is it going to be used in the practical instruction of religious subjects or will it become a mere rooming house with but a few classrooms and a lecture hall? According to present plans the entire second floor will be devoted to the use of the supervisor with the exception of two classrooms. No matter how well planned the building is there is no escaping the fact that the odors of cooking will pervade the entire building, making it somewhat disagreeable for those enrolled in the school. We do not feel that it is practical to have living quarters in the same building with classrooms.

We are heartily in favor of the new building but we think that there is a chance for a little more thinking and planning for the future before actual construction is begun.

HATS OFF

There are few individuals on this campus that work under the handicaps that are continually met by the head of the music department. With one of the smallest budgets allowed to any similar department in the country, Dr. Putnam has been maintaining a musical standard at the college that outranks that of the other institutions in the state and would be a compliment to a school many times the size this one is.

Putnam is not carrying out his work unassisted. His competent staff and his influence in musical circles in the northwest make his task a little easier. The recent affiliation of Sigma Alpha Iota to the college has advanced the stock of music on the campus.

We look forward to a time when the school of music will come into its own. When it will have a broadened scope of operation and more facilities to meet its requirements. May the near future hold nothing but good fortune for that man of inexhaustible energy, Dr. C. S. Putnam.

WHAT ARE WE?

As we mentally review our acquaintances among the college people we can't help remarking the metallic, hard surface that baffles us and keeps us at an unapproachable distance. We are forced to gaze thru an impenetrable covering with which we all successfully shield and hide our real selves.

Paramount in all our social instruction from the time we are eager Freshmen until we are disillusioned and somewhat haggard Seniors is this imperative necessity of making a good impression. If it be a false impression—well—then we are credited with cleverness, and we are praised for succeeding in being what we aren't.

In most instances our reputations become a hindrance rather than a help. Through high school, perhaps, we worked a good racket and "got by". Immediately on entering college we are seized on as people with great promise and we are subtly encouraged to keep up the good work.

As a result we become involved in a mesh of obligations and situations that we can't climb out of. To please our fraternity and our friends we make even a greater effort to be social lions, glib conversationalists, good bluffers, self-assured bored young men and women. Then comes tragedy—or perhaps there is a touch of the comic—we succeed and are on the surface a set of good bridge players, world-weary youngsters—and if a trace of our submerged selves should rise above the surface occasionally, then we must be even harder and more metallic to erase the tell-tale glimpse.

DESTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

From the time we are mere infants until we are full-fledged men and women with college degrees we are warned and advised as to the pitfalls that await us out in the world. It seems to us that our lecturers give far too much attention to those pitfalls and not enough to the ones we are falling into every day.

It is not that we are determining our set of values that will markedly determine our attitudes toward life now and ever after. The disillusionments we meet with now are those that leave the lasting impressions and in some way warp and refashion all our ideals.

Strangely enough a new doctrine was preached by Reverend E. M. McKee, chaplain at Yale, just recently—instead of hanging to the time-worn idea that we are a group of innocent young hopefuls and bluntly declared that today's youth has no idealism, clings to outworn conventions, and shows no desire to lead its generation "to any but the conventional wares of Main Street's glittering externalism."

To us this is a very justified criticism and we can't help wishing more men would have the courage to say so.

By the time we are twenty-one and have passed through a good many campus political fracas we have a fairly good idea of democratic government. Sure it isn't an exceptionally idealistic one.

We are supposed to be free from convention and we hear talk of companionate marriage, the fall of the double standard of morality and a good bit more theorizing—but we know that the person that talks the loudest will end as the most ideal husband or wife, the typical Babbitt. It is the individual whose spirit is restless who talks the least that will throw aside conventional form and advance doctrines of individual liberty.

As for the last accusation any honest thinking individual will be forced to agree that the purpose of all our education is for greater financial gain. We are interested primarily in some day living a comfortable, not an exacting life, surrounded by the material comforts which are the very essence of "Main Street externalism."

This is a derogatory criticism, you say. Perhaps it is and if we looked far enough we might find an alibi. We believe, however, that we need to be taken out of our complacency, our smugness. We rejoice that at last someone has shaken us.

Authors' Note—In writing this column we feel like the Flicker Sham Committee that gave us their opinion of how prohibition should be handled—we said our little piece and then tried to get out. The editor grew wrathful. We hesitated. We relented and henceforth Peepin' Pete will continue writing—but for Tuesday's issues only—and on Fridays to accommodate our fan male.

Now that honorary degrees seem to be the order of the day, the council at the keyhole nominates: Bernie Benidt D. D. D. (Diplomat of Davenport Duty) Clark Fredrikson M. G. G. P. (Moral Guardian of Gamma Phi) Ross Cone T. N. T. (Teacher of Necking Technique) and A. B. W. (Artisan of Bench Work) Alfred H. Parrott G. A. R. (Grand Arbitrer of Right)

FORTY JEERS AGO TODAY

Fargo Armory, February 23, 1931—Police were called to quell riot tonight when 40 members of the Cosmopolitan Club, prominent local fraternity at State College, instigated a movement to impeach Joe Paulson following a disgraceful scene at the roller skating party.

Paulson was first seen skating blissfully beside his partner who carried a small alligator valise. Without a moment's warning the Cosmopolitan potentate snatched the pocketbook and broke for the door, upsetting all the guests and three or four chaperones. His escape would have been successful had it not been for the vigilance of the local authorities who were in the neighborhood of the college and had just returned from a liquor raid on the school hothouses.

Passing the engineering building they found the broken leader, sobbing on the hard sandstone steps, purse in hand. He was taken back to the scene of his crime where club members took charge of him. The purse was restored with apologies. Paulson said he was broken hearted about the affair.

"I am broken hearted about the affair," gurgled Mr. Paulson, "but," he added somewhat hopefully, "I can still write student opinions for the Spectrum when the discipline committee gives me my discharge."

ARTHUR AND MAY STAR IN CONFERENCE BATTLE

Root, Adkins, Carry Brunt Of Attack For Conference Champions

By Jack Grohne

For the third time during the Conference season, inaccuracy from the free throw line has cost the North Dakota State College basketball team defeat in the hands of North Central Conference opponents. The South Dakota University quintet, undefeated Conference champions, scored their second win over the Bison at the local armory last Friday.

The Coyotes collected 8 field goals and sunk a total of 11 gift shots to win by the count of 27 to 23. The Bison, however, outscored their opponents from the field having scored 9 double-joint counters, but the Bison counted only 5 free throws out of a total of 13 chances, which proved the big factor in their defeat.

The first half was devoid of competitive thrills and the Coyotes left the floor at the intermission on the long end of a 12 to 3 count. The Saalyemen were able to count only 1 field goal in the first half while the Southerners collected 4 baskets and 4 gift shots. Steve Adkins, Coyote forward, collected 3 of the double counters.

Bison Rally

With but two minutes of play remaining the Coyotes held a lead of 10 points. Coach Rube Hoy's reserve team was unable to stop the belated Bison rally, and called time out twice to halt the impending disaster. In the last two minutes, the Bison offense began to function and they scored 10 points while holding the opponents scoreless.

The Bison were not playing up to their regular standard and missed many shots that otherwise would have been counters. They had as many chances from the floor as the Coyotes but their accuracy was off just enough to deprive them of many easy shots.

May, Arthur Star

Leo May and Donald Arthur were outstanding for the Bison. Arthur was very effective in getting the ball off the back board, and played a bang-up game on the defense. Leo May, acting captain and only senior on the squad, proved a worthy field general and was outstanding on the defense. Late in the game he was shifted to a guard post and kept up his good play in the new position.

Root, Adkins Outstanding

Steve Adkins and Bert Root carried the brunt of attack for the Coyotes. Adkins led his teammates in scoring having amassed a total of 15 points. His shooting was uncanny and he scored 3 of his field goals when he was thought to be covered by the guard. Root was the best ball hand for the opponents and he was the most effective in working the ball through the Bison defense. Crakes and Ericsson, Coyote guards, also played well for the opponents.

Sport Sprouts

BY CHAMPLIN

South Dakota University certainly demonstrated their cage superiority of the North Central Conference by winning two games from the strong North Dakota teams last week. In the first contest against the Bison on Friday night they looked like world beaters for 30 minutes of the game, gaining a commanding lead of 13 points. But the Bison sharpshooters came to life in the closing minutes and brought the fans to their feet with a deluge of long shots which closed the gap to only four points at the close of the game. Perhaps the Bison would have been benefitted by a "long count" in this contest.

Then at the University on Saturday night the Coyotes almost duplicated the score of the day before. They won by four points again. In both instances it seemed that the close scores could not have been reversed to give the northern teams the victories.

The Bison and Nodaks close their conference schedule this week in the State College armory. Although neither team has a chance for the conference title, they will be battling for the North Dakota supremacy. The Yellow and Green must win both games to gain a tie while the Sioux have to win but one of the two contests to finish on top. Taking all scores and contests of the teams into consideration and also the fact that the games will be played on the Bison home court, it seems quite probable that Saaly's charges should come through with two victories.

Because of the Coyotes' two wins last week it will not be necessary to play the disputed contest between the Bison and the Nodaks as far as the conference championship is concerned.

Marguerite Beard Will Teach Music Appreciation

Miss Marguerite Beard, a member of Sigma Alpha Iota, musical fraternity, will conduct a course in music appreciation during the spring term, according to Dr. C. S. Putnam, head of the music department on the campus.

Miss Beard is well fitted by training and experience for this work. At Radcliffe College, where she received the degree of A. B., she specialized in music under Walter Spalding and the late J. K. Paine. She also spent a year each in post-graduate study of music at Radcliffe and at Minnesota University, besides several summers of work at Harvard and Cornell. For a number of years she was head of the theoretical music department in Fargo College, and after the closing of the college she continued in the same capacity with Dakota Conservatory. She has given many music lecture-recitals before the clubs of Fargo.

Sigma Alpha Iota is a professional music fraternity. Membership is limited to women who show exceptional promise as performers or teachers of music, and who have reached certain standards in both practical and theoretical in all collegiate subjects is necessary to gain or to retain membership.

The fraternity offers a scholarship, retical music. A high scholastic average either to men or women who show marked musical ability; who have high scholastic standing; and who need financial help. The proceeds of the scholarship are to be applied to the financing of the recipient's musical education.

The cabinet will meet on Tuesday, Feb. 24 with Mrs. A. T. Shaw in charge. Following the business meeting a discussion meeting in conjunction with the regular Question Box meeting will be held. This time the discussion will be on the Bible and its application to campus problems.

The second Blue Monday tea was held yesterday with Rosella Ivers and Jane Canniff acting as hostesses. These teas are held weekly and an urgent invitation is extended to all women on the campus by the Freshman Commission who are sponsoring the project.

Girls interested in Y work who have not yet joined should sign up at once and enter one or more of the various activities.

Cleveland, Ohio.—General Smedley Butler, stormy petrel of the Marine Corps for the past decade, announces his intention to resign from the service and go on the lecture platform in the fall. No doubt the publicity gained him by the recent Mussolini-Butler-Vanderbilt scandal will swell his box-office receipts.

Washington, D. C.—President Hoover and Senator Schall of Minnesota have locked horns, so to speak, as the result of the former's appointment of Gunnar H. Nordbye as federal judge for Minnesota. Schall's objection to Nordbye seems to be rooted in the fact that the latter was appointed to the district bench in Minnesota by former Governor Christianson, political foe of Senator Schall.

Northampton, Mass.—A Massachusetts dairy leader, former State Representative Shattuck of Andover, has proposed to the dairymen of the state that former President Calvin Coolidge be asked to head the Massachusetts dairy interests and put them on a highly remunerative basis. Incidentally, the salary mentioned for Cal's services was $1,000,000 for a five year period. In comparing this "dole" with the wage received by an intelligent, unskilled workman, the writer wonders if the million dollar salary is not a bit out of proportion. Comparatively speaking, is any man worth a million dollars for five years of service?
