SADDLE AND SIRLOIN
FEATURE BEGAN IN '28

Bruce Burritt, Dr. O. I. Catlin,
Dr. J. W. Dunham To Act As Judges

A highlight of the Little International Livestock show to be held at the college Thursday evening will be the inter-sorority dog show, according to Mervin Tuntland, manager of the show.

Sororities represented are Alpha Gamma Delta, Alpha Xi Beta, Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Phi Omega Pi.

Edna Sullivan, Alpha Gamma Delta, will lead a chow dog in the show; Doris Lathrop, Alpha Xi Beta, a pekinese; Eleanor Evanson, Gamma Phi Beta, a spitz; Evelyn South, Kappa Kappa Gamma, a chow, and Verona Weppler, Phi Omega Pi, a chinese chow.

A silver loving cup is offered as first prize in the dog show; second prize is a pair of kid gloves; third, a set of book ends; and fourth, fifth, and sixth, pairs of silk hose.

Judges for the affair are Dr. J. W. Dunham, Dr. O. I. Catlin, and Bruce Burritt.

This feature of the show was first presented by the Saddle and Sirloin Club in 1928. Due to the success and general approval with which this feature was accorded it has since been offered each year. Miss Volkamer, Gamma Phi Beta, won the event in 1928; Miss Helen Stokke, Gamma Phi Beta, was declared the winner in 1929; while Junette Lee, Kappa Delta, carried off high honors last year.

Charles T. McKinnie Recovers From Crash

Graduates From Kelly Field
February 27; To Be Given New Post

Chas. T. McKinnie, a graduate of mechanical engineering at the North Dakota State College in December 1929, and an alumnus of Sigma Phi Delta, has fully recovered from a crash in an army training plane while on observation duty November 19 last near San Antonio, Texas.

He is now on cross country flying duty. On January 29 he will leave Kelly Field for Pine Bluff, Ark., over Ft. Sill, Okla., then to El Paso del Norte, and then back to Kelly Fields covering 2,000 miles over the Ozark Mountains, thru the oil fields of Oklahoma and the Guadalupe Range of New Mexico. This air tour, covering a space of two weeks time, will take Mr. McKinnie thru The Pass, where the European settlers first entered the United States territory.

Mr. McKinnie will graduate from Kelly Field, the last stage in instruction in the United States Flying Cadet, February 27, according to word received at Fargo. He will be assigned to his new post on the day following his graduation. If present plans materialize, he will then take a month leave of absence and visit his parents and friends in Fargo.

ALPHA XI BETA

Alpha Xi Beta held formal initiation Sunday at the home of Ethel Renwick for Dorothy Rutherford, Irene Beyer, and Rosella Olsen. After the services, lunch was served at Le Chateau.

Bayliss Elected To Head Welfare Group

At the annual meeting of the Council of Welfare Agencies of the Community Chest held at the Y. M. C. A., January 14, Dudley C. Bayliss, college Y. M. C. A. secretary and instructor in the architecture department, was elected to the office of secretary for the ensuing year.

The Welfare Council consists of representatives from the seventeen character building and relief agencies of the city of Fargo. These agencies are actively connected and benefitted by the community drive that is conducted each year in the city.

Saddle And Sirloin Club Sponsors Annual Livestock Exposition

Almost Record Number Entries
In Each Division Says
Club President

One of the outstanding events of the year in the school of agriculture is the Little International Livestock show to be held at the college Thursday evening of this week, according to Donald Lawrence, president of the Saddle and Sirloin club, sponsors of the affair.

"With close to a record number of entries in each division, competition for the prizes offered is bound to be keen," said Mr. Lawrence.

Superintendents for the different divisions are Wayne Houtcooper, sheep; Howard McCloud, hogs; Frank Forbes, poultry, Wesley Bruns, beef cattle; Carl Roberts dairy cattle; Carl Albrecht, horses.

The Co-Ed milking contest promises much entertainment over Leonard Luther, superintendent of that novel feature of the show.

Those entered are Jean Pote, Gamma Phi Beta; Myrna Ottinger, Kappa Delta; Marjorie Metcalf, Cosmopolitan club; Lucille McGrath, Kappa Delta; Helen Fitch, Phi Omega Pi; Emilybelle Craigo, Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Judges for the event are Alvira T. Smith and Constance Leeb. Clarence Lockrem is the time keeper.

Y. W. C. A.

The monthly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. originally scheduled for tonight has been indefinitely postponed.

Rosella Ivers has been named to the freshman commission.

The meeting of the interest group in dancing has been postponed until next Wednesday, Jan. 28.

Urbana University of Urbana, Ohio boasts the smallest student body of any higher educational institution in the United States. The number which is now 24 was swelled by the installation of a music department.

Ten Brevities Acts Place In Tryouts For College Show

Six Large, Four Small Acts
Are Named By Judges;
Alternates Chosen

Managing Board Satisfied With Showing Made By Greek Groups

Six large acts and four small acts with three alternates were chosen at tryouts for the third edition of the Brevities in the college YMCA Saturday afternoon. Fourteen groups competed for places in the Greek letter vaudeville show.

A variety of talent was displayed to the judges during the tryouts where each organization presented a resume of their act. The acts will be molded into a unit by Homer B. Huntoon, head of the department of architecture who has been chosen by Blue Key, sponsors of the presentation, as director.

"We are well satisfied with the showing of the fraternities and the sororities on the campus. We feel that with talent displayed at the tryouts we can mold a show that will equal if not surpass the project as presented last year. The governing board of Blue Key is pleased with the tryouts," was the statement given out by Henry Presler, manager of the event.

Eight judges voted unanimously for three fraternity acts, Alpha Sigma Tau, Alpha Kappa Phi and Delta Kappa Sigma. As an alternate, Kappa Psi was chosen.

Sorority acts will be presented by Gamma Phi Beta, Phi Omega Pi and Kappa Kappa Gamma. Kappa Delta was chosen alternate.

The four short acts, to be presented while scenery is being changed for longer presentations, will be given by Sigma Phi Delta, Theta Chi, the Y. M. C. A. and Kappa Delta, which entered for either a short or long act. In case Kappa Delta will appear among the large acts, Alpha Xi Beta was chosen as alternate short.

Judges were Misses Alice Bender, Pearl Dinan, and Alma Riggle, Norman Ostby, John Doerr, Everett Wallum, Dave Henley, and Dudley Bayliss.

Kappa Phis Initiate Six Men On Sunday

Formal initiation services were held Sunday afternoon at three o'clock in the chapter house. The following are the initiates: Benjamin Bermel, Plaza, N. D.; John Schlanser, Fargo; Vaughn Morris, Beach, N. D.; Emerson Leiseman, Bismarck; Lester McComb, Fargo; Eugene Gackle, Kulm.

Theta Chis To Hold Open House Jan. 25

The date for open house at the Theta Chi fraternity has been set for Sunday evening, January 25, according to Frank Sykora, social chairman.

The Sophomore and Junior class members of the fraternity have charge of the arrangements for this event, which is the first of its kind in the new chapter home, completed in October, 1929. The Theta Chi Mothers' Auxiliary will serve tea to the fraternity guests.

YWCA To Conduct Membership Drive For Winter Term

"Y" Offers Opportunities For Many Kinds Of Work To New Students

Beginning tomorrow morning the Y. W. C. A. will inaugurate a Winter Term Membership Week during which every woman on the campus will be extended a written invitation to join.

"Opportunities for service, social contact and educational work are offered to women through the 'Y'. For this reason we are anxious that any new students on the campus or others who don't belong would get into some phase of the work this week; said Alpha Knight, chairman of the membership committee, when interviewed today.

At present the "Y" has 250 members taking in the activities which consist of a charm school with nine interest groups, a cabinet, freshman commission and the two monthly meetings. Besides this the "Y" sponsors a breakfast during the May Festival.

At the close of the Membership Week recognition services for new members will be held with Amy Osborn in charge.

SENIOR CHEMISTS TO FURNISH NEXT PROGRAM

The Senior class chemists will furnish the program entertainment at the next regular meeting of the Chemists' Club, to be held Thursday evening, January 29, according to Roland Olson, secretary.

It has been estimated that a trip around the world is worth more than a college education and costs the same as one year in college.

Indirect Lighting Unique Feature At Military Ball

Lonsbrough Urges Tickets Be Bought To Avoid Last Minute Rush

ORCHESTRA HOUSED IN ARMORY DUGOUT

Screens of Beaten Metal To Be Placed On Sides Of Dance Stand

Indirect lighting featured at the 16th annual Military Ball will help make the Scabbard and Blade formal unique from a decorative viewpoint according to Bob Carlson who is in charge of transforming the Elk's Temple into a miniature battle field. The grand march will begin Friday evening at nine.

Captain Curt Ball and his partner Miss Emma Nelson will lead the column through the traditional arch of sabres. Lieutenant Colonel Walter Lovness and his partner, Miss Mary McLane, will be second in line.

Tickets for the party are being sold by members of Scabbard and Blade and representatives at each fraternity house on the campus. The Dakota Drug Co. and the college Bookstore are in positions to sell pasteboards for the affair.

"Although the sales are coming along quite well, there are many who are waiting until the last few days to purchase their tickets. Those who wait until the last minute to buy may be disappointed. We have a limited number to sell and when those are gone we will have to stop selling," was the statement made by Cy Lonsbrough.

Orchestra In Dugout

Jack Kane and his orchestra from Duluth will be housed in a typical army dugout. A flickering bursting shell will be suspended before the pit to lend a military atmosphere. Five panels of beaten metal screens in silver and gold leaf will be placed on each side of the orchestra dugout.

An anteroom off the main floor has been arranged for the guests of honor according to the committee in charge.

New Bison To Come Out Gay Cat Day

Will Have No Feature Section
This Year; Different
Scenic Section

With the bulk of the engraving for the book going steadily down to Minneapolis, prospects for the advent of the 1932 Bison upon Gay Cat day without undue rush on the part of the printer or staff are good, says Elene Weeks, editor of the annual.

There will be many innovations in the makeup of the pages in the yearbook when it appears, and on the suggestion of Art Segal, college head of the Minneapolis Bureau of Engraving, the scenic section will be different from any heretofore used in a State Yearbook, and those of the staff who have seen the layout confess themselves well satisfied. There will be no feature section, as it has been decreed by national judges that such a section detracts from possibilities for an All-American rating, but a duplicate of the Bison life section, introduced last year by Amos Wallum, editor of the 1931 Bison, will supplant it, says Miss Weeks.

DELTA TAU EPSILON

Delta Tau Epsilon announces the formal pledging of Lawrence Erickson, Crosby.

Blair Seitz and Merton Brady, from the Theta Chi House, were Sunday dinner guests.

NOTICE!

There will be a "Y" hop in the College "Y" gym. on Thursday, Jan. 22, from 4 to 6 p. m.

Oscar Ben Olsen Arrives In Fargo; Brings With Him Last Minute Warnings Given By His Mother

Roaring, rattling, racing around the curves careened the Milk Train Ltd., bearing its precious burden, namely Ben, on to the Military Ball. Ben was on both sides of himself with excitement—chewing his hair and tearing his fingernails in his frenzy of anticipation. Leaning afar out the window, and with the aid of a periscope, he was able to discern along the dim horizon the turrets and towers of Fargo. He took out the dog-eared memorandum that his teary Mother had pressed into his hand as he had boarded the train, and began reviewing the points.

1. Change underwear.
2. Be on guard around men with spats on.
3. WATCH OUT FOR BUNNY RICKER (for rumours of her ensnaring charms had reached Aneta).
4. Try to make a hit with the Alpha Sigma Taus (there was a warm spot for the Taus in Aneta's heart, for the village butcher, a jolly, rotund old lover of schnapps, had been a charter member in his Alma Mammy days).

Ben reinserted the paper into his watch pocket, and then, realizing that Fargo was within hallooing distance, parted his hair carefully, if somewhat erratically down the center of his dome, added the final furtive touch of brilliantine to his already gleaming lashes. That done, he grasped his shoebox of lunch and stepped daintily down to the platform. He looked around him, and breathed in reverently.

Fargo! Land of milk and honey (according to N. D. A. C. bulletin No. 32044).

Everywhere was a bustle of excitement as always before a great Ball, and emblazoned signs shot forth announcements of the Military Ball. He squared his shoulders to the perils of the city, and took a step forward. Then he noticed a queer spectacle. A group of handsome lads, whom he knew immediately as Taus because of their bearskins and hatless curly heads, and drooping, cigaretted were sticking out their tongues at a bunch of little shavers in red ties, and red ties, of course, are only effected by Delta Sigs. Even Ben knew that. They were yelling something about who saw him first. He broke thru their ranks, and hastened to the Viking. After freshing up a bit, he sat down and wrote to Mom and Nell. His heart strings strummed as he thought of Little Nell—there on the garden gate. He took out the little Ping Pong photo of him and Nell and gazed until the mist in his eye blinded him. Brusquely wiping away the tears with his homespun cuff, he dashed out to the Leader to rent a tux, for tuxes must be rented, in spite of Nell. He dodged from doorway to doorway, for the talk of the street was that the RICKER was after new prey, and he heeded mama's warning. But let us leave O. Ben at this point, for who doesn't like to be alone when trying tuxes?

Give Ben a hand at the Military, dear readers!

Think what a Military Ball means to anyone!

THE Y. W. C. A.

For the end of this week and part of next the Y. W. C. A. is conducting a Winter Term Membership Week.

There is no organization on the campus that carries on such a varied type of activities in which there is a place for every individual.

At present a deplorable situation exists in which women on the campus keep entirely within the bounds of their own social organizations.

It does seem though that highly organized as we are there must be some interests in common outside those of our own particular group. The fact that we are attending the same college should have some significance.

Get into the work of the "Y"—learn to know other women and their interests outside of those in your own particular circle. Cooperation in this respect will create a better more solidified feeling among the women on the campus.

PERHAPS

Ever since the war we have had realism choked down our throats. We pick up a realistic novel, whose only claim to fame is that of realism. From the pages of every review we have realistic biography, realistic poetry, and realistic something else thrust before our eyes.

To our great relief the pendulum seems to be swinging backward. Perhaps with the era of long, flowing skirts will come the silly, sentimental romanticism that allows us to get away from the piles of dishes in the sink—that romantic attitude that believes it isn't quite nice to talk about sex, your next door neighbor, the innermost workings of a man's mind, and other realisms.

Then we may regain our equilibrium, our mental balance and begin once more to view life through a mass of beautiful colors.

Most satisfying of all we shall be able to keep our illusions—perhaps.

OUR MONEY'S WORTH

In figures compiled by Matt Tindall, until recently Alumni Secretary, it was found that the average expenditure for a student on this campus was six hundred dollars annually. Mr. Tindall goes on to say that, "The estimates are strictly economic taking no account of intangible social and civic values."

At the end of four years then the average student has spent nearly two and a half thousand dollars for which he receives a Bachelor of Science degree, the blessings of his instructors (in some instances) and is set adrift.

It should be remembered that the average in the larger universities is much higher, rarely being under one thousand to fifteen hundred dollars a year, and yet unless one is preparing for so-called professions such as law, medicine, etc. the education received is of about the same standard as that offered here.

We wonder, however, how many students are getting six hundred dollars of economic worth out of nine months on this campus.

For example, at the most a student rarely obtains a position paying more than two thousand a year immediately after graduation; the average is much below that.

When we look around us and see such manifest signs of people wasting their time we feel that they are making a failure of their job that of being educated and of getting as much as possible for their money.

Wouldn't it be far better to give the greater percentage of those who come to college for a liberal education, vocational training that would give them a trade of which they could become master and be of some worth to their community?

SEARCHING

An editorial in last Tuesday's Spectrum on "An Ideal Instructor" set us to analyzing all those we came in contact with in the course of a week. The results of the study were as expected for we found no ideal.

That, however, is as it should be for even an intelligent student would chafe at studying under an instructor in whom he could find not one fault to criticize.

We think it might be well if the instructors would turn the search upon themselves and see how well they measure up. For example it might be called to their attention that a large enrollment in their classes is not necessarily caused by a campus reputation for being a good instructor. In fact too often the large classes are found under those who have a reputation for being "easy".

Surely a large percentage of failures should be proof enough to a teacher that there was need of some self-analysis.

So you see the problem has two sides. Meanwhile it is hoped the student will further his search for the perfect professor and will be rewarded by studying under men and women who have a sincere interest in their work and are trying to meet the student's requirement.

Of all the problems that confront student leaders and college administrators, that of student honesty in classroom work and campus relations is probably the one that is first in importance and interest today. When students meet, this problem consumes a large part of the time given for discussion of student problems; when college administrators meet, this problem is widely discussed. It is a perplexing problem; it is an important one.

Some colleges and universities attempt to solve this problem of student honesty by means of the Honor System. Under the Honor System, broadly speaking, the students are given absolute freedom from surveillance by faculty members or proctors. It is assumed that the students are honest, and they are dealt with on that basis. Their signature to papers, or in some instances to a special pledge, vouches for the fact that the work represented to be his own was done by the student himself, and by him alone. His word is his bond.

Those colleges which use the Honor System, as a rule, believe that it is efficacious in instilling into students a love and respect for honest dealings one with the other; that it is a vital force in the building of character in students; and that it inculcates into the college youth strong and lasting principles of good citizenship that will serve him well in after-college days, when he has left the protecting influence of college professors and fellow-students, and the wholesome deterrent effect of student disapproval of shady conduct.

On the other hand, many colleges, in fact a majority of the colleges of the United States, do not favor the Honor System. They see no advantages to be derived from it; they consider such a system to be a license to the students to cheat. They think that its advantages are greatly outweighed by its disadvantages; they consider that such matters are academic, and that they should be handled by paid faculty members rather than by students whose experience is comparatively limited and whose judgment is not fully developed.

Between the Honor System, in which faculty control is nil, and the system of faculty espionage, in which student control is nil, are many intermediary systems. In some colleges the Honor System is in force in certain departments; in some it applies to matters outside the classroom; but in most of them the Honor System attempts primarily to be regular honesty in scholastic work.

A number of colleges are in the midst of a great upheaval on account of the problem of the Honor System. A few have abolished it within the last few years. A few others have installed it. Others are seeking information concerning it in order that they may try to install it, or if they already have it, in order that they may make improvements.

ON SHAW'S REPLY

Thank you, H. E. H., for your most kind correction of my faulty ideas. In gratitude, let me point out the real worth of your bombastic literary composition.

It is quite clear that you tried your best to make my article appear sordid. Maybe it was. But I found nothing in yours that was in any way instructive, except, perhaps, for one sentence. It would have been more profitable if you had given your time to a discussion of some of the points I tried to bring out. You could have told me, for example, the virtues of the Bookstore, since that institution is somewhat misunderstood on the campus. Instead you focused your "mighty intellect" entirely on me. Why publish what is really private correspondence? You wasted perfectly good space in the paper, and I have to do the same in reply. But neither one of us is worth it.

Furthermore, I found nothing constructive about your criticism. And, if all the sarcasm were taken out there would be very little article left. Perhaps you realized there was some truth in it, but couldn't think of anything to prove it to be false. In order to give expression to your feeling, you chopped up what someone else had put together. From an argumentative point of view it was poor defense. Your remonstrance is comparable to a fully blown-up balloon. Because there is nothing but wind and a thin hide on the outside, a slight pinch will cause it to shrink out of existence. Thus you proved nothing and the question is still open for debate. And it is as easy to prove my side as it is to prove yours.

Moreover, your article wasn't very encouraging for those who would probably like to write, but hesitate. Most people don't mind to be criticized but they hate to be sneered at. Students who are habitually silent won't venture to express an opinion in our paper, when they must fear such a reply as yours. They rather keep quiet than have any besotted dialectician "ride" them.

Sport Sprouts

BY CHAMPLIN

Hail to Saaly! He certainly has done a great piece of work in forming the North Dakota State basketball team. It took only one conference game to demonstrate the ability of the Bison basketballers and the value of their preseason training. Perhaps we were not surprised at the outcome of the game with South Dakota State, but at least we wondered at the strength of the squad after the trip. The 39 to 21 score and the marvelous defense of the gang leaves no doubt in our minds as to what the Bison will do in the conference race.

Conference scores to date are as follows:

S. D. 46, Morningside 22
S. D. U. 32, Morningside 27
N. D. U. 46, S. D. S. 37
N. D. S. 39, S. D. S. 21

Which leads to believe that by comparative scores the Bison are by a various number of points better than any other team in the loop.

The conference standings:

	W.	L.	Pct.
Bison	1	0	1000
Sioux	1	0	1000
Coyotes	1	0	1000
Jackrabbits	1	2	333
Methodists	0	2	000

On Thursday night of last week was witnessed one of the most exciting fraternity games ever played at this college. The Theta Chis opened their schedule by defeating the Kappa Sigma Chis to tie for first place. In the first period of the contest it was all Kappa Sigma Chi. They led 13 to 1. Then something happened; the Theta Chis evidently decided that it would be just as cheerful to receive as to give, and they weren't going to give that game away. And believe it or not, they tied the score during the regular playing time and won out in the extra period. The final score was 28 to 25.

The Sigma Taus are still at the top of the basketball ladder as the result of their win over the Kappa Psis last Thursday by the score of 17 to 9. These rose and gray lads mean business this term. You iSigs and Rhos had better keep your eyes open.

Do you remember that Merlin Jahr, that stocky sophomore, in his first year with the varsity football team made the all-conference team? Then a few days ago he starred in the varsity's first hockey game. Won't he be the hero if he can put the shot next spring?

George Fairhead Leads Scorers With Eight Field Goals During Contest

McKAY, OLSON HALT INVADERS ATTEMPTS

May, Nordstrom Stand Out For State; Haman, Brakke Star For S. D.

A smoothly clicking North Dakota State College basketball team meted out a crushing defeat to the South Dakota State College Jackrabbits on the Bison court Saturday night.

The speedy floor work and impregnable defense of the Bison machine proved too great an average. The Bunnies came out on the short end of a 39-21 score.

Shortly after the beginning of the game Haman, slippery Bunny guard, dribbled away from Nordstrom for a nice shot under the basket to give his team their only lead of the game. This lead, however, was short lived for Nordstrom redeemed himself and tied the score at 2 all. After this the Bison kept widening the margin until they lead 16-9 when the gun sounded for the half.

George Fairhead, flashy Bison forward, led his teammates in scoring honors counting eight field goals. He also scored two free throws to bring his total to 18 points. This brilliant performance brands George as one of the outstanding forwards in the conference.

May Adds Strength
Leo May, proved to be a tower of strength on the defense and also collected three tallies during the fray. He controlled the tipoff at the center position and was very effective in breaking up many passes of the opponents.

Walt Olson and Viv McKay, Bison guards, kept up a fine defense and were very much responsible for the low score of the South Dakota team. Olson, besides playing a brilliant defensive game left his duties long enough to score three times from the field. Eric Nordstrom at forward worked well. He scored nine points. Captain Haman proved to be the star of the Jackrabbit offensive, scoring three of his team's seven field goals. Brakke and Raak also played well for the losers.

The lop-sided score was not essentially an indication of a weak South Dakota defense. Few teams in this section would find it easy to counter the Bison offense which penetrated the Bunnies' territory for so many counters.

Midway in the second period the Bison had a slight let up in which the Southerners scored four baskets in quick succession. This spurt did not last long. The Bison soon resumed their winning play where they left off.

STATE BASKETEERS TO MAKE IT TOUGH FOR LOOP QUINTS

Fifteen Candidates Show Equal Ability In Practice Sessions

(By E. J. Wallum)

North Dakota State College basketeers may not carry off the North Central conference bunting this year, but they have the reserve strength to make trouble for other loop aspirants.

For the first time since his tenure as net coach, L. T. Saalwaechter boasts 15 men, none of whom will concede a regular berth to a rival candidate. Neither would any of them look out of place on the first five. The beauty of it is, "Saaly" points out, Leo May, the only senior, is the only man on the squad that won't be eligible next year.

The eight sophomores on the squad have been slow in developing, but they should be in top form for the annual February four game series with the University of North Dakota, and that's the team the Bison most wish to beat. The fact that the Sioux are rated favorites this early in the season means nothing to Saaly who points out that the Bison, favorites last year, managed to win only two out of the four games. This year the Nodaks have the dope, and many believe the Buffalomen have the potential talent to turn in an upset. With a month of experience facing the sophomores before the annual classic, such a possibility is not out of the question.

HOCKEY TEAM TRIMS INDEPENDENT SQUAD IN FURIOUS CONTEST

McGrath, Blakeslee, Newton Score For Bison In Pick Setto Saturday

Saturday afternoon, in one of the most fiercely contested games of the season, the Bison hockey team clipped out a 5-3 victory over the Fargo-Moorhead Comets avenging an early season defeat handed them by the independent squad.

The entire game was marked for the intense rivalry shown between the teams and the numerous penalties inflicted. There was little or no slackening of the fast pace set by the opposing wing men early in the contest though the Bison showed a marked team superiority throughout.

Captain Joe Blakeslee of the Buffalomen led his teammates in the scoring with a tally of three. Horace McGrath and James Newton each countered once to add the winning margin to the Bison score. Van Vorst, at goal, gave a fine performance, breaking up a number of plays that threatened to turn the scoring odds in favor of the Comets.

Diminutive Lottie Wambach proved to be the spark-plug of the independent squad but was rendered less effective through the guarding of the Bison pucksters. Wambach, Fillmore and McDowell each countered for a single point. Bill McRoberts, former State College star at goal was a big, all reason that the winning margin was not greater. McRoberts, who warded the puck from the Comet goal successively with his hockey stick, legs, arms and body, was unable to stop the puck with his chin, which fact gained for the Bison their fifth tally.

Referee Michelson, physical education instructor at the Central high school, officiated at the puck contest.

FIGHT LIGHTS

The first Bison boxing tournament of the year, a long awaited event, is to be held Saturday evening in the Armory. Fists will commence to fly at eight o'clock.

A question in the minds of many of the fight fans is—which is the brightest of the four suns on the lightweight horizon? Will Molitor or Ward or Wohlwend or Pinkham be on top at the end of the season?

"Killer" Schroeder admits that boxing is easy—"all a boxer has to do is to learn to keep his back, head and differential off from the padded canvas."

John Molitor and Bob Ward put on a clever demonstration of the manly art at the Fargo Lions club meeting Monday noon. No doubt the Leos were well entertained.

Andy Lynn, midget fighter, recently had his nose lifted. It was not a beauty operation but merely the result of one of Paul Wohlwend's 1931 punches, which, as Andy can testify, are mighty, mighty, mighty.

The A. P. reports that the Sioux are delving into the science of self protection.

West Point Military Academy had the following colleges on its 1930 boxing schedule: Massachusetts Tech., U. of New Hampshire, Georgetown College, Yale U. of New York, and the University of West Virginia. The Navy Academy at Annapolis met as many touted teams, none of which appeared on the Army card. Evidently boxing is an ever rising sport in the East, also. It would be interesting to see how the Bison would come out in a tournament with some of those well known eastern schools.

G-E Floodlighting Wins Favor for Football - Hockey - Track - Baseball - Tennis

G-E floodlighting equipment has a winning record. Its victories are counted in terms of pleased spectators, increased attendance, satisfied coaches and players.

The development of G-E athletic-field floodlighting equipment was planned with every consideration for the fundamental and special playing conditions it must meet. That is why the big Novalux projectors give ample and evenly diffused light over the entire playing area.

The development of General Electric floodlighting equipment has largely been the work of college-trained men in the G-E organization—other college-trained men are largely responsible for the continuing leadership of General Electric in furnishing the many other products which bear the G-E monogram.

Saddle And Sirloin Honor Shimmin And Person This Friday

Pictures To Be Placed In Club Hall of Fame At A Later Date

Jorde In Charge Of Banquet Arrangements; Tickets Now On Sale

Fitting tribute will be paid to two men, the late Col. Edward S. Person, Minot and T. R. Shimmin of Forbes, N. D., Thursday night when Saddle and Sirloin club members and North Dakota Livestock breeders meet at Ceres hall in a banquet to pay tribute and unveil the portraits of these prominent livestock breeders.

The pictures of these two men will later be placed in the Saddle and Sirloin Club Hall of Fame at the college where the portraits of 15 similarly honored North Dakotans now hang.

The program for the evening is as follows: Invocation, Dr. Airheart; Toastmaster, Sam Crabbe; Address, President J. H. Shepperd; Response, James H. Cooper; Response, L. F. Crawford; Presentation of Medals, Professors Dice, Severson, Goodearl; Speakers, Archer Gilfilan, Frank Hyland.

A pioneer Guernsey breeder of the state, Colonel Person was prominent in councils of the North Dakota Dairymen's association and had served as president of the North Dakota Guernsey Cattle club.

In Banking Business

He was born at Zumbrota, Minn., March 7, 1872. When 18, he began work in the State Bank of Zumbrota, advancing to cashier. In 1907 he went to Minot as cashier of the Union National bank. A few years later he became president of the institution, retaining that post until his death.

He served in the Spanish-American war as a captain and was mustered out as a major. When America entered the World war Colonel Person immediately entered a training camp, desiring to be sent to the front as soon as possible. The demand for trained officers in the camps was such that he was forced to be content with the task of fitting others for military service.

Developed Herd

He started his Guernsey herd in 1910 and in about 12 years developed one of the premier Guernsey herds of the state. One cow bred and developed in the Person herd, May Rose Clara of Minot, now holds the state record for Guernseys with 19,217 pounds of milk and 899.3 pounds of butterfat. Another cow, May Rose Glory of Minot, sold for a record price for a North Dakota cow, selling at the national sale for $4,000 to J. C. Penney. A daughter of this cow was junior champion at the 1929 National Dairy show. Many Guernsey herds in the state contain animals descended from the Person herd.

An ardent Guernsey booster, Colonel Person aided many farmers to start with Guernseys, and gave time and money to encourage boys and girls club work.

When the North Dakota Guernsey Cattle club was organized in January, 1929, Colonel Person was elected president, but refused to accept the office a second time.

Colonel Person's death in a Minneapolis hospital resulted from meningitis, superinduced by a weakened condition following a hip fracture when he was thrown from a horse while preparing to ride to a Memorial day parade.

Shimmin Hunted Gold

T. R. Shimmin, second of the men to be honored, was born at Galina, Ill., Oct. 5, 1861, the eldest son of Phillip and Sarah Shimmin.

When he was 4 years old, his parents moved to Lancaster, Wis., where they resided until the spring of 1876. Then, in company with his father and 15 other men, the young Shimmin made a trip to the Black Hills of Dakota territory to hunt for the fabulous gold. While on this trip, the party was twice set upon by Indians, but both times was able to escape without harm. Once the Indians gave them time to entrench themselves, the second time a company of United States cavalry happened along at a fortunate moment. Failing to find the gold they sought, the party returned eastward, their wagons loaded with buffalo skins.

The same fall, "Tom", as he was known, joined the United States geological survey. While engaging in this work, he visited Arkansas, the Smoky Hill river region south and east of Fort Yates, Kan., and the Panhandle country of Texas. In 1878, he was surveying in northern Wisconsin, and the following year, he worked about Medora in the Badlands of North Dakota.

Took Homestead

In the summer of 1882, Tom Shimmin took a claim on the shore of what is now Shimmin lake in western Dickey county, and has resided there ever since.

With the claim as a nucleus, he began extensive ranching operations. At one time, he had a herd of some 100 brood mares from which farmers of the surrounding country were supplied with work horses.

He also maintained a large herd of Hereford cattle. Shimmin has discontinued raising horses, but still keeps a herd of about 70 Hereford cows.

May 13, 1891, he married Miss Mary Wright of Ellendale. Mrs. Shimmin died in March, 1924. Five daughters and three sons survive.

During the summers when his stock could take care of itself, Mr. Shimmin was accustomed to pack his family into wagons and start on long camping trips. On these rambling tours, he gathered specimens for eastern schools and museums. In the summer of 1905, he struck westward to Yellowstone park, traveling in covered wagons. The round trip took 150 days.

In later years, when there was more to keep him at home, he built and still maintains a telephone system to provide communication facilities for his home country.

In the lake named after him, Mr. Shimmin has planted fish, making the place a desirable spot for anglers of the surrounding territory.

Tickets for the banquet will be on sale on the campus all day tomorrow by members of the Saddle and Sirloin club. The banquet will start promptly at 6:15 p. m.

Roy Jordre, a senior in the school of agriculture, is in charge of arrangements.

NOTICE!

There will be no pictures taken Thursday evening for the Bison on account of the Little International.

A lion cub, Big Boy, has become mascot of the Columbia University football team. At a recent banquet he was served cod-liver oil, which is his favorite beverage.

Princeton has organized a man's dancing chorus of 32 members. The directors believe there is a big future in this field for men.
