Rifle Team Is In Running For Hearst Trophy

National Intercollegiate Matches Scheduled During Same Time

BARKS FOURTH IN AREA

May Win Trip To Washington If Squad Shoots Best Score

For the past two weeks State rifle team has been shooting in the National Intercollegiate Matches, seeking their third consecutive championship. During the same time, four North Dakota state teams, composed of five men each, will be shooting for the William Randolph Hearst Trophy against many other school rifle teams of the United States. The William Randolph Hearst award for the Middle West area college championship was won by N. D. State rifle team last year.

North Dakota State rifle team is able to be in the National Intercollegiate Match because of the fact that it took third place in the Seventh Corps Area preliminary matches, which have been in full swing for the past few months. The University of Missouri with a high score of 7567 took first place in this corps area. Two North Dakota State students were placed on the Seventh Corps Area all-college rifle team: Morris Barks, fourth place in the corps area with a score of 768 out of a possible 800, and Kenneth Piper, seventh place in the corps area with a score of 763. Ed Comm, a freshman, took twelfth place in the corps area with a score of 759.

Hearst Award
The William Randolph Hearst Trophy is an annual award that is the goal of nearly every college rifle team in the country. The school team that wins first in the trophy match will not only win a beautiful and very expensive gold trophy, but also each member of the team will receive a trip to Washington, D. C., at the expense of Mr. Hearst. In this trophy match the country is divided into four sections: East, West, Middle West, and South. A sterling silver shield is given to the highest scoring high school rifle team, the highest scoring military school rifle team, and to the highest scoring college rifle team in each section. The rifle team of the University of Arkansas won first prize last year, which included the trip to Washington.

The North Dakota State Rifle team that is shooting in the National Intercollegiate Match consists of: F. Dvorak, E. Schoessow, A. Johnson, M. Barks, N. McKendry, K. Piper, E. Comm, G. Schoessow, L. Ryan, A. Lee, O. Wolhowe, J. Newton, D. Haarman, W. Sannes, and L. Bothem

Spring Is Setting For Soph Frolic

Spring will be setting for more than 200 couples who will attend the sophomore frolic tonight in the Crystal Ballroom from 8:30 until 12 p. m., according to Rodney McMillan, class president.

It is hoped that the frolic, which is an innocuous this year, will become an annual affair sponsored by the sophomore class.

Chaperons for the party as announced by Blair Seitz, chairman, will be Profs. and Mmes. Kenneth Kuhn, Benjamin V. McCaul, J. A. Munroe, Leonard Sackett, and Prof. John Doerr.

Honored guests for the evening are Dr. J. H. Shepperd, acting president of the college, and Mrs. Shepperd, Dean and Mrs. I. W. Smith, and Dean Pearl Dinan.

Sophomores on the campus at Purdue have been violating a tradition by growing mustaches, which is the exclusive privilege of members of the senior class. The seniors threaten to give pocket-knife shaves to put an end to the violations.

NOTICE!

All candidates for student commission offices must have their petitions in the registrar's office by 4 o'clock, March 31. Petitions must be signed by 25 college students. The petitions for the Board of Publication offices must be signed by 25 members of the class endorsing the candidate. The following offices must be filled: Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior member to the Board of Publications; President, Commissioner of Judiciary, Finance, Elections, Athletics, Public Speaking, Campus, and Social. Four members of the Athletic Board of Control will be chosen at the elections. Student Commission President must have 114 hours at time of election to be eligible. "The Nut Farm" Plays At Orpheum Next Week

The Beach Stock company is presenting one of Broadway's cleverest plays next week when "The Nut Farm" comes to the Orpheum for a six day run beginning Monday.

The scene of "The Nut Farm" is laid in sunny California where the Brazil nuts grow. Myles Putnam, company comedian has the leading role and he is supported by Guy and Eloda Beach and remainder of the troupe.

This clever comedy ran for over 20 weeks in both Chicago and New York. It is one of the funniest plays of the season. Tickets can be reserved by calling the Orpheum theater.

NO, SIR!

You will be nobody's fool if you buy a ticket for the April fool edition of the Bull Bison next week. More laughs than ever.

Gamma Tau Sigma Opens Ticket Sale Early Next Week

April Fool Edition of Bull Bison Is Now Ready For Campus

Tickets for the second issue of Gamma Tau Sigma's humor magazine, the Bull Bison, will go on sale the first of next week. The April Fool edition will go to press within the next couple of days, according to members of the journalistic group.

Members of the fraternity will sell the tickets, as was done last time. On the day of publication, the tickets will be redeemed for copies of the magazine. The tickets can be secured at the Bison or the Spectrum offices the first of next week.

The authors of the sheet promise something clever and original in their second attempt to give North Dakota State a real humor publication. Copy is already in the hands of the printer who has the forms ready for the booklet.

Contributions will be accepted by the editors until Monday noon of next week. It is the aim of the fraternity to make the magazine representative of the wit of the entire campus instead of one group.

Practical Course In Management Of Hotels Given Here

Realizing the widening field and increasing opportunities offered in hospitals, tearooms, cafes and institutional dining room management, ten junior and senior girls are receiving practical training for this work under Miss Ruth Rogers of the school of home economics here. The various types of dining room, cafeterias, and tearooms are considered, together with the proper equipment for each. Organization and the keeping of records are given attention, and considerable time is spent on the study of wholesale marketing.

Field trips to the local Veterans' hospital, tearooms, cafes and hotel dining rooms have been made, giving the girls a chance to survey and observe methods practiced where food is bought and prepared in large quantities. Inspection of wholesale houses and refrigerator cars was completed with a view to successful refrigeration systems. As a branch of their work with a large-scale marketing these girls learn the sources of food, variety and selection in relation to the quality and cost, and the responsibility of the consumer in purchasing of food.

Practical experience is gained in the buying and handling of large quantities of food and the serving of a great number of people in the Ceres Hall cafeteria of the college. Girls enrolled in this work are: Frances Ross, Mae Sanderson, Arlene Burt, Fargo; Margaret Weeks, Bottineau; Wanda Hamann, Richardson; Elizabeth Jenson, Blabon; Ruth Moser, Harvey; Mary Ellen McLeod, Cray; Ellen Hussey, Grand Marais, Minn.; and Dorothy Conley, Minneapolis, Minn.

REGISTRAR HAS TIME TO THINK AFTER EXAMS

"As busy as a cat with ten kittens." That is the predicament that confronts the registrar after three days of final examinations. Term grades are prepared and recorded by the entire office force in the Main building. Deans and heads of departments keep coming in and out all through the day bringing the news, good or bad, to the office of the busiest man on the campus this time of the year.

Besides the recording of the term grades registrations are continuing as students decide that they can get through the spring term. The entire hall of the main building is filled with students paying their $17.50 for the privilege of getting an education.

It is little wonder that this reason tires a man after twenty or more years of such work. Each term the task becomes heavier with the ever increasing enrollment of State college.

NOTICE!

Football equipment is to be issued for the spring practice that will begin Monday afternoon. Men who do not turn out for spring practice will not be allowed to participate in varsity competition this fall. Intensive training for three weeks will be concluded when two teams meet in a practice game. Last year's spring practice was something in the nature of an experiment and I was not satisfied with the results. This year all men must work hard for the first game of the fall season, Sept. 20. The Bison will meet Davis-Elkins on Sept. 27. All upperclassmen will have a tough time to keep the freshman off the squad as I know there are very clever men that made their numerals last fall. The practice will be under the direction of Lowe, Smith, and myself. Casey Finnegan.

Plans are being made also for the state YWCA-YMCA convention to be held in Grand Forks in May. Hazel Harris, present conference committee chairman, has charge of the convention affairs and says that the plans are working out very satisfactorily for successful convention. All members of the two organizations on the campus are invited to attend the conference and also the installation of officers and cabinet members Sunday.

Gold Star Band Plays Concert At High School

The Gold Star Band of 80 pieces played a concert this morning at the Fargo high school before an audience of 1,000 students.

Professor Sorlein, director of music in the high school, cooperating with Dr. C. S. Putnam of the college, was in charge of the program. The concert lasted from 11:15 until 12 o'clock.

The managers of the various teams have been asked their opinion in respect to picking this all-fraternity team and to the Spectrum the following teams seem to be the cream of the fraternity league. The difference between the first and second teams is so slight that it was very hard to draw any line between the individuals.

State Debators Conclude Season

State College debators concluded their home appearance when they met members of the Montana State squad yesterday afternoon in the Little Country Theater.

"Resolved, that the nations should adopt a plan of complete disarmament except such forces as are needed for police purposes," was the topic under discussion. The Montana squad upheld the affirmative side of the question.

Representing State College on the negative were: Don McKechnie, freshman in the school of science and literature, Cavalier, and Matt LeFor, junior in the school of pharmacy, Gladstone, N. D. The Montana team is making a trip, debating at various institutions en route, which takes them to Wichita, Kansas. The contest was a no-decision affair.

Euren and Koppang Leave With Red Jackets

Billie Euren and Phil Koppang left with the Red Jackets under the direction of Warner Baxter early this week on a trip to the west coast, where they will play several engagements both in the United States and British Columbia at Vancouver.

Both men have been very prominent in college musical circles. Euren has been assistant director to "Doc" Putnam for the last two years and he played first chair solo trumpet in the Gold Star Band. Koppang also is a member of the band and plays a trombone. Both men have had previous experience in dance orchestras.

EVERETT J. WALLUM

"Oh, hum, period."
No longer shall this phrase wind up the famous "Ebullitions of Ebony Blott" for North Dakota State's foremost humorist, Everett Wallum, has completed his spectacular college career with the close of the Winter Term.

Wallum began writing columns for The Spectrum in the fall of 1927, and since that time has made quite a name for himself in the field of journalism. The editor can say that Mr. Wallum has been the most dependable member on the staff. Besides being prominent in journalism Wallum has taken an active part in college activities. Some of his accomplishments are: rooter king; editor of the Bison; presidencies of Alpha Sigma Tau, Board of Publications, Blue Key; member of Phi Kappa Phi, Phi Gamma Nu; manager of Bison Brevities. To his credit go the adopted names of the humor magazine—Bull Bison—and the annual show—The Bison Brevities

On the behalf of past editors we wish to thank Mr. Wallum for his faithful service on this publication, and to assure him that we, with the student body, regret that his pen is no longer at the disposal of The Spectrum.

MICHAEL AND JOHANA

In this issue of The Spectrum is found a column headed, "Wise Guy vs The Sceptic." A word of explanation is timely.

This column is an attempt to mirror the growing mind of an average college student, by presenting problems in the form of written arguments. These should suggest the workings of a student's brain. Today's battle shows Michael to be more or less of a "blow hard", and Johana betrays himself as a philosopher in the last stages of mental despair. Watch these future battles of wits; they should prove entertaining.

Stanford University has cleared more than $2,000,000 since 1922 from football alone. This sum is expended on all other sports.

Wise Guy vs The Sceptic

Dear Johana Sceptic:
I have your startling missive of the 15th instant. Fssst! What do you know about life? How do feel equal to challenging me to a series of debates?

Oh, yes, I have heard of you. Everybody has. Reporters tell me you have been disappointed in love; others have it that indigestion is the cause; perhaps it is the mature suffering from the naive discovery of the obvious - - that the world is a lobster. Indeed, Johana, the social organism, stirred by the epochal belching-forth of your profound scepticism, believes itself the reader of brilliant masterpieces, products of opium dreams.

I must confess it; there is something uncanny about the iron control you have over the minds of our nation's millions. In my college days, those intellectual revolutions, I first came in contact with your writings as a student of philosophy; they so upset my nervous system as to about wreck the health. Even now, the ghastly import of your written thoughts makes of my heart an emerald pool of bitterness. Fssst! Gangrene! Horrors of the seplucher cannot compare with your written monstrosities.

We may as well come to the point. You and I are the country's two rival intellectual geniuses. Between the lines of your challenge I read the lust of destruction. Considering it a duty to... save... my countrymen from the deadly pallor of your influence, I accept the flaunt of your imagination. If my pen cannot raise a harried nation up from the grime of your scepticism, so help me. Go ahead, I'm the Wise Guy. Michael.

Dear Michael:
I was mildly surprised on receiving your letter, but I perceived the cause of your impudence in your last remark. So you are the Wise Guy! You are not the first one, and I shall take great pleasure in demonstrating your ignorance. I feel it necessary, first to relieve you of any misapprehensions as to the cause of my scepticism.

FOR MANY YEARS I HAVE HAD NO ILLUSION CONCERNING THE BIOLOGICAL FUNCTION OF STORKS AND I HAVE LONG LOOKED WITH A CANNY EYE ON THE WORKS OF HANS CHRISTIAN ANDERSON. MY SKEPTICISM IS THE RESULT OF A LONG STRUGGLE TO AVOID THIS ATTITUDE.

THE GLOBE

The House of Kuppenheimer Good Clothes
102-104 Broadway, Fargo, N. D.

You naively state that the world is a lobster. If we are to adopt the medium of the bestiary I believe I can give you an idea of my attitude so that even you can understand it. People can be nicely divided into three classes. The first class believe that the world is their oyster—to crack; the second believe that the world is their oyster—in its responsiveness to their demands; the third class calmly accept the fact that it is a bivalve mollusk.

You remark that I have a number of followers. I attribute this to the fact that I have the distinction of being able to string together many fine sounding words which may mean anything or nothing. I am popular because no one knows what I mean; therefore the reader finds in my work the reflection of his own mind which is, of course, the highest type of self-gratification.

These people loudly affirm their skepticism—Bah! The true skeptic doubts even his own skepticism. The name is soothing to the vanity of the immature—the fact is an awful thing which can be embraced only by the most courageous.

I shall be pleased to inform you further. Johana.

Bobby Ward Defeats Fraternity Brother In Tournament Feature

Johnny Molitor Loses To Plucky Bismarck Youth

Both Men Fight Hard Bouts
To Grain Right To Enter Finals

Bobby Ward, classy little boxer from Bismarck, defeated his fraternity brother and defending titlist, Johnny Molitor, in the feature four round bout of the Golden Glove Tournament in the armory Wednesday evening. Both men are pledges of Alpha Sigma Tau fraternity.

For Molitor it was a case of teaching too well, the master being defeated by his pupil. Molitor has been Ward's instructor from the start of the boxing classes this year.

A snappy left which found a ready target on Molitor's head was the means by which Ward piled up enough points to win the verdict of the judges and referee.

Ward Comes From Behind
Ward came from behind to cinch the victory Molitor having won the first two rounds.

Molitor's left hook crashed on Ward's chin frequently in the first round. Ward retaliated with left jabs and straight rights but the Brinsmade youth's aggressiveness in this round earned him a slight edge. Molitor won the second round by a big margin, his left hook to the chin and lefts and rights to the head offsetting Ward's rights to the head.

Ward earned the edge in the third with good straight left to the face. Molitor was unable to land his left effectively, but got in some light rights to the head and body. Ward's left was at its best in the final round earning him a wide enough margin to carry the fight.

Ward's left won him the second contest on the card, his margin in the final three rounds of his setto with Burton Pinkham, Fargo, for the right to meet Molitor in the final. Molitor defeated Paul Wohlwend, Lidgerwood, in the opening bout.

Ward had an unquestioned advantage over Pinkham, but Molitor was extended all the way to earn the verdict over Wohlwend. Wohlwend had a slight margin in the first round, but Molitor came back to pile up a big lead in the second. Wohlwend was floored for no count in the second. Wohlwend had a slight margin in the third, but Molitor went out to win the final round by a wide enough margin to swing the decision in his favor.

Orness Springs Surprise
Clarence Orness, Valley City heavyweight, surprised the assemblage by dropping a close decision to Ted Loy, Stanton, in the bout for the Class 2 heavyweight title. Loy will meet Rod McMillan, Mott, defending titlist, for the championship on a future card. Loy, expected to stop Orness, was unable to land effectively in the first two rounds, due to an extended left which Orness kept in his foe's face. Loy landed the cleaner punches in the third and fourth to win both by slight margins. Loy was the aggressor in the closing rounds.

Charles Fox, Leeds, was an unquestioned advantage over Leonard Patz-wald, Hebron, in a challenge feather-weight title match. Fox recently won the featherweight title for the second year in succession.

Johnny Scaif, Norma, and Eddie Bennett, Fargo, YMCA welterweight champion, fought four rounds to a draw. Bennett was the more scientific of the two, and there was exceptionally little to choose between them.

John Martin and Charlie Dawson were judges. Sam Chesley refereed.

Bison Track Men Await Favorable Weather Change

Sally Has Confidence That Sand
Will Be Hard To Beat

KONICHEK LEADS SQUAD

Weiser, May, Wollan, And
Westgate Loom As Team
Mainstays

With an anxious eye on the weatherman and the other on his herd of field and track men, Coach Leonard Saalwaechter prepared this week for the spring training program which will precede an attractive competitive schedule for the Bison athletes.

How far the Yellow and Gold men will go in annexing North Central conference honors as well as a goodly array of points in several invitation meets depends on how soon they can get out in the open. Flood waters from the spring thaw have put the indoor track in the basement of the men's dormitory out of commission. That is why Saalwaechter would like to get on friendly terms with the fellow who orders the rain, snow, frost and sunshine for this section. Should his men be able to stir the cinders on Dacotah field next week for a period of uninterrupted practice, the Bison coach feels he will be in a fair way to compete against southern schools in the conference who are already out in the open or have indoor tracks on which to get going.

Sand Outstanding
In looking over his list of veterans who will be back to carry the burden of the Bison competition Sally feels confident the fleet Norwegian, Ole Sand, will give all comers a tough tough race. Sand set a great record last season in the dashes, the shot and discus, and the relay events. The Bison will feel the loss of Cy Peschel who took third in the conference meet last year in the dash events, but in Grohne and Thomassen, Saalwaechter has two promising sophomores who showed up well in freshman competition.

The middle distance class has the best array of veterans, led by Captain Konichek, one of the leading quarter milers in the conference last year. Baldwin, eliminated early last season by a knee injury, is back in shape. Other promising 440 and 880 men are Jodre and Lochren with Hill and McMillan recruited from the sophomore ranks.

In Weiser, Nelson, Robertson, Rhines and Wollan, Saalwaechter has a quintet of capable distance men. Weiser has already distinguished himself in cross country performance while Robertson is rated as one of the most promising two milers on the squad.

For the hurdles Seitz and Frey are the only two old men who have shown any degree of proficiency in this class. From the freshman ranks of last year Bob Allison, Fargo high star, is the most promising prospect.

May, Hilt and Sand are depended on to do the heavy work in the shot and discus events with "Tiny" Shamp, 230 pound football linesman, looming as a likely sophomore prospect.

Hilt and Sam Westgate are the only two javelin tossers of note and on them will fall the responsibility of matching the record set by "Curly" Shepherd. Joe Blakeslee, conference pole vault champion of 1929, believes he is in good shape to retain that title again this season.

Three members of the winning conference 880 relay team, May, Konichek and Sand, need only a good mate to make them a serious threat again. In the high and broad jumps the Bison prospects at present look bad. A lone sophomore, Brown, former Fargo high performer, is the only candidate who looks like even a possibility.

Alpha Kappa Phi Quint Downs Taus In League Goals

Peterson and Lonsbrough Head Scoring List With Six Field Goals

The fans that assembled in the Fargo high school auditorium last Tuesday night were treated to some of classiest basketball ever exhibited in the inter-fraternity loop, when the Alpha Kappa Phi five took a hard contest from the Sigma Taus 25 to 21. By virtue of this victory, the Kappa Phis won the championship from the keenest of competition.

The champions started off at a fast pace to gain an 8 to 4 advantage at the completion of the first quarter. The second stanza found th Sigma Taus hitting the hoop for a total of 8 points while the Kappa Phis got 5 points to end the half, 13 to 12 for the victors. The Taus had their shooting togs on and gained 4 points before the Kappa Phis were able to score. Here Lonsbrough, hard working Kappa Phi forward, broke loose for 5 baskets to put his team in the lead, 25 to 19, with about a minute remaining. Peterson got his 6th basket at this time to end the scoring.

Lonsbrough and Peterson with 6 field goals each tied for high scoring honors. These two forwards played a game that overshadowed any contest in the league this season. Hermes and Ness were the main factors in keeping the score down on both sides.
