Iowa College To Honor Shepperd At Ames June 11

Granting Of Degree Is Signal Honor, Say Institution Officials Here

A degree of doctor of agriculture will be conferred upon John H. Shepperd, professor of animal husbandry at the North Dakota State college, by Iowa State college at Ames June 11, according to R. M. Hughes, president of the college.

Professor Shepperd has been requested to be present in person to accept the honor and has announced that he will be there.

Granting of this degree to Professor Shepperd is characterized as a signal honor by school officials. No more than one person is so honored any one year at Iowa State college.

The alumni branch of the Iowa school in Fargo and Moorhead has planned a picnic in honor of Professor Shepperd at Oak Grove Tuesday. Professors Chris Jenson and Harry S. Rush had the program arrangements in charge.

Graduate of Ames

Professor Shepperd, who was graduated from Iowa State college in 1891 as a bachelor of agriculture, has been at the North Dakota State college since 1893, acting as dean of agriculture from 1904 to 1915, when he was transferred to full time investigation in the experiment station as agriculturist. In 1918 he again was transferred, this time to animal husbandry investigation work and made responsible for all livestock work in the institution as chairman of the animal husbandry department.

He has written a number of bulletins on agriculture and livestock and is joint author of a book, "Elements of Agriculture." He was the ninth college man to have his portrait hung in the Saddle and Sirloin club gallery in the Union Stock Yards, Chicago, and has been granted the honorary degree of doctor of agriculture by the Northwest Farm Managers association.

$1,000 OFFERED TO AMERICAN STUDENTS

A prize of $1,000 is offered to the under-graduate of any American college or university who produces the best dramatization of the spirit of the Graham-Paige Legion, a world-wide honorary group within the organization of the Graham-Paige Motors Corporation. Ten additional awards of $100 each will be given.

Any form of dramatic expression will be considered.

The judges of the contest, which closes September 1, will be Zoe Akins, dramatist; Norman-Bel Geddes, author and pageant director; and a third to be chosen by these two.

Students desiring to compete may obtain complete details by addressing the Graham-Paige Legion, 8505 West Warren avenue, Detroit.

Phyllis Heimark and Vernon Peterson, who will lead the annual Senior ball to be held in the armory tomorrow evening.

Summer School Open June 12 To July 20

Dean A. D. Weeks Is Chairman Of Committee In Charge Of Annual Session

North Dakota State college's annual summer school will open June 12 and close July 20, it was announced recently by Dean A. D. Weeks, chairman of the summer school committee.

The courses offered during the summer session afford an opportunity to regular college students to gain credits which will apply towards graduation, thereby shortening the four year period of attendance for degree.

The work of the session is also designed to meet the needs of teachers desiring to obtain or renew certificates under the regulations of the state department of public instruction.

College Credit Given

All courses offered give college credit and the teacher who takes summer work secures an amount of credit to apply upon graduation from this or any other institution. Recent high school graduates who desire to teach may secure the instruction in methods and school management now required for certification.

The courses now available in agriculture, home economics, and manual arts will be of interest to special teachers, principals, and superintendents who wish to keep in touch with developments in vocational education, Dean Weeks pointed out. A special feature this year is the offering of courses in methods of teaching science in high schools, he stated.

Final Spectrum Today

This issue of The Spectrum will be the final one of the present year. No paper will be published during the last week of school because of examinations. This issue is Number 55, but the 55 issues are equivalent to the 57 usually published because of two eight-page editions during the year. Students who are keeping files of the paper may obtain any missing numbers at the Spectrum office before Wednesday at 4 p.m.

AN APPRECIATION

It is with a sincere feeling of regret that the editor of The Spectrum sends this, the final issue of the year, to press. Nine months labor has had its rewards. There have been intimate contacts with the students, the thrill of upholding an editorial policy against student opinion, and the advocating of needed reforms on the campus. There are any number of minor details that have made the work interesting and have unfolded sources of experience for which the editor is especially appreciative. And now that the school year is almost at a close there are a few parting remarks of editorial content which the editor deems necessary to note.

In the first place, there is no doubt of the fact that North Dakota State is a growing institution, and that a growing college needs money—badly. Financial aid can only come to this school through that legislative body. Instructors and professors and administration heads have had their chance with only slight success principally because this college is their business, and as long as it is their business, the legislators will continue to look upon their recommendations as a personal rather than institutional affair. It is up to the students now. The students are not necessarily dependent upon this school for their living. Any monetary request of their will come from the heart, because of intense spirit, and there will be no doubt about it.

The way to go about this is for every student to make it a point to see the representative or senator near his or her home, and to put the problem before them. We need new buildings, added facilities, and more pay to keep our excellent faculty with us, and his is the only way to get the money. If each student will only have enough spirit to devote a fifteen minute conversation of a three month vacation to this cause the success of the venture will be assured.

There is no doubt a question in the minds of many why The Spectrum did not take up the annual cry for a change in the name of the college this year. The answer lies in the fact that during the past year the college was trying hard for appropriations from a legislature largely composed of agriculturalists who do not quite understand the situation here. Rather than antagonize that body by crying for a new name to supplant the "North Dakota Agricultural College" cognomen, The Spectrum deemed it necessary to have a college before the name and, since the appropriations were needed before the college could expand, the latter received the greater amount of interest. It is hoped, however, that the students will never lose interest in changing the name to "North Dakota State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts."

Building on the foundation of its past successes the Spectrum of 1929 should eclipse all progress made in the past. Best wishes!

Vacation for the student body in reality starts today. This is the last issue of The Spectrum.

One of the best commencement exercises we know is cranking a Ford.

Just because some strings of pearls are graduated, it's no sign they come from intelligent oysters.

The week's most melancholy martyr is the rheumatism-ridden fellow who delivered the commencement address at the deaf and dumb school.

A co-ed out east turned down a Phi Beta Kappa Key. We'll bet if it was a key to some philosopher's cellar, things would have been different.

They call them keys, but you can't open anything but discussion with them.

The reason so many of our honor students look sleepy is because they use a crib too much.

So the Sigma Thetas gave whisk brooms at their formal. If girls would only use less powder, men wouldn't need whisk brooms.

Anyway, the favors were a sweeping success.

But it is the first time we've heard the word broom used in connection with the modern girl.

School is ended, but the malady lingers on.

If some of the seniors picked a class flower symbolic of their progress and development, it should be the cactus.

The class motto for this year's correspondence school graduates is: "Mind Stale? Don't Fail. Just Mail. Send Kale."

The student who says that we should call this column The Spinal Column because it's always on somebody's nerves isn't decent.

A telegraphic track meet has lots of dashes.

"R. O. T. C. Officers To Be Recognized At Senior Parade," says The Spectrum. Ha, ha, we knew it was them all the time.

We can only hope that the success of our rifle team doesn't lure them to Chicago.

Correspondence school students send so much mail that they even stamp their feet.

Well, this is the last column and the first hundred jeers were the hardest.

Along with the ending of school, there is much adieu about nothing.

Theta Chi, Rho Game May Alter Standings

Three Games Yet To Be Played In American League; Sigma Deltas Conquer Kappa Sigs

With the National league play concluded except for the tie game which the Kappa Phi and Theta Chi played in the season opener the standings are tied. The Delta Sigs are in the cellar with three defeats staring them in the face.

The Gamma Rhos postponed their game with the Theta Chis leaving the champion of the National league in doubt. The Kappa Phi has a clear title at the present and the gonfalon will remain with them unless the Gamma Rhos win. The Sigs were beaten 3 to 0 by the Kappa Phi.

In the American league, there are three games left to be played. May 31, the Kappa Psi will engage the Kappa Sigs; June 1, the Y plays the Sigma Phi Delta nine in the final contest for both teams; June 4 will see the closing of the American league when the Sigma Taus will make a final attempt to enter the win column.

They meet the Kappa Psi organization. The Sigma Phi Delta organization won their third contest 6 to 1 at the expense of the Kappa Sigs. The Kappa Psi-Kappa Sig contest was postponed.

CASH FUNDS

Although you may have created a substantial estate, definite provision should be made for cash funds expressly to pay doctor's bills, funeral expenses, current accounts, outstanding debts, administration costs and unpaid taxes at your death. Such indebtedness must be paid out of your estate and Life Insurance provides the cash funds when they are most needed.

Ask any Equitable Life of Iowa agent about the plan.

No One Can Know His Eyes' Condition

Without undergoing an examination. No one can tell anything about the eyes merely by looking at them. They must be examined by instruments that detect the slightest deviation from normal. So there is very little use asking anyone if his eyes are normal. He doesn't know. But our examination would tell him. Then we could correct the defects we found.
