

Preparation For Spring Inspection Of Corps Begins

Special Morning Drills Expected To Whip Cadets Into Shape For Annual Event

Preparations for the annual spring inspection by federal officers of the R. O. T. C. unit of the North Dakota State college formally began Friday morning with the regular assembly drill and the organization of all companies. This drill is a continuation of the fall drill class which changed to instruction in military science during the winter term.

Special military instruction will be given students in the military department beginning Monday, April 9, and continuing until May 4. These drills will begin at 7:45 a. m. and last until 8:10. Regular class periods at the college will be shortened to 50 minutes in the morning. Classes will start at 8:15 and close at 11:50.

The gold star rating, the highest honor given to units, was received by the local military department for three years, 1923, 1924, 1925. A good start in drill was accomplished in the fall and with the constant morning drill arranged for the spring term, all companies will be in good condition for the inspection by the federal military officers who will come sometime early in May, according to Captain Thomas Smith, commandant.

Adrian Fox Rivals Circus Strong Men

State College Student Makes Professionals Look Weak With Feats

Breaking spikes in his teeth, tearing decks of cards, lifting weights, and doing other feats of strength, Adrian Fox, student in science and literature at the college rivals any strong man of a circus.

Fox started his career as a strong man by hearing the wonderful tales told by his brother of the man in the circus who bent a nail with his teeth. He tried it, and found he could bend a spike. Now he has a number of feats of strength that would make a side show strong man performer look weak.

Fox has a board which he rests on his chest and knees and then supports himself on the floor with his feet and hands while nine men climb on top. Supporting 1500 pounds in such a manner is one of his feature tricks. He is able to put a horse shoe in a vice and bend it, while a 60 penny spike, which is just a little smaller than a railroad spike, he is able to brea with his teeth.

The N. D. S. C. strong man can take an inner tube and blow it up until it breaks. A trick which Fox invented himself is the balancing of a man in a chair upon his head while he holds a rung in his mouth, which is by no means an easy task. He is familia rwith many other tricks such as the lifting of large weights, tearing of a deck of cards into eight parts, holding of a man above his head with one hand, and other feats of strength know to strong men.

When Fox started his strong man feats his folks warned him that he would soon have false teeth but his teeth are nw in fine shape and he continues to use his teeth to display his strength. Fox is not a professional performer and charitably does all his tricks. He is working his way through school by selling suits and his unusual ability as a tailor. Fox is very muscular and weighs 175 lbs. He is interested in forestry and won second prize in the chemistry theme contest. His essay was on "Chemistry and Its Relation to Forestry."

Marionettes To Present "The Forty Thieves" Here

The strange tale of "Ali Baba and the Forty Thieves" will be the story presented by Tony Sarg's marionettes in the A. C. Armory April 16, as part of the Lyceum course.

The entire production, adapted by Knowles Entriokin from the "Arabian Nights," is directed and supervised by Tony Sarg. This play directed by Mr. Entriokin is better than "Treasure Island" which was presented to a packed armory two years ago. In this story the spectator sees many of the famous Arabian Night characters, robbers, slaves, fakirs, and many animals. It is hailed as the last word in marionette technique.

There will be a matinee at 3:45 and an evening show at 8:15.

This play will be put on in commemoration of Shakespeare's birthday.

Plans Are Complete For Engineers Ball

Interior of Armory To Resemble Western Town; Street Dance Is Feature

The decorations, orchestra, and other details have been decided and last minute preparations are being taken care of in preparation for the Engineers Ball, which will be held Friday, April 13, in the armory.

The interior of the armory will take the appearance of a western town. There will be refreshment stands, stores, along the street of the town. The street will be the place of dancing, and will resemble a pavement dance. There will be a bar with everything that is characteristic of a western bar, except that which wouldn't pass under the 18th amendment. The lighting effects will be in harmony with the scene. The theme of the party, and the decorations will be somewhat different that in past years and everything promises to be well presented.

Morris Olson and his collegians will furnish the music for this gala spring event.

NOTICE

The final opportunity for taking the spelling test will be Thursday, April 12 in the Green Room, main building. This test is for students yet to remove their condition for spelling of the winter term.

1929 Cage Captain Falls Prey To Cupid's Arrows

Zung! sang Cupid's arrow as it sped thru the air, and Bobby Hahn bit the dust. It was recently discovered that Bobby has been a married man since St. Patrick's Day, and that Miss Margaret Campbell, of Fargo, was the recipient of the All-conference honors. The ceremony was performed by Reverend Gerlinger, of Fergus Falls, and the fact was made known at a surprise party for the couple at the bride's home Friday evening. Bobby is a junior at the college and is a two year letterman in football and basketball. He was named all-North Cenral forward for 1928, an dis captain of the 1929 court team. Mrs. Hahn is a graduate of the A. M. A. high school, and is well known for her prowess in women's athletics. Bobby is a member of Alpha Kappa Phi fraternity.

Junior Prom Ticket Sale Starts Today

200 Couples Can Be Accommodated By Juniors at Premier Social Event

Tickets for the 1928 Junior Prom are now on sale and may be purchased from members of the Junior class, according to an announcement made today by Foss Narum, prom manager. "It is highly advisable to purchase tickets immediately," said Mr. Narum, "as only two hundred couples can be accommodated." Plans for the prom are complete today as a result of a meeting held yesterday noon of members of the Junior class. A feature of the ticket sale is the offer of a prize to the girl who shall sell the greatest number of tickets. In addition to the many other attractions of this highlight of the social season, is the fact that the price of the tickets have been lowered from last year's cost to eact the level of two dollars and fifty cents.

The scene of the prom will be laid in one of the Northwest's finest ballrooms—the Crystal Ballroom of this city. The famous Red Jackets, under the direction of Aimee Johnson, will furnish music in accordance with the luxurious surroundings.

This orchestra is famous throughout the surrounding states and its rank among the best is recognized. The band has played for the N. D. S. C. military ball, the Jamestown college prom, the North Dakota University prom and senior ball, is scheduled to travel to alley City to play the Valley City normal junior prom, in addition to its numerous other out-of-town school work. The popularity of this orchestra is attested by schools throughout the northwest.

Plans have been made by Miss Marion Trowbridge to suitable decorate the ballroom. A nadded attraction will be offered in two feature numbers under the direction of Miss Evelyn Blakeslee. The favors and programs have been chosen and promise to be in keeping with the other attractions.

The Junior Prom has always been ranked as the premier social event of the school year. Its excellence has always brought large crowds to the Junior parties. A rush for tickets is expected and in the meantime final arrangements are taking form for the party of April 20.

No School Friday, States Registrar; Students Weep

Vacation! Easter bonnets, snappy spring suits, bright colored scarfs, railroad tickets, a deserted campus, suitcases! Lest we forget. Let's give the old folks a treat and take a little trip home. Now don't rush us folks and I will tell you the time. Thursday at six o'clock, according to Mr. Parrott himself, is the dead line for further studying. No more books will be allowed in use until Monday morning at eight bells. So prepare for the gala event, folks, and don't forget to attend church Easter morning. It sort of gives you a grand feeling, what?

DIAMONDBALL

The Spectrum strongly upholds the idea of a diamondball league for State college students. There has always been a lack of sports for the many and too much emphasis on sports for the few. Now a league can be formed which will include the many, a sport which all can play, or easily learn, and a step toward an ideal athletic scheme will have been taken.

Perhaps this idea of diamondball for the many will impede somewhat varsity sports during the same season, but it is our opinion that varsity material will let well enough alone and that the fellows who have been athletically neglected in the past will take up the diamondball pastime.

If need be, more than one league can be organized, and a championship series may then be played. Let the baseball league have its few, and the diamondball its many. And let the varsity pick the outstanding athletes for its own.

THEY'RE STILL THERE

An initial start toward beautifying the school can be made by the new campus commissioner in tearing down the soccer goal posts on the east campus. Last fall The Spectrum advocated this move but to date nothing has been done about it. The dilapidated appearance of this part of the school grounds is lamentable. And to cap the climax it is that part which the most people see, and the one we set off with our national flag!

At present, one of the goal posts is almost down and it may take only a slight extra effort to dislodge both of them from their moorings. If the girls must use these posts for soccer why not move them over in the vicinity of Ceres Hall or back on Dakota Field where all forms of sports belong.

Spring is here, the most beautiful of seasons. Soon our campus will be decked out in all its finery, and on the east campus that finery will be more than offset by these posts protruding from the green. Something must be done about it. If the proper authorities will not take heed to these comments, we strongly advocate that a group of students march over on the east campus and deliberately uproot the incumbrances of our collegiate beauty.

Just Comment
WISE and OTHERWISE

By Henry Presler

AN EASTER vacation is a most welcome event, judging from the storms of applause that recently greeted the registrar's announcement. We expect a general exodus from the campus. No doubt it will look like the famous deserted village. But let us not take Oliver Goldsmith's famous lines to heart—"Oh luxury! thou cursed by heaven's decree, how ill exchanged are things like vacations and books for thee—etc." The bedraggled minds of some odd thousand students will take a welcome period of ease, laziness and luxury. Let us enjoy it to the full.

The Student Opinion article which appeared in the last issue of the Spectrum and which concerned the Scabbard and Blade's standing as a national organization was most justifiable and to the point. The omission of a recognition of this organization in last Wednesday's convocation was a source of indignation to a very large group of students. However, it cannot be denied by any that Scabbard and Blade is not recognized on the campus by all as an organization of highest merit and standing. We feel sure that the student body as a whole accepts this group of select officers in the same manner in which they look up to the various other honorary organizations of the school. Though through some mistake the group was not mentioned on the Recognition Day Program, it was made apparent by the remarks of many that in actual point of esteem Scabbard and Blade ranks up at the top.

Which brings to mind the thought that there are on our campus a goodly number of honorary groups to offer membership to every type of exceptional ability. Perhaps these organizations can be divided into two main groups: those devoted to high scholarship and to those set aside for students with ability in outside activities. Which is the most important group has long been a source of useless discussion. It appears that no conclusion can be reached in such a debate. In the final analysis it appears that the two features of scholarship and activities are interlocked. This point was stressed by one of the speakers who made the statement to the effect that every honorary organization had a set of eligibility requirements in the matter of scholarship. A man with a sound mind and the ability to put his knowledge into forceful use in such a manner that the two produce that measurement of success—work—seems to be the most fortunate individual. If he is in love with his job and has the other two mentioned faculties, success would seem to be inevitable. Huxley says: "That man, I think, has had a liberal education who has been so trained in youth that his body is the ready servant of his will, and does with ease and pleasure all the work that, as a mechanism, it is capable of; whose intellect is a clear, cold, logic engine, with all its parts of equal strength, and in smooth working order; ready, like a steam engine, to be turned to any kind of work, and spin the gossamers as well as forge the anchors of the mind; whose mind is stored with a knowledge of the great and fundamental truths of nature and of the laws of her operations; one who, no stunted ascetic, is full of life and fire, but whose passions are trained to come to heel by a vigorous will, the servant of a tender conscience; who has learned to love all beauty, whether of nature or of art, to hate all vileness, and to respect others as himself." In other words, the things mentioned above, brains and ability to use them, are important qualifications of success. But there is also something deeper, more hidden from the hardness of the business world. It is the foundation of a man's actions—his character.

NOTICE—There will be a meeting of Pi Gamma Mu in the library of the Little Country Theatre on Wednesday, April 4, at 7:30 p.m. It is important that all members be present.

Ebullitions of Ebony Blott

By Everett Wallum

When a rich uncle dies, there's usually music in the heir.

Only 272 more days to leap! Do your hopping early.

With all this craze for antique furniture, there'll soon be nothing new under the son.

They call the period of fraternity initiation "hell week", but the pledges don't feel very devilish.

We pity the poor rookie whose week of hades came on National Smile week.

Some victims have to carry eggs—probably so they can better feel their oppressor's yoke.

This compulsory transportation of hen fruit is really fowl business.

If the rooks have to carry something, it ought to be life insurance.

According to the anti-nicotine league, no snuse is good snuse.

This practice of making pledges feel cheap has some merit. It is excellent training for married life.

If it leaks out that some of our sororities have found it possible to keep their preps from talking to men, a lot of men are going to start sending their wives to college.

President Coolidge would make an ideal rookie. He doesn't talk to anybody.

And Mr. Coolidge has been carrying a lot of eggs—on his payroll.

Judging from the dedication, the 1929 Bison will be a Keene book.

Our idea of a tough hell week for any one man would be to send William "Big Bill" Thompson to England.

Or to send a Jewish merchant to Scotland.

We might even add sending a barber to Russia.

Friberg had to wear a lampshade but he wasn't lit up.

Anyway, this muck initiation is a good tested cure for insomnia.

A rookie has to let his whiskers grow during hell week, but he gets a couple close shaves before he's through.

One pledge got so scared that his hair elevated his cap, and his whiskers withered away.

Saturday, the rookies were using Tiz on their feet and liniment on other places too humerous to mention.

It's funny that they make them actives just at the time when they can hardly move.

After this we refuse to pledge an oath. Even a little oath doesn't deserve such a tirade.

Diamondball League Might Be Organized

Cortright Wants All Interested Students To Report To Him Wednesday Afternoon.

Plans for a campus diamondball league will be discussed at a meeting to be held tomorrow afternoon in the office of the athletic director at 4 p. m., according to an announcement made today by Ion J. Cortright, sports head.

Mr. Cortright promises to start the movement by putting a faculty team in the field. "Cort" is desirous of putting across this idea for it will, as he states it, supply a greater number on the campus with some form of sport.

Plans to be discussed include a schedule for the teams who will enter the league. Two diamonds will be laid out on Dacotah Field, according to Mr. Cortright, and balls and bats will be furnished by the athletic department. Teams will consist of nine men each, and no man who is a member of a hard ball league on the campus may participate. It is hoped by Mr. Cortright that this will fill the need of those men who have no chance of participating with the hard ball teams.

All students who are interested in the venture are requested to report at Mr. Cortright's office at 4 p. m. tomorrow.

Spartansburg Meets Forks; Spuds, Tulsa

Moorhead high will meet the Oklahoma champs, Tulsa, on University of Chicago floor Tuesday at noon. Grand Forks, N. D., state title holders will attempt to conquer Spartansburg, S. C. in their first game of the tourney.

Yankton, S. D., the remaining northwest school drew the strongest quint of the tournament, Vienna, Ga. The quint was last years runner-up, losing to Morton high of Cicero, Ill., in the finals. Vienna also is holding the Cotton States title for the second time in two years.

Greek Ball League Formation Expected

Fraternity Men Out Tossing Sphere Around; Diamond In Good Condition For Early Start; Council To Meet.

Plans for the Interfraternity baseball league are being formulated in the minds of the Greek representative but nothing definite has been decided a yet. The diamond has been drying out rapidly and will be in fine condition with a little working.

The Kappa Psi battery has been working out on the drill field in all possible moments to get as close to midseason form as possible for their opening game. The Theta Chis farther down the street have been out catching flies to get their fielding eyes in shape for the coming season.

There will probably be a meeting of the Interfraternity council in the near future to discuss arrangements for umpires, schedules, and other such matters that may come up.

The Kappa Phi nine won the Campus title last spring and look like formidable contenders to repeat this year.

President Confers With New Director

C. A. "Casey" Finnegan, newly appointed athletic director, is visiting President Coulter here this week.

A conference with President Coulter is expected to bring an announcement regarding the appointment of a new football coach in the near future to assist Cortright in his spring football training.

Finnegan was appointed director of athletics after Ion J. Cortright announced that he would retire from active work at the end of the school year.

President Coulter called Finnegan on long distance Monday and announced that he hoped to have a definite statement soon.

What the Church has to Offer to Men

The Church brings an authentic message concerning God which leads to the secret of all worth-while living.

It recognizes the universal hunger for God, and the possibility of communion with Him. It reveals God as a living, Personal Force. It offers a partnership with God in the completion of the task of perfecting the world.

The Church offers acquaintanceship with the great men of the past.

In the lives of prophets and heroes and in the life of Jesus Christ, the Church holds up the ideals by which character and achievement must be measured. In the call to help build the Kingdom of God on earth, the Church presents the purpose which gives deeper meaning to everything men do. It releases through human lives the transformed power of God. It gives men a long view of life—from the great civilizations of the past to the great eternities.

The Church offers a fellowship with the great host of believers throughout the world.

It gives an opportunity to work with other men for the cultivation of the spiritual life and for increasing the stock of goodness in the world. It offers membership in an organization which thinks in terms of world relations. It is the oldest and most honorable organization in existence. There is no government or business or society or alliance of interests that touches so many people in so many ways as organized religion. In spite of its acknowledged weaknesses, the Church is the best institution that has ever been founded upon this earth. No other organization of any character, whatsoever, can compete with it in earnest and inspiring loyalty on the part of its members.

The Church offers a comradeship of fellowshippers.

While it urges private devotion, it brings men together so that they may receive the inspiration which comes from united worship; and to this end it provides a vast storehouse of aids so that men may "practice the presence of God." This comradeship is the greatest brotherhood in existence. It includes all humanity, regardless of its rank, or creed, or color, or economic condition. It embraces all classes of men, from the humblest penitent to the most gifted saint.

The Church offers to men the most inspiring task in the world.

It gives them a view of life which lifts them out of themselves and relates them to vast purposes. It has a world-wide program of social adjustment, sanctioned and empowered by religion. It offers modern men a fighting chance in the great struggle to improve the conditions of life here on earth. It asks men to devote their best talents, their keenest wisdom, and their highest genius in making this world what it ought to be.

The Church offers the greatest moral adventure in human experience.

It gives a program for personal living; a social passion that will build a new social order; a vital contact with the great elements of culture; a faith that destroys all fear; a source of power unparalleled; a place of leadership for every man who possesses real ability; an assurance of ultimate victory.

The Church offers comradeship with Jesus in all the affairs of life.

It gives men a clearer understanding of the mind of Christ. It is through Christ that they come to know God. The steady discipline of intimate friendship with Jesus results in men becoming like Him.

The Church offers to men a solution of the problem of sin.

It offers comfort and strength when trials come and sorrows weigh upon the heart; an enlargement of life's meaning; guidance in life's endeavors, and an assurance of life's outcome. It offers a message of courage and hope; the gift of wisdom in times of perplexity; the assurance of perfect peace; emancipation from ignorance through the truth which makes all men free, and the power of eternal life.

This message was prepared by one hundred American clergymen of various denominations, whose preaching has appealed to men to an unusual degree.

Hollywood Biographer Will Be Tour Hostess

Adela Rogers St. Johns, Hollywood biographer, who has been writing intimate stories about the movie stars in Hollywood for the past five years, newspaper reporter, magazine writer and author of a half dozen novels, is going to act as hostess for the College Humor tour to Europe. She knows all about the stars both off and on the screen, and she can be persuaded to tell some tremendously interesting stories.

Dick Hyland, football idol from Le-land Stanford University and All-American halfback, will be host. The last few years he has turned to writing and some of his articles have been widely commented upon. These two famous writers together with more than one hundred happy collegians set sail from Montreal June 22 to do Europe.

I'M THE GUY

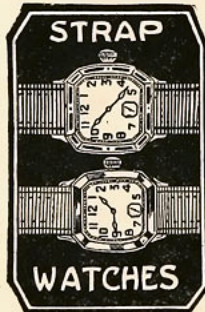

I'm the guy who thinks every office is honorary. Whenever I'm named to some position I think my work is done and that all I have to do is to sit back and accept the praises of my friends. I may work to get the office, but I'm blamed if I'll work after I get it. What's the use anyway? I've got what I'm after so why make a big fuss over it? If my sudden honors are abbreviated without notice, I may come to my senses, but not until then I create the impression that I'm important but in reality I may retard progress to a great extent. I'm found everywhere, and publications are no exception.
