Campus Buildings Estimated At $1,152,505; Equipment At $483,565

Total valuation of the buildings, equipment, livestock, and land belonging to the North Dakota State college is placed at $2,032,440 according to figures prepared by H. W. McArdle, business manager of the school.

The approximate value of the buildings, equipment, livestock, and land in Fargo are valued at $1,787,872. Buildings on the campus are valued at $1,152,505. Equipment on the school grounds is valued at $483,565; livestock at $30,332; and the 943 acres of land belonging to the college at $14,450.

The remaining $244,568 is the value placed on property at the five substations of the school which are situated at Williston, Langdon, Edgeley, Hettinger, and Dickinson.

Eight hundred acres of land occupied by the sub-stations were estimated at $120,000. Equipment of these stations was placed at $26,102; buildings at $76,165; and livestock at $22,391.

Sub-district Tourney To Be Held In Armory

Plans Being Made For Third Clash Between Fargo and Moorhead On S. C. Court.

The State college will be the site of the high school sub-district tourney March 2 and 3, according to an announcement made by Ion J. Cortright, athletic director, who will manage the tournament for the state athletic association. There will be eight teams entered according to all indications: Hope, Fargo, Tower City, Buffalo, Page, Hunter, Casselton, and Sheldon.

Drawing for places will be held as soon as all entries are handed in to the athletic office. The drawing will probably take place Wednesday or Thursday morning.

The district tourney will take place the following week at the armory also. The winner of the pre-district tourney at Wahpeton will meet the winner of the tournament here March 9 and the winner will go to the state tournament, March 16 and 17.

The season dope shows that Lisbon which has not lost a district game this season is a heavy favorite to win the pre-district at Wahpeton while Fargo should run through the meet here with Hope as serious opposition. However, Tower City, Buffalo and Page have given Fargo several tough contests in the past and are ready to do the same in the pre-district meet here.

Plans are being made for a third Fargo-Moorhead high school basketball contest to be played in the armory either Tuesday or Wednesday of the week of March 4. The two rival coaches, Charley Kimball, Fargo, and Glenn Hanna, Moorhead, are anxious to engage in a third contest on a neutral floor to settle the basketball question for another year. Nothing definite has been decided but Ion J. Cortright has expressed his approval of the plan and stated that the contest would probably draw a greater crowd than Nodak-Bison clashes in the past. In the first game at Moorhead, 1,100 people witnessed the struggle while the latest figures put the attendance mark of the last game at Fargo at 1,300.

Courses In Religion Complete Curriculum

Wesley College Fills Vacancy Left By Separation Of Church and State

The local school of religion of Wesley College was founded here principally because of the omission of religious study from the curricula of state institutions. The universal responsibility to provide general education has been so fully recognized that provision has been made through taxation for the teaching of all subjects except religion.

The separation of church and state was adopted as a fundamental principle by the founders of our nation. Church and state are two forms of organization of one and the same people. Wesley College believes that certain ends can be accomplished best when the entire people are made to function as a state, and that certain other ends can be accomplished best when the people are allowed to function as will through such organizations as they may freely devise.

Lack of Completeness

The lack of completeness in the curriculum of the state schools because of this necessary omission of studies in religion was first mentioned to President E. P. Robertson, of the Wesley College, by President Merrifield, of the University of North Dakota. The conversation thus opened led to a series of conferences with various representative groups where the several factors involved in such a work were carefully studied. Then upon the formal invitation of the president, the faculty, and the board of administration of the University of North Dakota, with the active endorsement and assistance of the Grand Forks Commercial Club, in its capacity as an agency of community-wide activity, Wesley College was founded at Grand Forks and affiliated with the University in 1905.

For 22 years the two institutions, located on adjoining campuses, and each under its separate management, have worked together in a close and harmonious co-operation, the one avoiding all duplication and seeking only to supplement and complete the work of the other.

Has Proven Satisfactory

This partnership in educational work has proved satisfactory to all concerned, according to Dr. Walter Lee Airheart, head of the local school. In a public address speaking of this co-operative work President Kane, present head of the University of North Dakota said, "We have in Wesley College the very best plan that has been devised for bringing this essential training in religion and morals as electives to the students of the state university without violating the principle involved in the legal provisions for the separation of church and state."

Wesley College thus became the pioneer in religious education of this type which has met with such wide acceptance that its general principles have been embodied in supplementary projects at most of our state colleges and universities. This is especially true in the western states where the small independent or denominational college has been so much overshadowed by tax supported schools.

Famous Notre Dame Grid Mentor Believes Physical Vigor And Alertness Are As Essential To Success As Brain Power; Must Be Developed In Youth.

Knute Rockne, America's greatest football coach, will give his impressions of "Athletics as Applied to the Game of Life" in the armory Monday, March 5, at 8:15 p. m., as one of the outstanding numbers of the year's Lyceum series.

Rockne stands foursquare as a proponent of college athletics. Physical vigor and alertness, he believes, are as essential to success as brain power, and what a man learns on the athletic field can never be learned from books. The drive and vigor necessary to big results in the American commercial and industrial world are qualities which must be developed in youth, maintains Mr. Rockne.

Knows Human Nature

Rockne's keen knowledge of human nature, his natural drive and vigor, his talent for getting the most out of men, have made him the greatest athletic instructor of the nation. Combined with a keen wit and sense of anecdote, these same qualities bid fair to put him further in the limelight as one of the country's foremost, and most popular, lecturers.

Together with the singular combination of talents which have made him the football genius of America, belongs his firm belief in the complementary value of training on the field and in the classroom. At the same time his name has been associated with every change that has raised football from a rough and tumble game to a character-building science of dexterity, strategy, and skill. Under his supervision, Notre Dame has become the great football college of America. His insistence on the disciplinary value of athletics has raised the plane of intercollegiate sport to an educational function where brain and courage count equally with weight, speed, and brawn.

"One of the Greatest"

Grantland Rice, in "The Sportlight" of the New York Herald Tribune has written:

"Knute Rockne is one of the greatest, one of the most interesting and one of the most artistic that ever handled a squad."

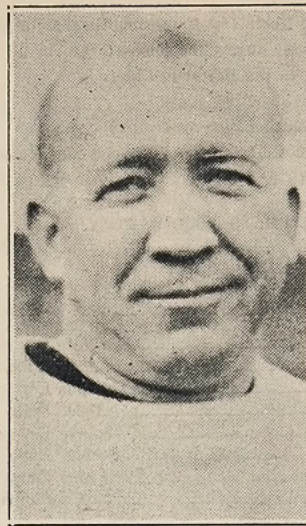

In his talks, Mr. Rockne shows vividly and with refreshing humor, the misunderstandings in the public mind about intercollegiate sports today. He tells the story of the development of football from a gladiatorial contest to a science of strategy, and shows the value of athletics as an education for life.

Knute Rockne's teams have played over one hundred games against the most powerful football combinations of the country. Out of the total, his men have lost eight games. Three were tied and eighty-nine were won. Rockne's team hold the never-equalled percentage of 91.8.

Born in Norway, Rockne commenced his education in the Chicago public schools at the age of five, and worked his way through Notre Dame University to complete his education. Succeeding Jess Harper as coach of the Ramblers his teams lost but one game the first year, established the same record the second season, and went undefeated throughout their third year.

All students will be admitted upon presentation of their registration cards. General admission is seventy-five cents.

Will Speak Here Monday

Knute Rockne, famous Notre Dame football coach, who will lecture in the armory Monday evening as the fourth number of the 17th annual Lyceum series.

250 Upperclassmen In Bison Classes Section

1929 Annual Breaks All Records As Most Representative Yearbook

Two hundred fifty upperclassmen make up the most representative classes section ever included in a North Dakota State college yearbook, according to Everett J. Wallum, editor of the 1929 Bison. The annual this year will contain the pictures and activities of 130 seniors and 120 juniors, which make up the total.

In a specially prepared border some outstanding feature of classes of past years will be portrayed on each page in keeping with the historical theme of the book. The panel of pictures will run down the center of the page instead of at the side as in last year's book.

Allan Meinecke, art editor, has recently completed his pencil highlight half-tone etchings of the campus buildings, six in number, which will make up the scenic section, immediately following the opening section. This scenic portrayal is original in a Bison, and is one of the outstanding features of the 1929 book.

Cover Is Picked

The cover for the new annual has been picked by the staff, and will be procured from the David J. Molloy Company, of Chicago, one of the nation's foremost cover manufacturers. The 1929 staff has adopted the same insignia as was used on the cover of the prize-winning 1928 Bison, although it will be arranged differently on the new book. It is thought that this shield insignia may become standard for all Bisons in the future.

Advertising for the book promises to break the record set by last year's chronicle, according to F. Ralph Hollands, business manager. In keeping with the historical theme, the advertising section will contain historical data concerning Fargo and Moorhead business houses.

SIGMA THETA ALUMNAE PLAN BENEFIT BRIDGE

Members of the alumnae chapter of Sigma Theta sorority of the North Dakota State college will sponsor benefit bridge parties at the homes of Mrs. A. H. Leimbacher and Mrs. Thomas B. Hull, Saturday afternoon.

Assisting Mrs. Leimbacher will be Misses Jean Wilson, Gwenn Gutherie, and Katherine Eddy. Mrs. Hull will be assisted by Mrs. Leslie Welter, Jr., Mrs. L. M. Souers, and Mrs. H. D. Brown. Play will begin at 2:30 p. m. at both homes. Miss Wilson has charge of reservations for the affair.

No Definite Plan Made To Finance Men's Dormitory

College Authorities Await Copy Of Court Decision Before Acting On Matter

No definite plans of procedure to finance the building of a men's dormitory already under construction at the college have been worked out, President John Lee Coulter said yesterday in commenting on the action taken by the state supreme court Thursday which declared the Hamilton-Schlosser bill unconstitutional.

The bill provided for formation of institutional holding companies which would make possible the erection of dormitories at state educational institutions.

"The students are coming to the college and we must make provision for them," Dr. Coulter said. "We feel certain that there is some way to overcome this obstacle, but we have not yet had time to make any definite plans."

Await Exact Copy

At present the college authorities are awaiting the arrival of an exact copy of the supreme court's action in declaring the bill under which the new dormitory was started unconstitutional. A. W. Fowler, Fargo attorney and graduate of the college, who was a member of the state legislature when the bill was passed, will confer with the school officials upon receipt of the documents, and a new plan for the resumption of work on the building will be worked out.

The building was started last fall when Mr. Fowler succeeded in putting across a loan to finance the proposition, and B. F. Meinecke, another State college graduate, and Fargo contractor, undertook the construction of the dormitory under terms favorable to the college.

Construction Started

Under provisions of the law which permitted the construction of the building, the dormitory was financed and erection started with about $20,000 being invested in foundations and water and sewer systems. The immediate money was obtained from the Alumni and Former Students association, pending outcome of a test case started in connection with the local project. The case was dismissed on the grounds of being too friendly.

Thursday's decision was on a case which specifically involved plans for the construction of a dormitory at the University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, which was appealed from the district court of Burleigh county. George H. Wilder was the plaintiff and the state board of administration the defendant.

In its decision the court held the law invalid on two grounds. One was that it delegates legislative power to an administrative board, and the other that it authorizes the creation of a state debt contrary to the prohibition of section 82 of the state constitution.

The law permitted the state board of administration to turn over to the institutional holding companies sites for dormitory buildings to be constructed on institutional grounds. Bonds were then to be sold to finance the construction and were to be paid from rentals of the buildings and collections from other dormitories. When the bonds were paid, title was to revert to the state.

"WHERE THERE'S A WILL—"

Students at North Dakota State should not become discouraged because of the state supreme court's action in temporarily depriving the college of a new men's dormitory. President Coulter and his cohorts will speedily find a way to continue the building operations on our now dormant "dorm". As soon as an exact copy of the action taken by the state judiciary arrives in Fargo the college authorities will get busy to determine just what can be done to set the movement for a new building in motion again.

The supreme court's action is a puzzling one from the standpoint of the college. When the law was passed enabling the school through their alumni association to build a dormitory, immediate steps were taken to build one. Now the supreme court steps into the picture, with our proposed building half-way constructed, and says that the school has no right to build it because the law under which it was started is unconstitutional. Now the question remains whether or not the building of this dormitory can be declared illegal by the court's action in saying that the law under which it was started and was then constitutional, is now unconstitutional. The action has all indication of being ex post facto in nature and therefore contrary to our ideals of government.

NO ALIBIS NECESSARY

A rather disastrous basketball season has at last come to a rather disastrous close, and State college students can now sit back and focus their optics on next year's prospects. Let the dead past bury its dead.

To date Coach Leonard Saalwaechter has offered no alibis concerning the outcome of the season, and as far as the students are concerned no alibis are necessary. The students realize the handicaps Saaly has worked under the past year. The lack of reserve material, the loss of an all-conference center leaving but one veteran to guide the destinies of the team, the losing of several important games by narrow margins, all tended to make the season seem much worse than it really was. In spite of the low placing of the Bison in the percentages, they were always counted a tough team to beat and no game they played with other schools could be said to be a walk-away for their opponents. Indomitable spirit made it a contest to the end.

We sincerely hope that Coach Saalwaechter is not himself dissatisfied with the results of the Bison conquests, or with existing conditions. Many athletes, graduate and undergraduate, who have excellent grounds of comparison place Saaly at the top of North Dakota State's list of basketball coaches for some years back. The wily Bison mentor has been directly responsible in getting excellent material for future athletic teams here during the past year. Saaly is as valuable to North Dakota State as the athletic teams themselves, for he is helping to build Bison athletic supremacy.

Just Comment
 WISE and OTHERWISE

EVERY TOWN has its hobby. Fargo's hobby is athletics. Athletics in the Fargo public schools occupy a large place in the training of the individual. The city's high school athletic slogan is "Athletics for all." This college has an extensive program of inter-collegiate contests as a member of the North Central conference. We have inter-fraternity athletics, athletics for girls, hockey, cross-country, etc. Take our city for example. It owns its own municipal tennis courts and golf links; the city maintains a skating rink, a toboggan slide. In the spring and summer we have the baseball league. The athletic programs of two Y. M. C. A.'s and the Y. W. C. A. occupy the attention of many. There are many other examples too numerous to mention. But the point is that the citizens of Fargo are very much interested in athletics. They support these various organizations or they would not exist. About one-fifth of the Sunday issue of the Forum consists of the sport section. Fargo is an athletic town.

Fargo is not a forensic town; it especially is not a debating town. Why?

From personal experience and observation the writer believes that there is no contest so poorly attended in Fargo as a debate. He attended several of the college debates last year and the year before and never found more than thirty in the audience. The high school debates in this city are not supported by the townspeople. After a short spurt about three years ago, debating at the local high school has dwindled down to almost nothing. It was not supported. Debating simply is not supported in this city. Fargo is not a debating town.

Take our own school. How much have you heard about debating activities here? Last fall the State college debated a team from England. The debate was very well enjoyed. Since then there has been only one other such contest.

Now what is the trouble? Shall we enter into a long discourse upon the merits of debating? That should not be necessary, and yet many will question its value. Indeed, many of you may be tempted to cast this article aside as written on a dry and uninteresting subject. But the fact

I'M THE CLOWN

I'm the clown who dotes on showing off. I do like to give people the impression that I'm the original collegiate person. I get on the street car with a couple of friends and we make some smart cracks at everything in general, and the car advertisements in particular, in a voice that can be heard all over the car. Some of these cracks don't go over so big but my friends laugh anyway. I sometimes pull this stunt when I'm with other people and it must inconvenience them terribly to have the car passengers turn around and look in our direction. But I like to be noticed. In the classroom I never slip up on an opportunity to make a wise crack during the hour, and between classes I love to play tricks on my friends, such as pinning childish signs on their backs, marking them with chalk, or sticking torn-up waste paper in their pockets or down their necks. My marks aren't so good as a result but I sure do have fun. When I tire of my childishness I curl up in a class and go to sleep, especially when the instructor is lecturing. There is little chance of me being called on, so I may as well get a little sleep that I didn't get the night before. It may be rude but it's restful.

remains that any person who has the ability to debate—and by that I mean the ability to face an audience in a pleasing manner, to speak fluently, forcefully, logically, persuasively, to keep the mind clear under stress of the opponents' arguments, to see the underlying issue, to successfully refute, to appeal to and carry an audience—such a person has a priceless ability. In business the man with the power to debate, to express himself, has an immense advantage. The value of debating is attested in the fact that nearly all of our senators and most of our presidents have been lawyers. The sessions of Congress are long series of debates. Last year's Rhodes scholar specialized in debate work.

What is the matter with debating in this town? There can be but one answer. Fargo has not had debate education and the outlook now is that it never will have. The writer admits he is prejudiced but sincerely believes that he is voicing a need that exists among a very large, unorganized group of people. It is admitted that debating is beneficial. To this college is left the task of putting on an extensive debate program of real interesting contests. It would seem that college students would or at least should be very much interested in such discussions of live, up-to-date world problems. To us is left the task of giving Fargo a debate education and thus right it from its decidedly lop sided interest. This can not be done, I believe, in less than five years time. Perhaps it will take longer. Only discouragements will greet the first few years of effort. But the benefits to the town and above all the benefits to the participants will repay ten-fold whatever efforts may be made.

The time is now. We have heard recently of a new and expansive athletic program as proposed by our president. Let us also have a debate program. We need it!

The School Of Religion

This school is maintained to complete the curriculum of the State College by offering the necessary courses in Religion which may not be taught by the tax-supported school.

The curriculum of the School of Religion is composed of studies in the history, psychology and philosophy of religion, ethics and morals, dealing with the basic facts and principles which are part of all faiths.

These courses are open to all students registered in the State College, without any charge, and may be taken with full credit as free electives or as substitutions for required courses upon the recommendation of the student's advisor.

A cultural knowledge of religion is an indispensable part of a liberal education. All students of the State College are urged to avail themselves of the privileges of this school. The School of Religion is strictly non-sectarian.

Courses Influence Students To Choose This College

The types of courses offered at the North Dakota Agricultural college furnished the major inducement for 32 per cent of the present freshmen to choose this college in preference to others.

This college offers a bachelor of science degree in Science and Literature, Agriculture, Architectural Engineering, Architecture, Biology, Chemistry, Civil Engineering, Education, Electrical Engineering, Home Economics, Mechanical Engineering, and Pharmacy.

Special advantages are offered in paint chemistry, physics, botany, mathematics, public speaking and dramatics, economics (agricultural and general), and social and political sciences.

All the work that is taken at the North Dakota Agricultural college is fully credited by the North Central Association of colleges and secondary schools, and also the Regents of New York.

We hear the Bison rifle team is wearing red neckties so it can get the bull's eye.

You can easily pick out the riflemen that are in love. They always do well from the kneeling position.

The prone shooter is always laying down on the job.

Now we know what the fellows mean by triggonometry.

The local order of the greasy cartridge shoots matches with other schools by telegraph. This is current news.

If these men keep on firing matches, they are apt to be under suspicion of arson.

In Scotland, rifle teams fire matches with cap guns.

A rifleman is like a farmer trying to make his mule move. He keeps the stock to the shoulder.

She's only a gunsmith's daughter, but, oh what a sight.

A barrel maker staves off poverty.

After hearing some of the sharpshooters swear when they miss their mark, we cease to wonder why some cartridges are called blank.

We call our rifle "history", because it repeats itself.

We know an aspiring marksman who was so cross-eyed that he tried to commit suicide, but every time he shot at himself he hit the target.

Some girls are taking up archery so they'll be able to get a bow.

We call him B. B., because he is a little shot.

"I'm cutting quite a figure", gurgled the soldier as he made a thrust with his bayonet.

Now as soon as we learn how to set traps, we'll be quite a formidable institution.

He may have been well bread, but he was just a town loaf.

Just because a fellow meets a highwayman is no sign he should get stuck up about it.

When Lot's wife turned into salt, the old gent should at least have tried to pepper up a little.

We women should feel insulted that so many men would rather go to a blind pig than to a blind date.

Frosh Break Even In Nodak Yearling Clashes

Baby Bison Win 24-23 Lose Second 31 to 20

Leo May Is Outstanding Player In Both Games With Famous University Youngsters.

By "CHUCK" ARNESON

The annual basketball argument between the University and State college remains unsettled as far as the freshmen are concerned, for the Nodak Frosh defeated the Baby Bison 31-20 last Saturday on the armory court, thereby tying up the series, after the State frosh had taken the measure of the Nodak "kids" on the University floor Friday afternoon in a game that ended 24-23.

In Saturday's game played in the college armory the Nodak yearlings, not wishing for a repeater of their previous clash with the Bison Freshmen, started out with a fine passing game which gave them an early lead. From then on things didn't look cheery for the Bison Frosh who struggled in vain against the Nodak basketekers who were playing a winning game and were taking advantage of their opportunities.

Bison Lack Drive

The Bison offense lacked zip and drive, so busy were they defending their goal against the fast breaking Nodak five. When the Bison did start on a scoring drive they were confronted by the University's defensive which was already set and waiting for the opponents attack. At times Coach Saalwaechter's basketball team would penetrate the Nodak's defensive for counters, but their scoring sprees were short-lived.

Leo May was the outstanding performer of the battle. He was strong on the defense and led the Baby Bison's scoring column. May had trouble in finding the hoop, and rang up only 3 baskets out of 27 attempts. Chief Pariseau and Bassett were off form at the forward posts, and Gilly Johnson wasn't up to his regular standard of play.

Different Story Friday

There was a different story at the U on Friday, Saaly does more than his share of plugging and fighting from the sidelines, had conveyed his spirit into his charges who went at the game vigorously, and saw to it that they were on top when the game finished.

Shave and Jarret, the two lads who had so much to say about the Nodaks victory Saturday, were outstanding Friday but so were the Baby Bison forwards. The Nodak Frosh took the lead at the half 16-11, and fans at the U were all set for a triumph by their national tournament stars. In the second half the Bison returned to action and, before the Nodaks had anything to say about the score, were leading 17-16. The lead changed many times before three free throws one by Pariseau and two by May gave the Baby Bison a count of 24. Gorder closed the scoring of the day by putting a short one through the net to make the final score 24-23.

Final Play In Greek Loop Opens Tonight

The final week of the fraternity league opens Tuesday with the Gamma Rhos playing the Beta Chi. The Beta Chis have announced that they will forfeit the remaining games. The Theta Chis will meet the Delta Pis. In the first game, the Kappa Psi, who has virtually cinched the championship, will meet the Delta Sigs, the only team that has a chance to tie them for the championship. The Sigma Taus will meet the Kappa Phis in the second game.

Thursday the Kappa Psis will encounter the Theta Chis who will endeavor to defeat the leaders. A win for the Rho five in their game would increase their chances for a tie with the Sigs. The Rhos meet the Sigma Taus. On March second, the Beta Chis have forfeited to the Kappa Phis. The Delta Sigs must defeat the Delta Pis to keep in the running for the title.

On Sunday the final games of the year will be played. These games will have an important bearing on the title chase as the Kappa Psis play the Gamma Rho five, and a victory for the Rhos would mean a chance to tie the Sigs for second. The Sigma Taus will clash with the Theta Chis and the Delta Sigs have been forfeited to by the Beta Chis. The Delta Pis will have the Kappa Phis for their opponents in the last game of the year. The Kappa Psis continued their winning streak at the expense of the Sigma Taus 20 to 18 and the Kappa Phis 22 to 18 in an overtime encounter. The Beta Chis forfeited to the Delta Pis and the Theta Chis. The Kappa Phis broke even this week by defeating the Delta Sigs 21 to 6. The Sigs also broke even as a result of their defeat of Sigma Taus 25 to 12. The Gamma Rhos pushed the Theta Chis down the ladder by defeating them 24 to 8.

Coyotes Beat Bunnies; Nodaks Win Loop Title

The University of South Dakota basketball quint moved into second place in the North Central standings by defeating South Dakota State at Vermillion Friday night, 27 to 25. This defeat of the Bunnies gave North Dakota University undisputed claim to the basketball title for the first time in the history of the conference.

Trailing the Jackrabbits 15 to 5 at the half, the Coyotes uncorked a dazzling offense to tie the score at 21-all in the first ten minutes of the second session, and then stepped out to gain a lead which they retained for the remainder of the game.

PLEDGES OF THETA CHI HONOR ACTIVE MEMBERS

Pledges of Theta Chi fraternity of the North Dakota State college were hosts to the active chapter and their friends at a theatre party at 7 p. m. Saturday. Following the show the party returned to the fraternity house where a social hour and dancing were enjoyed.

NEXT summer! Up in Montreal a swift ocean liner awaits us, to sail Europe-ward with a happy group of college-age men and women who will "do" Europe in a campus-like atmosphere of informal good-fellowship, under the auspices of College Humor Magazine.

Down the majestic St. Lawrence and across the Atlantic we'll sail, with a dance band from a famous American college to furnish music. The week's voyage will be a memorable "house party at sea."

Then Europe!—with three days in London, plenty of time for The Shakespeare Country and Oxford, busy days in Belgium, and Paris for five glorious days and six tumultuous nights!

All travel arrangements by the Art Crafts Guild Travel Bureau, originators of the famous "College Tours." Membership is limited. For full details, hurry us the coupon below.

Y Basketeers Trounce Rambler Quint, 64-16

Play in the Y. M. C. A. basketball league will close Saturday, according to Gil Moe, manager of the league. From all reports the Y quint are picked to win the championship with no defeats.

The Y five proved their championship metal last week by overwhelming the Ramblers 64-16. In the first round of play the Ramblers managed to hold the powerful Y machine to the count of 28-20. This game was the Y's toughest battle of the season. Last week, however, there was a different story. The Y basketeers were just hot and couldn't hiss. Despite the valiant efforts of the Ramblers the Y had no trouble to annex their large margin. Dahle, Wyman, and Huckle were the high scorers for the victors.

The Arkeetex, new entrant into the Y league, were victors in their two games played last Friday and Saturday. Their important win was over the Barracks, 35-24. Cramer, diminutive Arkeetex forward, was the big star of the game. He alone scored over half of the winning team's points and was instrumental in bringing down the colors of the Barracks.

The big upset of last weeks games was the 21-16 defeat of the Night Hawks by the Demons. The speedy high school team led by the Cook brothers proved to be more than a match for the strong Night Hawk basketball team. The Demons, the only high school team in the Y league, have improved with each game and no doubt if the tournament lasted longer they would rank up among the winners.

When the Y. M. C. A. league closes Saturday, Gil Moe will have run off 180 games, in one of the most successful and interesting tournaments of campus basketball history. Over seventy-five men will have taken part

Student Opinion

Editor of The Spectrum:

"We noticed that only two or three members of the Pep Club made the trip." Can you imagine a thing like that? Speaking of gratitude,—There it is. Typical.

That little paragraph in last Friday's "Just Comment" section of The Spectrum certainly made the twenty-six Pep Club members, that made the trip, feel highly complimented.

Of course there is no doubt that forty men out of a club of forty members are in a position to pay for train tickets, meals, car-fare, game admission, and incidentals. It would mean only about five bucks, or a grand total, for the forty, of two hundred iron men, to take a five hour trip, see the game, and that's all.

If the entire student body can send only 143 students including the band and 26 Pep Club members out of a student body of 1,200, or 12 percent, why the fuss over an organization that was represented by 65 percent of its membership. It is interesting to note that the Pep Club represented 27 percent of the students who paid their way to the "U".

In closing I wish to state that the Pep Club offers no apologies to any one for the absence of the remaining 35 percent who did not make the trip.

Foss Narum,
Pres. of the Pep Club.

P. S. What other club on the campus had a representation of 65 percent, except the organization that went up for four-bits?

90 Attend Catholic Club Dinner Sunday

Ninety were present at the banquet given by Bishop O'Reilly, of Fargo, in honor of the newly organized State college Catholic Students Club at the Powers Hotel Sunday evening at six. Catholic freshmen of the school were honor guests.

Short talks were given by President John Lee Coulter, Father Dworshak, Ray Jefferey and Father Hurrell, of the University of North Dakota Newman Club, Bishop O'Reilly, and Monseigneur Baker, chaplain of the Valley City State Teachers college Newman Club. Floyd McDunn, president of the State college club, acted as toastmaster.

The local club holds its regular meeting tonight in the Knights of Columbus hall down town. Initiation of new members will be held, and Father Ryan, pastor of St. Anthony of Padua church, will speak. The meeting will start at 7:15.
