

Crippled Bison No Match for Bunnies

Cambridge Team To Debate Here Friday Evening

English Troupe Includes State In List Of Thirty-four Institutions

On Friday, October 22, 1926 an innovation in debate affairs was brought about at the North Dakota State College. The first foreign debate in the history of the institution was held with a debate team from Sydney University, Australia.

This year it so happens that the celebration of this first international debate is held on the corresponding date, Friday, October 21, with the festivities of the evening in the hands of a trio of gentlemen who will argue as representatives of Cambridge University, England and a corresponding number of debaters as opposition from the North Dakota State College. The Cambridge team is making a very extended tour this year. They debate some thirty-four American and Canadian institutions.

Cambridge Upholds Affirmative

The subject of the debate is; That the ethics of the business world are incompatible with sound morality; Sambridge upholding the affirmative side of the question.

The members of the Cambridge team are: Mr. M. A. B. King-Hamilton, Mr. Herbert Lionel Elvin, Mr. Hugh Mackintosh Foot.

Mr. Hamilton is the only son of Alfred King-Hamilton, C.C., solicitor, and was educated at York House Preparatory School. In 1923 he went up to Trinity Hall, Cambridge, and in accordance with the traditions of that famous College, he took up the study of law, and is now a Bachelor of Arts with honors.

Mr. Elvin was born in London and after passing through the Public Elementary School, he attended the High School at Southend, from there he gained an Open Scholarship to Trinity Hall, Cambridge. At the moment he is Vice-President of the Union Society, and will take the Presidential chair on his return from the United States.

Is Club President

Mr. Foot is the son of Mr. Isaac Foot, who represented the Bodmin Division of Cornwall in the House of Commons during three successive administrations. After leaving his preparatory school at Swanage for Leighton Park School, Reading, in 1920, Mr. Foot entered St. John's College, where he has been reading an Honors Course in History for the last two years. He has been a successful Secretary of the Cambridge University Liberal Club and is now its President. On leaving Cambridge, Mr. Foot intends to take up his father's profession of a solicitor, and probably to take some active part in politics.

The North Dakota State College will be represented by a trio which will be chosen from among the following men: Leonard Rygg, Clifford, N. Dak., a junior in the school of agriculture; Lief B. Erickson, Sydney, Montana, a sophomore in the school of education; and Hajalti Thorfinnson, Mountain, N. Dak., a senior in the school of agriculture.

Minnesota Harriers Defeat State, 39-16

Fry Places Fifth In Field Of Sixteen Contestants At Minneapolis

Taking the first four places, the University of Minnesota cross country team defeated the North Dakota Bison harriers in their annual meet on the river course Saturday by a score of 39 to 16. The distance was three miles, and the time 17:28.

Anderson, North, Binger and Etter, Gopher runners, were the first four to finish. Fry, of the Bison placed fifth. Sixth, seventh, and eighth went to Minnesota; and ninth place went to Nelson, of the Saalwaechter team.

Bison Cop Four Places

Tenth, Eleventh, and Twelfth places were won by the Gophers, and the last four places were taken by Dobbert, Weiser, Clarke, and Reynolds, of the Bison, in the order named.

The Minnesota team meets Iowa in a four mile meet this Saturday as a preliminary to the Minnesota-Iowa football game.

Coach Saalwaechter has his men in rigorous training to prepare for the conference meet at Brookings, South Dakota, November 11th. South Dakota State has held the conference championship three out of the last four years.

DR. BEST TO ADDRESS STUDENTS TOMORROW

Dr. H. R. Best, chairman of the Ministerial Association of Fargo and Moorhead, will address the students at convocation tomorrow morning at 9:40, on "The Student and the Church." Dr. Best will present the claims of religion and the local churches on student life.

MILLION DOLLAR BAND IS LED BY STATE GRAD

Harold Bachman, former student and graduate of the North Dakota State College, and director of the famous "Million Dollar Band" will give two concerts in Fargo today. A matinee at 3:30 for students will contain the same complete program as that at 8:15 in the evening. Tickets are now on sale in the College Bookstore for the matinee.

It has been seven years since Mr. Bachman and his famous band played in Fargo.

Theta Chi Wins Float Cup Second Consecutive Time

Delta Phi Betas Take Second Place; Phi Omega Pis Are Third

"The 1927 Homecoming and Bison Round-Up was a distinct success," stated T. W. Thordarson, secretary of the Alumni and Former Students Association yesterday. "Although the attendance fell below that of last year, the occasion could not have had a more satisfactory outcome."

Mr. Thordarson lauded the morning parade on Homecoming Day, and said that it even surpassed the mammoth procession of last year. The floats and other features of the parade were unique in their originality and theme.

Bunny Band In Line

The parade, which left the campus at 10:30, consisted of the Bison Cadets, the Gold Star Band, the South Dakota State cadet band, the floats of the organizations and schools, cars representing departments and faculty, and decorated cars of students and alumni, as well as costumed groups.

Floats were judged on fitness to the occasion, originality, beauty and conception, and execution. On this basis the judges picked the Theta Chi float, a beautiful representation of an Indian Homecoming, as first. This was the second consecutive year that the Theta Chi fraternity has won the prize in the float contest. In the event that they win again next year they will retain permanent possession of the cup.

Betas Take Second

The Delta Phi Beta sorority float, an airplane depicting the Homecoming of the future, was given second place; and the Phi Omega Pi float, representing the Homecoming of the bride and groom, was given third choice.

The committee expressed the desire to commend the general excellence of all floats entered and to state that, while some of those which were not placed were exceptional in some respects, they failed to be placed because of a lack of complete harmony in keeping with the points noted above. Honorable mention was given the Schools of Agriculture, and Science and Literature in their department of the float contest.

COVERALLS NEW STYLE FOR CHEMISTRY CO-EDS

"What's the idea of the coveralls? Taking Ag?"

"Nope. Going to Chemistry lab. We aren't gonna take any chances on wasting more silk hose by spilling acid on 'em, that's all."

This conversation overheard in the Chemistry building Friday afternoon as the Sophomore Home Economics girls taking Organic Chemistry have decided to borrow not only their brothers Boy Scout Slogan of "Be Prepared!" but their coveralls as well.

Professor Gottschalk's illustrated cautionings may be partly responsible for the new lab attire, altho one co-ed stated emphatically, "Nope. He hasn't scared-us, but why bother to be careful when we don't have to?"

COLLEGE STOCK JUDGERS CONCENTRATE ON CALVES

"We have seen everything from cows to cows—and more cows," is the report of the Stock Judging Team, composed of Allan Mortenson, Russell Widdifield, and Clyde Barks, who are now in Memphis, Tennessee, entered in a contest there. "We saw one cow worth $10,000, so it's evident that there is money in the dairy business somewhere," states their letter.

"While in Chicago, we concentrated our attention on calves in our spare time," they write. They probably do not mean the kind they saw in the stock yards of that city, however.

Rabbits Take Homecoming Battle, 33 to 0

Victory Stamps West's Eleven As Contender For Loop Title

Over 4,500 Homecoming fans watched Jack West's South Dakota State machine decisively defeat the crippled Bison on Dacotah Field Saturday afternoon by the overwhelming score of 33 to 0, and establish themselves as a serious contender for the 1927 North Central title.

The invading eleven proved to be as tough as a Bison Barbeque sandwich, and Coach Cortright's men fought gamely against overwhelming odds. Off-tackle plays that deserve to feature Big Ten contests, driving end runs that refused to be stopped, line smashes with the force of an express train, and a perfectly-functioning line that would have held water enabled the southern gentlemen to accumulate five touchdowns and three goal kicks.

Bison Crippled

Crippled by pre-game injuries the Bison were no match for the Jack-rabbits who held the upper hand all the way. Only once or twice did the yellow and green defenders take the offensive. Short spasms of a smooth-working aerial attack proved to be the only serious bids for a score on the part of Cy Peschel's gang.

In the buffalo backfield, Polly Guertin stamped himself as an outstanding performer. One of the three Bison first downs was made almost unassisted by Guertin, and his drive and plunging featured the mediocre playing of his mates. Al Hermes, injected into the fray late in the game, was easily the most effective man against the strong Bunny forward wall.

Line Outclassed

The Bosin line, shattered by last minute injuries, was hopelessly outclassed by their heavier Rabbit opponents. Sullivan and Ordahl showed flashes of form occasionally. Newgard and Hays on the ends gave the line what stubbornness it displayed at times, the latter repeatedly breaking through the Bunny interference. Berntson at guard played a whale of a game until, battered and bruised by the terrific pounding of the State backfield, he was removed late in the third period.

Guertin kicked off at the start of the first quarter, and after an exchange of punts, the Bunnies settled down to a steady march for the Bison goal. A pass brought the ball to the 12 yard line, and Frandsen was stopped on the Bison 1 yard line. Schweinfurt went over on the first play for a touchdown and Frandsen kicked goal. The extra point was not allowed because of a State lineman being offside. Gergen, played with an injured back, was removed from the game, Hahn replacing him.

Engleman Scores

Hahn punted over the goal shortly after the second period opened. After several exchanges of punts the Bison stopped the Bunny attack on their own 48 yard line. At this point West sent Engleman into the line-up, said halfback going over for a touchdown in two runs of twenty and thirty yards respectively. The kick for goal was good and the Bison trailed 13 to 0. Shortly after the kickoff Hahn's pass was intercepted by Adler who scored and the count was boosted to 20 to 0 by another kick for the extra point. Late in the period the Bison opened a pretty passing attack. Hahn threw a beautiful pass to Newgard who made as beautiful a catch and a total gain

THE EMPLOYMENT BUREAU

One of the great student institutions on the campus that deserves special mention is our Student Employment Bureau. Through the efforts put forth here many are able to receive that cherished college education which had seemed an impossibility, many are happy in the thought that they are able to help their parents put them through this college, and still more are obtaining a much higher education in educating themselves than they could otherwise obtain at an institution of higher learning. The bureau should be commended, helped, encouraged, and made a permanent part of our student affairs. In after years it should reach a high degree of efficiency, with the co-operation of the people of Fargo and vicinity, and with the conversion of previous mistakes into marked advantages.

OUR ROOTER KING

In our opinion, a great mistake was made at the rally Friday morning when a Rooter King was proclaimed. This is much too early in the season for such action. We know little or nothing yet about the ability or potentiality of any of the prospective cheer leaders, and the cheer leaders themselves, save one or two, know little or nothing about us. How do we know whether the Rooter King chosen Friday will turn out to be our leading cheer leader later in the season? Is it fair to the rest of the cheer leaders to pick one of them on a mere guess?

All this tends to detract from the honor that should go with the choosing of a Rooter King. All this lessens the dignity of the office. It would be considered the height of folly to bestow the honor of a high office on a man who had not proven his worth. It is the same degree of foolishness to bestow the honor of Rooter King on a person who as yet has not attained the point where he deserves the honor. This is not meant to be directed at any individual but at the action that was taken Friday. Such action was decidedly unfair in that it was done at a most inopportune time.

Perhaps the argument that was advanced for this previous appointment was to centralize the authority for rallies, and pep fests. Why could not the four cheer leaders meet and set the dates for rallies as well as one? This had been done with the help of the Student Commission up to Friday's rally. Now a man has been appointed as Rooter King to do this work, and the rest of the cheer leaders are beginning to lose interest. And why shouldn't they? They have nothing to work for now, no honor to achieve as a result of hard labor in expounding pep. Why should they perfect themselves in the art of cheer leading when no reward awaits the finish of their work?

A wise course for the Student Commission to take in respect to this matter would be to disregard Friday's mistake entirely, and start the four cheer leaders out on an equal basis again. Let them all have a fair and equal chance to "make" the Rooter King's office. Let them all strive in friendly rivalry to be Rooter King, or even Rooter Queen. Then late in the basketball season, when the students have had all four, or as many as care to come out, before them almost continuously, they will be better able to pick their leading cheer leader, and the honor will mean all the more to the chosen individual because of the hard work he or she has put into it to achieve the result. And the rest will not feel that they have worked in vain, for another Rooter King will have to be picked again next year in the same manner.

Just Comment
 WISE and OTHERWISE

SOME CRITICISM of the appearance of the Gold Star Band and the Bison Cadets during the Homecoming festivities, parade, etc., has come to The Spectrum from people who are entirely ignorant of the state of affairs. This prevalent idea that neglect, carelessness, and laxness on the part of "Doc" Putnam is responsible for the partly-uniformed band must be righted by the truth of the matter, which is that on account of a heavy slash in the government appropriation, complete uniforms could not be obtained, although orders for the missing garments are now enroute. Homecoming being a trifle previous this year made it impossible to obtain them in time for the festivities. Please pass this on so that those who do not know the facts may see that it was through no fault of the school that the band was not completely uniformed for the parade.

THE ACTION of the North Central Eligibility Committee in banning Walter Clasen from engaging in athletics because he played a few minutes against Jamestown several years ago is putting things rather strong, especially when other conference members have been allowed to play questionably men simply because some opponent didn't step to the front and raise a big commotion about it. It would be a good thing for the conference if the entire matter of eligibility would be left up to the committee alone, providing it could be prevailed upon to function properly. It would seem only fair moreover that the college in question should have a defending member on the committee. As we understand it, our member was excluded while the matter was debated.

HOMECOMING seems to have been a great success again this year in spite of the disastrous football encounter with the South Dakota State team. West has a great team and they should go through to another conference title providing Creighton doesn't argue too heavily against them. Coming back to Homecoming, said event was termed distinctly successful by the secretary of the Alumni Association. The attendance dwindled somewhat under last year's record but could not be helped to any appreciable extent. The parade was every bit as good as last year's procession, and in some respects better. The Theta Chis should be commended for winning the float cup twice in a row, since this action shows intense interest and perseverance. All the floats were of a higher order than ever before witnessed at a Homecoming celebration and deserve special mention. A marked improvement in every float is noted each year.

STUDENTS are becoming lax in obeying Student Commission rulings. Cars are being parked alongside "no parking" signs, students, and faculty, too, are engaging in sports on the campus green, and many individuals are cutting across the campus along old paths. All this is direct disobedience to the student laws of this college, and students should check up on themselves. If you are doing this to spite the commission, let's have your reasons for disobedience in the "Student Opinion" column of The Spectrum, instead of going against the grain in this manner.

NEXT WEEK is the week before the annual football classic between the State College and the University. More pep than ever before should be manifested before that game. Don't get it into your heads that we're no match for the Nodaks because a crippled Bison line-up gets beaten by an overwhelming score. If we lost every game all season, and if the Nodaks won every game, which they don't seem to be doing, the Bison-Nodak tilt would still be as even as they make 'em. No matter what the dope is on either team, that battle is a fight to the finish, and no mistake. The season is a success if the Bison win that game and drop all the rest. Get that idea into your heads, and keep it there!

CHEERING on the field Saturday was the best we've heard in two years time, since the date Fred Sorkness left the institution. From the opposite side of the grid the cheering boomed like a bombardment, and the cheer leaders showed amazing ability. Our pep pullers seem to be improving with every public appearance. Soon we'll be back in the old rut where our cheering was marveled at by other schools. Ebony Blott looked especially well Saturday, although all the others contributed to showing the alums and old grads that we've retained all the pep they used to have.

I'M THE BOZO

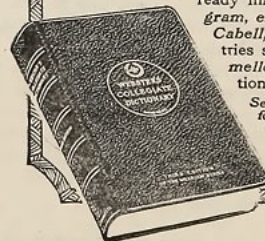

I'm the bozo who always forgets to put the magazines back on the library rack when I'm through with them. I look up my assignment, read it, and then walk out leaving the magazine laying on the table. Of course, the next fellow who comes along looking for that same magazine looks all over the rack for the magazine and can't find it. This often leads to his not getting his lesson, and a subsequent zero, or to his wasting an hour or so of perfectly good time until he runs across it where I have left it. But I should worry. I got my lesson, and that's all I care about. I never stop to think what a predicament I'd be in if the students preceding me in using the magazine did the same thing.

Ebullitions of Ebony Blott
By Everett Wallam

As far as size is concerned, the Bunnies looked more like Buffalos than the Bison did.

The first quarter must have been counterfeit, so many fans were yelling "fake."

BISON TACKLERS DISCOVERED THAT THE FIRST HUNDRED SMEARS ARE THE HARDEST.

The Jackrabbits had a very good line, and so did their coach.

The way the Bunnies were intercepting everything that came their way, they also must have adopted the slogan: "They shall not pass."

It's beginning to look as if the only way we'll be able to beat the Jackrabbits is to get a club and journey to Australia.

ONE OF THE BARBEQUE MUNCHERS DECLARED THAT BUFFALO MEAT MAKES BETTER BEEFSTEAK THAN VENISON STEW DOES.

Walter Clasen was declared ineligible because he played two minutes against Jamestown in 1924. This causes us to fear the status of one of our Cross Country men who capered over the fields to bring home his father's cows in 1921.

And one of our Rifle team, who shot a cap gun with devastating effect on July Fourth, 1914.

And one of our football players, who chased a greased pig at the county fair in 1911. A pigskin is a pigskin.

ALL THE PRISON INMATES WERE GATHERED TO PICK A PRISON SONG. ONE OF THE CULPRITS STARTED "CUTTING UP," SO THE WARDEN "BEANED" HIM. HE IMMEDIATELY STOOD UP AND SUGGESTED THE "STARS AND STRIPES FOREVER."

A good song for our freshmen class would be "Don't Wake Me Up, Let Me Dream."

If our backfield men had anything up their sleeve in last Saturday's game, there must have been a hole in the elbow.

One of the howling needs of this campus is a little more howling.

NO ONE WILL DENY THAT A CRYING NECESSITY IS A HANDKERCHIEF.

The game Saturday was a success anyway in as much as more plausible alibis were unearthed than in any previous game in history.

When the team saw the rooters swarm the field after the game, they didn't know if they were going to be carried off the field or chased off.

If any more of our players get hurt, we'll have more concessions than football men.

WE CAN'T FIGURE OUT YET IF THIS PRACTICE OF GIVING AN INJURED PLAYER A CONCESSION IS A REWARD OR A CHASTISEMENT.

Hope you don't feel hurt.

of 40 yards. Another throw was incomplete but it preceded a twenty yard toss to Hickerson who made the prettiest and most sensational catch ever seen on Dacotah Field in years. It was the first down for the Bison on State's 38 yard line when the half ended.

Hahn and Guertin each made a first down as the second half started, but Hahn was forced to punt. Straight line plunges, with a neat off-tackle play featured, took the ball over the goal again and the Bunnies lead 27 to 0. State opened with a passing attack in the final period which brought the ball to the Bison 1 yard line. A line smash after two unsuccessful attempts made State the victor by the 33 to 0 count.

Barbeque A Success
The Bison Barbeque which followed the parade was well received, the buffalo meat "going like hot cakes," as Mr. Thordarson expressed it. The game between the Bison and the Bunnies proved to be the only drawback to an otherwise successful Homecoming, but even this failed to dampen the event to any great degree, according to Mr. Thordarson.

The alumni banquet at 6:30 p. m. in Ceres Hall was by far the best ever held here, stated Mr. Thordarson. Members of both football teams were honor guests, and this action was praised by Coach Jack West of the Bunnies. District Judge C. W. Buttz, of Devils Lake was the principal speaker of the evening. He recalled the time he was a student at the institution in a rather humorous way.

Armory Crowded

A dance in the armory followed the banquet. Members of the Board of Administration were present and expressed their opinions in favor of a new building after a look at the crowded conditions within. The building problem was also discussed at the banquet with favorable results.

"The Alumni Association appreciates the co-operation of the students in making the Homecoming a success," said Mr. Thordarson. "The faculty committees also deserve a great deal of credit for their intense interest and hard work."

CLASS ELECTIONS FRIDAY!

Student class elections will be held Friday morning at 9:40. Classes will assemble as follows: Freshman Class in the Armory; Sophomore Class in the Little Country Theatre; Junior Class in Chemistry 26; Senior Class in Chemistry 5. All students are requested to have candidates for the various offices in mind before coming to the election. Each class must elect four officers this year: president, vice-president, secretary, and treasurer. Specially prepared ballots will be used. Each person nominating another for an office must present to the Student Commissioner in charge a certificate obtainable at the Registrar's Office before the election that said nominee is eligible for election to said position.

"TRIPLE THREAT" A COLLEGE FOOTBALL STORY BY ARGY AITCH

SYNOPSIS

Bob Crawford, a senior law student at Stamford College, must accomplish three great deeds during his senior year at school in order to win MARY MALONE. He is encouraged by his roommate, JOHNNY GRANT, captain and halfback of the Stamford eleven, to rise from his position as quarterback on the scrubs to a position in the regular lineup. Bob decides to do this that he may have a chance to outclass his rival, RALPH NORTON, captain of the Northeastern University team, when the two eleven clash Thanksgiving Day. COACH GREER, of Stamford, has just finished a lecture to the players.

CHAPTER FIVE

At the mention of Northeastern, the group cheered lustily. There was real spirit behind the team, spirit that wouldn't take defeat, spirit born of sheer determination and fight. That was it, fight!

When Bob and Johnny trotted out on the field at ten o'clock they left an empty locker room behind them. The men all respected Greer's methods and when the coach said ten sharp, every man was on deck at the specified time, ready for duty.

The coach gathered the boys together for a short talk on not entering into the spirit of the thing too enthusiastically at first, to limber up their muscles gradually, without strain—in short, the same old speech that Bob and Johnny had heard Greer expostulate for the past three years at the opening of the training camp. The setting up exercises which the coach sent the team through constituted the morning's work, together with passing a couple of footballs back and forth. Then a sprint around the track, and back to the locker rooms and the showers.

Again that afternoon the team presented itself at two and again Greer sent his charges through their paces. Bob was glad when the team again made its way to the showers. He and Grant returned to their room, the former tired and sore, the latter showing no apparent effects of the day's training. Still Bob did not complain, and in the evening found real comfort in writing a letter to Mary, telling her of his arrival, his new-found friend, of the day's football lesson, and how great he felt (?). He spoke of the three deeds and told her that he had chosen the football gridiron as his first field of battle, of the great possibilities the coming Northeastern game offered, and that he intended to make the team and win a letter.

The bed felt exceptionally good to Bob that night and he was asleep almost before his head touched the pillow.

And so the week drifted by. A week of setting up exercises and half-mile runs; a week of tossing pigskins, and showers; a week of tired, aching muscles, and good old beds. Bob and Johnny registered for the first semester on Friday, just before practice. Saturday "Doc" Greer notified the squad that scrimmage would start the following Tuesday, an announcement which evidently met with the boy's approval.

Somehow or other, Bob managed to wait through the week-end; through the Monday classes, and the Tuesday classes, until Tuesday afternoon at three-thirty when the first chance to show the coach what he was really made of would be given him. Johnny shared his enthusiasm and noted with pleasure Bob's determination. As they made their way from the locker room to the field, Grant put his arm on Bob's shoulder.

"Remember what I told you, old man," he said softly. "Fight the hardest when you're down."

As in former years, Bob was given the quarterback post on the scrub eleven. After a brief signal drill, the two teams lined up and the varsity kicked off to the scrubs. O'Connor, a lengthy varsity end, kicked the ball directly at Bob who took it on his own five yard line. Mechanically, he fell in behind his interference which had already begun to take their toll of the charging varsity squad. One by one the scrubs went down with their opponents, until, at the forty yard line, Bob was brought down from behind with a sudden thud. Greer's whistle blew and Bob rose to his feet only to find that it was Young, the varsity quarter, who had pulled him down. Chagrined at this Bob took his position behind the scrub line. He called for a huddle and the team dropped back, listened to the whispered instructions, and then resumed their places in the lineup. A second later the ball was snapped to the right halfback, and the scrub backfield started for the varsity's right end, Bob leading the interference.

Thud! A flying hulk of a man caught Bob at the hip and sent him sprawling over the turf. It was O'Connor who had put him out of the play with a perfect clip. Dazed and bruised, Bob rose to his feet, and started after the retreating forms in front of him. Gradually he gained on the halfback carrying the ball, and drew up to him just as Grant brought him down with a pretty tackle. As Bob sped past Young, who was lying where he had been dumped by a scrub interferer, the varsity quarter, either by accident or intention, stuck out his foot, and Bob pitched headlong to the earth about three feet from where Grant was lying with his arms still about the legs of the unfortunate halfback. As Bob hit the ground he felt something hard and bumpy beneath him which almost knocked the wind out of him. Again Greer's whistle blew.
