

Phi Omega Pi Is In Possession of Chapter House

First Sorority To Own Home Is Distinction Held By POP's

The first North Dakota State College sorority to own their home is the distinction now held by the Phi Omega Pi sorority, who purchased their house at 1223 Eleventh av N. from Dr. John Lee Coulter last year, not having taken possession until this fall.

Tentative plans for a formal house-warming, to be held during the annual Homecoming festivities are now being perfected by the organization.

To Serve Meals

The house, a 10 room structure, has accommodations for 15 young women, and all of the rooms for the first semester of the school year are now occupied. Mrs. Ida Buttles, Jamestown, N. D., a former resident of Fargo, will be house mother and a governing association comprised of Mrs. F. O. Olsen, sorority deputy, Miss Geraldine Ewald, president of the active chapter, Mrs. Buttles and members of the sorority, will formulate plans for the management of the home.

Preference is given to nonresident sorority members for rooms in the house, but if there are room vacancies other young college women may make their homes at the chapter house if they so desire. As one of the plans which the young women have adopted to raise money for the house fund, meals will be served to the young women at the college, not house residents, during the year. The house is located within a block of the campus and the fact that meals will be served there will be of much advantage to many students.

Organized In 1914

Organized in April 1914, the local chapter held its meetings for the first 10 years at the homes of the members or the patronesses and made no organized effort to maintain a chapter house until 1924. That year they rented the home of Mrs. Rebecca Tarbell, 1144 College st., and Mrs. Tarbell acted as house mother. The chapter house plan was so successful that the following year it was again tried and the young women occupied the home of Dr. and Mrs. Sverre Oftedal, 1125 Fifth st N. during the time that the family were in Europe.

Rent Temporary House

Last season, owing to the fact that possession of the home could not be secured until this year, the home of Mrs. George Tibert, was leased as a chapter house. Active officers at the time of the house purchase were Miss Eva Wilner, president; Miss Esther Skjelseth, vicepresident; Virginia Sands, secretary and Mary Warner, treasurer. Present officers are Geraldine Ewald, president; Almarine Schultz, vicepresident; Lillian Opfer, secretary and Virginia Sands, treasurer.

ENGINEERS' CLUB HOLDS SMOKER ON THURSDAY

Thursday evening, October 6, at 8 p. m. the Engineer's club will be host, at a "smoker," to all of the freshmen registered in the School of Mechanic Arts. Mr. A. Dickie, Mr. R. Peterson and Mr. L. Meldahl are in charge of the arrangements.

NOTICE

All people who intend to sell anything for Homecoming must register their names and the article they are selling in the office of the Alumni Association, Main Building; or at the College Book Store. This must be done to prevent duplication.

Dean Minard Outlines Convocation Program

Many Interesting Features Are Included In Announcement, No Dates Set

An interesting convocation program, including an address of welcome by President John Lee Coulter at an early date, has been outlined by Dean A. E. Minard. No definite dates have been set.

Other convocations include a talk by a member of the city clergy representing the Federated Churches of Fargo and Moorhead; a general assembly before homecoming; Ida Clyde Clark, America's foremost woman publicist; Dr. Davis, president of the Congregational Zoological Seminary of Chicago; and a representative of the State Educational Convention.

Coulter To Speak

Although no fixed date has been set for the first convocation, it will undoubtedly be held next week, when President Coulter will address the student body on the customs and traditions of the college.

The second convocation will include a talk by one of the city's foremost clergymen on "The relation of the Church to the Student's Career."

Homecoming Assembly Planned

The general assembly preceding Homecoming will come next in line. All the stored up enthusiasm will burst forth in a glorious pep session, and plans for welcoming back the old grads will be discussed.

The next convocation will be a lecture by Ida Clyde Clark, "America's Laughing Philosopher." Mrs. Clark is often spoken of as a "feminine Will Rogers." She is hailed everywhere as the nation's foremost woman publicist, and is the most sought after woman on the country's lecture platform.

On October 31, Dr. Davis, president of the Congregational Zoological Seminary will deliver an address the topic of which is not yet known.

Dates Tentative

Dates for the convocation are merely tentative but an announcement concerning them will be made soon. The general plan, according to Dean Minard is to be very flexible which will permit the procuring of speakers as opportunities present themselves.

DAIRY JUDGING TEAM LEAVES FOR MEMPHIS

The Dairy Judging team of the North Dakota State College left Saturday morning for Memphis, Tennessee, where the judging contest will be held this year.

The members of the team on the trip are Allan Mortenson, Russell Widdifield, Clyde Barks and Prof. J. R. Dice, coach.

The team intends to make a three weeks trip, stopping at the bigger dairy farms on the way to the show. Their first stop was at Alexandria, Minn., and they intended to spend Sunday evening in Minneapolis. Their next two stops are to be at Madison, Wisc., and Deerfield, Illinois.

The show at Memphis starts on October 13th and lasts for five days.

Week of Formal Rushing Now On Among Sororities

Girls Will Receive Bids From Various Organizations Next Sunday

Formal rushing week is now in full swing among the various sororities on the North Dakota State College campus. Plans have been announced by the rushing captains of the groups for the entertainments of the rushees. The captains are: Sigma Theta, Dorothy Volkamer; Delta Phi Beta, Alta Berg; Kappa Delta, Lorinda Bethchel; Phi Kappa Lambda, Mildred Vold; and Phi Omega Pi, Mary Klinsmann.

Informal rushing was held last week, the first week of school, but during that time no entertaining was allowed, so all of the social functions of the period are to take place between Monday and Saturday of this week. Each sorority is allowed three parties. An informal afternoon affair, a formal evening party and a tea on the last day of the rushing week are the affairs permitted. After 7 p. m. Saturday the period of silence is enforced and this may not be broken until after 4 p. m. Sunday when the new students receive bids from the sororities.

Kappa Lambdas First

The first party was that of the Phi Kappa Lambda group, held at the home of the president, Miss Marion Schroeder, 917 Fourteenth st. N., Monday. The rushees with active members travelled on a "Around the World" luncheon. The formal party of the group will be held at the Elks club Thursday evening and the traditional tea on Saturday between the hours of 4 and 7 p. m. in the home of Mrs. Kent Darrow, patroness, at 716 Eighth st. S.

Pastel colors will be used as decoration of the chapter house on Tuesday evening when the members of Zeta chapter, Phi Omega Pi, will entertain their rushees at a "Butterfly" dinner. A program of toasts, musical numbers and dancing has been arranged for the evening. A gypsy party has been arranged for Thursday afternoon, at the chapter house. Fortunes will be told by gaily dressed gypsies and all other entertainment and appointments will be in keeping with that idea. The formal tea on Saturday will also be held at the chapter house, 1223 Eleventh av. N. and the decorations and appointments will carry out the Sweetheart idea.

Betas Hold Garden Party

The formal party of the Delta Phi Beta organization, the traditional Pullman dinner, will be given at the home of Miss Frances Ross, Wednesday evening and a program of songs, stunts and music will complete the entertainment. Agarden party in the chapter room in the Y. W. C. A. building at the college will be held Friday afternoon. Favors, in keeping with the theme of the decorations, will be presented. The formal tea, in the form of a Russian party, will be held in the home of Mrs. Sverre Oftedal, 1125 Fifth st. N. Saturday between 4 and 7 p. m.

RALLY! RALLY! RALLY!
The first pep rally of the year will be held in the armory tomorrow morning at 9:40. Candidates for cheer leaders must appear at this rally. Those who have not turned in their names to the Editor of The Spectrum must do so at once. If your name is not in the hands of the Editor, you will not be called on.

THIRTY-PIECE FROSH BAND TO APPEAR SOON

A freshman band of thirty pieces, bubbling over with pep and enthusiasm, and anxious to get rid of it through the medium of their instruments will soon be let loose at a rally or pep fest, according to their director, Dr. C. S. Putnam.

The green-capped organization consists of a piccolo, four clarinets, three saxophones, six cornets, four horns, one baritone, three trombones, three basses, and three drums. A fine, well-balanced band is the way Dr. Putnam describes them.

Deep Interest Shown In 1927 Homecoming

Railroads Grant Special Fares From All Points In North Dakota

Deep interest is being shown in the annual Homecoming and Bison roundup at the North Dakota State college, which will take place Oct. 15, according to officials of the Alumni and Former Students association, which is in charge of arrangements.

Inquiries have come from all parts of the state and from alumni in many parts of the United States, including many from New York.

Special Fares Granted

Railroads have granted a special round trip fare from all points in North Dakota and from points in the western half of Minnesota, of a fare and a third, according to Rex Willard, chairman of the committee on fares. Tickets will be sold Oct. 14, and for trains arriving in Fargo by 3 p. m. on Oct. 15. Return limits will be Oct. 17.

Students on the campus are manifesting great enthusiasm in the event which will be the first big affair at the school this fall.

The annual banquet will be held at the armory in the evening and will be followed by the annual Homecoming dance.

Big Parade Planned

Floats will form a big part of the parade which is scheduled for early in the afternoon, the following organizations having signified their intention to enter a float: Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Kappa Phi, Alpha Sigma Tau, Delta Kappa Sigma, Delta Phi Beta, Delta Pi, Kappa Delta, Kappa Psi, Phi Kappa Lambda, Phi Omega Pi, Upsilon Omicron, Sigma Theta, Theta Chi, Y. M. C. A., Y. W. C. A., school of agriculture, school of chemistry, school of education, school of home economics, school of mechanic arts, school of science and literature, school of pharmacy, experiment station and extension division.

There also will be individual costumes and group costuming in the parade.

Prizes will be offered in the parade, a large loving cup for the best organization float; a shield for the best organization group costumes; a loving cup for the best window display and three models for individual costumes.

ANITA MARY BLAKE LEAVES FOR NEW YORK

Anita Mary Blake, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Blake, 1128 First Avenue South, will leave Monday for New York City where she will attend the National Recreation School. Miss Blake graduated from North Dakota State in June and for the past month has been substituting girl's physical education director at Fargo High School. She is a member of Phi Omega Pi social sorority, Delta Psi Kappa Honorary physical education sorority, and the Edwin Booth Dramatic Club.

Mr. A. O. Hagen visited his son Odin at the Delta Pi house over the week end.

Bison Schedule Includes Tough Array of Teams

Valley City Vikings Play State College In Initial Home Game

When the Bison football team started on their long journey to Bozeman, Montana, to engage in battle the highly touted Bobcats of Montana State, they also embarked on one of the toughest schedules ever booked by a State College grid mentor.

In the first place, to start the season off against a team like the Montana aggregation was a hard enough assignment let alone finishing it up against an outfit like DePaul's of Chicago Thanksgiving Day. Quite a few erstwhile critics were conversing freely on the foolishness involved in tackling the western kitties at such an early date.

Vikings Open Home Stand

Two weeks of rest follow the Bozeman battle until the Vikings, of Valley City State Teachers College, open the home engagement in Fargo Saturday. With fourteen days to recuperate from the Bobcat tilt, the Bison aren't worrying about what they'll do to the Vikings.

Homecoming is next in line on October 15 when the South Dakota State Jackrabbits invade the tranquility of the Bison environs to do battle thereon. Since the bunnies were loop champs last season a merry tussle is expected to take place. Altho Jack West, the southern general, lost plenty of stars of last year's team by graduation, he is expected to turn out his usual formidable troupe.

The Bison will engage in conflict the St. Mary's team of Winona on Dacotah field October 22. The Minnesota team should offer lots of competition in the way of football to the buffalo battlers. This is the final and concluding home game of the Bison and should be well worth while watching.

University Game Oct. 29

Proposals of the state legislature to combine the State College with the university and move same to Grand Forks will receive the finishing touches when the Bison play the Nodaks on the upstate gridiron October 29. The college campus is expected to look like Edinburgh on tag day. A special train will carry the students to the game. The Nodaks have the most promising array of gridsters in the history of the institution and the Bison will have to work plenty hard to stave off another defeat at their hands.

Ye ancient rivals, St. Thomas, will be met at St. Paul the following Saturday, and if the jinx is still alive and well the Bison will return with another victory. St. Thomas has not yet defeated the Bison in many moons of grid tussles.

Armistice Day, reminder of peace and ceasing of hostilities, will find the Bison mixing freely with the Coyotes of South Dakota University at Vermillion in one of the most fierce battles of the loop. Altho the conflict is not booked to imitate the World War, the bison and the coyotes haven't been on good speaking terms since the Ark, so a good time will be had by all. Thanksgiving Day being the only holiday left before Christmas, the DePaul University followers of Chicago decided that they'd try bison this year instead of turkey. Whether or not the Bison will queer the menu is not as yet determined, but it's a safe bet that at least a few DePaul players will have their stomachs out of order before the game is over.

EX POST FACTO LAWS

The recent ruling that no mixed parties could be held by fraternities during rushing came at a rather late and inopportune date. Already two groups had had their choice of parties, and the rest of the organizations had their plans formulated for the remainder of the rushing season. The sudden ruling restricted them to "stag" parties, and threw the whole rushing program into discard. Arrangements for the use of halls and orchestras had to be cancelled, at some expense; embarrassing situations were created on the matter of "dates;" and new plans had to be formulated on the spur of the moment. Invitations to the rushees had to be changed immediately. This necessitated much explaining and more embarrassing situations for the rushee.

It would seem only fair, moreover, that the fraternities and sororities be taken into consideration on the proposition. A joint meeting of the presidents of the organizations would have cleared the matter satisfactorily. They alone could determine whether or not mixed parties produced conflicts that were undesirable to the rushing of both men and women.

On the other hand, the rule itself is a good one, when made at the right time. It is practiced in many of the larger institutions of the country with success. It could be practiced here with success. But the time for rushing rules is before rushing starts, not after it gets under way. The ruling in question could just as easily have been put before the various groups a week or so before hand as at the late date that it was. That action would have saved a great deal of last-minute grief.

THE HISTORICAL BISON

This issue of The Spectrum carries with it the announcement that the 1929 Bison will use as a theme, the history of North Dakota State College. The publication of a "Historical Bison" in May will prove valuable to the students, the school as a whole, and the state.

Everyone, to a certain degree, is interested in history, and since there has never been any satisfactory chronicle of the school's achievements, every student will watch for the distribution of the Bison in the spring with much impatience. As we understand it, the book will be dedicated to one of the oldest faculty members, a fitting reward, small in comparison to the loyalty and faith which has kept the dedicatee close to the college, but an honor in itself. A special section will be given over to the history of the college, a section which, if written authentically, will impart an unestimated value to the book.

We wish to congratulate the Bison officials for the choice of their theme, and to wish them every success in making the volume a true chronology of the steps in the making of the school's present greatness.

Just Comment
 WISE and OTHERWISE

SOME PEOPLE have a misconception of the sign which decorates the Bulletin Board in front of Main Building. The words "All outside bulletin boards for official business only" means that no private notices are to be placed there. Because one is a member of the faculty, or a member of the student body doesn't make his losing a fountain pen, or anything else, "official college business." The Want Ad Columns of The Spectrum are to take care of lost, found, and wanted items, at a small charge for handling. Please remember that the Bulletin Boards are NOT for private use!

NOON DRILL started yesterday, and no doubt it started the annual, and usual amount of, grumbling. The freshmen, in particular, and perhaps a few sophomores, are the ones who resent the practice of turning out the battalion at the noon hour. That's where ignorance ceases to be blissful. Before many noon drills they'll be looking forward to marching to Doc's pepsters, and flaunting a perfect platoon front as they swing across the parade grounds. It takes time, but when they catch the spirit, as they always do, we'll welcome back the little Gold Star again.

THE CAMPUS is now gayly bedecked with a surface cropping of green caps, bobbing here and there, with an omnipresent regularity. One nice thing about this green cap proposition is that a sophomore can always find a freshman, and one bad thing about it is that a freshman can always find another freshman. That makes it bad for the sophomore.

THE STUDENT COMMISSION has set down some rules which endeavor to

I'M THE LOUDSPEAKER

I'm the loudspeaker that can be heard all over the library. I've got the expanded idea that it's just a community hall. My theoretical whispers would put a brass band to shame. When I breeze into the library reading room it's like a tidal wave hitting the coast of Florida. I spot my friends and begin a conversation. It's just a low-voiced conversation to me but it has it's possibilities, I'll admit, when it can be heard by the librarian on the other side of the building. All the students are disturbed from their studies, but I've got a notion all my own that students don't like to study anyway. I've been reprimanded many times for talking in the library but I just can't resist the temptation. I get dirty looks from my friends (what few I have left) and other students about me as soon as I start to "whisper" but a dirty look hasn't stopped me yet.

pound tradition, respect, and class-consciousness into the freshman's head, instead of the seat of his pants. If the frosh co-operate in the matter, and take things for what they're worth, enlightenment will be conspicuous by its presence, and the paddle by its absence.

ONE THING that every Spectrum staff since the founding of the publication has been trying to do is to educate the students to use the drop-box just inside the door to the basement lobby of Main Building. As yet no news has been left in the box, and the present staff wishes to encourage the practice of dropping news items therein, and to discourage its use as a receptacle for gum wrappers, waste paper, or what have you?

FRESHMEN should not take offense at the pompous portal erected for their exclusive use on the south edge of the campus. Although the name "gate" is a rather dubious cognomen for such a structure, it is to be used as such, never-the-less.

History is Theme of Bison for '29

Yearbook Will Contrast Last Year's Publication, Says Editor

In contrast to North Dakota State's prophetic "Greater North Dakota" yearbook of last year, the 1929 Bison will have as its theme the past, or history, of the institution, according to Everett J. Wallum, editor-in-chief of the annual. Plans have been submitted by the Bureau of Engraving of Minneapolis carrying out the historical theme throughout the annual in an interesting and novel manner. This is the same engraving firm that planned last year's popular Bison. The printer of the book has not, as yet, been determined.

Individual photos will again be taken at Old Masters, while the group pictures will be photographed in some large building on the campus to provide ample room for correct seating arrangement. Ralph Hollands, business manager, has issued a call for all juniors and seniors to apply at the Bison office for a certificate entitling them to a photo cut and space in the book. The fee will remain the same as last year.

Student Employment Bureau Is Organized

A Student Employment Bureau, to obtain work for students of North Dakota State College, has been organized and is now functioning successfully, twenty-five men having been placed to date, according to Ralph Hollands, secretary of the bureau.

The Service Clubs of Fargo pledged their hearty co-operation in finding work for college students at a meeting of the club committees with the bureau officials in the Lincoln Log Cabin of the Little Country Theatre last week.

Olson Is Assistant

Each club elected a permanent employment committee to work with the college bureau, stated Mr. Hollands. Morris Olson is acting as assistant Secretary, and Professor I. W. Smith is chairman of the faculty committee on student employment.

"Many students are yet to be placed," said Mr. Hollands, "although the majority should have suitable employment within a month."

The bureau is a permanent institution on the campus and will be maintained at all times. Through the courtesy of Captain T. S. Smith, an office has been supplied the bureau in the armory.

Ebullitions of Ebony Blott

By Everett Wallum

Any freshman will tell you that it isn't the heat, it's the humility.

Shamp is out for freshman football. We don't know who they'll have for the other side of the line.

THEY COULD EASILY HAVE SOLVED SHAMP'S FOOTBALL PANTS PROBLEM BY GETTING ONE OF THOSE PUP TENTS FROM SARGE.

It isn't so nice to be big, though. Every time "Pewee" buys a pair of shoes, all the big western cattle raisers profit heavily.

No one can deny that he has a weigh, all his own.

We wish to hereby present the aged Swiss cheese cloth to the adroit freshman, who glibly stated that a Cross Country man was a hot tempered farmer.

THESE AIRMEN AREN'T UNPatriotic JUST BECAUSE THEY DOUBLE CROSSED OUR COUNTRY.

Freshmen are not allowed to paint any buildings on the campus. One stroke of paint on the armory, and the venerable structure would collapse from intense shock of sheer surprise.

In other words, the armory isn't as bad as it is painted. It couldn't be.

Some freshmen object to all the rules laid down before them. They contend that the one rule forcing them to attend all convocations is punishment enough.

MARVIN SPIELMAN HAS HEADED THE HONOR ROLL SO OFTEN THAT WE ARE BEGINNING TO SUSPECT THAT THEY RECORD HIS GOLF SCORE AVERAGE INSTEAD.

Maybe they call it the Pan-Hellenic council, because it gets panned every so often.

FRESHMEN SHOULD REMEMBER THAT DUMB BELLS SHOULD DO AS THEY ARE TOLLED. RING OUT WILD BELLS!

Freshmen undoubtedly get hot when paddled by the sophomores, but they can't smoke on the campus.

Hazing won't mean a thing to the freshmen, now that they've had one week of military training.

Frosh girls don't get hazed, but then they are all painted up anyway.

Our idea of thoroughly hazing a freshman is to make him room in the Barracks.

Paddling won't do a freshman any good. It will just put him further at sea.

ABOUT ONE-THIRD OF OUR FROSH MUST BE ARDENT MOVIE FANS. THEY ALL WEAR CELLULOID COLLARS.

Maybe it's wrong to hit a freshman when his back is turned.

SOPHOMORES LEARN BY EXPERIENCE THAT IT IS A WRONG CANE THAT HAS NO BURNING.

Frosh have a gate all by themselves. Judging by the way some of them have been hippety-hopping around the campus, they always have a gait all of their own.

SORORITY ACQUIRES NEW HOME

Recent Appointments Given Official Sanction

Coulter Announces New Additions To College Instruction Staff

Mr. G. F. Yott is a graduate of the University of Michigan in the school of Mechanical engineering, class of 1925. One year before entering college Mr. Yott was employed by the Dow Chemical Company located at Midland Michigan as assistant in the Chemical Laboratory. Mr. Yott came here directly from the Cadillac motor company.

Mr. E. J. Workman, the newly elected instructor in Physics received his masters degree from Whitman College, Wawa, Washington. Mr. Workman received his undergraduate work at the University of Cincinnati, Ohio State and Whitman College. He was an assistant instructor at Whitman College for three years, and instructor, for two years. At present he is on leave of absence from Whitman College. Last year he graduated from the school of physics, Leland Stanford University.

College Rifles Excel at Camp Perry Match

Ross, Millard, And Dvorak Find Targets For Excellent Scoring Record

Representatives of the North Dakota State College in the rifle matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, recently made a very creditable showing, according to the records received by the Military Department.

Men from the college who engaged in the matches were Lieutenant F. S. Ross, instructor in military science and tactics, and a member of the Infantry Rifle Team; Frank Dvorak, member of the North Dakota National Guard team; and Ronald Millard, whose high standing in the Fort Snelling matches during the summer entitled him to enter the national matches at Camp Perry, where the best shots of the nation competed for prizes.

In the President's Match Lieutenant Ross ranked 29th in a field of 1,371 contestants. Millard ranked 159th, and Dvorak 216th. In the Individual Palma Match, Ross ranked 10th out of a field of 583 entries. Ross and Millard both entered the Marine Corps Cup Match, the former ranking 118th, and the latter 225th, out of 1,237 entries. In the Wimbledon Cup Match, Millard finished in 172nd place, and Ross in 174th out of 949 contestants.

"TRIPLE THREAT" A COLLEGE FOOTBALL STORY BY ARGY AITCH

CHAPTER ONE

It all came back to him now. That glorious hour was reborn and relived in the mind of Bob Crawford as he sat in the speeding limited that was carrying him back to Stamford, back to his books, back to the gridiron. The warm September sunshine beat through the half-open car window, combining with the cool air which was stirred by the rush of the train into a satisfying and friendly atmosphere, an atmosphere that played the devil with a fellow's fancy, and turned his memory into all sorts of possibilities.

Bob glanced at his time-table as the huge monarch of rails sped through a village, clicked through the rail joints and switches, careened past a little station, and settled down to its steady pounding on the open road. The mad rush of the train was certainly productive of sleep, mused Bob, his head back against the cushions and his eyes slowly closing. A week from tomorrow would be registration, and then Monday classes again. And on and on . . . and on . . . for nine long months. Of course there was Christmas vacation but . . . oh well, this was his last year, anyhow, and when that was over . . .

A smile crept over the boy's face as some sweet memory haunted his thoughts. It had been the night before . . . how long ago it seemed . . . but yes, it was last night. He and Mary had been alone in the garden . . . in the moonlight . . . and the roses. They had talked of the future . . . of what might happen when Bob's college career had ended and he had settled down to practice law in the little town of Norfolk. That was the devil of it . . . what might happen. He hoped to God he could go through with it. And that beggar, Norton, of Northeastern University. There was no doubt that Norton was a good football player . . . but why in the name of common sense did Mary have to be throwing it up to him all the time? He'd rather be a second string man any day than the puffed up, conceited ass that Norton was. But evidently Mary Malone liked him, and he had to be contented with as the bitter rival. Yes and curses on the fellow who wrote that series of "Sir Alfred" books. Mary had been reading them and had become thoroughly incensed with them. She had told him that the famous knight was her ideal, and that the man she married must be a modernized edition of Sir Alfred himself. And now Bob had to measure up to the requirements of knighthood. Well, he'd do that and a lot more to win Mary. But that wierd promise he had made . . . A promise that he,

Sir Robert, of the House of Crawford, setting forth in his last year at college in search of adventure and advancement must, in order to win the Lady Mary one year hence, first undertake and accomplish three great deeds of note. And where in heaven's name were three great deeds to be done at a college like Stamford? And that damnable Norton . . . if he failed. But he must not! No Mary was his. He wanted her with all his heart, with an increased desire arising from an increased degree of impossibility.

He was temporarily disturbed in his thoughts by the sudden application of the air brakes and the huge limited ground to a stop. Bob looked out the window and beheld a few scattered buildings. Evidently the locomotive was taking water. His supposition was verified a few minutes later when he heard the dull clang of the tank cover, and a series of snorts of the engine soon had the heavy train in motion again. Again the monotonous pounding of the rails, and the cool whiffs of air through the open window. Again the dreary feeling, and Bob resigned himself once more to his thoughts, thoughts of finding three great deeds, and accomplishing them.

Well, since Norton was such a football hero, nothing would be better than to show him up in the gridiron. That was good reasoning. In other words, Bob would have to boost himself from a second string quarterback to a gridiron illuminary. Impossible. And besides Northeastern wasn't on Stamford's schedule. At any rate he'd try hard for the team. The possibilities were great. Mentally, Bob jotted down that the football field was his field of battle, a grid uniform his armor, and he, Sir Robert of Crawford, bearing the colors of Stamford, would seek advancement in the eyes of one Lady Mary.
