Students Open 4 Day State Conclave At Valley City Thursday

LIFE AND PROBLEMS IS DISCUSSION THEME OF THE "Y" GROUPS

VanDusen, Harris To Speak—Nelson, Rolfe Address Delegates

The North Dakota State Student conference of the YMCA and the YWCA will open in Valley City Thursday and continue to Sunday.

"Planned a year ago by the State Student council which is a group of undergraduate students from Jamestown, Valley City, Grand Forks and Fargo, the conference in contrast to former ones, will depend entirely on student initiative and student resourcefulness for its success," states Eric H. Thomsen, secretary of the YMCA at the North Dakota State college.

Sandberg Presides

The conference will be opened Thursday evening by the president of the council, Glenn Sanberg of the University of North Dakota. President E. P. Robertson of Wesley college, Grand Forks, has been asked to conduct the opening exercises.

Essentially, the conference program will be a survey of contemporary human thought in an effort to arrive at an honest and intelligent understanding of life and of its problems, according to Mr. Thomsen.

Nelson, Rolfe Speak

Dr. C. I. Nelson, head of the department of bacteriology of State college, will begin the survey with a discussion of science and psychology in regard to the "sort of world in which we live and the kind of human beings we are, as far as we have come to know today."

Prof. Water T. Rolfe, head of the department of architecture at State college will follow him on the program.

Harris To Speak

Thomas L. Harris of Cambridge university, England, will take up the discussion of philosophical and religious problems Friday morning.

The last speaker on the conference objective, the quest of life's meaning, will be Henry P. Van Dusen of Princeton, Edinburgh and Columbia universities and Union Theological Seminary, New York.

The remaining part of the conference is to be devoted to student discussions in groups, where issues may be impartially considered as they have arisen during the survey. The primary question will be the question chosen as the motto of the conference, "Can One Be a Christian in the Twentieth Century?"

In discussing the trend of the conference, Mr. Thompson pointed out that the youth of today cannot help being against problems which never confronted their elders.

UNIQUE SETTING OF DISTORTED SCENERY CHOSEN FOR PARTY

Ronald Millard, Miss Reta Morris Will Lead Grand March

Visual sensations that will cause all to gape in wonder will characterize "La Rue des Illusions fantastiques," or the street of distorted illusions that has been chosen by the committee on decorations as a setting for the Junior prom of the North Dakota State college. The Junior prom, the outstanding formal event of the school year, will be given in the college armory Friday.

The armory is to be transformed into a street setting that will be neither cubist nor futuristic in design, but a wild blending of broken lines, shadows, and figures. Refracted lamp posts, skylines of bilging, leaning skyscrapers, windows of inconceivable design, spherical triangles of light, will predominate.

Architects Plan Setting

Philip Keene, chairman of the decorations committee, is being assisted in the making of these unique arrangements by Marlin Hutchinson, Allan Meinecke and Vernon Peterson, who have charge of lighting effects.

At the east end of the armory will be an entrance done in jagged varicolored design. The 300 guests will dance in an enclosed setting of weird figures and lighting effects. A false ceiling of grotesque characters and having pin points of light will be flanked o neither side by arcades, mutilated in keeping with the entire setting. The orchestra will be seated under an arcade at the west end of the hall.

Ronald Millard, Breckenridge, Minn. manager of the prom, and his partner Miss Rita Morris, New Rockford, N. D., will lead the grand march which is to be at 9 p. m. Russel Widdifield Lead, N. D., assistant prom manager, and his partner Miss Madelyn Parrot, Fargo, will be second in the line of march.

Informal dancing will be enjoyed from 8:30 p. m. to 9 p. m.

EASTER

Easter Sunday is "Derby Day" for the American public. For a week prior to the anniversary of Christ's resurrection, interest is at a feverish heat—in spring hats.

Pathetic and still entrancing are the conditions that surround the observing of the churches' prime Sunday. Humble sinners that we are, we crowd the interiors of our churches to the bursting point on this occasion. We may grimace or grin at the hardship of having to stand during the entire services, but how may we expect a seat when we only come to church once a year?

There is a certain satisfaction in viewing a parish when seated in pews on Easter Sunday. One might liken the scene to a flower garden. There are all hues of God's flowers, geraniums, roses, lillies, and violets. Here and there are discordant elements. In the center of a flower bed glares out a lacquered cranium fringed by gray. A man cannot wear his hat in church.

So it is, we rush the tailors on Saturday and the pastors on the following Sunday. How much easier for the tailors, milliners and preachers would it be if we distributed the churchgoing fever over a period of 52 Sundays instead of one Sabbath.

MEXICO

Students will have an opportunity to obtain first hand information of the Mexico of today when Dr. Devine addresses them at convocation Wednesday.

Popularly conceived as the land of bandits, oil, and peons, Mexico is little known to college students or any public. Our newspapers have told us of religious, political and economic eruptions to the south of us. We are susceptible to much more knowledge on the matter.

As in any question, there is the other side. Mexico has shown her displeasure for American journalists. Isaac Marcossion has not boosted subscriptions for American magazines in Mexico.

We can't afford to slip up on any opportunity to read or hear discussions of Mexico. At the same time, we must do some rational thinking. The other party is not always wrong nor are we always right.

VOTING OUT POLITICS

The "Mark Hannas" of the campus had better watch out. Last week, members of the Women League of Women Voters met. A national collegiate organization, its aim is that of making better citizens of the Co-Ed population. There is certainly no better platform ever put forward.

The old adage that "Men must work and women must weep" is rapidly going by the board. Women are politically coming to an equal plane with men. The movement to make women better citizens and voters is certainly starting in the right place.

A cry may go up that the male citizenry who have already turned their budgeting and buying problems over to the wife now are losing their last great stronghold, the ballot power. Insofar that only about 15 percent more or less of Americans bother to vote, the League's activities are meritorious. There should be a League of Men Voters on every campus. The "evils" of politics subsist on the frailties and ignorance of citizens.

INTRA-MURAL FIELD, TRACK MEET TO BE HELD NEXT TUESDAY

Saalwaechter Offers Trophy To Winning Group—Track Men Outdoors

An innovation in track activities at State college gets underway this week with the announcement by Coach Leonard Saalwaechter of an Intramural Field and Track meet to be held on Dacotah field at 4 p. m. Tuesday, April 26.

The meet, being held before the annual dual meet season, will give organizations at the college a chance to uncover potential cinder men.

Beautiful Trophy Up

A silver trophy, personifying victory, and having upon a bronze base a silver bas-relief of a runner on his starting marks will be given to the organization winning the meet. The trophy is to be a traveling cup. Organizations are to vote on the number of times a group must win the trophy to keep it permanently.

Eligibility Rules

To be eligible to enter the annual meet a man must have reported for track work at least six times previous to the time of competing. Fraternities and other organizations have already begun preparing for the cinder events.

The meet calls for the running off of nine track and six field events. Points on a 5, 3, 2, 1 basis will be awarded for the first four finishing positions of competitors.

Events and the order in which they will be run off at the April 26th meet are, 100 yd dash, 4 p. m.; 120 yd high hurdles, 4:10 p. m.; half mile run, 4:20 p. m.; 220 yd dash, 4:40 p. m.; mile run, 4:50 p. m.; 220 yd low hurdles, 5:10 p. m.; 440 yd dash, 5:20 p. m.; two mile run, 5:30 p. m.; half mile relay, 5:45 p. m.

In the field events the schedule is: shotput 4 p. m.; pole vault, 4 p. m.; discus, 4:40 p. m.; high jump, 4:40 p. m.; javelin, 5:20 p. m.; and broad jump, 5:20 p. m.

Coach Saalwaechter turned his cinder candidates out of doors for the first time Thursday. The Dacotah track is still in a soft condition because of bad weather.

Thirty-five track candidates have reported regularly. The Bison track mentor is still shy of material in the field events. His hopes of taking points in future meets are in the ascendant, however. More than two-thirds of the present candidates are freshmen or sophomores. Although, without records in high school, Saaly reports that many of them have good possibilities as collegiate performers.

A relay quintet made up of Cy Peschel, George "Dutch" Hermes, Claudie Miller, Harvey Steedsman and Walter Clasen are also rounding into form for the half mile baton event. Coach Saalwaechter is developing a frosh relay team, but has been shifting his candidates about to find the strongest combination. The indoor work has been not a little handicap in building up a track delegation for prospective relay entries at the Sioux Falls or the Hamline meets.

WOMEN VOTERS PLAN ACTIVITIES FOR YEAR

A meeting of the League of Women Voters was held Tuesday afternoon at the engineering building.

Mrs. Maude Woodparks, national counselor of the League, Mrs. J. A. Poppler of Grand Forks, state officer of the League, and Miss Ruth Gaulke, president of the League of Women Voters at the University of North Dakota were present at the meeting.

Miss Gaulke outlined the plan of their work a carried on at the university. The League has functioned very successfully at the upstate institution this year, especially in campus politics, according to Miss Gaulke.

They have also taken up and studied matters of national importance with a view to making young women of colleges better citizens. Miss Gaulke indicated that a small well organized group can do much to overcome the "evils" of the campus politics.

Plans are being made for a program for next year of the local chapter of the League, according to Miss Dorothy Stouff, president of the State College Women Voters' league. Elections of League officers at this college will be held at the second meeting in May.

BETAS ELECT MISS NILLES PRESIDENT

Miss Lauretta Nilles was formally installed as president of the Delta Phi Beta sorority at installation service held in the sorority rooms Monday evening. Other officers of the chapter for the coming year are Evelyn Blakeslee, vice-president; Frances Ross, treasurer; Madelyn Parrott, recording secretary; Jayne Sudro, corresponding secretary; Elizabeth Cleveland, historian; Alta Berg, rushing captain, and Dorothea Anderson, sergeant at arms.

BISON STAFF BEGINS FACULTY SALES DRIVE

With the distribution of the 1928 Bison a month away, a strenuous faculty sales campaign is now being waged by the business staff of the yearbook, according to F. Ralph Hollands, Business Manager.

Students pay for their annual through their student activity fees but the faculty must pay for their books outright. Members of the administration may either pay the cash price of four dollars or pay two dollars as a deposit, the remainder to be paid when the book comes out.

The administration section of the Bison contains the pictures of the deans, heads of departments, and staff members of the various schools, which should be of value to the faculty. The book is a chronicle of the year activities, sports, and classes, besides carrying a Greater North Dakota section which contains a galaxy of statistics concerning the state. The faculty will find in the 1928 Bison a valuable reference of the school's activities during the school year.

Members of the Art club met Thursday evening at the art studio in science hall. Evelyn Morrow, president of the club, presided.

Plans for the Art ball to be held Saturday, April 30, were discussed at the meeting. The formal will be given in the art studio. Most of the evening was spent in arranging for decorations.

We hear that the Merchant of Venice is to be presented soon. We've never met him, but we'll look over his line.

Plane In Tailspin

Captain Sands was killed instantly at Bolling field Wednesday afternoon when his plane went into a tailspin at an altitude of 200 feet. The low altitude made control of the plane and escape impossible. Lieut. John L. Hosch, who was with Sands, was seriously injured.

The Fargo aviator who was commanding officer of the 364th observation squadron of the Army aviation reserve, was appointed administrative assistant to the the assistant secretary of commerce for aeronautics last fall. Captain Sands leaves his wife Mrs. Sands, who is connected with the college secretary's office; a daughter Elizabeth Jane, 5; his parents Mr. and Mrs. C. T. Sands, and two sisters Miss Leone Sands, teaching at Velva; and Virginia, a junior at State college.

The Fargo aviator was a World War veteran and was commissioned in the air force reserve shortly after the war. He was a close student of aeronautics and trained at several camps prior to accepting the Washington post.

Captain Sands had attended State college for the last two years and had been employed with the engineering division of the Northwestern Bell Telephone company. He was also a graduate of Fargo High school.
