BISON, NODAKS FOURTH CLASH THURSDAY

SCREEN VERSION OF SWEDISH NOVEL TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY

Second of College Y Pictures Shows Scandinavian Life of Past

"In Quest of Happiness" will be the second film version of the Scandinavian classics to be shown at 7:30 p. m. Thursday in the college armory.

The play is based on the novel "A Summer Romance", by Selma Lagerlof, a Swedish author. Dr. Lagerlof's story takes place in her own native locality, Varmland, the part of Sweden which she immortalized in "The Story of Gosta Berling", which won her the Nobel prize in literature.

Portrays Old Sweden

As the picture, "A Norway Lass", recently given, the Swedish drama is not meant to give any idea of contemporary Scandinavian life but rather to portray to the present second and third generations of Scandinavian settlers in North Dakota the cultural background under which their pioneer fathers and mothers grew up.

Ivan Hedquist of the Svenska Teatern and the Royal Dramatic theatre in Stockholm acts one of the leading parts. His "Cyrano de Bergerac" prominent as it is, is no more popular in Sweden than his Squire Theodore in the "Quest of Happiness", a part which he has played more than 400 times.

Has Colorful Setting

The main part of the picture was played at the Borgvik Ironworks in Varmland that dates back to the sixteenth century. The very dwelling which Squire Theodore uses in the picture is the one in which Charles XII spent his last night on Swedish soil before marching into Norway, to meet his death there in November 1718.

Anne Marie, "Dunungen", is played by the Swedish actress, Renee Bjorling who, popular as she is in Sweden, is barely out of her teens.

There are many quaint vehicles shown in "The Quest of Happiness", like the carriage, or chaise, in which the newly engaged pair drive to see Uncle Theodore and stir the rich old ironmaster to violent contempt. Strangest of all is Kavalersvognen, the cavalier's carriage—which bends and sways beneath the weight of the Squire's two bachelor friends as they drive to Uncle Theodore's manor house in Varmland they call this kind of carriage a "witch jumper", the owner of the one used in this play was prevailed upon to present it to the famous open air museum of Skansen at Stockholm.

Swedish melodies will be played between acts and reports will be given of the game in Grand Forks.

Cy has been playing on a league-leading post team at Quantico, Va., and Thompson has been supervising his play as coach. Arnold will play on a quint at Philadelphia. The former Fargoans also inspected an ocean liner that was scheduled to take 2200 Marines to Nicaragua.

JACOBSON TO BE EDITOR ON RECORD

CITY ENGINEER, S. C. GRADUATE ACCEPTS POST ON ENGINEERING JOURNAL—TARBELL SUCCEEDS

R. T. Jacobson, formerly city engineer, left for New York City Monday to take a position on the editorial staff of the Engineering News Record. He will visit for several days in Minneapolis before beginning his new duties.

Mr. Jacobson, who is a graduate of the North Dakota State college, was selected from a group of about 150 applicants for assistant editorship on the Engineering News Record. The Record has a large staff of assistant editors who specialize in different branches of engineering. Mr. Jacobson stated that he will be responsible for articles on water supply.

Park Tarbell, also a graduate of this college, will succeed Mr. Jacobson as city engineer. During Mr. Jacobson's service as city engineer many improvements in city property have been made, among which are the enlargement of the filtration plant. Both men are alumni members of Delta Pi fraternity, engineering society at the college.

STAGING OF PEER GYNT ON MAR. 9, 10 TO BE EXPERIMENT

Will Be Adaption Of Great Drama to Small Stage Theatre

In giving an experimental production of "Peer Gynt", a play in five acts in verse by Henrik Ibsen, on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, March 9 and 10, at the Little Country theatre, the Little country theatre players hope to show that a difficult piece of dramatic literature can be effectively presented on a small stage, according to A. G. Arvold, head of the public discussions department, who is directing the production.

"When one considers the countless numbers of people who live in small towns and in country communities," Mr. Arvold said, "the question naturally arises why should these folk be denied the privilege of occasionally seeing a large drama, simply because a large playhouse is necessary for its production?"

"An occasional attempt to present a difficult play that has a great thought back of it would never do any small town or country community any harm. It would doubtless stimulate the creative instinct in the people who live in what civilization terms 'these out of the way places.' It was with this thought in mind that The Little Country Theatre Players chose Peer Gynt."

Harold Fog, who is taking the part of "Peer Gynt" is a young farmer from Fort Ransom, N. D. He was born near Copenhagen, Denmark, and before coming to America read this masterpiece of Ibsen's in the original several times. For the past eight weeks he has been rehearsing the lines daily. It is needless to say that he will give an interesting interpretation of the character. "Aase" Peer Gynt's mother, is being taken by Constance Melchoir, who has done some extraordinary pieces of character

WAHPETON CAGERS GAIN EARLY LEAD IN GAME FEATURED BY CLOSE GUARDING

The Wahpeton Science quint, that shares intercollegiate state championship honors with the Valley City Teachers thumped the Baby Bison Friday by a 24 to 16 victory over the first yearmen. Bute's cagers were able to maintain their early lead throughout the game. The game was featured by close guarding on both teams. At the half, the Wahpeton quint led 15-8.

The defensive work of the Yearlings was more effective in the second period with the teams playing on more even terms than in the initial stanza.

Smith and Hayes led the Bison attack with Hayes leading his teammates in the scoring department. Basset and Achter figured strongly in the victory of the Science crew.

STATE BASKETEERS LOSE ERRATIC TILT TO FLICKERS, 27-20

Hermes Hurt Early in Game Bison Shooting Ragged Viegel Stars

A students' special will leave the Great Northern depot at 3:30 p. m. Thursday for the final Bison-Nodak game at Grand Forks for state honors. The rain leaves Grand Forks at 9:30 p. m. Round trip fare will cost $2.82. Students are to attend two afternoon classes.

By Dick Hackenberg

Determined to offset the basketball fiasco of last Saturday, Coach Saalwachter and his Bison squad invade Universityville Thursday to even the four game net series. On the team leaving Fargo at 10 a. m. that morning will be three veterans. Claude Miller and Capt. Jug Newgard play their last game for a State college quint, as will Carl Hansen, utility forward.

3 Bison Close Carrers

With the passing of Miller and Newgard, goes the last vestige of the court combination which Coach Ad Dewey built up four years ago. Claude Miller will be remembered for his grid antics, particularly against the Nodaks, whom he singularly again meets in his final game. Capt. Newgard shifted to guard this year, plays an aggressive game on both the grid and court. He will return for football next fall. Hansen's utility work has been valuable, handicapped as Coach Saalwachter is for reserves.

Dutch Hermes, who cracked his knee in Saturday's game, will be ready for the final clash if more black cats do not intervene before Thursday night.

Otherwise Saaly's five are set to again hoop a victory away from the home wigwam. Black cats, cross-eyed men, and Friday the 13th couldn't have made matters much worse Saturday night when the invading Nodaks out-pointed the battling Bison 27 to 20 before the largest crowd to pack the armory this season. This victory put

THAT LAST GAME!

A special train will leave at 3:30 p. m. Thursday for the University where will be played the final Bison game of the season. It will be the final game for three veteran athletes of the school. Needless to say, the Flickertails would win this final game and the state championship.

Our team has demonstrated their ability to win games in the Nodak's bailiwick, even though they seemed jinxed at home. Basketball is not a major educational subject at our college, but it is certainly a major unifying agent for our student body. The rally tomorrow morning at 11 a. m. will demonstrate that. You're not going to be asked to come. You'll be there.

We do want you on that Special at 3:30 o'clock Thursday, for several reasons. We know we have a team the equal of the Flickertails. The Bison have shown superior offensive power—that despite the need shown for elastic basketball hoops last Saturday.

Moreover, an athlete who has scarcely his peer on any Bison grid or court team closes his athletic career Thursday. Little need be said of Claudie Miller. His pet diversion of beating the University on the gridiron is known. You will have a final glimpse of his play against the University Thursday.

Capt. Jug Newgard plays his last cage game also. He returns for football next year, however. You don't have to be an idol worshipper to appreciate the class of either player. Carl Hansen is the third senior playing Thursday.

From your individual standpoint, you may inwardly say, "I can't afford it, financially or scholastically". Did you ever stop to realize what a miser thinks. An education is not alone measured in coin or marks. They are first, but after all spiritual things balance the material matters. College spirit is an evolutionary step toward public spirit. Don't cramp yourself.

ENGINEERS AND GENERAL ARTS

The appointment of Robert T. Jacobson to an assistant editorship of an engineering journal in New York City and the naming of W. Park Tarbell as acting city engineer in his place should have especial significance to students at this college. Mr. Jacobson received his bachelors degree from State College in 1917 as did Park Tarbell a year later.

The positions held by the two men indicate graduates in engineering from our School of Mechanic Arts are fitted for responsible positions. But they signify something more as well. Not so long ago the issue of maintaining a school in general arts was broached. We know that the above case is but one of the innumerable answers justifying a complete course in general arts at our college.

We do not say that Mr. Jacobson or any other graduate from our technical schools owes any appointment as the late city engineer received to a school in general arts. An engineering student may know how to express himself in written or oral form before coming here. He may glean that knowledge indirectly. But certainly knowing how opens up a wider field in engineering or any other science for him.

The man who can teach bridge building, who can write and speak on technical subjects is as vital to our scheme of industry as the man who actually does the bridge building. We should specialize but not limit education to the technic alone.

Giant Bat Inhabits Tree Areas of State---Bailey

BOOKLET DESCRIBES ANIMAL LIFE, HABITS, AND TOPOGRAPHY OF NORTH DAKOTA

Bats with a wing spread of 16 inches spend their summers in North Dakota. From a study it has been discovered that these bats migrate a wide Borea Irange across the northern part of the continent. Each fall they fly south to the southern border of the United States where they winter.

Bat Carries Young

These winged mammals belong to the family of common bats and are called the great gray bat. Specimens that have been examined show 32 teeth; a wing spread of 16 inches; ears that are short and rounded with black naked rims, and fur that is soft with yellowish brown and a frosted white above and below. The mother bat carries her young with her while in flight.

Habits Described

The great gray bats are powerful and rapid fliers. They usually appear late in the evening and are rarely noticed except by bat hunters. During the day they hang head downward in clusters of leaves. Little is known of the food habits of the great gray bats except that they are insectivorous and capture their food on wing in swift flight.

The above piece of interesting information has been gleaned from a biological survey of the state, recently compiled in book form by Vernon Bailey. In the 226-page booklet on Physiography and Life Zones and the Mammals of North Dakota, Mr. Bailey has given a vivid description of all the mammals found living in North Dakota in the past and at the present time. He tells which are harmful and which are he useful ones to man.

The booklet describes the hoofed animals, cattle, sheep, goats, antelope, deer and the American bison. The order of Rodentia or gnawing animals such as the squirrels, chipmunks, prairie dags, pale flying squirrels and black squirrels is touched upon.

OAK ROOTED FRUIT TREES

UNRELIABLE, SAYS YEAGER

Plum and apple trees grafted onto root stalks representing the hardier plum and apple species, either wild or tame, are recommended by Professor A. F. Yeager, horticulturist at the college.

Grafting plum and apple trees onto oak roots is an impossibility, says Mr. Yeager. This type of fruit tree has recently been advertised in the state. People should stay by the fruits recommended for North Dakota, advises Professor Yeager. A list of recommended fruits for the state has been published for 1927 and is available to anyone who writes to the department of horticulture at the Agricultural college.

YMCA'S GIVEN FIRST DEFEAT BY WHIPPETS

The second round of the Independent League started with the "Y" quint defeating the Barracks by a 25-10 score. The Wolves succeeded in defeating the Architects by a 17-8 count. The Tappa Kegs nosed out the Bearcats by a 16-14 win.

Play in the second round was resumed on Thursday evening with the Barracks defeating the Architects by a 19-15 count. The Whippets traveled at a fast pace to stop the winning streak of the Y. M. C. A. quint. The Whippets turned back the "Y" basket- eers by a 21-20 score. The Tappa Kegs took much of the prestige won by the Whippets by vanquishing them 20-18. The Farm Husbandry cagers fell prey to the Wolves by a 17-16 count. The Bearcats were handed a 17-7 drubbing at the hands of the "Y" in the third game of the second series.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Everett Wallum

That merry fest in the armory Saturday night had but one sad feature. We lost.

The University may have out yelled us, but they didn't have as big a howl coming as we did.

The only way we could have made baskets that night was to go to the factory.

CHICAGO MUST HAVE BEEN THE ONLY PLACE WHERE ANY GOOD SHOOTING WAS DONE THAT NIGHT.

The game probably should have been played outside where we would have had more room to miss them.

We knew the basket was popular, but we didn't know we'd miss it that much.

McPherson made a couple field goals that weren't counted probably because the basketball didn't know the password.

THE BASKET WAS VERY MUCH LIKE OUR LEGISLATURE. YOU COULDN'T GET ANYTHING THROUGH IT.

Anyway, we made quite a mob of touchdowns.

If all the groans, that came from the Bison section that night, were laid end to end, you'd have to use a lot of imagination to see 'em.

NOBODY LOVES A FAT MAN—IN A CROWDED ARMORY.

There were so many there that it wouldn't do any good to faint.

Sport scribes said that the University played a driving game. A riding game too, perhaps.

How can they tax the armory to capacity when the aged structure is about bankrupt?

The Creightonian said that the armory must have been built by a Scotchman. Some more propaganda against the Scotch, probably.

THE BASKETS MUST HAVE BEEN MADE BY A NEEDLE COMPANY.

They ought to have eleven men on a basketball team so that more students can get in to see the game.

If yelling raises roofs, how come their isn't snow on the armory floor.

We are practically convinced, however, that yelling raises the roof of one's mouth.

WELL, WE'LL SEE YOU ON THE TENDER OF THE SPECIAL TRAIN.

Fourth Clash on Thursday

the University ahead in the state race for court honors.

Hermes Hurt

For the first six minutes of the first half the Thundering Herd tore along at its usual pace, predicting dire calamity for the up-state quint and taking the lead 8-5. Then the jinx strode into the armory, and a second later Hermes, star Bison forward, was lying on the floor with an injured knee and calling for time. Two time-outs were necessary to put the important cog of the Bison machine back in again, but the rhythmic offense of the Solly troupe was shaken into an inferiority complex. The start of play found them playing with a reckless abandon that showered shots at the hoop but failed to boost the score any.

Viegel Rampages

Les Viegel, Nodak guard, sent the Bison into the rut from which they never emerged. With a dash and daring that was unstoppable Viegel counted five baskets and took care of the defense by his offense. The Bison were able to make only nine out of 58 attempts from the field and 2 out of 18 free throws, as against the Nodaks 11 goals from 22 tries.

Goldberg, displacing Paul Boyd, opened hostilities with a long shot that set the "U" ahead but Hermes came through with a beauty from back of mid-court and tied it up. McPherson tipped in a short one and Lee duplicated when Holzer's decision was not made clear to the Bison who failed to cover on an out-of-bounds play. Mac scored again under the basket and Hahn took a pass to score from mid-court. Letich made one of two free throws and then the whole Bison team must have walked under a ladder. freesB yfi, . InNew a ladder. Hermes was injured and after a four-minute recuperation period was able to resume play. Shortly after Lee and Boe scored, but Hahn tied it at 9 all.

Les Viegel drove down the court twice for counters sending the invaders into a lead they never relinquished. McPherson scored for his third time and Viegel did likewise. Hahn brought the count to 15 to 13 and Boe dropped in a free throw making it 16 to 13 for the Flickers a the halfway mark.

Boe and Viegel kept up the good work in the second period with a free throw and a score respectively and Letich pumped in a long one to make it 21 to 13. Viegel pounded the sphere to the basket and the Nodaks lead by ten points. Miller found the hoop for the first Bison tally of the period and after the Bison had rained shots at the basket Lee took the ball and deposited same at the other end of the floor. Hahn counted a long one and Goldberg made a free throw. McPherson made three points on a basket and a free throw setting the score at 26 to 20. Letich sen the ball down charity lane for the final tally ending things 27 to 20 for the Flickertails.

MODEL HOUSEKEEPERS HOLD A "MOVING DAY"

Saturday was moving day at the practice house. At that time the residents of the house for the last eight weeks turned over the model home to five other seniors in the School of Home Economics.

The seniors who now stay at the practice house are: Grace Bayliss, Marguerite Jongeward, Helen Curran, Dorothy Stoudt and Jane Rutherford.

Those who have completed their stay at the house are: Erble Steen, Mavis Peterson, Adele Wood, Della Johnson and Myrtle Sagen. Every student taking the professional course in home economics is required to live at the practice house. Duties of the household and its management are scientifically worked out there. The growth in the home economics enrollment has made necessary a change in schedules. Seniors now have three eight week periods instead of two 12 week periods of residence work.

Over the Rim of Grand Canyon

He Threw This Pen and It Struck Unharmred on the Jagged Rocks a Half Mile Below

Non-breakable Pen Barrel? Dr. F. C. Morse of the National Park-to-Park Highway Association was unconvinced.

So recently to test the new Parker Duofold-barrel, he stood on the rim of Grand Canyon and threw this pen into the rock-lined chasm.

When the pen was recovered amid the jagged rocks a half mile below the canyon's edge, it was scratched a bit, but quite unbroken.

When the cap was removed the point was as good as ever—a point guaranteed for 25 years, not only for mechanical perfection but for wear!

You cannot get Duofold quality in any pen save that stamped "Geo. S. Parker." Look carefully for this. Any good pen counter would like you to try this classic.

work in the Little Country Theatre plays in the last four years. Miss Melchoir's home is in Fargo.

Charlotte Blake, who has been cast off the part of "Solveig", and Amy Erickson for the character of "Ingrid" are both from Fargo. Jorgen Birkeland from Warwick, N. D. will interpret the Dover King's part in a clever manner. Carl Ash, from near Hallock, Minn., has been given the character of "Alsak", the blacksmith. Evelyn Blakeslee, Fargo, will give Anita's dance. In short, all of the characters are being taken by people who possess a keen sense of interpretation.

"One of the interesting features in connection with the production," said Mr. Arvod, "is the fact that all of the scenes to be used in the play are being painted by the young men and women whose homes are out on the prairies of this great northwest. Practically all of the costumes are being made in the same manner. The music for the play will be given by an orchestra of 20 young men and women under the direction of Fred Byerly, who comes from Velva, N. D.

"Suffice it to say that no pains will be spared to make the production effective in every respect. Inasmuch as there are only 350 seats in the Little Country Theatre, persons who wish to attend he play either night should communicate with the Little Country Theatre immediately. From reports already received from various people over the state and western Minnesota, two crowded houses are assured for both performances.
