KAPPA PHIS, DELTA SIGMAS WIN GAMES IN CAMPUS LEAGUE

KAPPA PHIS FORGE AHEAD IN LEAGUE; MORROW SHUTS OUT KAPPA PSIS 10 TO 0.

Pounding Myers for nine safeties in a seven inning game Monday, the Kappa Phi crew defeated the Theta Chi team 9 to 1 and shoved them out of a tie for first place. In Wednesday's tussle the Delta Sigs downed the Kappa Psi team 10 to 0 with Morrow pitching a one-hit no-run game. It was the Sig's first victory of the season.

The Kappa Phis started to tighten their hold on first place when they pushed six scores over the platter in the fourth frame on successive errors of the Theta Chi team and bingles by Arnold and Fuller. In the fifth Fuller clouted out a homer scoring Trom ahead of him and in the seventh Steedsman scored Sailer on a double to right field. The Chis ran their only score over the rubber in the sixth when Millard got on an error and scored on Hamilton's single, the only Theta Chi clout of the game.

Howel started the Delta Sig scoring with a home run into the right field scoring Bryant ahead of him. Singles by Morrow, Lee, Gray and Bowers, coupled with two Kappa Psi errors sent four more over making it 6 to 0 at the end of the inning. In the second Gray scored Morrow with a single and in the fifth the Sigs added three more. In the sixth added three more. Dinyer was the only man to knock one of Morrow's offerings for a safety, a short hit back of second.

1927 BISON IS OUT AFTER MONTHS OF WORK BY EDITORS

BOOK OF 304 PAGES WITH UNIQUE FEATURES MAY BE GOTTEN AT BISON OFFICE—EDITED BY CARRIE DOLPHIN.

Your 1927 Bison can be gotten today at the Bison office between the hours of 1:00 p. m. and 4:30 p. m., according to announcement of Emery Putnam, business manager.

When the pent up desires of the past few weeks break loose today, the Bison office and vicinity may resemble that of a department store before eight o'clock opening on dollar day. Happily, hat pins have departed from the old fashioned bargain rush. But Bison day will be one of bargains, nevertheless. Bisons will be at a premium this year and the Spectrum unreservedly advises students to get their 1927 copy at once.

The Bison management offers a two dollar prize to the first person to get a Bison today, according to Carrie Dolphin, editor-in-chief. The persons getting books numbered 50, 100, and 150 will each receive one dollar.

This year's publication has been printed by the Knight Printing company. The Brock engravers, Madison, Wis., have furnished the cuts for the book. The editor has, with the assistance of her staff and business management turned out one of the largest and best Bisons in recent years. Its title may well bear the title of the monarch of the prairies throughout its pages it pays homage to the passing Redman and bison.

INDIANS GIVE FEAST DANCE HERE TODAY

Sixty Indian children present the cantata "The Feast of the Red Corn" at the Armory this morning. They are students from the school at Bismarck and represent three reservations, Fort Yates, Fort Berthold and Turtle Mountain reservation districts.

Under the direction of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Dickinson, superintendent of the Bismarck school, the Indian students will reproduce the triumphal and interpretive dances of their forefathers. Many of the dances are seasonal and the "Feast of the Red Corn" will be in the nature of an Indian dance of Thanksgiving.

The chorus group has played engagements at Jamestown and Valley City. An added feature of the performance will be the playing of the Indian band. Their instruments will be of native type in some instances.

PHARMACISTS' ELECT SAMPSON PRESIDENT

George Sampson was elected president of the North Dakota Pharmacy club at their regular meeting Tuesday evening. He succeeds Eugene Forrest.

YEA-A-A! BISON!

Students read with reluctance nowadays. There is one book, however, that will be well thumbed before the day is over.

That is the Bison of 1927.

The book is a monumental work compiled after months of collaboration on the staff's part. With due credit to the eighteen staff members, the burden of praise must still rest with its editor-in-chief, Carrie Dolphin.

The Bison of 1927 will be one of the most representative and artistic books presented to the students in late years. The volume is not the hastily compiled work of a reluctant staff; but is a book that had its inception almost simultaneously with the release of the preceding Bison. Miss Dolphin has succeeded in doing something that the Spectrum editor has longingly looked forward to—the organization of a staff. Possibly her staff at times suffered paralytic strokes. If so, she has effectively covered it in her publication, by self-sacrifice, or other endowments.

Organization had seeped into the Bison publishing mechanism. Winsomely did the Spectrum editor on his occasional Friday gaze day after day, across the room to the Bison office precincts. A huge chart with innumerable squares still hangs there on the wall. It was a mystic code to Miss Dolphin's progress. Early in November, the chart began to take on cubist characteristics. Soon bright and vari-colored triangles gave it an Egyptian hue. Perhaps such hyroglyphics were essential to making obelisks, pyramids. Perhaps some Bison editor in 1986 will, too, call in the archeologist, the philologist, and his patrons to a gigantesque student body, say 10,000, 15,000. They will ponder over Carrie's chart, as has the writer.

By then old Main may have crumbled into memories; cries for a new library will have had new birth. But few of us will be hanging around. Still the Bison of 1927, dust covered though it be, will substantiate the perseverance, the qualities of its editor and her assistants.

TRADITIONS.

There will be no Gay Cat Day this year. Authorities pleaded expediency in doing away with it at May Festival time. The short time remaining leaves no opening on the college calendar. So tradition gets another slap in the face. Some will shout in glee.

Traditions are not necessarily gray-bearded appendages to college life. They are unifying elements. Classes at this college are seemingly illusory terms. We stumble along and in time come out of the maze as seniors, class of—

Gay Cat Day or its equivalent in other colleges has always been an event that fostered two great parts of character, loyalty and fight. College life should develop the positive pole in human character. We are never too aggressive, perseverant; though, we may be brazen, facetious.

Then Gay Cat Day is a natural outcropping of spring influences after a drab winter regimen. It is foolish to attempt to hold the day in October as was lately attempted. Snow flakes could not brighten festive minds though the two were in common. We cannot overlook the benefits of Gay Cat Day. Would not you as a Senior regret to see the torch of class spirit, class loyalty, incidentally good citizenship, that you handed on become but a charred fagot?

WE APPRECIATE your past patronage and solicit your future work. When you think of laundry call the DIXON for service and quality. We darn sox and sew on buttons without extra charge.

Bison of 1927 Has Many Unique Features, Is Larger

INDIAN IS SYMBOLIC GUIDE THROUGH BOUND PANORAMA OF A. C. LIFE.

By Wade Boardman.
THE BISON IS OUT!

The Bison of 1927 today takes its place in history. A lasting tribute to a well-deserving institution and a highly eventful year—Our Bison. Its olive drab binding when seen on the den table in years to come will signify a year, two, three, four years, spent with the old crowd at A. C. This is our Bison—out today.

The day that the "Annual" comes out is one of the most exciting days of the school year. When spring comes, when school is almost over, there is no student who does not think of the day of the annual. This year much has been promised. Much has been expected. All will be pleased. Last week it was, "When is the Bison coming out?" Today it is, "Have you seen it?" Tomorrow it will be, "What a book!"

The obstacles of previous years were all swept away this year, when the staff had something definite to work upon. Every student paid for his book when he paid his fees. The business manager then had something tangible in the way of an estimate, and was able to draw up his budget without being falsely conservative. With more books being published, the manager went to the best possible concerns for his work. Having done this, the advertising occupied the time and the mind of the business manager, E. T. Putnam. The advertisement section is his work.

Carrie Dolphin, Editor.

The most striking thing of the whole book is its originality and complete uniformity. The editor, Miss C. L. Dolphin, her initiative and untiring effort, and her supervision is seen throughout. Let the book itself be her tribute.

Not one of the three hundred-four pages of the book is lacking in interest or beauty. The fly-leaf is a work of art, which serves to introduce the predominating feature, the life of the Indian. How appropriate for our school of the Dakota prairies and for our Bison in this strain. The Indian serves as a connecting link for the whole, he tells the story. Title pages are built around him, beautiful pages of colors he furnishes. Follow his story from beginning to end and marvel at it.

The dedication is something never seen before, and unlike most dedications, contains a thought. Read it twice, pause a bit for reflection, and the proceed.

Has Indian Setting.

Can anyone pass by the five two-tone drawings in the "Happy Hunting Grounds" without exclamation? An architect's work without doubt. True, C. F. Bowers is responsible.

"The Big Chief," and "The Tribe" contain very good cuts, clear, distinct and lifelike. The faculty members, and the upper classmen will turn first to this section, for herein are to be found their pictures and their short writeups. A more well balanced section could not be found. Erle Steen and Betty Sheldon edited these sections.

A complete story in pictures is told in "Skookum Days." Not a jumbled mass of snapshots, but an orderly, well organized, chronological section is this, edited by Herman Herland. Events from hazing to commencement of interest to everyone from the frosh to the seniors, are all recorded.

The largest section is that of athletics, entitled "Games." It includes honor pages, pages of the individual games with pictures of them, the most accurate record of the most victorious athletic year in the history of our school. It is well worthy of the champs, too. If anything could have an appeal to high school students, this section must have it. The special features of the section are reviews written by such authorities as Coach Cortright, "Stan" Borleske, and "Pat" Purcell, not to mention the editors, Carlton Lindquist and Dick Hackenberg.

"War Paint" does tribute to the military department, three times winners of the Gold Star. Note the clearness of the cuts in this section, rare for outdoor pictures. Robert Sanderson planned this section.

"Pow-Wows" contain all of the activities and occasions of the campus. Governing bodies, publications, dramatics, forensics, and music are here. Social and special events are to be found.

"The Old Grads" sub-section is of interest to everyone, alumni, student, ad prospective student. This is something new, being the work of T. W. Thordarson. Ralph Hollands edited this large and interesting section.

The organizations, clubs, fraternities, and sororities, can find their group pictures, their records, and their snap-shot pictures in Hamilton's section, "The Clans." Following this comes the section, "Young Braves", which is the pride of the A. M. A. High School and of the Industrial Course. This is their "annual" complete itself, and edited by Al Bordeleau, Arthur Johnson, and Harry Nordquist.

Perhaps the most interesting section of the year book is the satire section. Stewart Schlipf's "Scalps" contains laugh upon laugh, accrued and accumulated. This editor is both a cartoonist and a humorist. His tongue, though biting at times, acts in response to his ready wit, and acts in this case as the cigar after the hearty banquet. No campus celebrity escapes, no fraternity can hide, all is brought out. This section should not be read by fat people.

Enough. The Bison is out.

E BULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blott—Himself.

A Chinese publication is not necessarily an example of "yellow" journalism.

College publications rarely sanction "yellow" journalism. Why, this very column is the only "Blott" on the Spectrum's career.

While the Bison of 1927 is "yellow" only in its golden glow of excellency.

It's pages are as full of cheer as the long-forgotten bartender used to be on Christmas eve.

With due respect to the neglected many wonders with her staff as Aaron conjured with his.

And if you don't know what Aaron did with his staff, it's high time you read some of that old—but yet new—journalistic effort.

Speaking of religion, you have to have a lot of it to keep from swearing when the editor of the Spectrum sings.

"Eefy" has an ear and eye for news—and a voice that would turn it away. All this goes to show that he is very versatile.

In all seriousness, however, Mr. Fitzgerald has done more to popularize the Spectrum than Volstead has the pocket flask.

Journalism is a ticklish affliction. If a writer doesn't give accurate accounts he has about as much chance with the injured as that noble character, Red Writing Hood, had with the wolf.

I am safe, however, people can shoot at ablot all day, and yet—it will still be a Blott.

Even at that, a Mr. Head, whose initials were "M. I." had just cause for anger when a newspaper printed it "M. T."

It could be said that this column is the making of the college. It is always making fun of something or other.

Just to be mean, I ought to pull that old wheeze about having the above printed on tissue paper so that you could see through it. But no! I wont.

Our good exponent of journalism, Prof. Johnson, should patent his version of teacher advertising, the manu- of of which is: (girls need not look, though the temptation may be great) "discard the coat and vest, roll up the shirt sleeves (if there be any), mount a table, and lastly but not firstly—beligerently face the class."

Maybe when he stepped on the table he just wanted to attain great heights in "ad" teaching.

Journalist Schlipf, by the way, edited the Bison once. It is to be hoped this will not esriously affect his career.

There is absolutely no truth in the rumor that the Board of Publications was taken from an evergreen.

A journalist is a person who, when writing fo a publication, has an inexhaustible command of the vocabulary—but when writing to a sweetheart, can't use over four different words.

Whoever wrote the dictionary had an excellent vocabulary.

HOSTER WINS AD WRITING CONTEST

FIFTY STUDENTS ENTERED ADS; HOSTER WITH HOLLANDS ALSO WON BISON AD CONTEST.

Walter S. Hoster was announced winner in the ad contest conducted by T. W. Johnson, journalism instructor, for the class in advertising. Victor H. Wahl was second with Joseph M. Kuhn placing third. Fourth place went to Christine Walhood with Stewart Schlipf and Henry E. Wangen placing in order. Mr. Hoster with Ralph Hollands recently won first in the Bison ad contest.

Conditions of the contest were the writing of either a telephone directory or a newspaper ad for the Henry D. Brown Dry Cleaning Co.

Prizes as awarded were Walter S. Hoster, first, $7.50; Victor H. Wahl, second, $5; Joseph M. Kuhn, third, $2.50. The others to place were each awarded one dollar. Judges of the fifty ads entered were Harry Hill, Fargo Forum; Henry D. Brown and W. T. Johnson.

"Refresh your clothes" was the key phrase of the winning ad chosen, according to the judges, because of its atmosphere of suggestiveness.

In commenting on the contest, Harry Hill stated that "They were the best ads he ever saw in a contest."

Because of the growth of the membership in ad writing classes, advertising will probably be made a three credit course next year, states Mr. Johnson. Advertising enrollments increased fifty per cent this year.

CULPEPPER CUP GIVEN D COMPANY BY BROWN

Sergeant Chris Culpepper's silver loving cup, awarded annually to the best drilled company finds a new owner this year.

Company D, drilled by Captain Paul Revell, wins the cup for 126 on a hair-line decision. Company D and Co. B, under Captain Elmer Mark's command were tied on every item of competition until the final day of inspection. Lieut.-Col. Lewis Brown, Jr., Federal inspecting officer, was asked to decide. Reports are that after marching back and forth before the rifle racks in question, he perceived an eyelet in one of B company's belts awry and awarded the decision to D company. Sergeant Culpepper states that the award was actually awarded on the belt arrangemtn of the company on inspection day.

Officers in charge of D company are Captain Paul Revell, Captain Robert Burns, 1st lieutenants Walter Boerth, and Einar Smeby, 1st sergeant Ted Fuller and Sgt. Bruce Rutherford.

It is the second time that D company has won the cup. C company, under Capt. Verne McCaul, now in the Marine Corps at New Orleans, won the cup last year. Company D won it the year prior and A company tok it the first year.

We skillfully temper the point to yield to any hand, yet resume its original shape, so no style of writing can distort it.

It is magnified many diameters, and five times inspected by Parker experts. Barrel of Rich Black and Gold, or Black-tipped Lacquer-red—handsome to own, hard to mislay.
