EDWIN BOOTH CLUB TO PRESENT SPRING TERM PLAY FRIDAY

SHAKESPEARE'S FIVE ACT COMEDY, "AS YOU LIKE IT", TO BE GIVEN IN LITTLE COUNTRY THEATRE FRIDAY EVENING.

"As You Like It," a five act comedy written by William Shakespeare, will be presented by the Edwin Booth Dramatic Club Friday evening at 8:00 P. M. in the Little Country Theatre. The players have been working under the direction of Professor Arvold and Miss Edith Chaley. The Shakespearian comedy will be the third and regular spring term play annually given by the club.

Leading roles in the play are taken by Dorothy Kretzschmar and Wade Boardman, both juniors. Miss Kretzschmar plays the part of Rosalind; Orlando is characterized by Mr. Boardman.

Much of the drama has its setting in the forest of Arden. Characteristically Shakespearian, the action involves duke and layman alike in the intricacies of love and difficulties, as only the English dramatist could.

COMMONERS HEAR FORESTRY LEADER

Professor C. B. Waldron, instructor in forestry and horticulture, addressed members of the Commons Club at a dinner given at the Commercial club Monday evening. His address dealt with forestry and phases of tree culture and protection.

This week is National Forestry week. Literature is being distributed by the national American Forestry association to educate the public upon the preservation of forests. An exhibit on the bulletin board in the agricultural building contains a series of 15 short bulletins on forestry. Professor Waldron is the state leader in charge of forestry work in North Dakota.

MEMBERS OF ART CLUB CANCEL ANNUAL BALL.

The annual ball of the Art Club, which was scheduled for April 24 has been cancelled, and the members are planning on holding an open air party later in the season when the weather is more favorable, according to the committee in charge of the party.

PLANS COMPLETE FOR SENIOR PROM

HARRY SMITH AND HIS RED JACKETS TO FURNISH MUSIC FOR ANNUAL SENIOR PARTY.

Preliminary plans for the Senior Prom, which will be held in the college Armory on May 9, are complete, according to a statement given out by Cyril H. Arnold, manager of the annual party, Sunday.

Harry Smith and his Red Jackets have been secured to furnish the music for the party, according to a report made by Eugene Ostman, head of the committee in charge of the music.

Attendance at the party will be limited to 125 couples, and it will be necessary to secure tickets early to be assured of admittance, as no tickets can be reserved for any long period of time with such a limited number available, was the edict issued by those in charge of the ticket sale. Tickets were placed on sale yesterday, and may be procured at the Bison office or at Sherdahl's, 72 Broadway.

Cyril Arnold and his partner, Miss Dorothy Stout, will lead the grand march which will open the formal dancing at 9:00 P. M. Thomas Regan, assistant manager, and his partner, Miss Marie Crary, will be second in the line of march.

IMPORTANT BUSINESS TO BE CONSIDERED BY STUDENT BOARD

SPECIAL ELECTION DATE AND CONSTITUTIONAL CHANGES SLATED FOR CONSIDERATION AT MEETING TONIGHT.

Several important measures are slated for consideration at a special meeting of the student commission in the Spectrum office at 7:00 P. M. today, according to a statement by Bill Gray, president of the board, last evening.

A definite date for Gay Cat Day will be set at tonight's meeting, and according to the board head the most probable date for selection will be Friday, May 14. The commission members have been in constant touch with Mr. Arvold, who is in charge of arrangements for the annual May Festival, and the date has been sanctioned by him. According to present plans, all entertainment features in connection with the day would be finished in the morning, the afternoon being given over to the choice of the students. The trial events in the annual May Festival track meet are slated for the afternoon, and it was considered best to allow the students to attend the meet.

Student Court Proposed.

The proposed changes in the commission constitution will be given their final reading, and approval made upon the proposed changes. A special election date for student approval on the proposed changes will be set also.

The proposed revival of the student court will be given lengthy consideration, and the possibility of putting the court into immediate action discussed. The organization of the court will also be completed at tonight's meeting.

The extent to which the constitution will be revised has not been made public but it is rumored that some drastic changes will be placed before the students for approval at the special election.

In connection with the Gay Cat Day celebration, the board will suggest new ideas and new forms of entertainment for the annual frolic.

A. C. MAN IS BEST INFORMED TOLEDOAN

Toledo took out her scales the other day and weighed the intellects of her citizens. She conceded first honors to a graduate of this school, Clarence H. Waldron. Mr. Waldron is the son of C. B. Waldron, professor of horticulture at the college. He graduated from this school when 18 years of age.

Winning the title of the "best informed" man in Toledo, Ohio, was an easy matter for the younger Waldron who answered 21 questions out of 25 pertaining to general events having happened in the past ten years. The contest was conducted by the Toledo Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Waldron now conducts seed laboratories in Toledo and Washington, D. C. After graduating from the A. C. he became state botanist for South Carolina.

SHEPPERD TO MAKE TOUR OF INSPECTION THIS WEEK.

J. H. Shepperd, head of the animal husbandry department, left Monday for Bowman, where he will meet government and state agents to make a tour of inspection of the ranching districts in North Dakota and Montana. He expects to be gone most of the week.

WAR PICTURES TO BE RUN IN ARMORY TOMORROW EVENING

RUTH VON SEIN IS NAMED SPONSOR FOR DRUM AND BUGLE CORPS—MESS AT 6:30 IN LOG CABIN.

Bison cadets will be reviewed tomorrow afternoon by Captain Matt Murphy, commanding officer of the Fargo-Moorhead Officers' Mess, and about fifteen reserve officers. The parade will form with first call being given at 1:07 and review and inspection of the unit will continue to be held during the half hour drill period.

Captain Smith has invited the reserve officers of Fargo and Moorhead to form the line of review. Major Benjamin C. Poore, commanding general of the Seventh Corps area will be unable to be present during the day which will be an eventful one of military features.

New Sponsor Elected.

Announcement was made Friday that Miss Ruth Von Sein was elected sponsor of the Bugle and Drum Corps. Miss Von Sein has the distinction of being the first young woman of the college to receive the honor of being elected to the newly organized corps. The Reserve Officers' mess will hold its monthly dinner at the Log Cabin in the Administration building at 6:30 P. M.

At eight o'clock Wednesday evening seven reels of actual war action pictures will be shown in the armory. There will be no admission fee.

During the World War the Signal Corps of the army took moving pictures of American troops in action in all of the major offensives of 1917 and 1918. This consists of a series of five reels entitled "Flashes of Action." The picture is not a commercial one and has only been shown at rare intervals since the late war. The pictures are used primarily by the War Department for instructional purposes at military schools and encampments. The Officers' Mess has secured the uses of the pictures as the concluding lesson of a regular army correspondence course which they have been attending during the past winter under the direction of Capt. J. P. Glandon. Permission from the War Department has been received for showing of the pictures to the public. Three reels of pictures depicting student life at West Point are also to be shown.

A section of the main floor of the armory has been reserved for officers attending the lessons. G. A. R. veterans are to be guests of honor for the evening. Places will be reserved for the mand membebr of the college faculty with eh officers.

Dr. Putnam's Gold Star Band and as many of the cadets as will are to attend in uniform. The public is invited to see the pictures said Captain G. Ballam, C. W. Res., instructor in chemistry, who has charge of the program.

THE TENNIS SITUATION.
 Coach Cortright has announced an extensive spring athletic program, but still with such a huge bill as he has offered there are still those who are unable to participate in any organized form of athletic exercise.
 There are two forms of athletics which many students and faculty members alike, are able to participate in, and these are tennis and golf.
 Golf is out of the question on the campus, and little can be done towards pushing the game outside of what individuals wish to do themselves.
 Tennis is perhaps the most widely played game on this campus during its run. It is still a little too early to begin playing the game now, but it is no too early to give a little thought to what the prospects for playing the game on the campus are.
 During the past few years we have been limited to two tennis courts, a number far too small for the multitude which wishes to take part in the game. Two courts in the rear of Ceres Hall could be put in shape with a little work, which have been allowed to deteriorate, the reason for which has never been explained.
 Last year perhaps saw tennis at its height here. Conditions reached near disaster, for many players were unable to get on the courts because a few who were in no way connected with the college insisted upon the right to use the courts.
 Among the things which the student commission might take up at their meeting tonight is the advisability of turning the matter over to the commissioner of athletics and let him handle the situation as he sees fit.
 The courts in the rear of Ceres Hall should be put in shape for play, and only those connected with the college be allowed to use any of the courts at all times.
 One of the most outrageous things in connection with the tennis situation last year was the fact that the varsity tennis team was compelled to seek practice somewhere other than the campus courts. Such a condition should be remedied, and practice periods allowed the varsity team on campus courts, one court being vacated at the hours allowed for practice.
 We certainly hate to see a repetition of conditions last year, and would like to see tennis given a rightful place here, for it is the most widely played game for both young and old, or at least it is on this campus.

"COLLEGIATE"
 In the history of the college there is hardly a fact which stands out more prominently than the hostility with which it has always been regarded ever since the founding of Bologna. In the middle ages this enmity was very active and colleges and municipalities vied strenuously among themselves in the hanging of one another's subjects. Later in the day "town and gown" came to denote merely an impromptu Donnybrook in which nothing more formidable than paving stones was used. The next stage was rather good-humored on the part of the outside world and closely similar to the attitude one takes toward a mildly demented child. When the honest citizen of Cambridge or New Haven heard twenty moistened voices giving tone color to "Sweet Adeline" around 2 A. M., he merely sighed and forgot about it. But those days have passed and their place has been taken by a period which is devilish in its persecution. Needless to say, we refer to the present day and its use of "collegiate."
 By "collegiate" is meant, roughly, the extreme of affectation in costume and in manner. When a person is described as such the auditor immediately has a vision of a languishing youth in a raccoon coat, crushed hat, vociferous sweater, golf knickers or bisected skirts, gaudy hose and galoshes. This person is supposed to be a college student, but in most cases the judgment is erroneous. The most "collegiate" persons are usually to be found selling collars or attending high school. Some do get to college and finish freshman year, but the reason for this is that even collar clerks need some education. On the whole though, the "collegiate" youth wears no fraternity pin and has never seen a dean face to face. Therefore, as can be seen, a grave injustice is being done to the schools. Two courses are open: either make the charge true; or, better, bring back the middle ages and send the Marines to college; then we shall hear no more of "collegiate."—Loyola Quarterly.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blott—Himself.
 In one respect, at least, the horse has yet to be dethroned by the gasoline menace. Horseshoe pitching has attained unpremeditated heights on the college campus.

Because it resembles a barn more closely than the original equine mansion, the vicinity of the Armory was chosen as an environment for the barn-yard golf activities.

Outside of "Fig" Newton, the gladiator of the Driven Stakes, and Hans Tronnes, who talks an admirable game, no experts have yet been apprehended.

A LARGER CROWD WATCHED A STRUGGLE BETWEEN MASTER HEAVERS OF THE CURVED IRON THAN HAS ATTENDED AN INTER-COLLEGE DEBATE FOR YEARS.

Which may all tend to prove that the horseshoe pitching pen is mightier than the vocabulary.

What a wonderful chance for alibis for the horseshoe pitching fan. He can say that he is going to witness an agricultural demonstration.

More value is placed on the horseshoe by participants in a contest of this sort than the king placed on the horseshoe in the poem which says something about "For want of a shoe the kingdom was lost."

It's too bad the Bison went to press before an all-star horseshoe tam could be selected.

The development of the oral capacities is not overlooked in this sport of king's valets. In one contest at which Ebony was guilty of watching, Johnny Blair talked on three ringers in rapid succession while Jay Crooks, one of the chief agitators of the pasture pastime, talked the ringers off again in one of the bitterest struggles convocation didn't see, while thousands—yes, tens of thousands were shouting themselves hoarse at the various big league ball parks.

Other sports are hitting their stride too. Now is the time that thousands of college athletes and "hoboes" are taking to track.

Even the dignified body of senators like to execute a practical joke now and then. Didn't you see where Steck took Brookhart's seat away from him? I'll bet the crowd laughed when the latter sat down only to discover that his chair was gone!

THE TITLE OF SHAKESPEARE'S CURRENT PLAY, "AS YOU LIKE IT," WHICH IS TO BE PRESENTED AT THE L.C.T., SHOULD SILENCE ALL THOSE WHO WOULD CLAMOR FOR THEIR MONEY BACK AFTER WITNESSING IT.

Assuredly, this is the play season. Congressmen were photographed playing marbles, colleges play horseshoe with unusual gusto, the rich play base ball, botanists play "ring around rosie", high schools play hookey, grade schools play "chopsticks", while the Gold Star Band plays remarkably well.

SENIOR GOES TO TWIN CITY DAILY

William Toussaint, senior in the School of Agriculture, has accepted a position with the Minneapolis Tribune, according to Dean H. L. Walster. Mr. Toussaint, whose home is at Leonard, will go to work in the circulation department of the publication with a view of working into the agricultural phase of journalism.

VETERANS SEE UNITS UNDER FIRE IN FILMS

"Flashes of Action," U. S. Signal Corps pictures being shown at the Armory ednesday evening will reveal faces that war veterans may recognize, believes Captain A. E. Andrews, who with others saw the war films in a trial run Saturday.

Divisions to which local officers were attached are seen in action. Capt. Andrews in the 26th saw his outfit going into action in the films. Faces could not be clearly distinguished, said Capt. Andrews, because the pictures were taken at early daybreak. He was able, however, to recognize Major Stevens in charge of cleaning up an aeroplane wreck.

Captain Thomas S. Smith, P. M. S. & T., and Captain Ballam, C. W. Res., and instructor in chemistry also saw the 32nd in action, the unit to which they belonged. The 1st Division to which Cadet Lieut. Col. Leakey and Major W. F. Harrell, former commandant here, is shown.

FACULTY MEMBERS TO CHICAGO MEET

L. E. Jackson, instructor in agricultural education, Christine Finlayson and Frances Bailey, instructors in the School of Home Economics, returned during the week end from a regional convention of vocational education workers held all of last week at Chicago. M. F. Riley, president of the Wahpeton State School of Science and Edward Erickson, Grand Forks, state director of vocational education, also attend the meet.

J. C. Wright, director of the Federal Board of Vocational Education presided and addressed the 150 delegates that represented four branches of educational work. They are agriculture, home economics, trades and industries and civil rehabilitation. All sessions of the convention were held at the Edgewater Beach hotel. North central states were represented.

DELTA PI INITIATES FIVE TO MEMBERSHIP

Five students were formally initiated into the Delta Pi fraternity, an engineer's organization, Sunday afternoon at four o'clock. Mock initiation was held for the new members Friday evening.

They are Herbert Johnson, Audubon, Minn.; Percy Peightal, Coleharbor; William Brindle, Fargo; Cecil Kingsley, Mohall; Lawrence Debing, Lakota.

Prof. H. E. Jones, in charge of agricultural education work at the college, left today to make business visits at Washburn, Makoti, Max and Donnybrook.

Fred Wilson, class of '25, who is teaching agriculture at Cavalier high school, Pembina, co., has accepted a position at the Walsh county Agricultural school at Park River for next year. Mr. Wilson was a visitor at the college Monday.

Thirty former students in the college's farm husbandry course are conducting experiments in collaboration with authorities in the School of Agriculture on the raising of Ceres and Marquis wheat. The work is sponsored by the college and the N. D. Crops and Soil Improvement society.

Harvey Hanson, Buffalo, N. D., and Odin O'Gordon, Lignite, N. D., were formally initiated by the Kappa Psi pharmaceutical fraternity Saturday afternoon. The services were held in the Chemistry Building.

SCHOOLS ARE IN NEED OF AGRONOMY EXPERTS

"North Dakota does not supply its own demands for Smith-Hughes teachers of agriculture," says Professor H. E. Jones, in charge of agricultural education on the Smith-Hughes plan throughout the state.

During the week of April 26, Professor Jones expects to visit state institutions at Brookings and Vermillion, S. D.; Ames, Iowa; and St. Paul, Minn., to secure teachers of agriculture for this state.

This year Mr. Jones has but two seniors in the School of Agriculture to fill a state-wide demand for instructors of agriculture. Other seniors of the particular field have already accepted positions.

Last year, according to Professor Jones, 16 positions for agriculture teachers were open in the state. But six of the teaching jobs were taken by A. C. graduates; sixteen might have been filled. Demands for such instructors have increased this year, stated Professor Jones.

WPAK GETS NEW STUDIO FOR PROGRMS

A new studio for broadcasting is nearly completed for use at WPAK, college radio station, according to Gordon Laing, who has charge of the station and the finishing of the new studio.

The new studio will be larger than was the old one in the architectural department on the third floor of the engineering building. D. M. Bavy, instructor in engineering has consented to the use of his office in the Mechanic Arts building as WPAK's studio.

By the new arrangement, according to Mr. Laing, conditions for the broadcasting of programs will be ideal. The radio man has draped the walls of the room in green burlap. A false ceiling of the same material has also been placed with a border of old rose material. By the use of the drapes practically all reverberations and echoes will be done away with. With its completion Mr. Laing hopes to be able to install a piano to enable broadcasting of music programs.

By remote control, the operator is able to broadcast from the new quarters. The station has not been altered except to extend the wiring. By turning a button, a generator is started and the human voice carried thru a Kellogg microphone to be thrown thru the air with a 70,000 times electric amplification and a 275.1 meters wave length. WPAK broadcasts on Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings and also every noon. Gordon Laing, a sophomore in chemistry, has had charge of the station for the past three years.

"I can tell you," said Pat, "how much water runs over Niagara Falls to a quart."

"How much?" asked Mike.
 "Two pints."

EARLY SEASON ANGLER CATCHES GRATE FISH

He stood erect, pole in hand. Gazing far out, he bent slowly back; his arm described an arc. A whirl, and a whistling piece of lead and red feather whirred thru the air. Fishing season had officially opened, though a bit early.

It was a bad cast. Back he drew the black and silver cord over a shiny reel. Again he baited his hook as obnoxious odors rose up to strike upon his nasal filament. A gurgle and guzzle back of him might have been heard. He heard nothing.

Again he cast. Singing the spoon hook went into the air; he made a fair cast for early in the season. He grasped the pole with both hands and waited for things to develop. The guzzling sound behind him continued. "A bite!" he shouted. He pulled hard.

"What's all this foolishness," asked the cop coming up.

"Oh, it's jes' a fraternity initiatin'," someone from the crowd laughed. Unhappy angler or rookie, as you wish, his hook had caught in the manhole cover across the street, as he stood over a sewer chimney in front of Broadway Pharmacy.

Grady (after Riley has fallen five stories) "Are yez dead, Pat?"

Riley: "I am."

Grady: "Shure, yer such a liar oi don't know whither to believe yez or not."

Riley: "Shure—that proves oi'm dead. You wouldn't dare call me a liar if oi was alive."

Pat: "Oo you think you'll get all that dirt back in the hole?"

Mike: "No, I don't think I've dug it deep enough."

The orator was reaching his climax. He raised his voice and shouted "Gentlemen, it would be like waving a red bull at a rag."

Pat: "'Tis a cruel world we live in, Mike."

Mike: "Yes, 'tis, Pat. Very few of us ge tout alive."
