

1926 JUNIOR PROM PLANS NEAR COMPLETION

STUDENT DELEGATES TO OPEN MEET HERE THURSDAY MORNING

GLENN CLARK AND "Y" LEADERS TO ADDRESS DELEGATES FROM EIGHT SCHOOLS; BANQUET FRIDAY.

North Dakota's annual State Student conference will open here Tuesday and continue four days until Sunday. About 220 students coming from within and without the state, along with faculty and national Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. leaders are scheduled to attend.

Schools that are certain to send strong delegations, according to Eric H. Thomsen, college "Y" secretary, are the University of North Dakota, Jamestown College, Valley City, Moorhead, Minn., Mayville, Minot, and Ellendale State Teachers' colleges.

Prominent leaders will address the students during the four days' meet, including Glenn Clark, head of the English department at Macalester college; Miss Talitha Gerlach, regional secretary of the Y. W. C. A.; A. J. "Dad" Elliott, Y. M. C. A. secretary for central region, Chicago; and Miss Margaret Fifield, Y. W. C. A. secretary at University of Minnesota.

The theme of the annual conference, which was held last year at Grand Forks, is the one "Christian Loyalties". Discussions during the conference will touch upon the different phases of college students' problems and organizations.

Friday evening, a banquet will be held at 6:30 o'clock for all delegates at the Commercial Club. Margaret Fifield and others will speak on the occasion.

"Delegates to the conference will be cared for in the matter of rooms by the 'Y' associations; meals will be available at cost," it was learned from Donald Hay, in charge of registration of student delegates.

The local team upholds the affirmative side of the question "Resolved that the Child Labor Amendment should be enacted into law."

On the Tuesday following a dual debate is scheduled between the local girls' teams and representatives of Jamestown College. Erble Steen and Robina Wylder debate the negative issue of the question against a girls' team at Jamestown. Dorothy Kretchmar and Treasure Kuehl uphold the affirmative side against the invading team.

The Alpha Sigma Tau fraternity acted as hosts to the fathers of the members on last Thursday evening at the chapter house.

The quint in the above picture is the Alpha Kappa Phi fraternity five, 1926 Campus League basketball champions. They came through the season with eight wins and one loss, the Delta Kappa Sigma crew beating them 18 to 14 in their third start. They dropped one other tilt during the season, that to Beta Chi fraternity, Campus League champions at the University of North Dakota, the upstaters winning 26 to 23.

1927 BISON TO PRESS APRIL 15

ALUMNI SECTION TO BE FEATURE OF ANNUAL PUBLICATION-SATIRE SECTION GOOD.

"Unless unforeseen developments arise the Bison for 1927 will go to press on April 15," was the gist of a statement gained from Carrie Dolphin, editor-in-chief of the annual publication.

"An interesting and new feature of this year's Bison," said the editor, "will be the alumni section, which will be made up of two subdivisions. Under a caption 'As They Are' there will be rouped photographs of prominent alumni of the college. Accounts of each alumni and his accomplishments will be included. Under the second division, entitled 'As They Were', there will be a collection of quaint pictures showing much of the campus life and manners of past years."

Another section added to this year's publication by Miss Dolphin is the Lim'rick section. All prize winning lim'ricks are included in it, along with a group picture of the winners.

The satire section of the 1927 Bison is reported to be an outstanding department. It is to be much larger than last year's section of satire. To quote the editor-in-chief: "No organization will escape the satirist's slip-pant though univoltic pen."

Publication of this year's Bison will be done by local printers; although engraving work has been done largely by an engraving company at Madison, Wisconsin.

GOLD STAR BAND TO MEET MIDGETS

BIG CROWD EXPECTED TO GREET FARGO HIGH CAGERS, NATIONAL MEET FINALISTS, TODAY.

The North Dakota Agricultural college Gold Star Band, under the direction of Dr. C. S. Putnam, will play a few pep tunes at the N. P. depot as a greeting to the Fargo High basketball team, finalists in the national cage tourney, held at the University of Chicago last week.

A large crowd of students and non-student followers are expected at the depot to meet the team, which will receive the greatest ovation accorded an athletic team in the history of Fargo, according to some of those who are in charge of the reception. No special plans have been made for the welcome but it is probable that a parade or similar form of welcome will be accorded them.

KAPPA DELTA SORORITY SPONSORS BENEFIT BRIDGE

Kappa Delta sorority will sponsor a benefit bridge party to be given at the A. O. U. W. hall on Saturday, April 17. Misses Inez Hanson, Martha Thompson, and Edith Thorsell comprise the committee in charge of arrangements.

NOTICE!

All seniors must place their orders for pins and rings, with proper sizes, and also orders for caps and gowns at Book Store this week. Such orders must be in before April 10th, Saturday.

BEN RUMPELTES,
President Senior Class.

GOV. AND MRS. SORLIE NUMBERED AMONGST HONOR GUEST LIST

HARRY SMITH AND TEN-PIECE RED JACKET ORCHESTRA TO FURNISH MUSIC FOR TWELVE DANCE PROGRAM.

Committees in charge of the Junior Prom, which will be held in the Armory Friday evening, announced yesterday that they are rapidly completing arrangements for all details in connection with their part of the work of making the party a success.

The ticket sale, which opened last Monday, has proven even more successful than was anticipated, according to a statement by Elery Young, prom manager. "There are still a few tickets left, and as soon as the total sale reaches 150 the sale will end. The Armory will only accommodate about 150 couple comfortably, especially with the room taken up by some of the gorgeously planned decorations which will occupy part of the floor space," Mr. Young said. The ticket sale for down town will continue at Sherdahl's, and on the campus by the Bison office.

The list of honor guests and patrons and patronesses was announced yesterday. Governor and Mrs. A. G. Sorlie, Dr. and Mrs. John Lee Coulter, and Dean Myrtle Gleason Cole will be the honor guests. The list of patrons and patronesses includes, Deans and Mmes. H. L. Walster, A. D. Weeks, A. E. Minard, W. F. Sudro, and W. T. Pearce, Dr. and Mrs. C. S. Putnam, Prof. and Mrs. W. T. Rolfe, Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parrott, and Dean E. S. Keene.

Decorations Novel.

Professors Rolfe and Riggs of the department of architecture are aiding the committee on decorations in designing the decorations, which will be carried out in the theme which Dante's Inferno is based upon. The decorations promise to be novel in both design and style, and are far removed from any decoration scheme attempted here before.

Work in connection with putting the decorations in place will be started on Wednesday to assure their completion should any hitch in the arrangements necessitate delay.

The program of features will be largely composed of dances by Wilfield Hurt and his partner, Miss Kathleen Sullivan. The feature program will be augmented further by several other features which are being withheld.

Mr. Hurt and Miss Sullivan will do several feature dances in costume conforming to the theme of the decorations. In the opening feature dance Mr. Hurt will represent the Devil while Miss Sullivan will interpret fire and flame.

12 Dances and Program.

The program of dancing will be composed of 12 dances and two extras, the Grand March being the opening number, as has been the custom at most of the previous Junior Proms.

The programs will be red in color with gold lettering.

Favors for the party will not be announced beforehand, but according to reports they will be novel in design and of distinctive quality.

Music for the dancing will be furnished by Harry Smith and his Red Jackets. This orchestra is well known locally, having furnished music at the

INTERESTED.

Students of this college, whether they have ever attended Fargo High school or not, must have taken an interest in the fight made by the school's basketball team for the highest honors possible to bestow upon a high school basketball team, the championship of the United States. This team which competed in the final game for this high honor completed its first lap toward the coveted honor by winning the district and sub-district tourneys on the same floor which Bison quints grace during their home basketball games.

Both the Bison and Fargo High have brought new honors to the City of Fargo and to the State of North Dakota, if not to the entire northwest. These two teams competed in national tourneys, and both made good showings.

Fargo's splendid showing did not only reflect the athletic supremacy of the two schools, but it went further: it reflected the athletic supremacy of North Dakota teams.

One cannot but help admiring the fight and determination maintained by the Midgets in the University of Chicago tourney. At no time in the meet, until after downing Pueblo, Colorado, in the semi-finals, were they given a chance to go to the final game. Pueblo the previous evening downed the team doped to win the tourney, but Fargo carried on undaunted, they downed the favorites, and still they were only an entry.

Few people know outside the city of Fargo, that the Midgets went to Chicago with a forward who had been forced to step into a veteran's place, a veteran who had been two years in being perfected to fit into a machine-like combination. Roy Jackson did this very thing, and he carried the burden which would have befallen the veteran, Johnny Smith, in splendid style. Here is a team with a man but two weeks in the making, expected to fit into a machine that has performed together for two seasons, and they go through the meet to the finals, unheralded until they have downed the last obstacle in their path to the final game, a feat which not even their most ardent admirer bequeathed them.

Jimmy O'Connor, captain and center of the Fargo team, was injured and had to be removed from the game late in the second quarter. To demonstrate what pluckiness these "Indian Chasers" have, he went back at the start of the half and started where he left off. There are still others on this team who deserve praise, for they had to carry the burden against much of the cocalled "hard luck". Those deserving praise are the players themselves, regulars and reserves, Coach Kimball, and others who helped make them the great success they are.

The feat must certainly demonstrate how hard and how earnest North Dakotans undertake their work. The Bison put forth a splendid fight at Kansas City, being ousted by a bare two point margin by the team which later was put out in the semi-final round, taking third place in the consolation championship later.

We students of the North Dakota Agricultural College have been treated to some rare basketball during the past season, being privileged to gaze upon one of the outstanding college and one of the outstanding high school quints of the United States.

Such fight as both these teams have maintained this year is only a semblance of what future teams may be expected to show when these veteran's places are to be filled, even though the foe has practically a veteran lineup.

Both the Midgets and the Bison lose the majority of their veterans this year, but right now we will make a prediction that their traditional rivals had better not start planning on anything like setups for the coming season.

For the Bison we might say that we include the University of North Dakota as traditional rivals. It is not for us to make the choice of the traditional rivals for the high school.

Hall Models to Feature Fete Drawing Exhibits

INTEREST IN ARCHITECTURAL AND MECHANICAL WORK TO BE DISPLAYED.

Included in the entries to the mechanical drawing and manual training exhibits of the Inter-High School May Festival, North Dakota Agricultural College, Fargo, May 13, 14 and 15, 126, there will be drawings and miniature models of a typical community hall. This special problem along with a score of other problems, in high school manual training and mechanical drawing is to be entered in competition by the high school students of North Dakota and western Minnesota, according to W. T. Rolfe, head of the college architectural department and supervisor of the coming contest.

Is New Problem.

"The community hall project is something new," says Mr. Rolfe, "but it ought to create considerable interest among the students who are planning to enter exhibits at the festival."

To distribute the competition more evenly, schools are divided into two groups, representing town of over and under 5,000 inhabitants.

First prize for the schools in each class will be a travelling trophy cup. Individual prizes will consist of instruments. Those winning in the mechanical drawing entries will receive drawing instruments while those who win in the manual training will receive manual training instruments, "An increased amount of interest is being displayed in architectural and mechanical work among the people of North Dakota and Western Minnesota," reveals Mr. Rolfe, "and because of this new interest displayed we are expecting a large number of schools to enter the contest. Nine schools were entered in the contests last year. Fargo won in the Class A mechanical drawing last year while Cooperstown won in Class B. In the woodwork entries for last year, Fargo took first in Class A, and Nome first in Class B. "In connection with the high school displays during the festival a special exhibit will be put on by the directors of the college architectural department. These drawings have been secured from the art federation at Washington, D. C., and from other schools of architecture. Several were done at the A. C. architectural department."

Another exhibit that will be on display during the festival is one drawn and prepared by the college junior class in architecture in competition for the Bertram Grosvenor Goodhue collection of drawings in book form that will be given by the State Association of Architects for the first prize.

About This Time O' Year.
 All the writers, big and small and tall and lean and tough, always rave about the spring until we shout enough. With flowery words and accents keen they paint a spring I've never seen. As a pessimist, they say I'm king—I never jest, or laugh or sing or ever advertise the spring. I think I'll assert myself and put this seeping bunk on the shelf. If all these guys would get a job that are pulling all this spring time sob—I'll tell the world there'd be a mob.

There's nothing nice about spring here—it's a chilly, horrid atmosphere. The grass turns green, of course I see, but so does Christmas jewelry. I must admit the robin comes, but what of that? So do the bums. And even though it's nice and warm why then the gentle bees will swarm around your neck, and then, by heck, you'll have to run into the dorm. The students say they like the SUN, but they chase the daughters, every one. The birds may sing for all their lives, but so do all the husband's wives. The spring may bring moonshine and gin, but you can't see a thing from the shape you're in. The blinkin' idiots fall in love with a sentimental turtle dove, but just when they think that "heaven's above" the old man will gently plant a shove. And when it rains you take a chance of getting mud on Oxford pants. So hark to me and let spring be. It's just a lot of publicity.

Dear Ebony: I wish you would run a kiddies kolum for we children. My mother and father have two children of which I am one-half by exact subtraction. I don't know exactly how old I am. My mamma told me to tell my teacher that I was ten, but she always tells the nice man on the street car that I am going on six. My mamma has a variety of ages too. Isn't that nice? I have a lot of pets too: there's my little brother; Delicia, the cutest little boa constrictor you ever saw and I have an apple but I eat it. I have a bicycle too, that is, all but the wheels. And, oh, yes, I have two crickets and the measles. My favorite fruit is licorice. I like candy too, but once pa spanked me for buying an all-day sucker at two o'clock in the afternoon. I will be glad when I am big so that I can go to college and loaf around. Hoping you are the same.

 hoop and at taking the ball into a scoring position. His defensive play, also, was of the best seen in the league this year for a man playing an offensive position.
 Sid Grieve, Delta Sig star, was without doubt, the fastest breaking forward in the league, the one hardest to cover, and the one who made difficult shots his specialty. The speed and drive manifested by Grieve probably did more than anything else to keep his team in the title race and to serve the Kapa Phis their only setback of the year, save for the Beta Chi game with the University champions.

Davidson Gets Center.
 Davidson, Gamma Rho center, was an ideal performer, possessing height, poise, and speed, together with uncanny ability to score follow-up shots.
 Regan, though a guard, stood second in the individual scoring column with 59 points which indicates his value as a defense man who can play the floor and uphold his end of the offensive department. Tommy also took the free-throw title along with him with 15 foul counters. Olson was second with 12 tosses.

Hermes Best Back Guard.
 Al Hermes rates highest as a back guard and takes the all-campus selection without much trouble. Al was especially adept at aking the leather off the backboard and ribbling it into a scoring position for his mates.

Peschel, all-state high school guard last year, performed for the Alpha Kappa Phi five in the last two games of the campus schedule and in the inter-fraternity clash, being out with an injured leg, and inasmuch as he has played far too little, he is not taken into consideration in the choosing.

Olson, high scorer of the league, with a total of 80 points, was given a second berth team. Had his floor play and ball-handling been better Olson would have displaced either Wall or Grieve from a first team position. Severtson, Tappa Kegg flash, tied Regan for second honors in the scoring department, and slid into the other forward berth.

easily took the second center selection. His work on offense and defense, in floor play and scoring, has done much to help along his team mates in their championship quest. Eefy Fitzgerald, Kappa Phi running guard, was given that position on the mythical second string because of his court play and drive. Allison, Sigma Tau candidate, a well-known long shot artist, was given the other berth.
 Team scoring in the 1926 league ran high, the Kappa Phi quint copping the honors with 208 points. The Tappa Keggs were runners-up with 190 counters, and the Delta Sigs came third with 164. The highest score piled up in any one game was the defeat of the Delta Sigs by the Tappa Keggs in one of the most surprising upsets of the season, 42 to 12.

The Ox Woman

On an East Indian farm, where the crop is tea, a wooden plow turns up the rich black soil. A woman drives, another woman pulls—and a black ox pulls beside her.

Six hours under a tropical sun, a bowl of cold rice—and six hours more. Then the woman goes to her bed of rushes, and the beast to his mud stall. Tomorrow will be the same.

The American home has many conveniences. But many American women often work as hard as their Oriental sisters. They toil at the washtub, they carry water, they churn by hand—all tasks which electricity can do for them at small cost, in half the time.

The labor-saving possibilities of electricity are constantly becoming more widely recognized. And the social significance of the release of the American woman from physical drudgery, through the increasing use of electricity in and about the home, will appeal instantly to every college man and woman.

The electric light, the electric iron, the vacuum cleaner—the use of electricity on the farm for pumping water, for milking, and for the cream separator—are helping to make life happier. General Electric research and engineering have aided in making these conveniences possible.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-18.

Student Opinion

Why not have a "clean up" day? Let's set a day for all students and faculty members to give the campus a thorough cleaning.

This day could be named after some notable professor who has done much in beautifying the campus of the North Dakota State.

Every man could bring a rake and could be put to work by some foreman who, I would suggest be a letterman or Bisonite. These foremen could have a certain plot to clean and should be held responsible for its cleaning. For those students who do not get in and do their bit, slackers, fussers, etc., there could be a kangaroo court at noon time and have their punishment meted out.

The band could be on hand to make the work easier.

Oh, yes, the girls! Well they could serve the hardworking men a lunch at noon. The afternoon could be given over to programs by the different classes, singing, stunts, etc. To top off the day, a dance in the "Old Barn" with special emphasis to the boys to keep their overalls on and no duds to be worn, nothing but working men and women with their working clothes on should be allowed to enter and swing.

Trees could be planted and other things could be done to beautify the campus.

GENE FORREST.
