JUNIOR PROM TICKET SALE OPENED WITH SPLENDID RESULTS

KATHLEEN SULLIVAN AND BILL HURT TO FURNISH ONE OF NUMEROUS NUMBERS OF ANNUAL PARTY PROGRAM.

Those in charge of the ticket sale for the 1926 Junior Prom, which will be held in the Armory on Friday, April 9, report a splendid response by the students on the opening day of the sale, yesterday.

There will be a limited number of tickets sold for the event according to Elery Young, prom manager, and it will be necessary for those who wish to procure tickets to do so at once in order to assure themselves of an admittance to the annual party.

Tickets for the prom may be procured at the Bison office, Sherdahl's, and from Emery Putnam, Forrest Whedon and Mr. Young.

Committees in charge of the affair state that their plans are nearing completion, and all things now point to the most successful prom staged here.

As a special feature Miss Kathleen Sullivan and Bill Hurt are working out a series of dances to present as a part of the numerous features on the program. They have not as yet completed their plans, but it was announced last evening that the entire feature program will be completed by Thursday.

The committee in charge of the favors and program are keeping their plans a secret, for the time being, at least. They did, however, announce that the programs and favors will be separate, and that both will be unique in design.

GOLD STAR BAND OPENS STATE PROGRAM TODAY

The Gold Star Band, under direction of Dr. C. S. Putnam, will open their one week stand at the State Theatre tonight.

Among the new units recently acquired by the band will be a $250 chimes set, played by Miss Betty Sheldon, which will be used at a public appearance for the first time this week.

There will be a complete change of program on Thursday.

CAPT. MILLARD SPEAKS TO CHEMISTS TONIGHT

Captain W. W. Millard will be the speaker at the monthly meeting of the members of the Chemists' club which is held tonight at 8:00 o'clock in room 26 of the Chemistry building, it was announced recently by Raymond Fischer, president of the club.

Captain Millard will tell of his experiences while in the service in Siberia and the Philippines. During the war and at its close, he was attached to the American expeditionary forces in Siberia.

NOTICE!

The winning numbers on the collar button punch board at the Engineers' Ball are:

NODAK CAMPUS LEAGUE CHAMPIONS

The accompanying picture is that of the Beta Chi fraternity basketball team, University of North Dakota campus league champions, who downed the Alpha Kappa Phi five, Bison loop champions, here Saturday night, 26 to 23.

Warren Doane, guard, and Ted Young, center, were chosen on the mythical all-campus team, while Tommy Doe, forward, was chosen as a member of the second mythical quint.

NODAK LOOP CHAMPS GAIN 26-23 VERDICT IN BITTER STRUGGLE

UNIVERSITY TRIO PROVE METTLE WITH 21 OF TEAM'S TOTAL—PESCHEL IS ACE OF BISON TITLEHOLDERS QUINT.

Beta Chi fraternity cagers, 1826 University of North Dakota campus league titleholders, won a bitterly fought struggle from the Alpha Kappa Phi fraternity quint, Bison loop winners, 26 to 23, on the Armory floor Saturday evening.

The Beta Chi star trio, Doe, Young, and Doane, proved the undoing of the local five, this trio accounting for 21 of their team's total points. The Beta Chi trio divided honors with Cyril Peschel, Kappa Phi guard, who came through with a trio of field goals, and was the backbone of the Bison champs' defense. Peschel broke up many passes and short attempts at the net, the stocky Wahpeton lad proving why he was chosen all-state high school guard, at the state tourney last year. Wall and Olson also contributed their share toward the Bison cause, and Al Hermes, until removed from the game with an injured ankle, proved a strong cog in the Kappa Phi machine.

Nodaks Score First.

The Beta Chi scored first on a long shot by Broen, and Peschel knotted the count with his first field goal, after three minutes of the opening quarter had passed. The Beta Chis took the lead again, but two baskets by the Bison titleholders gave them the lead which they did not relinquish until the latter part of the second quarter, the opening period ending with the Kappa Phis on the long end of a 10 to 6 count.

The Kappa Phis missed numerous close shots on follow-ups, and failed to tally in the second quarter, a quartette of field goals by the upstaters giving them a 14 to 10 lead at the half time.

Olson opened the scoring in the second half, but the Beta Chis managed to widen the gap in the score, the third period ending 20 to 15 for the Nodak loop leaders.

The Kappa Phis staged a belated rally in the middle of the third period and came within two points of the Nodak five, but a long basket by Doe again gave them a four point lead. A free throw by Olson near the conclusion of play ended the scoring for the contest.

Dick Holzer officiated.

Sixty High Schools Make Entries For Festival Judging Contests

ENGINEERS' BALL PROVES SUCCESS

JACK KNAPP AND MARY BALL AWARDED FIRST PRIZES IN COSTUME COMPETITION

About 100 couples attended the Ninth Annual Engineers' Ball, which was held in the Armory Friday evening. The carnival dance was perhaps the most successful affair the engineers have staged, as advance notices had predicted, according to Walter Booth, who was in charge of the affair.

A combination of Monte Carlo, barroom, and "hey-Rube" side show setting with a heterogeneous crowd of cowboys, squaws, chorus girls, virgins, and just "plain" people was there. Dancing and play at gaming tables furnished the chief entertainment. Incidentally two roulette wheels were kept busy all evening spinning out the fate of iron washers, engineers' money.

Novel lighting effects were evident throughout the evening. The grand march, held at 11:00 o'clock, was led by Walter Booth and Miss Charlotte Blake.

At this time judges decided the winners of the best costume prizes. Jack Knapp, with the costume of an Indian sachem, took first prize in the men's class. Mary Ball, with a cowboy costume and shady four-gallon hat carried off first for the ladies. Tom Early, as a cowboy and Eva Boardson, with an Indian costume claimed the ranking positions. Prizes were boxes of candy. W. C. Palmer, Eric Thomsen and Clayton Corrigan acted as judges. Music for the evening was furnished by Allan Bagrud's orchestra.

Guests of honor for the evening were: Dean E. S. Keene. Professor and Mrs. S. B. Folk, Prof, and Mrs. R. M. Dolve, Prof, and Mrs. R. H. Slocum, and Prof. and Mrs. H. S. Rush.

Miss Betty Sheldon was initiated into active membership of the Sigma Alpha Iota sorority, national music organization, at services held Saturday.

RAILROAD RATES TO BE IN EFFECT

TWENTY-SEVEN MEDALS TO BE AWARDED INDIVIDUAL WINNERS IN COMPETITION.

Sixty high schools from all sections of the state have made entries for the Fourth Annual State High School Agricultural Judging contest to be held here during the May Festival, May 13, 14 and 15, it was learned from Edward H. Jones, state supervisor and professor of agricultural education.

Is Record Entry List.

"This year's entry list is notably large," Professor Jones said, "Altho all entries have not been received, the present number already surpasses the total number of teams entered in the past three contests."

Prizes to be awarded are three large silk banners to the three schools leading on a total point basis. Six other banners go to winners of first, second and third places in the stock judging event, and of first in the poultry, corn and grain classes. A large silver bronze loving cup goes also to the champion stock judging team.

Twenty-seven medals are for individual winners in the nine competitive classes of stock judging, horses, beef and dairy cattle, hogs, sheep, poultry, corn and grain.

High schools teaching agriculture and situated along the Great Northern, Northern Pacific and Soo railways will, upon proper arrangements with the college officials, receive a refund on rail fares for a three-man team.

On Friday evening of the May Festival a banquet will be served to all contestants. College, state and federal representatives will speak on the occasion. College officials and the Saddle and Sirloin club are sponsoring the May Festival Judging contest.

SPRING GRID WORK OPENS

FIFTY HUSKY BISON ATHLETES ANSWER CORTRIGHT'S CALL AT INITIAL SESSION MONDAY.

Fifty husky Bison athletes responded to Coach Cortright's call at the initial session of the annual spring grid practice held yesterday.

Yesterday's workout consisted in fundamentals and rule review. No outdoor work will be introduced until late next week, according to the Bison mentor.

Cortright will be assisted in the practice sessions by Thompson, Arnold Regan, Rumpeltes and Augustine, seniors, who wound up their grid careers last fall.

Prospects Bright.

Prospects for a winning combination are anything but displeasing, a host of backfield candidates from the Frosh eleven making their appearance at yesterday's session. It is in the ball-carrying department that the Bison were dealt the most severe blow, only Captain-elect Claudie Miller, half, remaining from the veteran quartette which has performed for the past two years.

Cortright's forward wall was not as hard hit by graduation, seven lettermen from last fall's titleholders being available for duty again. Keltner, Thompson, and Baillie, were the only ones lost by graduation, and with a quartette of tackles, any of whom may be converted into guards, one veteran guard, and a pair of dependable wingmen, Cortright is confronted only with the job of developing a pivot man to replace Captain Thompson.

Frosh line candidates are nearly as plentiful as is the backfield material, and with such a nucleus to build around, Cortright is predicting another successful reign as N. C. I. loop titleholders.

GAY CAT DAY.

Gay Cat Day, the annual frolic fest of the college, until last year was held sometime during May. Officials believed it would be a good plan to incorporate Homecoming Day and Gay Cat Day into one, and celebrate the two jointly in the fall. The experiment was tried at the last Homecoming Day celebration, and as for Gay Cat Day, it failed miserably.

It is the belief of the Spectrum that the officials and the Student Commission should reconsider their stand, and grant that Gay Cat Day should be celebrated in the spring.

The Spectrum will take no definite stand in the matter as far as agitation for changing the day is concerned unless it is the wish of the students that it do so.

We do, however, believe that a frolic of this sort is one of the lasting memories of college days, and if allowed to be held in the fall, and the dismal failure of the most recent one repeated, the joy of having the day will wane, and the tradition gradually die out.

It has always been the custom to distribute the Bison annual on Gay Cat Day, but inasmuch as there is to be none this spring for the first time, no special day will be set aside for the distribution of the books.

There is little indication to believe that weather will hold up so late as to allow suitable conditions for the observance of the day in the fall, while the weather in the middle of May is not so severe as to impede the success of the day.

We also wish to make a mere proposal and allow it to be discussed at length, that of holding the annual fun frolic during one of the days on which the Ma Festival is in progress.

We expect that there will naturally be much opposition to holding it at this time, inasmuch as there is so much activity going on at this time. However, if Gay Cat Day is celebrated during the May Festival it will afford a number of high school students who would perhaps not get a chance to see the college otherwise, the opportunity of seeing the college students at play.

We propose to have student opinion on the subject, through the Inquiring Reporter, and ascertain the stand which at least a portion of the students will take as to changing the date for the annual frolic.

THE MAY FESTIVAL.

The time is rapidly nearing when the college will be host to a large group of high school students of North Dakota and Minnesota.

Each year during the month of May a number of outstanding high school students of North Dakota and Western Minnesota come here to take part in the various contests sponsored by the college. Each and every one of these students is a prospect for a college education, and perhaps you may be the influencing factor in determining for one or more of these students that the North Dakota State college is the best place to obtain a college education. You thought that, did you not? If you didn't why are you here?

There are a large number of out of town students registered here, who are graduates of high schools which will have students entered in some of the various events. You are the logical one to sell this prospective student the idea of attending school here. You have the student where there is very little need for explanation, he can see what you have to offer.

On the other hand, there may be a large number of high schools which will make no entry in the various events. In a case of this kind perhaps you can influence the officials of that high school that they should have some one entered, and if not it may be possible to invite a prospective college student from that town to visit here during the May Festival and see the college. Here is a golden opportunity.

WE APPRECIATE your past patronage and solicit your future work. When you think of laundry call the DIXON for service and quality. We darn sox and sew on buttons without extra charge.

Birds Beginning to Make Appearance, Says Stevens

MIGRATORY MOVEMENTS OF BIRDS ACCOUNTED FOR BY WINTER FOOD SUPPLY.

Reporting the first robin is quite a game which after all is largely luck. The writer saw his first robin this year on March 23, and then might easily have missed it, altho several people had reported from Wahpeton on March 20. Meadow larks seem to arrive in considerable numbers about March 18, when they were reported from Wahpeton, Tower City, Beach and Flaxton. They seem to appear about that date quite regularly each year.

Ducks and Geese Appear.

Ducks and geese were reported in numbers at Flaxton on March 16, Tower City, March 21, also ducks at Beach March 12, Kindred and Argusville, March 20. Tree sparrows were reported at Argusville March 15, Flaxton, March 20, Fargo, March 21. The slate-colored juncos arrive just a trifle behind the tree sparrows according to the writer's observations. They were reported at Argusville on March 19, Tower City March 18, and Fargo March 21, altho they were not at all common by March 23. Red-winged blackbirds were seen at Wahpeton on March 21.

The past winter seems to have brought an unusual number of reports of various birds remaining thru the winter. Does this indicate that our winters are becoming less severe or that the birds are changing their habits? The writer is conservative and replies "neither." Some birds seem to lack their migratory instincts and remain behind. In a mild winter doubles a larger number of these survive. Again, we should always be cautious about making conclusions from a few scattered reports. One of our foremost bird students wrote that he could not see that birds were more numerous than usual during the winter.

Different kinds of birds exhibit all degrees of migration. The night-hawks travel from Alaska to Argentina. Some of our prairie chickens remain with us while others move a hundred miles to the south. Migratory movements often are to be accounted for by the local food conditions.

Redpolls Common.

We think of our winter visitors from the north as being forced down by severe weather. According to the writer's observation the redpolls have been more common the past winter than for several years. Since our winter was mild there must have been other reasons for their appearance. Perhaps early frosts or deep snows had cut their food supply in their usual winter quarters.

On February 28 the writer encountered a large flock of redpolls, more than he had seen at a time all winter. Among them were two or three tree sparrows and these were singing. This flock he judged to have come from farther south, the tree sparrows travelling with them. Two days later he saw a single tree sparrow, very likely one which had become separated from the same flock. The real movement of tree sparrows did not begin until March 21 when quite a few had arrived, just about the regular date. The writer recalls that one other year he had seen a single tree sparrow about two weeks ahead of the regular time and that the bird seemed much disturbed. Probably that was another individual which had become separated from his traveling companions.

There are too many wrecks in a one-track mind.

Being in a rut is better than not being in any road at all.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blott—Himself.

Fable of the Young Graduate and the Stovepipe.

(With apologies to Orange, Lemon and George Ade.)

Once upon a time, when nights were cold and ladies were scarce, a young aspirant to world honors donned his cap and gown and set out to strangle the universe. He was a very ordinary graduate—ordinary in that he had very extraordinary ambition. He was conscious of the fact that nothing had been spared to make his book learning complete and his environment pleasant as a background to a successful campaign to eke out a living. His life had been marked with all the ills and ailments peculiar to the embryo successful. He had attacks of measles, mumps, love, woodshed, sunken marks, and the whooping cough as added evidence of his normality.

Now Pertwee, for such was his name, and this shouldn't be held against him, was desirous of obtaining for himself a position. There was no doubt in his mind but what advance news of his coming had already penetrated the elite of the land. Verily, his heart was as light as a pawnbroker's conscience.

So it came to pass that Pertwee embarked for a city with a million souls. He left with his mother's blessing and his dad's advice and money. Tears were shed at his parting by both his friends and creditors. The train speedily brought him to a smoky metropolis which looked bright and promising to Pertwee's enhanced vision.

Poor Pertwee was very much hurt when there was no reception committee at the station to meet him. There wasn't even any pompous money magnates heckling for his services. He was accosted only by taxi drivers. Pertwee speedily decided that something was wrong, and that he might even have to look for employment.

The first man he consulted, a broker, smiled sardonically. "A college grad, eh? Got a diploma? Even though you may live that down, we have no openings now—not one."

The above scene was repeated with but little variation time after time. Some refused to see him. Some saw him, but no look was sufficient. Needless to remark, Pertwee was dumbfounded, chagrined and mortified. He felt like crying, and he usually did what he felt like doing. All those he was fortunate enough to gain an interview with didn't seem to care whether he was a college graduate or an I. W. W. And so it was for weeks and weeks, and Pertwee gradually became cognizant of worldly strifes and postponed meals. But he was quite normal, and like normal folk he began searching for a solution to his predicament.

He then committed an act which changed his entire life. He hid himself to his room, which was only a room after all, and tore up his diploma without hesitation and with gusto. Not stopping with this he donned a suit of attire which a tramp had discarded and twisted his nice new velour hat into an unrecognizable shape. Pertwee boldly went to an alley, which wasn't any nicer than most alleys, where he picked up an old stovepipe, sooty with sooty soot. Quicly he transferred the grime from the noble stovepipe to his eager countenance, and what was left over he transferred to his clothes where there wasn't any dirt before. None of Pertwee's old friends would recognize this debonair youth now who looked like a good point in favor of Palmolive.

The man who had been the first victim of Pertwee's campaign surveyed this rejuvenated white collar man with interest. This time Pertwee solicited a job instead of a position. The magnate handed him a broom and people say that Pertwee is coming along tolerable well in the big town.

MORAL: Don't try to imitate men like G. Ade.

ALPHA GAMMA RHO FORMAL PARTY HELD

Green and gold streamers and clusters of gaily decorated balloons decorated the dining room of the Commercial Club Saturday evening for the 14th Annual Installation dinner and dance of the Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity. Combined with the green and gold, were the colors of the Easter season, and these were used in the table appointments. The repast was served at 6:30 p. m. and covers were laid for 100 persons, including the active and alumni members and their guests and the patrons and patronesses for the evening. During the service of the dinner the fraternity quartette, comprised of Walter Davidson, Russel Widdifield, Philip Nelson, and Claude Ebling, gave a program of songs and as a concluding number, the fraternity song was sung by the members.

Formal dancing was begun at 8:30. The feature dance of the evening was the one in which the members favored their ladies with amber combs which bore the fraernity insignia.

Dr. John Lee Coulter and Mrs. Coulter were the guests of honor and the patrons and patronesses were Prof. and Mrs. Cap E. Miller, Prof. C. E. Waldron and Miss Eloise Waldron, Dean and Mrs. H. L. Walster, Prof. and Mrs. O. O. Churchill, and Prof. and Mrs. J. H. Shepperd.

Lim'rick Contest

In order to allay the impatience of those interested in the limerick contests of the past, the announcing of the grand prize winner is probably in line.

Jay Bryant won the $15 for the best last line of the year with the line annexed to Cy Arnold's limerick. All the limericks will appear in the limerick section of the Bison along with the names of all the winners and those receiving honorable mention.

We wish to take this opportunity to thank all those who participated in the contest to help make it a success. To the judges too—"Doc" Putnam, T. W. Johnson and W. C. Hunter—we wish to expressly thank for their kind assistance in picking the winners.

All the contests were close and entertaining, and it is our wish that you had as much fun writing last lines as Ebony Blott had writing the first four lines.

Here is Jay's $15 limerick:

DO PROFS GROW OLD? REPORTER NOT SURE

Do profs ever grow old?

When confronted by this question many students would promptly answer "yes."

A Spectrum reporter, after viewing the antics of a quartette of the pedagogues at play, is not inclined to answer in the affirmative with as much haste.

The spectacle in question happened on Twelfth avenue about 6 o'clock Wednesday evening. The four began a sprint that would have done justice to any trained college trackster. One of the quartette seeing that he was unable to overtake his adversary grabbed him around the neck and sprinted on to "victory."

Where the race ended or who won the reporter was unable to ascertain as they turned a corner and sprinted out of sight, headed for their boarding house.

Perhaps profs get old, but they also get hungry.

I ask you

When old maids' hearts go piterpat—when hardboiled eggs become scrambled with sentiment—when you can thumb your nose at the Coal Barons—

What does it mean?

Boy, it means spring, and all that is new in suits and furnishings for young men. Snappy, scrappy, pappy suits and top coats!
