Officers of the senior class for the class day exercises were appointed by Ben Rumpeltes, president, at the meeting of the class held Wednesday noon in the Little Country Theatre.

Prof. A. G. Arvold was present at the meeting and outlined the procedure for the class during the graduation ceremonies to be held in June.

Appointments made by Ben Rumpeltes at Wednesday's meeting are as follows:

Caps and gowns, Llewelyn Howell. Class colors, motto and flowers, Florence Cole, Gladys Feenendal, and Stewart Schlipf.

Class historian, Ray Harding. Class poets, Allan Keltner and Jack Knapp.

Class prophet, Alice Bender.

In last night's play the Gamma Rhos downed the Pharmacy club, 23 to 3, the Alpha Sigma Taus downed the Kappa Psis 19 to 9, and the Delta Kappa Sigma five won their tilt from the Delta Pis, 12 to 8.

The league-leading Kappa Phis play the Chemistry club on the Armory floor this afternoon at 5 o'clock, a win for the leaders cinching them a tie for first place whether they lose their final tilt to the Tappa Keggs on Tuesday or not.

ANNUAL KAPPA DELTA ALL-SORORITY TONIGHT

Members of the Kappa Delta sorority will be hostesses at an all sorority party to be held in the Armory this evening. Informal dancing will be enjoyed from 8:30 to 9 p. m., with the formal program taking place from 9 to 11:30.

OLD MEMORIES REVIVED AT COMMUNITY PROGRAM

Memories of olden times were revived at the Community Club program held by the class in community programs in the Little Country Theatre Tuesday evening.

Exhibits of old time costumes and a demonstration of how to make up children's faces for impersonations were features of the program. Refreshments were served in the Lincoln Log Cabin at the conclusion of the entertainment.

ANNUAL ELECTIONS BEING HELD TODAY

ADVISABILITY OF CHANGING NAME OF INSTITUTION ALSO BEING BALLOTTED UPON.

Annual elections for offices on the Student Commission, Board of Athletic Control, Board of Publications Control, and Board of Public Speaking Control, are being held in the office of the registrar from 8:00 a. m. to 4:00 p. m. today.

In addition to the regular elections for student officers, an unofficial ballot is being taken to estimate the student opinion on the advisability of changing the name of the school. Students will vote "yes" or "no" on this question, it being placed on the ballot only for the purpose of finding out what percentage of the student body favor a change from the present name of the institution.

Commissioner of Elections Allen Keltner announced yesterday that Chester Ellickson, nominated for commissioner of public speaking had withdrawn his name for that office, and is a candidate for a place on the board of public speaking control.

Mr. Keltner also announced that students of all classes are eligible to vote for members of the board of publications, regardless of what class the candidates are members.

Candidates for office in the Y. M. C. A. cabinet are being held in conjunction with the regular college elections.

COLLEGE CREDIT TO BE GIVEN FOR SUMMER WORK

Extension of the regular college year to include the summer session will be inaugurated with the next session of the annual summer school.

Regular college credits will be allowed to those students in the summer session, a new innovation this year. In the past, work in the summer session has been confined to courses for rural teachers, but inasmuch as a great deal of this work has been shifted to the teachers' colleges and normal school, and college work has supplanted many of these courses for rural teachers.

As the entire registration for the coming summer session is expected to be for additional college work, it was deemed wise to allow credit for the work toward graduation.

The program for the summer session will be presented by Dr. Coulter for the approval of the board of administration at a session here today. Other matters pertaining to the college will also be taken up at the conference today.

NEW ENGINEERING PUBLICATION TO MAKE DEBUT MAY 15

STUDENTS IN SCHOOL OF MECHANIC ARTS TO PUBLISH TECHNICAL MAGAZINE TO BE ISSUED ONCE EACH TERM.

The "State College Engineer" is the name chosen for the new magazine to be published by the students of the School of Mechanic Arts. The engineers' journal, which is the first campus publication to adopt the name "State College," will be issued once a term on the dates November, February and May 15. It will deal with various branches of the technical school and local items. The publication, a 24-page, enamel paper, 9x12 issue, will be edited by W. B. Booth, senior in engineering.

BISON QUINT TO LEAVE TOMORROW

CORTRIGHT CLAN LEAVE FOR A. A. U. TOURNEY ON N. P. TRAIN AT 2:00 P. M. SATURDAY.

Coach Cortright and eight of his Bison basketballers leave on N. P. Train No. 2 tomorrow afternoon enroute to Kansas City where they will participate in the National A. A. U. basketball tourney which opens at the Kansas City Athletic Club, Monday.

The Bison were tendered their invitation to the meet some time ago by officials of the tourney, and only recently accepted. Financial support for the venture was raised by means of a subscription list placed in the Grand Recreation and Nestor Parlors, and by civic organizations.

Drawings for the team have not been made as yet and it is impossible to tell at this time who the Bison will face in their initial contest.

Some of the strongest amateur teams of the country will be taking part in this tourney, but despite this the Bison must be given more than an outside chance to cop the premier honors of the meet, as they have proven repeatedly that they are a strong quint on a large floor, the type of which they will play on at Kansas City.

The men whom Cortright is taking with him to Kansas City are: Wallace Thompson, Cyril Arnold, Claude Miller, Carl Hanson, George Newgard, Ben Rumpeltes, George McPherson, and Captain Harry Blakely. All those who are making the trip to the tourney completed their term examinations this morning.

EIGHT MEMBERS ADMITTED TO LINCOLN DEBATE CLUB.

Eight new members were admitted to active membership in the Lincoln Debating club at initiation ceremonies held last Tuesday.

The new members are: Victor Lindgren, Park River; Treasure Keuhl, Frank Moore, and Edward Petrick, Fargo; Robina Wylder, Cathay; Dorothy Kretschmar, Frazee, Minn.; and Chester Ellickson, Charlson.

All of the new members were participants in one of the various debates which teams of the college took part in during the season just concluded.

REGISTRATION FOR SPRING TERM ON

SCHEDULES MUST BE FINISHED BEFORE MARCH 23 TO AVOID LATE FEE CHARGE.

Registration for spring term should be finished at once, according to an announcement by A. H. Parrott, registrar, yesterday.

Deans of the various schools are now in a position to handle students who desire to register, and the process of registration should be completed before March 23, the final day of the winter term.

Final examinations for the winter term will cover three days, Saturday, March 20, and the following Monday and Tuesday. No classes will be held on Wednesday, but the first classes of the new term will assemble on Thursday morning, March 25.

Registration may be completed any time now, but the payment of fees may not be made until after today.

The registrar's office will be closed on Friday and Saturday, March 26 and 27, and no students will be allowed to complete their registrations on these days.

Botany 19, a subject dealing with the history of biology, will be offered on Monday, Wednesday and Friday of every week at 11:00 o'clock. This course was pointed out to the editor in a letter from Dr. E. S. Reynolds, head of the department of botany, because of the interest that may be manifested in it due to the special emphasis placed upon the development of the modern theories of evolution. An elementary course in either botany or zoology is a prerequisite for the subject.

Besides the regular courses offered in the college, Wesley College of Religion is offering five courses in religion study to those students who can so arrange their courses to make it fit in their regular schedule.

OFFICIALS ANNOUNCED FOR JUDGING CONTESTS

The Annual Spring Livestock Judging contest will be held at the pavilion tomorrow morning. Judges for the various classes are: William R. Page, agriculture agent for Great Northern railway at Grand Forks, for dairy cattle; Warren Dodds, editor of "Northern Breeder," Lisbon, for hogs; George Baker, college extension agent in livestock, for horses; W. W. Brown, president of the North Dakota Short-horn Breeders Association, Amenia, for bee fettle; William Guy, with Extension department at college, for sheep.

OVER 100 PRIZES TO BE AWARDED IN VARIOUS ACTIVITIES

INDUSTRIAL ARTS EXPOSITION TO FEATURE ANNUAL GATHERING OF MINNESOTA AND N. DAKOTA HIGH SCHOOLS.

The Nineteenth Annual Inter-High School May Festival will be held on May 13, 14, and 15. Large delegations of high school students from points in the state and Minnesota are looked for at the festive gathering, at which high schools will compete in the athletic, industrial and literary fields. Announcements giving complete information have been published and sent to 2,000 high schools.

Fourteen Track Events.

Over one hundred prizes are to be awarded to winners in the various branches of competition. Athletic events on all the days are scheduled for men and women. Friday and Saturday the festival field and track meet consisting of fourteen events for men, will be run off on Dacotah Field. Tennis matches for men and women, and also track events for women are scheduled.

A feature of this year's May festival will be the Industrial Arts Exposition at which the exhibits and handiwork of the students will be on display at Ceres Hall, the Little Country Theatre, the Engineering building, the Armory and Science Hall during the entire three days.

The industrial contests are to be in the nature of demonstrations and exhibit of the work done in the high schools in art, cooking, mechanical drawing, sewing and woodwork. Contests in stock, poultry and crop judging will also be a part of the industrial group.

Entertainment a Plenty.

A declamatory contest, a dramatic contest, a presentation of a one-act play, an extempore speech contest, a story telling contest, and exhibit of miniature stage settings, and a newspaper contest together with an exhibit of high school publications entered will comprise the literary group.

Throughout the three days, entertainment aplenty will be had. Accommodations for the visiting students and instructors have been arranged. Access to any branch or department of the college is to be had by visitors. A display by the department of architecture, and innumerable sidelights of college life and work will be extended for the visitors' interest also.

IS THAT ALL?

Now that the team has had a rally held in their honor, we wonder if we are going to stop at that and let them go the rest of the distance alone.

We do not believe that it is enough to honor the team with a rally the day before they leave to seek the premier honors of the basketball world. The train they leave on does not go out at any inconvenient time for any student to take a short trip down to see the team off. A large crowd to witness their departure should do more than the rally with which they were honored this morning.

It is over twenty-four hours from the time of that rally to the time of their departure, while they will not forget before they reach their destination the splendid sendoff at the depot, if any where near a decent representation see them off at the depot.

It is up to the students.

Is that all?

THE MAY FESTIVAL

The announcement of a May Festival means but little to a number of students who are here for their first year of school work.

As its name implies, the May Festival is held in May, and is in every respect of the word a festival. Students from high schools all over the State and Western Minnesota are invited to take part in the events which take place during the three days of the annual gala days.

Many of you perhaps have a friend in your home town who contemplates entering college soon. There is no better time to invite that friend to see our college than on the three days of the May Festival.

What will you do?

It is none too soon to write a letter today or over the week end and make plans for entertaining this prospective student here during the May Festival.

Students will get a glimpse of college life at this institution, and we have nothing of which we are ashamed, therefore a reason why they may enter here when the time comes for them to pursue a college education.

There are any number of students at this college today who saw this institution for the first time while in attendance at the May Festival.

Here is a chance to be of some service to the school.

If you have any one in mind, write them, if you have no one now, think hard, you surely know some prospective student.

AS IT SHOULD BE

The announcement made by Dr. Coulter yesterday that credit would be allowed for work done in the summer session of the college is as it should be.

Many students are unable to attend all three of the regular sessions of the college, and this should provide many of them with an opportunity to amass credits toward a college degree.

The Spectrum is truly glad to see such a move on the part of the college, and is regarded as another move toward betterment of the college.

DEAN MINARD LAUDS JACK KNAPP'S POEMS

The North Dakota State college may again receive recognition in Henry T. Schnittkind's "Poets of the Future," according to Dean A. E. Minard.

Dean Minard bases his hope on the recently published verses of Jack Stuart Knapp, a senior in the School of Education.

Professor Schnittkind's book is a collection of the best poems written each year by college students over the entire United States. Miss Antoinette Whitman's poem, "On Finding a Book of Poems in the Public Library," won the distinction of publication in the 1922-24 volume. Miss Whitman graduated from the college in 1924.

"As I Please" is the title of the booklet containing fourteen of Knapp's initial efforts in the classical mode of expression.

"Knapp's poems are exceedingly good considering that they represent his first efforts and I should say that they show great promise," Dean Minard declared.

"He has followed the conventional rhyme and meter scheme closely and in this is different from the majority of the 500 or more persons now writing verse in the United States. His thoughts for the most part are new and are presented in a fresh, vigorous style," concluded the dean.

The poems range from the reflective to the descriptive style of thinking. Dean Minard believes that the first poem of the booklet, "What Care I For Dogma's Creed?" is a worthy example of reflective thought. The poem contains figures of speech which are every striking. The three stanzas follow:

What Care I For Dogma's Creed?
Which is inspired to the most degree,
Man as man content to eternity
Or a worm striving a man to be?

Which is the way that God creates,
As coins are stamped with names and dates

Or as roses are grown by gardener's mates?

"Love thy neighbor as thyself"
Is God's decree to you and me,
So what care I for Dogma's creed
Formed from books on a dusty shelf?

The themes of the verses are not worn-out lines of thought but rather of an original nature which commands the attention. A single exception to the above statement may be found in "Sombre Death Will Be Kind To Me." Although the theme is an old one it treats of death in a new light and its worth is recognized by Dean Minard.

Jack Knapp has distinguished himself throughout his college career by his work in Mr. Arvold's department and has shown exceptional talent in play writing. Several of his one-act plays have been presented in the Little Country Theatre where they have met with enthusiastic approval. He has also produced some paintings in oil that are now on display in the Theatre.

"I intend to submit my poems to Professor Schnittkind very soon that they may be considered in competition with the 'would-be' poets of other schools," Knapp announced.

BANKERS ASSOCIATION OFFICER SPEAKS HERE

"Sound banking lies in sound loans and ample reserves," W. C. Macfadden, secretary of the North Dakota Bankers' association, told students in the class of banking and finance Wednesday morning.

"Man might study a life time on the theory of banking, but the whole thing rests on good judgment—the practical is the more important," he said.

Mr. Macfadden outlined the history of banking, explained the causes of bank failures and shoyed the various protective measures that might be taken.

Excessive loans, inexperience of bank officers, lax chartering laws, and lack of supervision were given as causes of failures. The speaker accounted for the banking problems of North Dakota through the loaning of too much money to one industry. Without diversification, the failing of an all important industry drags down the banking structure of community with it. Losses from within are offset by insurance and service charges most easily.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blott—Himself.

A student was heard on the campus to say that if the Bison won the National Tournament, he would buy each member of the team a cigar. And yet there are still people who insist that there isn't any Santa Claus.

Despite statements of the University press that the Bison outlucked the Nodaks in the last game of the series, the most conservative of critics will admit that the Flickers were as lost as an orphan in the proverbial blizzard. It is rumored by General Opinion that if our rival contestants had not heard the final gun, they would have still been wondering when the game was going to commence.

I can't quite figure out why the Nodaks don't like our basketball team. I can, however, by dint of much elucidation, prove that they do admire 'em. All the world loves a good basketball team. We have a good team. The Nodaks think the the Flickertails are the whole world. Therefore, they love our team. Simple.

We can't buy each member of the Bison aggregation a stogie, but we can write a toast for each one:

Here's to "Red," whose noble head Rests on top of his shoulders. Don't ever be led to believe, when it's said,
That he can play marbles with boulders.

And here's to Cy, a regular guy Who could play any game on a porch. He's a good drawing card, but isn't so hard
That he shaves with an acetylene torch.

Here's one for Ben, who knew football when Coolidge was just a mere lad. I'm not trying for humor, but this is the rumor:
With the girls, he's a permanent fad.

Wad, this terrible toast, I hope will not roast
The handsomest man off the campus
This is not a joke, let's break off this yoke,
Of the girls who are trying to vampus.

For our own Claudie Miller, the athletic pillar,
I'm writing this excellent ditty. Horatius would vow, by the sweat of his brow
That if this isn't nutty it's nitty.

He resembles a "pug", our wonderful "Jug,"
Not in his features, but actions. If mump germs there be, it's plain to see
He's a wonderful spot for reactions.

It's plain that Carl Hanson, is an elf when dancin'
This aesthetic stuff on the rocks. After investigation, we find with elation,
His garters will uphold his socks.

If good looks were money, I claim that this sonny,
Whit Tilton, has plenty of wealth. I heave a big sigh, as I wonder why I Couldn't make an exchange for my health.

And here's to Mac, who needs no hack
In getting down the floor. He wins the cup for doubling up
When coming in the door.

Lim'rick Contest

It would appear that a large part of the student body intends to get a cut of the lim'rick melon, judging from the answers already crowding Ebony's lim'rick box. When the little hand of the tower clock touches four this afternoon, your last chance of wining Bison money will have fled—that is if you don't send in your last lines now. The lim'rick this week offers an opportunity for a wide range of answers. You have only to figure out what Ebony would buy his dusky panic. By the way, Ebony created quite a stir in local publication circles when he submitted a last line to this contest saying through a veil of tears "I regret that I have but one last line to give my Bison." He's right. Just one more chance, and here it is:

Our Ebony thought 'twould be fine,
If he'd write a wining last line.
Said he "With that money
Ah'd jus' buy mah honey—

On the rolling plains of South Schenectady, in several scattered buildings, is a vast laboratory for studying radio broadcasting problems. Gathered here are many kinds and sizes of transmitters, from the short-wave and low-power sets to the giant super-power unit with a 50- to 250-kilowatt voice.

Super-power and simultaneous broadcasting on several wave lengths from the same station are among the startling later-day developments in radio. And even with hundreds of broadcasting stations daily on the air throughout the land, these latest developments stand for still better service to millions of listeners.

Only five years old, yet radio broadcasting has developed from a laboratory experiment into a mighty industry. And alert, keen young men have reaped the rewards.

But history repeats itself. Other electrical developments will continue to appear. And it will be the college man, with broad vision and trained mind, who will be ready to serve and succeed.

From the studio of WGY in Schenectady, six miles from the developmental station, there may be controlled a great number of transmitters, one of which is the first super-power transmitter in the world. WGY, together with its associates, KOA of Denver and KGO of Oakland, is the General Electric Company's assurance to the American public that radio broadcasting shall be maintained upon the highest standards.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for booklet GEK-1.

Inquiring Reporter

O. M. Fuller, instructor in agriculture economics, hasn't any adverse criticism to changing the name of this school to North Dakota State college. "The name will be a better advertisement for the school," he said, "as it will draw students here who now have a misconception of the courses offered because of the name Agricultural college." Mr. Fuller believes that the agriculture department would share the benefits derived by the change.

"Our desire to adopt a new name for our college lies not only in the fact that we do not want to be called a 'Cow College', but that we want to inform prospective students that we offer courses in other lines as well," states Ralph Hollands, Alpha Sigma Tau.

Carroll M. Lund, senior in science and literature, presents a new angle to the much discussed question of changing our college name. He says: "Agriculture would not have to be entirely excluded from our official title, if we would adopt the name of North Dakota State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts. Therefore this name should meet the approval of the state legislature and voters of this state. In time the college would become generally known as North Dakota State College, and the longer name would only be used officially."

"Why should this college be named after a course which embraces only 13 per cent of the total college enrollment?" is the question asked by Dick Hackenberg, who has some convincing facts and figures to support his views.

"Statistics obtained from the registrar's office reveal the fact that of 843 students taking college courses, only 114 are enrolled in the School of Agriculture. This does not include the high school students or those obtaining instruction along industrial lines. During the fall term the 'Ag' students made up 11 per cent of the total registration of the college."

Llewelyn P. Howell, college debator, is in favor of immediate action by officials, as the steps necessary to be taken before the name can be officially changed takes quite a period of time. "Chicago was called a town at one time, but it grew and is now called a city. The growth of this college justifies our desire for a more appropriate name," he concluded.

"Wad" Thompson, Bison athlete, states, "The name of Agricultural college is misleading. In talking to high school athletes in an endeavor to get them to attend our college after their graduation from high school, I have found that in almost every case they are not aware of the wide variety of courses offered here. This difficulty could be remedied to a large extent by a change of name."

Ebony Blott, nee Everett Wallum, stated in his humorous way: "As the por upine pines for his pork, As the fat man pines for his plate, Like the woodwork would like its work That's how we want North Dakota State."

After employing 20 assistants in a survey of dictionaries, Gene Ostman's flowery phrases were finally simmered down to the following statement: "I am very much in favor of changing the name of this school to North Dakota State."

Last Season the fancy-band idea on men's felt hats got a good start—and now it is going along full tilt.

For certain styles, the idea is a good one—for others the plain band makes a better effect.
