CADETS DROP TWO GAMES TO BISON QUINT

EIGHT BISON COURT PERFORMERS LEAVE ON FIVE DAY TRIP

TWO CONFERENCE TILTS WITH DES MOINES AND MORNING-SIDE SCHEDULED ON ITINERARY OF CORTRIGHT QUINT.

OPEN AGAINST SIMPSON TONIGHT

MACALESTER AND ST. THOMAS ON TAIL END OF STRENUOUS TRIP—TIGERS AND MORNING-SIDE MAY PROVE TOUGH.

By Eugene Fitzgerald.

Coach Ion J. Cortright and eight Bison court performers left on N. P. train No. 2 yesterday afternoon enroute to Indianola, Ia., where they meet the Simpson college five in the first game of a five game trip tonight.

The Bison are still an undefeated quint, either in or out of conference competition, but with the consummation of the trip, Cortright's cage quint may have their string of victories broken. The Bison are on a five game trip, and these five games are played in as many days. The fact that they are playing five games in as many days is evidence enough to bear out the fact that they can be beaten, and in addition there is not what may be termed a "soft team" on the entire trip.

After meeting Simpson tonight, the Bison jaunt over to Des Moines where they meet the Des Moines Tigers on Wednesday evening. The Bison gave the Tigers a decisive drubbing when the two teams met on the Bison floor three weeks ago, after the Tigers had dropped two straight to the Nodaks the two night previous. Right now the Tigers may be classed with the strongest quints in the loop, their victories over Creighton and the Coyotes last week bearing evidence that they are a much improved five.

Thursday evening the Bison play the Morningside Maroons at Sioux City, the team which downed the Nodaks, who had spilled the dope the night previous by beating the South Dakota Coyotes. The Maroon victory over the Nodaks stamps the Sioux five as a team of high calibre, and one which may well succeed in giving the dope bucket the proverbial kick.

On Friday and Saturday the Bison will be in St. Paul, two games being scheduled for that city, one Friday night against the Macalester Macs, while Saturday evening's tilt will find the Bison and Cadet quints facing each other for the third time this season.

Macalester has not succeeded in doing a great deal in basketball this winter, but after the strain of three tough games, the Bison may fall prey to the Macs. The calibre of the Cadet quint is well known, and catching the Bison at the tail end of a hard trip, and on their own floor the Cadets may prove even stronger than their most ardent admirers believe them to be.

Those who are to make the trip are: Miller, Arnold, Thompson, McPherson, Tilton, Hanson, Newgard, and Coach Cortright.

"I am leaving Ben Rumpeltes, a letterman on last year's quint, home," Cortright explained, "in an endeavor to give men who will be here next year the advantage of experience, but due to the hard trip, I may call for him at St. Paul."

MANITOBA STOCK TEAM JUDGES LIVESTOCK HERE.

Four student judges and two instructors from the Winnipeg, Man., Agricultural college spent Friday and Saturday here judging live stock at the pavilion in preparation for the Red River Valley Stock Judging contest held at Crookston yesterday. The team took first there last year. Prof. E. J. Thompson, stock judging coach here, aided the Canadians in their trial work.

DELTA SIG FIVE DOWN KAPPA PHIS

CHEMISTRY CLUB AND KAPPA PSIS SCORE WINS IN CAMPUS LOOP GAMES THURSDAY.

Kappa Psi, Delta Sig, and Chemistry club quints scored wins in the "Y" campus league basketball tourney on Thursday evening.

In the first game the Kappa Psis beat the Pharmacists 14 to 8, the close guarding of the Psi defensive men keeping the club players shooting at long range. Doore was the star for the winning quint, contributing two field goals and a nice floor game to his team's cause.

The Sigs outplayed and outshot the Kappa Phis in the second game in downing the Phi five 14 to 18. The victory of the Sig quint came as somewhat of a surprise as the Kappa Phi looked impressive in their win over the Gamma Rhos Tuesday night. The Kapa Phi defense was very loose and many avoidable tries were given the Sig scorers. Gray and Grieve starred for the Sigs, while Olson and Wall were the Kappa Phi outstanding performers.

The new entrants into the league, the Chemistry club, won their first start by handing the Delta Pi five a 13 to 18 beating. The Pis used ten men in an endeavor to stave off defeat, but the Chemists outshot and outplayed the engineering quint thruout. Grieve and Jepson starred for the Chemistry club quint, while Chadwick looked the most impressive for the Pis.

SIGMA THETAS INITIATE THREE

Sigma Theta sorority held formal initiation services for Margaret Donovan, Marion Trobridge, and Floy Beatty, all of Fargo, at the home of Virginia Wright Sunday afternoon.

Mock initiation for the initiates was held last Wednesday evening at the home of Miss Sylvia Tilton. After the services the pledges served a dinner to the active and alumni members of the organization.

YOUNG NAMED PROM MANAGER

Elery Young was named manager of the Junior Prom at a meeting of the junior class held in the Little Country Theatre Monday noon. About 64 members were present at the meeting. No date for the affair has been set as yet, but it is expected that it will not be held until after the Lenten season.

"A Play a Month" is the slogan adopted by the Playmakers, University of North Dakota dramatic society.

PROMINENT SEVENTH CORPS AREA LEADERS SENT INVITATIONS BY COMMITTEE IN CHARGE OF WORK.

COMMITTEES REPORT WORK PROGRESSING

T. C. affairs for the Seventh Corps Area, lead the list of military men who will be honor guests of Scabbard and Blade at the Annual Military Ball, February 19, according to Thomas Canniff, chairman of the committee of invitations. Other Prominent Guests Invited. The list of honor guests includes several men of state and college prominence, including Governor and Mrs. Sorlie, Adjutant General and Mrs. Frazier, President and Mrs. John Lee Coulter, and Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parrott, as well as the officers attached to the college military staff.

These are: University of North Dakota at Grand Forks, Creighton, at Omaha University of Nebraska, at Lincoln; South Dakota, at Vermillion; Minnesota, at Minneapolis; South Dakota State college, at Brookings; and Montana, at Missoula. Three men are expected from the cadet corps at Grand Forks, the cadet major, the captain of Scabbard and Blade, and one other officer.

Many state and local officers are included on the list of honor guests that promises for the Military Ball a select and worthy crowd. Among these are: Lt. Col. W. G. Doane of Grand Forks; Colonel M. H. Sprague of Grafton, Lieutenant Colonel D. S. Ritchie of Valley City, and Colonel M. F. Steele, Capt. H. F. Thompson, Captain J. P. Glandon, Captain Frank Anders, M. H., all of Fargo.

Work Progressing.

The progress made in the work of the committee on invitations is paralleled closely by the efforts of the other committees in charge. Preparations are being pushed rapidly to a successful completion and the arrival of February 19 will find the school ready to experience its most successful military ball.

It is still appropriate to again explain the significance and character of the Military Ball, so that no one shall stay away because of a misunderstanding concerning its scope. Any member of the cadet corps, any stu-

Due to mid-term examinations which occur this week end there will be no issue of the Spectrum on Friday of this week.

HOCKEY LEAGUE OPENS PLAY THIS AFTERNOON

Play in the intramural hockey league will open this afternoon, teams "N" and "D" being scheduled for the first contest. The game will be played on the Bison rink, play being set for four o'clock. The second contest of the loop will be played Thursday afternoon, teams "A" and "C" facing each other. Capt. Thos. Smith, Bison hockey metor, will officiate all games.

ILLINOIS RATES COLLEGE CLASS 'A'

STANDARDS OF ILLINOIS HIGHER THAN THOSE OF OTHER ASSOCIATIONS.

The North Dakota Agricultural college is now rated at a class "A" institution of higher learning. This classification came as a result of the information furnished the University of Illinois in response to a questionnaire which was submitted last September, according to A. H. Parrott, registrar.

In mentioning the standards that have been set by Illinois, Mr. Parrott states that the University of Illinois has a much more exacting professional standard than those set forth by the Regents of New York or by the North Central Association or even by the Association of American Universities. "Class 'A' is the highest rating given by the University of Illinois," says Mr. Parrott.

JOHN COWPER POWYS ADDRESSES STUDENTS

"Get a perspective of modern day life; for, if you think modern life is so wonderful, you're an idiot," was an admonishment of John, Cowper Powys, noted English author and lecturer gave students in a remarkable address upon "The Art of Self Culture" at convocation yesterday. Mr. Powys proved to be a highly dynamic speaker with a wide knowledge of literature and its powers; but throughout his lecture, popularly received, ran a strain of trenchant philosophy.

Self culture as defined by Mr. Powys is not to be gained by everyone. It runs contrary to the material trend of the modern day. The speaker recommended several of the older authors the reading of which would give the student perspective of his own day. Wadsworth, Lamb and Hazlitt were outstanding in his favor.

HERD SHOWS POWER IN OFFENSIVE AND DEFENSIVE PLAY

ENTIRE BISON QUINT PLAY IMPRESSIVELY IN OPENING GAME ON ARMORY FLOOR FRIDAY EVENING.

ARNOLD PLAYS DESPITE INJURY

CORTRIGHT USES ENTIRE SECOND STRING WITH EXCEPTION OF NEWGARD IN CLOSING MINUTES OF LAST TILT.

By Dick Hackenberg.

They came, they saw, but they didn't conquer! Jack Murray's St. Thomas Cadets invaded the A. C. campus Friday evening only to be routed in disorder, 43-26, by the unbeatable Bison cagers. The doctory Irish tried again Saturday after dark, springing a surprise attack, but the Bison were ready for them and the Tommies were repulsed a second time in a fast scirmish, 29-15.

Arnold Plays.

As per usual, the cool leadership of Captain Blakely brought victory to his regiment in both engagements. The shooting of the Bison artillery Arnold, Newgard, and McPherson, was most effective at both long and short range. Claudie Miller's guarding made the second line defense impregnable while the floorwork of the whole quint completely bewildered the Tommies. Cy Arnold, playing in spite of an injured leg, proved to be the life of the Bison machine. Jug Newgard added a scoring threat to his brilliant court work, tying McPherson and Arnold for scoring honors in the first game, and copping high scorer's medal in the second contest.

The Tommy threats were vested in Smith, Wickins, and Peterson with Dady, Cadet pivot, showing up especially in the Saturday game. Smith was easily the outstanding member of the Murray quint, although the wiry forward suffered a severe setback in his usual game when he was pitted against the Bison guards.

Claudie Miller started Friday's battle with a short shot which was followed by Newgard's pretty goal from the side. The Tommies broke into the scoring column with a free throw and Arnold maintained the four point lead with a duplicate. Dady registered again from the foul line and McPherson tipped Arnold's wide free throw into the basket making it 7-2. Blakely scored from the field and the Tommies caged a goal and a free toss. Cy deposited a brace of baskets while the Cadets were doing the same, raising the scores to 13-7. Blakely and Arnold scored and McPherson caged a basket and a foul shot. Smith scored as the period ended 20-9.

St. Thomas started the second period scoring, but successive baskets by Miller, Blakely and Newgard kept the Bison out in front by a comfortable margin. McPherson and Newgard brought the score to 39 while the Cadets raised their count to 23, and Cortright sent in the reserves. Two free throws by Blakely sent the captain to the showers and a basket by Hanson ended the game after a long shot and a free toss by the Tommies had made the score 43-26.

A JUSTIFICATION.

Much averse criticism has reached the Spectrum office, from both direct and indirect sources, on the frequent use of "by lines" in this publication. For the benefit of those not acquainted with newspaper vernacular, we might explain, a "by line" is the insertion of the author's name over his article.

By lines are frequently used in metropolitan newspapers when the name of the writer will give the story more prestige. The most frequent use of by lines, however, is found on the sport pages of newspapers, the opinion of the writer being given in most instances. Opinionated news is a direct violation of newspaper etiquette, but this violation is justified when the author inserts his name over the article.

In this publication the greater number of articles carry opinionated news where a by line is used. In justification to those staff members writing such articles, it might be said at this time that they have nothing whatsoever to do with their name appearing over their article.

To those who have held this averse criticism to the use of by lines, we hope we have made our stand clear, for in today's issue three main stories carry by lines, two of which carry opinionated news, and the other the work of the publicity chairman for the Military Ball.

WHY NOT?

Bison followers have always left enmasse for the University when the Bison quint played the upstaters and there is no apparent reason why that tradition, if it be permitted to call it that, should be broken his year. A special train has usually served the needs of the students, and if a sufficient number are secured the Great Northern railroad has given the students rates. These rates are usually reduced enough so that no hardship is worked on any student making the trip.

While it may sound unreliable, students who make these trips annually are more than recompensed in experience for making the trip. The associations which students get while on these trips are much closer than those they get while attending classes. The basketball games in themselves are worth all the students pay out to see them, but the realization of what these trips will mean in after life is the thing which will remain indelibly printed in the memory of all those who are fortunate enough to make the annual tour.

There is one organization which is seldom, if ever, left behind, and that is the Gold Star Band. The band is one of the most worthwhile things which are of vital help to the team in a pinch. A few rooters and no band means very little support for the team, and the Nodaks are a tough quint, and in order to insure wins over them the Bison need every available atom of support at the games at Grand Forks.

It is true that there is still nearly two weeks before the games at the Flicker school, but now is the time to start making preparations for getting a special train, and providing means of taking the band up. A tag day would not be out of order at once in order to assure funds to take the band, and the sooner this is started the sooner the railroad officials can be assured of the number of students who will make the trip.

Everyone should start agitation at once for a special train, and report to the one put in charge of arrangements to take care of a special whether he is going or not, so that there will be no last minute delay on completing the arrangements.

The Nodak-Bison series are more important this year than they have been for some time, for, on the outcome of this series the state and conference championship depend.

Why not get started at once and start preparations for the biggest series between the two state schools, and help the Bison with their first undisputed North Central conference championship?

"There is no outstanding objection to having a Bison Ace section that I am aware of," states Dean A. E. Minard. "I am, however, opposed to a beauty contest section."

George "Jug" Newgard, an Ace in last year's annual, believes that it causes ill feelings among the students on the campus, and therefore it is best to eliminate this section and use this space in the annual for some worthy undertaking.

"Politics enters into these contests as only half of the students vote," says Miss Grace Bayliss, Bison Ace. "Those elected are not always the most representative."

Miss Dorothy Stoudt, Bison Ace, says: "Some of the most worthy students are neglected in electing Bison Aces, while some who are elected are given more credit than they deserve. Many non-fraternal students take the attitude that their vote cannot win over the organized groups, and do not vote."

"I believe the Bison Ace section is all right," states Eugene Forrest, president of the Pharmacy Club. "I think the method of having each school of the college choose their aces is the best, each school being entitled to as many aces in proportion to the number of students of the school. Many students will think that this method will lead to politics. What of it? Politics is just the thing we should all get a taste of while we are here at college, because we will all be involved in politics in life's school. You cannot keep out of politics even if you wish to. Since politics governs you, you might as well govern politics."

Miss Marjorie Gullickson, Bison Ace, says: "The general opinion of the non-fraternity people seems to be against a Bison Ace section. It is no particular asset to the school."

Emery Putnam, Bison Ace and business manager of the Bison, says: "Vanity Fair and Bison Ace contests are always for the prime purpose of increasing interest in the Bison as publicity stunts or for the purpose of promoting subscription sales. Publicity and subscriptions can both be obtained by other means than these and at the same time obviate any political entanglements and prejudices which invariably arise from such contests."

E BULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blott—Himself.
 The game was terrible from my viewpoint. The Bison were trailing 47 to 8 at the end of the third quarter. Couldn't anything be done? Evidently not, as the score was 58 to 10 when I woke up.

"I think I'll drop in on the boys," muttered Santa to himself as his foot slipped in the chimney.

When he entered the place he walked as straight as these lines—but when he came out—

BUT WHEN HE CAME OUT!

We note with unfeigned pleasure that a Turkish citizen got a job at 150 years of age. There is still hope for some of us—but then maybe he wasn't a college man.

A Creighton student has written a song "Oh, Come to Creighton." It's funny that they went sing it to the Bison quintette.

A college dean was presenting a moral lecture to a class of boys: "What is it," said he, "What is it that we should all attempt to encircle during our college days? What is it that we should cling to tenaciously, and yet tenderly?"

"Waste?" shouted the janitor as he entered the room with the waste paper basket.

"Wrong! Sit down!" roared the fooled one.

Dear Anne: I am not acquainted with Speed, but I think Gus is O. K.

Dear Ebony: I'm afraid I am a most reckless girl. I even hesitate in telling you what I have done. Don't breathe a word of it, but I danced with a boy in a public dance hall without chaperone or convention. Is there no hope for such as me?

IVA CONSHUNCE. Dear Iva: I receive hundreds of pitiful letters with the same heart-rending plea. By all means marry the boy.

Dear Ebony: I followed your advice of recent date and killed my sweetheart. I am to be hung today. I merely want to thank you for your timely advice. Hoping you are the same. Yours bluely, ARCHIE TOKE.

Dear Archie: If you read this you'll be awfully lucky. I'll drop around and sing "The Prisoner's Song" to cheer you up. I'm afraid you'll find life is a tight squeeze.

Lim'rick Contest

Only two judges were needed to deduct the winner in the last, the third of a series of four, lim'rick. The first two judges interviewed, picked Stewart Schlipf's contribution as being the most appropriate for the limerick printed here:

Of our Sophomore center, we hear He's the basketball "find" of the year.

He don't mind at all The fact that he's tall— For his height makes the basket so near.

All that was needed to write the lim'rick was logic. Stewart indulged in a bit of rollicking good humor when he submitted the laugh provoking last line "All the more neck, to neck with, my dear," which did not make the hit with the judges that it did with Ebony Blott. "For it helps him in tapping the sphere," was Clarence Reed's excellent contribution. Norman Jones submitted "For he jumps and runs like a deer," in his contest debut. Treasure Keuhl, another new entrant, deserved commendation with "But the other teams do mind, we hear." Jay Bryant continued agitating competition with his last line "From his height he can easier see'er."

As a fitting climax for the last limerick of this series, we have picked "Jug" Newgard as the deserving victim. Bison followers should not lack complimentary adjectives in describing his ability. Start on this one now. See that "Jug" doesn't lack any followers by doing your share in submitting a last line. It's fun, and it may be very profitable for you.

An eye for the basket has "Jug", Who cages them in neat and snug. Ten times out of nine You'll see Newgard shine—

Jay Bryant, Althea Reed, and Stewart Schlipf are the ones eligible for the $2 to date. As this series closes with the conclusion of the above contest, it will be very possible for someone to win the money. Don't forget the $15 and the added incentive to compete in the form of the winner's picture which will be given a prominent space in the Bison.

Herd Shows Power in Offensive, Defensive

After a little argument as to who should be the first to score, McPherson tossed the leather to Newgard who ushered in Saturday's struggle with a clean under-the-basket shot. Arnold dropped in a free throw and a minute later the Tommies tied the count at 3-al. McPherson and Blakely came to the rescue with successive baskets and Newgard added a free throw bringing the count to 8-3. Two long shots by the Tommies again cast a shadow over the Bison lead, 8-7. McPherson and Newgard elected to put the Bison out in front with a goal apiece, and the Cadets brought their score to 9 with two free throws. McPherson and Newgard again registered and Blakely and Mac each donated a foul shot. Cy Arnold came through with a free throw ending the half 19-9.

At the outset of the second period St. Thomas added a point on Newgard's technical foul, and scored from the field a minute later. Arnold and McPherson, and Newgard ran the count to 24 and the Tommies made their total 15. Arnold made a free throw and Cortright sent the whole first string with the exception of Newgard to the showers. Hanson and Fuller added two baskets to the Bison total and the game ended 29-15.
