BUNNIES--JIMMIES INVADE CORTRIGHT CAMP

BISON HAVE EASY TIME DOWNING COBS 35-13 WEDNESDAY

NEWGARD RETURNS TO LINEUP—FRESH GRIDSTERS PRESENTED WITH NUMERALS BEFORE OPENING OF GAME.

BREWSTER STARS FOR COB QUINT

BISON MENTOR SHIFTS LINEUP—BISON DEFENSE HOLDS CONCORDIANS TO TRIO OF LONG-FIELD GOALS.

By Dick Hackenberg.

Completely outclassed in every department of the game, the Concordia Cobbers dropped the second contest of the inter-city series to the Bison Wednesday, 35-13. A clever and versatile attack launched by Cortright's herd in the opening period piled up a lead which was never disputed by the Minnesota invaders.

Reserves Hold Cobs.

While the Bison regulars ere in the fray the Cobber quint was almost helpless before the terrific onslaught of the Bison offense and the impenetrable defense of Cortright's charges. Even against the reserves the Moorhed quintet failed to assert their claims to victory, seemingly to have diagnosed the outcome before the game had started.

The Bison quint have two more games scheduled for the week, the South Dakota State Bunnies meeting the Bison at the Armory tonight, and Karl Erickson's Jimmies being Bison opponents tomorrow night. Both quints are capable of furnishing the Bison the kind of competition to make them step in order to win, in spite of the fact that the Cortright clan handed both quints a beating earlier in the season. Students will enter at the west entrance, while Bison Boosters and complimentary tickets enter the west side entrance. The east entrance will be for those holding general admission tickets.

A new combination was presented to the fans at the opening of the contest by the Bison mentor. The sorrel-topped head of Captain Blakely was seen protruding from a left forward berth, while George McPherson who had formerly occupied that compartment was comfortably situated in the pivot position. This shift made the combination which had baffled all the Bison rival quints more complex. The new pivot took over the duties of his office immediately and proceeded to outscore, outjump, and outplay all the other ambitious youths about him. Blakely fitted into his new position with almost equal ease and was second-up in the scoring honors. The work of Miller and Arnold in the guarding department was one of the features of the game. The cobbers were held to three field goals all of which originated from the center of the floor or its whereabouts. Jug Newgard easily won the debate of the evening by upholding the negative side of the question, "Resolved: That mumps slow up a basketball player."

THREE FORMER STUDENTS PLEDGED AT MINNESOTA

Three national fraternities at the university of Minnesota pledged three former students of the college, according to word received in Fargo recently.

Edward Bestic was pledged to Sigma Phi Upsilon, Philip Burger to Phi Kappa Psi, and Dawson Dinsmore to Sigma Chi. All three enrolled at Minnesota last fall.

A. C. DEVELOPS PAINT EXPERT, SAYS PEARCE

How the North Dakota Agricultural college is developing both highly trained expert chemists and also painters and paperhangers in the paint and paperhanging trades, was discussed by Dr. W. T. Pearce, in one of the feature addresses before the annual convention of the North Dakota association of Master Painters and Decorators Wednesday.

Dr. Pearce explained why the North Dakota Agricultural College deemed it wise to train men in chemistry in a largely agricultural state. He told how chemistry is playing a great part in the development of modern civilization.

"The application of chemistry has been and is the greatest factor in the development of civilization," he declared. "It has created and developed our greatest industries. It has contributed largely to our health and happiness."

He told of the early work in chemistry at the college, and how through the chemistry department there were established pure food laws and regulations; paint laws and other safeguarding laws.

The first paint test fence was erected at the college in 1896 and since that time the chemistry department has continued in its research work in this department.

Dr. Pearce himself spends part of his summers in paint and varnish factories, he explained, studying the methods of manufacturing these products. All the information he gathers, added to his own research work, is made into a year's course at the college.

Addresses which were largely technical, were delivered by W. J. Springstead of Berry Bros., Detroit, Mich.; E. Croll, chief chemist of the paint and varnish division, Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., Milwaukee, Wis.; Virgil Hicks, of M. H. Birge & Sons, wallpaper manufacturers, Buffalo, N. Y.

CHEMIST'S CLUB REGULAR MEETING HELD TUESDAY

The Chemist's club held its regular meeting on Tuesday evening in the Chemistry building, the principal features of which were talks by P. R. Croll, director of research of the Pittsburg Plate Glass Co., and J. R. McGregor, general sales manager of the Eagle Picher Lead Co. After the meeting light refreshments were enjoyed by those present.

SADDLE AND SIRLOIN ANNUAL STOCK SHOW HELD SUCCESSFULLY

LARGEST NUMBER OF ANIMALS EVER EXHIBITED IN LITTLE INTERNATIONAL SHOW IN TUESDAY'S DISPLAY.

CAPACITY CROWDS ATTEND EXHIBITS

BELGIAN HORSES, NORTH DAKOTA BOY, AND FAT LAMBS ARE ADDED FEATURES OF ANNUAL STOCK EXHIBITS.

Students of the School of Agriculture exhibited the largest number of animals ever shown in the annual Little International Fitting and Showing contest held on Tuesday in the stock pavilion.

Six Divisions Shown.

A capacity crowd viewed the judging and entertainment features. Six different divisions of livestock were shown, beef cattle, dairy cattle, swine, sheep, horses, and poultry being on exhibit.

Added features of this year's exhibit were the showing of the string of Belgian horses owned by the college, North Dakota Boy, who won his class and the Junior Championship over all breeds of beef cattle at the International Exposition in Chicago, and the display of the fat lamb which won first at a show recently held at St. Paul.

Winners in the various classes were: Sheep: Paul Abrahamson, first; Clyde Barks, second; Graham Fuller, third. Abrahamson won the silver loving cup donated by the Interstate Seed Co., Barks and Fuller were presented with stockman's canes by Armour & Co.

Horses: Fritz Schroeder, first; A. Lahlum, second; W. Lund, third. Schroeder received a loving cup donated by Prof. J. R. Dice. The other two contestants were presented with canes by Armour & Co.

Swine: Merrill Burke, first; Lloyd Landblom, second; Ferdinand DeMasey, third. Burke won a silver loving cup donated by Goldberg Feed Co. Canes were donated by Armour & Co. to the other two contestants.

Beef cattle: Theodore Piper, first; Ray Douglas, second; Theodore Mar-

NOTICE.

In accordance with the announcement made in the Spectrum recently, several new additions have been made, both on the editorial and business staffs. There are several major positions still open, amongst them being the position of Conference Editor, and assistant sports writer.

One of the most interesting positions on the staff, that of inquiring reporter, is still open to some live wire, who wants to do a bit of inquiring on important campus questions. We don't care if you have never had any experience on a newspaper, come in now and see what you can get.

PLANS FOR ENLARGING C. E. OFFICE ARE MADE

Work commenced last Friday on the enlargement of the office of the department of civil engineering. This is made possible by using a part of the hall formerly between this office and the senior C. E. room. It is expected that the new plan will give the department approximately seventy-five feet additional floor space.

ENGINEER'S WILD WEST DANCE ON MARCH 26TH

On the evening of Friday, March 26, the Armory will assume its annual western carnival atmosphere, and the students of the School of Mechanic Arts will act as hosts to the rest of the college at their annual all-college party, it was definitely decided at the regular meeting of the student chapter of the American Association of Engineers held last Thursday evening.

It was decided that the affair should again carry out the early western carnival idea as has been the custom in former years. Several new features are being planned, and it is the aim of the engineering student body to make it bigger and better than ever before. An added attraction this year will be the lighting effects which promise to be the most elaborate ever displayed in the college Armory. Walter Booth has been named manager of the affair, and he has chosen Harold Hulet to assist him.

ANNUAL COUNTY FAIR SATURDAY

ANNUAL PRODUCTION OF INDUSTRIAL COURSES TO BE HELD IN L. C. T.

The sixth annual County Fair, staged by the Industrial course students will open at the Little Country Theatre Saturday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. This year's fair will be bigger and better than has been any of previous years, states J. C. Langaunet, secretary of the fair association. The committee of nine students in the industrial arts course have spared no efforts to make the annual exhibition an outstanding one. Although there will be no dirt track auto races to begrime or disappoint the visitors, the afternoon and evening programs will be replete with entertainment.

Gates are to swing open at four and remain so until eight o'clock when the Bison-Jimmies basketball game begins. It has been decided by the committee to close up for the game and hold the evening program after the basketball clash. Prominent speakers and music, with other features have been arranged for. Each year the students in the power machinery and farm husbandry classes stage a display of their handiwork. Last year's fair in one section presented the novelty of a model farm with an electric light system operated by a clever water wheel scheme. Hand forged and lathe turned tools made up another section of the 1925 fair.

WILLIAM TOUSSAINT NAMED AS LEADER OF FORMAL PARTY

COMMITTEE CHAIRMEN ARE APPOINTED—EXTENSIVE PREPARATIONS UNDER WAY FOR ANNUAL PARTY.

SCABBARD AND BLADE IN CHARGE AGAIN

TICKET SALE TO START SOON—BETTER PARTY THAN EVER IS AIM OF THIS YEAR'S MANAGEMENT.

By Stewart Schlipf.

William Toussaint has been elected by Scabbard and Blade to lead the Military Ball and, having appointed his committee chairmen, will begin on a month of extensive preparations for the ball, which is scheduled for February 19. Mr. Toussaint is a senior officer in the college R. O. T. C. and a member of Scabbard and Blade fraternity.

Better Party Aim.

The Military Ball is one of the two big formal parties of the year and through the past several seasons has set a high standard of entertainment that makes it an eagerly looked-for event. This year's management has promised no let down from the excellence of former years but rather an even better party, worthy of a growing college and an increasing military department.

Scabbard and Blade took over complete charge of the Military Ball for the first time last year and this year will continue its sponsoring of the party, according to Captain Llewelyn Howell. Members of Scabbard and Blade will assist Mr. Toussaint in his preparations, while every cadet officer will be called on for his aid in making the party preparations complete.

Frank Leakey, Cadet Lieutenant-Colonel, will act as assistant manager and Paul Revell as floor manager. The heads of the various committees are: Decorations, Clyde Challey; Invitations, Thomas Canniff; Features, Robert Sanderson; Music and Refreshments, Walter Clasen; Publicity, Stewart Schlipf.

Around these committee chairmen will be grouped several members of the advanced course, and the completed committees will begin functioning immediately in the month of preparation prior to Feb. 19.

Lest some confusion exist, Scabbard and Blade also wishes to announce the exact nature of the Military Ball. It is a formal college dance, traditionally held in the college armory and open to all students, faculty members, and friends of the college. Members of the Cadet Battalion are expected to wear their uniforms rather than full dress or Tuxedos.

Additional information on the progress of the preparations will be available continuously and the ticket sale will start within a short time. Watch the Spectrum for announcement of opening of the ticket sale as only a limited number are issued.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT.

(With apologies to Ripley.)

Once upon a time, there was a class here on the campus, a well organized, enthusiastic class, that met systematically and often and really accomplished things. But that, like the fairy story, was a long, long time ago. And things have changed.

So now we say, "He is a junior" like we would say "She is a blonde" and mean little more by it. It has become a weak descriptive adjective rather than a strong and meaning noun. And to imagine that anyone would positively be so wasteful of their time as to attend a class meeting when it can really be spent to a much better advantage playing whist or matching pennies, is absurd. And so it goes.

We can defy or challenge any college class here to produce evidence of more than two meetings this year or of more than 19 1/2 per cent of attendance at a class gathering. We could do this and more. But we should be wasting our own time; for we wouldn't get an answer. Not one.

Years slip by unceasingly and collegiate classes wend their gradual way to that mutual congratulatory day in June without form, shape, voice, or consciousness. They are but phantoms of classes. There is traditionally a president, who has nothing over which to preside, a vice president, whose name no one in the class ever knows, a secretary, who has nothing of which to write, and a treasurer, who draws two checks each fiscal year. And nothing more.

Each fall the huskier element of the freshman and sophomore classes engage in a brief civil war and then retire to erase the stigma of a possible connection with any class. Neither class is ever heard from again. The juniors in the usual course of events rally enough latent energy to stage the Junior Prom and to pay a respectable share of their bills. Toward the end of the final year the seniors display a bit of effort and succeed in graduating in some sort of orderly formation. And, naturally, the speaker of the day extolls with dripping phrases the virtues and glories of the class about to depart, which is fitting—and promptly forgotten.

Why this has come to pass we cannot say. Nor does anyone seem to know. Or care to find out. It's too much like work. Classes as organizations are mere nominal collections of students grouped for the convenience of the registrar and to allow certain sundry students to get their pictures in the annual as class officers, which is usually worth a good laugh, seeing that on the average three of every ten students take the time and trouble to vote.

We don't pretend to know the reason; there are no doubt many. Over-organization is one; too many activities for some students. Heavy schedules is another. And so is the lack of definite class lines, owing to the credit hour system that leaves many on the border line of classes. General indifference, however, is the basic and compelling factor.

Nor do we wish to point a remedy, if remedy there be. Such a course of class strengthening, stabilizing, and resuscitation must be initiated from within, not from without. This is merely a hint for those who have taken the precious time from campus to read this through. This is aimed especially at the present junior class which, to all outside knowledge, has not yet laid any plans for the annual Prom. If this is the case and nothing has been done so far, then they are well on the way toward setting a new campus record. A kind of left-handed record, one to be taken out and lost.

YEA! NODAKS!

Hail! the conquering heroes come—home from Creighton!

A jubilant and appreciative Bison team and school wishes to shake the Flickers by the hand and bestow on Fred Yoder himself a monstrous verbal bouquet. You have fought our fight as well as your own; you have given us a chance to win, a chance that a shrewd and crafty Creighton coach and administration nearly denied us on a technicality.

It was a great victory, a doubly appreciated victory. An entire Bison student body was pulling for a Flicker win, and you did it. And now, Flickers, the best of luck and all success—until February 20.

This is Dacotah Day.

Of all the members of the Bison Booster club, perhaps, the best known, especially amongst the men students of the college, is Stephen A. (Steve) Gorman. Steve is manager of the Grand Recreation Parlors at 620 First Avenue North.

Steve was born in Moorhead, Minn., Sept. 4, 1888, and may be classed as a native of these parts. He takes an active interest in all branches of athletics, and while so engaged, he finds plenty of time to be an ardent booster for Bison athletics and Bison athletes.

Steve worked for the Crane Co. for some time until he went into the employ of the Fargo Fire Department, from where he left to buy an interest in his present establishment. He served in the A. E. F. during the war, and is a member of the American Legion and "40 et 8" organizations, composed of men who were in the service during the conflict with Germany.

If there is an important local athletic contest, football, basketball, boxing, or what not, Steve usually arranges to have reports at regular intervals, or else he has a leased wire running into his establishment, where most of the sport loving public receive first hand information on the conflict they are interested in.

Nearly all reports of important athletic contests are given out over the phone from here, innumerable phone calls on the outcome of game being received after important contests. Whenever one wants to find the result of an athletic contest, they usually ask central to give them "1300" and Steve or his assistants, Goody Eastlund, Leify Flaten, or Art Billmeyer, have all the dope memorized to hand out.

Steve was vice president of the Fargo club in the Dakota league a few years back, and before that was one of the officers of the independent club which was maintained here. While Steve was never a professional ball player, it is a little known fact that he once hit a home run and made two bases on the blow. Of course that was quite a few years back, and he is now much too old to take an active part in athletics.

While Steve has been in the recreation game for quite a number of years it has been a long time since he beat anyone a game of pool or billiards, not because he wanted to be ociable, but because he is about the worst player who participates in these games with the possible exception of a few who occasionally inaugurate a "dummy" tourney.

Steve was married to Miss Gladys Mock, Feb. 15, 1922 and has one daughter and one son, Beverly Ann, and Steve, Jr. He resides at 624 Fifth Street North. He is a member of the Board of Governors of the Bison Booster Club, a Rotarian, Knight of Columbus, Eagle, Elk, and maybe he forgot some of the rest, but anyway, he is an ardent booster for athletics, and Bison athletics are not the ones he takes the least interest in.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blot—Himself.

"This money is going to my head," protested the man as he paid the barber the four bits.

The poor fellow. The poor, poor fellow. I have seen him at various intervals, and his condition seems incurable. I saw him last night, and I had to laugh, in spite of myself. Here he came down the street with a musket in one hand and an old hatchet in the other. Right down Broadway, he came, singing "Yankee Doodle" in a strong halitosis voice. He must have rented his colonial costume from Omar, the tent maker. Yes, the poor demented creature labored under the delusion that he was George Washington. Imagine that! I have to laugh, even now, with all my pity, at the brass of his looniness. Just think of what people must think of him. The pitiful creature calls out to imaginary minute men, and every once in a while he makes wild flourishes at a tree with his hatchet while cackling fiendishly. Little reck he that there are none to heed his call. Nobody will listen to him, BECAUSE I AM GEORGE WASHINGTON!

Who Isn't Which In America.

Throttleson, X. Haust. Statistics show that he was born. Singer, Metropolitan Janitor's Club. Began his warbling career crooning blissfully to hackneyed canaries. Gained noteworthy success singing "Refrain from Necking." Guilty of composing "Why Is My Sweetie Cold When Its A Hundred In The Shade?" and "Ode to A Dying Bull Frog," the last named for which he served four years in Sing Sing. He was last seen singing to a large group of moths on an uninhabited island.

"I'll bite, what?" moaned the starving marooned desert Islander.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 26.—Creighton Bluejays won a 25 to 21 contest over the North Dakota cagers here tonight. The Nodaks held a 12-8 advantage at half time, but the Bluejays started a determined offense in the middle of the final period which netted them a win. Edwards was the star for the Nodaks, while Brown did the best work for the Bluejays.

Omaha, Neb., Jan. 27.—The University of North Dakota quint turned the tables on the Bluejays tonight and won the second game of their two-game series here 20 to 19. The win virtually put the Bluejays out of the race for conference honors, the North Dakota State quint not having lost a tilt to date.

Grand Forks, N. D., Jan. 23—Celia Ebenham, a senior in the School of Education, was elected the most athletic coed on the campus of the University of North Dakota at an election held by the members of the Women's Athletic association during the past week.

Miss Ebenham has been on all-varsity teams in four sports. She has also been a member of every inter-class basketball, volleyball, and hockey team organized during her course at the university.

In track work she was also prominent, being fourth individual winner in the last track meet. Miss Ebenham exceeded the baseball throw by nine feet and two inches.

Two W. A. A. sweaters have already been earned by this year's most athletic coed and at the present time she is working for a third. She is now treasurer and secretary of the W. A. A.

Most representative coeds were chosen in six other sports including hockey, basketball, volleyball, tennis, baseball, and track.

The judging committee was made up of the head of the department of physical education for women, the president of the W. A. A., and the editor of the Women's Athletic association.

Play Committee Picked.

At the Senior class meeting last Tuesday the following people were chosen by President Pease to serve on the Class Play committee: Lynas Lloyd, J. A. Wahl, Art Johnson, Elizabeth Schultz, Anne Studlien, and E. Woolsey Pease. Plans for the all-college party were discussed, and Lucille Barnhart and Lewis Beals were chosen to fill vacancies on the permanent entertainment committee.

The members of the senior class received their rings and pins at the class meeting Tuesday. The rings are of a design chosen by the majority of the class, a design that resembles that of last year's rings a great deal. The pins, designed the same as the rings, are especially attractive.

The Bison Again.

If you have not already bought your Bison you still have until February 1. The work on the High School section is nearly complete. Copy has gone in for all but the athletic, debate and satire sections, and this copy will be read soon. A unique satire section will give you enough good, healthy laughs alone to be worth the price, and there are the other sections of the annual besides. A part payment now, the balance when the book is delivered, and the Bison is yours to ponder and laugh over in the years to come.

It is not too late yet to enter the H. S. declamation contest to be held early in February. If you plan on entering the contest leave your name with Miss Challey at once.

The Hesperians will meet again Feb. 4. Every H. S. man planning on joining must be at this meeting.

Marvin Kroghus of Wilmar, was a guest at the Kappa Phi house Wednesday.

The advisory board of the college Y. W. C. A. entertained at a dinner in the Christian church Thursday evening.

Merle Cuthbertson and Carl Olson will spend the week end at the former's home at Wheatland.

Syvert Gunness and Knute Nelson will visit their parents at Abercrombie over the week end.

Elvin Potter is confined to his home with a case of mumps.

R. B. MacLean, president of the Moorhead State Teacher's college, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Education Club to be held next Tuesday, Feb. 2, at 7:30 P. M. His subject will be "The Characteristics of a Good School." The program also includes musical and dramatic selections which will be followed by a social hour and lunch in the Log Cabin. Members are urged to attend in full force and new students in the School of Education are invited to attend and become acquainted with the club.

BETAS TO HOLD BENEFIT BRIDGE

The Delta Phi Beta sorority will sponsor a benefit bridge party Saturday afternoon. Playing will begin at 2:30.

Miss Alice Bender is general chairman of the arrangements. The following young women will act as hostesses at each of their homes: Miss Sarah McRoberts, 504 Eleventh St. S.; Miss Evelyn Blakeslee, 324 Ninth Av. S.; Miss Susan Freeman, 1236 Broadway; Miss Dorothy Beckwith, 1042 Eleventh St. N.; Mrs. W. C. Nichols, 1345 Third Av. S.; and Mrs. R. W. Baker, 724 Eleventh Av. N. Reservations are to be made with Miss Alice Bender at an early date.

 DEFEAT CARRINGTON

The Y basketball team journeyed into the hinterlands Thursday evening to take a 20 to 19 court victory over the Carrington five. As evidenced by the score, the going was "tough" all the way for the boys of the local association. Scoring honors are evenly distributed among the five participants who made the trip. Those making the journey were Andrist and Martin, forwards; Braus, center; and Riley and Wall, guards.

 Defeating Cobs 35-13

 Brewster Stars.

Sally Brewster was the lone star of the Cobber outfit, and even this single illuminary ceased to function when the wiry guard was removed from the game on fouls. Stardig played a fair game at center but his work failed to come up to previous battles.

The Bison started things rolling when the attack of the herd ran the score to 15-1 before the Watkins men could sink one of their three goals from the floor. After a free throw had been added to the larger score, the Cobbers again sunk a field goal. With the count 19-5 Cortright injected another complete squad. This quint and the invaders fought a 3-3 draw to end the half 21-8. The reserves kept up the good work in the final period by running the score to 33-10 before the regulars were allowed to again enter the game. The Bison Bison warriors took a short workout in passing, during the course of which two free throws were chalked up to them and three to the Cobbers, to end the contest 33-13.

Cob Quartette Entertains.

Before the start of the battle the freshmen football men were given their numerals, each man being introduced to the crowd as he received his sweater. Between halves the Concordia male quartette sang a few numbers which were enthusiastically received by the fans. In fact, the Concordia quartette was a whole lot better than the Cobber quintet.
