CAMPUS FLOOR MEET TO GET UNDER WAY AT Y NEXT TUESDAY

TEN TEAMS ARE ENTERED IN ANNUAL COURT TOURNEY AT "Y"—SCHEDULE TO BE ADOPTED SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

ADOLPH WALL TO HEAD LOOP

THREE GAMES TO BE PLAYED ON TUESDAY AND THURSDAY NIGHTS OF EACH WEEK—LETTERMEN, FROSH BARRED.

Adolph Wall, physical director at the "Y", announced last evening that play in the annual Inter-Fraternity Basketball league will commence on next Tuesday evening at seven o'clock.

The complete schedule has not been drawn up as yet, the committee appointed to draw this up being scheduled to meet tomorrow afternoon. John Mach, Phil Hamilton and Adolph Wall make up this committee.

Three games will be played each Tuesday and Thursday evenings according to the present plans, the opening game being scheduled for 7:00 P. M. Freshmen who are taking part in practice tilts with the yearlings will not be eligible for participation in the play of the league. The same rule was applied to men who have won their letter in basketball. It is not expected that the latter rule will bother to any extent, no lettermen now being in school who have won their spurs on a college court quint.

Teams entered in the league are: Alpha Gamma Rho, Theta Chi, Alpha Kappa Phi, Delta Pi, Delta Kappa Sigma, Alpha Sigma Tau, Kappa Psi, Pharmacy Club, Barracks, and Tappa Keggs.

WINTER REGISTRATION NEARING COMPLETION

Student registration for the winter term of regular college work and winter short courses have been practically completed. As shown by Mr. Parrott's report, the various schools and departments up to Saturday noon showed enrollment numbers as follows: science and literature, 242; chemistry, 58; chemistry and engineering, 4; agriculture, 108; education, 130; home economics, general, 12; home economics, professional, 71; architectural engineering, 3; architecture, 22; civil engineering, 25; mechanical engineering, 63; pharmacy, 60; high school, 156; farm husbandry, 32; drafting and building, 1; power machinery, 36.

In the winter short courses, agriculture leads with an incompleting registration of 102. Auto mechanics has a total of 76, domestic science 4, and painting and decorating 5.

The School of Science and Literature leads in the number of students enrolled in college work with 242. This is to be expected as the school covers the widest range of subjects and absorbs the lion's share of the freshman entrants who are not ready to specialize in any given field. The high school with 156 has shown a slight decrease in enrollment. Ranking third and fourth are the schools of education and agriculture with 130 and 108, respectively. The gain in the number of those electing agriculture has been good with over 40 freshmen electing in that school.

"BACK TO THE FARM" TO BE PRESENTED WEDNESDAY EVE

The class in play production will present the one-act play "Back to the Farm" next Wednesday evening at eight o'clock in the Little Country Theatre.

Announcements say that an all-star cast will play the roles in the production. An admission charge of 25 cents will be made.

POPS WIN BISON SALES CONTEST

PHI KAPPA LAMBDA GET SECOND; TROPHY TO BE PRESENTED BY STAFF TUESDAY AFTERNOON.

Phi Omega Pi sorority won the subscription campaign sponsored by the Bison staff, from a field of five competing sororities. The contest, which was for the purpose of obtaining subscriptions from the faculty and alumni of the college, began Wednesday, January 13, and ended Jan. 20.

Phi Kappa Lambda finished a close second with Delta Phi Beta and Sigma Theta taking third and fourth honors respectively. Up to the time of going to press no returns had been received from Kappa Delta, but it is expected their sales will swell the total to a record breaking faculty sales mark.

Each sorority appointed a working team of five girls to conduct the contest. This plan was carried out in order to concentrate sale activities among the five rather than to attempt to raise in interest in an entire group. The team captains were as follows: Eva Wilner, Phi Omega Pi; Phi Kappa Lambda, Florence Henderson; Delta Phi Beta, Dorothy Beckwith; Sigma Theta, Ruth Von Sien; Kappa Delta, Lorinda Bechtel.

A silver plaque will be presented by the Bison staff to the winning team in recognition of their services. Presentation services will be held Tuesday afternoon at 4:00 o'clock. Mr. A. H. Parrott and other prominent persons on the campus and a representative from the business district will make short talks. The public is cordially invited to attend.

In speaking of the success of the subscription campaign, Emery T. Putnam, business manager of the Bison says: "The faculty support was not as staunch as was expected but as a whole the campaign was a marked success."

FORMER STUDENT GOES TO GERMANY

Mr. Enoch Frojan, of the graduating class of 1918, has accepted a position as manager of the meat packing plant of Swift & Co., located at Hamburg, Germany.

When Mr. Frojan completed his college work, he was recommended with others, by Professor Thompson, to the Swift Packing Company, at St. Paul. He was transferred to the Milwaukee plant where he spent two years. He went to the Omaha plant in 1924, where he worked as assistant in the provision department.

Recently he accepted the position in Germany. Mr. Frojan will be granted a leave of absence every three years during which time he may return to America.

Graduating from the high school at Oakes, N. D., Mr. Frojan entered the North Dakota Agricultural college where he was active in athletics and other college activities.

He was a member of the football squad of 15-16-17, a member of Alpha Gamma Rho, Alpha Zeta

SADDLE AND SIRLOIN ANNUAL LIVESTOCK SHOW ON TUESDAY

GOLD STAR BAND AND ALPHA GAMMA RHO QUARTETTE TO BE SOME FEATURES OF ANNUAL PROGRAM.

TO PRESENT ONE ACT PLAY

MANY DONORS OF SILVER CUPS—JUDGING TO BE COMPLETED IN AFTERNOON WITH AWARD-AL OF PRIZES IN EVENING.

By Clyde Barks.

All possible efforts are being put forth for the Little International Livestock Fitting and Showing Contest, which is to be given in the livestock pavilion, Tuesday, Jan. 26. This year's show promises to be no less of a success than those given under the direction of the Saddle and Sirloin club in previous years, according to Harold Seilstad, manager of the show. Clyde Challey will have charge of the announcements and catalog; Alvin Oderkirk, the program; Clyde Barks, decorations. The judges for this year are: Swine, Al Severson and D. J. Geiken; Horses, E. J. Thompson and Joe Pearson; Beef Cattle, Geo. Baker and Joe Martin; Dairy Cattle, J. R. Dice and J. E. Haines; Sheep, D. J. Griswold and D. J. Geiken; Poultry, O. A. Barton.

As superintendents of the various divisions the manager has chosen the following: Swine, Merrill Burke; Sheep, Clyde Barks; Beef Cattle, Theo. Piper; Dairy Cattle, A. L. Ryall; Horses, Fred Schroeder; and Poultry, Frank Moore.

As usual, silver cups will be given to the winners in the various divisions. Those giving the cups are: Prof. J. R. Dice, Goldberg Feed Co., N. D. Livestock Breeders association, Fairmont Creamery Co., Interstate Seed Co., and Magill & Co.

There are several inducements being given the contesting students for the first time this year. Canes will be given by Armour & Co. for second and third places in addition to the usual ribbons. Also, the National Dairy Association are giving medals for first, second, and third places in the respective classes of dairy cattle. However, no sweepstakes will be awarded as has been the custom in the past.

The show will be conducted as in former years, except that the entire judging will be done in the afternoon. Prizes will be awarded in the evening. This change was made to somewhat shorten the schedule, shows having been too long in recent years. There is interesting competition between the students entered.

FACULTY NOTICE.

There are still a number of faculty members who have not secured their season tickets for basketball. These are still procurable at the office of I. J. Cartright at $2.50. There are three games on the schedule for next week, Wednesday with Concordia, Friday with South Dakota State, and Saturday with Jamestown college. These three games alone, if you were to pay for each separately would cost you nearly the price of a season ticket. Coach Cortright is anxious to get these cleaned up in order that he may know just how many are going to buy and wishes to have all those who are going to buy a season ticket do so this week.

SIG PLEDGES TO ENTERTAIN ACTIVES AT HOUSE FRIDAY

Pledges of the Delta Kappa Sigma fraternity will entertain the active members of the fraternity and their partners at a dancing party at the chapter house Friday evening. Hours will be from 8:30 to 11:30.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Parrott, Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Rolfe, and Mr. Les. Johnson will be patrons and patronesses.

ELEVEN STATES TAKE COURSES

CORRESPONDENCE COURSES IN PRACTICAL AGRICULTURE GET INQUIRIES FROM CHINA AND CANADA.

Correspondence courses in agriculture, sponsored by the North Dakota Agricultural college, are now being studied in eleven states besides North Dakota,—Oregon, Minnesota, South Dakota, Montana, Nebraska, Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Indiana, and Ohio. Inquiries, according to Director T. W. Thordarson, have come from Pennsylvania, Alabama, California, Manitoba, and China.

To illustrate the practical value of these courses, Thordarson states that one man who has made a systematic study of poultry husbandry increased his gross annual income from $100 to $275. Thordarson is convinced that the average farmer or farmer's wife can increase the profit of an average North Dakota poultry flock at least $100 if he or she will give one hour a day for 10 weeks to the study of the correspondence courses offered in poultry.

Each of the thirteen correspondence courses that are offered is simple, easy to follow and prepared by thoroughly experienced men, according to Thordarson. The courses are prepared from a practical farmer's standpoint, and answer the problems that the farmer meets every day on his farm.

The following subjects are now offered: poultry, beekeeping, fruits, vegetables and trees, forage crops, dairying, sheep husbandry, swine husbandry, beef cattle, small grains, farm structures, farm management, introduction to marketing, and introductory survey of scientific agriculture.

Another fine feature about the courses as pointed out by the director, is the extremely low cost. A fee of $2.50 is charged for each course, or $4 for two courses.

FARM MANAGERS TO MEET NEXT MONTH

The Northwest Farm Managers association will hold its annual meeting at Fargo, Thursday and Friday, Feb. 25 and 26, according to an announcement made by Cap. E. Miller of the North Dakota Agricultural college, secretary-treasurer of the organization.

The two-day program will be devoted to a discussion of problems including rent contracts, reorganization, weed control, livestock, care of machinery, and house and farm equipment. On the afternoon of the second day Prof. J. H. Shepperd of the college will deliver an address, "Farm Management and Farm Managers As I Have Seen Them Around the World."

Officers of the organization are: J. W. McNary, Ellendale, president; Frank W. Reinoehl, Larimore, vice-president, and Cap. E. Miller, Fargo, secretary-treasurer.

CORTRIGHT QUINT TO BROOKINGS FOR TWO STATE CAGE TUSSLES

CORTRIGHT MAKES SHIFT IN LINEUP TO GIVE STRONGER OFFENSIVE PLAY; BLAKELY TO FORWARD, McPHERSON TO CENTER.

HANSON OUT OF PRACTICE

BUNNIES EXHIBIT ERRATIC FORM IN PLAY—CHANCES FOR UPSET NOT OUT OF QUESTION—BUNNIES A RANGY QUINT.

By Eugene Fitzgerald.

Coach Ion Cortright and eight Bison basketballers left Thursday morning by car for Brookings where they meet the Bunnies in a two game series Friday and Saturday. The outcome of the series may have an important bearing on the N. C. I. loop race, as the Bison are generally conceded to hold the upper hand over the other quints of the loop.

Blakely, McPherson Shifted.

Accompanying Cortright were: Blakely, Arnold, Miller, Thompson, McPherson, Rumpeltes, Tilton, and Fuller. Karl Hanson and Jug Newgard, both of whom are temporarily out of the game because of illness or injuries were left behind. Newgard has not sufficiently recovered from his attack of mumps to allow him to participate in the practice sessions, while Hanson has been out of practice the past few nights on account of a boil which has developed on his ankle.

Cortright has shifted Blakely from his pivot position to a forward berth. McPherson, who has been out of the game because of scholastic difficulties, has been shifted to Blakely's position. McPherson should be well acquainted with play at the pivot position, having occupied that berth on the yearling team last year. McPherson did not seem to hit his stride at a forward berth which made him the main stay of the yearlings, and in the practice tilts he has proven that he will be more dangerous in this position. The new combination gives the Bison a much stronger offense, and with the splendid defense they have shown Bison play should be stronger. Three men the size of McPherson, Thompson and Blakely should give Cortright's clan the drive under the basket which is so necessary. Miller and Arnold will hold down their regular guard posts, while Thompson will start in the forward berth opposite Blakely.

Bunnies Erratic.

The Bunnies have shown a tendency to be rather erratic in their play, and if the Bison should catch them on one of these spells they should come home easy victors. The Bunnies, on the other hand, have shown a remarkable style of play at times, and in some of their best exhibitions have offered a startling brand of court play. The Bison will be forced to go at top speed to eke out a win over the Bunnies if the Westmen are enjoying one of their good nights. The Bunnies squeezed out a one-point victory over the Bison last year, after receiving three sound trouncings. The Bunnies usually show such a tendency, seeming to hit their best stride in a tough game.

West has a tall, rangy outfit of performers, none of whom can be termed "diminutive". With such a team the Bison may find more than their match and a win for the southerners is not out of the question.

"YES, WE ARE COLLEGIATE!"

What is our modern college youth?

People say he is irresponsible, selfish, and "shif'less." He palpitates with pleasure at being called "keen" or "popular." He works tremendously to master the latest slang, the latest dance step, the latest slouch.

That's all a part of being a part of a large group; the individual strives to "keep up with the Joneses"; it's the impulse to imitate and become alike as peas in a pod. And so far, the modern youth is harmless; but when this becomes practically the only reaction he displays to the call of the group, a general condition of alarm becomes manifest and the "college dude" and the "college flapper" are terms or epithets that come into evidence. Coupled with a lot of horrid remarks actually calling into question the utility of these domestic phenomena.

Observations of the response of individuals on the campus to the call to prayer of the various projects or organizations representing the group would show that instead of bowing to the East they carelessly kick away the prayer rug and walk off in the opposite direction, explaining (if they take the trouble to think about the matter at all) "What good's that going to do me? Well, if I do it, I mean to wait."

This thing that almost amounts to refusal to support student projects, or at least to do so willingly and cheerfully, is a disease permeating this campus. The mental tendencies absorbed from the practice of negligence and disinterest to public projects here while the individual is a student will be carried over by him into his adult life. It breeds a selfishness and ego-centrism that is a disadvantage to the college now and will be to the student later.

The lack of self-discipline is discernable in a dismaying majority of individuals and organizations here. Those who are in executive positions on the campus and who must depend on student help and cooperation, or organization help and cooperation, to successfully put across a project, testify to the discouraging response: "Busy." Busy always, with more absorbing occupations. What college student cannot make his life full to the brim, and with only duties and pleasures directed for himself and himself alone? And yet, what college student cannot manage to give a minute part of that time toward supporting the huge group of which he is a little part? Cooperation of individual parts of a whole is logically necessary.

It is not collegiate to be serious, and to admit a sense of responsibility. It is collegiate to drift carelessly along, giving impression of gay irresponsibility, of "getting by" (oh, how clever he must be!) "I talked him into letting me pass the course." "Oh, I forgot, I'm so busy! I'll do it next week," etc., etc. It seems somehow easy, and fascinating and clever, even an inkling of the fashionable artistic, to drift thru college thus.

What it actually results in is making the work of those who must accept student help in working for the students a discouraging, unattractive, thankless job, instead of a labor of honor and profitable experience. Experience is gained in plenty; there can be no question but that self-reliance is a quality forced on the student executives; but the gift that comes hand in hand with this is the bitter fruit of cynicism and disbelief in the general supply of the milk of human kindness.

It is hard for these to fully comprehend the insensibility of the many who refuse to give what means so little to them in time and effort and so tremendously much to the "other fellow" who is trying to take care of the group affairs.

Nor are the students alone in their antagonistic attitude. Student effort is in great part ignored by the faculty members here, when often a more charitable, interested and active attitude on their part would do much toward making the college a "bigger and better" place for faculty and students alike.

All results of student work is not perfect; criticism is rightly directed at a great deal of it; but, should those who stand aside to criticize, step forward to help, the tension would be considerably lightened.

Bison Ad Writing Contest Opened To All Students

WINNERS OF CONTEST WILL HAVE FEATURES PLACED IN ADVERTISING SECTION.

Breathes there a man with soul so dead
Who never to himself hath said,
"I'll win me that ten dollars!"

Or woman, either. The Bison advertising contest is open to anyone who comes under the classification, "student in the college curriculum of the North Dakota Agricultural college", excepting the editor, business manager, and members of the advertising staff of the annual.

Is New Idea.

"The advertising contest is a new idea," said Emery Putnam, business manager, in giving an explanation of the contest. "It should change the status of the advertising section in the book from the usual obvious and familiar thing that is actually read by none of the students to a section that will be of real interest to them. How the advertisers will profit by this is obvious, and thus the double purpose of the contest is to give the advertisers their money's worth, and to make the advertising section a real addition to the interest of the annual for the students.

"The secret of how the contest will accomplish all this is merely that the students themselves will write and sign all the advertisements, in competition for prizes. Student work is always inspected with interest both by other students and by strangers to the campus, who want to see just how good we are, so such a compilation will be a valuable part of the book.

"Our advertising salesmen have already sold a large number of the Fargo business men on the idea, and they are all ready to see their student ad entered in the contest.

"An entrant in the contest is given the name of one of our advertisers, whereupon he will visit the advertiser and receive suggestions and aid from him regarding the material to be included in the ad. Each entrant may enter ads for as many advertisers as our office will be able to give him, taking into consideration the number of entrants and the number of advertisers."

Winners to be Featured.

The advertisements will be judged by a committee of experts in that line, and the writer of the best ad will be awarded a prize of ten dollars, the second best, five dollars, and the third, three dollars. Photographs of prize winners, together with the prize winning ads will be given featured place in the first part of the section.

"Students desiring to 'get going' in the contest should see me or Gene Ostman, assistant business manager, as soon as possible, so as to get placed regarding the advertisers," declared Mr. Putnam. "This is an innovation for both the students and the advertisers. We are already promised the liberal cooperation of the advertisers, and we hope the students will respond as enthusiastically to put the new project across successfully."

SENIOR ENGINEERS APPLY FOR POSTS

Believing that it is the early bird that gets the pick of the worms, every member of the senior class of the School of Engineering has already sent out several applications to engineering organizations for positions. Four members of the class have taken Civil Service examinations for appointment in the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey and the entire class of mechanical engineers has applied to at least three engineering firms for admission to their courses offered for technical graduates. It has been the desire of the class that every member shall have a definite position in view by May first, so that when commencement is over each man may leave immediately for his future work.

EBULLITIONS OF EBONY BLOTT

By Ebony Blot—Himself.

Speaking of people who have missed their calling, imagine our own Rae Kneeshaw playing the part of the New Year coming in as a New Year's ration.

THE ONLY WAY WE KNOW OF MAKING CREIGHTON PLAY THE BISON THIS YEAR IS TO HAVE SOMEONE INAUGURATE A "TAKE A CHANCE WEEK" AT THAT UNIVERSITY.

The sun blazed forth on the hot Arizona desert. It couldn't have been pleasant for either the sun or the desert. Outside of a few pinto's tethered to the hitching posts in front of the Red Dog saloon, not a living thing was to be seen on the streets of Skeleton Gulch. Suddenly the air seemed galvanized with the reports of firing revolvers. The door of the Red Dog flew open and out came Gunpowder Gus; in each hand was held a smoking revolver bearing testimony to the dreadful deed which must have been done.

"That'll learn ye," taunted the evil one, as he irritated his left eyebrow with the foot of his extreme right, "That'll learn ye for refusin' a drink of strawberry crush!"

So saying he put the deadly weapons back in his holsters and sat meditating ruefully on the steps of the saloon. Putting his hand in his pocket he drew out a huge square of Nestles milk chocolate. He nervously bit off about 1 lb. 4 oz.

The sound of a rising window across the street broke the silence. In fact the silence was just as broke as Black Bart, the sheriff, whose face was framed in the window.

"Hey, there," yelled the sheriff sleepily, as he stifled a yawn, "What's wrong down there?"

"Nothing, sheriff," replied Gunpowder as he spat at a horned toad with unerring aim. "That is, nothing of importance. I jest killed seven chinks an' a coupla greasers over some trivial thing—I forget just what."

"Oh," gasped the magistrate with a sigh of relief, "I thought there was something wrong."

"There is," insisted Gunpowder tearfully, "I missed two of them." Choking back the tears the sheriff returned to his siesta.

"Give me Liberty or give me the Saturday Evening Post!" shouted the fanatic as he approached the news stand.

Dear Ebony: Unless you stop writing such foolishness, you will wake up some morning and find yourself quite dead. —Anon Amos.

Dear Anon: I fear the joke's on you. I never wake up in the morning.

Dearest Eb: I hope you'll pardon me for addressing you so affectionately but I feel like I have known you all my life. I have pictured you as being a blue-eyed Scotchman. I don't believe you are a darkey. Are you? —Sal Iva.

Madam: Say, lady, I'm so black that if you saw me on a real inky, black night, you wouldn't see nothing, that's all. Say, what's your address, anyhow?

Dear Ebony: I am buying a radio but I don't know whether I should get a loud speaker or not. Some people say that the music is a lot clearer with just head sets. I have had head sets on the little one tube "superiodine" I had before but we couldn't get anything. Maybe it was because our neighbors hung their washing on our aerial. Have you got a loud speaker? —Miss Apprehension.

Dear Miss: Certainly. I married one.

Sanborn (Sam) Olson, although not a graduate or former student of the college, is, nevertheless, one of the strongest boosters the college has.

Sam was born at Scandinavia, Wis., Dec. 10, 1892. He graduated from the high school department of the Central Wisconsin college at Scandinavia, and finished the college department in 1912.

While in college he was a member of the football, basketball and baseball teams of his Alma Mater.

At the present time Sam is star salesman for the Frosaker-Donovan Company, Fargo Ford dealers. Many of the people in Fargo who are seen cursing their "Lizzies" because they wont start owe it to Sam that they are in the predicament they are, for Sam has talked many an unsuspecting one into buying a "Henry." He has been selling Fords since 1915, starting with the Ford Motor Co., Fargo branch, at that time. When the branch discontinued retailing of cars Sam went with the Fargo Motor Sales company, who obtained the agency.

He has remained with the company through several changes and can be seen most any day driving around it a sample of his goods looking for some poor unsuspecting prospect.

Woe be unto us if Sam knew that we are now going to expose him. Sam sneaks away during athletic workouts at the A. C. to watch the Bison go through their paces. He takes an active interest in all athletic games and can be seen at almost any contest on Dacotah Field or in the armory.

Sam thinks that Red Blakely and Cy Arnold are the sweetest basketball performers he has ever seen, and while we agree with him that they are wonderful, we also know that he thinks the same about the rest of the members of the Bison court squad. We have a suspicion that Sam favors the Bison captain and Cy because they are red headed. You don't have to make a guess, Sam is also one of those who sports that shade of skull decoration. And it seems funny how these "redheads" stick together.

Debate Team Picked.

The following people were chosen for the Prep School debate team at the tryouts held last Friday afternoon: Carroll Anderson, Lawrence Zink, E. Woolsey Pease, Richard Randlett, Lewis Beals, Clinton Morgan, and Lyman Lloyd. Prof. Iverson, Miss Challey, and Wade Boardman were the judges.

This year the team will have the advantage of debating on a subject all classes of people are interested in, the child labor amendment. No definite date has been announced for the debates, but the agricultural schools at both Crookston and Morris, Minn., will be met as before.

Physical Training Enforced.

A notice, warning every student to attend the physical training classes was posted this week by Prof. Iverson. These classes have been more or less a failure because of the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the students. With the new ruling few students are exempted from this training, the classes are larger, are conducted in a better manner, and there is more enthusiasm on the part of the students.

Because of illness, Ralph Brandymer has been absent from classes the past few days.

During her absence, because of illness, Miss Grimes' classes are being conducted by Miss Thompson.

Elizabeth Schultze has been appointed to assist Al Bordeleau in getting together the Prep notes. Help boost this column by turning over the news to either of these people.

NOTICE.

High school and industrial students must subscribe for a Bison before Feb. 1, if they wish to be assured of a book. Emery T. Putnam, business manager of the yearbook made the following statement, in regard to the necessity of immediate action in this matter: "Under the terms of our printing contract we must notify the printer by Feb. 1, of the exact number of copies we want for distribution. Thus the need of knowing the number of subscribers."

Where motorized power is virtually unknown, men toil yet accomplish little. The United States has over one-quarter electrical horsepower installed per capita. Japan, leading country of the Orient, has but .04 horsepower. Electric shovel and storage battery locomotive are shown at a completely electrified open-pit coal mine, at Colstrip, Montana.

Work without Toil

Ten or twelve hours a day toils the coolie. If he carries all he can, he moves one ton one mile in one day. For that he receives twenty cents.

Cheap labor! Yet compared with our American worker, receiving at least twenty-five times as much for an eight-hour day, the coolie is expensive labor. In America we move one ton one mile for less than one cent. The coolie, working by hand, accomplishes little; while the American, with electricity's aid, accomplishes much.

Plenty of electricity and cheap electricity—these are two great advantages which America enjoys over the rest of the world. While our present generating capacity is 20,600,000 kilowatts, new developments call for 3,000,000 kilowatts more per year.

To college men and women—potential leaders—will fall the duty of finding more and still more work for electricity, with less and still less toil for our workers. For the task is but begun!

Ray Douglas is back at school after a prolonged vacation spent at his home in Eckman.

FORMER A. C. STUDENT HONORED AT CORNELL

A former A. C. student, Peter Olafson of Edinburg, has been awarded a fellowship at Cornell university and received membership in the Phi Kappa Pi, honorary scholastic fraternity, for high scholarship in the Veterinary school, states a recent issue of the Cornell Daily Student, Cornell University, Ithaca, N. Y.

Dean Moore, head of the school in which Mr. Olafson is enrolled, stated recently to Dr. Schalk that Olafson was the best student he had ever enrolled in the veterinary school. The Dakotan was the only man to be named to Phi Kappa Pi from the veterinary branch of the Ithaca university. None received that honor last year, to which 95 Cornell upper classmen and graduates were named recently.

Mr. Olafson attended the A. C. two years ago and after completing the two years' course for veterinarians here, gained a scholarship at Cornell. His second scholarship, according to Thordarson, Alumni secretary, is an assistantship in the pathological department of Cornell. Mr. Olafson will graduate from the New York school in the spring.

ENGINEERS FITTING OWN STUDY ROOM

A room in the Engineering building which the junior and senior classes of mechanical engineers can use as a study and lecture room for engineering subjects is gradually becoming a realization. During the Christmas recess the ordinary lecture room equipment of Room 15 was replaced by three long tables equipped with large drawers and chairs. Industrial organizations have willingly donated large framed pictures of some of their best equipment, and these pictures will be hung around the room. It is hoped by the students of the department that bookcases and fixtures for a departmental library may soon be obtained. Plans are also being made for the purchase of a Monroe calculating machine, so that when finally completed this room will make an ideal place for the students of the mechanical engineering to do their studying during the day, and also a convenient place to hold club meetings.

Student Opinion

I read an editorial in the January 15 issue of the Spectrum entitled: "Bring an Honest Face." In the last paragraph of this article was a statement, something to the effect that dishonesty in examinations would be decreased or done away with by having the student sign a statement such as this: "I have neither given or received help during this examination." The writer mentions the fact that one of the professors of the college is now requiring of the students a signature of such a statement, and that he thought that such a method was good.

If a student is crooked enough to cheat in examination is he not crooked enough to sign that statement in spite of the fact that he cheated? Is one any more of a crime than another?

STUDENTS MUST CARRY ON WORK OF DEVELOPING STATE IS PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

"It is for the students who are now attending this college to carry the message of the opportunities to be had here to others throughout the state, to develop the resources within the state borders and bring about the doubling of its production in the next 10 or 15 years," said President John Lee Coulter to students at convocation Thursday morning.

In opening his address, Dr. Coulter read a letter, which touched upon phases of college education. It contrasted the purely educated man against the man of knowledge and understanding of life problems. The writer stressed the fact that the school system is blamed for the failure of students in and out of college; but, when the individual succeeds, the credit all goes to the man, and none to his college.

The speaker asked the question: "What are you going to do with your education?" and then led his discourse into the opportune fields of vast resources open for development in North Dakota. He painted a verbal picture of the Bad Lands and Western North Dakota with their dormant coal and clay deposits. He stressed the need of residents to develop and increase the state's agricultural output. Upon closing, the students were apprised of the building program in store for the North Dakota Agricultural College in the next ten years.

LOGAN M. TAYLOR MARRIED SATURDAY

Logan M. Taylor, a former student of the college was married to Miss Elsie Marie Benson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George I. Benson of Fargo, at the parsonage of the Plymouth Congregational Church Saturday afternoon. Rev. Harold Jones performed the ceremony.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of the School of Engineering, finishing with the class of 1924. He is a member of Delta Pi, engineering fraternity, and is at present employed as recording engineer with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Company.
