BISON REPEL VIKINGS 44 TO 12

BISON CAGERS LEAVE THURSDAY TO MEET WISCONSIN 'U' QUINT

EIGHTH MAN TO MAKE TRIP IN DOUBT—OPPOSE CARROL ON SATURDAY.

Coach Cortright and eight Bison basketball men will entrain for Madison, Wisconsin, over Great Northern No. 4 at 2:00 p. m. tomorrow, where they meet the University of Wisconsin quint Friday evening.

Badgers Unknown.

Very little is known of the prowess of the Badger quint, although the team coached by the dean of basketball coaches, Dr. Meanwell, is always considered dangerous in Big Ten circles. The Badgers had a team composed largely of Sophomores last year and through their inexperience were only able to land in eighth place in the final standings.

Coach Cortright expressed himself as well pleased with the showing made by the Bison in their opening contest Saturday, and from the showing made in this contest and the practice tilts up to date will choose his eight men. Captain Blakely, Arnold, Miller, Newgard, Rumpeltes, McPherson, and Thompson are almost sure to make the trip, while the eighth man is still in doubt. Hanson, Fuller and Tilton will wage a merry battle for this position this week, and the one making the best showing will get the award, was the comment made by Cortright yesterday.

On Saturday night the Bison will play their second and final contest of the trip against Carrol College, at Waukesha, Wis.

1926 ART EXHIBIT BIGGER AND BETTER SAYS ROLFE

The annual art exhibit held by the students of the department of architecture will be larger and require more floor space for its showing, stated Prof. W. T. Rolfe recently in commenting upon the success of last year's exhibit and upon plans for this year's display.

To Be Held In May.

"The exhibit will probably precede the May Festival as in previous years," stated Professor Rolfe. "Every student in the department is expected to submit a sketch. Winners of first, second and third places will receive valuable water colorings for prizes."

The popularity of last year's exhibit necessitated its being extended throughout the three days of the May Festival. By the time of the exhibit's close on Saturday night, it was estimated that about 1200 people had viewed it. To eliminate any crowding of either the display or visitors, additional rooms on the third floor of the Engineering building have been reserved.

Harold Bechtel, Avery Chadwick, Knute Hening and Charles Bowers were among those who placed high in last year's prize awards.

CO-EDS OUTNUMBER MEN IN WESLEY COLLEGE HERE.

The co-eds have a two to one majority in point of numbers at the Wesley school of religion under the direction of Dr. W. L. Airheart here.

Among the sixty-one students registered nearly every prominent religious denomination is represented. According to Dr. Airheart, "the classes are conducted harmoniously. Sect and denominational controversies are avoided and attention given to the basic principles underlying a vital religion."

BISON HOCKEY TEAM PRACTICE STARTED

THIRTY MEN REPORT TO CAPT. SMITH FOR PLACES ON PUCK AGGREGATION.

Practice for the newly organized Bison hockey team was started last evening under the direction of Capt. Thos. S. Smith, who will direct the destinies of the puck chasers this winter.

Thirty Men Report.

Thirty men reported for the first practice and it is expected that an even larger squad will turn out as soon as intensive work starts later in the year. Outstanding of the thirty who reported are some fifteen men who have played on local and out of town teams. McDowell, Josephs, and Johnson were members of the Falcons, champions of the Fargo league last year, and along with Wambach and Strand, of Moorhead, Swinney, who was a member of the Utica, N. Y. Yach Club team, Martin and Cochran, Dayton stars, and Morrow from Missoula, Mont, form the nucleus for a strong aggregation of puck chasers to represent the Bison on the ice this winter. Many of these men may be displaced by Hahn, Severson, Calkins, Trumbull, Fisher, and Monson, all of whom have had some experience at the popular winter sport.

St. Thomas, Fort Snelling, and Macalster teams, of Minnesota, have asked for games with the Bison, while communications from Houghton, Calumet, and Marquette, Mich. teams have also asked for games.

PRACTICAL TRAINING GIVEN STUDENTS IN ENGINEERING

Through the cooperation of the Northern States Power Company, senior students in the mechanical engineering school here are to supplement their theoretical and laboratory work at the college with practice tests carried out at the local plant. This arrangement was possible through the courtesy of L. C. Topping, chief engineer in charge of the Fargo plant said R. M. Dolve, head of the engineering classes here.

Professor Dolve in a statement on the new arrangement said: "It is not feasible for the school of engineering to maintain a power plant that contains the equipment used in the ordinary power plant. Besides, the training received from laboratory plants cannot meet the requirements of individual power plants, simply because a modern plant must deal with the public in general."

This phase of instruction will be the same as practiced by colleges in the larger industrial cities of the east.

COLLEGE RIFLE CLUB HAS MANY MATCHES SCHEDULED FOR 1926

CAPTAIN ANDREWS REPORTS INCREASED INTEREST SHOWN BY RIFLE CLUB MEMBERS.

The N. D. A. C. Rifle Club with 168 members promises to become one of the most active organizations on the campus this winter as is evidenced by the number of rifle matches and the schedule of range practice arranged by its sponsors.

Publication Issued.

The club has also released a publication known as the "Dope Sheet" which aims to give student members of the club news and instructional tips on marksmanship.

One may step into the indoor range at almost any time from noon till evening and see club members, "co-ed" students, or others busy endeavoring for an American heritage, good marksmanship. On Tuesday and Thursday evenings members of the Business Women's club shoot. Thursday afternoon is reserved for the Women's Athletic Association. Other afternoons are given over to the Rifle club.

Matches Every Week.

A team to represent the college in national competition will be chosen from the members of the club and of last year's team. Captain Andrews is now instructing twenty-five of the high ranking students with a view to picking a team for the opening match on January 9, with New York University. Matches will be held every week. The College Girls' club has also scheduled a match with the University of Kansas girls' team. Harvard and Yale have been challenged; Harvard, however, has no club and Yale has not yet responded.

Matches scheduled for the N. D. A. C. Rifle team follow:

New York University, week ending January 9.

University of Kansas, week ending Jan. 16.

Iowa State College, week ending Feb. 13.

Kansas State College, week ending Feb. 13.

University of Cincinnati, week ending Feb. 13.

Rhode Island State College, week ending Feb. 13.

OLD FASHIONED COMMUNITY PROGRAM SHOWS TONIGHT.

Yesterday will be revived tonight at 7:00 o'clock when an old fashioned community program is presented in the Little Country Theatre by the class in community programs, under the direction of Prof. A. G. Arvold.

"The Cycle of the Seasons," a pageant, will be presented along with spelling matches, husking bees, and those dances, perhaps, of questioned propriety decades ago. Square dances and other popular in times past will be brought out of oblivion. Refreshments will be served in the Log Cabin after the program.

WESLEY COLLEGE TO ERECT NEW BUILDING

ENDOWMENT FUND CAMPAIGN STARTED FOR SCHOOL OF RELIGION HERE.

Forty thousand dollars is the sum to be set aside for a new building for the Wesley College School of Religion here, according to Dr. W. L. Airheart, head of the school. The money is to come from the endowment fund campaign now being conducted, and the new building will be erected as soon as sufficient funds are available, possibly within the next year or two.

$60,000 Appropriated.

Sixty thousand dollars will be appropriated for the endowment of the chair now occupied by Dr. Airheart, as dean of the school. These appropriations for the college here were authorized by the national conference of the Methodist Church at Washington in October, and is part of the state wide campaign now being conducted.

"Wesley College is not a denominational or theological school, but serves the need of supplementing the needs of the college student in religious matters," declared Mr Airheart. "We have been working rather quietly during this campaign but the responses have been gratifying," he stated.

A similar school is maintained at the University of North Dakota, where Dr. E. P. Robertson, president of Wesley College is head.

A modern fire proof building, providing class rooms, offices, superintendent's apartments and men's dormitory will be erected here, it is planned. The work of Wesley college was started here five years ago with classes conducted in the Y. M. C. A. and at present are held in a house located across from the campus on Thirteenth street, on land owned by Wesley college.

BOOSTER CLUB DANCE TO BE IN ARMORY FRIDAY

Arrangements have been nearly completed for the dance to be given by the Booster Club in the Armory, from 8:30 to 11:30.

Fred Sorkness, president of the club announced that arrangements will be made to receive accounts of the basketball game between the Bison and University of Wisconsin, which is being played at Madison, on Friday evening.

CORTRIGHT'S CAGERS SHOW STRENGTH IN INITIAL CONTEST

THREE SQUADS USED BY BISON MENTOR—EVERY BISON REGULAR TALLIES.

By Dick Hackenberg.

Coach Cortright's Bison cagers started on their 1925-26 trip toward the conference championship here Saturday night when they repelled the invasion of the Valley City State Teacher's college quint by a 44 to 12 count. Although the rather one-sided contest did not reveal any startling team play or develop any individual stars, it did show very plainly the strength of the four veterans of last year's quint and that Cortright has an abundance of reserve material to round out his machine for the coming grind.

Regulars Show Class.

With only ten days of practice under their belts the Bison basketballers made an admirable showing. Captain Blakely, Arnold, Miller and Newgard, veterans of last season, at time displayed the brilliance that carried them to second place in the conference honors last year. Their effective passing completely bewildered the Vikings and every regular broke into the scoring column. Coach Cortright used three complete squads to hand the invaders the overwhelming defeat. The first two handled the Valley City men with ease but the third allowed the Normals to sink two field goals from short range. The second squad permitted one long shot to drop thru the net and the regulars were satisfied to let the visitors shoot from the foul line and thus register one point at a time. With the four "vets" on the floor the invading five were helpless on the offense, dropping but three free throws through the iron ring.

McPherson, Fuller, Thompson, Rumpeltes, and Tilton looked like close contenders for the forward position left vacant by Ted Greenfield's graduation. Darkenwald, Ployhar, Axelsson, and Soros were outstanding for the Normal quint.

Arnold Starts Scoring.

For a full four minutes after the starting whistle neither team was able to score until Arnold registered a free throw. Darkenwald evened things up shortly afterwards with the only Valley City tally of the half. Captain Blakely started the real offensive when he deposited the first field goal of the season in the basket. McPherson and Newgard each scored and Blakely again countered, following a nice pass from Newgard. Shortly after McPherson had registered his second tally Coach Cortright ran in a second squad which retired the half after boosting the count to 15 with Thompson on the scoring end of two

A WORTHY CAUSE.
 The College Y. M. C. A. sent out an attractive Thanksgiving appeal to reach all alumni and parents of present students during the recent vacation. Being closely affiliated with the College and its students, the Christian Associations, Y. M. and Y. W. C. A., are the only organizations wholly dependent upon voluntary support. Their policy has been always that of concerning themselves equally with every student on the campus no matter what his or her creed, race, nationality, religious creed or social caste may be.

It has become generally felt among the students and the faculty members alike that the new regime in the Y. M. C. A. this year has been a decided asset to the life of the college. The "Y" is no longer an institution apart from student life, but one which has actively reached out for all students. It has become a real factor in campus activities, not easily to be disregarded despite the fact that "Y" work started under serious financial handicaps last fall.
 H. G. Wells said a few years ago that a man's first duty to himself is to make a living, adequate to keep him in shelter, food, clothing and other necessities of life. This is good psychology to the extent that unless a man be free from worry about his daily needs, he is not likely to be of much use to himself or anyone else. In this respect an institution like the Y. M. C. A. is no different from any individual. It must be adequately supported in order to render the good service it is constantly being called upon to perform.
 November 30 will be the beginning of an intensive campaign all over the college for the benefit of the two "Y" Associations. The three days' campaign will center around a special convocation on December 2nd, at which the entire faculty expects to be present. Dr. Coulter will preside and address the students, and will be followed by Coach Cortright and other speakers.

RIVALRY STILL HERE.
 Thursday a traditional bit of class rivalry is to be staged, one of the few that still persist on the campus despite the wear and tear of years. Each of the four classes will choose and present a one-act play in the college theatre and from these four bits of dramatic interpretation will be picked the winner. This one-act play contest, sponsored by the department of public speaking is a definite part of class rivalry that no class can afford to slight.
 Few chances have come to prove group loyalty in such poorly organized and barely conscious groups of classes. These few should be accepted. It is only to be regretted that no other traditional class rivalry exists, nothing that might parallel the Carney Song Contest at the University. It is only through such things as these and through the experience of working and winning or losing together that class consciousness can be felt and class spirit stimulated.

Redpoll Has Been Mistaken For Goldfinch, Says Stevens

BIOLOGIST POINTS OUT ERROR IN DETECTING WARBLINGS OF THESE TWO BIRDS—ARE NEAR RELATIVES.
 "Perhaps some who are familiar with the notes of the goldfinch have thought they heard them this fall," states O. A. Stevens, biologist, North Dakota Agricultural College. "The goldfinch, however, have left us by October and what we have been hearing is the redpoll, a near relative of the goldfinch. It is one of the sparrow family, smaller than the common sparrow and quite pale in color. The under parts are nearly white with a few streaks at the sides. The male has the breast tinged with red and both sexes have bright red caps," says the biologist.
Flights are Similar.
 "The flight of the goldfinch is in long, even, wave-like movements. That of the redpoll is similar but more rapid and the direction changing with nearly every wave. They are reported to be quite tame, but those I have seen this fall have been almost continuously on the move and difficult to approach. Their food consists chiefly of weed and tree seeds. Birch, alder, lambquarters, ragweed pigweed and smartweed are most common in the stomach examined by U. S. Biological Survey."
Observed Nov. 11.
 "In summer the redpoll inhabits the for northern regions all around the world. In winter they wander irregularly south as far as central Europe and central United States. It was on Nov. 11, this fall when I first saw them, although I think I heard them for a week or two before. Mr. Monson reports seeing them in Argusville on October 18. Six years ago they were so common that one would hear them almost any day in a few minutes walk. Since then I have not observed them."

 "Another winter visitant is the Bohemian waxwing, of which I have seen two birds on two occasions. Five years ago they were here in large flocks from late November to early January, but I have not seen them since. This bird is about the length of the catbird or kingbird but plumper and of striking appearance. The under parts are gray, the upper parts grayish brown. The head is prominently crested. A black stripe runs through the eye and a patch on the throat. The tail is tipped with yellow and some of the wing feathers bear bright red tips, whence the name "waxwing." They are strictly birds of the trees, feeding upon various berries and seeds. Hackberry, ash and boxalders are the principal trees native to this part of the state which furnish food. The cedar waxwing, which is quite similar but a little smaller and darker colored below, is a summer resident here, arriving about June 1."

Meet the Bison Staff.

The telephone on the Spectrum editor's desk jingled. He answered it. He was immediately sorry to have done so.

The wire crissed and curled as the intensely hot message flowed through it.

"The reporter is a little late this morning," quavered the newspaper chief feebly, as a lull came in the indignant roaring in his ear.

"Oh, so you admit that?" barked back the Bison, sarcastically. "Well, if someone from your office isn't here in five minutes, you don't get an interview."

"Is that so, you big chump!" replied the editor haughtily, after he had hung up the receiver. "Whether or not we get an interview means absolutely nothing to me, I can tell you."

Whereupon he hurriedly caught up pencil and paper and departed on the run for the Bison's office, arriving at exactly the fifth minute.

The Bison received him graciously. Even an arrogant old Bison isn't interviewed by an editor every day.

"I believe the chiefs of the organization section are to be featured today," said the editor a little stiffly, the wound in his dignity still paining him.

"Sure Mike, old fella," spoke up the Bison slangily. This was very characteristic of the animal, who delighted to tear down all the conventional structures of dignity built up by other people.

"Phil Hamilton is the editor of the organizations section," he went on brightly, well pleased with the way his morning was beginning.

"Phil is a junior, and is from Hunter, N. D. He hasn't had much of a background of journalistic experience, but in this particular place on the Bison staff he fits admirably. The organizations editor must be persistent, dependable and businesslike. He has charge of getting all organizations to submit pictures and the data to be used on their page, and from what I know of the annual business, an organizations editor need not be an Irwin S. Cobb or "Marse Henry" Watterson so much as a potential Napoleon. Phil has laid siege to the organizations camps very efficiently so far and I am confident that the 'stuff' will be in on time, as long as Phil says it will be."

Walter Hoster is his aide-de-camp on the section. Hoster was the editor of the high school annual at Valley City last year, and was highly complimented by reputable authorities for his work. He has charge of the fraternities and sororities section, and has an opportunity to use some delicate satire that will make the section memorable. The section is different than it has been before in the year-books, the formal page on which the group picture will be used being followed by the 'informal' page of snapshots, on which will be the copy that will 'make' the section. Walter has a clever pen and this part of the annual should be one of the high lights of the book."

The editor was elated. Swiftly and smoothly his practiced fingers had noted the long speech of the old buffalo chief.

"Any statement?" he asked at the first pause.

"Phil wants to declare, state, announce and otherwise emphasize, that the few lagging organizations who have not had their pictures taken already should hold up his section no longer. The first copy is almost due at the printers, according to the program schedule in the contract. The snapshots for the fraternity and sorority pages, too, are very slow in coming in."

"Ah, I thank you, sir," breathed the editor bowing with elegant deference.

"Well—thank you," responded the Bison surprisingly. "Very nice, I'm sure." All the social amenities now being satisfactorily dispensed with, he shut his eyes and went to sleep.

University Playmakers Appear In Six Cities

By William S. Moeller.
 Grand Forks, N. D., Nov. 28.—"Her Husband's Wife," a short comedy, was presented in six North Dakota cities during the past ten days by the Dakota Playmakers, dramatic society of the University of North Dakota under the direction of E. D. Schonberger, and was successful both artistically and financially, according to reports.

Miss Lois Crary, of Grand Forks, played in the leading role of the play while Mr. Charles Patmore, of Los Angeles, Cal., played opposite her. The other members of the cast were Miss Ruth Schlager, Miss Margaret Radcliffe, Mr. Miles Schwam, and Mr. Richard Black.

The drama was presented at Fessenden, Carrington, Oberon, Devils Lake, Lakota and Larimore. The Playmakers plan to present this same play in Grand Forks two nights during the first week in December and possibly in Crookston, Minn., later on in the same month.

"Her Husband's Wife" is the first play that the Playmakers have presented outside of Grand Forks since 1921 when "Rose of Plymouth" toured the state

BEE MEN WILL MEET HERE FEBRUARY 8

The fourth annual meeting of the North Dakota Beekeepers Association will be held at the North Dakota Agricultural College, February 8 to 10, according to Dr. R. L. Webster, secretary of the organization. This will correspond with the short course work in beekeeping to be given at the college Feb. 8 to 15. James I. Hambleton, in charge of beekeeping for the United States Department of Agriculture, will be one of the speakers on the program, Mr. Webster announces.

Lim'rick Contest.

Now is the time to begin cudgeling your brain for the last line! Utilize those calories absorbed in your Thanksgiving repast in making your last line irresistible to the judges.

Here it is:

Our Little Country Theatre plays
 Are deserving of nothing but praise.
 At each presentation
 You'll hear with elation

Those of you who have been lucky enough to be in attendance at one of these stories-of-the-stage, should not lack material for a last line.

Limericks are here to stay. If you don't believe it, enter this contest, and it will not be long before you will agree that, in comparison, crossword puzzles and the Charleston is just a passing fancy. If limerick popularity keeps up, the multitudes will be saying it with limericks instead of flowers. There should be no doubt as to which is the cheaper course to follow. Propose to the one of your choice with a limerick (this wont bar the girls).

Ebony Blot, our mythical office boy (all newspaper offices have to have some kind of an office boy), wrote the following limerick which he will recite to some dusky maid in the near future. He loudly insists that it has literary value even though it's theme may lack originality. Here is his masterpiece:

I love you, I love you, I love you,
 I love you, I love you, I love you,
 I love you, I love you,
 I love you, I love you,
 I love you, I love you, I love you.

Don't forget that Friday at 4:00 o'clock is the deadline for your last lines.

The Tuesday edition of the Spectrum will announce the best last line for this limerick, together with—listen to this, coins are heard clinking faintly in the distance—the winner of the first monthly prize of $2.00 (Two Dollars). The new limerick announced at that time will be the first limerick of the new monthly series.

All right, let 'em come!

Cortright's Cagers Show Strength In Contest

field goals. Valley City still slung to their lone free throw.

At the outset of the second half the regular lineup took the floor with Rumpeltes in McPherson's place. Arnold made two points from the free throw line and Blakely dropped in another basket. Valley City drew away from their single point when two Normal cagers made two of four foul tosses. Rumpeltes assisted Blakely to another field counter and "Red" added another a minute later. Miller followed up one of his own free throws for his initial score and chalked up his second basket on the next play. Arnold made his only field goal and Cortright jerked the "regs" for a third complete aggregation. Valley City took the offensive against this squad and scored twice from the field and once from the foul line. The second Bison team replaced team No. 3. Valley City managed to drop a long shot through the net and this, with two more free throws raised their total to 12. The Bison seconds raised the score from 29 to 44 with seven baskets and two foul shots before the final gun sounded.
