COBBERS PLAY HERE TOMORROW JAMESTOWN THROWS SCARE INTO BISON FIVE

NODAK CONQUERORS FORCE DEWEY QUINT AT STRENUOUS PACE

ARNOLD, BLAKELY AND GREENFIELD LEAD BISON SCORING IN FRAY

ROBERTSON STARS

BISON SPURT IN FINAL MINUTES TO PULL OUT 26 TO 21 VICTORY

By ED YOCUM

Jamestown college cagers, conquerors of the University of North Dakota quint, threw an awful scare into Bison cage fans in the local armory when they forced the Bison to a 26 to 21 count to win. With a few minutes to go the Jimmies were but two points in the rear and Harley Robertson kept the crowd on their seats' edge with his dashes down the floor.

Bison Overconfident

The Bison entered the game with an evident overconfidence and at half-time were but one point in the lead, 9 to 8. The Bison had but few shots at the hoop during the first twenty minutes, eight in fact.

Jamestown presented a much stronger offense than was anticipated after their 23 to 20 defeat at the hands of Concordia Friday evening. The Bison showed that they can play ball but the flashes of real passing and scoring were so far between that even the most ardent Bison backer had little to say when the contest was closed.

Several times during the contest the play of Bison students came near being more costly than the errors of the five men on the floor. The "Boo" act put on in the Jamestown game will prove costly if the students repeat the performance.

It is not the idea of the writer to commend the officiating. In his personal opinion it was "rotten." Nevertheless from all indications his consistently erratic decisions were done in the best of his judgment. Few of us could do any better. Hands off will be a good policy in future contests. Back your team but don't pan the 11th man on the floor.

Individual Play Fair

Individual play of the Bison furnished several thrills for the crowd. Blakely showed that he has lost none of his old cunning with his favorite "Annie" Oakley shot. Greenfield still can locate the hoop with deadly accuracy, but the shots did not come often enough. Miller still has the dribble game cinched in North Dakota and his several spurts down the floor looked like old times. Newgari was probably the most pleasing appearance of any. His work was a surprise and his passing, formerly good, looks even better.

Little need be said of Arnold. The same game as he always played is a recommendation in itself. Thompson and Rumpeltes showed sparks of promise in their time in the contest.

Among the loyal A. C. supporters at the game last Saturday night was "Dick" Stranahan, former student. Dick works at Jamestown but yells for the A. C.

New Feature Starts In Friday Spectrum

A new feature will be started in the Friday issue of The Spectrum. It will be in the form of happenings on the campus gleaned from the files of The Spectrum in the library of ten years ago. The Spectrum began publication in 1896 and was at that time a monthly literary publication. In 1907 it became a weekly and this term the publication semi-weekly was started.

ENGINEERS INITIATE RECORD CLASS OF 19

ALBERT ENGBRETSON'S SIX-PIECE ORCHESTRA PLAYS FOR AFFAIR

One of the largest classes ever initiated into the local student chapter of the American Association of Engineers was initiated last Thursday evening. Nineteen members were initiated.

Those who were initiated are: Robert Barron, Fargo; Merle W. Cuthbertson, Wheatland; Albert Borge, Lakota; Edgar Barron, Fargo; Albert M. Gudmestad, Valley City; Howard McLaughlin, Fargo; Carl L. Olson, Sanborn; Elwin Potter, Fargo; Wilfred O. Mergenthal, Hillsboro; Eddy Lund, Hillsboro; Clarence R. Reed, Fargo; Kenneth Linn, Ashley; Jack H. Allen, Sherwood; Henry C. Askegaard, Moorhead; Francis J. Simonitch, Flasher; Alex McDonnell, Minot; R. Small, Fargo; H. Williams, Fargo.

After the initiation services a very entertaining program was presented by Abner Ingebretson's six-piece orchestra. Old fashioned pieces as well as the popular ones were included in the program. After a light lunch the remainder of the evening was spent by singing and story telling.

MADAME X FEATURES HIGH SCHOOL PARTY

Madame X with tempting lips, winning smiles and twinkling feet, vamped "her" way into the limelight at the high school party held at the Y. M. C. A. Friday night. Alfred F. Bordeleau, personifying a society debutante, a golf enthusiast, and a "kitchen mechanic," formed a very amusing part of the novelty program which was offered to the one hundred or more students present.

The party took on a mystic aspect when Richard Randlett, clairvoyant, persuaded the unknown spirits (in this age of prohib.) to allow him to smoke a tobaccoless pipe in the "Y" without being detected. After Dick had produced unlimited quantities of white rabbits, flowers and about two tons of sawdust obtained, according to Supt. Iverson, from the blockheads that voted this country dry, Mr. Iverson attempted to prove that the fellow who said "Music hath charms" was deaf, by singing a song entitled, "My Farm Out West."

The program follows:

GRAND OFFICER OF PHI OMEGA PI HERE

ISABELLE FILLMORE, GRAND TREASURER, INSPECTS ZETA CHAPTER

Isabelle Fillmore, grand treasurer of Phi Omega Pi, is in Fargo inspecting the local chapter.

On Thursday she was entertained at luncheon by the officers at the Dakota Drug. Mrs. Dorothy Ayers Lowden entertained at dinner in her honor.

On Thursday evening, regular fraternity meeting was held at the home of Mary Klinsman.

A formal dinner was served at 7 o'clock Friday evening at the Commercial club. At 8 o'clock the same evening formal initiation service was held at the Masonic Temple for Bernice Cramer of Dilworth. At 9 o'clock a formal dance will be given in honor of Miss Fillmore at the Masonic Temple.

On Saturday the local chapter was hostess at a formal tea at the home of Mrs. W. L. Stockwell in honor of Miss Fillmore and the old and new officers of Mecca chapter of the Order of Eastern Star.

NO TRUE AMERICAN ARCHITECTURE--WATSON

America has no architecture which truly represents the American people, according to Dudley Crafts Watson, noted lecturer of the Chicago Art Institute, who spoke at convocation yesterday morning. Only two types of buildings in this country are expressive of national thought and feeling, the Public High School and the Movie Theater, and these are comparatively recent developments.

The designer in America has the advantage over those of the middle ages as he is able to draw not only from the occidental but also from the oriental architecture. At present there is a mixture of all types in houses of the middle west. From this mixture some distinctive form may be drawn in the future. It is out of the duties of the youth of today, entering the field of building design, to evolve some type which will exemplify the spirit of modern America.

"Architecture is the mother of all art," said Mr. Watson. "All material laws relating to any form of artistic expression, laws of balance, of proportion, of spaces, all are based on architecture. Even music is formed from these same basic laws."

Mr. Watson illustrated his lecture with several slides by which he was able to point out the essential differences between the architecture of peoples living under different conditions and having separate customs. He showed in our modern business buildings the tendency of the designer to copy ecclesiastical edifices, turning them into the most commercial buildings ever constructed.

All presidents are requested to be there.

Cadets Name Sponsors For Companies In '25

Sponsors for the Cadet companies have been elected by the students in the Military department. Four have been named but as yet have not been assigned to companies. The election is an annual affair in the Military department and each year the sponsors play an active part in the formal ceremonies.

The sponsors named follow: Dorothy Stoult, Emma Hatlie, Virginia Rosenstock and Edith Skurdall.

REGISTRATION PASSES 1269--A NEW RECORD

ENROLLMENT IN THE COLLEGE SETS RECORD FOR INSTITUTION

With general registration for the winter term nearly completed this week the total registration at the college has broken all former records, the enrollment being 1,269 students, according to A. H. Parrott, registrar. This number does not include the winter short courses in agriculture, registration for which has just started.

Only those students in regular residence since the college started this year are included in the 1,269 total, no correspondence, extension or summer students being counted.

The registrar's records of January 17 showed a 24.8 per cent increase of enrollment over the same day of last year. Dr. John Lee Coulter, president, and Dr. H. L. Walster, dean of agriculture, express their satisfaction that the increase in the number of students in agriculture is keeping pace with the increase in other schools and departments, the increase in agricultural enrollment being 21.8 per cent over the number enrolled for the same period last year.

"This seems," Dr. Coulter declares, "to be additional proof of the gradual improvement in farm conditions and the confidence that the people of the state have in the future of agriculture in North Dakota. A heavier enrollment is shown in practically all departments, among them being large increases in engineering, chemistry, pharmacy and the general sciences."

"The boost in enrollment is a reflection of the improved conditions generally in the state," Mr. Parrott, registrar, believes. "Good crops and fair prices for farm products have not only helped the farmers but have passed a return to prosperity on to the other state industries."

FIRST WOMEN'S DEBATE

Four years ago, the Women's Literary society of McGill university, Canada, sent a challenge to the women of the University of Toronto for a debate. Later, the co-eds of Queens college, Ontario, began to entertain forensic ambitions. Consequently, for the first time in history ladies met in intercollegiate debates on Dominion soil, November 21.

The subject for debate was: "Resolved that unions of employed workers are beneficial to society."

The co-eds of McGill carried away the honors, defeating the Toronto "team" which upheld the affirmative and also the Queens "team." The third battle was won by Toronto.

FIRST CONTEST IN INTERCITY SERIES WILL BE INTERESTING

COBBERS BEAT JAMESTOWN, 23 TO 20; HAVE GOOD AGGREGATION

BISON WILL FIGHT

DEWEY TEAM EXPECTED TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT OVER RAGGED PLAY

North Dakota Bison and Concordia will open their annual series for the intercity basketball championship on the A. C. floor tomorrow night and George Dewey has primed his warriors for another hard game.

The Cobbers exhibited their ability last Friday by turning back the Jamestown college team, 23 to 20 and this victory indicates that Fenwick Watkins' men are prepared to offer the Bison a hard battle.

Cobbers Are Good

Every year Concordia seems to be just good enough to make the Bison go their best to pull through with a victory. In their first clash last year the Deweymen were forced to play an overtime period to get through with a victory and practically the same teams will line up for battle tomorrow night.

In Brewster, Ostby, Lawrence and Birkeland, Coach Watkins has four tried veterans that can be counted on to offer a real exhibition of basketball. Tad Anderson, star guard of last year, played a short time in the Jamestown game on Friday and may be ready or duty against the Bison. Watkins stated today that if Lawrence can handle the center position and Birkeland can hold Greenfield in check, a surprise may be in order.

George Dewey realizes that Concordia is always a tough nut to crack and has spared no pains in preparing his team for the fray. He handed the team a pretty tongue-lashing for their apparent overconfidence in the Jamestown game and emphasized that Concordia will not fall as easy a prey to a closing rally.

Bison Must Play Ball

The Bison mentor pointed out that his team will have to move with the first whistle and gain a lead right at the start to vanquish the Cobbers, for if the team from Moorhead succeeds in getting away to the right kind of start, there is no telling what the outcome of the game will be.

Ostby is a clever long shot man and will be dangerous, while Brewster handles the ball fast and is an accurate shot under the basket. This pair will make Arnold move to keep pace with them, and Blakely can be expected to show his best wares under his own basket, for the Cobbers follow in their shots well and will be hard to stop if they once realize that the Bison are not impregnable.

Crabs That Bark

North Dakota Agricultural college students and fans evidently did not hear the warning of the King Rooter to restrain from "razzing" the referee at the basketball game Saturday night. From the sounding of the first whistle until the game was completed, cat calls, boos and hisses greeted every decision made by the arbiter.

We do not contend that the officiating was of a high order, but the fans must remember they are doing their own team an injustice by protesting the decisions of the referee.

The Jimmies gave the Bison a hard game and a donation of a few points might have resulted in a different score. Suppose the referee had chosen to penalize the crowd on two or three occasions for their hostile attitude and the Jimmies had reaped the benefit of two or three points on shots from the foul line?

No one knows but the chances are the Jimmies would have fought harder and such action might have discouraged the Yellow and Green, and the closing rally that won the game might not have been forthcoming.

As it turned out the referee did not see fit to penalize the fans and, as Bill Shakespeare said, "All's well that ends well."

However, the Bison will have plenty of close games, for every North Central team is out to take down George Dewey's colors. Let's hope that the officiating will be better but remember, fans, keep off the referee. A point or two may turn the tide of battle and it would be a bitter pill for the fans to swallow if the Bison lost a game on account of the unsportsman like tactics of their followers.

LET'S HAVE A CRUTCH FACTORY
By Burdette Graham

A man who has not lived here very long called me off the other day with a worried look on his face.

"I am worried about these girls," he said. "I am afraid that this fast college life is just naturally sapping the life out of our pretty girls. I have seen so many of them that are not able to walk alone. Why, just a while ago I saw a girl that looked healthy having to hang on to a man for support. I know that it was not because the ground was rough because they were on a cement sidewalk. I feel awful badly because she was pretty and it is a shame that she is crippled."

I hastened to assure him that the girl was only temporarily disabled and that as soon as she reached her room she would probably kick out the light in her glee over the outcome of her walk.

"But," he insisted, "I see lots of girls like that and I know some of them must be crippled. Why, I had thought that I might start a crutch factory here and make a lot of money, for there is certainly a need."

And since he mentioned it I am of the opinion that he was about right. Time was when you helped a girl over the rough places and when it was dark you guided her along the walk, but this slopping over was not at all the thing to do.

Besides, the girls need the training that comes from standing up straight. If they will only be patient, it is dark about eight hours out of 24. —Copyright, 1924, Collegiate Feature Syndicate.

MISS MARGARET LIMBURG, FORMERLY ON SPECTRUM STAFF, GETS BY LINE IN UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA PAPER

Note—The following story is clipped intact from the Minnesota Daily, University of Minnesota paper. Margaret Limburg, the author, was a member of The Spectrum and Bison staffs last year. The work, a review of Shippee's History of America since the Civil war, was reviewed by Miss Limburg and received prominent front page mention. Miss Limburg has had the new Minnesota library as her beat while on the paper and has done excellent work in her new position. The story as it appeared follows:

By Margaret Limburg

Unusually fair and comprehensive in its presentation of economic and political factors is a "Recent American History," by Lester Burrell Shippee of the history department. It is a discussion of the country as a whole, and particularly of the Northwest and the Mississippi valley.

Mr. Shippee gives us his aim in the preface: "An attempt to present that national development after the close of the Civil war between the sections, and particularly after Reconstruction ended, is the purpose of the following pages." The book deals with events from the war through the spring of 1923.

This new history is one of the very few books covering so long a period and in a clear, rather than imaginative way, stresses the Northwest and its relation to the world.

Mr. Shippee has written his book from the new viewpoint, emphasizing economical development, and touching but lightly on the social side.

One of the outstanding qualities of his discussion of the World war is that the author has treated both Wilson and Roosevelt fairly, which is no small feat.

Politics, industrial expansion, tariff controversies, big business and social forces, are all discussed in a most impartial manner. Even in his chapter on the Non-Partisan League and the Granger movement, Mr. Shippee has remained non-committal, with no trace of prejudice or favoritism shown. Through the entire book he states fact rather than opinion, and is exceedingly fair to both sides.

The volume shows extensive reading, and the list of references given is complete for any one who wishes to pursue the subject further.

Since the field covered is so wide, Mr. Shippee has been forced to compress a wealth of material in one book, and this makes for unusual compactness.

A little solid for general reading, but excellent for reference or private ownership, the book is the best text for the use of college students that the writer has found in wading through perhaps more than the average number of hazy, poorly written grade, high school, and college histories.

When interviewed, Mr. Shippee said: "I have been working on this book four years, and I wrote it because it is this phase of history which I am intensely interested in; also that I might have a suitable text for my classes."

KNAPP ANNOUNCES PLAY COMPLETION

CAMPUS AUTHOR CALLS LATEST DRAMA "PRETTY ARLENE"—ROMANCE

Few people realize that we have among our midst an aspiring young dramatist, but the fact is true in the person of Jack Knapp.

His first successful production was entitled "The Dream," a play in one act, which was presented in the Little Country Theatre, early in the first term, by the class in play production. It was well received and showed a gift of character portrayal seldom found in amateur playwrights.

Called "Pretty Arlene" His latest effort has finally reached its completion, in the form of a one act drama, entitled "Pretty Arlene." It is the story of a homely girl's search for romance. Having had no boy friends up to the time of her eighteenth, and being somewhat human in her desire for such company, she fell desperately in love with a man she had never seen during the course of a telephone conversation. Eventually, however, the loved one was heard of no more. Desperate, the girl goes to him to discover that he is blind. Her love is not shattered, however, and the play ends happily. No definite date has been set for presentation of the new production, but there is a strong possibility that the Education club might put it on some time in the near future.

FLICKERS AND UNIVERSITY ARE ON THIS WEEK'S SCHEDULE

Honorable mention for the most and best copy of this issue goes to Bruce Rindlaub, author of this story and also the report on yesterday's convocation. In addition the winner also turned in other copy.

The University of Minnesota, 1924 champions of the Seventh Corps Area R. O. T. C., last week defeated the A. C. rifle team by the slim margin of 64 points. Both teams sent in exceptional scores, the showing of the A. C. being better than was expected as Minnesota is equipped with special match rifles and ammunition furnished by the University and their men have had much more experience than those of the A. C.

This week the A. C. will shoot matches with the University of North Dakota and South Dakota State. The match with the "U" is that scheduled for two weeks ago which was declared no match because of a misunderstanding at the University. All targets for this week are to be finished Friday afternoon.

FROSH CAGERS TRIM FARGO HIGH MIDGETS

BABY BISON SHOW FORM IN TRUNCING STATE CHAMPIONS

By EUGENE FITZGERALD
Bison Frosh basketballers scored an impressive victory over the Fargo high school quint on the Armory floor Friday evening, 37-25.

Bison Display Variety
The Bison displayed a varied display of attack, while the Midgets were content to resort to their usual style of game, despite the fact that they were outweighed and outreached by the more experienced athletes of the Bison school. The victory of the Bison Frosh, twelve points, was not nearly as decisive as the score would indicate. The Midgets kept the ball moving at all times and presented the fastest breaking offense seen on the Armory floor for some time. Height was virtually the determining factor in the victory of the Frosh. O'Connor opened the scoring on his first try after the game was one minute old. After a lively tussle in the center of the floor, O'Connor broke away for another short basket. Mcutes of play and a basket by Hanson gave the Frosh a lead which they never relinquished, although a two point margin separated the teams on several occasions. The first quarter ended with the score in favor of the Bison, 10-6.

Zimmerman, who was the outstanding performer of the game, opened the scoring for the Frosh when he picked up a Midget fumble and dropped the ball through the hoop for a counter. Baskets by Hanson, Fuller and McPherson completed the scoring for the Frosh, while Bristol and O'Connor found the hoop for a brace of counters and Haas negotiated a free throw to complete the Midget counting in this period, the half way mark finding the Frosh enjoying a five point lead, 18-13.

Frosh Increase Lead
The Frosh increased their lead toward the end of the final period, the fast pace telling more on the Midgets than the Frosh. Bristol negotiated a pretty counter under the basket, while apparently fully covered, two minutes after the opening of the period.

Fuller got a counter under the basket after three minutes of the period had elapsed, and McPherson accounted for two more field goals, the third period ending 24-19 for the Frosh.

The game slowed up to some extent in the fore part of the fourth quarter, counters by Fuller, Hanson and McPherson for the Frosh and baskets by Haas and Bristol and free throws by O'Connor and Haas bringing the total score to 37-25 at the conclusion of play.

Fargo Shoots Well
O'Connor and Bristol exhibited the best form for the Midgets, being responsible for the majority of the counters acquired by the Kimball crew. In Haas and McNeese, Kimball has two sweet performers, the pair taking the ball off the back board with surprising regularity and launching a fast breaking offense. Smith, while going scoreless in the fray, demonstrated that he is a remarkable ball handler, giving his mates many easy chances at the basket. The Midgets took few shots outside the 17 foot mark and made the majority of their easy shots good.

Zimmerman, Bison guard, played far above the form he has exhibited in previous games, and was easily the outstanding performer on the floor. Although Zimmerman was able to connect for but one counter, his defensive play was flawless. Zimmerman cannot be held responsible for any of the counters made by the Midgets, for he kept the play well under hand in his territory and usually hurried his man, making many pitches go wild.

Millard, who took Reedy's place at guard in the third period, was hardly in the game long enough to get an accurate idea of what he is capable of, but his play during the short period he was in, was very satisfactory.

McPherson Improves Play
McPherson seems to have improved his play to a large degree, and demonstrated Friday night that his numerous baskets of previous games were not luck. McPherson takes the ball off the back board and converts them into counters with more regularity than any player seen on the Bison floor in the recent past. McPherson's boor play has improved greatly since the Ellendale game, a week ago, and with a little more experience he will be a dangerous performer when ready for varsity competition. Hanson also displayed some brilliant work, and his play is far above that displayed by other members of the team in actual hard playing every minute. The flashy Bison forward never seems to tire and keeps up the spirit of his team by a continuous line of chatter. Fuller seemed to be unable to hit his regular stride and as a result his play fell off some. Reedy displayed some good basketball at times but he seemed to be out of position at a guard berth, his play suffering as a result. The lineup and summary:

Fargo—	Freshmen—
Smith	F Fuller
Bristol	F Hanson
O'Connor	C McPherson
Haas	G Reedy
McNeese	G Zimmerman

Field goals: Fargo, Bristol 5, O'Connor 4, Haas. Freshmen, Fuller 4, Hanson 4, McPherson 7, Millard, Zimmerman.

Free throws: Fargo, Bristol, O'Connor 3, Haas. Freshmen, Hanson, McPherson 3.

Referee: Litherland.

Student Opinion

To the Editor:

Soon a choice must be made by the athletic board for an athletic director, as Stanley Borleske is leaving us July first. We, as students, should give some thought to the selection of a successor to Borleske, who has developed the Athletic Department to its present high status.

In order that all of us may know what has been accomplished in the line of athletics, a review of its growth since "Stan" first came here should be had. In beginning he was able to equip only eleven in football uniforms, fifteen in basketball suits, and nine in baseball outfits. Track was not existent at that time. Now fifty-five men can be equipped with football uniforms, fifty with basketball suits and thirty with baseball outfits. Track equipment has been added to the extent that several good track teams have been produced and now high school and college track meets are annual affairs. The athletic squads have increased in even greater proportion than the equipment. Other developments in the field of athletics, meriting mention, for which Mr. Borleske is primarily responsible are: the advancement of our athletic teams to a stronger conference; increase of the seating capacity on the athletic fields with consequent increase of gate receipts to about four times what they formerly had been; record of athletic men; and the organization of the athletic mens' club.

In selecting some one to conduct our athletic affairs we must remember the present high standards of this department and not suffer a setback by choosing a man of lesser abilities. In this connection would it not be well to consider someone with whom we are acquainted and someone in whom our confidence is already established? Why not give George (Ad) Dewey some serious consideration in this matter? He certainly merits it. His efforts in basketball have proved highly successful. He has the ability, and a wonderfully pleasing personality as well, which is of paramount importance in handling men.

No doubt a statement of all the things to his advantage is unnecessary, but an enumeration of them is only fair. As we all know "Ad" has had from the start, an undeniable weakness. However we can easily overlook that, because it happens to be his chronic desire to beat the "U," in which he has been very successful. Of course it is more than anticipated that the same will be done this year. Last year he gave us our first opportunity to meet a Big Ten team, which surely was a boost for our school. And now, quite recently, he has given us the western basketball trip. It should be known that this was the most extensive, successful, and the longest trip ever taken by any mid-western team. What were the results? It not only put us on the map in basketball, but it widely advertised our school, and this is just what we want to continue to do.

Though Dewey's long suit is not football, he has coached football and with considerable success. However, it will be necessary to add a new man to the staff, and in doing this a football coach can be secured to work in co-operation with Dewey.

Dewey not only has the co-operation of the student body, but can get the necessary local support. His popularity with everyone is expressed by their confidence in him. In view of all this, should not Ad Dewey be seriously considered as successor to Stan Borleske as our director of athletics?
