BISON PLAY JAMESTOWN HERE FROSH TACKLE FARGO MIDGETS TONIGHT

BISON YEARLINGS WILL FIND FARGO TEAM FIGHTING FIVE

"BABY" BISON HAVE WON THREE STRAIGHT CONTESTS THIS SEASON

MIDGETS WANT WIN KIMBALL WILL SHOW FINE TEAM OF PASSERS TO BISON FANS

Bison Frosh will encounter tough opposition tonight on their own floor when they tackle Charley Kimball's Fargo High Midgets.

Fargo Has No Stars
Fargo High, state champions for three successive seasons, bid fair to give all the high schools of the state another merry chase for the gonfalon. Any team coached by Kimball is a dangerous aggregation as he has proved in the past. Despite the fact that each year Kimball loses several men he always trots five more on the floor who look just as good. Heretofore Kimball has always had one or two stars on his team who were supported by three men who were not so proficient in the cage game.

Kimball's 1925 team of court performers is an aggregation devoid of stars. Every man on the team is reliable in every department of the game and an individual performer has failed to outshine any other member of the quint in the games thus far this year. Every man has played a steady, consistent game and has shown to perfection in one game while in the next contest another cager would exhibit his wares a little above that shown by his mates.

O'Connor-McPherson Tangle
O'Connor at center is a reliable man and will give McPherson the chance the Bison Frosh center the chance he has been looking for. O'Connor and McPherson should stage a merry battle, as McPherson was a member of the Midget squad for four years but never succeeded in making a letter. McPherson seems to have struck his stride and in O'Connor he will find the kind of competition necessary to show of what he is capable. McPherson has been high scorer in every game his team has participated in with the exception of the opening game at Wahpeton.

Kimball will present two reliable men at the forward posts in Johnny Smith and Bristol. Smith is a performer who handles the ball in much the same manner as Blakeley, although he is not as proficient in manipulating the ball as is the big Bison center. Bristol, who plays opposite Smith, is the fastest man on the squad and a dependable shot. Although small of stature Bristol makes up for this handicap in his fight.

Kimball Has Good Guards
McNeese, Warner and Haas are the guards upon whom Kimball will place the responsibility of holding the Bison yearlings to a low score. All the members of this trio are performers of high caliber and in Haas, Kimball has a performer who acts much the same on the floor as Claudie Miller, who also started his cage career at Fargo High under the tutelage of Kimball. McNeese and Warner are the backbone of the defense and are not depended upon to score like Haas, although both drop a counter through the hoop occasionally.

The Bison Frosh will probably start their same lineup as started against Ellendale, with Millard and Hanson at forwards, McPherson at center and Fuller and Zimmerman at the watch posts.

Bison Students Will Rally at 12:45 Today

A rally will be held in the armory today at 12:45. All students are requested to be present as the game with Jamestown tomorrow night will not be the easiest kind of battle. The Jimmies have a veteran aggregation and will make every effort to down the Dewey team. Last Saturday they went to Grand Forks and took the university cagers into camp. Be at the rally.

MANY PRIZES GIVEN AT CO-ED PROMENADE

DOROTHY BECKWITH, HELEN OLSEN AND ELIZABETH CLEVELAND WIN

Many prizes and honorable mentions were given at the annual Co-ed prom held in the College Armory on Wednesday evening of this week. First prize for the best dressed man at the prom went to Miss Dorothy Beckwith of Fargo. Prize for the most comically dressed couple went to Miss Helen Olsen and Miss Elizabeth Cleveland. Pauline Fjelde and Mildred McCotmb were given honorable mention for the most comically dressed couple.

In addition another feature was added to the usual prize awards. Faculty prizes for the cleverest couple went to Miss Smith and Miss Christine Finlayson. The cleverest man was Mrs. E. F. Wilson, while honorable mention in the same class went to Miss Pearl Dinan.

The grand march of the prom was led by Miss Beatrice Sjoquist with Miss Kathryn McKee as her partner. The Anderson sisters furnished the feature number of the evening with a musical entertainment.

DEBATERS NOW AT WORK FOR SCHEDULE

HEAVY PROGRAM WILL GREET FORENSIC STUDENTS THIS SEASON

The college debaters are at present busy working in preparation for the heavy debate program which has been arranged for the winter term. This year there are twelve young men who have been placed on teams which will be pitted against some of the best teams in the country.

The first debate will be held in the Little Country Theatre on February 2, when the Agricultural College will debate the University of West Virginia on the question, "Resolved, that the Congress of the United States should have the power to overrule the decisions of the Supreme Court, by a two-thirds vote, which declare acts of Congress unconstitutional." The A. C. will uphold the negative side of the question against the eastern university team, which is to make an extensive tour at that time. The members of the A. C. team will be L. P. Howell, James Parkinson and Clair Southam.

The rest of the debate program is as follows:

JUST BRILLIANT STUFF
By Ec Fy

On Campus League Basketball Phil Hamilton, the Hunter flash, is being groomed for stardom by Ted Greenfield. Under the tutelage of Ted, Phil got several baskets by outsmarting the opposing guards. Phil says he will bring a chair next time; he gets tired of standing around.

The Theta Chi quint tapped the keg evidently. The Tappa Keggs should change their name to the "Tapped Kegs." The latter team won the Fall Campus League tournament.

The Power Machinery quint surely didn't live up to their name in their opening game when they were defeated by the Tappa Keggs, 86-4. They were neither powerful nor was their pass game machine-like.

Richard Vaughn "Wong" gave a few exhibitions of fone handed long shots Tuesday evening. He was using the other hand to keep the opposing player off.

"Nosey" Trumbull of the Kappa Phi team failed to play Wednesday evening because he could not find the dressing room.

Several likely looking wrestlers appear in the Campus League games. Remember, "Big" Munn started as a college athlete.

Camels are a strong favorite to win games for some teams and lose for others.

Cold feet are not the outstanding ailment in the tournament; sore feet seem to have a little edge. Blisters are as numerous as flies around a sugar barrel in the summer.

PHI OMEGA PI GRAND TREASURER ARRIVES

Miss Isabel Fillmore, grand treasurer of the Phi Omega Pi sorority, arrived in Fargo yesterday to inspect Zeta chapter. A luncheon at the Dacotah Drug and a dinner at the home of Mrs. Archie Lowden were given in honor of Miss Fillmore yesterday. Tonight the active and alumnae members will have a dinner at the commercial club, followed by formal initiation for Miss Bernice Craemer. After initiation services the active and alumnae members will entertain their guests at a formal dancing party in the Masonic Temple.

On Saturday afternoon Miss Fillmore will be the guest of honor at a tea given at the home of Mrs. N. D. Stockwell. Guests will include officers of the Eastern Star for the years 1924 and 1925, alumnae, active members and pledges.

Chis Beat Keggs
The second night two games were played with the Gamma Rhos downing the Short Course, 40-8, the Alpha Sigma Tau quint trounced the Delta Pi five, 43-18, in the second game.

Wednesday night the Alpha Kappa Phi quint took the opening game of the evening from the Delta Kappa Sigma tappers, 34-12. Theta Chi basketeers downed the Tappa Keggs, in the closing game, 31-19. The remaining games of the week were postponed and will be played off at a later date.

The Campus League games are proving unusually interesting thus far and some good basketball with a mixture of comedy is being displayed.

CONVOCATION WILL BE HELD MONDAY AT 11

Dudley Crafts Watson of the Chicago Art Institute will speak at convocation Monday morning at 11 o'clock on "The Enjoyment of Architecture." Mr. Watson is an artist who has made a specialty of explaining art to all people to increase their enjoyment of that subject.

Monday afternoon between three and five at the Art Studio in Science Hall Mr. Watson will give lecture tours explaining the exhibits hung there to any of the students and faculty who are interested.

An exhibit of water colors by Dudley Crafts Watson and an exhibit of landscapes of the northwest by Knute Heldner will be open to the public at the Art Studio in Science Hall next week. Any persons interested are invited to view the pictures.

TEAM THAT BEAT FLICKERS OFFERS TOUGH OPPOSITION

HARLEY ROBERTSON, FORWARD FOR VISITORS, BOOKED AS STAR

MILLER RETURNS

JAMESTOWN WILL MAKE TRY AT STATE COLLEGE TITLE TOMORROW

By EUGENE FITZGERALD
Coach Karl Erickson and his squad of Jamestown College basketball tappers, fresh from a win over the University of North Dakota quint last Saturday, will open the home season of the Bison quint tomorrow night on the Armory floor.

The Bison defeated the Jimmies earlier in the season in the last game of their coast trip, 53-28. The night the Bison played at Jamestown they were "on" and the win proved this. The Jimmies learned much in their game against the Flickers and have the advantage of having played the Bison one game already this season. With this advantage the Jimmies should put up a very presentable game and offer the Bison plenty of competition for their opening game before their home crowd.

Robertson Plays Remarkably
In Harley Robertson Coach Erickson has a veritable team in itself. Robertson is undoubtedly one of the best forwards who has ever appeared on the Bison floor. Playing with a stronger team Robertson would probably achieve much game, as he nearly single handedly defeated the Flicker cagers last Saturday, scoring 21 of his team's 23 points. A feat of this kind stamps him as a man to be feared and with the help of his mates the Bison may have a bigger job on their hands than they thought for.

A win for the Jimmies will go far in determining the state championship because of their recent win over the Flickers. In case the Jimmies beat the Bison and the Flickers break even with Dewey's crew the title would be held jointly by the Bison and the Jamestown crew.

Miller Will Aid
With the return of Miller to the lineup the starters for the Bison are not definite. Blakeley is almost positive to start in his position at center, while Captain Arnold and Miller will hold down the guard berths. Greenfield will be started at his regular post at forward, while the position opposite Greenfield is problematical. Dewey will give the call to either Newgard or Thompson, both of whom are waging a desperate battle for the berth. Newgard is not as

PHARMACY CLUB GIVES ORGANIZATION PARTY

Members of the N. D. A. C. Pharmacy clubs were hosts of the various college organizations at an all-college party in the college armory on Saturday of last week.

The dance given by the "drug store cowboys" was one of the liveliest that has graced the college "shack" for many moons. More confetti was thrown, more favors given and more fun had by the attendants than at any other affair of the season.

Favors were in the form of drug store samples and were in many cases of considerable utility value.

Faculty Notice

Faculty members may wonder why they have not been solicited by The Spectrum. They are naturally in a poor position to refuse and obligation subscribers are not wanted. The Spectrum regrets that they are not able to furnish the faculty with papers gratis. Those who want the paper are asked to leave their check for $1.50 in The Spectrum drop box or else mail it to The Spectrum. Those who do not subscribe will naturally refrain from taking the papers from the shelf in Main. Their failure to subscribe will indicate that they do not want the paper. Incidentally, one subscription covers but one paper. This applies to both students and faculty. Thank you.

THE POOR BOOB

What a ridiculous creature he is, the serious-minded student! He comes to college to obtain an education, (how absurd), and what is more, he does, (to be sure, like all the rest of us, only somehow, his education seems to be so much different). He comes to college and sets a goal to attain, (what folly, for who knows how long he shall live) and, keeping that goal steadfastly in mind, he strives untiringly in mind, usually attaining it if it be within the realm of student attainment. (Of course, who couldn't attain this or that thing if they kept at it everlastingly?)

Perhaps he changes his goal as he goes along, but ever he has a definite idea in mind to spur him along. He has everything systematized, (not too much, but then, why bother about a system, why not take things as they come?) and he is always balancing and weighing this or that course and comparing relative values, and deciding which is the more intelligent thing to do. (Imagine!)

He takes care to develop all around, carefully infiltrating into his work a certain amount of pleasure. (As if it were a thing to be measured. To be sure, the amount of work one does ought to be limited, but as for pleasure, why one ought to take all one can get.) Even as he fits his work to capabilities, so does he fit his pleasures to his moods and his needs, and considers the possible benefits they will render him. (Just try to conceive of being brainy about getting a little fun.) He likes to talk to his fellow students, (but wants to "get somewhere" in the discussion).

He chooses his studies with an eye toward their value. (He will take a pipe course if it's necessary!) He seldom makes all the honorary societies, because he isn't a grind and because he isn't a politician, but he is well respected and admired by his fellows. (But he isn't a "big man" on the campus like the prom chairman.) Then, after he graduates, and goes out into the world to put his carefully acquired education to use, he is heard of again. (What of it? Fame isn't all of life, and who knows but what in time, the rest of us will be heard of too?)—Wisconsin Daily Cardinal.

CYNICISM

Sometime ago the grim doors of prison cells were slammed on two youths in a western penitentiary. If the law has its uninterrupted course, these youths will see the sun sky and breathe the air of freedom no more.

These youths were college boys. According to all accounts, they were exceptionally bright and even brilliant students.

But nowhere in the huge mass of evidence presented on both sides in the sensational trial proceedings was there revealed the shadow of proof that either of the defendants was possessed of anything resembling an ideal.

Nowhere in the astonishing conglomeration of testimony offered, in all of the speeches and documents prepared both in favor of and against the prisoners, was there as much as one single word that pointed to the least gleam of spiritual light upon the short but dark and muddy road of the development of these mismanaged lives.

It was cynicism—and not money, idleness, liquor, women, jazz music, or any of the other elements so frequently mentioned in the case—that was primarily responsible for the downfall of these two gifted young men.

It was an overdose of cynicism that led them to commit an atrocious crime. But cynicism, pure and simple was the cause of their downfall.

Cynicism is the enemy of all that is good and sweet in the heart of man. Cynicism is the poison of the soul. No matter how much you know; no matter how accomplished, how brilliant you may be, if you are cynical you remain but the empty shell of a human being; you are valueless in the permanent scheme of things.

Nothing of permanent value to the human race was ever accomplished by a man or woman without ideals, without faith.

Few people, comparatively, commit crimes. But many lose their sweetness through cynicism. And through it they commit, every day of their lives, innumerable little offences for which the laws prescribe no punishment, but which result in the gradual hardening and, eventually, in the loss of their souls.

Intellectual development is a thing greatly to be desired; mental brilliance is a quality many of us would like to possess; even cleverness is not to be despised as an aid to worldly achievement, and money should be given its rightful place in our valuation of the gifts of life as a power for good in the hands of the judicious.—Temple University Weekly.

AGS OFFERED PRIZES BY PULLMAN COMPANY

The agricultural colleges of the United States and presumably Canada are offered twenty scholarships of $250 each, the scholarships to be won for the colleges by students who win at the International Livestock show in Chicago.

Provides for Rotation

The Pullman company which is making the award announces that it will annually offer these twenty scholarships to the agricultural colleges making the most efficient showing in the international contests. The fund is to be administered by trustees and is to be loaned to deserving students who would otherwise not be able to secure a scientific training in agriculture or animal husbandry.

Professor J. H. Shepperd of the North Dakota Agricultural college who has been superintendent of the college contests at the International for several years, explains that the students accepting these scholarships are to refund the loans when they can conveniently do so and the money will then be reloaned to other students at the same college, thus creating a revolving fund to which each institution can add annually by making a good showing at the International in Chicago.

The awards are given to the agricultural colleges whose teams rate highest in each of the five classes of the intercollegiate livestock and crops judging contests and a sixth scholarship is awarded to the college scoring highest in all five classes combined. The remaining fourteen scholarships are to be distributed on the basis of the total cash prizes won by the colleges on entries in the open livestock classes. Not more than five awards can be given to any one college.

A. C. POET GETS HIGH HONOR

MISS ANTOINETTE WHITMAN RECEIVES NATIONAL MENTION

GRADUATE OF CLASS OF '24 HAS VERSE PRINTED WITH COLLEGE POETS

IS SUPREME TEST

SONNET, SUCH AS MISS WHITMAN'S, DIFFICULT SAYS DEAN MINARD

By K. V. R. BROWN

In "The Poets of the Future" a college anthology of verse for 1922-1924 appears a sonnet, "On Finding a Book of Poems in the Public Library" by Antoinette Whitman, a graduate of the School of Science and Literature of last June. Miss Whitman wrote the poem while in her junior year as part of her class work in contemporary poetry. "Three or four others in this class did outstandingly good work," Prof. A. E. Minard said.

Miss Whitman's poem is one of one hundred sixty-six poems from ninety-one colleges located in all parts of the United States compiled by Dr. Henry T. Schnittkind. Dr. Schnittkind gives as his purpose in publishing this book the encouragement of the best literature in the universities, and "to show to the poetry lovers in this country what a wealth of gems of the purest ray has hitherto been inaccessible to the public. For the age of poetry is youth, when ideals are still real and the artistic temperament has not yet been tainted through contact with the stern material realities of life. Keats did his best work at the college age; so did Shelley, so did Byron. The college student writes not for a living, but because he has something within him that will not remain unspoken. . . . The College Anthology reveals to us the literary masters of the future in the making." The first volume of the Anthology came out in 1916. The fourth and latest one is the one for 1922-24, in which Miss Whitman's poem occurs.

The poem follows:
"Crushed like a flower for perfume was the heart
That gave you birth; the precious drops distilled
In secret, long kept till the vial was filled
To overflowing, through these leaves impart
What one soul found of sweetness and of smart,
In all this world of men and things which milled
Continuously about him; thus he willed
That men should know his soul through this its chart.

"Marked with a small white tag it stands in line
With others here, close pressed against the wall.
The gilded letters on its back are rust,
Time dulled the pristine glory of their shine.

I draw it out and from its covers fall
Two yellowed roses crumbling into dust."

"The sonnet form of poetry," said Prof. Minard, "is a restricted and difficult form to write and is the supreme test of poetic ability."

Miss Whitman has a keen, analytical mind with the capacity of grasping the thought, with ability to organize and her work shows unusual finish of expression, Prof. Minard says. All of her school work was of high standard, as evidenced by her election to Phi Kappa Phi in her senior year, Prof. Minard adds.

She is now teaching English and French in the high school at Granville, North Dakota.

WESLEYAN TAKES LEAD IN NEBRASKA CIRCUIT

By AUBREY CORRELL

University Place, Neb., Jan. 17.—Nebraska Wesleyan cagers assumed the leadership in the Nebraska state conference basketball gonfalon Saturday night when Coach Dow's men turned in a 25 to 13 win over the York, Nebraska, college quintet in a contest staged on the Wesleyan court.

The Methodist five was never forced to extend itself, outshooting, out-teaming and outsmarting the visitors throughout the game. Wesleyan was leading, 11 to 6, at the half time.

Ralph Hurlbut, rated as one of the leading centers in the North Central conference, was out of the game because of ineligibility. The absence of the Methodist regular weakened both the offensive and defensive play of the Coyotes.

Calvert was high point getter for the winners with one field goal and six gift tosses. The Wesleyan forward caged six out of eight attempts from the foul line.

Nebraska Wesleyan will be eligible for championship honors in two conferences this season. The Coyotes are retaining their membership in the local circuit and competing in the North Central loop.

Budget Exhibit

Yesterday was "Budget Day" of the National Thrift Week. Herbst Department Store displayed a budget prepared by Misses Myrtle Euren, Mary Ross, Agnes Johnson, Inga Erickstad and Frances Malice, under the supervision of Miss Bales. The budget is designed for a high school girl granting her $125 for each of two years.

SORORITIES WILL HAVE BISON SALES

PRESIDENTS WILL MEET WEDNESDAY FOR DRAWING OF FRATERNITIES

Plans for the sale of 1926 Bisons have been made by the Bison staff. The attempt will be made this year to carry on a concentrated campaign on the campus which will last two weeks. Six hundred books will be printed and at least four hundred of these should be sold to the twelve hundred students upon the campus. The campaign sales will be in the hands of the sororities. A silver loving cup will be given to the sorority selling the most Bisons during the campaign. With sales in the hands of the sororities, competition promises to be exceptionally keen.

Presidents Meet

On Wednesday, the 28th, the sorority presidents will meet in the Bison office at one o'clock to draw for the fraternities to which they will have the exclusive right to sell. On the campus, the girls will be free to sell anyone, except those belonging to organizations assigned to other sororities. With a concentrated attempt to sell everyone on the campus at any place and at all times, it is expected that four hundred copies will easily be sold.

Interest in the campaign will be aided by posters and advertising stunts worked out by Bill Hurt and the business manager. Everyone who will want a remembrance of school days that will always be something of which to be proud, should surely buy a Bison. As in former years, the price of the book will be two dollars down and two dollars on receipt of the book. However, a cash price of $3.75 will be made to induce the sale of Bisons. The business manager requests that the sorority presidents meet him on Wednesday noon, the 28th to obtain full information on the campaign and take part in the drawing.

good a scorer as Thompson, but is a much more polished floor man. Thompson has been playing the guard position in Miller's absence and showed to good advantage. Thompson scored heavily on the coast trip and was used the greater share of the time at a forward opposite Greenfield. Rumpeltes, Bridgeford and Bechtel will be held in reserve.

The game will be called at 8:30 sharp and students will be admitted on presentation of their tickets.

"Broken Laws"

Inquiring Reporter

What are your views on the repeal of the anti-cigarette law? If you have some idea on the subject that you would like to express, put it in the form of writing and drop it in The Spectrum box in the Main building. We would like to hear your candid opinion.

Following are a few more statements made by representatives of our campus:

Miss Dakin, of the A. C. Book Store, asserts: "If they repeal the cigarette law, repeal of the Valstead act will be as justifiable, in view of the fact that abuse of the latter law is more flagrant than the anti-cigarette law." Forrest Whedon, assistant zoologist, states: "Why have legislation if it cannot be enforced?"

Mr. Hoffsom, economics instructor, is a recent resident of Kansas. He says: "The sale of cigarettes in Kansas is illegal, and I cannot see any reason for the seeming laxity of the law here in North Dakota. From personal observations I find that cigarette smoking in a state where the sale is legal is greater than in a state where it is illegal."

Clyde Challey, Alpha Gamma Rho, says: "It is a good proposal."

Mr. H. J. Thompson, secretary of the A. C. Y. M. C. A., declares: "My personal opinion of the law to prohibit the sale of cigarettes in North Dakota is that it should be retained."

Professor Setterfield of the Zoology Department, feels that it does little good to attempt to legislate people's morals. "As long as the law cannot be enforced and people insist on smoking, let them do it legally," says Mr. Setterfield.

"Jug" Newgaard, thinks there is too much money going out of the state for cigarette taxes. He feels that the $700,000, or more, that come from the commodity tax on cigarettes should be a source of income to our state rather than to some other state.
