

N. C. I. PRESS ASSOCIATION IS TO BE FORMED TOMORROW AT "U"

CONFERENCE EDITORS FROM EACH OF N. C. I. COLLEGES WILL FORMULATE N. C. I. PRESS ASSOCIATION; THE PROMOTION OF MORE INTIMATE RELATIONS ATHLETICALLY AND OTHERWISE IS AIM; SPECTRUM WILL BE REPRESENTED BY HERBISON AND WILKINSON; EVANS, OF U. N. D., IS SPONSOR.

The proposed North Central Inter-collegiate Press association including the student publications of the colleges going to make up the N. C. I. conference is to become a reality Saturday, December 9, when representatives of the individual institutions will meet at the University of North Dakota to draw up the final articles that are to make for the promotion of the publicity end of the Conference associations as they ought to be.

Thru correspondence, all eight schools entered in the conference express themselves as highly favorable of the new movement and their various editors and co-workers will have a chance to get together and exchange views as to the way it all ought to be run. North Dakota University is the daddy of it all, or rather the local press club there. Thru the untiring efforts of Charles Evans, conference editor there, and temporary chairman of the meeting, the ragged edges have been caught up and the meeting actually arranged at last after 2 months of indecision on the part of most concerned.

"I feel that the conference could not develop properly without publicity, and publicity is what this association will bring. The idea must be developed from all eight angles of the conference, to put it across right and we of St. Thomas are willing to do all we can to promote the Press association, and with it the conference athletics," writes Assistant Coach Mayer of St. Thomas, who is faculty manager of the Purple and Gray, the St. Thomas paper, and his sentiments seem to be echoed by each and every other who might have any cause whatever to be interested in a war of this kind.

Sophomore Class Wins Annual Play Contest

Freshmen Come Second, Juniors Third and Seniors Last in Annual Contests in L. C. T.

Winning the unanimous vote of all three judges with their one act play "Dawn" the sophomores triumphed over their rival classes Monday evening with what was an extremely forcible and excellent presentation of "Suppressed Emotions" on part of the actors. The scenic and lighting effects of the act were the most remarkable part of it.

Cast of Characters
The Doctor—Charles Wells
The Man—Walter Bohnsack
The Woman—Harriet Ostbye
A Child—Alys Hetland
Scene—A mining district
Time—A winter morning, just before dawn.

Second place was given to the freshman class, for their play "Embers" by George Middleton. This was a difficult play, and was very well played, especially in the fact that it was not over done.

The Junior play "Suppressed Desires" by George Cook and Susan Gaspell was awarded third place. This was an interesting play bring out the new thought of psychoanalysis.

The Senior Play "Kempy" was a cut down of a three-act play which is very successful on Broadway at the present. This play was allotted fourth place.

The plays were judged by Miss Harriet Pearson, Miss Aileen Sullivan and Mr. Kuhn.

Club Winners To Be Here December 18

Arrangements Being Made for Royally Entertaining Youngsters Here And In Fargo

A. C. is again making arrangements to extend a royal welcome to the prize winning boy and girl workers in North Dakota who are to be our guests here December 18 to 23, as a reward for the conscientious high class work done by them during the summer.

Banquets, shows, programs and endless minor amusements as well as a few educational items will enter in on their stay here and with the co-operation of the city an entertainment to be remembered some time will be given our young visitors.

There are some four thousand boys and girls engaged in this kind of work in North Dakota this year and the hundred and twenty five who have been chosen as the ones to come here have done some exceptionally brilliant work for young people.

The staging of a corn and potato judging contest will be one of the features at the Boys and Girls' Club Achievement Institute, according to an announcement made by H. E. Rilling, State Club Leader.

Gold, silver and bronze medals will be presented to the winners in each of the contests. The medals for the potato contest will be supplied by the Fargo Seed house, and for the corn contest by Oscar H. Will & Company of Bismarck.

Arrangements have been made for the boys who attend the institution to room at the college armory at a cost not to exceed 35c per night per boy. Efforts are also being made to secure quarters for the girls at the college. If they are not successful, it is believed that rates of 75c or $1 per day can be secured downtown. All of the children attending the institute can secure board at Ceres Hall, the college dormitory, at a total of $2.50 for four days.

Saddle and Sirloin Program Tues. Nite

The Third Saddle and Sirloin club meeting and program will be held on Tuesday evening, December 12, 1922 in the Little Country Theatre. The committee in charge have arranged a specially clever program for your entertainment besides taking into consideration the Ag. weakness for cider and doughnuts.

Let's have one real get together of all college Agricultural students before we go home for Christmas. You shouldn't miss it.

Captain Evans reports the work with his coed sharpshooters as progressing very favorably to date. Burglar insurance rates are going up right along now.

NORTH DAKOTA AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE GOES EIGHTH AT INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION

Winning eighth place out of a field of twenty-three teams from the strongest colleges in America, and winning the special trophy offered by the Percheron Society of America for first place in the judging of Percherons is the record made by North Dakota's Stockjudging team at the International Livestock Exposition held in Chicago last week.

The members comprising the team are Burt Oderkirk, '23, Cap Bentley, '23, Fred Willson, '23, Benjamin McCaul, '24, and Chester Mathiason, '23.

With Leslie Swanson, '23 as alternate. In individual placing the team ranked as follows out of the 115 contestants Burt Oderkirk 20th and high man for North Dakota, Cap Bentley 25th, 2nd, and Fred Willson, 32nd, third.

A. C. can well be proud of the showing her team made in one of the greatest events in Agricultural College Circles, yearly. A team that places in the first ten is considered as having achieved a real honor and A. C. has the distinction of having done even better than that even the being one of the smallest institutions represented.

"Activity" Is Watchword of Auxiliary

WOMANS AUXILIARY WORKS IN CONNECTION WITH THE COLLEGE CHRISTIAN ASSOCIATION; MRS. H. B. FULLER IS PRESIDENT.

Have you ever been away from home on Thanksgiving day and had to eat your Thanksgiving dinner in a restaurant or cafe without the homey, friendly interest that surrounds the home table? If you have you can appreciate the feeling of gratefulness in the minds of fifty students of the Agricultural College, who were placed in homes of members of the Red Triangle Auxiliary for Thanksgiving dinner. This was done through the cooperation of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. of the college under the supervision of Mrs. Latimer.

This organization is in sympathy with the aims of these organizations and works in co-operation with them constantly.

Among the activities of the Auxiliary may be mentioned the furnishing of a bed room in the Y. M. C. A. building, serving dinners, operating free educational movies in the "Y" auditorium for north side children and looking after sick boys on the campus.

The sick visitation work is being carried on under supervision of Mrs. I. W. Smith. It consists of calling on sick students, sending food or flowers to them, and the entertainment of relatives who may visit such students. In fact doing anything that may add to their comfort and recovery.

The membership reaches well over the hundred mark and is open to all women interested in Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. work. The officers of the Auxiliary are: Mrs. H. B. Fuller, president, Mrs. Robert Hulbert, vice-president, Mrs. Theo. Euren, Secretary, Mrs. George Miller, treasurer. The organization is especially glad to welcome as members mothers living in Fargo who have children attending school at A. C., and hope for their help in developing and fostering the finest type of student life. The meetings are held once a month on the second Monday in the Association room at the Y. M. C. A. building at the Agricultural College.

A CHRISTMAS STORY

In a far country, in the days before Jesus was born in Judea, there was great astrologers who studied the heavens by night and by day, for they know of the prophecy which said that a star shall be born or spring out of Jacob, and a man shall arise of the lineage of Isreal. And twelve of them were chosen to take heed, who every year ascended upon a mountain which was called the Hill of Victory. Three days they abode there, and prayed our Lord that He would show to them the star that Balaam had said and prophesied.

Now it happened on a time, that they were there on the day of the Nativity of Jesus Christ, and a star came over them upon this mountain, which had the form of a right fair child, and under his head was a shining cross, and from this cross came a voice, saying: "Today is born a King in Judea."

Now in Arabia, the land in which the soil is red with gold, there reigned a king called Melchoir. And in Saba, where frankincense flows from the trees, the king Balthasar

Borleske In Meeting With N. C. I. Officials

Rules and Schedule for Coming Basketball Season Being Drawn Up.

Members of the Bison squad have returned, group by group, from their trip to Sioux City but they left their mentor behind to attend the meeting of the officials of the N. C. I. conference. Coach Borleske will spend the first part of this week in helping draw up rules and schedules for the coming basketball season and the grid season for next year.

Coach Borleske will return the latter part of the week and will bring back the schedule of conference games for the basketball season. No announcement has yet been made regarding the basketball coach for this season but it is probable that Borleske will spend a part of this week in securing a competent man to take over that department.

Class Games Next Week

As has been announced before, the interclass games will be played next week. The teams should be organized by that time so that they will be able to draw for their games the first of the week. It is planned that the teams will draw for their games and the tournament will be decided by the elimination process. There will be only one chance at the honors and one defeat will eliminate a team.

Preps Have Strong Quint

The Preps are going to have a strong lineup for the basketball floor this year. "Buck Robbins has charge of the squad and with about twenty men reporting for practice each night he is sure to develop a quint that will compete favorably against the strong high school teams in this part of the country. Work so far has consisted in drilling the youngsters in the fundamentals of the game and the new rules passing the ball, close in shooting, and pivoting. They look good thus far.

Girls' Basketball Well Under Way Now

Girls' basketball has started in full swing now. The girls seem to be highly interested according to Miss Andrews, physical director, and there is a wealth of material on hand to turn out some fast quints. Up to date, four teams have been organized namely: Freshmen, Sophomore, Junior Senior and the High School. Each class team has two practices per week and two varsity practices are held each week.

The inter-class tournament will be played the first part of February.

Prof. Thompson is back with his stockjudging team from Chicago and is to be highly complimented on the showing his boys made in the recent contest. Something to make the fellows scratch pretty hard for next fall.

With Captain Duerner at the helm and a fast field underfoot the Bison football machine celebrated Thanksgiving Day at Sioux City by outsmarting the heavy Morningside crew and closing its grid-season with a 27 to 0 conference victory. Ideal weather conditions gave the Bison offense an opportunity to show its skill and thousands of Iowans saw the Bison backs twist thru their pets for consistent sensational gains. Chaney, Duerner, and Birkhofer, playing behind the Bison forward wall which spread the Southerners mechanical defense at will corkscrewed their way down the field repeatedly for long runs in smart football fashion and only in the first quarter were the Morningsiders able to appear dangerous. Reports that the Sioux City crew was light were ungrounded for both teams were evenly matched in weight but the Bisons played super-smart football and with their true style of offense working, cracked them so hard that they could not recover.

Morningside Scores

First quarter: A. C. kicked off to Davis who was downed on his 30 yard line. Aggies held for three downs and the Methodists punted out of bounds on the 50 yard line. The Aggies failed to gain. Boise, punting against a strong wind, got off a bad kick and the ball went out of bounds on the Methodist 35 yard line. Methodists started to march down the field. Short passes and end-runs with Davis carrying the ball put them on the A. C. 2 yard line. They failed to go over and Boise punted 30 yards against the wind. The Methodists maneuvered for position to kick and on the fourth down Rogers drop kicked from (Continued on Page 2)

THAT MAIN DOOR AGAIN

Much rejoicing and good feeling marked the swiping of the giant arm or bumper on the door of Main building during the H. S. Basketball tournament here last year, but that we may not deteriorate into a feeble race, the powers that be, have decreed a still stiffer and stronger barrier to our entrance of Main. It's no small job for even the husky frosh to open the door with a slippery, icy foot hold to cling to, let alone the enfeebled senior and fair coed who must tax to the utmost his muscular power or go without his mail.

Can't those things be slackened up a little one way or another or do we have to kidnap Axel and Dick while our conspirators whisk the object of our woes away to a nice quiet hiding place.

NOTEBOOKS AND THEIR MAKING

Since the beginning of the term considerable comment and criticism on the practice of building up a nice fat notebook has been heard from divers parts and people. That all non-believers in the doctrine that Notebooks determine one's education, here are just a few hints as to what they really are, should be and can do for you, your school, and the world in general:

First, notebooks furnish busy work for playful studes who would otherwise waste their time at something else; they give the profs something to do in the evenings, and a chance to sleep all day; and are nice handy things to carry around with you to lend that studious look to you. From an economic standpoint they are a success too—they keep the pulp mills from closing down, insuring hodes of people steady employment and happiness. They keep the bookstore running. And from a personal viewpoint—you need a notebook. Carry them with you and you will never be stumped for knowledge of any subject your conversation may drift to; show them to employers when you need a job—they are a sure index to your mental abilities; and if nothing else, keep them to show to posterity that they may be awed by the industry and perseverance shown by their daddy while in pursuit of knowledge at A. C.

So you see that notebooks are for your own good and for nothing else whatsoever.

JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE

Scene I—Frenzied student stays up until five a. m. drinking strong coffee and plugging until his head is a throbbing, burning conglomeration of doses, preparations, solubilities and incompatibilities and incompatibilities.

Scene II—Time 11 a. m.—Said student out-guessed by the Prof. from every angle, leaves the examination endeavoring to suppress a sulphurous vocabulary and conscious that he has been bowled over for the proverbial row of chamois-lined tomato cans. Looks for a quiet corner where he can say a few appropriate words.

Scene III—Meets an experienced Frosh of six weeks' standing. Experienced Frosh: "As I've told you before, the only way to get along here is to get up each day's work thoroughly."

Scene IV.—Dead Frosh

Scene V—Jury unanimous. Accused acquitted. Justifiable homicide.

MR. LIEFSON PRESENTS HIS VIEWS

We are hereby submitting to you a letter from Einar Liefson, Chemistry, '25, relative to something concerning us all more or less and hope you read and intepret the same in the spirit in which it was written:

November 27, 1922: The Editor of the Spectrum—Dear Sir: I wish to comment on the condition of our campus. It is disgraceful the way we are practically ruining certain parts of it. It seems that we are totally uninterested in its beauty, but this is not so. Most of the students and faculty, I know, are more than willing to make our campus the best looking in the state. But it is not to be expected that students should be willing to make long detours on roads which very often are almost impassable from mud and water. This is the existing condition at the present time: We have paths and sidewalks that are fairly passable in most places (some places, of course, they are very bad) but they are too indirect. A student who enters the campus from College street at five minutes after eight in the morning naturally wants to get to his class say in Science Hall, as quickly as possible. He is not going to go around by the way of Main Building if he can help it, and no one can blame him for it either. What he wants is a road that will take him to his destination even tho he has to walk on signposts telling him to go around. That signposts are a failure in this instance we can, I think, finally accept as a fact. All they usually does to make the path wider where they stand. Not even signposting, useless as it is, has been practiced by our present Commissioner of the Campus though. Not to mention the numerous remedies that any interested human being might apply with success.

To remedy the condition, which evidently is getting worse and worse, I should like to make the following suggestion: Instead of having an ugly trail across the corner at the entrance from College Street let us build a cinder path across. That corner at present looks more like a Bison stamping ground than anything else, and anyone who has seen it will agree with me that a cinder path would improve its looks one hundred per cent. Not only across the corner do we need a good path but also along the existing trail past the Library. The cost would be very small, and if the interest is great, the work nothing.

I look to the Commissioner of the Campus to direct such work and I place myself at his disposal in any work of this sort he may see fit to do on the campus.

There are plenty of tinders behind the Power House, so let's go!

Yours very truly,

Einar Liefson, Chem. '25.

—Tho the recent coming of winter has hidden some of our campus blemishes until spring finds her way into our midst again, it might not be a bad idea to have Mr. Liefson see the Commissioner of the Campus personally that they may draw up tentative plans, as inferred above, that A. C.'s beautifier may be applied at the earliest possible moment next spring.—Ed.

EBAMINATIONS

When we sit down with our blue books December 18 and take the first glance at the eight, fifteen, or twenty-five questions neatly written on the board in a true professorial hand, what will our sentiments be concerning the whole proposition? We'll bet that you will wish your classes were under someone that doesn't have to have you discuss fully, a, b, c, and d of each of ten questions to make up his mind as to whether you deserve a passing mark or not and on what margin. President Burton, of the University of Michigan, in all due seriousness, treats the subject of college examinations as follows:

"Surely the examination system now employed in American universities is a symptom of the ailment of dead formalism and mechanical externality.

"If we have been searching for a method of killing intellectual curiosity and a genuine spirit of inquiry we have been diabolically successful. If our aim is to convince the student that knowledge comes in chunks and consists of separate fields bearing no relationship to the fascinating reality of life, then our methods justify the procedure. If to become educated is to center one's interests on acquiring enough credits to receive a diploma, then we have succeeded in quantity production beyond even the experts of the industrial world."

purely local news and features, the Spectrum can not afford to pass up an opportunity to keep informed as to similar events outside of our own little realm; and thru our association with our conference friends we will be able to become better acquainted and perhaps get over some of the suspicions, rumors, and unfounded traditions handed down to us since Adam in regard to our athletic and scholastic rivals elsewhere.

Every conference to date that has amounted to anything has had its press affiliations; also, and naturally, the N. C. I. must fall in line if the thing is to be kept going at top speed for any length of time. It is to be hoed, with all the conference editors behind, pushing their hardest, that before long the North Central conference will have just as active and just as successful a press association, as the Big Ten, and other similar associations are. Anywa; we are going to try and make a go of it and something drastic must happen to squelch the enthusiasm shown by those back of the proposition as it now stands.

In connection with the meeting Saturday, a contest will be staged among all the papers in the conference to pick out the best one. They will be judged on several points, among which are appearance, content, and style. The day is going to be a busy one according to word received from Evans, and a definite program with the appointment of committees has all been arranged for so as to allow for no possible delay.

They are all rarin to go. The Spectrum and Agricultural College will find representation in H. W. Herbison and Fred D. Wilkinson.

the 27-yard line. Score, A. C. 0; Morningside, 3.

Chaney Goes Over

Second quarter: A. C. had the wind at their back. They started to open up. Chaney and Birkhofer ripped thru on off tackle smashes for long gains and Duerner, from punt formation, took the oval around end for two pretty runs. Following a long twisting run by Birkhofer on an off tackle play, Chaney went over for the first A. C. touchdown. Robbins kicked goal. On the next play Chaney was injured and lost consciousness. He was replaced by Hicks. Score: A. C. 7; Morningside 3.

Chaney and Duerner Open Up

Third quarter: Chaney regained his equilibrium and replaced Hicks. The Methodists kicked off to the Aggies on the 25 yard line. Again the Aggie backs broke thru at will. With the ball on the Methodist 30-yard line, Duerner from punt formation carried the ball around left end for the second counter. He ran splendidly and shook them off until he was tackled on the two yard line but in a sensational manner he dove over the line. Robbins kicked goal. When play was resumed the Bisons started out on another march towards the goal. Duerner paved the way for Chaney's second touchdown by a clever trick play in which he carried the ball for a 25 yard gain. Chaney smashed thru right tackle for the third counter. Robbins failed to kick goal. Methodists took the ball and opened up with their aerial game. Chaney intercepted a forward pass and ran 45 yards for another touchdown. He twisted, side-stopped and stiff armed his way thru the whole field in the most sensational run of the day. Robbins kicked goal. Score: A. C. 27; Morningside, 3.

Butte Goes in For Duerner

Fourth quarter: The Aggies started another series of long runs with Robbins at tackle featuring. In three plays Buck took the oval around the

IPSE DIXIT and GALILEO

There was much learning but little real knowledge in Galileo's time (1564-1642). Aristotle was swallowed in bad Latin translations. Ipse dixit. No one checked him by what seemed vulgar, coarse experiment.

Galileo fought against the dead hand of tradition. He did not argue about Aristotle, but put him to the test. Aristotle led his readers to believe that of two bodies the heavier will fall the faster. Galileo simply climbed to the top of the Leaning Tower of Pisa and dropped two unequal weights. The "best people" were horrified; they even refused to believe the result—that the weights reached the ground in equal times.

"Look at the world, and experiment, experiment," cried Galileo.

The biggest man in the 16th century was not Galileo in popular estimation, but Suleiman the Magnificent, the Ottoman Emperor, who swept through Eastern Europe with fire and sword and almost captured Vienna. Where is his magnificence now?

Galileo gave us science—established the paramount right of experimental evidence. Suleiman did little to help the world.

Hardly an experiment is made in modern science which does not apply Galileo's results. When, for instance, the physicists in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company study the motions of electrons in rarified atmospheres, or experiment to heighten the efficiency of generators and motors, they follow Galileo's example and substitute facts for beliefs.

VOCATIONAL MEN Get A Home While You Train

SILVER STAR is the name of the new colony of disabled ex-service men located in the valley of the Snake River in Aitkin county, Minnesota, midway between Minneapolis and Duluth, the greatest markets of the Northwest.

The men have selected a large tract of land which has room for five hundred farmers. The soil is a very productive clay loam. Rainfall is abundant, and clover grows like a weed. The country is ideally adapted for diversified farming, and is considered the dairy and stock farmer's paradise—poultry and bees also do well here.

Agricultural instruction will be given right on the land, so that the men do not have to leave their farms to attend school in some large city.

Nice houses are built for the married men, and the bachelors will live in a comfortably built barracks.

A club house and community center, equipped with library, radiophone, etc, will make the social life of the colony a real pleasure.

The service rendered to this colony also includes tractors, and land clearing machinery will be furnished free of charge. A marketing expert will be furnished—and in addition, financial assistance is rendered which assures every man the achievement of success as long as he tries to do his part.

The price of the land is $25.00 per acre, and the payments are $50.00 a month. When training pay ceases, the land payments stop also—interest at 6 per cent.

If you desire to join this project, write to Ernest O. Buhler, McGrath, Minnesota, (he organized the colony at Veteransville), or, ask about it from the charter members of the Silver Star colony, all from the Agricultural College of North Dakota:

On the next play Duerner was injured and he was replaced by Bate. After a few advances thru the line Chaney went over for a touchdown, but was called back, the Aggies being penalized 15 yards for holding. The Methodists took the ball and opened up with a strong aerial attack. The combination, Rogers to Nisson took the ball to the A. C. 4 yard line. With only 10 seconds left to play, Rogers moved up to left end and Nisson dropped back to quarter. On the next play a pass, Nisson to Rogers, was completed about 11 yards back of the Aggie goal line but the officials ruled it a touchdown.

Morningside Men are Fighters
 The Morningside crew played a fighting brand of football but they outclassed the Bisons in only one department, the aerial game. After a little spurt in the first quarter, they were unable to gain at all consistently except by the use of their short snappy screen pass which resulted in their getting in position to score in the last few minutes of the game. The whole Aggie line played its usual strong defensive game and every man played his position in a very creditable manner.

Chaney Stars
 Chaney was the shining light of the day. Three times he hurdled their last white line for a counter and the crowd was so enthused over his exceptional playing that they followed him on his way to the dressing room just to size up the wonder from the north.

Duerner Went Good
 Captain Duerner, altho handicapped by his weak ankle, played so brilliantly and ran his team so capably that Morningside supporters admitted that in football togs he could run faster than any human being that ever played on their gridiron. Birky, playing his first year of college football, made a fit running mate for the two stars mentioned above and time and time again he tore thru off tackle or around end for long gains. He showed worlds of speed and an uncanny ability to shake off the tacklers in the open field. As a youngster he played a star game.

Davis and Rogers Look Good
 For morningside, Davis and Rogers were the outstanding players. Both were playing their fourth year for the Methodists and the Aggies found them hard to stop. Nisson also came in for a share of the honors in his excellent work at spearing passes. The Methodists were kept on the defensive in practically the whole game but they were aided by penalties and at times took spurts that looked rather dangerous. The Aggies were penalized 65 yards and the Methodists 5 yards.

"IN THE PUBLIC EYE"
 BY A. E. Cannon
 IS THIS WHAT YOU FEAR?
 FOR LIFE
 Women folks are particularly annoyed at the prospect of having to wear glasses for life once the yare fitted with them. This does not prove to be the case at such times where the cause of defects are remedied at once. Often it is the case that the lenses prescribed will so correct the imperfect focusing-accommodation of the eye that the muscles become stronger and allow the wearer to discard the glasses entirely.

ruled. And in the land where myrrh hangs from the bushes, the kingdom of Tharsis, reigned a third king called Caspar. These three kings also saw the star and heard the voice, and they each made ready to go on a journey. And one of the three knew that the others intended thus to make a pilgrimage. And they gathered together their treasures to present to the king whom they should seek and summoned those who should attend them. So each set out with a great estate. And as they journeyed they found the mountains made level as the plains, while the swollen rivers became dry land. And never did they lose sight of the star, which shined upon them as the sun, always moving before them to guide them on their way.

But when they were come within two miles of Jerusalem, the star disappeared, a heavy fog arose, and each party halted; Melchoir, as it fell out, taking his stand on Mount Calvary, Balthasar on the Mount of Olives, and Caspar just between them. And when the fog cleared away, each was astonished to see two other great companies besides his own, and then the kings first discovered that all had come upon the same errand, and they embraced with great joy, and rode together into Jerusalem.

And when they came into the city, Herod and all the people were troubled because of so great company like unto an army. They then demanded in what place the King of the Jews was born, for, said they, "We have seen His star in the Orient, and therefore we come to worship Him." And when Herod had heard this, he was much troubled, and all Jerusalem with him. Then Herod called all the priests of the law, and the doctors and demanded of them where Jesus Christ should be born. And when he understood them that He should be born in Bethlehem, he called the three kings apart and demanded of them diligently the time that the star appeared to them. And he said to them that as soon as they should have found the Child and have worshipped Him, that they should return and show it to him, feigning that he would worship Him also, though he thought that he would go to slay him.

As soon as the kings were entered into Jerusalem, the sight of the star was taken from them. But when they were issued out of the city, the star appeared again and went before them, until it came above the place in Bethlehem where the child was. And they had journeyed now full thirteen days.

And when they had entered into the place they worshipped the young Child, and Mary, His mother. Now the kings had brought great treasures with them, for it must be known that all that Alexander the Great left at his death, and all that the Queen of Sheba gave to King Solomon, and all that Solomon collected for the temple, had descended to the three kings from their ancestors; and all they had now brought with them. But when they had bowed down before the Child they were filled with fear and amazement because of the great light which was in the place. And they each offered quickly the first thing that came to their hands, and forgot all their other gifts. Melchoir offered thirty golden pennies, Balthasar gave frankincense, and Caspar myrrh; but all else they quite forgot, and only remembered that they bowed before the Child, and said, "Thanks be to God."

And when they would have stayed to do honor to the Holy Child, an angel came to them in a dream, to warn them against Herod, who would do them harm. So they departed each to his own country, journeying for two years. And they preached unto the people, telling them of the new-born King, and everywhere upon the temples men placed the figures of a star, The Child, and a cross.

Now it happened years later that St. Thomas, the Apostle journeyed to the far country to preach, and that he wondered why the star was placed upon the temples. Then the priests in those temples told him about the three kings and how they had journey to Bethlehem and had seen the young Child.

And the three kings were very old and feeble, but when they heard about St. Thomas, each set out from his own place to go to meet him. And when they had come together they builded them a city, and lived together there for two years, worshipping God and preaching. The Melchoir died, and was buried in a large and costly tomb. And when Balthasar died, he, too, was buried there. And at last Caspar was placed beside his companions.

Now in the days of Constantine the Great, his mother Helena determined to find the bodies of the three kings, and for this she made a journey to the far country. And when she had found them, she brought them to Constantinople to the Church of St. Sophia, where they were held in much honor. And from Constantinople they were taken to Milan, where again many pilgrims came. Now when Frederick Barbarossa laid siege to the city of Milan, he rejoiced above all else to find them there. And by him they were taken to Cologne, and there a golden shrine was built in which the bones of the three holy kings were placed beside his companions.
