FARGO COLLEGE COMES BACK AND WINS LAST GAME WITH US

CLOSE GAME WON IN LAST FEW MINUTES OF PLAY.

Fargo College won the return game with the State College in the game last Monday night in the Fargo College gym, in a close, hard fought game, counting the winning scores in the last few minutes of play. Both teams started with the same line-ups they had used against the University in the two games that had been played in the past week.

The State counted first, when Captain Reis counted a foul. This was followed by a foul shot by Murray (Continued on Page 6)

ATTENTION, STUDENT VOTERS

Any non-resident student voter desiring to vote in the election March 16th must write to his county auditor, sending his home address (voting place) and his Fargo address, and requesting return of an Absentee Ballot. MISS JEANETTE RANKIN SPEAKS AT CONVOCATION

—00—

A. C. students had the good fortune of hearing Miss Jeanette Rankin, former congresswoman from Montana, at convocation on Monday morning. Miss Rankin has the distinction of being the first woman to have sat in our national legislature. We found her to be a speaker of merit with a most pleasing personality. Her address was on the International Conference of Women held in Zurich, Switzerland, to which she was a delegate, at the time the Peace Conference was sitting in Paris in the spring of 1919. She told of the difficulties encountered by the various delegations in trying to secure passports from their own and foreign governments. The ingenuity of some of the American delegates in getting around the limit set by the State Department would indicate that this distinctly American characteristic was not confined to the men alone. Of the resolutions drawn up and adopted at this Conference the only one which was discussed in the American papers was the one condemning the Peace Treaty as a measure of retaliation rather than one seeking true peace. The League of Nations was heartily endorsed as a move toward real world peace. Interested spectators expected that the suffrage issue would become the main topic of discussion but this was omitted entirely as the franchise was practically granted in several counties and inevitable in the rest in a short time. But the greatest issue of the conference was the discussion of ways and means to alleviate the terrible famine conditions of Europe and to reduce the high mortality among children due to malnutrition. Miss Rankin closed her address by saying that the men of the world had carried on the war and thus created the tragic situation that exists today; but the men alone could never complete the reconstruction. It was going to take the men and women

WALKER WHITESIDE.

Walker Whiteside, who will appear in the Master of Ballantrae by Robert Louis Stevenson at the Orpheum Theatre on Thursday evening of this week (March 11) will doubtless be remembered by many members and the faculty and student body because of his appearance in the college armory in "The Typhoon" several years ago. Mr. Whiteside is an honorary member of the Edwin Booth Dramatic Club and during his stay in the city Thursday will visit The Little Country Theatre and meet the different members of the dramatic club.

Mr. Whiteside stands today as one of America's foremost actors. The student body and faculty of the Agricultural College will undoubtedly give him a royal welcome because of his interest in the institution.

working together to accomplish this. Before adjournment the conference voted to make the gathering a permanent one. The name of The World International League of Women for Peace and Liberty was adopted and Miss Jane Adams was elected president.

DRAMATIC

FESTIVAL GIVEN AT ARMORY LAST SATURDAY.

Last Saturday afternoon the Festival class consisting of Misses Katherine Blake, Edith Challey, Grace Kotchian and Marion McLaughlin, presented at three o'clock in the armory, an exhibition Christmas festival which was an exceedingly pratty and attractive sight.

The performance ran as follows: The hibernating bear comes forth from his den but seeing his shadow on the snow retreats to his hole. Then a cloud of fluttering snowflakes portrayed by a group of small girls fell on a distant hillside. The procession of snowflakes then takes place. As they march the little ones sing a winter song and shortly stage a snow battle. Several other songs are sung, including the "Star Spangled Banner" as a fitting finale to the afternoon.

The armory was very prettily decorated in the spirit of winter, having eight huge snowballs hanging from the ceiling and a snow man and a snow fort in the center of the floor.

Tryouts were held for the H. S. Senior class play to be given on May 2nd, last Thursday, but the results have not been announced as yet.

DR. BOWERS ADDRESSES POLYTECH ON NUTRITION.

The Polytechnic society had the pleasure of listening to Dr. W. G. Bowers talk on the subject of "Nutrition," at the meeting of last Wednesday, March 3. Dr. Bowers treated the topic in a very interesting manner and covered the broad field of his subject very completely in the limited time he had at his disposal. The talk displayed a very extensive knowledge of the theme on the part of the speaker and was highly instructive to the audience.

UNIVERSAL MILITARY TRAINING AS IT IS NOW PLANNED

A letter recently sent out to the college papers throughout the country, by the Military Camps Association, gave a brief resume of the substance of the bill for universal military training, which is shortly to be considered by our legislators. Extracts from this letter are given below and seem to throw a very clear light upon some of the phases of this question that every college man should be well informed upon.

"College men did their part well in the World War and had opportunity to learn how much unpreparedness cost our country in men and money. Today the United States needs a sound military policy. The Army Reorganization Bill (S-3792) is offered as embodying such a policy. The active support of college men would greatly help its passage.

"This proposed act calls for a small regular army and an organized reserve, secured through the universal military training (for four months between the ages of 17 and 21) of all male youth. It is democratic, for the duty and opportunity of military training rests equally upon all. It is economical, since the cost will be much less than any other adequate measure would involve. It is efficient, since the resulting army and the reserve will be equal to any emergency that may arise.

"The bill was formulated after conference with the American Legion Committee, officers of the National Guard, delegates from American colleges and universities and men representing the commercial, manufacturing and agricultural interests of the country. Ninety-four per cent of the ex-officers of the National Army (many of them college graduates and undergraduates) have declared themselves favorable to the provision of universal military training and the same hearty support comes from the great majority of the former enlisted men of the army and navy.

"The R. O. T. C. is to be continued with special reference to the training of officers, with summer camps (optional attendance) at government expense, with commutation of subsistence for the third and fourth years in the Corps and with commissions as reserve officers for college graduates who take four years in the R. O. T. C.

"Universal training means military preparedness but it means much more—the physical training of all young men (¼ of the drafted men were physically defective), the eliminating of illiteracy (¼ of the drafted men were illiterate), the development of intelligent and patriotic Americans, and (through vocational schooling) the making of more industrious and skilled workmen.

"The problem is vital and immediate. Every college man is asked to consider it and then to write his own Representative and Senators at Washington what he thinks of the military policy of S-3792.

Pharmacy Club Revives Old Spirit.

Pharmaceutical activities at the college took on a new lease of life last Friday night when twenty-one members of the School of Pharmacy were initiated into the mysteries of the North Dakota Pharmacy Club. That the affair was a success is easily vouched for by the groans and cries of distress which came during the ceremony from the third floor of the Chemistry Building.

The initiation was followed by "eats" and from all reports the hungry sons and daughters of the desert were well fed. Dancing was then enjoyed in the Music Hall until a late hour. The meeting was in charge of the senior students to whom full credit should be given.

Chaperons included Prof. and Mrs. Sudro, Mr. and Mrs. Jongeward, Miss Meadows and Mr. Kimball.

TRUE STORY OF MAD MABEL'S ALARMING DEBUT AND SUBSEQUENT EXODUS FROM THE 1920 CO-ED PROM.

Last Friday evening as the little hand of the clock caressed the figure eight, a strange drama of life was being enacted in the Palace of Beauty that graces the northeast corner of the campus. The inmates of the Palace had bedecked themselves in apparel, for the most part, unfit for female consumption. Each one of the wild creatures sallied forth from her den with a shiver of fear that some beast of prey might be awaiting her down the hall, ready to take advantage of her lack of hat-pins. They cautiously crept down to the parlor and there assembled. There they carefully counted noses and made the horrible discovery that a foreign beauty was in their midst. The foreigner, however, turned out to be a most affable damsel and immediately won her way into the hearts of even the coldest of them. The sounds of siren music then drifted up from the floor below and the more audacious ones set forth to conquer these new fields. The conquest took place in a very short time and the work of colonization began. The colonists proved for the most part peaceful and devoted themselves to their work of feasting and dancing. The feasting being confined to the region above the cheek bones. Shortly however persecution and cruelty developed from some of the stronger forces and as a result the hat was passed around to see who would draw the black bean. Again the fair face of the foreigner graces the screen for a close-up, depicting anguish and a broken heart as she is chosen for the sacrifice. Someone whispers "frame-up" but to no avail, for the fair one must depart. Amid the tears and sobs of her many friends the dear little one gently discarded herself from the pack and thereafter they played deuces wild in lieu of the missing joker. The last episode of this thrilling evening's performance was graced by the appearance on the scene of three Knights of the Kodak. These venturesome beings were seized upon by the lonely multitude of maidens and forced to dance out the rest of the evening, much against their will. At the end of the evening the female forces retreated to their fortresses in good order and without the loss of a man. Curiously enough, the next morning there were found to be twice as many girls as had been seen the night before, whereas all of those hard looking men had volatilized.

THE FRIENDLY ENEMY

The friendly enemy—the wolf in sheeps clothing. Like the poor, they are always with us.

Students, we have them on this campus—the inveterate gossip—the mud slingers—the character blackeners. "Use your imagination" is their slogan—their battle cry—their very "staff of life".

These vultures, these thinkers of putrid thots, hover over our campus, attend our mass meetings, go to our games and travel on our specials. Friendly—yes—but always on the lookout for the bad—never the good.

Are they believers in "Our Alma Mater"—our school "spirit"? What? Does a thief believe that his intended victim should carry a revolver? "No," you say. Nor do these vultures believe in such things. For them it is impossible. They are crammed with rottenness from the top of their heads to the soles of their feet,—the only "soul" which they possess.

You—even you—as you read this article may be a "friendly enemy" or at least, in the first stages of decay. Take account of yourself—render your own "report" and having done so, direct your thots towards more productive channels. Think and talk the good—forget the bad.

And to those over whom these vultures are ever watchful, remember:—"The evil that men do lives after them, the good is oft interred with their bones".

OLD PAL

"Old Pal". Just that. Say—do those two words pull at your heart when you hear them? Do they remind you of days gone by; of days here now; of the wondrous days still in store for you in the future, with your pals? If they don't you're losing all the biggest and best things in life and the biggest factor in your loss lies in the fact that you don't know what you are losing.

A pal isn't just a man whom you are going to know just while you're in college or any other short part of your life and who a half a dozen years after you have left him will pass you by on the street with a mere nod and wonder to himself "where in the world I saw that fellow before". He is a man who, if he heard your name mentioned ten years after you were separated, would spend half a day telling his friends what great times you and he had together in the good old days. The man who would take you to eat with him on his last four bit piece; who would be sore enough to scrap with you, if you went through his town and didn't look him up for at least a few moments of "Hello" and "Say, d'you remember the time—?"

No man can expect to fathom or understand all the rest of the world and the strange creatures ruling it, men, from his own knowledge or study, but how much nearer must one be able to come to understanding these things if there is one man or several men with whom he is so close and intimate as to be an indissoluble part of their lives and intellectualities and they a part of his. He then sees the world through their eyes as well as his own and is broadened and strengthened in his ideas and ideals in this way. A man becomes surer of himself and can inspect and criticize himself through the eyes of his friends. Even if he makes mistakes or is misjudged, he cares naught for the biased, narrow opinion of the false world because he is secure in the knowledge that he has friends who will stand back of him right or wrong and who really appreciate his motives.

One real good friend is worth a world of acquaintances and the worth of a pal cannot be measured by any conceivable standard of comparison.

We shudder with pity when we think of a man without a country, but who thinks of the thousands of men without friends and really what good is a country to a man if it is empty of all save the mere material grosser things. Men afflicted thus are the men that try to ruin our country and yet they are for the most part self made and have only themselves to blame for being friendless. Most of these are self-exiled from the world by having hardened themselves in their youth against forming the undying friendships that every young man should be proud to possess.

Make your friendships, weld their bonds and temper them strongly against the changes of time and circumstance. Even though you may have to make enemies to make friends, do not hesitate, for the worth of one good friend cannot be eclipsed by the harm done by an innumerable host of enemies. When you take a friend, take him not only for the good that is in him but also for the bad. The faults are as much a part of him as the virtues should not be overlooked or not considered but should rather be taken as a credit to him in that he has a strong enough character to support these faults and yet command the respect and love of his fellow men. Friendship between men is the deepest of all emotions, as it represents a give-all and ask nothing feeling that must dominate the relationship before it is worthy of the name of friendship.

Consider carefully, are you abusing yourself in this respect by being too cautious to make friends with other men? This is the time to make these friendships as shortly you will be too old and hardened to be able to meet or make advances of this sort. Make your college days something besides mere faded and dirty calender sheets dropped into the waste basket at the end of each year and remembered only for the learning you took from them. Make them live fast moving days of life and the nearer you can come to spotting up a new friend for every sheet torn off that daily calendar the nearer you are to being the kind of man that your community needs and will admire.

Judging from the size they concluded that it was a denizen of the kitchen who had fared forth in search of fairer fare. The result of his escapade however was that he fared ill, going to an inglorious death beneath a broom weilded by the powerful paws of ferocious co-ed. The army of the victorious betook themselves to room 39, trembling from exhaustion and bearing in mind the lesson portrayed by this horrible scene one of the inevitable results of "hominy, more hominy, too much hominy."

HEED, YOUR SPEED.

'Tis not the speed at which we go
That counts for most in the end, you know,
Nor the many strokes that the rower makes
But the skill and power in the ones he takes;
The rudder's hold, the skillful tack
Count more than speed in the safe come-back,
Not the clip we hit nor the dust we throw
Make the cheapest fare for the miles we go,
Not the whips we crack nor the curse to go
But steady reins, sharp chirp, plain whoa,

No sudden throw of the throttle wide
Will start a train on the up hill side.
So heed, my friend, thi splain tried truth

To which all life has been a proof
'Tis not the speed at which we go
But our force and skill that makes the show.

NEW CATALOGER FOR LIBRARY

On March the first, Miss Russell Edwards came to the college library to accept the position of cataloger. Miss Edwards is a graduate of the University of Missouri and later took a course in Library Science at the University of Illinois Library school. She has had several years experience, first at the St. Louis Public Library and later at the University of North Dakota. She was at the head of the cataloging department at the University for six years and during that time, organized the department in splendid shape.

As the work in our own college library is growing at such a rapid rate, it is necessary to have one assistant to give her entire attention to cataloging. The college is very fortunate in securing the services of Miss Edwards for this particular line of work.

INDUSTRIAL COURSE HAVE AWAKENED, WHO'S NEXT?

It happened! What? The Industrial Course students have waken up. If you don't believe it you should have been at the rally on Thursday, or better still at the Industrial Course banquet Friday evening at six o'clock, where a crowd of Industrial Course students turned out that filled the banquet hall to overflowing. Here they all enjoyed a really excellent feed, which was prepared by the girls from the Home-makers' class under the able direction of Miss Ladd. They then went to the Little Country Theatre where they listened to several very interesting talks by the Deans of the various departments, followed by a one act play rendered in an amusing and entertaining manner by two gentlemen from the Industrial Courses.

Even the young gentlemen and the prominent professor admitted, after they were filled up on the good things that were served there, that we were not dead but very much alive, they especially praised the Home-makers for some unknown reason.

It is only too bad that we were not waken up earlier in the term, but here's that some of this spirit, pep, and enthusiasm, which they have instilled in us may pass on and be with us in a much stronger form in the next term. — Another Industrial Course Student.

Within the last few minutes of play of the first half, Murray and Ward each dropped in a field goal. These with another foul brought the F. C. score up to the Aggie total and the first half ended with a tied score. During this half the Aggies had out-fought their opponents with a superior defense altho the offense proved too weak to draw the F. C. forwards away from their basket far enough to permit the ball to be worked behind them.

The second half started with a score of 9 to 9 and both teams fought hard for the first few minutes of play. The Aggies shortly caged two baskets in quick succession and then the game dropped back to even playing on both sides again. During this lull Hayes was fouled for playing the ball and disqualified for having four personal fouls. Borderud replaced Jarvey as guard and the game continued for a while largely as it had before. Then the Hill-men started a terrific offensive onslaught and made four baskets in rapid sequence, making the score 19 to 13. The Aggies recovered from this in part when Movold made a basket and Reis shot a foul. At this point Hunter replaced Reis at forward. The game was hard fought for the next few minutes, neither five gaining any great advantage. The game continued in this way to the end with the Aggies fighting hard to regain their lead, to no avail, the game ending with a score of 19 to 16 in favor of Fargo College.

For F. C., Murray played the fastest game, playing excellent basket ball, while Reis was the outstanding Aggie man, shooting fouls with great accuracy and scoring three field goals. The game was characterized by the disgraceful officiating of Umpire Glaser of the Fargo Y. M. C. A., who used unparadonably poor judgment in calling fouls, at times taking the game out of the hands of the referee and returning it thereto only after doing his best to wreck it.

UNIVERSITY STATE CHAMPION

CHAMPIONSHIP SLIPS AWAY FROM US LAST SATURDAY NIGHT.

The North Dakota University won the undisputed State Championship of North Dakota and the Dakota-Minnesota Conference last Saturday evening when they defeated the State College by the score of 31 to 10. The University team was supported by their school band and about three hundred rooters who came down on a Special. Before and during the game, there was staged a musical and cheering dual between the contending forces which strained the lungs on both sides of the floor. The large number of Aggies who were backing their team for a come-back however out-volumed the visitors considerably. Doc Putnam with his 55-piece band completely swamped the musicians from the North, but was kind enough to let up once in a while to allow their notes to be heard.

Altho the score was exceedingly top-heavy, the Aggies were not nearly so far outclassed as the figures would indicate. The Aggies scored first when Captain Reis converted a free throw into a score. Two minutes later Dutch Hauser dropped in a long one from the center of the floor which was followed with another a moment later. Movold then threw one and the U shot a foul, thus making the score 5 to 3. The score remained stationary for the next five minutes with both teams going at top speed. The game was hard fought, due to the keen rivalry that is always a part of our battles with the U and this had a tendency to cause the start of the game to be a trifle rough. However, the clever handling of the game by the referee eliminated this form of the game in very short order as he called a number of fouls on both sides. During the next six minutes the Aggies slackened while the U opened up wide and displayed some of the fastest teamwork used on the Aggie floor this season. The last three minutes of the half the Aggies strengthened and threatened to repeat the performance of the Northerners. However, in spite of their clever teamwork they were unable to connect with the basket after Reis shot one from the deep corner, altho they carried the ball thru the U defense at will. The half ended 19 to 6 in favor of the visitors.

The second half started with a rush and the Aggies carried the ball down the floor before the U got started but were unable to score. The first part of this period the State defense kept the U from scoring but could not hold the pace long enough to come back at their opponents. Coach Borleske sent three new men into the game which stiffened the local offense and kept the ball in the visitors' territory for the latter part of the game.

The scoring combination for the U was as usual, Hauser and Richards who both played outstanding games. This combination is the best that has hit the A. C. floor this season and will be the choice of many for the forward berths on the mythical all-state five for this year.

No individual stood out for the State but the team as a whole fought hard and deserve much commendation for the fight they put up and the spirit they displayed even after the game was hopeless.

PREPS TAKE RETURN GAME

The A. C. Preps won the return game with the Model High School team from the University, in a preliminary. The score was 21 to 10. The U Preps scored first when Couer counted a foul which he followed with a field basket, thus placing his team three points in the lead. Rathje the big man for the Preps dropped in three baskets in rapid succession, gaining the lead for his team which they maintained thruout the rest of the game. It was a royal battle from start to finish, altho the local Preps were never in any danger of losing the game, they were forced to put forth their best efforts at all times to keep their superiority. Couer was the big man for the Model High men, being the mainstay in the offense and defense. Rathje was the big pointgetter for the State Preps and was at the same time a strong defensive factor. McCracken played an excellent game at guard.

FARGO IN RACE

Accompanied by a large band of rooters, the Fargo high school basket ball team returned to the city after winning the district championship in a hard fought contest with Wahpeton Saturday afternoon by the score of 14 to 10. The game was a whirlwind with Fargo always on the long end of the score or tied with their opponents. The game was all that could be desired from the story point of view. With ten minutes left to play and the score tied at 9, Berdahl, Fargo guard, who had been kept out of the game because of illness, entered the contest and shot two baskets which proved to be the winning points in the contest. Brockmueller, Fargo's star center, caged three field goals during the contest. The first half ended with the score 9 to 7 in favor of the Fargo five.

ANNUAL STOCK JUDGING CONTEST.

—II—

More than the usual interest is being manifested this year in the stock judging contest which is to be held next Thursday, March 11th. This contest is open to all students of the short course, farm husbandry and college. The short course class in stock judging has just completed an unusually good term of judging so that they should be in just as favorable a position to win as the college students who took judging last fall. The following rings of stock are to be judged: 2 of horses, 2 of beef and 2 of dairy cattle, 2 of hogs, and 2 of sheep. They may be judged on the basis of market, stocker, feeder, pure bred, or finished animals for the market; the class to be announced at the time the ring is judged. Already sixty students have signified their desire to Prof. Thompson of entering the contest and a good many more entrants are expected before Thursday.

Silver medals are to be awarded to the winner in each class and to high score man, if he has not already won a medal in some class. This medal which is the standard award of merit given by the Animal Husbandry Department of the college to winners in the annual contest and to members of the stock judging team who represent the college at the big show in Chicago, has been decided upon as an award having greater merit and intrinsic value to the holder in years to come than a cash prize would have. It indicates for its holder distinctive work done as the letter goes for its holder in athletics. The Department of Animal Husbandry has now reached a stage where alumni of the college have so numerous and willingly offered their co-operation to promote a greater stimulus in the work by offering prizes of medals, cups, or cash that it feels it no longer needs to call on outside assistance in this work.

The judges in this contest have been arranged for and will be announced later. It will take place in the new stock judging pavilion which has a seating capacity of 500. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Said Mr. "Short Horn,"—

"When I pass my Chemistry
 I tell the world, you bet,
 But when my mark goes down
 An' naught's the best I get,
 I don't say nothin'.

"When all the world is going fine
 I talk about it some,
 But when I'm feelin' rotten
 An' everything's gone bum,
 I don't say nothin'.

There ain't no use er kickin'
 If things don't come your way
 Them's the times to shut your face
 Until another, better day,
 An' not say nothin'.

NEW HONORARY SALESMANSHIP FRATERNITY IN PROCESS OF ORGANIZATION.

A new honorary fraternity has sprung up among the colleges of the United States. The qualifications for membership to this infant national organization, consist mainly in having demonstrated unusual ability in salesmanship. No particular line of endeavor is specified but any student worker may qualify regard- less of the nature of his work, so that the returns are based upon his ability as a seller. The aggregate net amount earned in the one year, usually consisting of the vacation time, must amount to at least one thousand dollars. A number of in- fluential business houses are behind this fraternity and are doing a great deal to uplift its ideals and give aid to its founders. the college will be admitted.

The insignia of this fraternity will take the form of a key, following the example of a number of other fra- ternities of this sort.

Whether we shall have a chapter of this organization or not depends upon the number of eligible men there are in the school. At present this number is very limited but it is hoped that the number will be suffi- cient to merit the starting of a chap- ter at the end of the summer.

LECTURE TO BE GIVEN THIS AFTERNOON OF THE GREAT- EST IMPORTANCE TO THE CO- EDS.

The women's division of the Phy- sical Education department has been unusually fortunate in bringing to the Agricultural College, the films entitled, "Fool Follies". These films were first shown at the Health Con- ference of doctors and physical direc- tors of the country, which was held in New York city in December and proved very interesting as well as instructive.

The films will be shown in room 22, Engineering building at 4:30 P. M., on Wednesday, March 10. No admission is to be charged. A talk on health will be given by Dr. Eliza- beth Rindlaub, who attended the conference in New York. This will precede the films. On account of the limited seating capacity of the building only the young ladies as- sociated with the institution as students or in the employment of
