FLYING CIRCUS DAY VACATION ENJOYED

The bulletin board in front of main has been the bearer of many glad tidings to work-worn students, and no message could be found with more joy and hope, or be better received by such an individual as that which it proclaimed the early part of last week, an afternoon off Wednesday! Excited exclamations, happy little giggles, and loud guffaws marked the advent of new groups as they surveyed it.

The weather man didn't seem to work in sympathy with the generous faculty of N. D. A. C., however, for Wednesday blew in gloomy, cold and snowy. This could not, however, eliminate the enthusiasm of a holiday. Wild plans were being discussed—one young man was quite willing to trade in his father's Franklin roadster for a reserved seat in the clouds for about ten minutes. Young ladies wore contented smiles and all acknowledged charms such as would vie with those of a college boy. Cameras were replenished with lacking necessities. We hoped that the editor in chief of our regular Spectrum would favor us with the fine one we know he took.

Armed with foot warmers, two sets of winter clothes, and the warm glow of happiness—we all went forth to witness the exploits. Conjecturing and speculating on the possibilities FLYING CIRCUS DAY—Front Page of different machines was the first diversion. The whirl of the propellers and the gurr-r of the huge machines, when they started into action put a thrill into our hearts, we will not soon forget.

A hush—and applause—the first of the allied machines, a Curtiss was in the air. Higher it went till it seemed only a huge bird flying amongst the clouds. Most of us have viewed airships before, but few of us one of the great warring ones. The plane came lower and commenced to loop the loop, and sail downward—another one up and another one! Five in all, almost more than we were able to follow in the courses they were taking. Lieutenant Franklin O. Carroll, an Indian man, did the most spectacular flying in a speed machine. He would suddenly swoop down toward the sweeping crowds and then rise far above them again. His flying downward caused a sensation of vast uneasiness and admiration among the onlookers. Barrell rolls, tail spins and nose drives were also executed. The greatest disappointments were dealt to those who had planned to take the air tour, and were not allowed to do so, owing to the unfavorable weather conditions which would make such an adventure too perilous for mere land-mortals.

Without question the greatest enjoyment seems to have fallen to our fair co-eds, after the flying. It is only in deference to the secret of "knowing," which they cherish. We have not asked them for a complete lineology and achievements of the notables, which they should be able to give. The Milwaukee depot seemed a blessed resort to "those of the car caste", and when the heroes of the hour will deign to spend their valuable time exchanging reports with the girls of this school—ain't it speakin' for our girls though?

Some of the lads have seen eighteen months of service in France; most of them have not been to their homes since their return to this country. A good many are among the number who quit school and are anxious to get back—filled with a new realization of what these institutions mean to us. These men are as direct an appeal for the fifth Liberty Loan as the five machines in which they fly. They are "one of us"—let us hold up our end as nobly as they have held up theirs and N. D. A. C. will not be lacking in a representation of Victory Bond buyers.

ADELLE FRANZ.

PHI KAPPA PHI FRAT ELECT NEW MEMBERS

At a recent meeting of Phi Kappa Phi, the honor fraternity at the Agricultural College, the following seniors were invited to join the organization and have accepted membership:—Misses Beulah Watson and Marie Huey of Fargo; Mr. Carl Winberg of Lake Park Minnesota; Mr. Louis Jorgenson of Towner, N. D., and Mr. Peter DeBoer of Pollock, S. D. This society is national in scope and was established to recognize sound scholarship in American colleges. Student membership is limited to one fourth of the members of the graduating class. The officers of the N. D. chapter are: President H. L. Bolley; Vice President W. T. Pearce; Secretary and treasurer Miss Harriet Pearson. The

COACH DAVIS COMMISSIONED CAPT. IN U. S. R.

Coach Paul Davis recently was commissioned a captain in recognition of his splendid work done as athletic instructor while in service at Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky. Coach Davis has the congratulations of the entire student body, and we are proud of his record made while in the service—and more proud to have him with us again.

COLLEGE Y. W. C. A. CONFERENCE

From the 25th to the 27th of April there was held on the Agricultural College campus a state Y. W. C. A. student conference. This is a privilege that comes to a campus not oftener than every five or seven years, because every state college or school is anxious to take its turn to have a student conference on its campus, and since there are 11 state schools, we entertain such a conference only every 11 years. Eight schools were represented here this year, Mayville Normal, University, Fargo College, Valley City Normal, Wahpeton Science, Moorhead Normal, Jamestown College and the Agricultural College. The number of delegates sent from each school varied from thirteen to one, making the total number about sixty.

The meetings of the conference were all held in the Little Country Theatre. The conference opened Friday evening, Rev. Bennet of St. Paul's Episcopal church speaking. Saturday morning and evening Mr. David C. Aide of Minneapolis lectured. (Continued on page 2.)

MISS CAMPBELL LEAVES COLLEGE.

We have recently received word that Miss Campbell, instructor in costume design and dressmaking in the Domestic Art department of our College, is leaving us to take up the same line of work at Simmon's College, Boston.

The girls of the College regret her departure for altho she has been with us only a year we feel that her place cannot be filled by anyone as capable as she has shown herself to be.

society is planning for the annual banquet to be given May first, at which time the new members will be installed.

Many from our school took a part in deciding the greatest conflict of all ages. War against evil and wrong still demands our attention. It is for us who are here and who attend this school to help combat the wrong practices going on in our midst. Just as some from this school helped rid civilization of wrong standards so it is the duty of the rest of us to help rid our school of some of the common, yet wrong practices. One of these is that of cheating, or "cribbing", or, in other words—dishonesty. They say that every time we get anything dishonestly it becomes just what much easier to yield to dishonest ways the next time, until by and by the habit so grows on some that they believe themselves honest in spite of their many unfair dealings. It is the dishonest students who destroy the good standing of the school they attend. They give their school a bad reputation. Those who are not truthful in school life are not apt to be honest outside of school. They tell us to-day that the man or woman who is in demand in the world of business is the one who is above all, honest. They are the ones most likely to possess a character of sterling worth.

Will not you as a gentleman, or you as a lady, uphold the honesty and the reputation of your school by fair play and honest dealing?

CONCERNING OUR COLLEGE

We are sorry to learn that a number of our students intend leaving us next year, to continue or to finish their College work in other institutions. Of course we can not blame anyone who has special work to take in those branches which are not taught at the A. C., but we would like to keep with us those, who have remained for two or three years, and are leaving their class after having become acquainted and made friends on our campus. We have students come to us from far and near, and our College has a reputation and record which we as students may well be proud of. Graduates of the N. D. A. C., may be found holding positions all over the United States, which are highly paid and responsible.

We are confident when we say that no other institution pays so much individual attention to its students, nor so much attention to the general welfare of the student body than does the A. C. and if we were to be honest with ourselves, perhaps we owe our Alma Mater something. Certainly we owe her loyalty, whether we have been with her one year or four.

Basebal Team Continues Work

Coach Davis has been consistently training the baseball men the past two weeks, and the college can look for the opening game of the season within a short while. With just whom this game is to be played is as yet unsettled, but games have been arranged with Jamestown College and one of the local teams. One or two other games have been written for and the possibility is that the team will have six or seven games this spring. Watch the bulletin board for the spring appearance of "Jens" and the rest of the fellows.

NEWS OF THE COLLEGE LIBRARY

The library is anxious to be of service to all the students, both in their studies and in their recreational reading. Many new books have been purchased during the last few weeks, which will be both instructive and entertaining. The Mathematical department has been increasing its collection quite rapidly, and some of those books will prove a pleasant surprise. For example Mathematical Essays and Recreations by Hermann Schubert, Magic Squares and cubes, by W. S. Andrews, and Flatland by A. Square are quite unlike your ordinary mathematical text.

To be up-to-date you must know about Russia and the Selected Articles on Russia is an excellent collection of material on all phases of the Russian situation. Isabel Haggood's Rambles in Russia will give a good background of the social life and customs of the country before the war.

DELTA PHI BETA SORORITY PARTY SUCCESS

One of the most brilliant and elaborate parties given at the College this year was that of the Delta Phi Beta Sorority last Saturday evening. More than thirty couples of young people were present to enjoy this annual affair.

The Armory was really decorated most cleverly and comment as to its appearance was running high that evening. The colors of the Sorority which are black and white were very prominently displayed thruout the Armory and at one end of the hall was shown a small picket fence back of which represented a garden where refreshments were served during the evening by a number of little girls dressed in colonial costumes. The orchestra occupied a booth attractively decorated at the other end of the hall.

The extra numbers of the evening were the Solo dance by Miss Marie Early which was greatly enjoyed and the dance during which a spotlight was directed on the Sorority banner. While this dance was going on the girls joined in singing the Sorority song.

President and Mrs. E. F. Ladd, Prof. and Mrs. A. H. Parrott and Coach and Mrs. Paul Davies were the patrons and the patronesses.

'NOTHER PRIZE CONTEST

"Being as how" our next edishun is going to be a "speshul" one—a College Edishun—printed on "speshul" paper and having "speshul" writeups, we thot occasion was ript to have another "speshul" feature that has been bloomin' in our think factory for some time. You "allnou" got your "speshul" fotos away on the shelf at home where they're doin' nobody any good, and which if they were out on exhibition might quickly make this world a sweeter, happier, more joyous place to live in. Now what we want is your homeliest likeness—the one guaranteed to make this world a happier, "joyfuller" habitation. You know, the most famous men of the world were the homeliest, and if you were ever "taken" when you looked famous or great, now's your chance to let us know it. Perhaps you're a venus when you look natural, but just this once you looked either too natural or your looking apparatus was momentarily running on but three cylinders and the camera caught you before you knew it. If you're too bashful to give us the picture personally make your worst enemy believe his inflicting mortal wounds in you by giving us the picture. Any way will do just so we get it for the "speshul" feature. Then watch in the next Spectrum for your likeness.

ed. Other speakers at the conference were Miss Agness Hall and Miss Eleanor Forman, student secretaries of the Northwest Field, Miss Deborah Hall, student secretary for the Indian schools of this field and Miss Helen Larkin of the city Y. W. C. A. of Grand Forks. Current Y. W. C. A. student problems and questions were discussed by the conference as a whole.

Saturday evening at 4:30 o'clock the delegates were taken for an auto ride in order to point out to them the interesting places in and about our city. At six they were entertained at a banquet in Ceres Hall dining hall. The tables were artistically decorated in a color scheme of yellow and white. The tables were arranged to form a square. Large mirrors were placed at regular intervals, representing ponds upon which water lilies and leaves floated. In the center of the ponds were graceful bud vases containing jonquils. Beautiful yellow maline bows were also artistically used in decorating the tables.

The whole conference was considered a great success and students from other colleges formed a new idea of A. C.

The important discovery was made in Sociology class last week that the Irish are our chief sinning class. Ask Rudolph if you don't believe this fact.

PRIZE MEDALS DISTRIBUTED

The prizes and medals given by the North Dakota Livestock Association and the North Dakota Agricultural College at the Stock Judging Contest held on March 14, were last week distributed to the winners. Several of these medals have been seen about the campus lately.

The men receiving the prizes in the Open Class judging were: 1. Wm. Bina; 2. Ross Hess; 3. W. E. Legler; 4. J. L. Bergstrom; 5. Frank Poehler. The two men who made high score in the judging of different classes of cattle and who are with us now are: Wm. Bina, beef cattle; and Hugh Robinson, horses. The medals are engraved by the Livestock Association and are handsome affairs.

Prof. Thompson of the School of Agriculture recently remarked on the exceptional opportunities of the Ag. men of the college. North Dakota is assuming one of the leading positions in the way of cattle in the country, having some 1200 herds of pure bred Shorthorns, 225 pure bred Aberdeen Angus, and 200 Herfords, with an increasing demand for these types of animals yearly. At present our colleges are not training men fast enough to care for this increase, and the men of our college will have opportune chances for promotion after they have left the institution. As an indication of the interest being shown by the cattle raisers of the state is cited the prizes to be offered at the cattle show to be held in March of next year, when the largest prizes in the country for best animals in several types of breeds will be given. North Dakota is awakening to its cattle possibilities and the North Dakota Agricultural College must keep at the lead of this ever increasing industry.

A. C. STUDENTS WITH STOCK CO.

A number of the A. C. students were in the play "The Taming of the Shrew" the first half of the week. The girls were: Misses Mary Gibbens, Helen Cuskelly, Iva Mayer, Marjorie Lieberg. The men were: Archie Waldie, Lewis Croal, Fred Ball, Peter McKenzie, Herbert Zimmerman.

Miss Blake In New Studio.

The Art department under the head of Miss Pauline Blake is now located on the third floor of New Science hall. This studio will in the near future be a museum, but at present it is an ideal place for the Art students to do their work.

Seniors Have Charge of Banquet.

Miss Marie Huey assisted by Miss Irene Haugeburg, will have complete charge of the banquet to be given May 1, for the Phi Kappa Phi Fraternity member. The menu and preparation of the food, will be under the direction of these two senior girls.

LOCALS

Easter furnished more 'n one person a good excuse to make a visit, eh Hamlet? Minnesota's a great place to fish, say we!

William Bina found occasion to renew some of his old acquaintances on the campus this week when he dropped in unexpectedly for a few days. He was on his way to North Dakota fields from his South Dakota barberry extermination work. "Bill" still looks as happy as ever and we know his shadow has not grown less since we saw him last.

The Cadets did their first trick at guard duty last Wednesday when they were called upon to keep the generally curious away from the aeroplanes during the flying exhibition that afternoon. As many of us recall, the day was rather cool, and the boys had the opportunity of their lives to learn how to keep a stiff erect position, carry a heavy gun and maintain perfect composure while freezing. The crowd didn't get at the planes very often, however, and the cadets deserve considerable credit for "sticking it out" as they did.

The Spectrum is this week the pleased recipient of a Paris edition of the New York World printed in Paris, France, from Lieut. Harold Kelley. The paper contained a small writeup of the Commission elections held on our campus about a month ago. We can imagine with what avidity Lieut. Kelley read this bit of news from his Alma Mater.

A recent strike of the students at the Agricultural College of Colorado when thirty recently returned soldiers were called upon to attend the regular drill of the students forced those in charge at the institution to make some retractions with regard to men who have lately been in the service of their country. It would appear that concessions to men of similar situation in all colleges of the country could easily be made with perfect justice to men and institutions alike.

SOCIETY

The Freshman class will hold its annual party, Saturday evening May 10th in the armory. It is to be an informal affair and all college students are invited. Dancing will begin promptly at 8:30.

Louise Fitzgerald and Elsie Stark, alumnae members of the Phi Upsilon Omicron sorority were dinner guests at the Sorority house Saturday evening.

Mrs. Derby of Bathgate, N. D., spent a few days visiting with her daughter, Bernice Derby.

Guests at the Phi U. House during the Y. W. C. A. conference were Miss Stoa and Miss Thorson of Mayville Normal.

Emily Brown who entered A. C. as a Freshman last fall returned for a few days visit.

Olive Berg, a graduate of last year, who is teaching at Medina, N. D., spent a part of her Easter vacation visiting at the Phi U. house.

Under the direction of Miss North the Senior Home E. C. girls are giving luncheon in the Ceres hall cafeteria every Tuesday noon. The last one given was a chicken luncheon and was certainly worthy of praise.

The Junior class will entertain the Senior class at a picnic Friday evening, May 9.

Miss Virginia Lovell has been absent for the past week, while attending the Junior Prom at Madison. Miss Lovell is a former student of the Wisconsin University, but is this year a Junior at the A. C.

JUNIORS ELECT NEW TREASURER.

The Junior class elected Taylor Strate as secretary-treasurer, in place of William Bina who has left school to work for the government in wiping out the barbery.

ANNE JOHNSON LEAVES SCHOOL

The many friends of Anne Johnson will regret that she was obliged to quit her studies on account of poor health. Anne left last week for the sanitarium at Lake Park, Minnesota. She was a member of the class of '20, and we all hope that she will be able to take up her studies again in the Fall.

FRENCH CLASS TO GIVE PLAY

Everyone will be interested to learn that Prof. Metzinger's advanced class in French intend putting on a comedy entitled, "La Poudre Aux Yeux." "Dust in the Eyes". The class have been given their parts and will begin rehearsals at once. Those who are in the class are: Misses Beulah Watson, Margaret Chandler, Mabelle Stewart, Mae Stewart, Irene Rittmar, Esther Woldy, Ruth Fisher, Adelaide Laurie, Grace Kochian, Eleanor Pearson, Virginia Lovell, Pauline Holl, and Mayre Heally.

PHI U ROOKIES ENTERTAIN

Last Wednesday night the members of Phi Upsilon Omicron were entertained at Stone's dance hall at an informal dancing party. Many pleasant surprises had been planned, consisting of a moonlight waltz and several favored dances. The girls favored the gentlemen with cofetti balls which suddenly appeared from above the balcony, and the gentlemen captured balloons that also sailed down from above. Partners for other dances were secured by matching Easter hats and popular songs.

Miss Kathryn Jensen and Miss Lois Failyer were chaperons for the evening.

Phi U Pledges

Eleanor Trowbridge, Mildred Jenkins, Nell McCarthy, Margaret Larson, Lucille Moritz, Martha Landers.

CERES HALL

Eloise Waldron is now living at Ceres Hall.

Frances Lee visited her sister Dorothy last week. Yes, she is the twin of the one who was here before.

Week-end guests at Ceres Hall were: Marion Bristol, guest of Josephine Paulson, Gertrude Boise, guest of Mary Watt; Eunice Hutchins, guest of Grace Mares; Cis Hanlon, guest of Cecil Van Hook; Nanna Jelsrup, guest of the Misses Woldy.

Kaziah Evingson, Irene Ritteman, Ida Didier, Ethel McGuigan, accompanied by Bernice Noyes, Margaret and Mary Watt, Marion Panebaker, Marie Shave, and Margaret Bishop were fortunate enough to spend the easter at their respective homes.

Mrs. Rasmussen spent a week with her daughter at Ceres Hall. Besides having a royal good time, Dagna seems to have blossomed out in nifty new spring clothes.

Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Woldy visited the daughters, Esther and Alice last week. The "woly kids" think its pretty fine to have such a surprise—not to mention the dinners down town.

Spreads, absolutely forbidden in Ceres Hall! Naturally, no one has indulged, so we have none to "write up".

Ruby Wilkenson spent the week end at Marion Panebakers home.

Ceres Hall dining room boasts a pair of "Newlyweds." They sit at the faculty table and the head waiter seems to be unduly fussed. We wonder why —

Dorothy Lee, Joe Paulson and Alice Woldy enjoyed Keziah Evingsons cake party last Sunday morning.

There seems to have been some mistake as to who the rice was thrown at last Sunday. We just mention the fact that it was not intended for Josephine Paulson and her Sunday afternoon escort.

One of the most exciting spreads in Ceres Hall this term occurred Friday evening in Nina Coleman's room. "Jorgy" had received a big box of eats from home and of course a spread had to follow. The hungry guests began arriving early and Nina proved herself a very efficient sargeant-at-arms while also functioning as regulator of the lights. Marie arrived first with her traveling bag which contained olives pickles, salad dressing and marshmallows. Minnie was the toast-mistress of the evening making plenty of toast for everyone. "Al" carved the chicken and displayed "much skill in technical manipulation." "Cec" had recently returned from a big feed so was unable to do justice to the "eats" but applied some scientific principles to the making of fruit salad. Eva demonstrated the dormitory method of opening bottles of grape juice. The ice cream and cake were made more enjoyable by Al's discussion on the "Philosophy of a Doughnut" and Eva's treatise on "Spearmint Gum Retaining its Flavor over Night on the Bed-post." The happy guests retired to their rooms at an early hour except Jorgy who was compelled to remain all night.

LIBRARY PLANS FOR SUMMER

The College Library is now getting some books to help its readers enjoy the warmer weather which is approaching. Among these vacation aids are:

- Camping and woodcraft, by Kephart.
- How to play tennis, by Burns.
- Bird life, by Chapman.
- Spalding's lawn tennis annual.
- Astronomy with the naked eye, by Serviss.

BYRON BOX HOME

Lieut. Byron Box, well known at the Agricultural College, as "By", has returned to his home in Fargo after having been 22 months in the service at Newport News, Va. Lieut. Bax was a member of the class of '19 and is a member of the Alpha Gamma Rho Fraternity and also a member of the Edwin Booth Dramatic club.

MILESTONE OF AMERICAN FASHION A BIG SUCCESS

The Fashion show which was given at the Armory on the evening of April 17, is said to be one of the most artistic productions ever seen at the Agricultural College. With Miss Blake of the Art Department in charge of the scenery and decorations it could hardly be anything but artistic. And with the Domestic Art Department in charge of the costuming, one could expect everything to be in keeping with the central idea of the entertainment. The dramatic training which many of the students have been given in the Public Speaking courses made it possible to produce the show with comparatively little drilling.

The Milestones of American Fashion gave a historical survey of styles in America, with singing and dancing and tableaux. It opened with a wonderfully beautiful dance, The Dance of the Hours by Marie Early. She had been trained by Mrs. Juliet deLendrecie and gave a most exquisite interpretation of the music. The Indian period was represented by Dagna Rasmussen who wore a handsomely beaded costume and sang Cadman's Land of the Sky Blue Waters. The Puritans had an effective tableau and were much applauded as they walked across the stage singing an old hymn. The Dutch Colonial scene was most charming with the old Knickerbockers looking up at the modern New York sky line. Beulah Watson and Harold Schlichting were well chosen for the part, with their quaint costumes and slow dance.

The American Colonial period presented a dainty scene of Colonial costumes and the minuet.

One of the handsomest of the tableaux was that of the Empire period with Vivian Sell, Marie Early and Esther Imhoff in a dainty boudoir scene, followed by the Pavlova Gavotte. The dance was exceptionally well rendered and was most pleasing. The Pioneers in decided contrast to what preceded were a group of merry dancers in queer old clothes, whose jolly dance caused much merriment among the spectators. This was followed by the Spanish American scene in which the dancers, musicians and Senorita formed a pleasing picture. The Spanish dance was one of the best in the performance.

With the Crinoline girls there was another dainty scene of flowered dresses and hooped skirts. Though the dance was rather shocking and it sometimes showed the stocking, it was not long before the boys had persuaded all of the demure maidens to learn the step.

Then came the bustle dresses of 1880, with the old wheezy organ and the organist, and all the family gathered around singing an old tune. To be sure it was a doleful melody, but with the audience laughing so hard you could not expect the singers to keep from smiling a little. The bridal procession which followed helped to tone down the merriment.

With the 1890 and early 1900 periods there were a number of ball room dances of those days. And what could have been more appropriate than to see the couples whirling around to the tune of After The Ball and Sweet Bunch of Daisies. As each old song was sung you could hear explosions of laughter from different sections of the armory, where fond memories of youthful days were recalled. And the couple cloping on the old tandem was the big hit of the evening, when the boy sang his little song to Daisy, telling her how sweet she looked on the seat of a bicycle built for two. Raymond Putnam and Katherine Blake have proven themselves true comedians.

The closing scene was that of today with the Farmerette, Red Cross Girl, Stenographer and others all in costume. The ball-room was appropriate with its soldier and sailor in costume. The Grand Finale of promenaders exhibiting the costumes made in the Domestic Art Department, showed how very efficient these students are in their work. And as they were grouped around the regal figure of the Spirit of Nineteen Nineteen (Dagna Rasmussen) in a magnificent gown of white satin and cloth of gold, and sang America the Beautiful, one could not help but be proud of the young people of our College.

CHARLEY'S NAME PLACED ON STATE TEAM

A mistake was made in the lineup of the state official college team published in our last edition—mistakes are made in the best of regulated houses, and this war ours. The name of Cuba Chaney is listed as running mate with Rathbun of Jamestown to hold down the position of guard, Chaney to take Robert Gardner's place. Both these boys did excellent work on the college basketball team, and if it were possible we'd like to see both their names attached to this guard position. The following, therefore, constitutes the lineup of the team: Reis, Ellingson, Stenshou, Chaney, Rathbun.

SENIORS TO ENTERTAIN

The annual Senior ball will be given in the College Armory Friday May 2. Informal dancing will begin at 8:30 and the formal program will start at 9. Kopleman's orchestra will furnish the music for the affair. All College students, faculty members and Fargo High school seniors are to be guests. Patrons and patronesses are to be President and Mrs. E. F. Ladd, Professor and Mrs. A. G. Arvold, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Steele. The invitations give the price as $1.00 per couple.
