

Crack Squad Well Received At Grand Forks

College Organization Makes Big Hit at Popular Show House in Upstate City—Packed House At Each Performance

The headliner in the bill for the Grand Theatre at Grand Forks last week was: "Special Added Attraction" North Dakota Crack Squad in a series of fancy drills. The Squad was deserving of the title given them as they were an added attraction and something which the people of that city had never before had the opportunity of seeing.

The boys performed well and every day were received with exceptional praise by everyone who witnessed the fancy drill. Several new features have been added to the drill which gives it a more military appearance. Before the curtain rises the bugler is busy blowing taps. When the curtain goes up two tenors are seen with two stacks of guns in front of each. The members of the squad are in a lounging position and when the first note of assembly sounds each man falls into his place in the line. This entrance was worked out by one of the members of the squad and those only who have seen it can realize the improvement over the old entrance.

Owing to the fact that only two old men are back on the squad this year makes it more difficult for the new men to become as proficient in as short a time as usual. Nevertheless this has been overcome by the proficient work of the drill-master and the manner in which every man on the squad has performed his duty. The following clippings are taken from the Grand Forks Herald and show the way the squad was received.

DRILL SQUAD IN CITY FOR SHOW

A. C. Team Will Exhibit Rest of Week at Grand Theatre—Drill-master Is With Them

The crack squad of the North Dakota agricultural college arrived last night for their three-day exhibition at the Grand theatre. They will be the chief attraction at the theatre this week and promise to attract large crowds.

The squad, under Drillmaster McGuigan, numbering twelve men, will put on the exhibition here. Some of the squad are well known in athletic circles. The following are members of the squad: Boyd, Dadds, Pinkham, Mergens, Rourke, Lewis, Foley, Harrington, Bender, Gibbons, and Holton.

DRILL SQUAD DOES GOOD WORK

Agricultural College Students Making Big Hit at Grand—Manoeuvres Are Excellent

The drill squad of the North Dakota agricultural college, which is playing at the Grand theatre, is contemplating a western tour. During their performances in Grand Forks, the members of the squad have made a big hit.

The squad is composed of fourteen young men. One captain of the drill, and twelve men do the manoeuvring. The other man is extra.

The agricultural college men present one of the best drill acts that has been seen in the city. The different army manoeuvres they give are excellent and exceptionally well done every movement being smoothly executed. Their work shows the result of long and careful training.

New Officer Of Y. M. C. A. Installed

Much Interest Shown in Work—Prospects Bright For Successful Year

On Thursday night of April first the general committee of the College Association met for the purpose of installing the officers for the year 1915-16. Clarence Wolsted, the retiring president, spoke briefly of the unrealized hopes of the Association during the past year and expressed the desire of his feelings of the work of the year ahead. In turning over the responsibilities of the presidency of the Association, he presented William W. Mendenhall, the new leader of the Association work, with a bronze shield which is passed on from year to year. Following Mr. Mendenhall's address of acceptance, came short speeches of acceptance by Lee McConnell, Monroe Kirk, as Vice-presidents, Roy V. Dunbar as recorder and Walter Baumgartel as student member on the Board of Directors. The meeting closed with a brief forecast of the aims and ideas to be sought during the coming year and short devotional service in such a spirit of earnest confidence in the power of the Association to serve the college, was unmistakably made manifest.

The Misses Boetha Frojan and Louise Fitzgerald Present Convincing Arguments for Minimum Wages

Prominent Men Judges

Saturday evening in the Little Country Theatre was held the eighth annual debate between the North Dakota Agricultural College and South Dakota State College of Brookings.

The North Dakota Institution was represented by Miss Boetha Frojan and Louise Fitzgerald; while our sister state was represented by Alfred Risboi and Charles Rowe.

The question was, Resolved: That the several states should adopt laws embodying the principals of the minimum wage. North Dakota on the affirmative and South Dakota upholding the negative.

Miss Frojan opened the debate on the affirmative, after stating the question and presenting an outline of the procedure of the affirmative, built her arguments about three points: first, that there was an economic need of a change; second, that there was a social need; third, that there was a normal need.

Alfred Risboi opened the argument for the negative and stated that the law was unsound and that it did not meet the requirements and would not fill a need in the several states where it had been tried out. Mr. Risboi also called attention to the enormous expense involved which could not be overcome by the adoption of a minimum wage clause.

Miss Louise Fitzgerald closed the direct argument for the affirmative and refuted the statement to the effect that the minimum wage law was not sound and practical. Miss Fitzgerald's argument was convincing and most effective and could not be torn down by the negative.

The direct argument was then closed by Charles Rowe, whose arguments were logical and were very effectively presented.

It was in the rebuttal that the coeds did their most effective work; especially to Miss Fitzgerald is much credit due. Not only were the questions of the negative answered, but flaws in the negative's argument was found.

At the close of the debate the decision of the judges, Peter Myrvold, R. M. Pollock and Robert Blake, more, was given. The decision being unanimous in favor of the affirmative.

Houghton Harrington and Mathias Thorfinson returned Monday from Brookings, South Dakota where they debated with the South Dakota State College on the minimum wage law. They were defeated by a two to one vote. The boys report a fine trip and found excellent hosts at the South Dakota college.

STUNT CONTEST.

The three college literary societies, Athena, Philomathia and Pythia are to have a competitive contest for the possession of a beautiful wall banner offered by Prof. Arvold. The contest is to be of any sort of entertainment other than plays.

Miss Bob White Takes Audience By Storm

Presented to Large and Enthusiastic Audience—Play by College Talents wins much Praise

The musical comedy, "Miss Bob White," given in the Little Country Theatre last Friday evening, was played with a vigor and finish that won much praise for the directors, Katherine York and Professor Orr.

The cast for the play was as follows:

- Tre Billion ----- Mr. Jacques Van Millon ----- Mr. Drummond
- Duke of High Titles ----- Mr. Pope
- Lord Bashful ----- E. Yerrington
- Friend Rodd ----- Mr. Dunbar
- Jack Hearty ----- Mr. Porter
- Nagg ----- Mr. Olwin
- De Vere ----- Mr. Slingsby
- Miss Livingston (Bob White) ----- Margaret Keene
- Goldenrod ----- Mary Ball
- Miss Autumn ----- Marion Johnson
- Miss Schuyler ----- Gunhild Gilbertson
- Policeman ----- Mr. Roy
- Quaker Maids, Milk Maids, One Only-al-Dames, Fox Hunters

Miss Keene's impersonation of Bob White lent interest to the already clever theme. Two millionaires, Tre Billion and Van Millon, thru an election bet, were forced to become tramps for two months.

Their existence as tramps was filled with many amusing incidents which were made more amusing by the clever playing of Messrs. Jacques and Drummond. The first act opened with a lively hunting chorus, in the midst of which Lord Bashful appeared, fresh from an encounter with blue mud. He tells Friend Rodd, a well-to-do quaker farmer who works tramps, that he wishes to win the latter's daughter, Goldenrod. The Quaker is anxious for the match and so gives the Lord every opportunity. The scene between Goldenrod and the Lord in which that Englishman makes love in his willy-nilly way presented quite a contrast to that between Goldenrod and Jack, her true love, the only farmer boy. Both Mr. Yerrington and Mr. Pope, who played the parts of the Dukes were very amusing with their English accent, monodies, and "Ah, don't you know." Miss Livingston was in reality a society belle, but she, following her love, disguised as a milkmaid at this Quaker's farm. It is here that the two tramps found work, and one, love.

The action progressed rapidly and before long Tre Billion found the ways of the milkmaid, Bob White, very charming. On one occasion when he was about to tell her so, he was interrupted by his tramp friend entering the kitchen to obtain sympathy for the brindle cow, who had kicked the bucket.

The choruses: "An English Sparrow Told Me So," "Quail Song," and "Churning Song," also the minuet by the One-Only-al-Dames were especially pleasing.

The second act opened with a milkmaid's chorus, followed by more hard work for the tramps. The Quaker maids made a decided hit in the chorus, "Cute Little Quaker Maids Are We," and "May We Come a'wooing." The maids were Katherine Keye, Charly Pinney, Edith Gross, and Katherine Herser. At the end of this act the tramps proclaimed their identity, much to the amusement of those on the Quaker farm.

The third act was set at the country home of Tre Billion. Even the old negro servant, which part was ably played by Floyd Slingsby, failed to recognize his master in tramp clothes. The curiosity chorus upon the arrival of Tre Billion's country friends was well worked out. In this act Jack returned from service in the navy and Friend Rodd was forced to yield to the pleading of Goldenrod; thus he accepted Jack as his daughter's suitor. Here, too, Bob disclosed her identity as Miss Livingston, while Miss Autumn accepted Lord Bashful and all his ancestors. The finale, "Mystery of Love," was a fitting close to this play full of life touched with bits of humor and love.

The solo work of Margaret Keene was especially commendable, while the sweet songs of the Quaker Maid, Mary Ball, completely won the audience. The duets and dances of the tramps were clever and amusing in the extreme; the whole hearted songs of Ward Porter as a farmer boy and then as a sailor won much praise for him. Mr. Yerrington's solo work was up to its usual high standard, while Marion Johnson's pleasing voice and her assumed pride in ancestral clothes lines merited the many favorable comments passed on her work.

Both Miss York and Professor Orr deserve much credit for the successful production of "Bob White."

The Castalian Literary Society held a meeting last Friday night and elected the following officers:

- President ----- Winifred Pope
- Vice President ----- Olga Schmidt
- Secretary ----- Irene Haugeberg
- Treasurer ----- Marie McLeod

Work On New Aerial Well Under Way

The poles for the new aerial at the wireless station have been completed and for the last few days the engineers have been busy erecting these poles and completing one of the finest aerials in the northwest. The poles will be put up on the east end of the engineering building and at the west end of the Forge Shop, giving the aerial a length of 200 feet and at one end 110 feet high and the other end 102 feet.

It is the intention of the operator in charge to have this aerial composed of four phosphorus bronze cables spaced on twenty foot spreaders.

Local Man Honored

In the monthly bulletin of the Bureau of Economic and Social Intelligence, published at Rome, Italy, is a long article reviewing one of Dr. Trimbles' recent publications, namely, "The Influence of the Passing of the Public Lands."

We cannot refrain from remarking that we have some good men here in the faculty, men whose influence is not only national, but international.

It is doubtful if the students fully realize their opportunities and perhaps do not always make the best of them. The A. C. is certainly fortunate in being able to retain such a man as Dr. Trimble.

ANOTHER A. C. MAN RECOGNIZED IN EAST.

Professor Weeks of the Agricultural College has been named as one of the five judges for the annual contest of the Northern Oratorical League to be held at Iowa City, Iowa, May 7th. The League members are the Universities of Illinois, Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, Northwestern and Oberlin College. The contest is the most noted event of its kind held in the west.

Y. W. C. A. Play "Ceres" Presented Monday

Monday afternoon at four o'clock in the Little Country Theatre and again at eight o'clock the students of the Agricultural College presented the Mythological play, "Ceres," the proceeds for which is to go for the benefit of the college Y. W. C. A. Miss Katherine York trained the students for the play and this alone speaks well for the entertainment.

All attending the play report a most enjoyable and entertaining hour.

The cast is as follows:

- Ceres, goddess of agriculture ----- Maude Engle
- Flora, goddess of flowers ----- Clara Dolve
- Pomona, goddess of fruit ----- Rosella Ladd
- Triptolemus, father of gods ----- Allison Pope
- Saturn ----- Ralph Roy
- Proserpina, daughter of Ceres ----- Theresa Howland
- Hour ----- Ivy Waechter
- Water Nymphs ----- Dorothy Price and Ripzah Ladd
- Tree Nymphs ----- Maizie Gilmore, Marian Brainard
- Mountain Nymphs ----- Kitty Keye, Mary Mae Miller, Dorothy Keene

CATALOGUE LIBRARY.

It will be interesting to all engineering students to know that the Department of Engineering is in communication with a Library Distributing Company and receives catalogues from all of the large reputable manufacturing companies in the U. S. This catalogue library is kept new and complete by adding new catalogues as they are published. These technical catalogues are today one of the most reliable sources of information and should be available in every institution where engineering is taught. These catalogues can be found in Dean Keene's office and is available to all engineering students.

Students Council Notes

Special meeting of the Student Council was called on April 1st at 12:45 in Miss Simmons' room.

The president brought up the matter of the election of Commissioner of Publications and Elections. Mr. Crouch has announced his candidacy for Commissioner of Publications and Mr. Slingsby for Commissioner of Elections. It was suggested that the Student Council declare them elected and present the names of the Elections. Mr. Kelly moved that two names, Mr. Crouch for Commissioner of Publications and Mr. Slingsby for Commissioner of Elections be presented to the Judges of Elections. Seconded and carried.

The next matter of importance was the election of the General manager of athletics from the faculty.

Nominations were called for and Dr. Schalk and Coach Wood were nominated. Coach Wood was elected by a majority vote. The motion was made and seconded that the nominations be closed. Carried.

Dorothy Price and Helen Lewis were appointed tellers of the election. The motion was made and seconded that the excuse of absence at Basket Ball given by Mr. Peterson and Mr. McGuillain be accepted as a legitimate excuse. Seconded and carried.

List of absentees: Barbara Heidner, Edwin Hooper, Mary Ball, Warner Hayes.

AMY WHITMAN, Secretary.

FACULTY MEET.

Last evening the faculty men of the Agricultural College met for their regular monthly meeting at the Civic Centre. A big dinner was served at six-thirty and the evening was spent in visiting and talking over the events of interest.

Miss Leebly has been teaching in Edgeley and due to ill health was granted a months leave of absence, which she is spending at her home in Fargo, after which she will return to her work.

LINE ON BASEBALL

A look at the men out for positions on the baseball team this spring, will give one a hunch that we are going to have "some team." Each and every man out has had some sort of experience or other with fast teams, and with a few weeks of good coaching and practice together, we ought to have a bunch that can land the bacon again this year. From last year's squad we have Captain Whiting, Caulkins, and Steinhouse in the outfield and these men will undoubtedly hold down their respective positions. Our pitching staff is intact as Ottis, Bachman, Gullikson are again out this season, and will make our opponents batting averages look sick. For the infield, Homme and Wolsted are the old timers back.

Among the new men out and who promise to make good are Hein, Catlin, Movold and Lawrence. All these men are infielders and are ready and fast. Woods and Thorntson are the two new twirlers out. Besides this bunch there are men who have not had time to get out, but as soon as the warm weather comes we will probably see them in a suit.

Captain Whiting will probably line up in the field this season, which is his regular position. Last year "Whitey" had to fill in behind the bat as no one else could be depended upon to do it and he held it down very capably. This season however, he will be able to play his field position and there's no doubt but what he can do it. "Shorty" Caulkins is undecided, he don't know if he will be here or not for a full season. "Shorty" has practically finished his course and will graduate this June. Caulkins can deliver the goods and if he remains will be a big help to the team. Wolsted is our steady old war horse at third and has got the reputation for playing a steady game. Steinhouse or "Steiny" can play the outfield or hold down the initial sack. He is good at both and when it comes to tapping them on the nose, he's there. Pete Homme is probably the fastest man trying out for an infield position. He can pick up any kind of a ball and gets it to first in plenty of time. Pete is a little weak with the stick, but we hope he will overcome that this season. "Crum" Ottis has been working out for sometime in the Armory and the way he can drive them in is a pleasure to see. "Crum" was our speed ball artist last year and he is looked to to pitch some great games this year. Gullikson pitched a good game last year and with a few more weeks of training will be called upon to do his share of the work in the box. Myron Bachman the "find" of last season, who shut the fast St. Thomas bunch out, is looked upon to do some classy twirling this season. Myron is a heady pitcher and has some great stuff, known only to good twirlers.

Thorntson is a tall, rangy fellow who promises to be a good twirler and a little more coaching and playing with faster men will put him in line for a job on the pitching staff. Woods, or "Cecile" as he is better known, who played half back on the foot ball team last fall is a twirler on fair ability and he should do some good work on the mound. Catlin, who played last summer with the fast Barnsville bunch is a grabber of great ability. "Cat" has a peg that is great and the way he talks to his opposing batsmen, is good to hear. He will undoubtedly make a good bid for the job behind the bat. Sam Crawford, of basketball fame is another grabber and to see "Sam" work out in the Armory, one can readily see that there will be some tall competition between he and Catlin for the job. Charley Hein promises to do things right on the initial sack, as he is certainly built for the position. He is tall and heavy and coupled with his ability to hit the bat, he ought to have a high average by the time June comes. Heiny also has some good competition in Steinhouse who played first in some games last season. "Curley" Movold is out for second or short and if "Curley" can deliver the goods in baseball like he did in basketball, he certainly will land a job. Ray Lawrence is a new comer to our baseball ranks this season and the fact that he played on Fargo College's championship team of 1912, at third, shows him to be of good caliber. If "Larry" can deliver the right stuff he and Wolsted can scrap it out for the third sack. Lawrence is also a fielder and together with men like Whiting, Caulkins, Steinhouse and Carlson the outfield will be taken care of in great style.

When one stops to think this bunch over, his thoughts run high in regard to another championship team. Bert Haskins, last year's coach will not be with us, but we have a man who can turn out a team as good as last seasons, in Coach Woods. He has played some fast college baseball and with his knowledge of the game we ought to have a good representative team this year. The schedule is not quite completed but will be given out in the next issue and it promises to be a good one.

Steals and Hits

Let's see if we can get a little more spirit this season and back up the team in better style. In former years the students did not get the real enthusiasm until the bigger games came on. As soon as it gets warm and the team gets outside go over to the athletic field and watch them practice. It shows them that the student body is more interested in their work and will make them strive for a better team.

If there are any more baseball men in school who have not yet reported to the coach, get out and try and see what you can do, everyone has an equal chance to make the team. "Who knows but what you will be a second Bachman?"

Catlin and Lawrence are both with us from Watkin's championship 1912 team. Let's hope that they will bring us some of their "1912 Luck."

"Crum" Ottis and Steinhouse will have to take some early morning laps around the track before long if they expect to get into condition for the opener. A long hibernation thru the winter has added considerably to their dimensions.

Let's hope that Sam Crawford will not have the ill luck thru the baseball season, which follows him in basketball. "Sam" had a knack of getting his ankle or some other part of his body hurt and did not have much chance to play in the games.

We are wondering if Coach Howard Woods will still continue to keep those bristles on the upper part of his lip, thruout the ball season. We are informed that he lets them grow in order to help the co-eds from other schools distinguish him from the members of the team. Last football season, when on the Montana trip some of the co-eds wanted to know what position he played. When they were informed that he was the Coach, they remarked, "Oh, but isn't he young?"

Captain Whiting is on the job every minute, he certainly knows baseball and what's more can play the outfield. Last season when we played a few practice games with Unglaub's Northern Leaguers, "Whitey" made those Fargo pitchers look like boobs.

Coach is quite optimistic over baseball prospects and says we will have a winner, this year. We all hope his predictions are true.

All track dope will come later on. It is yet too cold to be talking track, especially when our facilities in the Armory are such that the track men cannot work out. The baseball men need all the room. It is hoped that we will have a good running track in doors some of these days.

Sidelights

Well, did you see that dope in the Grand Forks Herald about the University's football schedule for next fall? It says that Hamline is dropped from their schedule and that they will have such teams as South Dakota State College, Montana U and a few other outside teams for their big games and then one other college team in this state for "their practice game." I wonder what they consider a practice game? When we have a practice game down here we generally win it. (If this is not clear to you see last fall's football results—A. C. U. N. D. game.)

If Montana University is figuring on coming east to play in North Dakota next fall we certainly would like to get a crack at them. We lost out there after a hard trip and a hard game and we would like to see what affect it would have on them to travel as far as we did. They classed us in their paper after the game as "the bushiest bunch that ever appeared on their field." I wonder how "bushy" they would appear after we got thru with them, if they should come here for a game?

Montana College is figuring on a very heavy schedule next fall and expect to play in six different states, going as far south as Oklahoma. They must expect to have a good team and we would like very much to see them come to Fargo for a game as they are a good bunch of fellows and would be a good drawing card.

Herbert MacQuillan of basketball and football fame is leaving us this week for the plains of Montana where his claim is. "Mac" captained the basketball team this season and brought us thru with a very successful record. He has still another year left to participate in athletics and we all hope that he will see fit to return and don the togs next fall.

Hamlin University of the Twin Cities won the Minnesota State title for the fourth consecutive time in basketball this season, having gone thru the season without a single defeat. In all the four years we have been trying to get a game with Hamline and have offered every inducement possible, but with no results. We are wondering if Hamline would have that same record if they would consider to give us a game or two. Lets see what you can do in the way of games next winter, Hamline?

A. C. GRADUATES OPENS OFFICE IN FARGO.

B. F. Meineke, a former student and graduate of the engineering department who has been head engineer for Swift and Company in South St. Paul and also a contractor at Marmarth, N. D. has opened an office in Fargo. He will specialize in concrete construction. Mr. Meineke has been a successful engineer in the past and will undoubtedly fill this new position well. It is very pleasing to notice the progress that the various A. C. students are making in their line of work. A. C. graduates are to be found in all parts of the U. S. engaged in many different fields of activities. We as students of the A. C. are indeed glad to welcome Mr. Meineke back to Fargo and wish him untold success in his new venture.
