Now that foot-ball is over for another year and the State Championship safely tucked away, the attention of all is centered toward the great in-door sport, basket-ball.

Tuesday afternoon Coach Wood issued the call for candidates. There is a wealth of new material on hand and all will be given a fair trial. Of last year's squad only three old men are back.

Dixon Elected Spectrum Editor

As we go to press, a phone message announces the election of Geo. Dixon as Editor-in-Chief of the Spectrum for the coming term.

SOPHOMORE PARTY NEXT SATURDAY.

The Sophomores are next and they are going to do things with a fearless invasion into the realms of real stunts. The affair is the first social event which the Sophomores have put on this year.

Invitations are to be sent to all Freshmen, Sophomores who have paid their dues will probably get in. Only those who show their invitations will be allowed to enter the Sophomore sanatorium.

BACHMAN RESIGNS BAND WORK

Ill Health and Press of Work the Cause.

Much regret has been expressed at the resignation of Harold Bachman as director of the Cadet Band. Since Dr. Putnam left, Mr. Bachman has been in charge of the band work and has made a splendid success of it.

Mr. Bachman's resignation has not yet been finally accepted so it is not known who his successor will be. Mr. Bachman has been for many years a familiar and prominent figure in the musical life of this school.

INDUSTRIAL MOTION PICTURES.

"Safety First."

The Friday program of this week will take up the subject of Safety First and Welfare work. Two thousand feet of Motographs will be shown of "An American in the Making" and "The Workmen's Lesson."

Friday afternoon at 4:45 p. m. in the Physics Lecture Room of the Engineering Building. Admission free as usual.

North Dakota says we have the best football team in the state and fail to see why we didn't win from Misoula. Well, they didn't see the game.

Mrs. Gilbert Entertains

ROYAL GOOD DINNER FOR THOSE WHO COULD NOT GO HOME.

Over two hundred and twenty-five students of the Agricultural College were thankful to Mrs. Gilbert for her courteous kindness in providing a most bountiful Thanksgiving dinner for those who could not get home for Thanksgiving.

Mrs. Gilbert extended a hearty welcome to all people who were not fortunate to go home for Thanksgiving.

Only those who knew the extent of her hospitality, knew their the good things which awaited them. The room was tastefully decorated in yellow and green and large yellow chrysanthemums were on every table.

With many feelings of thanks to their hostess, the attendants went to the parlors where a very enjoyable afternoon was spent.

Work of the College Y. M. C. A. Attracts Attention of Students

Local Association Stands High in Reports from entire Middle West

Y. M. C. A. Room Very Popular

A report just issued by the head office of the College Young Men's Christian Association at Chicago show that the local Y. M. C. A. is well up in the list on twenty different counts on efficiency. In size of membership, in activity in all the principal lines of service and in original work the A. C. Association not only holds its own but stands among the leaders.

Handbook: Early in the Fall came the handbook, that beautiful little green and gold booklet filled with useful facts, memoranda, and guides for the freshmen. A copy has been placed in the hands of practically every person on the campus.

New Y. M. C. A. Rooms Beginning with the present term the Association has had its headquarters in the Main Building in a beautiful corner basement room. Here are a dozen or more attractions or service features which are placed at the disposal of his entire student body.

Religious Activities. One hundred and twenty men are in Bible classes organized among students in the churches and on the campus. These groups run in size from five to twenty five men. All the classes are led by specially trained experienced leaders.

The Churches. A special effort on the part of the Y. M. C. A. has resulted in a number of students taking out special student memberships in the church of their choice here in the city. This gives a student a feeling of actually being a part of the church where he attends services while a student at A. C.

Special Events. When the famous Flying Squadron of America was in Fargo the most outstanding single feature of those days was the Agricultural College Parade and mass meeting attendance, in which two hundred and seventy five students marched after their band and a half dozen special "floats" through the streets of Fargo to the first great meeting of the Campaign.

While the Y. M. C. is a distinctly student organization and plays a large part in college affairs, it is not particularly interested in claiming credit for all that it does, and therefore a lot of the service work done by its general secretary and by its three student cabinets and its general committee of fifty men is not publically announced.

Sunday Afternoons. The Armory or the Little Country Theatre each Sunday afternoon sees a student vespers meeting that means something vital to the College. Here one hears from some of the best speakers that are brought to the College during the course of the year, here will be an opportunity for anyone to bring up additional points, on any phase of the question. The Vesper Service will be in the Little Country Theatre, at 4 o'clock.

STUDENTS AT ANN ARBOR HAVE FREE VAUDEVILLE The student council at the University of Michigan has arranged with the management of the Maynard street vaudeville house to have three free shows during the University year. These will come on the evenings of November 6 and 13, after Pennsylvania and Cornell "pep" meetings, and on Cap Night in the spring. The council took the stand last night that it would positively not permit any rushes on any other nights during the year.

STUDENTS TO SPEAK AT VESPER SERVICE. Instead of the regular speaker from outside, as usual, the Vesper Service next Sunday will be addressed by students. It has been planned to have three or four of these student-let meetings, which will be for the purpose of discussing the problems which are of vital interest to all students. The first of these meetings was held in October, and was very well handled by the speakers.

The subject for next Sunday is, "Am I My Brother's Keeper?" This is a subject which is of the greatest importance, touching the inuence that we have upon everyone we associate with. After the three speakers have presented the subject, there FRESHMAN ISSUE.

The last issue of the Fall Term will be the long looked for Freshman issue. The class will organize its staff in a few days and begin work on it. There are two full weeks before their issue comes out and if it is up to the mark set by the class in their other activities, it will be a corker. Watch the issue of December 15th.

WHAT THEY THINK.

The temper of the student body regarding the present difficulty concerning college affairs, is no less remarkable and pleasing than it is universal.

When the first news came out, a wave of disgust swept over the student body at the idea that such a condition had been allowed to come about. This was soon superseded by the feeling that, no matter what happened, nothing could injure the essential strength of this institution and that the ones who are responsible for this state of affairs are the ones who will have to finish it. So the student body is still moving on the even tenor of its way, refusing to be disturbed by the regrettable circumstances which at present surround it.

A Plea for College Loyalty

(A communication.)

We are living in a restless, super-inquisitive environment. Any peculiar movement or deviation from the usual course of procedure on the part of any individual causes the observing public to wonder "Why?" On the A. C. campus, of late, many people have endeavored to solve the baffling "side-door mystery." Many solutions have been suggested but no fundamental remedy has yet been evolved.

Picture, for a moment, a group of merry college students on their way to class. Everyone is apparently happy and no one seems to be especially worried about anything. But as they approach the building, there is a decided uneasiness on the part of several in the "rear-rank." They hold a whispered conference as the more ambitious students pass on into the building. They glance over their shoulders and then duck around the corner. "Why?"

The "front rank" have reached the classroom and as the gong indicates the beginning of the period, the following stage whisper dialogue is heard thru a near-by open window: "Say, Pete. I've the papers. Got the makings?"

"Naw. Let's have a few drags on my old jimmy."

As the aroma of "Your Shure Doomed" blend permeates thru the class room, the observant students conclude that the why of our "baffling campus mystery" lies in the words—Tobacco habit.

In the mean time, Joy reigns supreme-around the corner of the corner of the building. Little troubles of daily care are, for the moment, obliterated in the sublime ecstasies of "just a few puffs" and then realization of duty to class recitations causes the silent "rear-rank" to stealthily rush back around the corner and they enter the class room all out of breath. "Why?"

Granted that our observant students have rightly interpreted those "peculiar movements which have a meaning all their own", now about the more important part of "the observant public"—i. e. the out-of-town visitors. Are they not liable to misinterpret the meaning of that mysterious "around the corner" shift. Quite fortunate that none of the Pinkerton type have occasion to frequent our campus, for if they did, a different dialogue might have been interrupted by the front rank in that class-room. In order to preclude any such unfortunate episode, the following suggestions might be adopted.

"Try and break the habit."

"Impossible! Why last year, Student Court solved the mystery, but were unable to cope with the situation. In fact, considerable valuable time was lost in deciphering so many tangled technicalities that little, if any, good was accomplished. And besides, the upper classmen are now setting the precedent. What else might be expected?"

Granted, for the sake of argument, that the habit is unbreakable, why not put it on an honorable level with other student activities which are invariably endorsed by A. C. loyalty.

In other words, why not stage our now mysterious performance out in the open?

Certainly it would be as interesting to watch a fellow student try to light a "pill on the balmy side of a willow sapling on a windy day," as it now is to see the self-same tragedy within the shadow of one of our college buildings. And most of those in the "front rank" would rather inhale the aroma of stale tobacco smoke in the open air with the wind blowing than they would in the congested class-room.

If the shoe fits, put it on the other fellow. Let's forget retaliation, on the one hand, and sentiment on the other in a new view of this situation.

If the tobacco habit must remain a necessary evil, why not eliminate the mysterious "Why?" which puzzles our daily visitors and put the habit on an honorable basis.

"Eb."

A FEW SHORT SELECTIONS FROM GILLILAN'S PEN.

A New Season Thought.
Now that the summer's ended and the winter season's on,
When most of us are starting and the rest of us have gone,
It's well to have a motto so the season starting in Won't be a repetition of what other ones have been.
So this is mine, my brother, as I hike away this fall,
I'd rather live some sunshine than to write and speak it all.

The easiest job I know of—and I know some soft ones, too—
Is just to tell the others what they always ought to do.
The hardest thing I know of—and I know some tough ones, wow!
Is to make your little self live your gospel, here and now.
That's why I have adopted, at the opening of fall:
"I'd rather live on submarine than to write or speak them all."

So though the trips be lengthy and the audience obtuse,
Let's never let things drive us to the point of what's-the-use.
Let's just recall that rough our lot
Let's just recall that though our lot

be sometimes rather hard,
We've overplus of wisdom, which we reel off by the yard.
To other folks, for money. So let's gulp our gauge of gall
And strive to live one sunray while we write and speak them all.

"We Heat From the Hall."
"Whence comes the heat?" I ask the hotel man
As to my stall he lugs by grips of tan.
"Whence comes the heat to keep me warm and snug
As that much-touted buglet in a rug?"

"I'll turn the transome," says the pirate, "then
The heat that's in the hall will seek your pen and warm it fine. The radiator stands Down yonder where the third floor stairway lands."

I hope that when that landlord goes to where Invariably I consign him, he may fare
As badly as his guests, but from a cause
Exactly opposite in nature's laws.

And when he is so hot his hair's on fire
I hope he'll have the rashness to in-fuire
"See here, old Nick, could you direct a man
Where in the—well, where can I get a fan?"

And then I hope that Satan will reply
While devilishly winking t'other eye,
"There's one just 'round the corner, if you please,
But stationary—don't you feel the breeze?"

Those who believe that child labor does not exist in the United States would do well to read the report of the National Child Labor committee. shows that much work is yet to be performed before child labor is abolished. The figures given are for children from 10 to 15 years and since there are thousands under 10 years who are working, there are undoubtedly over 2,000,000 children working. An awful indictment of our boasted civilization! Particular attention is called for the protection of children working at agriculture, who are often thought to be employed under better conditions than the mill hands. Children that are employed in the cotton, vegetable or berry fields are declared to be receiving little or no education or industrial training. The dissemination of vital statistics like this by the government will eventually redound to our benefit. The trouble with most of us is we pay too little attention to the findings of highly paid experts. The reading is too dry and the itemized results are just unromantic figures, and figures are uninteresting in this sensational age.

"Thomas W. Lawson is always full of quips," said a Boston banker. "Not long ago I attended the funeral of a millionaire financier, one of those real 'high' financiers on whose low methods Lawson loved to turn the light. I got to the funeral a little late, and took a seat beside Lawson.
"How far has the service gone?" I whispered.
"Lawson, nodding toward the clergyman in the pulpit, whispered back:
"Just opened for the defense."

"Wot cheer, Alf? Yer lookin' sick. Wot is it?"
"Work! Nuffink but work, work, work, from mornin, till nigt."
"Ow long 'ave yer been at it?"
"Start termorrer."

FARM HUSBANDRY WIN CROSS-COUNTRY RUN—NO COLLEGE CLASSES ENTER.

Crockett First, Vinje Second in 16 Minutes, 54 Seconds Time.

With a strong wind from the southwest and a cool, crisp day, the Farm-Husbandry team entered the field Saturday, November 28, for the purpose of getting the scalps of the Power-Machinery. These two teams were the only ones entering the race and in fact the Farm-Husbandry team outnumbered their opponents by a large margin. The competition between the two teams was keen and a great deal of enthusiasm was shown by the students of the two classes.

The team started in front of the Main building, running to the Main entrance, and from there north to the road back of Ceres Hall, where they turned west for over a half mile and circled around the gardens front Science Hall and finished in front of the Main building, making the distance of two miles and seven-eighths.

Plummer, a Farm-Husbandry man who took third place last year, lead the race and looked a winner until about fifty yards from the finish, when he was taken with a cramp and fell to the ground.

Those entering the race and their places are:—

- 1st.—Crockett, Farm-Husbandry.
- 2nd.—Vinje, Farm-Husbandry.
- 3rd.—Sabbo, Farm-Husbandry.
- 4th.—Zimmerman, Farm-Husbandry.
- 5th.—Riebe, Power Machinery.
- 6th.—Wright, Farm-Husbandry.
- 7th.—Maughton, Farm-Husbandry.
- 8th.—Riebe, Farm-Husbandry.
- 9th.—Baker, Farm-Husbandry.
- 10th.—Nesbig, Farm-Husbandry.
- 11th.—Magill, Farm-Husbandry.
- 12th.—Plummer, Farm-Husbandry. Didn't finish.

"The Bachelor's Dream" sounds good, doesn't it. Just a good little appetizer before setting down to study a week from to-night—down at the Christian Church. Just across the Great Northern tracks on Third Ave. and Ninth Streets is the place. It's a little play some of the professor's wives are in—a pantomime—something amateur yet well worked out. It will cost no more than a show down town. Better take it in and incidentally, while having a good time realize that you are helping a good church get a good start in paying for some good musical equipment. Eight o'clock, and a quarter to see it.

THE LITTLE COUNTRY THEATRE
World's Work—June, 1914.

THE LITTLE COUNTRY THEATRE is the name of an experiment that the North Dakota Agricultural College has been trying recently. Its purpose is to show that any rural community can give acceptable theatrical performances with "home talent," and that these performances can be made useful in socializing country life.

The College, for this purpose, has adapted a large room on the second floor of its administration building. The room is about the size of an ordinary country town hall. After building a stage thirty feet wide and twenty feet deep, the room will seat about two hundred people. Thus a play that can be produced here could be produced almost as well in a country school or church or even a farm home.

Half a score of plays have been produced in this theatre. "Miss Civilization," "Country Life Minstrels," "Cherry Tree Farm," "A Fatal Message"—these are some of them. All are short, playing only about half an hour, as the purpose of them is as much to start the fun of a social evening as it is to divert. Most of the actors have been students from the country homes, and several of them, having graduated, have written back for play-books so that they may produce their favorites in their own neighborhood.

THE LITTLE COUNTRY THEATRE is a practical model for rural emulation, he theatre has been one of the influences that have attracted people away from the country. There is no reason why it should not attract them back to it again.

FARM HUSBANDRY STUDENTS—ATTENTION.

Mr. J. A. Fortin, of the Crane & Ordway Company of Fargo realizing the importance of the dairy industry to the state of North Dakota desires to stimulate interest and effort upon the part of the Farm Husbandry students in dairying. He offers through the Dairy Division of the Department of Agriculture of the Agricultural College, an Iowa cream separator, worth approximately $15, to the Farm Husbandry student showing greatest progress in dairying the winter term, 1915.

The purpose of the dairy division of the college is to train and interest students in the different phases of the dairy industry to the extent that it will prove not only of value to the individual but to the communities of the state wherein that student may later reside. The constantly growing demand for dairy products at high prices will continue to stimulate its development. The need for economic production as well as efficient manufacture and distribution makes a thorough knowledge of the elements of economic production, manufacture and distribution of prime importance.

The need for a sanitary wholesome milk supply in the cities of the state only indicates the opportunities and possibilities of future developments. The aim of the courses of study at the college will be to familiarize and train the student in the fundamental principles so he may intelligently take up and develop any phase of the industry in which he may be particularly interested. While this work can, of course, be treated only in a brief, general way in the short time available to the Farm Husbandry student, a general understanding will be obtainable. In the regular college courses however, it will be possible for the student to make a special study of, (1) the elements of dairying, (2) dairy manufactures which will include butter, cheese, ice cream and the fermented milks, (3) city milk supply, (4) economic milk production, (5) dairy bacteriology, (6) dairy chemistry, (7) research work done by the various experiment stations and other investigators. This latter study will be conducted and an effort made to show the relation such knowledge and information has to the commercial practical problems which confront those who are making of dairying a profitable business.

The dairy division of the college wishes to public express its appreciation of the interest Mr. Forzin has manifested in stimulating the dairy industry of the state through the above mentioned offer.

It is to be hoped that the successful Farm Husbandry student will find dairying sufficiently interesting and profitable for a life's work.

Professor of Dairying.

WALKER WHITESIDE'S FARGO APPEARANCE.

Those who were fortunate enough to see Walker Whiteside's masterly declination of Tokeram in "The Typhoon" will be interested in the following.

"As an indication of the esteem in which Walker Whiteside is held in the territory that knows him most intimately, Whiteside's friends tell this story. While on tour in "The Typhoon" last winter his friends in Fargo, N. D. learned that he was playing in Winnipeg. Over long-distance, overtures were made to him to visit the little city and play in the armory at the State Agricultural College, the regular theatre having been destroyed by fire. Whiteside's route was rearranged and Fargo was visited. The college auditorium is three miles out of town, but the huge building was jammed to the doors. The students had erected a temporary stage, strung special electric cables etc., while a school orchestra supplied the music."

At the present time, he is achieving remarkable success in his new vehicle, Dr. Wu, a strikingly vivid presentation of the diabolical revenge which a Chinaman can conceive. It differs from the Typhoon in having what is known as a "happy ending."

BASKETBALL PLANS MADE.

Coach Hunt Issues Call for Basketball Men to Start Preliminary Practice Work.

With the football season at an end, Carleton athletes are already turning their attention to basketball. Coach Hunt posted an informal call for men about two weeks ago, and a handful of aspirants has begun to train down for the squad tryouts which will be held after Thanksgiving.

Because of the ever increasing number of college activities, it has been thought advisable to cut down the number of scheduled games this year to about ten. It is possible, however, that twelve games may be played, provided everything goes well in the early part of the season. A game with Coach Kent's Iowa University team has already been scheduled, and the rest of the slate will include games with Hamline, Macalester, St. Olaf, the University of Minnesota, and perhaps some of the Dakota teams. Coach Hunt is now negotiating for games with Grinnell and the University of South Dakota. His desire is to schedule two games with teams outside Minnesota, so located that both games can be played on the same trip.

The prospects for a winning team this year are bright. Captain 'Stub' Gillott is the only one of last year's regulars who was lost by graduation, and the old men, with a year of added experience, should be a hard combination to beat. Captain Peterson and Badger, the sensational midget forwards, will both be back in the game this winter, and are expected to hold their places against all comers. "Spuds" Welshons and Bryngelson, who played in a large number of the games last year, will back up the regular forwards and make them work to hold their places.

STOCK JUDGING TEAM TO ATTEND PORTLAND SHOW.

Contrary to early reports the Pacific International Livestock Exposition will hold forth in Portland between Dec. 7th and 14th, but the stock show will be exclusively fat stock which will be slaughtered very soon after the show. This action will be taken in order to eliminate all chances of spreading the foot and mouth disease in the west which is at present causing much trouble in the eastern states to stock producers. The stock judging team from Q. A. C. will make its customary trip to this show but instead of judging all classes of stock it will confine its energies to fat stock only.

Military Department

(By Marvin Kirk)

Last week, there was a little drill out on the parade grounds, but on Friday, it was too disagreeable to go out. Wednesday afternoon the guns were left inside, and the battalion was drilled in marching as skirmishers, and also in setting up exercises. Friday, the drill was entirely inside the armory, an consisted of marching, manual of arms, and pring practice. On Monday, there was more drill indoors. Stacking arms and the loadings and firings were practiced. In the firings, each captain was called upon to take the battalion and drill it for a few minutes. After 4:30 the most of the men were dismissed, but still there were enough who remained for extra drill, to give Captain Christiansen an army of about a hundred men, who enjoyed the pleasures of armed peace until near 5:30. They left, declaring that they had enjoyed themselves.....

Ceres Hall Notes

The Misses Bertha Camp, Jennie Simmons, Ethel McVety and Edna Bowers, former students of the Agricultural College, visited with old school friends, Friday. They were all come to spend Thanksgiving with their parents.

Ethel Poole returned from her home at Steele Sunday evening, where she spent her Thanksgiving.

Miss Mary Hartney spent Saturday and Sunday in Moorhead with friends at the Normal school.

Miss Mirma Stoner was agreeably surprised Thanksgiving day when a birthday cake with 16 candles and two beautiful bouquets of flowers were presented to her. When it was time for the last course to be served, the cake was presented and then the table next to her gave a yell for Miss Stoner, which consisted of 16.

Mrs. Gilbert provided a very bountiful Thanksgiving dinner to those who were not able to go home. The dining room was very prettily decorated with the college colors, yellow and green. The tables were laid with plates for two hundred and fifty, and on each table were the college bowers. As the faculty, students, and friends passed into the dining room the orchestra was playing, and also furnished music during the entire dinner. After the five-course dinner everyone sang the Yellow and Green, and after this all passed to the hall parlors, where a very pleasant afternoon was spent.

The Misses Myrtle and Ivy Waechter received a large Thanksgiving box from home Wednesday. It contained everything essential to a spread, from turkey to mince pie, so the girls invited their friends that evening. Everyone went home fully repaid for the energy they used in getting there. The "eats" were simply splendid.

Miss Myrtle Johnston spent her Thanksgiving with her folks.

Mrs. Gilbert entertained at Thanksgiving dinner; Pres. Worst, Mr. and Mrs. Yoder, Dr. and Mrs. Nogens, Mr. and Mrs. Orr, Misses Stoner and Grasse, and Mr. Dean Mendenhall.

Miss Elsie Stark, Brother Clyde and his friend, Mr. Potter, took dinner with her at Ceres hall, Thanksgiving day.

Which Shall It Be?

In selecting a school would you rather GUESS or be SURE? Unfortunately, all business schools look about the same—on paper.

But some schools PROVE what they can do for YOU by what they have done for others.

Just 49 out of 53 young people in Fargo banks attended Dakota Business College—think of the proportion!

Just 685 banks outside of Fargo employ Dakota Business College pupils—more would hire them if D. B. C. could supply more graduates.

Can you question whose pupils will be at the head of these institutions in the future?

These are cold, solid facts that anyone can check up. You have to do no guessing—no experimenting when you select a school in which to get a commercial training.

CAMPUS GLEANINGS

The only bit of real humor that has appeared in this department since Joe Alexander's days will follow. We refer to an account that appeared in the Fargo Forum. We think their reporter must have got this over long distance—wires crossed.

"Another of the large college parties was given at the A. C. Saturday evening, when the Thanksgiving season was celebrated in most enjoyable style by a large all-college gathering at the armory and at Ceres hall. Quite elaborate preparations had been made for this event, and the efforts were fully repaid by the enjoyment which the students and faculty members derived. The orchestra, frappe, and places of entertainment were provided by the college, and entertaining "stunts" were enjoyed during the earlier part of the evening. Later, those who cared to dance enjoyed themselves at the armory, and those who did not were entertained in the parlors of Ceres hall, where a special program of amusements was enjoyed."

MINUTES OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL.

Meeting was held at 12:45 on Friday, Nov. 27, called for the purpose of considering the resignation of Mr. Drummond as Editor-in-Chief of the Spectrum.

Motion was made by Mr. Knutson that the Council accept Mr. Drummond's resignation Seconded and carried.

Motion made and seconded that the President appoint a committee on nominations for the office of Editor-in-Chief of the Spectrum.

Mr. Mendenhall moved that the motion be amended to read that any member of the Council could introduce the name of anyone desiring to become Editor of the Spectrum in addition to those nominations made by the committee. Seconded and motion carried as amended.

Mr. Knutson, Chairman, Mr. Kelly, Mr. Mendenhall.

The class in journalism at Dakota Wesleyan is doing some actual work in their line. They take regular assignments from a local daily newspaper, and they do their best at "covering" them.

William Jewell College, Liberty, Mo., has a poet in its student body. Grant McGee '15, has written a book of poems which was accepted by a publishing house and they are now before the public. The college paper commends his work very highly.

The Sophomores at Hamline University recently abducted the Freshman president and kept him in captivity all one night. The Freshmen were ignorant of the affair until the next morning. When they found it out, however, they caught the Sophomores one by one and painted their faces with iodine (diluted). The Sophomores are now a sorry looking bunch.

The students at Parsons College, Fairfield, Iowa, recently gave a big football demonstration. They turned out in large numbers to meet their victorious football team which arrived in the city at midnight; and, loading all the players into wagons, they repaired to a vacant lot where a large fire was built. Each player was called upon to give his version of the game, and later the crowd paraded through town, yelling and singing, and otherwise displaying their "pep."

The students of Macalester College, St. Paul, Minn., publish triennially an exponent of student life called "The Mack." Heretofore the task of compiling and editing the book has fallen on the third year class, and the numbers were sold among the student body. From now on, this triennial book will be pushed by the student body in general and a compulsory additional fee payable at the beginning of the year, entitles each student to a copy.

The distinction of having witnessed the commencement exercises of every class graduated from the University except one is enjoyed by Dr. John Straub, the oldest member of the faculty in both years and service. Little silver pins have been presented to members of the O. A. C. Barometer staff, to be used to identify themselves. This pin becomes the property of the staff member after he puts in one year of service.

Athletic Director Lewis Omer, of the Northwestern University football team, gave the girls of the University credit at a recent rally for Northwestern's poor showing in the conference so far this season. He deplored the fact that the girls are inviting football men to go walking along the lake shore when they ought to be out at practice.

A cleaner bunch of sportsmen never played in Bozeman than the North Dakota eleven. There was no wrangling throughout the whole game, and both sides are well satisfied with the officials.

A WORK OF ART.
Touching Appeal Wrings Many Hearts at This Institution.

"I hate to write you for fear of annoying you, but the time has come when I must ask you a serious question,—a question that has caused me nights of restlessness and days of anxiety. You will understand my reluctance in asking you this when you realize how many lives have been upset by similar troubles. Still you should know the worst for, in all sincerity, it may mean life or death to someone.

It seems that you are the only one to whom I dare communicate my state of mind for there are few that can be trusted with so great a secret. So, in my distress, I appeal to you, knowing that your regard for me is such that you would never fail me. It is asking a great deal of you and I hope you will consider it carefully before letting me know your final decision. I hate to sign my name for others may see this letter, but I ask you as a true and tried friend this momentous question: Do you think "Jeff" will ever be as tall as "Mutt"?"

The Lubin Film Company is using the campus of the University of Pennsylvania as the setting for its production of George Ade's "College Widow." Permission has been granted the company to photograph the exterior of the buildings and pictures will be taken of one of the games on the athletic field for the football scene in the play.

"Freshie": Human race!

It was football from whistle to whistle and with two evenly matched teams as to weight there is no doubt but that the best team won.

The N. D. boys have expressed a desire to meet the blue and gold in Fargo next year. They assure us a good game and feel satisfied that we can also schedule a game with the University of North Dakota, men whom they claim are a clean and sportsmanlike bunch of players.

CO-OPERATIVE BUYING.

Union men of Milwaukee, Wis., acting through officials of the Federated Trades Council of that city, are purchasing farm products by the carload, these being distributed among the various co-operators at a tremendous saving over retail prices. The shipments are thoroughly sorted and only the produce that comes up to their demands in quality is accepted. This idea is also being broadened to take in canned goods and before the winter is over it is confidently predicted that these shipments will increase to such an extent as to require a permanent headquarters.
