herzog & de meuron | de young museum
golden gate park san francisco california usa | competition 1999 | project 2000 - 2002 | realization 2002 - 2005

heterotypical | receptive diversity meets and intersects organism with several limbs park fills the spaces | permeable non-ticketed first floor | hinge

Herzog & De Meuron’s works are a rarity in the architecture field, for their thought process and belief that exploration matters. An example of this belief is the fact that published are their images of models, materials studies, imagery and everything that might have influenced the built design. Unlike many offices, theorists and even professors, their work encourage us to belief that the parts by which their architecture came to be are as important as what was built.

| www.herzogdemeuron.com | gabriela baierle