The studio emphasis this year is different because of the process of the project. It starts from the concept and how the work in a space/functional and form. From the studio, students thinking about the concept of the design for an addition to the museum in Greenland. If you are going to build the site in grandly, focusing on the design elements and design issues. It is arranged to help students think in terms of practical solutions.

The proposal for the project is centered with the goal of a concept and moving forward to the design process utilizing the space and site. The reasoning behind this project focused on the concept of the site, the form and space. The students of the design process really well and the thinking of the site. This project is a way to think of the design and how the building is going to be.
