Growing & Aging

The Old and the New

Architecture can reduce the generation gap we face in society by providing opportunities that create a sense of belonging and connection for both groups.

A transformation from an empty school to a place where generations come together and relationships are made.

Duluth site

Lake Superior