THEO. HAMM’S REBREW

Kenneth Stephenson
THEORETICAL PREMISE

A brewery that produced beer for roughly 130 years employing thousands of workers from the area has been sitting vacant for 17 years slowly crumbling from lack of upkeep. With the constant threat of being razed and losing all its history, how can one both bring the lost sense of community and pride that it once had while celebrating the building and city’s history?
Historical Takeaway

- Low income area
- Skilled working class with pride in their work
- Strong community ties with each other but only within their own heritage
Site Access

- Ample Parking
- Bike Route
- 3 different bus routes
  - Route 61
  - Route 64
  - Route 74
Process
Community’s Laboratory
LEARN / GROW / PLAY
LEARN / GROW / PLAY
LEARN / GROW / PLAY
The Fit Brewery
Broken Stem Brewing
LEARN / GROW / PLAY
LEARN / GROW / PLAY
A brewery complex that produced beer for roughly 130 years employing thousands of workers from the area has been sitting vacant for 17 years is slowly crumbling from lack of upkeep. With the constant threat of being razed and losing all the history, how can one both bring back the lost sense of community and pride that it once had while celebrating its history?