

BROMO BOWL SET FOR WEDNESDAY

BY JOHN HESSE

A case of Bowl fever is hitting the colleges in the nation, as they prepare for the post-season contests. The Rose Bowl will feature California vs. Michigan, Texas is set for the Cotton Bowl, in Fargo, the Beasts of Gamma Phi Beta sorority are engaged in intensive practices in preparation for their annual Bromo Bowl clash with the Beauties of Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

The Beasts will be out to avenge a 7-6 loss that came at the hands of the males in last year's raffle. At the present time, they hold a record of two wins, one loss, and tie in the first four tilts.

The Beauties came from behind to force the Gamma Phi's to be content with a 6-6 tie in the first game, played in December of 1946, then the femmes bounced back the next season to their male adversaries, 13-0. The last touchdown of the game was made for the Beasts by referee Bill Dietz on a pass from Gamma Phi coach, Sid Cichy, now grid mentor at Shanley high of Fargo.

The third game ended with the ladies emerging victorious again, this time on the long end of a 20-6 score. The now famous "tea" formation employed by the Beasts seemed to have the Beauties confused, and the game was studded with holding, smooching, and unnecessary roughness penalties.

Last year, the Beauties finally earned their first win, to the tune of, 7-6. The Beasts played impressive ball all through the game, but it was plain that the Beauties were up for the contest.

The Beauties, coached by Jerry (Lover) Hammerlik, a star of last season's tussle, will have the advantage of superior reserve strength, and come into the game with an impressive season's record.

In spite of that, bookies in the area are giving the Beasts a slight edge for the fifth annual game. This season, the Beasts will be coached by Bob (Ool-Ool) Fisher and Eino (Bullet-Head) Martino who report that their charges are in great shape, and will be ready for the opening kick-off.

However, rumor has it that the Beasts will be employing a secret weapon in the person of Lucille Sweeney, a Gamma Phi pledge from Yipahooey Institute, who has transferred to NDAC for the occasion.

The Beauties roster for this year includes: Glen (the Toe) Fanslow, Lyle (the Lily) Fugleberg, Jerry (Gozen) Geocz, Chuck-in' Chuck Gronberg, Raspy Ron Grothe, John (Hips) Heinemeyer, Joe (Smelly) Helle, Dick (Hideous) Hoff, Charley (Shoo-Shoo) Johnk, Dangerous Don Johnson, Dirty Dick Krueger, Marv (the Mauler) Leintz, Robert (Mad Dog) Mattison, Lippy Leo Mahoney, Ray (Limber) Linnertz, Grizzly Gordon McLean, Erv (Mediocre) Meyers, Jim (Bow-Wow-Nesting, Paul (Pistons) Pratt, John (Bull) Retzlaff, Erv (Slippery) Samuelson, Mark (the Shark) Severson, Shakey Ray Sharkey, Killer Kirk Smith, The Great John L. Sullivan, Gorgeous George Sweeney, Dick (the Punk) Thompson, Captain Bob (Cuddles) Vaslenko, Vicious Vic Volney, Whistlin' Wayne Waldera, Witherin' Bob Witherow, and Coach Hammerlik.

As yet no starting line-up has been released for the Beasts, but the team will include: June (Awful) Aamodt, whose sister cavorted for the Beasts a few years back, Pat (Crusher) Christianson, Sharon (Clip 'Em) Cooke, Betty (Dirty Dog) Danielson, Frances (Evasive) Eveleth, Margie (Jolt-in') Johnston, Betty (Killer) Kerr, Mary (Magnetic) More, Janet (B.O.) Olson, Lue (Loopy) Laurence, Nancy (Green Giant) Pease, Kiki (Paddlefoot) Peterson, Darlene (Whiskey) Sauer, Gen (Hog) Wild, Suzanne (Whip 'Em) Withnell, and Coaches Fisher and Martino.

Bison grid coaches, Mac Wen-skunas, and Bernie Krueger will be serving as water-boys for the teams, and officials for the occasion will be Gene (Blind-man) Osieki, and Dom (Robber) Gentile.

In a short interview, Hammerlik said this week, "I rate the game as a toss-up, and the team that is in the best shape will win. One thing, I can say for sure, those Gamma Phi's will be tough, and I know that they are going to put up a battle."

When interviewed, Fisher stated that he and backfield coach Martino, were confident. "The men . . . I mean girls aren't too deep, but they are sure eager," Fisher said. "We have a rugged line and a fast backfield, and several triple threat men . . . I mean girls. It's been hard to get the girls together for practices, but it's sure been fun trying, and I really believe that by next week, something will be coming off. I'm confident that the girls will come through for us."

Marjorie Heger of Fargo and Walter Christianson of Kenmare will play leading roles in the modern French version of the Sophocles tragedy "Antigone" when it is presented at the Little Country Theatre Dec. 6, 7 and 8.

Under the direction of Miss Constance West, the NDAC cast will include Miss Heger as Antigone, Christensen as Creon, Carol Jean Smith of Mohall, Ismene; Karen Johnson of Fargo, Nurse; Gary Lunde of Fargo, Haemon; David Parker of Fargo, First Guard; Leland Elhard of Jud, Second Guard; James Nesting of Williston, Third Guard; John Hesse and Bernie Brown of Fargo, Messenger and Chorus; and Betty Lou Danielson of Fargo, Eurydice.

The play has been adapted by Lewis Galantiere from the French version of Jean Anouilh. The underlying plot develops the theme of Man against State and Gods against Tryant. When Antigone's brother is killed in battle, his enemy, King Creon, orders that he shall not be buried, but left to rot. Anyone attempting a burial is ordered put to death. When Antigone tries, she is caught. Creon is representative of the State and declares his actions are right for political reasons. Antigone feels that this is a hideous offense against the Man and God.

On the production staff of "Antigone" are: Lights, Wallace Swenson of Columbus and Marlowe Jensen of Kenmare; publicity, Edward Schweizer of Quintina, Argentina and Karen Johnson of Fargo; tickets, Janet Schwer and Pat Kennedy of Fargo and Zoe Nelson of Mandan; and script girl, Betty Lou Danielson of Fargo.

Lippincott Dance Artists Present Convocation Tonight

Gertrude Lippincott, nationally-known modern dancer, will be presented in a program of MODERN DANCE by the Convocation Committee of the North Dakota Agricultural College at Fargo tonight at 8 p.m. The program will be Miss Lippincott's second appearance in Fargo.

Miss Lippincott is at present the Director of Modern Dance at the Minneapolis YWCA. She has been Artist-in-Residence at Hamline university for two years, Assistant Professor of Dance at Mount Holyoke college, and has made guest appearances as a concert dancer, teacher, and lecturer at a great many universities and colleges throughout the country, including Louisiana State university, Colorado College of Education, University of Southern California, University of Nebraska, Wichita university, Coker college (South Carolina), Ohio university, Purdue university, and Wilson college (Pennsylvania).

For the program tonight, Miss Lippincott has choreographed especially a new duet from a group work, "A FULL MOON IN MARCH". The music for this work was composed especially for Miss Lippincott by Henry Cowell, noted American composer. The work, which is a part of a longer piece, will be danced by Miss Lippincott and Robert Moulton, instructor in the drama department of the University of Minnesota. Mr. Moulton will also appear with Miss Lippincott in another duet, entitled "SUITE" (to music by Casella), and in a ballet pantomime called, "JUST WE TWO". In this dance, both Miss Lippincott and Mr. Moulton speak lines which have been taken from the cartoons of William Steig, "Till Death Do Us Part".

A group dance, "An Entertainment for the Imagination", will also be presented in Fargo. Norman Houck, critic, writing in the Minneapolis Tribune for Oct. 27 said that this dance "presented the most imaginative and stimulating stage pictures". Dancing with Miss Lippincott in this work will be Ruth Braunstein, Eunice Brown and Robert Moulton. Solos by Miss Lippincott for the Fargo program will include "IF LOVE WERE LOVE", a new work with music by Louis Horst, famous composer and teacher, and "DEIRDRE OF THE Alfred H. Parrott, director of admissions and records at the College, announced that winter registration is scheduled for Monday and Tuesday, Dec. 11 and 12 at Festival hall. The program of classes is available at the registrar's office. This deviates from the former practice of registering after students return to school from Christmas vacation. The winter term at NDAC will extend through March 17.

Danny Posin On 'Antigone' Cast

"Is this the scene that I take the guards out, Miss West?" questioned Danny Posin as he rehearsed with the Antigone cast. Danny is playing the part of the page to King Creon, Walt Christianson, in the all-school play.

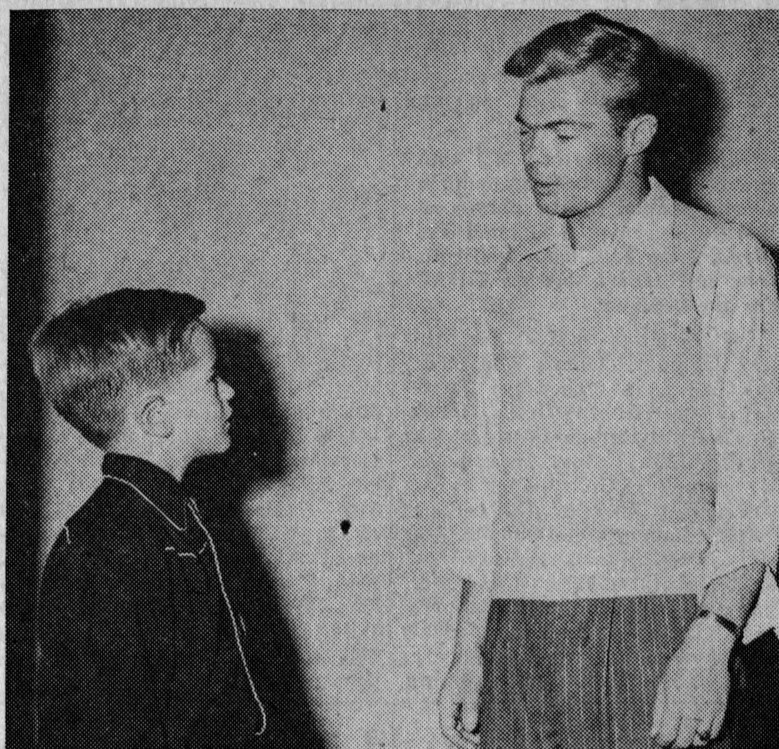

The nine-year old carries a big responsibility since he is at the King's side during most of the play and many times escorts other characters on and off stage. However, after one rehearsal he knew his part perfectly.

This is not Danny's first dramatic experience. Last summer when his father, Dr. Posin, professor of physics at the NDAC, was filming his atomic speech in Hollywood, Danny also appeared in a news short about the atomic bomb. Danny received $25 for working on the set one morning. Since one scene of the short shows him in bed Danny likes to tell his friends, "I earned $25 for being in bed."

One of Danny's biggest thrills was meeting Roy Rodgers in the make-up room in Hollywood. Rodgers was making a film on the same set.

Danny is in the fourth grade at Roosevelt grade school. His favorite hobby is drawing comic strips. He likes to show his stick characters in gang fights using such strong language as "Take this" and "So what".

When Danny was asked to be in "Antigone" he said, "I would like to very much if it can be arranged." Mrs. Posin said her son enjoys the work and actually counts the hours until rehearsal time.

College Accepts Bids For Engineering Bldg.

Bids were opened on the Engineering building to be constructed at the North Dakota Agricultural College Friday afternoon in President Fred S. Hultz's office.

Low proposals submitted and to be sent to the State Board of Higher Education for approval include: General work, Meinecke-Johnson, $262,470; heating, plumbing and ventilating, Whitcomb and Foss, $62,434 ;and electrical work, Central Electric Co., $38,940. The total cost will be $363,844 for the Engineering building.

The North Dakota state legislature appropriated $400,000 for the building. The balance of the appropriation will be used for connecting the steam main to the structure, architect's fees, and contingencies. Architects for the building are W. F. Kurke and Associates.

The new building will be a one story masonry and steel 132 by 230 feet. R. M. Dolve, dean of the school of engineering, said that the fireproof structure will have 75 percent of its space in use for engineering laboratory units and the remaining 25 percent will be utilized for classrooms. "It will be completely furnished with modern equipment and machinery for the latest developments in instruction and research."

ROTC Cadets Visit Rapid City Airport

Twenty-two advanced Air Force ROTC students, accompanied by Captain Cecil H. Best and Lt. John Augis, made a flight to Rapid City AFB, Friday Nov. 17, on an inspection tour of air installations. The plane was piloted by Major Robert E. Phillips, PAS&T, and Major Jesse R. Davis, PAS&T at the University of North Dakota.

The cadets inspected the crash and structural fire departments, a new B-36 hangar, and the air installation shops. Of particular interest was the large reinforced concrete hanger, 300 x 360 feet, which houses the giant 10 engine inter-continental bombers. Since the B-36 is listed among the top military secrets the base is heavily guarded for security reasons.

The base furnished the cadets with a bus and driver for the tour of the base. ROTC students had an opportunity to patronize the PX and to get a sample of Army chow at the consolidated mess hall.

This was the first airplane ride for several cadets who enjoyed especially the flight over the scenic Badlands and the lakes of South Dakota. On the return flight the plane circled Fargo several times to give the students a bird's eye view of familiar landmarks.

Delegates Attend Arnold Convention

A National Guard C-47 aircraft last Friday carried eight members of the NDAC Arnold Air society to St. Louis, Mo. to the second annual convention of that organization. Piloted by Maj. R. E. Phillips, USAF and Maj. J. C. Davis, USAF, professors of air science and tactics respectively at NDAC and UND, the plane also carried five members of the university chapter to the conclave.

Aided by a strong tailwind, the trip down took approximately four hours. The return flight buffeted by headwinds required nearly six and one-half hours not counting the stop made at Grand Forks to discharge the university delegation.

While in St. Louis the cadets not attending the meeting as delegates had ample opportunity to view the city, including a sight seeing tour which took more than three hours.

Next year's convention will be held in Miami, Florida.

Library Displays Oil Painting Gift

North Dakota Agricultural College—1892, an oil painting by Ralph W. Smith, formerly of Dickinson, will be displayed in the new Library this week.

A gift to the Memorial Student Union by Smith, the three by four painting shows how Old Main, a green house and power plant looked in the founding days standing on barren prairie land.

Smith graduated from NDAC with the class of 1914. A North Dakota homesteader, he was born in Spring Valley, Minn., in 1877. His family moved to Missouri four years later. Smith then came to the northern tip of Bottineau county where he farmed and taught school until 1910. After his graduation in 1914 he went to the Dickinson Experiment station where he was agronomist until his retirement in 1947.

Father of Dr. Glenn S. Smith, associate director and dean of the Experiment station and school of agriculture at NDAC, the elder Smith began painting at 60—as a retirement hobby. Last year a number of his canvases were exhibited in Fargo.

The architecture department furnished another display which depicts the five phases emphasized in the five year architectural course. These phases are: first year, stimulation; second year, exploration; third year, adaptation. Fourth year, integration. fifth year, maturation.

The third display, furnished by Mr. W. Moberg, assistant professor of geography and geology, is a collection of precious minerals picked from those contained in the geology department.

Some of the rare minerals in this collection are Brazilian banded agates, valued between $100 and $200; opal from Nevada, sulphur from Italy; apatite from Pennsylvania; flourite from Kentucky; azurite from Arizona; biotite mica and pyrite from New Jersey, amethyst and quartz crystal from the Black Hills; feldspar from Connecticut, celestite from West Virginia; botryoidal hematite from England.

Since men of distinction are hard to please, it's none too soon to start pondering over our Christmas list again.

How about a stainless steel jackknife with a cork handle to keep it afloat if it falls overboard. But then, I have yet to know of a duck hunter or a fisherman losing his knife overboard. All they ever seem to come home without are the big whoppers that fet away. Then there are garters - I have actually seen a pair (in a shop window, that is) with gold tipped bands selling in the vicinity of fifty dollars. Can you imagine? NO, I can't!

There's a magnetic fly box with a rotating gimmick that holds 36 flies, turns at a flick of a finger for easy selection and guarantees no loss or damage to flies. But then, I believe flies are used for trout fishing, and there are no trout streams hereabouts, so let's be practical and let him catch his own frogs and minnows, or if he insists, I'll even help dig worms.

Say, did you know that nowadays a fella can hang his soap up to dry? A hook and lather set makes it possible. There's a suction cup to hold the hook fast to the wall and you just slip the soap on - there's a hole in the center of it. It's supposed to stay there too, 'cause the hole's the same size down to the last sliver.

There's a novel version of a Daniel Boone headpiece with inside earband, and a detachable tail, either in conskin or skunk. How versatile can we be? Well, there's the shotgun shell buttons fashioned from brass and copper heads of empty shotgun shells. You can get matching ets of buttons for a vest, blazer, or hunting jacket. Or how about a cigarette lighter that operates on a tiny tank of gas that requires neither wick nor fluid?

A pink and white checked flannel shirt and for contrast a black knitted string tie would be roguish. If he's the Peter Lawford type, or you wish he were, how about a windbreaker pipe? It's a good smoke from England if it's a hurricane pipe or seasoned briar with a hinged cap.

Ag Journalism Needed

How does the farmer keep informed? He reads his weekly newspaper for farm news of his own community. Often he subscribes to daily newspaper, preferably one whose farm editor covers regional and national news of agriculture. . . .

Professor Rodney Fos of Iowa State College says that agricultural journalism has two great services to perform. He describes its thus:

1. It must educate and inform the farmers who produce food and clothing and shelter. Not only must it inform farmers about new methods in agriculture, but also it must help to show them their part in the whole social structure.

2. It must explain and interpret agriculture to the rest of society. Agriculture, as one of the greatest segments of the world's society, must be understood and appreciated if our economy is to function smoothly.

Here, then is the opportunity which press and radio face in serving American Farmers.

---Campbell & Wolseley, in "Newsmen at Work".

Because this is essentially an agricultural college and graduates many county agents every year, the addition of a journalism minor to the curriculum would benefit both the school and the future county agents in the following ways: 1. by giving the ag graduate the journalism and English practice he would need to write effectively for the weekly newspaper in his county. Undoubtedly the additional training would help him in writing his reports, business letters, and other business correspondence too. And, 2. by offering the journalism minor NDAC would not only get students who want to work toward a minor or major in journalism but would also furnish the various publications with more staff members.

Other opportunities for jobs in the field of agricultural journalism were mentioned in the last editorial. The importance of agricultural journalism cannot be overemphasized, especially in an agricultural localities and college such as ours.—Ed.

Letter to the Editor

Dear Mr. Editor:

After unsuccessful attempts in the want ads, I hopefully submit this plea to you: lost, one swimming - last heard from in the halls of the Field house.

When the Field house was originally planned, provisions were made for a pool in the basement. When plans were formulated for remodeling, now nearing completion, the pool was mentioned again. What happened? As long as money was spent for making the building more useful, why couldn't a proportionally small amount more be used to utilize a large part of the wasted space which is left?

The physical education department has a three term course in swimming, which, I understand, is held evenings in a pool owned by the Fargo school system. While this is better than none, there are several disadvantages of importance: They are; 1. The problem of transportation to and from the pool, and 2. the only time the class can logically be held is after the evening meal, usually the student's largest meal. While there is little danger of actual drowning, swimming soon after supper is definitely hazardous.

Then, what of those students, who would like to swim, but for many reasons, cannot take advantage of the course in swimming. Their only outlet is the downtown YMCA, which, aside from its inconvenience, is too small to contain the swimming classes. Also, being the YMCA, obviously the women are excluded. I don't know of any place available for women students who would care to swim.

In closing, I again voice my plea for the completion of the field house by the addition of a swimming pool.

Sincerely,
Roy Pile

Fans Get First Glimpse At Bison Tonight

The Scoreboard

By JOHN HESSE

It's sort of a pity that there wasn't any Spectrum last week, as there could have been a lot of things said about NDU's 83-0 licking at the hands of Kentucky's Wildcats. This week, all that stuff will be a bit on the stale order.

But let us remember something. The week that Kentucky beat the Sioux, they were fifth in the nation. The next week they were third. After their 7-0 loss to Tennessee, it's hard telling where they will be rated. But the fact remains, the Sioux were beaten by one of the top ten teams in the nation. I don't think it was any great disgrace.

83-0! WOW!

Of course, it was a foregone conclusion that the Sioux were going to be dropped, but by 83-0! Even oddsmakers in Dixie were only giving the Wildcats a thirty two point margin. Either they underestimated Veto Parilli and Co., or they overestimated the brand of football played in North Dakota.

There was an interesting side-light of the game. It seems that Paul (Bear) Bryant, Kentucky grid mentor, was a friend of Dick Miller, the man that had charge of the grid fortunes of the Sioux last year. Bryant was under the mistaken impression that Miller was a disciple of the single-wing offense, as is taught by General Bob Neyland of Tennessee. The Bear thought that it would be a fine idea to get a team to play his Wildcats that used the same offense in a warmer-upper for his tough fight with Neyland's Volunteers. He must have been surprised when he surmised that North Dakota also used the T.

Things got so bad down there that finally Bryant had all reserves the game, and had his first string sitting on the bench getting cold. Rather than see his boys go without physical activity, the Kentucky tutor sent his first team to a practice field and had them doing calesthenics. What a blow!

All I can say is that the Sioux hadn't better try anything with Kentucky in basketball either. The 'Cats will be good there, too. This year they are featuring 7 foot Bill Spivey, an almost sure nomination for All-American honors.

ATTENTION ALUMNI

In listening to the game, a conversation at half-time between Bob Wilkinson, Kentucky sportscaster and Norm Schroeder, Grand Forks Herald sports editor, impressed me. Wilkinson told how the alumni of Kentucky had gotten sick and tired of seeing their grid teams pushed all over the Southeastern conference.

What was the remedy? Under the NCAA sanity code, a team or a school cannot go out and recruit its own players. The only people who can do that are the alumni. That's what they did at Kentucky, and that's what can be done right here. Nothing has really been said about it for a long time, but I wonder what ever happened to the Team-Builders Club that was started here last year.

The Team Builders were a group of alumni, who were seeking to get a donation of ten dollars from a thousand alumni in order to help get the better high school athletes to play their college sports here. I think that it is a pity that North Dakota athletes have to go out of the state in order to play sports with a really top-flight team.

If there is any possibility of the Team Builders being re-organized, here's one sure ten dollar donation, and a guy that will get out and recruit players. Something should be done, and in this case, it is the job of the alumni.

BROMO BOWL NEXT WEEK

Big news this week is the Bromo Bowl. The annual tussle between the Beasts of Gamma Phi Beta and the Beauties of Alpha Tau Omega. The Rumors hereabouts give the Taus, runner-up in the Intra mural competition a slight edge over their feminine opponents, but it seems that there is multi smart money being bet on the Beasts.

By the way, I also have it on very good authority that the game will go given some national publicity. Who knows, the Bromo Bowl might get to be a serious competitor of Pasadena's Rose Bowl.

BISON VS DRAGONS TONIGHT

On the hardwood scene, we have the Bison traveling over the river and through the snow to meet the Dragons of MSTC at Moorhead. The Dragons aren't supposed to have much in the line of material this year, but they have always been a hard team for the Herd to lick.

The Hamline story reads very much as people expected. The tall Pipers took the game by fifteen points, which is about the correct margin, giving them about an eight inch over-all heigh advantage, and the home court.

The Hamline court is much larger than even our spacious field house floor, and it sits off the floor, being a set-in court. The Pipers are never considered a bunch of pansies, and I think that the Herd did a real fine job.

Tonight we will have our first chance to see the Bison against some local competition over at Moorhead Teachers. The Herd are tall and green, but it will be fun to watch them in action, just to get an idea what they are going to look like. So far, they are considered as an unknown quantity in the North Central conference, but tonight should give an indication of things to come.

Faculty Cage Tickets On Sale

Faculty season basketball tickets are now on sale at the Bookstore, Athletic Director C. C. Finnegan has announced.

The price of the tickets is $3.60 including federal tax for the ten home games on the varsity basketball schedule. The wives of veterans on the campus may also purchase at this price.

The tickets go off sale on Dec. 15 when the Bison open their home season with Wahpeton Science.

Hamline Tops Netmen, 55-40, In Cage Start

Although Hamline's Pipers put a quick damper on Bison hopes for an opening basketball win in a 55-40 game at St. Paul Saturday, there was no pessimism in the Herd camp after a good showing.

Coach Chuck Bentson's aggregation fell behind, 31-25, at half-time, but the Associated Press praised the first half showing as the best performed since the war by an NDAC or NDU team.

Jack Cavanagh led the Bison scoring with 12 points, mostly made from far court.

The Bison had trouble with the Hamline defense. The Pipers, although without the services of all-American Hal Haskins and brilliant Joe Hutton, jr., who were lost by graduation, played steady.

The Bison had some difficulty on grabbing defensive rebounds because of the Piper's height. Hamline capitalized on Bison mistakes in the closing minutes of play, pumping in 9 points.

Dave Hegna, Piper center, led scoring 17 points. Jim Fritsche, star as a freshman last season, was held to nine points by Bison center Art Bunker.

The Bison hit on only 10 of 22 free throws and 15 of 50 shots from scrimmage. Hamline had 13 of 25 gift tosses and 21 of 70 field goal tries.

Rifle Team Cops

The ROTC rifle team outgunned the University of Louisville 1886 to 1672 in a recent postal match. High scoring man for NDAC was Dave Robinson with 384 points.

The team will shoot another postal match today with the University of Notre Dame.

FREEE ALL-OPPONENT

LaVerne Freeh, Bison football co-captain, was picked by Morningside players on their all-opponent team. Freeh was chosen at his guard position on the 13-man team.

Herd Cagers Test MSTC On Dragon Hardwood At 8

By IRV LETOFSKY

Bison fans get their first glimpse at Coach Chuck Bentson's battling Bison cage aggregation this season as the Herd tests the Moorhead State Teachers college Dragons at the MSTC court at 8 tonight.

A freshman game will precede the varsity tilt at 6:30.

Bentson team last season won the opening game with the Dragons, 48-45, but lost the next two by 61-58 and 75-63. He hopes the squad will be keyed up to making amends for those set backs.

Athletic Director Roy Domek of MSTC announced that NDAC students, upon presentation of their activity cards, will be admitted for $.50.

Domek paints a gloomy prospectus for his Dragons. The lone returning veteran is Ken Johnson, a sharp-shooting forward. Carl Hedstrom is the other letterman.

Key men lost to the Dragons are Curt McCamy, the lanky all-Minnesota Teachers College conference star and former Bison and Minnesota player; Jim Gotta, an all-conference guard; Roger Bagne; and Otto Klug.

The tilt is the opening one for the Dragon cagers. The Bison lost their opener to a strong Hamline team last Saturday, 55-40. MSTC plays Jamestown college on the Dragon court tomorrow and plays host Tuesday to Wahpeton Science, the Bison opponent on Dec. 15.

The Bison mentor worked his charges hard this week to clear up some weaknesses that became apparent during the Hamline game.

Bentson plans to start the same team as started the Piper fray. Jerry Geisler and Jack Cavanagh will start at forwards, Art Bunker at center, and Jimmy O'Connor and Bob Grant at guards.

The squad plays at St. Paul again next Tuesday when it faces St. Thomas. The Tommies are rated with Hamline as the two teams to beat in the strong Minnesota College conference.

The Tommies lost their opener last week to Mankato Teachers, 59-50.

They whipped River Falls TC, 86-28, Tuesday night.

Bentson knows little of the St. Paul quint, but expects the Tommies to be on par with the Bison in height.

Main St. Thomas scoring threat is Wally Bauer, a hot shot center who pumped in 20 points again Mankato.

The next Bison encounter against Concordia's Cobbers is on the Moorhead junior high school court.

Frosh Open In 6:30 Tilt

Coach Norm Evans and his freshman cagers open their first game competition of the season tonight, facing the MSTC frosh in a 6:30 preliminary tilt to the Bison-Dragon contest.

The yearlings began their first practice of offensive formation Tuesday night under Evans and Bubby Drews.

No starting lineup has been definitely set for tonight's first game. Those expected to see a lot of action are Loren Oliver, Don Edgar, Roger Berseth, Don Muhs, Jerry Friedman, Vincent Harvey, John Fougner, Dean Juhlfs, Lyle Fugberg, and Art Carlson.

Jim (Whitey) Brewster, former Moorhead high star and Bison frosh griddy this year, is lost to the squad. He joined the mascot corps recently.

Fundamentals will be stressed more in the frosh practices this year. Evans pointed out that didn't matter how many games the freshman team won since it's more important to produce material for the varsity squad.

II Theta Chi's Get I-M Touchball Award

Eleven members of the Theta Chi intra-mural touch ball championship team have been awarded sweaters. E. E. Kaiser, director of the physical ed department and director of the I-M league, made the recommendations.

The awards were made to the players: Gordon Badger, Wade Davenport, Jim Gompf, John Bob Hlavac, John Jester, Ed Johnson, Dave Lees, Neil Melin, John Sigurdson, and Bob Wolter.

Maroons' Bid Helped By All-NCC Returnee

At Sioux City, Coach A. W. Buckingham will have three regulars, the return of a 1948-49 all-conference performer, and the addition of a transfer from the University of Manitoba.

Two all-NCC players were lost by graduation—Clayton Bristow, center and Johnny Weidenfeld, forward.

Top Maroon scorers in conference play were Bristow with 15.1 per game, Johnny Williams with 10, Bob Morris with 9.9, and Weidenfeld with 8.7. All are lost. All-conference center in 1948-49, Dick Weidenfeld, Johnny's brother, was out of action last season with a broken bone in his wrist, but the lanky 6-5 ace is back and expected to come strong again this year.

Other veteran players back are Basil Brock, Arnie Friend, and Warren Held, brother of Bobby Held, a former all-conference performer.

The big addition this season will be big Doug Greshan, a 6-3 forward from Winnipeg, Canada, who transferred from the University of Manitoba. Bison Coach Chuck Bentson watched Greshan perform last season with an independent team and predicts that he will be "one of the outstanding players in the conference."

Bentson looks for the Maroons to be "the class of the conference" this season.

The Maroons lost their opening game Saturday to a strong West-mass college team from LeMars, Iowa, 53-51.

Morningside opens its conference slate with NDU Jan. 6 in Sioux City.

State Bunnies Have 8 Veterans Returning

Prospects for R. B. (Jack) Frost at South Dakota State are bright.

Eight lettermen, led by all-conference cager and star quarterback Herb Bartling, have returned with the starting five intact.

Leading scorers last season were Dave Aaberg with 14.9 per North Central game, Don Bartlett with 12.6, Kermit Nelson with 11.9, and Bartling with 10.

Along with these veterans back are Frank McBride, Chet Buckley, Jim Combellick, and Marv Kool.

The Jackrabbits, although dropping their opening games Monday and Tuesday, showed some power against two of the favorites in the Minnesota conference. The Bunnies lost to Gustavus Adolphus, 57-49, and Mankato Teachers, 57-50.

The Bunnies open conference competition at Brookings, S. D., against the Bison Jan. 5.

Sioux Cagers Will Have Scoring Power

Returning scoring power and a crop of likely-looking sophomores frame a good basketball picture at North Dakota university.

The Sioux lost height — lanky Don Meredith and Ed Weber, who posted a 17.5 average in the conference and won all-NCC recognition.

But among those returning are Pete Simonson, who plunked in 204 points in conference play, and Fritz Engel, the all-conference guard whose long set-shots were terror throughout the league. Engel made 34 points against the Bison in last season's finale.

Also back are Buzz Elliot; Jim Bischke, the former all-state high school player from Grand Forks Central; Derby Emerson and Don Lawston.

Coach Glenn (Red) Jarrett will have his Sioux use a fast-breaking offense with the aid of sophomores.

Likely-looking newcomers are Chuck Wolfe, Bill McGinley, Dick Koppenhaver, Don Oehlers, Larry Arason and Rube Entzel. Bob Constantine was injured last season in a freshman game with the Bison and is a question mark until he fully recovers.

The Sioux open at Grand Forks against Duluth Branch of the University of Minnesota tonight, and play Hamline tomorrow. They also play MSTC, St. Thomas and Wahpeton Science in non-conference games.

The Sioux open conference activity against Iowa Teachers at Cedar Falls Dec. 16.

Diefendorf Loss Hurts SDU Court Prospects

Coach George DeKlotz can rightly moan the loss of Johnny Diefendorf, South Dakota university's sterling all-conference record-breaker. Besides that the Coyotes have been hit by graduation almost as much as the Bison, says Coach Bentson.

Diefendorf set five conference scoring records last season—most points, 271; most field goals, 103; most points in a game, 39 against Augustana; and best seasonal average, 22.6

Besides giving the Coyotes their scoring punch, Diefendorf sparkled on defense and with his passing and floor play.

Top hope for SDU is in center Harvey Hansen and forward Mel Heer.

Replacements will probably come from the sophomores, who last season as freshmen went undefeated in five games.

The Coyotes open in the NC conference with NDU on Jan. 5.

ISTC Outlook Grim With Only 2 Lettermen

After winning or holding a share in conference cage championships the past four seasons, Coach O. M. (Hon) Nordly and his Iowa Teachers college Panthers aren't too hopeful this season with only two lettermen returning, and one of those injured in football.

The Panthers lost the services of two all-North Central stars, Norm Jespersen and Walt Kochneff, and 6-6 center Jim Lude-man.

Jespersen scored 19.5 per game and Kochneff tallied 15.8.

Returning are Dick Garth and Billy York. York was injured in a football game but is expected to be ready before the Panthers enter conference play.

Garth was hospitalized recently with influenza but is expected to be ready tonight when the Panthers open their season playing host to Mankato TC.

Top candidates are 6-5 LaVerne Greenfield and Tom Wilke, who have been sharing the center spot in practices.

Reserves include Gerry Carpenter, Don Erickson, Hal Hector, Billy Peterson, and Jim Schulz.

The Iowa Peds open conference play with NDU Dec. 16.

Augustana Coach Looks For Better NCC Finish

After a grim last-place finish last season, the Augustana Vikings of Coach Ole Odney looks forward to better things.

Despite the loss of all-conference Jim Sumption at center, Odney has a large crop of lettermen and sophomore prospects.

Among those returning are 6-3 Jim Gremmels, who joined the team late last season and was a considerable aid; guard Al Paulson; speedy Ken Schmuck; and big Mel Smook.

The Augies, who open their campaign tonight against Wayne, Nebr. Teachers, play their first NC tilt against the Bison in Sioux Falls on Jan. 6.

Herd Tall, Youthful, But Lack Experience

As for the Bison, Bentson is hopeful with height and youth but wary of what inexperience can do.

With only two lettermen back and the loss of sterling Dave Torson, the Herd tutor has a big rebuilding task ahead.

The Bison lost their opening tilt to Hamline, 55-40, Saturday and face the MSTC Dragons tonight. Bentson expects the rugged pre-Christmas schedule will help the Bison's inexperience.

25 Varsity Gridders Get Awards; 31 Frosh Okayed

—VARSITY—

Twenty-five football letters and sweaters were awarded to members of the varsity team on the recommendation of Head Coach Mac Wenskunas. Six are seniors and one has used up eligibility for next season.

Ingwalson, and Patricia Kepner. Basketball will be the next activity undertaken by the WAA.

Bev Ingwalson took the lead on the Rifler team by shooting 290 from three positions. Prize for this feat was a steak dinner.

Websters description of a monkey could well apply to some campus characters, don't you think. He says a monkey acts in a grotesque, mischievous, and meddlesome manner!

Davis Paces Yearlings

The Bison freshmen football gridders scored 66 points against 13 for their opposition this season. Quarterback Marty Davis figured in more of the Bison yearling's counters than any other player. He pitched four touchdown passes —one each to Dick Wagner, Wally Conmy, Walt Puetz, and Dale Smith - and tallied another on a quarterback sneak.

Other touchdowns scored this year were equally divided between Jim Brewster and fullback Bill Buckellew, who also was responsible for five of six successful conversions. Halfback Jerry Strom was credited for the other extra point.

"Why was I born, why am I living" will be the subject at the Presbyterian church Sunday night. This is to be based on a sound film strip which is in turn based on a true story of one who had the answers.

The regular discussion on the history of the Christian Church will be held at 10:00 a.m. Sunday with this discussion lead by Mr. Rumer.

YM-YW Sponsors Kiddie Party

Forty children from the North Dakota Children's Home and the Fargo Union Mission will be entertained next Friday evening at the Annual YM-YW Kiddies' Party to be held in the college Y auditorium from 5:30 to 7:30.

As in previous years, NDAC students will be given the opportunity to purchase tickets for one dollar. This ticket entitles the student to his lunch and a gift for one of the kiddies. Tickets are being sold by members of the YM and YW Cabinet.

This party is one of the features of social service in the YM and YW program. These kiddies range in age from three to ten and it is hoped that this party will brighten their Christmas. The main features of the party will center around children's games and end by singing Christmas carols around the Christmas tree with Santa Claus passing out the gifts to the kiddies.
