Sioux Writer Looks For Lively Series

By HANK HANNIS

NDU Dakota Student Sports Editor

The only prediction from up here in the north country is that the NDU basketballers will meet the NDAC Bison tonight and Saturday in the openers of the annual four-game series, and that the series is likely to be another ripsnorting one.

Other than that, ain't nobody saying nothin', because memories of last year's debacle, when the Bison knocked the Sioux out of a slice of the conference title, are still fresh in Nodak minds.

On the basis of comparative scores, of course the Sioux would rate as favorites, but as any twoyear old child knows, comparative scores mean nothing in this rivalry. In fact, just the other day, a two-year old child was heard to observe, "Comparative scores mean nothing in the Sioux-Bison rivalry."

So, nobody here is making book on the series and never have so many limbs been filled with so few people out on them, predicting

Jarrett, with an apprehensive eye cast on the great defensive record of the Bison on their home court has been working his cagers hard all week, brewing special Sioux medicine for the Bison. The smoke signals amanating from the armory indicate a special offense contrived just for the Herd.

Big Rivalry Again Sees Heated Test Of Bison Defense And Sioux Offense

BY IRV LETOFSKY Spectrum Sports Editor

Ancient rivals will clash tonight when the NDAC Bison renew the annual basketball grudge series with the University of North Dakota Sioux as the upstate team invades the Bison's home stronghold in the first half of North Dakota's top athletic event of the year.

A royal battle is in prospect at the Fieldhouse in the first of two games of Fargo's share in the four-game blast. This end of the series concludes Saturday night, with the Grand Forks pair to be played next weekend. Tip-off for both games is set for 8.

Most Valuable Player Trophy To Be Given By NDAC Rahjah Club

The Rahjah club, NDAC pep organization, will present a trophy to the most valuable player in the NDAC-NDU basketball series, Ralph Christensen. Rahjah president, announced today.

The award will be presented to the player immediately following the final game at Grand Forks March 3.

Judges will be the sports editor and radio sportscasters of Fargo and Grand Forks.

The trophy will remain in the custody of the school represented by the athlete. The player will also receive a token award.

Dance At Festival

All all college dance will be held after the game Saturday, Feb. 24 in Festival hall. The dance is sponsored by the Womans Athletic Association and the Orchesis club. Tickets are 35c and are being sold by members of these organizations.

The freshman game, usually played preliminary to the varsity conests will be held at the Fieldhouse at 3 tomorrow afternoon.

As was the situation in last season's rivalry, the series pits Bison defense and Sioux offense. For the season the Herd has posted an offensive mark of 55 per game and a defensive average of 54.9, while the NDU warriors have racked up 68.4 scoring average against a defensive mark of 66.4 per game.

Though the team won-lost records reveal nothing pertinent in this heated series—the Bison have won 8 of 20 and the Sioux 9 of 19 the conference pre-game averages show a definite comparison that paralells last season's preseries record.

The Sioux, with a 5-5 North Central conference record, are tops in offense with 69.1 but last in defense with 67.7 scored against them. The Herd with a 3-7 NCC standing has the poorest scoring average in the loop with 53.6 and the second bes defensive mark with 57.6, topped only by NCC leader lowa Teachers college which has held conference opponents to 49.5 points per Manager-director of "Sky High, the 1933 Brevities was J. C. (Jim) Konen (Chem. '33). He was also active in promoting the 1931 and 1932 varsity shows.

Born and raised in Fargo, Konen graduated from Fargo High School in 1928 and received his B. S. degree in chemistry in 1933. In 1935 he completed his M. S. degree at NDAC in chemistry.

During his college career Konen was active in SAE, Blue Key, chemists club, and many other campus activities.

After receiving his master's deg ree he became associated with Archer-Daniels Midland Co. in Minneapolis where he now is director of research. The firm is one of the nation's chief refiners of linseed and soybean oil.

Gets Austranian Plants

Last year the botany department received a package of 250 spcimens of plants for the herbarium from Dr. Frank Hoflinger of Graz in southeastern Austria. He wished some North Dakota plants in return, having become interested through Miss Ingrid Urschler who was here as an exchange student the year before. An exchange package was sent to him last fall together with some to supplement the specimens which Miss Urschler had collected while she was here. Graz is about the same latitude as Fargo at an altitude of about 1500 feet on the Mur River, which comes from the eastern end of the Alps. This collection may not be representative of the flora but is interesting for a comparison. Some half dozen species are identical, or nearly so, with plants found in North Dakota.

A few are interesting because they are so similar to American Wm. Cavert To Speak plants but considered distinct species. Open Letter To Bill Weaver

February 23, 1951

Mr. Bill Weaver Sports Announcer, Radio Station WDAY Fargo, North Dakota

Mr. Weaver:

Your transcription of the South Dakota university-NDAC basketball game at the Fieldhouse Feb. 9 has caused no small amount of friction between yourself and NDAC students. Much misunderstanding has risen out of your false description of the heated incident in the latter minutes of the Bison's 62-61 victory.

NDAC prestige suffered quite a setback in the estmation of the large AY sports audience. Here s an example of how your verbal error in relating the one-punch fight affected some-this was written by Editor Lyle George of the Hillsboro Banner:

"Basketball fans are still talking about the exhibition that was played on the NDAC floor Friday night when the Bison met South Dakoa U, and the game ended in near-riot conditions, if the account of Sportscaster Bill Weaver was accurate . . . In Friday's game, fists flew in the closing seconds as two AC players took a slug at a visiting cager. Whether the action was in the form of a reprisal for the rough play by the visitor is beside the point. Fisticuffs on a college basketball floor are not in focus of true sportsmanship. ."

Whether or not the Bison have displayed poor sportsmanship at times has not been questioned here. The fact is that we students want not an apology but a public correction of a mistake.

NDU THROWS MORE BRICKBATS schedule. AT 'POOR' BISON SKATERS

AC Students Reserved North, East Bleachers For Series Games Here

Athletic Director C. C. (Casey) Finnegan has announced that NDAC students will be set aside the north side and east bleachers at SPLIT PAIR LAST SEASON the Fieldhouse for the two-game slated to meet Detroit Lakes and Fargo half of the NDU-NDAC basketball series.

> A freshman game between the two schools will be held at 3 Saturday afternoon at the Fieldhouse. No admission will be charged.

NDU students will be reserved the north-west seats, according to the number of University students who venture here for the games. Both varsity tilts are slated to start at 8 p.m. sharp.

* * * University students attending the Fargo contests will be admitted for $1.00 upon presentation of activity or registration cards.

Fran Lupie and Ancil Ilstrup, referees from Minneapolis, will officiate the varsity games.

Finnegan said that NDAC fans at Grand Forks next weekend will be admitted for $1.00 also upon showing activity tickets. The number of seats to be reserved for Fargo students is still undetermined

The Grand Forks games have been set tentatively for 8 p.m. The freshman game will be held on Saturday, March 3 at 3 p.m.

Moorhead radio station KVOX will carry both Fargo games starting at game time.

Dr. Richard L. Post, associate entomologist, at NDAC and Duane Strand, student major, returned recently from St. Paul, Minnesota. There they attended the 3rd annual aircraft spraying and dusting short course, at the University of Min-

At this meeting Dr. Post presented some results of air application of insecticides in North Dakota. Yields from the treated fields were 48 bushels per, and 39-40 bushels per acre from untreated field. He also stated that the treated seemed more mature than the untreated.

Dr. Post and Mr. Strand were commended for the fine work the AC is doing in aerial insect control. At the present time North a.m. and the regular meeting-social Dakota is the leading state in airplane application of insecticides.
