Oklahoma Daily Tries To Satisfy Readers

Slightly fed up with the famous journalistic adage that readers love to see their names in print, the Oklahoma Daily, University of Oklahoma, printed the following in a box at the top of the front page.

"It is the fervent wish of the Daily to make all its readers happy — therefore, in compliance with an age-old demand, the Daily is publishing today the name of every student in the university. Amen."

Nominations for homecoming queen are being made this year by the 12 Men's residence and social groups. The football team will make preliminary elimination of the candidates to a number to be determined by the Student Commission after all nominations are in. The queen will be selected from this group by an all-school election.

Committees working on homecoming are: Ken Ward, and Bob Colliton, parade, floats, and house decorations; Ed Boerth, judges, trophies, and awards; Robert Oradnik and Mary Fran Broderick, queen selection and coronation; Wallace Swenson, publicity; Robert Greuel, finance and ticket sales; and Virginia Arneson, homecoming dance.

The late La Verne Noyes left a will providing for several scholarships each year for the payment of fees, in part or in full, to deserving students needing financial aid to enable them to have college training.

In selecting these students no regard is made to sex, race, religion, or political party, but they must be United States citizens. They must have served in the Army or Navy of the U. S. of America in the World War which began on April 6, 1917, and they shall have been honorably discharged from such service, or they shall be descended by blood from someone (father, mother, grandfather, or grandmother) who served in the Army or Navy of the U. S. in said war and who is still in this service or has been terminated by death or an honorable discharge.

For further information, such as how to apply for this scholarship, contact Dean Dinan or Dean Giesecke in the Arts and Science Office of Minard Hall.

Peterson Wins Medal

Glenn Peterson, senior in horticulture, won honorable mention, a bronze medal, and $15 in cash in a contest conducted during the summer by the American Society of Agronomy. The contest attracted 40 entries from land grant college students in 13 states.

The Student Union Board is going ahead with plans for the Student Union on the basis that building will start next spring, according to Bob Runice, chairman of the building committee. "Whether construction actually will get underway then, Runice explained, "depends on the supply of steel."

The architects, William F. Kurke and Sons, are now working on minor corrections suggested by the board. The goal for final approval of drawings is next January. The board would like to call for bids in February and start building in April.

The building will cost $500,000 and the furnishings $100,000. The board hopes to raise $300,000 before building begins and float a bond issue to cover the remaining cost. So far, about $225,000 has come in from student fees and donations from alumni and businessmen.

The Union will be built on the west end of Dacotah Field facing 13th street. It will be of brick cement and steel construction and modern in design. A modular plan, similar to the library, will be used.

The building will consist of three floors, the first being three feet below the ground surface. On this lower floor bowling alleys, a barber shop, a book store, and a lunch room will be located.

Several lounges, a game room, committee rooms, and offices for the Student Union manager will be on the first floor. On the second floor there will be offices for the Spectrum, Bison, Student Commission, Alumni Bureau and placement bureau. A large room with a stage and a projection booth will double as an auditorium and a ballroom. A serving kitchen will adjoin the ballroom so that it may be used for banquets.

The Student Union Board consists of student, faculty, and alumni representatives. Student members are Wally Swenson, Ad-Engr. Sr.; Roger Mohagen, Arch-Engr. Jr.; and Elaine Litchsinn, Pharm. Senior. These members will appoint a sophomore representative this fall since no sophomore applied for the position.

Glenn Hill, Knute Henning, Glen Smith and Cliff Miller are faculty representatives. Alumni representatives are Dr. Frank Darrow, Merle Nott, and Bob Runice, and Ben Mienecke. Fred S. Hultz is an ex-officio member and F. F. Skinner is treasurer.

Giesecke Consultant To North Dakota Library Association

Dean Giesecke was in Bismarck as general consultant to the Annual 45th North Dakota Library Association last week. While there, Dean Giesecke said that Ida Prokop Lee, from near Valley City, gave a metal bust of a North Dakota Indian, Crows Heart, to the people of North Dakota. Ida Prokop Lee launched this project less than ten years ago with the intention of making a bust of a man and woman from each major N. D. Indian tribe, totaling about 15 busts.

Native clay is used for the original modeling, and the reproduction is in various permanent media of bronze, zinc, plaster, stone, or fired clay. Upon completion the group will be presented to the State. Ida Prokop Lee is doing this project with no profit in mind but simply as a gift to the State.

Students who plan to complete work on their bachelor's or master's degree by June 30, 1952, may apply for these examinations. If they qualify, they may be offered appointments before graduation and go on full-time duty immediately after becoming available.

Dates For Graduate Record Examinations Set By Education Testing Service

The Graduate Record Examinations, required of applicants to a number of graduate schools, will be administered at examination centers through the country four times in the coming year, Educational Testing Service has announced. During 1950-51 nearly 10,000 students took the GRE in partial fulfillment of admission requirements of graduate schools which prescribed it.

This fall candidates may take the GRE on Friday and Saturday, October 26 and 27; in 1952, the dates are February 1 and 2, May 2 and 3, August 1 and 2. Since the GRE is not required by all graduate schools, ETS advises each student to inquire of his prospective school whether or not he is expected to take the test and, if so, on which dates.

The GRE tests offered in these nationwide programs include a test of general scholastic ability tests of general achievement in six broad fields of undergraduate study, and advanced level tests of achievement in various subject matter fields. According to ETS, candidates are permitted several options among these tests.

Application forms and a Bulletin of Information, which provides details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, may be obtained from advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J., or P. O. Box 9896, Los Feliz Station, Los Angeles 27, California. A completed application must reach the ETS office at least two weeks before the date of the administration for which the candidate is applying.

'Cheer' On School Spirit

Although this is a topic which probably will be covered thoroughly by the sports editor, we feel a few words, mostly complementary, are in order by someone not intimately concerned with sports activities on the campus.

First to be congratulated are the members of the team, who despite a rather weak showing in the first quarter rallied themselves to win their first conference game since 1948. The team is also to be complimented on their fine sportsmanship. Exemplary was a play in the third quarter in which ISTC attempted a pass. There was a fumble on the play and it looked like a Bison interception. When Bridgeford ruled that the pass was completed, the fans loudly booed the decision. However, our team accepted the decision in a fine manner and came back with more fighting spirit than ever. This is the kind of fair play that deserves compliments.

A tribute is also due the band, which seemed to constitute the spark plug that kept the fans in the south stands cheering and enjoying the game. Other notable contributions to a real school spirit came from several faculty members who attended the game and boys from fraternity houses who were there en masse accompanying the band with school songs.

Now we would like to make some suggestion for improvement. The Rahjahs were organized in 1947 with the intention of striving to promote and stimulate school spirit. This group organizes pep rallies and has a few cheer leaders. Unfortunately, however, the group seems to be hampered by a general student apathy towards participating and developing a real school spirit. This is to be expected in the first few weeks of the year, but we believe something can be done to improve the situation. The Rahjahs have the facilities to promote such improvement.

Although the Rahjahs have representatives from many organizations on campus in their group, they should have more support from the general student body. One way they can get this support is by sponsoring a general student election in which those students who do not belong to any of the social groups on campus will have the opportunity of selecting 20-30 energetic people to supplement and strengthen the pep club.

If the club had more members, it would then be in a good position to solicit the majority of the student body and get them to turn out for the athletic activities. Also, it would then be able to set forth its purposes and duties more explicitly in a way that would attract more members and keep the members that is does have.

Several former members report that they quit the club because it had no definite policy or organization set up to handle the problem of drawing new students into active pep rallies and to see to it that students are interested enough in their school to turn out for the games.

School spirit has to start somewhere. The pep club could do much more than it has in the past. It could write to pep clubs at other schools and find out how their organizations are set up and how they finance themselves. The U of Minnesota, the U of Iowa, and the U of Wisconsin all have strong pep squads.

The best argument for a strong pep squad seems to us to be that once school spirit is established among the student body, assuming the form of increased attendance at games as an organized cheering body, it will then spread to other organizations and activities on campus. Unless this school spirit does develop and spread to other activities on campus, student apathy will continue to exist, and our sojourn here may turn into an exceedingly colorless experience.

'Fashion Detective'

Spys Basic Dresses

By JOAN MCKENZIE

"Why it's elementary, Watson." A fashion column is hardly the place to quote the eminent Mr. Holmes, but in this instance, it's justifiable. For his comment adequately describes the basic dress about which we've been hearing so much.

The basic dress is indeed elementary and around it can be built several classical ensembles. Start with a simple line, a material that can "take" it, and pick a color you love. Add an accent in jewelry and your basic walks off unaided.

Don a jacket, change the belt or accessories, and you'll scarcely recognize it. We've assembled an imaginary (but, oh, so desirable) "convertible" outfit to further illustrate our point.

Brown is back this season but it is no relation to the color that went by that name last season, for it's calculated to flatter even the girl who can't wear brown.

It has been powdered with white or blended with yellow or deepened until it is right for you. What better choice then, than brown, in a dress weight? Choose a new lower neckline and a pencil slim skirt. Keep it simple so it can be set off with a glittering belt or jewel for separate wear.

For the very special occasion tie an apron around your waist. Choose it in a frothy green net and pocket a velvet flower for a dreamy effect. Or consider the newer paneled look. The apron's conversion has been great and they now not only enhance the dress, but double as a cape.

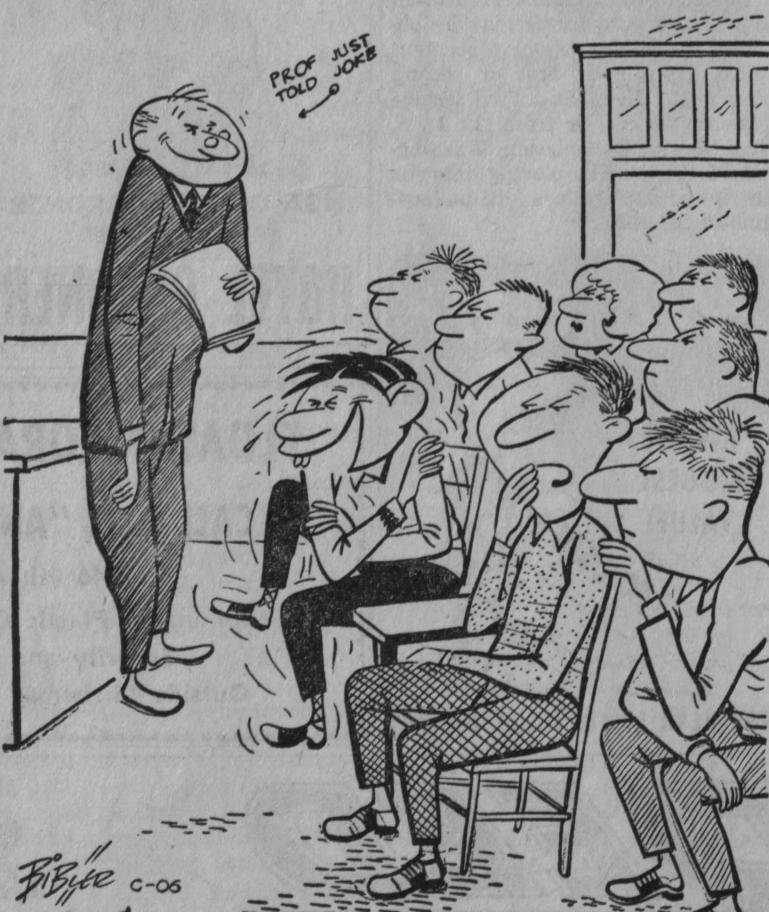

For greater versatility they are also reversible. Duplicate the dress material and back it with velvet for a texture contrast.

Yellow (and its sisters and its aunts and its cousins) has once again found its place in the sun. So, for our jacket we've chosen a worsted chord in mustard with brown details. Dress it up or dress it down, the basic can go casually or take its place at the most dressy affair. The possibilities are unlimited.

Harmonize your color selection, and one accessory change in a hat, bag and shoes will suffice. For the fashion-conscious girl assembling a college wardrobe, what is more desirable than a basic?

Little Man On Campus

as i came into the spacious entry of the library the other day i was met by a huge black shaggy dog. immediately i ran to hide. he was ferocious and cruel looking, but speed won over. a place in the grating covering the radiator was my escape route. soon i heard a man call, penny, and the dog left me to continue my travels through this pip of a building.

my cousins, chip n chop, had just moved into their new quarters a year ago and this is my first visit to them. i was talking with them this past summer and they told me all about the wonderful books, papers, films, magazines, pictures, rooms, and also of the place they live in. it is in one of the choicest basement mattresses which was evidently discarded or stored for future use.

there were lots and lots of mattresses. they told me i could have one for my very own use, but i only laughed, cuz how could i carry one of them all the way over to the engineers building, least of all carry it up the stairs of the library . . . they laughed too, and said i could take the elevator.

excuse me for rambling. i started to tell you of my visit to my cousins. after my experience with the dog, i cautiously mouse-footed it all the way over to the right door marked exit and waited for someone to open it. when they did i raced through so fast i flew right off the top step and came crashing down with a thud. the rest of the way down i took it a little easier.

dear mike mouse:

please do not think me a forward young mouse, but i do belong to the modern group of mice who believe it fitting and proper for the female of the species to make some advances to the male species. i heard about an article in a recent spectrum that indicated the human males on this campus liked to have their opposites make advances to them. i'm sure that living over in the engineering building with all those enterprising young men that you are a modern young mouse of the campus.

i have recently made my home here at the house management house. i find it comfortable and attractive here, but a bit hectic from my vantage point. the food is excellent. one of my favorites here is crisp african violet salad with wheaten on the side. i enjoy raisins, popcorn, butter, cheese, bacon, macaroni, and i am looking forward to an opportunity to enjoy cookies soon. there are some interesting nut-like seeds available, but i fear they are too fattening.

my life here is most exciting. the girls who live here are delightful. there is one who seems older than makes so many of the delicacies available to me. i do wish she would serve them a little more simply, i have to get them out of a sort of metal clamp device. of course i am able to forage for the violet leaves on my own.

i have the run of the house. i have found it advisable to avoid being seen. there is such a commotion if i scoot across the living room.

won't you drop in for a mouse finger and coffee soon? i feel so lonesome when the humans in the house seem to be doing so much coming and going and i just sit and watch from behind a ruffled curtain all by myself. i should warn you about the dog here. he barks a great deal but i have found him entirely harmless. his name is professor.

afternoons seem to be a more convenient time to have callers. the girls who live here seem to be having quite a time with time schedules and i wouldn't want our little rendezvous interrupted by the howl of a vacuum cleaner or the drone of their voices from a class or house meeting. i'm sure you would find the house interesting, inasmuch as it has all been redecorated this summer.. it seems our good president and that nice man over in maintenance made all the improvements possible.

expectantly,
mimi mouse

Many Books Added To AC Library

The NDAC library is adding to its book collection at the rate of 500 a year. Here are some of the books purchased this summer.

Football fans will find Modern Single Wing Football informing. Its author, Princeton's Charles W. Caldwell, was voted coach of the year for 1950. The technique of modern football offense is stated with detailed analysis. Diagrams and photographs add specific illustrations to the text.

Thomas Mann's Holy Sinner deals with the son of the mating of a twin brother and sister. The life of the child who eventually becomes Pope Gregory is told with great understanding of the rude passions and quaint decorums of the period. Holy Sinner is adapted from a famous verse legend dating from the times of feudalism, courtly love and missesingers.

10 Eventful Years, 1937-1946, is a four volume work of 800 men and women from 45 countries of the world. The active war, scientific achievements, expenditures, lives of starving and homeless and the peace that was no peace shows the significance and character of the decade.

Again for the sportsmen is the Fisherman's Encyclopedia, 1376 pages of information to gladden the heart of any Isaac Walton.

"Long condemned as a writer of 'indecent' books D. H. Lawrence is now recognized as one of the most vital authors of the century." This comment was taken from the foreword of the Life and Works of D. H. Lawrence. Lawrence is author to Love Among the Haystacks and Sons and Lovers, among other works.

In the line of rare books the library has bought Travels in the Interior of North America by Maximilian. An atlas of reproduced paintings accompanies the text. Charles Bodmer's original paintings have been lost but the atlas is valued at $35.

'Common Courtesy Expected At All Times,' Says Columnist Betty Barber

Speaking as the collective female voice of Texas College of Arts and Industries, columnist Betty Barber for the South Texan gives the men some advice!

"Girls don't expect you to read Emily Post, but they hate to stand in front of a door waiting for a fellow to open it, when he comes along and asks, 'What's matter, you weak or somethin'?"

"There are common courtesies that girls appreciate, such as opening of car doors, help in being seated, rising when she enters the room and letting her go ahead of you."

Other hints: When you are telling your life story, don't be conceited about it. Be subtle about implying you are a superman. Don't brag about previous conquests. The girls say they "aren't particularly interested."

"Then," continues Miss Barber, "there is the coupe casanova. He takes a girl out for a Coke, then parks someplace and tries to squeeze it out of her. When a girl says no when asked for a goodnight kiss, the fellow should accept her answer."

In reply to all this, one male student came through with this magnificent non sequiter; "I don't like girls who squeeze a tooth-paste tube in the middle."

Big talk on the campus this week has been the Bison victory over the Panthers. It should be the big thing too, considering the records of the past few years.

No use trying to kid ourselves, Bison teams of the past have been a rather sorry lot. But this team that played last Friday was something to be proud of. It's been a long time since NDAC has made such a creditable showing.

Iowa Teachers, on the other hand, do have a good team. I believe that the herd could have beat any team in the NCC last weekend. Not that the Bison played above their heads, but everything was done with precision teamwork.

Many people have asked, "Who do you think was the most outstanding ball player last Friday?" And what could I say except, the whole darned bunch. That game was probably the best example of teamwork these sorry eyes have seen in a long time.

How could Noland, Heintz, Werlein, Buckellew, Espistito, and Curtiss have picked up that yardage without the fine blocking of the linemen.

Garastick, Thurm, Sander, and Gronberg all played their end positions superbly. The tackles, in the second half especially, Lauf, Beckwith, Zorich, and Werner, were slightly better than terrific.

The guards, Nenninger, Kraninger, and Morris played extra good on offense and defense.

Last, but by no means least, were the two centers, Ray Paxton and Duane Erickson. Time and time again you heard the P. A. system boom, "That play was stopped by Paxton," or, "tackle made by Erickson."

Then too, we have to give credit where credit is deserved. I mean coaches Mac Wenskunas and Bernie Krueger. When the chips were down, and the Bison losing, these two guys had every bit of confidence in their team.

It's been a long time since Mac or Bernie could go home and get a good night's sleep. But, I'll bet my bottom dollar they had pleasant dreams last Friday night.

Last week you read a few lines (I hope) about intramural setup at South Dakota State. It looks to me as though SDS has a real idea.

What's wrong with NDAC having an intramural area? There's plenty of space out behind the field house for us to have the best IM program in the Northwest.

Even the teachers colleges have tennis courts, baseball diamonds and touch football fields. I feel that a state college, and this is the 2nd largest school in North Dakota, should at least have the already mentioned facilities.

Our students must do something for recreation. Movies, dances and beer halls are not enough. Why not get something started at NDAC that will not only be recreational, but also educational and healthful?

It was with sad eyes, that the people of Fargo read the news about Clink McGeary. The Green Bay Packers have cut the big guy from the squad.

This was Clink's second year with the pros, and big things were expected of the ex-Bison star. Last season, he literally tore the league apart and came close to being the outstanding rookie lineman in the loop.

Latest rumors, however, say that the Clinker has signed with the Toronto club in the rugged Canadian league. Here's wishing him lots of luck.

Congratulation to the spectators of last week's game. You finally sounded like a cheering section. I was sitting in the press booth, (next to Fitz yet) and I thought you were going to yell the roof off.

Only thing I was disappointed in was the size of the crowd. We all pay twelve bucks for an activity ticket so why not make use of it. If twelve bucks and school spirit aren't enough to get you out to the game call Yoder Ambulance about getting a ride out to the stadium.

I hope everybody has a lot of luck duck hunting this week end, but be careful. We'd like to see you back to school Monday.

The NDAC Bison, definite underdogs at gametime, turned in the biggest upset of the new football season by whipping the Iowa State Teachers College Panthers, 27-14. An estimated crowd of 2,000 witnessed the first conference win since 1948.

A brilliant second half netted the win, after the score was tied 14 all at the mid-way point. The Bison offense and defense began to click with machine-like precision as they completely outplayed the tutors in the final two periods.

ISTC scored the first time they got their hands on the ball, Beach, Eisenlauer, and Crew put together four first downs in 11 plays, with Eisenlauer scoring from the 7. Jim Wachenheim kicked the extra point. Score: ISTC 7, NDAC 0.

The Herd, not to be outdone, came roaring right back on a 7 yard drive. Werlein, Buckellew and Nolan doing the running, and Espisito passing to Gronberg, took the ball to the 2 where Nolan plunged over. Espisito booted the point. Score: ISTC 7, NDAC 7.

Following the next kickoff, ISTC scored again, this time Halligan lugging the mail over from the 5. Wachenheim converted to make the score 14-7, Iowa.

The Bison followed suit, and on the next line plays drove to the 7 from where Nolan again scored. Espisito did the honors and the score was tied 14 all at the half.

Up to this point, the game was all offense, and we were wondering if the Bison could keep up in the second half.

It didn't take us long to find out. Davis carried the second half kickoff off to the 30. On the next play Noland broke through the Panther line and raced to the 1 where he was tackled from behind. On the next play, Buckellew plunged over. Automatic Frank again converted and the Bison took the lead 21-14.

About mid-way through the third quarter, the Bison scored again. The Teachers punted into the end zone, which automatically brought the ball out to the 20. From here the herd drove to the 33 but a fumble lost to them on the 43. On third down, with much yardage needed, Espisito flipped one to Gronberg who sprinted across the field to pay dirt.

The fourth quarter was scoreless, as the Bison played extraordinary defensive ball. Iowa could not get rolling, running or passing. The Teachers threw many desperation passes, but the inspired line often smothered the passer.

Late in the final period, the Bison drove to the teachers 4 yard line but a penalty halted that drive.

As the final gun sounded, the spectators swarmed onto the field and all but tore down the goal posts. This was the finest showing an AC team has made in many years and it looks like the boys have found out they can play winning football.

The Panthers led in first downs 19 to 16, with 15 of them in the first half. The Bison had 288 yards rushing and 131 yards via the air. ISTC picked up 276 yards on the ground and 58 passing.

According to answers given in a poll conducted by the Associate Collegiate Press, "Take Care of My Little Girl" was vastly overrated by both Greeks and anti-Greeks in its powers of persuasion.

Typical opinion of the film was voiced by one college student who said, "Just more Hollywood hog wash." The ACP concludes that the flurry aroused over the film was the result of undue publicity from Hollywood and undue alarm from the Greeks.

33 Man Travelling Squad Set Mentally, Physically For Unlucky Maroon Eleven

The Bison, fresh from a victory last weekend over ISTC, will attempt to pick up win number two at the expense of Morningside's Maroons this evening. The game will be played in Sioux City, Iowa. Morningside, according to pre-season dope, was facing a large scale repair job. Most of last year's regulars have not returned due to graduation and service calls.

Clayton Drouillard is starting his first year as head mentor of the Maroons. During the past two years, Drouillard has coached two undefeated yearling squads. Many of these boys are now on the varsity.

Coach Bentson Calls For Cage Players

B. C. 'Chuck' Bentson, head basketball coach, would like all students with basketball ability to try out for the team next week.

The Bison will have two teams this year. There will be an 'A' and a 'B' squad, with each having its own schedule. Freshmen are eligible for varsity competition this season.

Bentson said, "Anyone interested and with the ability to play basketball is certainly welcome to try out for the team. There will be seven days of practice, beginning next week to determine the squad."

Basketball is getting an early start this year, due to the fact that the first 'A' squad game will be Nov. 24, at Lawrence Tech in Detroit, Mich.

Anyone interested see Chuck Bentson as soon as possible.

frosh team are expected to see a lot of action.

The Maroon's new coach, expects to have a lot of speed. He figures by mid season, when the newcomers have had a little experience, they will be tough.

Last season, one of the best in Morningside's history, they won six, lost two, and tied one. They beat NDAC last year 13-7. The big weakness is in the Maroons' forward wall, where all-conference Floyd Lindgren, is missing. Loren Moll, all-conference halfback has also graduated.

The Bison, inspired by last week's victory over Iowa TC, are in good shape physically and mentally. They are going to be hard to stop now that they realize they can play winning football.

Coaches Wenskunas and Krueger, pleased with last week's victory, drilled the Bison on offense and defense this week. The big job being to stop the speedy Morningside attack. Morningside uses the Michigan Spinner type offense.

Wenskunas will probably stick with his usual starting lineup, although there will be a few changes.

Chuck Gronberg, Gene Garastick, and Chuck Thurm will get the assignment at end. Tackle duties will be ably handled by Beckwith, Werner and Lauf. The guards will be Bob Nenninger and Marty Kraninger. Ray Paxton will start at center.

In the backfield, Noland and Wellein at the Halves, Bill Buckellew at fullback, and Frank Espisito at quarterback. Last week, NDU beat Morningside, 21-16. Two weeks ago the Maroons shot the works against SDS before bowing 28-26.

The Bison will be out to prove to the rest of the conference that last week's victory was not just a flash in the pan. If the team can play the type of ball they displayed last Friday, we can rest assured they'll come home with a football.

Before the first period ended, the Sioux recovered a Maroon fumble on the visitors 17 yard line. Hallada scored on the next play and Smith converted. The quarter ended 9-7, Morningside. Hallada scored the second NDU touchdown on a short plunge, with Smith again converting.

The Sioux reversed the situation, however returning the kickoff 85 yards with McBride scoring the final tally. Smith once again scored the extra point.

Law School Tests Given In November

The Law School Admission Test required of applicants for admission to a number of leading American law schools, will be given at more than 100 centers throughout the United States on the mornings of November 17, 1951, February 23, April 26, and August 9, 1952. During 1950-51 over 6700 applicants took this test, and their scores were sent to ninety law schools.

A candidate must make separate application for admission to each law school of his choice and should inquire of each school whether it wishes him to take the Law School Admission Test. Since many law schools select their freshman classes in the spring preceding their entrance, candidates for admission to next year's classes are advised to take either the November or the February test, if possible.

The Law School Admission Test, prepared and administered by Educational Testing Service features objective questions measuring verbal aptitudes and reasoning ability rather than acquired information. According to ETS it cannot be "crammed" for. Sample questions and information regarding registration for and administration of the test are given in a Bulletin of Information.

Bulletins and applications for the test should be obtained four to six weeks in advance of the desired date from Educational Testing Service, P. O. Box 592, Princeton, N. J. Completed applications must be received at least ten days before the desired testing date in order to allow ETS time to complete the necessary testing arrangements for each candidate.
