

Fire Rages In Dacotah Field Stadium

Convo To Feature Woodwind Group

NDAC students will hear the first professional woodwind group ever to visit this area when the New Art Wind Quintet plays at convocation in Festival Hall next Monday at 8:40.

Works by Ravel, Hindemith, and other 19th and 20th century composers will offer humorous and serious music for varied listening, according to F. G. Schoff of the college Convocation Committee.

The unusual combination is made up of young New Yorkers who began to meet occasionally in the fall of 1947 to play for their own enjoyment.

Now they are recognized by Artur Berger of the New York Herald Tribune as "one of the brightest and most enterprising new ensembles to come on the musical scene, accomplished and intelligent performers."

In addition to the convocation, the five performers will conduct a wind clinic for the Gold Star Band. Their tour is under the direction of the University of Minnesota Concert and Lecture Service.

Broadcast Series

Station KFGO will broadcast the first of a series of radio programs sponsored by the NDAC home economics departments, tomorrow at 10 a.m. Featured on the program is a panel discussion by Dorothy Pederson, Sonja Swanke, Mary Wanner and Donna Wohl on their summer activities.

Fire Destroys Two-Thirds North Stands Before Firemen Reach Football Field

State Fire Marshal Inspects Scene, Offers No Likely Cause For Blaze

Last Monday night fire destroyed the west two-thirds of the north stands in Dacotah field stadium before firemen arrived at 9:45 p. m., according to assistant fire chief, Saefky.

Fire fighters saved the east section and part of the adjoining section in the north stands. Forrest Skinner, NDAC business manager, announces that the stadium is covered by $65,000 insurance.

The insurance adjuster will base his figure on a contractor's estimated cost to rebuild the stands.

Vance Arneson, state fire marshal, who visited the fire scene Wednesday, did not offer any possible cause of the fire at the time the Spectrum went to press.

President Fred S. Hultz told the Spectrum that watchmen have stopped fires started by children several times in the athletic field. After catching children playing in the stadium watchmen have placed padlocks on all gates and doors.

In 1950 the stands were moved from old Dacotah field, north of Festival hall, to their present location to make room for new building. The cost to move the stands amounted to $40,000. This sum, according to Hultz, gives a rough estimate of the cost to replace the burned stand.

C. C. Finnegan, NDAC athletics director, said the entire stands were built in 1938 as a project of the Works Progress Administration at a cost of $50,000. The total cost was much larger than that assessed the college.

Concordia college, who was to hold its Homecoming football game in the stadium has now scheduled the event at the MSTC field. Fargo and Valley City high schools will still play their games in Dacotah Field.

Senate To Stage Mock Presidential Elections Tuesday

Student Senate president John Dean announces that a mock presidential election will be held on this campus Tuesday, Oct. 23, a week before the national presidential election.

Students will vote for Dwight Eisenhower-Richard Nixon on the Republican ticket or Adlai Stevenson-John Sparkman on the Democratic ticket. The purpose of the election, according to Dean, is to encourage intelligent discussion in regard to the candidates among NDAC students.

In addition, such an election will give a cross-section of student's political affiliations and promote student interest in national affairs, adds Dean. Mancur Olson, commissioner of campus affairs, will be in charge of the mock election.

A youth group for Stevenson and Sparkman met last Wednesday night in the college 'Y'. As yet no student group for Eisenhower and Nixon has been formed. Backers for Stevenson listened to Herschel Laskowitz, Fargo attorney, at their organizational meeting.

Sen. Young, McCormack Debate Farm Policies Of Presidential Candidates

by Kent Sherwood

Before an estimated crowd of 650, Sen. Milton R. Young of North Dakota and Under-secretary of Agriculture, Clarence J. McCormack met in a debate on the stage of the Fargo High School auditorium last Monday evening.

The topic of discussion was "Which Party Offers the Better Farm Program." The debate was co-sponsored by the NDAC International Relations club and the Fargo-Moorhead Open Forum.

In his opening statement, Sen. Young claimed Eisenhower had made "very clear" his views on the agriculture platform. He then went on to tell the responsive audience, that it was Ike that would provide the 90% parity for the farmers of this area.

Young said Stevenson claimed that support prices "could" be extended to oats, barley and rye while Ike stated that support prices "should" be extended to those grains.

Sen. Young pointed out that it was this difference that loomed the largest between the two parties. McCormack retaliated with a list of what he termed "the three Republican platforms." The first was based on the convention, the second on their candidates statements and the third on the GOP voting record.

His list of GOP "no" votes on important agricultural bills was very cooling. When asked to explain this record, Sen. Young retaliated with one or two explanations but left many voting stands unexplained. Boo's and cheers were prevalent throughout the debate with applause breaking into the talks in many places.

At one point in the discussion, Moderator Dean Harlow Walster, NDAC agriculture dean, stated he didn't know which to take in hand, "the speakers or the audience." McCormack also listed several points that the GOP platform had left out.

Sen. Young claimed that the reason for these vacancies was to permit the candidate to insert his own views thereby letting the people know where he stands.

McCormack urged the voters to keep a GOP congress out of Washington because of their bad voting record. He pointed out that no matter what Eisenhower's views were he couldn't do a thing unless a bill came up for him to sign, since the president cannot introduce bills.

Young stated the important element was that Eisenhower could sign important bills if they did appear on his desk.

Funeral Services For John Buerger Today

Funeral services will be held today for John R. Buerger at Young's Chapel in Chicago, Illinois. The rosary was repeated at St. Paul's chapel last Monday noon at NDAC.

A veteran of two year's army service, Buerger came to NDAC in 1951 to major in physical education. During his freshman year he lettered at guard on the football squad. The 25 year-old gridded played that position this year until a foot injury sidelined him three weeks ago.

Buerger was born in Chicago July 24, 1927. He attended Calumet high school in Chicago where he played four years of football. He is survived by his parents and a brother, William, now stationed at Camp Gordan, Georgia.

Buerger's death resulted from severe head injuries received in a two car collision at 8:30 last Saturday night. Buerger and Jack Werlen, AAS-Jr., were traveling south when their car hit a parked vehicle.

Buerger lost control of his car and it crashed into the back of another car entering a driveway. The car was thrown end over end and hurled 10 feet into the air until it struck a tree on the boulevard. The car upended and then settled upright. The accident took place within the radius of one block.

The front end of the car was completely demolished. Werlen and William Haselhuhn, driver of the second car, received minor injuries. According to Haselhuhn he was backing out of the driveway when he saw a car approaching at a high rate of speed. Before he could re-enter the driveway Buerger's car had reached him.

DOCTOR'S HOURS

Doctor's sick-call hours at the college Health service will be from 2:15 to 4:15 p. m. on Mondays and Thursdays and from 10 to 12 a. m. on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Fridays beginning Monday, Oct. 24.

Hollywood To Invade Nation's Cabinet If American Females Seat President

by Joan Evenstad

What this country needs is a girdle in the president's chair in the White House. When most people think of a woman president they think of silly reforms like white uniforms for the poor dirty coal miners, Gregory Peck for Secretary of State, and changing the White House to the Pink House or something equally preposterous.

What is really needed is a woman with intelligence, foresight, and knowledge of world (not worldly) affairs. Naturally the effects of such a radical change would be world wide as well as nation wide.

The foreign diplomats would perhaps make more of an effort to create an impression and weld the bonds of friendship with a lady president. Throughout the nation reforms and changes of a beneficial nature would be made.

John L. Lewis would have to trim his eyebrows and the excise tax on cosmetics would be removed. Certainly no one would complain of a dirty cabinet with a woman holding the dust cloth.

(A good woman candidate would have the backing of the Garter Party, a party with plenty of support.)

The effects this change would have on the AC would be of interest to those on campus. First of all the voting age would have to be lowered to seventeen so the people who were running around with pea soup on their heads could vote.

Then Madame President would have the dorm hours changed from the kindergarten level of nine o'clock to the proper college level of 1 a. m. There would be a private telephone for every girl in Dakota and Ceres with well filled little black books for all the male students.

All the people living in North Court would be issued convertibles under the GI bill so they wouldn't have to carry their free books so far. The chemistry department could be allocated special funds for the creation of a special no-stink de-odorizer for ammonia gulch.

The agricultural department could spend their time working on faster ways to breed flies instead of shoveling. Life in the U. S. A. would really be a utopia with a woman taking care of the cabinets, secretaries, and armed forces.

Even the mystery of flying saucers could be explained as flying compact mirrors. The difficulties and problems of the world would be straightened out as quickly as a stocking seam with a proper woman president.

We who realize this must work together for the good of the nation. "A woman in the White House in '52," the slogan at NDAC, the slogan of the nation. I need a nice looking, tall, campaign manager. Applicants may leave their names in the Spectrum office.

YWCA To Sponsor Local Talent Show For Fund Project

Dr. E. A. Helgeson announced today that the college YMCA will sponsor a local talent show featuring prominent local people at Festival hall, Thursday, Oct. 23 and Friday Oct. 24.

Proceeds of the show will be placed in the conference fund, established for the purpose of sending several students to the regional and national YMCA conferences next summer.

The show, called "Shooting Stars", is a takeoff on nationally popular radio and TV shows. It will feature impersonations of such famous personalities as Milton Berle, Kate Smith, Fred Waring, Jack Bailey and others.

It is being staged professionally and Miss Florence Mary Stengel, the director, has arrived in Fargo and has begun rehearsals. The show has been staged nationally and has met with excellent reception wherever it has played, according to Dr. Helgeson.

"School Paper Should Avoid Politics," Says Critic Of Eisenhower Editorial

It was with deep regret that I read your editorial that appeared in last week's Spectrum. It has always been my belief that politics should be avoided by a paper that is part of a tax-supported institution. Your article was written in an attempt to attack the Republican candidate while hiding under the cover of non-partisanship. It failed to do just that.

Why do I feel that way? Because in your headline you used the phrase "Eisenhower Talks Show Political Obscurity" instead of "Political Talks Show". You then go on to mention that you choose Eisenhower's talk because he is the only candidate to appear in this vicinity. True, but one can hardly overlook, when discussing politics, the speech made by the President of the United States who is supporting Stevenson more vigorously than is Stevenson.

Also you question the values of the pledges made by the party. If you had written that editorial in the manner you said you were going to (to show "incompleteness of political campaigning" you would not question the integrity of people but would instead, show what has been left unsaid.

Tax-payers should not be expected to involuntarily furnish money for an institution that harbors conflicting ideas to their own and lets them be published. Neither should students be expected to forward their money to a paper that publishes ideas foreign to theirs.

In an attempt to even the score for the Republican tax-payers let me say that if the Republicans can't clean house (as you question) and it is certain that anyone Truman chooses isn't going to change everything the President has built up in the last four years, then that leaves the vegetarian party and I understand their foreign policy is very weak.

Scores tied 1-1 now, let's leave it at that.

Kent Sherwood

Ed. Note—The Spectrum welcomes all letters written analytically. We believe that all opinions should be voiced. We also believe that to "tie the score" Mr. Sherwood should have criticized the Democratic administration instead of the editorial.

Columnist Becomes Smooth, Debonair; NDAC Gives Bum Social Education

by Frank

Don't know if you have met them as yet but there are at least two students on this campus who really have the "odd reasons for being here" corner sewed up. One is a chap who knew there were colleges located in the F-M area, and wishing to be collegiate he sold a few old bushels of moldy wheat and came to Fargo one fall.

He asked someone the way to the college and it must have been an alum because he sent him out here instead of to MS or Concordia. The other student sharing the honors is a girl transfer from Northwestern Missouri State. She owes her presence to having missed the train to the land of good-looking mules and stubborn women.

Rather than catch another train she came here. And I thought the Soo Line back home was erratic. This sounds like the fellow who had a hard time filling out his college placement tests; where they asked his sex he answered yes.

This college life can be a bit strange though. Now I remember when I first decided to come to college. Coming home from the wars, after I had all the pots and pans in the whole Army nice and clean and shiny, I greeted my father. "Hello, father," I greeted.

"Hello, son, when are you going to work?" my father greeted back. When I recrossed the street after being hit by the realization that civilians work for a living I made the snap decision to go to college. Yes, I would go to college and become smooth, smart and debonair rather than working for a living.

So catching a fast armload of cattle car on a freight train heading for Fargo, I came to NDAC to enroll. It was early in May—I wanted to make sure that I got a seat before the rush started.

When I went to the Registrar's office to enroll, the clerk kept insisting something about it being late to enroll for the quarter. This was a bitter blow as I wanted to become smooth, smart and debonair.

But by profuse use of sign language, threats and pointed remarks—directed to the calender, I finally conveyed my intentions of becoming smooth, smart and debonair the following fall. So after a summer of draping myself about the back room of Ockies, I was true enough a college student.

I first stayed in a rooming house with a bunch of baseball players from the F-M Twins. It was horrible. Rather like living in the dressing room of a wrestling arena. Not that the place was foul, but when I first walked around campus on a day that the wind was blowing from the north, I didn't notice a thing.

Freeing myself of various bits of discarded athletic apparel that were draped about myself and my belongings, I moved rapidly to a different residence. Settling down to this merry life of a student, I found that I enjoyed it.

Looks as though I will enjoy it for quite a while yet. My advisor advised me that I will be an old man before I will be an engineer the other day. That's how I came to college now I wish I knew how I will leave.

Double Tragedy Strikes NDAC Campus

by Sam Lowe

The cruel side of Fate showed up twice on this campus during the past week as it added a sorrowful ending to the Homecoming weekend.

The untimely death of John Buerger crushed the high spirits of the victorious State rooters, celebrating their first Homecoming victory in six years.

Buerger was two different people when he went on and off the football field. His closest friends say that he was hard to get to know, but when they did get acquainted, he was a great guy.

John is best remembered for his defensive play on the gridiron. He broke into the starting lineup last year, when he enrolled as a freshman, after his wicked play in the Augustana game.

What explanation there is for this tragedy has been given by somebody who knows more about it than this reporter. I can add nothing more.

To make matters worse, a fire blazed in the stadium. Although the wooden structure can be replaced, the fire didn't make the student body or the athletic department any happier.

Plans for a new stadium are already underway if the state legislature will allow the school enough money. The cost of a new fireproof stand will be around $400,000.

It is the opinion of many officials that building another wooden stadium would be a waste of time and money. The fire last Monday should be sufficient proof of this well known fact. Bricks and concrete won't burn.

A new headline stealer has arisen on the Bison Football squad. John Sowa, who looked like a seasoned veteran in last Saturday's game, has apparently cinched himself a spot in the starting lineup for the rest of the season.

Sowa is one of the best driving backs this campus has seen in a long time. The Chicago frosh is good for two or three yards after he is hit. Putting his head down and bowling over the defenders is his successful technique.

Keep your eye on Roger (Foxy) Wolf who would probably be first string material if Bennie Noland wasn't playing. The Fox picked up 16 yards in three tries in the late stages of the Bunnie Stew.

Although the offensive team scored six of the seven touchdowns in the Homecoming game, the defense gets credit for the high score. Only in the last quarter did they allow the Jacks to penetrate Bison territory.

When one of the Jack's backs happened to break through the line, the unfortunate fellow came face to face with Ray Paxton, Duane Erickson, and John Sowa.

From the South Dakota university comes this news. The president of the 'U' has challenged the student president of the South Dakota state campus to wager his pants on the outcome of their annual football game.

The loser has to shed his trousers after the game and walk home in his unmentionables. The game will be played October 25. Watch this column for the thrilling result of this bet.

Bison Close Home Season With 48-14 Homecoming Victory Over S. D. Bunnies

The NDSC Bison turned tiger last Saturday as they swamped the hapless Bunnies of South Dakota State 48-14.

Displaying a vicious ground attack and a well planned aerial game, the Herd ran up a 34-0 half-time lead and added a touchdown in each of the remaining periods.

The South Dakota backfield, rated as one of the best in the loop, never got a chance to display their power until the last quarter when they tallied twice.

The Bison turned an old enemy into an aid as they gobbled up 8 Bunnie fumbles, turning four of them into TDs. The Herd hung on to the spheroid better than they had all season.

State took the opening kickoff and went 67 yards to their first tally with Dale Wallentine scoring from the two. Bob Lauf recovered the first Jack fumble on their own 39 and freshman bullback John Sowa led the way to the end zone, bucking over from the three.

Bob Nenninger pounced on the next SDS bobble on the 33 and two plays later Bennie Noland scored from twenty yards out. Frank Esposito kicked the conversion to make it 21-0.

The Jackrabbits took the kickoff and fumbled for the third time on the first carry from the line of scrimmage with defensive end Gene Garastik recovering. The Bison drive bogged down on the four.

Chuck Thurm and Esposito teamed up for the next State score when Thurm took a pass from the flashy quarterback on the 16 and scampered into the end zone to make it 27-0 as Esposito missed his first extra point attempt.

Bill Beckwith was responsible for the next Bison touchdown as he fell on a S.D. State fumble in the end zone. The ball had been kicked all the way from the 15 yard line in the mad scramble to recover the fumble. Esposito kicked the point to make it 34-0.

During the entire first half the visitors were never in Bison territory as the charging State line held them to a mere 17 yards on the ground and 14 in the air. The Jack-rabbit offensive team only ran eight plays in the first two periods.

Thurm scored the first State TD in the second half as he took an eight yard pass from Esposito, who again booted the extra point.

SDS scored for the first time early in the fourth period as Gene Juve went around left end from the three. Durlan's kick made it 41-7.

Sowa set up the next Bison tally as he broke away for runs of 23, 17, and 19 yards to set the ball on the goal line. Esposito climbed over for the final tally.

Campus Radio Station Nears Reality; Broadcasts To Reach Campus Area Only

"This is station NDAC." That's the announcement soon to come from campus radios, according to Joe McNellis, originator of the campus radio station idea. After a year of discussion and planning, the site has been selected for a gas pipe station. The proposed station will be located in the radio laboratory of the college speech department in the administration building. Broadcasts from the station will be heard only on campus because the signals will go out over the campus light system. Stations of this type have been called gas pipe stations because originally they sent their signals over gas pipe heating systems.

Broadcast time of the station will be limited to two or three hours a day at the beginning of operation. McNellis says that different departments will present programs to meet every type of interest.

Cost of station equipment is undetermined at the present time. If equipment is purchased the cost will be high; however as much equipment as possible will be made on campus, to lower the cost.

Joe McNellis, with helpers David J. Parker and Marlow Jensen, emphasize that when the station goes on the air it will be independent of any department. However, the station will be open to all campus departments. McNellis concludes, "NDU and Jamestown colleges both have campus stations. It's about time NDAC has one too."

Hultz To Help Plan Agricultural Center Of Communications

Dr. Fred S. Hultz has been chosen to represent the Executive Committee of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges and Universities at a meeting to formulate plans for an agricultural communications center.

Dr. Hultz will meet with representatives of the American Association of Agricultural College Editors in Cincinnati, Ohio, to discuss the project which is designed "to help information workers of the land-grant institutions . . . use communications techniques more effectively and efficiently in extending the services and facilities of their institutions . . ." On the agenda will be discussion of a permanent location for the center.

Recommendations resulting from the meeting will be acted upon by the Executive Committee of the Association of Land-Grant Colleges in November.

Bosch To Participate In Magazine Forum

Dr. Wouter Bosch, chairman of the NDAC paint department, and Newell P. Beckwith, NDAC paint graduate of 1936, who is director of research of the Rinsed-Mason company, Detroit, Michigan, have been invited by the Paint Industry magazine to participate in a new Forum feature.

This Forum will begin with the November issue, especially prepared for the Conventions of the National Paint, Varnish, and Lacquer Association and the Federation of Paint and Varnish Production Clubs.

The opening question will be "What is the best means of interesting college students to make their career in the paint industry?"

Among other contributions are Austin H. Gibson, president of the Valspar Corporation, New York; Milton A. Glaser, chairman of the Educational Committee; R. O. Clark, president of the Jewel Paint and Varnish Company, Chicago and Paul O. Blackmore, president of the International Corporation, Newark, N. J.
