Seven Commissioners Named By Anderson

By Lee Johnson

Seven new student senators to run the affairs of NDAC in cooperation with president Duane Anderson were announced at the annual student government banquet held Wednesday evening at the Top of the Mart of the F-M Hotel in Moorhead.

They are Ken Moxness, Commissioner of Campus Affairs; Renee Baker, Commissioner of Publications; Gary Hart, Commissioner of Radio; Dorothy Lund, Commissioner of Finance; Mike Fogel, Commissioner of Athletics; Don Ellingsberg, Commissioner of Public Programs; and Vic Zeigler, Commissioner of the Student Union.

The new commissioners will head the various boards that make up the executive branch of the student government, and will operate in conjunction with other student senators, faculty members, and student officials of the various organizations covered by the various boards.

At the banquet, a final farewell was said to the departing members of the student senate; and in addition, the advisors to the student senate, Dean Stallings and Dale Brostrom were honored with gifts.

Following the banquet and installation of new commissioners, a business meeting was held. Work on selecting a campus queen was looked over and the matter was handed over to the board of campus affairs for handling and discussion.

In addition, plans were made for taking part in a meeting set for May 21; in which, an attempt will be made to set up some kind of coordinating group between the student governments of all North Dakota colleges for mutual benefit.

Wednesday morning, the first inaugural convocation for the installation of the new student government in the history of NDSC, was held at Festival Hall.

Students Get Reserved Seat Tickets For Show

Students on presentation of their activity tickets will be able to obtain reserved seat tickets for the Royal Winnipeg Ballet which is scheduled for Thursday, April 8, at 8:15 p.m. in the NDAC Field house.

The speech department advises all students to call early at the Little Country Theatre for their free reserved seat tickets.

Symphony Concert, Modern Dance Duo On Convo Schedule

A modern dance duo and the Fargo-Moorhead Symphony Orchestra will be features of spring term convocations according to F. G. Schoff of the college Convocation Committee. The annual Senior Class-Honors Day program completes a schedule which opened with an experimental Student Commission Inaugural convo on the first full day of classes Wednesday.

"Mark Ryder," said Schoff, "is a GI of World War II who won five battle stars during two years overseas. He'd been dancing before that; and he went straight back to work when he was discharged, and became a soloist with Martha Graham's. He's noted for his strength and masculinity in dance, and it's easy to see why."

Emily Frankel, a redhead who is both attractive and full of dramatic energy, partners Ryder in dancing, and also off-stage, where she is actually Mrs. Ryder.

Both members of the team have received high praise from top eastern dance critics. They will appear at convo in lecture-recital Wednesday, April 14.

The local symphony, one of the most popular of convo attractions, will play April 28, probably with a two-piano team as soloists. The Senior Class-Honors Day program will be May 20.

Candidates and their sponsors for the title of St. Patrick are Kenneth Moxness AIEE-IRE, James Tobert, ASME, Lawrence Kummeth, IAS, William Brown, ASCE, Merrill Johnson, ASAE, and Robert Kubas, AIA. Election of St. Patrick will be determined by votes cast at the ball. Votes will be cast by writing the candidate's name on the back of the ticket and presenting it at the door.

Tickets will be available at $2.00 per couple from several engineering students, the book store, and at the door the night of the ball.

Quanbeck Represents NDAC At Chicago Meet

There will also be a section devoted to the discussion of the economic aspects of nuclear energy.

A number of manufacturing concerns together with engineering consultants and public utilities have formed the Industry Committee to sponsor student attendance from nine colleges in the Midwest.

Are College Students Afraid To Think, Act?

Our colleges are being invaded by an atmosphere of fear and suppression created by irresponsible investigators, hysterical community leaders and other self-appointed "thought police" who have succeeded in intimidating both our students and faculties.

This is the startling and frightening conclusion of a survey made by reporter Andre Fontaine of our colleges and universities which serves as the basis for the article FEAR ON THE CAMPUS, appearing in the April issue of Redbook Magazine.

After many personal interviews with students, Mr. Fontaine found that they are becoming afraid to ask questions on controversial subjects; afraid to join or support unpopular causes even when they believe them to be right; afraid to criticize our political and economic ways or try to improve them. These are a few:

'On The Air!'

It's the "social spy" busy at work over Campus radio! Grace Lehman is heard with a preview of the week's gossip every Thursday evening over KDSC at 7:50. Remember for the latests in news and music, listen to Campus radio—750 on your dial.

Parker Granted NSF Scholarship to U of W

David J. Parker, North Dakota Agricultural College, is among 36 students from the NDAC and six other colleges and universities who have been granted fellowships by the National Science Foundation to work for their higher degrees at the University of Wisconsin.

Dean Conrad A. Elvehjem of Wisconsin's Graduate School, in making the announcement, pointed out that the fellowships were among 658 granted to students throughout the nation for study during the 1954-55 academic year.

Parker's field of study is chemistry.

Air Force Second Lieutenants

Six NDAC students who have completed their college work and were sworn in as second lieutenants in the Air Force at the end of the winter term are shown. Left to right; Bruce Blegan, Matthew Coffey, Carroll Drablos, John Hovland, Hallard Miller, Mancur L. Olson, and Lt. Col. Brill, Professor of Air Science and Tactics.

These Air Force officers will be assigned to the 10th Air Force at Selfridge, Michigan, and are expected to receive orders for their respective assignments in the very near future according to Colonel Brill.

Jack Cookson, a law student at Ohio State University: "It seems to me that you go to college to think. If people are afraid to think until they get the word from some Government committee that it's okay—and many are today—you might as well close up the colleges".

Ed Eigel, editor of the student newspaper at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology: "Students today don't feel that they're free to sample every idea, as they used to be."

Howard Williams, past president of the University of Michigan's student legislature: "Today a student goes out of college with a textbook adherence to the U.S. system, instead of having considered other systems and found ours best. In a healthy democracy, everybody ought to be politically active. But I think today's students will avoid any political activity when they get out. Why shouldn't they? They're taught to withdraw from it in college."

Barbara Jettinghoff, editor of THE LANTERN at Ohio State University: "Communism is a touch-me-not subject for both professors and students. As a result, students don't know enough about it—and it's very important for our generation to know all about communism so that we can combat it intelligently".

Students are frightened to speak their minds because they know that upon graduation some of their predecessors have been denied jobs and commissions in the armed service because they joined or contributed to some organization or attended some meeting. On campus right now, they are being "tried" without their knowledge and without an opportunity of explaining their records.

At the University of Michigan an investigator of the State Police takes down the names of those attending meetings of "liberal" or "leftist" groups, even the license numbers of cars parked in the vicinity of the meeting place. At Contra Costa Junior College in California, the Great Books Course discussions are put on tape as record of the students' reactions and opinions of Karl Marx's "Communist Manifesto". Such action on campus will undoubtedly inhibit a student's self-expression and thinking and is an offense against their freedom.

Ernest Rubenstein, a Princeton graduate and later editor of the Yale Law School JOURNAL states: "It's a sort of pervasive fear that you have—that you have to watch your step. It's hard to list the direct effects."

These appalling conditions, reporter Fontaine finds, are unnecessary in most cases as a poll of the students revealed that they are politically conservative and unlikely to accept Communism on any terms. They have also proved themselves capable of handling free and open discussions of the subject of communism. At Robert Neary, a member of the student legislature at Michigan, said: "I can beat the radicals—in the sunlight."

'54 European Industrial Tour Sponsored By Agency For Students This Summer

The proposition that "Know-how is a two-way business" will be demonstrated this summer through a series of workshops and on-the-spot discussions with leaders in European industry, labor and government for a group of American executives and students of business administration and management on an Industrial Tour sponsored by Travel & Study, Inc.

AC Plans School Lunch Workshop

A school lunch workshop is being planned for June 28 to July 2 on the NDAC campus. The laboratory work will be done at the new Ben Franklin junior high school. The course is planned for cooks and school lunch managers in North Dakota. Those attending the workshop will be housed in the dormitory.

Mrs. Ella Olson, acting dean of home economics, and Miss Mildred Schmidt, associate professor of home economics, are in charge. Others participating will be: Miss Ethel Heising, school lunch director, Bismarck, North Dakota; Miss Jeanette Hampton, home economist from the United States Department of Agriculture; and Miss Ruth Dawson, extension nutritionist of the North Dakota extension service.

Those who are enrolled in the course will learn new techniques for streamlining their work, sanitation, menu planning, food preparation as well as how to get the children to eat the foods prepared. This is the first time a school lunch work shop of a full week's duration has been offered at NDAC in the summer.

In recent years leading educators in Schools of Business Administration have been concerned that executives, and in particular members of middle management, should be drawn together for periodic discussions of common problems and have developed a series of Management Clinics based on some of the major universities in the country and catering to the needs of local firms and industries.

The 1954 Industrial Tour will leave New York on June 21 and will visit England, Scotland, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Holland, Switzerland, Italy and France. There will be visits to factories and plants of all kinds according to the main specializations in the various countries — engineering, vehicles, aircraft, shipbuilding, light and heavy electrical, food processing, transport and service industries, textiles, etc.

The main emphasis, however, will be on discussion with management, at shop floor as well as front office level, with labor leaders, with government representatives, bankers, merchants, members of the major political parties and with officials of United Nations.

Detailed information on this and other programs may be obtained from Travel & Study, Inc., 110 East 57th Street, New York 22, N. Y.

Old Bookstore Being Remodeled Into Offices

The old bookstore is now being remodeled into offices and a machine room.

Erling Thorson, superintendent for Buildings and Grounds, said that the old bookstore is being remodeled into four offices. The room where the engineering supplies formerly were kept will be made into a machine room.

Two of the offices will be occupied by personnel from the office of the Public Relations. No final disposition of the two remaining offices are made, but the machine room will be used for different office machinery.

The work, which has been progressing satisfactorily is to be completed before the end of this month.

What's On Our Mind Cheating In College

Campus life consists of a complicated procession of problem situations; situations in which a choice must be made. We are continually weighing the various possibilities for their relative values; deciding to be for or against, to be on this side or that, to do one thing or another.

Naturally, if we must make a choice, we want to make the right choice. In order to do this, we survey with an objective eye, the probable result of each alternative. We must consider the effect that our choice will have not only on our own mental, moral, and physical well-being, but on the condition of our associates.

Now, if you agree that our problem situations must be handled objectively and with consideration for others, let us go one step further and apply this objective thinking to a specific problem: that of cheating. Fortunately, many students have been able to meet and overcome this temptation, brought on largely by social pressure. With those who haven't overcome it, however, exam time is often hailed as the moment to take up arms and do battle, with the student and professor jockeying to gain the upper hand. That there is any cause for battle is ironical. The instructor, not the student must be in charge.

An exam might be roughly compared to a controlled experiment. By responding to the questions, as best they can, with relation to what has been taught in the course, the students measure not only their individual comprehension but the relative teaching level of the instructor. This measurement is made inaccurate by cheating.

From a personal standpoint, too, cheating has nothing of value to recommend it. The time spent in contriving new and ingenious methods of getting by the instructor's watchful eye, might well be used for study.

Our own personal victory over the cheating problem will bring us one step closer to maturity of mind and soul. Concern over the cheating situation on this campus is growing. It is up to each student to remove the cause for this concern.

How To Succeed . . .

Ten Positive Ways To Stay In School; Or, How To Win A Popularity Contest

- (ACP) — Following are 10 suggestions from Robert Tyson, of the Hunter College (New York) department of psychology and philosophy, on how to stay in college:
1. Bring the professor newspaper clippings dealing with his subject. Demonstrates feeling interest and gives him timely items to mention in class. If you can't find clippings dealing with his subject, bring in any clippings at random. He thinks everything deals with his subject.
 2. Look alert. Take notes eagerly. If you look at your watch, don't stare at it unbelieving and shake it.
 3. Nod frequently and murmur, "How true!" To you this seems exaggerated; to him, it's quite objective.
 4. Sit in front, near him. (Applies only if you intend to stay awake.) If you're going to all the trouble of making a good impression, you might as well let him know who you are, especially in a large class.
 5. Laugh at his jokes. You can tell. If he looks up from his notes and smiles expectantly, he has
 6. Ask for outside reading. You don't have to read it. Just ask.
 7. If you must sleep, arrange to be called at the end of the hour. It creates an unfavorable impression if the rest of the class has left and you sit there alone, dozing.
 8. Be sure the book you read during the lecture looks like a book from the course. If you do math in psychology class and psychology in math class, match books for size and color.
 9. Ask any questions that you think he can answer. Conversely, avoid announcing that you have found the answer to a question he couldn't answer, and in your brother's second grade reader at that.
 10. Call attention to his writing. Produces an exquisitely pleasant experience connected with you. If you know he's written a book or an article, ask in class if he wrote it.
- As to whether or not you want to do some work in addition to all this, well it's controversial and up to the individual.

Russian 3-D Movies "Pain In The Neck" To Americans

By Dean Schoelkopf
Editor, Minnesota Daily

(EDITOR'S NOTE: This is one of a group of six articles by Dean Schoelkopf, editor of the University of Minnesota Daily and one of seven American college editors recently returned from a three-week tour of the Soviet Union.)

(ACP) — They have three dimensional movies in Russia, too.

In fact, they were invented there — or so we were told. But we saw one 3D film in technicolor that literally was a pain in the neck.

In order to get the dimensional effect in Soviet 3D movies, you must focus your eyes on one particular spot on the screen. If you move your head, you lose the effect. No special glasses are needed.

We focused and refocused on a film called "May Night," and it left us with nothing but sore eyes and a greater appreciation for Cinerama.

By American standards, most of the Russian films we saw — 3D and regular screen — would rate as class B movies. We did see two outstanding documentary films — one about an oil development out in the Caspian sea and another about the growth of the province of Georgia.

Some American films are shown in Soviet theaters. When we asked what titles had been shown recently, the answer frequently was "Tarzan." Not much better than the movies was the opera we saw at Odessa. To American opponents of opera sung in English, this would be a real nightmare. It was the Italian opera "Tosea," performed by Russians who sang in the Ukrainian language.

Much better than the opera was a concert by the state symphony orchestra — Russia's finest — at the Moscow conservatory. One of the most outstanding Soviet conductors — Eugene Mravinsky — was on the podium.

The orchestra played Shostakovich's Tenth symphony, which had been premiered a few weeks before in Leningrad. After the performance, Mravinsky motioned to a bespectacled man sitting about half way back in the hall, and Dimitri Shostakovich walked quickly to the stage.

After the performance, we had a chance to talk to Shostakovich briefly. He is a slight man, and he seemed nervous and shy, although extremely polite.

We asked his opinion of some American composers, and he said of Aaron Copland: "Very interesting. I particularly like his Third symphony." George Gershwin is "a very strong composer," he said. "I like his Symphony in Blue."

Of Gian-Carlo Menotti he said: "I have heard his work once on the radio, but he seems interesting." Benjamin Britten is "very talented," he said. "His opera about miners — Peter Grimes — is very interesting."

Shostakovich, now 47 years old, is a professor of music at Leningrad conservatory. He was rebuked in 1948 for writing "anti-democratic" music but received the Stalin prize in 1950.

Two of our most memorable experiences in Russia were visits to the Bolshoi Theater for ballet performances.

The Bolshoi, in central Moscow, is a beautiful theater. The largest theater in the Soviet Union, it has six horseshoe balconies, trimmed with gilt. All upholstery is red.

On the stage we saw what is generally recognized as the finest ballet in the world. We saw Cinderella and Swan Lake. Both were performed in their entirety, without deviation for propaganda purposes.

For sheer spectacle, it was better than anything I have ever seen. With the big stage at the Bolshoi, they could put more than 100 beautifully-costumed dancers out front at once.

During intermissions at the opera, symphony or ballet, Russians do not go out into the lobbies and stand around in small groups as many Americans do.

They stroll, arm in arm or with hands clasped behind their backs, up and down the corridors and around the lobbies. Everybody follows the same path and walks at about the same pace.

At the various theaters, we stood watching this parade to get some idea of what class of people attend the cultural events.

We saw many generals, admirals and other high military officers and a few people who definitely could be identified as upper class by their dress.

But generally it was almost impossible to determine class status by dress. Most of the men wore the same kind of dark blue and black suits, and most of the women wore the same kind of dark dresses.

senate and the new student body president Duane Anderson, were installed in their offices by the retiring government officials.

President Fred Hultz of NDSC gave the keynote speech in the convo, expressing his views on the benefits and potentialities that the student government offers to students.

Mancur Olson, retiring student body president, expressed his thanks for the cooperation of all students during his term of office and added that he hoped that succeeding student governments would far surpass the record run by his group.

Serving as master of ceremonies of the convo was Ken Moxness; he introduced new and retiring members of the student senate.

Mancur Olson swore Duane Anderson in as president of the student body and Duane responded by giving the first address of his tenure in office.

In his talk, Duane expressed the hope that all students would cooperate with him in the fullest degree to make his term in office successful and beneficial to the school. He also promised to make many changes; but he did not go further into that.

Perhaps the highlight of the entire convo ceremony was the performance of the Gold Star Band during the initiation. Following the swearing in of Duane as president; the band broke out with a sweeping "For He's A Jolly Good Fellow" and stole the show.

IT'S ALL A MATTER OF TASTE

When students burn the midnight oil
While cramming for a test,
The smooth, fresh smokes they reach for most
Are Luckies...always best!

Marilyn Sergeant
University of Arizona

When you come right down to it, you smoke for one simple reason... enjoyment. And smoking enjoyment is all a matter of taste. Yes, taste is what counts in a cigarette. And Luckies taste better.

Two facts explain why Luckies taste better. First, L.S./M.F.T.—Lucky Strike means fine tobacco... light, mild, good-tasting tobacco. Second, Luckies are actually made better to taste better... always round, firm, fully packed to draw freely and smoke evenly.

So, for the enjoyment you get from better taste, and only from better taste, Be Happy—Go Lucky. Get a pack or a carton of better-tasting Luckies today.

Theta Chi Cagemen Even Series With Victory Over Dorm

The Theta Chi fraternity came back to even up the series with one win each with the Dorm cagers in the men's intra-mural best of three basketball play offs. The joy boys defeated the Dorm by a 54-46 score in the second tilt after the Dorm hoopsters grabbed the first game win.

Theta Chi jumped to a 5-2 lead and led most of the way. They held period leads of 12-10, 25-19, 38-30, and 54-46 respectively.

Joy boy hot shot, Ed Tyson took game scoring honors with 18 counters. Pat Vickers chipped in 16 to lead the Dorm.

Tiny Naaden, Theta Chi, and Capt. John Fedje, Dorm, each added 14.

Perhaps the greatest exhibition of fine play to occur in the series up to this time was performed by Naaden. While adding a needed scoring punch, he also completely controlled the boards in rebounding.

For the Form the usually spectacular play of Fedje and Vickers was visible.

Big Don Kent, rugged Theta Chi center, was held to 5 points and fouled out in the second half.

Theta Chi had a .333 fg average in shots while the Dorm had a .265 average. In gift tosses, the joy boys had a .530 percentage and the Dorm had a percentage of .385.

Greetings . . .

It's really a great thing to see everybody's bright and shining faces and noses again after the strenuous vacation. Of course a few of the boys aren't around after the high marks came out, but a few are back for the spring festivities at Old State.

On March 18 the University of North Dakota basketball team released their all opponent team. Jim Akason, State guard, was selected on the first team and Grut Anderson was picked on the second team.

Forwards on the first team were: Dick Beetsch, ISTC and Bill Ide, Morningside.

Guards: Art Schalk, Loyola and Akason, NDS.

Center: Bob Kriehauser, Washington U.

Second team forwards are: Chuck Hiti, Duluth Branch and Anderson, NDS.

Guards: Mike Dunphy, Hamline and Ed Beimfohr, Washington U.

Center: Mike Stanley, Beloit.

Gaining honorable mention on the all opposition team was Doug Walstad, NDS; Bob Ehrke, SDU; Al Brunsting, Morningside; Jim Tays, SDU. These were the members in the conference making the select group.

Two new rules were applied to the next year's set of rules for college basketball play. The one and one free throw rule has been eliminated with a new rule proposed involving free throws. The player that makes the first gift toss try is awarded another try. If he should miss his first try, he wouldn't receive another try.

The other rule involves the game playing time. Instead of playing a four quarter game, a two half game will now be played.

Jon Haaven, NDU star center who established three new loop records during the past season, has decided to quit school and join the army. Of course this will be a great blow to Sioux cage coach Lou Bogan as his charges undoubtedly will be slowed down to a great extent as a result of Haaven's move.

Track has come into the spot light at many schools with the warmer weather approaching.

ND University has scheduled an inter-class meet in their field house on April 7, according to Red Jarret, Sioux track coach. The Redskins have a quite promising squad on hand.

SDU has such 1953 standouts back as high jumper, Jim Tays, quarter miler Kieth Gross, and sprinter, Bill Hauck.

ISTC has the flashy brother duo in Dick and Bob Barnes in the sprints and hurdles—back, along with Bernie Lainsom in the mile and half mile.

SD State is very potent when having such tracksters as Bob Dunnenbring in the broad jump, 440 yard dash and 60 yard dash. They also have tremendous depth back in the distance classes. Russ Nash, Jack Pearson, Leo Hammrich, Arlin Patrick, and Bill Fairley dominate the two-mile, one mile, and half mile attacks.

The North Dakota cinder squad is perhaps the most rounded out including all posts. Returning lettermen are: De Moore, dashes; Jerry Goetz, 440 dash; Gene Gamache, high jump; Dale Wallentine, Don Moore, and Guy Enabinet, hurdles; Jim Brogger, mile; Bill Shelver, half mile; Ron Schwinkendorf, weights.

May 15 is the N.D. collegiate meet in Valley City and on May 24, the North Central meet will take place at Sioux City Iowa.

Starting next week a new Sport's Editor may begin to bring you all of the pertinent poop in sports from around the campus and with the college. The new editor... may... be... Hal Miller, loyal Joy Boy. Hal also has his own sport's program on the campus radio and incidentally yours truly will be heard along with Hal on that program during the spring term. The retiring sport's scribe plans to help out Gary and Wes on the Bison, at sports, and also Sam Lowe, FuF plus 1 prexy who is still trying to figure out the easiest way to live in this cruel world.

I have tried to bring you as much of the current sports news that has occurred involving Old State, and I want to thank everyone who has cooperated and worked with me in order to bring you such news.

As a signing off line, the old proverb comes to my mind and that is that the best policy, especially for students at Old State, is to hang loose—never hang tough.

When you go out on the job, you want the most durable steel measuring tapes you can get—Lufkin "Chrome Clad." The jet black markings won't wear off, for they are bonded to the line and protected by multiple electroplatings that further build up the fine tape steel from which the line is made. The resulting line is heavier, stronger, and most rust and corrosion resistant. It is easier to read, easiest to clean, and won't surface crack, chip, or peel. Only Lufkin tapes are available with Chrome Clad.

Anderson Named State Football Coach Reported April 1 For Spring Drill

Delmar W. (Del) Anderson was named the ND State varsity football coach Saturday, March 13.

The former Albion college coach who accepted the offer after conferring with NDS athletic director, C. C. Finnegan, and Glenn Hill, a faculty member of State's athletic board, expressed confidence that he could produce on the Bison gridiron.

Anderson began coaching at Albion in 1948 when the Michigan school was doing quite poorly in pigskin play. He proceeded to give the school its best four year grid record. The school consisted of around 1,000 students.

Albion's most impressive record occurred in 1952 when the team compiled a 7-0 record.

Anderson who is 42 years old was born at Concord, Ohio on Aug. 20, 1911. He graduated from Muskingum college at New Concord in 1933. He gained his Master's degree in 1943 at Ohio State.

During World War II, Anderson served in the Navy. He was affiliated with numerous physical education departments in schools in Ohio, before going to Case Institute of Technology in Cleveland, while assisting for one season.

He has been football and baseball coach at Albion and assistant athletic director.

While coaching at Hillsboro, Ohio, during the period from 1937 to 1942, Anderson was married. The Andersons are now parents of three children, Richard 13, Alice 9, and David 6.

Anderson has always been quite active in Presbyterian church work and also as a Mason.

He is also noted for his ability as an after dinner speaker particularly commemorating athletic events.

His hobbies are fishing and hunting.

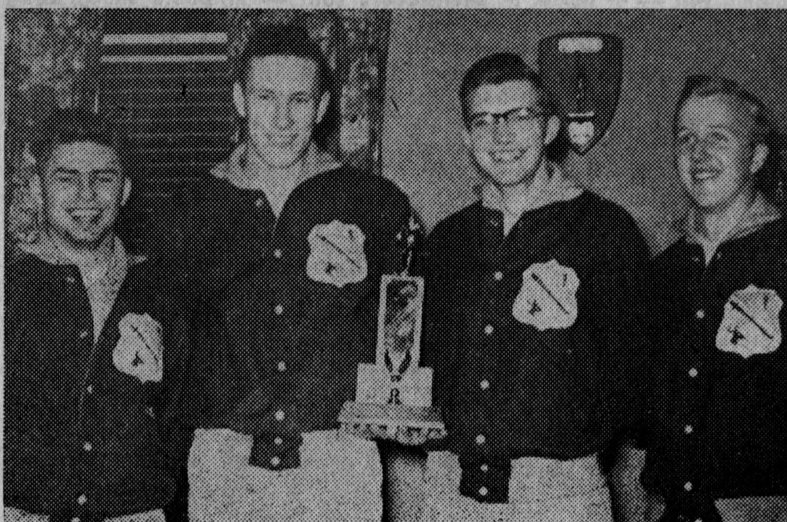

Coach Biggie Munn of Michigan State lauded Anderson's grid efforts and accomplishments in a letter to Finnegan, dated Feb. 11. In the same letter, Munn gave Anderson a 100 per cent recommendation.

FARGO, N. DAK.

Anderson was also recommended to Finnegan by Paul Brown, coach and general manager of the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League.

The new Bison coach was not too worried with the football situation, and is expecting a good season.

Winning the men's intramural bowling title was the Kappa Sigma Chi entry. They gained the crown by defeating the Theta Chi pinmen in the finals by a 78 pin margin.

Roy Accepts Grid Post At Crookston High

Robert Roy, assistant football and basketball coach at ND State, accepted the grid mentor job at Crookston Central High School.

The announcement of the appointment was made by Farley Bright, superintendent of schools at Crookston. Roy will succeed Al Droen, who will coach only basketball.

Roy expressed optimism in taking his new position at the high school. "The job is a challenge to me and I believe within a period of time football can become a strong point in the school's athletic program," he said.

The Crookston football team has been quite unsuccessful in recent years and Roy surmises that a couple of years will be required to build up the school's gridiron potential.

Roy will take over the post August 23 when grid practices begin. He is planning to reside in Fargo until that date.

He resigned last month, shortly after Mac Wenskunas, head football coach submitted his resignation.

The "Folks Are Fun" contest is open to anyone living in the United States or its possessions except employees of Sylvania, its advertising agencies, photolamp dealers and their families, and professional photographers.

The contest opened February 17 and closes April 30. Winners will be announced in July. Entry blanks can be obtained anywhere Sylvania "Blue Dot" flashbulbs

All pictures submitted must illustrate the theme, "Folks Are Fun" and all prints must be in black and white, no smaller than 2¼ x 2¼ and not previously published commercially. Every picture must be accompanied by the printed bulb identification from the outer wrapper or sleeve of any Sylvania flashbulb. Pictures must be taken with flashbulbs, and amateurs may enter any number of photographs.
