Fine "Stalag 17" Production Emphasizes Adaptability Of SC Theatre People

By Bernie Altenburg

Little Country Theater's production of "Stalag 17", under the able direction of veteran Charlie Abrahamson, proved that an amateur cast can perform the dramatic roles which require the development of suspense and constant static tension.

Throughout the production the cast, made up in its entirety by members of the SC Vets Club, strutted, griped, lived the narrow prison camp life to the hilt, and delighted in baiting the slightly stupid Heinie guards.

Top performances were delivered by Jerry Lague, as "Animal". Bordering on the ridiculous, "Animal" makes light of the predicament of the prisoners and keeps the audience chuckling.

Sam Kalainov, as "Sefton", convincingly portrays the despicable business man prisoner spy suspect who turns out to be a hero after all is said and done.

"Price", the German spy who plays buddy-buddy with the entire barracks population until the final clinching scene, received a precise interpretation from the up and coming Tom Brown. Throughout Brown was coolly deliberate.

Supporting actors who helped to weld the atmosphere of prisoners of war camp were "Schultzie", the likeable German guard played capably by Les Landstrom.

John Kittleson filled the role of "Stosh" with sheer ease. At several points "Stosch" and "Animal" were called upon to step up the play—and they came through.

Although Ed Martin is the last person we will name, make no mistake, the man was good in his niche as the ham actor called from his chosen field by the all-prevailing hand of the draft.

Numerous other people deserve mention—but it's impossible because of limited space. Our hats, however, must go off to the people that aren't mentioned for they had much to do with the success of the friendly old LCT production.

On the technical side credit, beyond his role of director, must go to Charlie Abrahamson for his fabulous sets. They were unique and probably the best ever seen on the LCT stage.

Production people were headed by Carol Abrahamson and Monica Saveageau two gals who spent many long hours doing the little things that made the play sharp and got everyone at stage at the right time.

All in all, "Stalag 17" was fine. Fun, games, laughs, and entertainment. We advise everyone to see it.

Senate Sponsored Plan To Meet Crucial Test In Direct Vote Of Ag Students

Balloting on the proposed honor system in the School of Agriculture is scheduled for 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. next Monday, December 12, in Morrill Hall. All students enrolled in the School of Agriculture are eligible to vote. As an added incentive to get the students to vote, the SC FFA chapter is giving free coffee and donuts to students when they cast their ballots.

A two-thirds "Yes vote" of the votes cast will be necessary for adoption of the honor system. If the measure is adopted in Monday's election the honor system will go into effect at the beginning of the winter quarter.

Following approval by the students the proposed system will be submitted to the College Council for final affirmation.

The honor system will be in effect in the School of Agriculture on an experimental basis for a one year period. At the end of that period, an all-college election will be held to determine whether or not the system will be adopted as a permanent measure in all schools on campus.

Provisions will be made so that the faculty and students may modify and improve the system before the all-college vote, if they so desire.

Students may call for a referendum vote on the honor system at any time by presenting a petition to the Student government signed by 25% of the students in agriculture.

In essence the honor system is considered another educational function of the college. A strong sense of mutual responsibility, respect and trust is encouraged and training in self-government is implemented.

Finnish Educator Visits Campus On National Tour

Mrs. Kerttu Sihvonen, president of the Training College for Teachers of Home Economics in Helsinki, Finland, will be visiting on the NDSC campus December 8 through 15. She is a participant in the Foreign Leader Program of the International Educational Exchange Service of the U. S. Department of State.

Mrs. Sihvonen represents many organizations in Finland and has published articles in the field of nutrition. While in this country on a three month tour, she hopes to gain a knowledge of both the pre and in-service training of home economics teachers.

While on the NDSC campus, Mrs. Sihvonen plans to visit the nursery school, home economics classes, confer with home economics staff members, and state supervisors.

Bison Face Mankato In Home Opener Tomorrow Night

The Bison varsity will open their home season against Mankato State Teachers College in a non-conference game at the field house tomorrow night at 8:00.

SC will face a Mankato club which is, according to reports, not as strong as their last year's team but nevertheless one of the better teams in the area.

Mankato has two six foot six players, Duane Mettler and Dick Diedler. These boys are liable to give the Bison some trouble.

The Bison suffered a number of injuries at Drake and Iowa State, but they should be back to full strength when they face Mankato. Doug Walstad, Jim Akason, Darrell Henry and Ken Flynn all injured their ankles during the course of these games, but, Doug Walstad expected, all will be back for Saturday's game for sure.

Probable starters for the Bison will be Ken Flynn forward; Gene Gamache, forward; Zeke Anderson, center; Jim Akason, guard; and either Doug Walstad or Merlin Ludwig at the other guard spot.

Chuck Bentson mentioned that at Iowa State and Drake the Bison held their own, except in the height department. The Bison were especially hurt in the center spot. In each game the Bison's opponents received at least 4 field goals due to tip-in as a result of their height advantage.

This should be the first of a number of good holiday games for the Bison. On December 17, they open their conference season against the Augustana Vikings at Sioux Falls, S. D. On December 15 the Bison will play Concordia in a home, non-conference game.

Student President Backs Honor System

(Editor's note: The following is a statement prepared by the president of the study body, Merlin Ludwig, on the proposed honor system for the school of agriculture.)

As president of the student body of NDSC I would like to urge all students in the school of agriculture to vote with and for the proposed honor system in the school.

If this plan is approved by a vote of students Monday it will go into effect next quarter in the school of agriculture for one year. At that time, if the plan proves successful, it may possibly be extended to the entire campus community in the year following.

Your student government backs this plan all the way, for it is a plan hatched and developed by members of the student body and various other interested and outstanding students on campus.

The faculty members associated with the plan are serving mainly as advisors. In no event do they dominate the activities or the project. Students in the whole are the driving force behind everything.

With these facts in mind I would like to call upon everyone for the support of this plan. It furnishes an excellent opportunity for the student body to show just how you all feel on government activities.

Yours truly,
Merlin Ludwig
President of the Student Body.

Union Sponsors Dance

Dance after the game tomorrow night!

Such is the announcement of the student union activities board and the dance will be held from after the game until 12.

The affair is a sock hop which means come as you are.

Frank Scott will play for the dancing entertainment. All students are invited to attend.

Janet Monson Crowned Military Queen

Royalty is crowned by SC president Fred Hultz in the person of Military Ball queen Janet Monson, in a scene from the formal affair last Friday night. Janet is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority and was sponsored for queen by Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Proposed Honor System Offers Great Opportunity

North Dakota State College's student government has inaugurated initial steps in a proposed plan to begin an honor system in the school of agriculture. Future plans now hinge upon the vote of the students in the school which is set for next Monday in Morrill Hall. At that time the ag students have in their hands the decision to continue or cease work on the honor system. A two-thirds vote is necessary for ratification, a vote that will present a large enough majority so that if the plan is put into effect it will have the backing of most of the students in the school of agriculture.

The honor system is strictly a student sponsored plan and faculty members have been enlisted in the program only for the advice and counsel they might furnish in setting it up—with no idea in mind that the instructors shall dominate the program. The entire program, once it is begun, will be operated only by the student body through their elected representatives, the student senate, or by appointees of the student senate.

In addition, the honor system is designed not to meet any great problem of cheating—for only the short-sighted few believe there is much cheating on campus; no more than is normal for a college of this size. It is designed for the students of the college to have some measure of say in directing their own classroom activities and also to give the students of the college one more chance to learn about self government and self-control.

Opinions have been expressed that if the honor system is started the Greeks will spy on the independents and the independents will spy on the Greeks. Nothing could be farther from the truth. Once a person enters a classroom there is no discrimination shown as to whether or not a person belongs to one organization or another. If instructors or students display such feelings or emotions then they are the ones that deserve chastisement. College is after all and foremost a growing up period. The rivalries of extracurricular life should never be allowed to spill over into classrooms. There is where only intellect counts and anyone who thinks or says different deserves actually to go back to high school for a few more years, or else be dumped into military service for two or more years.

Student body president Merlin Ludwig deserves a strong hand of commendation for his work on the honor system. The plan was one of his campaign planks during student body elections last spring and bringing the idea this far along is proof enough of his determination.

The honor system, as proposed by president Ludwig, is designed mainly as a credit to the school, whether or not any occasion should ever arise to make use of its facilities. It is mainly just another step in the growing program of student self-government on campus. We of the student newspaper are behind it all the way. Let's hope that at least two hundred members of the school of agriculture look at it that way too.

Bison Annual Announces Last Warning

All seniors are reminded that the final deadline for turning in pictures to the Bison annual has been reset for January 10. If you wish to have your picture in the 1956 yearbook—please take advantage of the Christmas vacation and have your picture taken if it is not already turned in.

I TOLD YOU WE WOULDN'T GET PAST THE FRONT DESK!

Down Here

By Lee Johnson

Well, it's nice to be back on campus again after a small bout with the flu bug. Sickness really has its place—you can catch up on your sleep. And, my, doesn't the union look nice with all its Christmas decorations. Some Xmas tree lots must be stripped if Philips, Schmacher, and company had anything to do with procuring the branches.

Jack Larson and his gang of protection fanatics from the radio station are bleating around the country about proposed improvements. Look elsewhere in this publication for the answer as to whether or not your student government coughed up the cash for their nefarious schemes. If the idea is sold the megaphone enthusiasts will be blaring all day long.

Over on the scene in the Little Country theater the old vets are doing themselves proud. Some of them would look better with stripes instead of faded fatigues, but the idea is still there. Perhaps the only thing missing in the "Stalag 17" is a rebel yell to go along with the converted Confederate uniforms worn by the guards.

According to the latest Time magazine the martini is now America's favorite stay at home drink or anytime drink I don't know, but I always thought that our country's favorite drink was milk—or could it be coffee—or water? Anyway the martini seems rather intriguing, especially the special extra dry one where they scream vermouth at a glass of gin.

This is the last friendly Spectrum for the quarter and for another year, so this is the time to wish all of you a most Merry Christmas. At least with better than two weeks of vacation it should be merry. According to my calculations the winter break will be just two days short of three weeks.

Next on the bill of agenda, however, are nasty little nom de plumes known as finals. Man, I think I would give up nine days of that fine old vacation to have those out of the way. Oh, well.

For information on this afternoon's activity, contact Ruthie Tallackson. On no account pay any attention to Bill Baillie's blitherings.

Right honorable Reggie Gorder has come up with a new way to spend Sunday afternoon. Simply walk out to the airport and admire all the nice airplanes. Then when your taste for admiration is satiated, walk back to the Hasty for coffee. Much fun.

Tom Moore, boy preparer of weird and exotic entertainments, reports that the best way to spend a day is not by cutting class. Simply go and sleep through everything. It is relaxing and leaves you well prepared for the night's activities.

Our little friend over in the ROTC department reports that Frank Meyers is reading a new and most interesting unclassified book:—"The Life and Times of a Combat Cook". Oh, joy.

APO Book Exchange

Alpha Phi Omega will reopen their quarterly book exchange next Friday and Saturday in the library. Hours will be Friday from 8 to 12 and 1 to 5:30 and Saturday from 8 to 12:30.

The exchange will be open for receiving books and giving back money which hasn't yet been collected on past sales. All students are invited to make use of this special service.

Campus Alpha Flying Club Reorganizes After Buying, Rebuilding Wrecked Plane

By Honeybear Schwartz

Buying a plane, wrecking a plane, and rebuilding a plane have been the major activities of the Alpha Flying club during the past six months, but perseverance, financing, and a lot of time has produced the craft shown in the above photo. "We may not produce pilots but we'll sure have a few airplane mechanics."

The plane pictured above was purchased last spring quarter by eight members of the Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity under the name of the Alpha Flying club. During one of the summer's high windstorms the plane was torn loose from its anchor and dashed against the side of an Air Activities hanger. One wing and the tail assembly were badly damaged and the fuselage was twisted.

The beginning of fall quarter found the eight faced with a problem—shall we junk it or rebuild it? The vote was to rebuild and so the project began, sparked by the enthusiasm of club president Tom Gates.

Arrangements were made with Air Activities for space in their shop hanger. A new fuselage, other incidental parts, and many yards of covering were purchased from Air Activities. Under the supervision of Gates and Arnold Hunt the reconstruction job got underway. Long evenings, Saturdays, and Sunday afternoons found many of the eight learning the intricacies of aircraft mechanics.

In the meantime efforts were underway to establish the club on a more sound basis. A club constitution was drawn up and reviewed by a lawyer. Also a release for members under 21 was obtained from the lawyer.

Make-up of the club is such that the eight original members are the sole owners of the airplane. Additional associate members from the fraternity may join the club by paying a $20 entry fee and $2 per month dues.

The object of the club is to help members obtain a private pilot's license as economically as possible. As a member of the club, a person has access to use of the plane at any time and the only charge is for gas and oil used in flight. Through the club a member may obtain a license for approximately $100, or a saving of about $150 from the normal cost of a flying school.

In order to obtain a license a student pilot must have 8 hours of flight instruction before he can solo, plus 5 hours of cross country flight with an instructor, plus solo time. He must have a total of 40 air hours before he may apply for his license.

Any organization or group wishing to establish a club similar to the Alpha Flying club may contact Tom Gates, president, or Eugene Rott, secretary-treasurer for details. A copy of the club constitution may be obtained and copies of the release will also be furnished.

CHRISTMAS RECESS

Kampus Klues . . .

By Karen

With the coming of the Christmas season the social life of the AC students has turned to Christmas caroling, Christmas parties and orphan parties. Evidently the scare of the big finals coming has not phased anyone for the weekend is as usual packed with activities.

Congratulations to the new Military Ball queen, Janet Monson who was sponsored by the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity.

Orphan parties were very popular with the Greek organizations this past week. Wednesday the ATO's and Gamma Phi's entertained orphans at a Christmas party and on Thursday the Theta's and Sig's did the same.

Roses

were given to Alvina Kassenborg by the ATO's for her pinning to Bob Burke. The Tau's also serenaded the couple.

Visitor

at the Tau House last Monday was Alum Vern Reardon who is off to spend 21 months with Uncle Sam's anchor-krankers.

Christmas party was given for the ATO's on Sunday by the ATO's mother's club.

Term parties

this evening will be held by the Gamma Phi's and Kappa Delta's.

After game parties will be held at the SPD house and the TKE house. An All-College Christmas Party will also be held in the Union Ballroom. Incidentally this will be a sock hop so dig up some wild socks.

Roses

were also given by the Sigs this week to Karen Skjonsby for her pinning to Gene Hartman.

Mothers

of the Sigs entertained the boys with an Xmas party on Thursday afternoon, the same day as the Orphan's party. Busy fellows.

Orphans Again

The Sigs and the KAT's had their annual party for the orphans last Thursday night. They entertained about 20 tots.

Term Party

for the Sigs will be held at the Moorhead Legion on Saturday, Dec. 10th.

Alums

of the Phi Mu's will entertain the pledges and actives at their annual Xmas party Monday evening. At this time they will fill their toy cart from St. Luke's Hospital.

New Pledges

at KD are Janice Kearney, Elaine Willy and Judy Flaaten.

Special Memorial Service Set To Honor Former Home Ec Dean Clara Cerveny

By Sandra Maier

A memorial service is being held this afternoon at 3:30 in the Founder's Room of the home economics building recognizing the tapestry as a memorial to former the KD's and AGR kiddies Xmas party for orphans was held on Wednesday night.

Singers

The Theta's are going caroling next Monday.

Busy KD's

will hold the annual Mother-Daughter Xmas party Monday night following the caroling at the Old Folk's Home.

Advice

Have a cool Yule and a frantic First.

Dean Clara Carolyn Cerveny. All students, faculty, home economics staff, former friends and associates of Miss Cerveny are invited to attend.

Coming to NDSC in September, 1951, Miss Cerveny served as dean of the school of home economics for two years. She contributed much to the program of the school of home economics and was especially noted for her vision and help in planning the new home economics building.

To pay tribute to the efforts and work of Clara Cerveny, arrangements have been made for two memorials. The Fargo Zonta Club has given a scholarship in her name, to be awarded annually to a freshman student in the school of home economics. Through this gift, her contribution to home economics education will continue.

The other memorial is the tapestry placed on the south wall of the Founder's Room of the home economics building.

The tapestry was designed by John Smith of California especially for the Founder's Room. Smith was sent samples of fabric used in the Founder's Room, and was told of the purpose of home economics as well as the background of the people of North Dakota and of some of the products of our state. He designed the tapestry using these ideas and colors.

The memorial service will include music contributed by Quentin Doolittle, instructor in music, and Robert Dietz, assistant professor of music at NDSC. Dean Carolyn Budewig, dean of the school of home economics, will present the dedication.

For solution, see paragraph at right.

THERE'S NO GETTING AROUND IT—Luckies taste better. And there's no getting around that thing in the Droodle at left, either—the Droodle's titled: Lucky smoker with bum seat at football game. Poor guy is really up against it. But he's got a swell point of view on smoking—he smokes Luckies for better taste. Football season is over except for a number of bowl games and if you look over these pages you will find an article containing the names of the letter and numeral winners in football at NDSC. Our season was not good. In fact we did not win one game but these men gave their best and so the sports staff of the Spectrum salutes the members of the 1955 football team for their fellow students at NDSC. We know that you will be out there next year and the year after doing your best to win for old State.

The student body knows that it is much harder to be a good loser than a good winner and in life one must learn to lose as well as win. Next year when out on the gridiron remember those defeats and turn them into victory for State.

Good luck to the Bison football coach, Del Anderson, and his rebuilding plan. Del had one good freshman team on the varsity this year and will have two out there in 1956. We know it has not been easy for you either to lose but you did your best and now you have a year ahead of you for recruiting North Dakota athletes. Keep Jessie moving.

Last but not least, we would like to cite those who encourage and are trying to bring better athletics to the NDSC. The group is headed by the Teammakers followed by Tip Miller, Elaine Geisler, A. Glenn Hill and you, the students whose spirit was the best in years.

As you know, the Bison will play Mankato in the home basketball opener tomorrow night, Saturday, December 10, so let's all be out including this week's campus toad, our own Bill Baillie, who had the week off, and a former campus toad, state's own "George Gobel" — "Dirty Dick

Bison Drop Two Lid-lifters On Road Trip

By Bill Baillie

SC's thundering Herd took it on the chin on a far-flung road trip last weekend as they ventured into Iowa for two non-conference face-offs at the hands of Drake and Iowa State.

The two defeats were in the season's openers for the Herd and both were at the hands of schools rated above the North Central Conference in the brand of basketball they play.

At Des Moines Friday night, the height and drive of the Drake team proved too much for Chuck Bentson's brigade, as SC dropped the encounter by an 85-65 score.

The Iowans were led by their high scoring center Willie Cerf who showed outstanding poise and marksmanship as they easily outdistanced the Herd cagers.

Field-general Doug Walstad, and the midjet hotrod Merlin Ludwig, a replacement for the ailing Jim Akason, paced the Bison with 18 and 16 points respectively.

In the Drake game, as in the following one at Iowa State, the Bison were severely hampered by lack of more than one big man. Zeke Anderson and John Haas never appeared on the floor at the same time, thus the future Missouri Valley conference school dominated both back-boards throughout most of the game.

Saturday night at Ames, Iowa, it was just a case of the Herd being unable to maintain their early pace as they tired badly in the second half.

Once again it was too much height for the Herd to cope with, and the ISC Cyclones, members of the Big Seven Conference, scored at least eight field goals on tip ins under the basket.

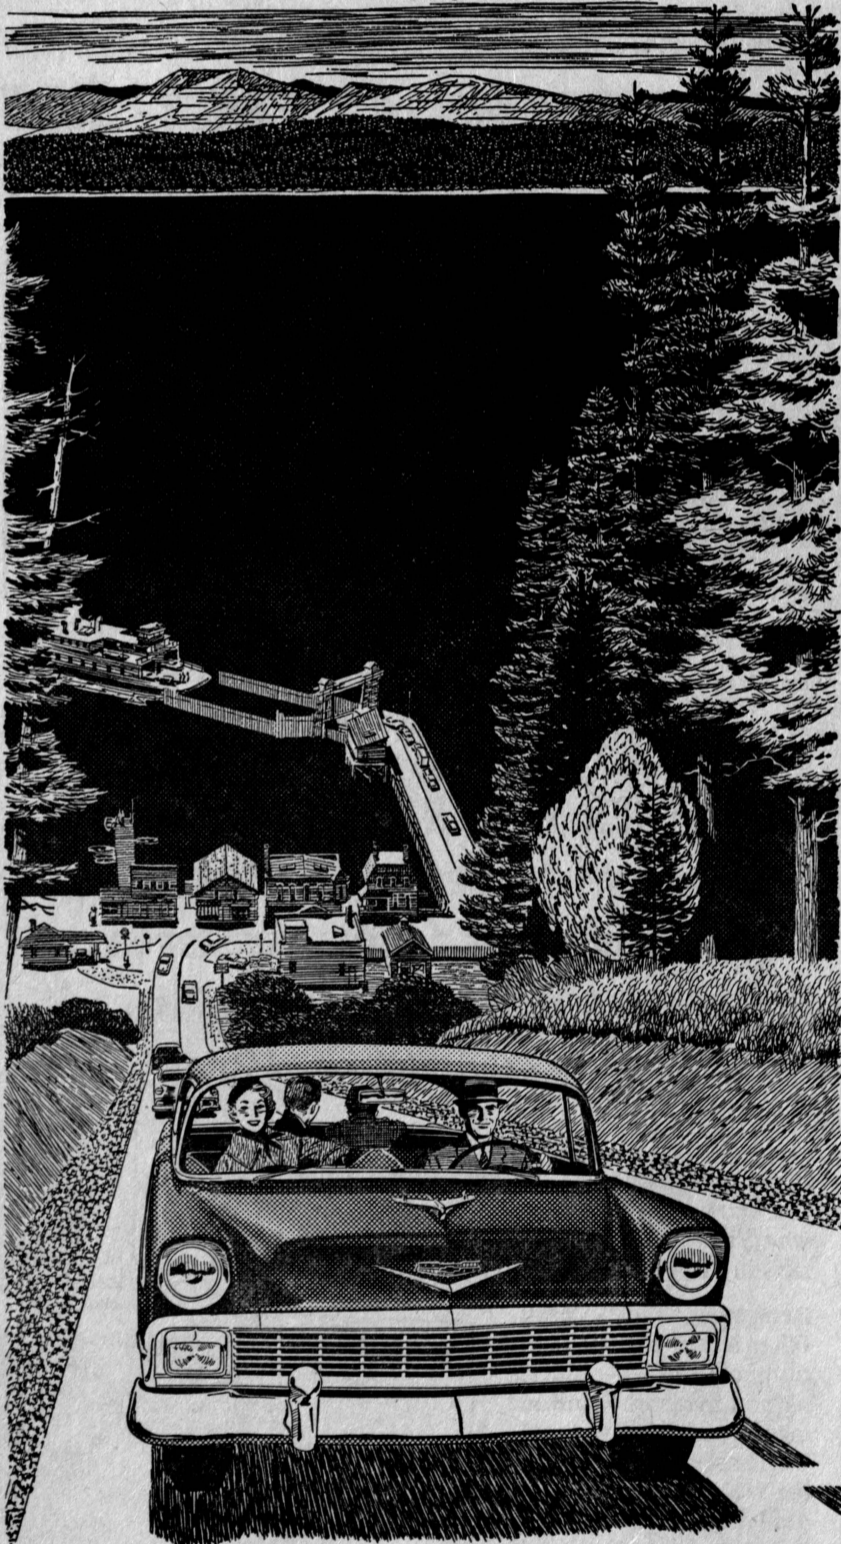

The tall and rangy Iowans, fielding a forward wall averaging 6'6" trounced the Herd by a score of 86-60. Although the Iowa front line accounted for the bulk of the southern scoring it was a small guard, Thompson, who was the individual star of the evening.

For the Bison jumping Gene Gamache returned to his fast moving form of last season and dumped in 18 points. Jim Akason, recovering from his illness of the previous evening, finished close behind Gamache as he aided greatly in the Herd movement.

Following both games the Herd was complimented by the coaches of the squads they faced. The Bison were lauded on their hustle and the two authorities agreed that only the lack of more height in the front line spelled defeat for the Herd.

Coach Bentson declared that he was well satisfied with the performance of his charges. He emphasized that all conference teams playing against squads of high classification took defeats. The two road games were simply pre-conference season tune-ups.

The Bison open their home schedule at the fieldhouse tomorrow night with a non-conference game against rangy Mankato Teachers. Next Thursday, the Herd tangles with cross-town rival Concordia here.

What's doing at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft

Domestic Travel in the Age of Jet Transports

Starting in 1959, United Air Lines' flight time between Los Angeles and New York will be 4½ hours — between Chicago and New York, only 90 minutes. By placing the first contract order for jet transports to be used in domestic operations, United Air Lines has upheld its reputation as a pioneer in American air travel. Its new fleet of 30 Douglas DC-8 Clippers will be powered by the most powerful production aircraft engines in the world, J-57 turbojets, designed and developed by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

It is only a matter of time until jet transports are standard equipment along the air lanes of the world. The large majority of them will be powered by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft jet engines — an achievement of great significance.

A jet-turbine powerplant that develops 10,000 pounds of thrust — or more — involved some of the most complex problems of present-day engineering. A glance at the roster of today's J-57-powered military aircraft* is proud testimony to the success with which those problems were resolved by Pratt & Whitney Aircraft engineers.

Nowhere else can engineering graduates utilize their training more fully than in the rapidly evolving field of aircraft propulsion. Work is well under way on the development of even more advanced powerplants — jet, turboprop, nuclear.
