Strikes And Spares Deadline Near; Gala Dance Will Follow Tourney

If you're a scholar don't bother to read this article. It just isn't the type that would appeal to you. SC Student Union's second annual Strikes and Spares bowling tournament in the union alleys is now in full swing. Only one week remains to collect prizes or even enter the big affair—set to wind up May 4. Entry fees for the tournament are nonexistent. Only the regular fee of thirty cents per line remains in force. There are eight events to enter and trophies are given in each division to the first and second place winners. All eight events may be entered by any student on campus, and two entries are permitted in the mixed doubles if you change partners. Both scratch and handicap sections of the eight events are on tap. Consequently any bowler or bowlers may win a trophy. Coeds entering the tournament win on the total pins for only two lines. Men are judged on total pins for three lines.

Remember—it still isn't too late to enter the tournament. Register now with Gordy Teigen at the union bowling lanes.

Following the conclusion of the tournament next Friday night a dance is also scheduled from 9 to 12. Francis Colby and his orchestra will furnish music. Admission is fifty cents per person.

Highlight of the "Bowlers Ball" will be presentation of the trophies to winning bowlers and teams during the intermission period.

Radio Seeks Staff

Join the crowd traveling to the studios of campus radio KDSC, the student radio station, is desperately in need of staff workers in all fields. On the want list are disc jockeys, engineers, sports announcers, news writers, spot announcers, and all of the other people that make a station go. Now is the time to start. Affiliate before the end of the quarter.

KKG-SAE; Gamma Phi Beta Win Firsts With Brevities Acts

With sweating brows and strains of music, the 1956 edition of the Blue Key Bison Brevities faded into the distance last Friday evening and organizations lapsed into inertia for another year. Eight trophies are all that remains of Brevities.

Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority-Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity captured first place in production act competition. Second place was captured by Kappa Delta sorority-Sigma Chi fraternity.

Winning first place in the curtain act competition was an act presented by Gamma Phi Beta sorority. Kappa Kappa Gamma received the second place trophy.

In the highlight of the trophy presentation for individual performers, Orlo Hjelseth and Ann Whiting emerged as the leading soloists. For their performances they were awarded the second annual Spectrum awards.

Alpha Tau Omega fraternity took first place in the men's division of ticket sales with Gamma Phi Beta sorority pacing the field to win first in the women's division.

Small crowds greeted performers on the first two nights of the Brevities. A near capacity house was on hand for the final appearance.

Hultz Announces Staff Appointments

Two North Dakota State College appointments, one in the department of horticulture and the other in the business office, have been announced by Dr. Fred S. Hultz, college president.

Dr. Edward P. Lana has been named professor and chairman of the department of horticulture and forestry. Dr. Lana comes to NDSC from Iowa State College where he has been in the department of horticulture since 1947. He received his B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. from the University of Minnesota and served from 1943-1945 in military service.

Sherwood A. Barrow has been appointed assistant business manager, replacing Mrs. Ann Gravelle, resigned. Mr. Barrow received his B. A. at Grinnel College, Grinnel, Iowa, and was formerly purchasing agent at the University of Omaha.

Jimmies To Present All College Show

Jamestown College Student Association will present their all-college variety show "Finnigan's Rainbow" tonite and tomorrow nite at 8 p.m. in the Grand Theater at Jamestown. Featuring an all JC cast the show promises to be among the best presentations of college talent in the state.

Tickets will be on sale at the boxoffice with general admission at $1 and reserved at $1.50. NDSC students motoring down for the track meet may enjoy an evening of fine entertainment by attending the show.

Architects Go Native At Arts Ball; Prizes To Be Presented For Costumes

"Go, go, go!" Masquerade party of the year is set tonight from 9 to 1 at the Crystal ballroom when the annual Beaux Arts Ball, sponsored by Atelier Chat Noir, architecture honorary, opens to the public.

Frank Scott and his WDAY-TV orchestra will furnish music for dancing. Tickets are on sale from any ACN members for 1.25 per person.

The dance is definitely a costume affair. However, if at this late date, some of you don't have costumes, well come anyway.

Definitely party of the year, the "color craze" affair is designed to test the ingenuity of the State student. Any costumes at all are eligible to compete for prizes in the wide open affair.

Prizes will be awarded in several costume divisions, including most colorful and most original.

British Ambassador Sets Fargo Speech At Open Forum

Sir Roger Makins, British ambassador to the United States, will address a Fargo-Moorhead Open Forum audience in Shanley High School on May 17, John Burnham, Open Forum president, said today.

The British ambassador is the top ranking ambassadorial representative in Washington and his visit here "is a significant courtesy to this community," the Open Forum president added.

"World events," said the Open Forum officer, "make Anglo-American friendship more important today than ever before in history, and it is a privilege for a Fargo-Moorhead audience to hear Great Britain's views on world affairs voiced by Britain's chief spokesman in America."

The present ambassador was appointed to the U. S. post in the fall of 1952, succeeding Sir Oliver Franks, who also addressed an Open Forum audience here when he was British ambassador to the United States.

Ambassador Makins, with members of his family and staff counsellors, will fly to Fargo in an official plane manned by a crew of RAF officers. As is customary in Open Forum events, the speaker will meet Open Forum directors and their guests at a dinner preceding the address in Shanley High School.

That address is open to the public without charge, and with the usual question period following the address by the guest speaker.

ISA To Elect Officers

The Independent Students Association will hold their regular meeting in conference rooms 1, 2, and 3 at 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 30.

The chief business of the evening will be the election of officers for the coming year. All independent students are welcome and are invited to attend.

Ann Whiting and Orlo Hjelseth appear more than a little pleased as they hold their Spectrum trophies awarded to the outstanding male and female performers of the Brevities.

Help! Help!

Students interested in working on makeup and headline writing for the Spectrum next year are urged to contact either Gerry Bender or Neal Bjornson at the Spectrum office anytime of the day or night or dial 9550.

Every State Student Urged To Work For Bigger Budget

As most members of the student body are aware, North Dakota State College is almost totally unprepared for the expected influx of hordes of new students in the next few years. (The huge numbers of new freshmen last fall almost snowed existing facilities.)

Present classroom and laboratory space, dormitories, numbers of teachers, parking areas—in fact all of the ingredients that go into making up a college are in short supply on our campus. With things pushed to the breaking point now, any increase of enrollment can lead only to a gradual lowering of the present high educational standards of the school.

Somehow the picture of the needs of State must be brought home to the people of the state and especially to the members of the North Dakota legislature. Nothing can be more effective than if each member of the student body becomes a walking public relations department for the college.

Every student is urged to talk up the problems the college faces with increasing enrollment. Talk to parents, educators, legislators. If our school is to continue to be a credit to the state, we must receive more money from the state. Let's all get on the bandwagon. Help State grow.

Hercules Torn Between Two Desires As Siren's Song Issues From Car

By Clyde Stauffer

Occupying a dim, dark, distant niche, in a dim, dark, distant age, there once lived a young man yclept Hercules X. McGuthrie. The niche was dim and dark because it was in a remote corner of an odorous room called a chemistry lab. Hercules was in the niche because he was a chemist. Rather, Hercules was a student of chemistry. (This distinction is important).

Now, Hercules was a good student. He studied his large dusty books diligently, washed his test tubes with great vigor, and always sat in the front row in lectures. This meant, of course, that Hercules had to stay awake, so he was in bed at 9:00 o'clock every evening, and up at 6:00.

It is a well-known fact that chemists would rather observe reactions than eat. Thus, it is curious that one day, while Hercules was pouring a beaker full of concentrated sulfuric acid over his hand, in order to observe the reaction, he suddenly experienced a vague, unknown dissatisfaction. Hercules decided that he did not want to observe any more reactions. You can easily see that Hercules was not a dedicated chemist.

Hercules looked at the calendar, but he had eaten only the week before, so it was not time to partake of another pound of hamburger broiled over a Bunsen Burner. He ran to the sink and downed a liter of water, but then found it was not thirst that bothered him. Herc suddenly felt a great, profound loathing for the lab apron he wore, the books he read, the test tubes, the beakers, the entire lab, in fact. He tore the apron off, and, his eyes blazing, dashed from the Chem building.

Once outside, he was dazzled by the bright sunlight. He hadn't been out in the open air since entering the college two years before.

After a few minutes, however, his eyes once again became used to the sun, and he looked about him in a dazed manner. The grass was green (just the shade of extracted chlorophyll), the sky was a deep, clear, blue (only a little lighter than copper sulfate crystals), and the air exhilarated him, much as when he opened a new tank of compressed oxygen. Hercules' heart gave a tremendous bound.

Hercules was torn between two desires; the desire to be free, to enjoy Spring, human companionship, life; and the sense of duty that bound him to his books.

"Hercules" came the siren's song from the young damsels in the car.

"Come on, Herky," issued from the young man who by this time had accomplished his purpose, and had deposited the large, brown bottle on the boulevard.

Hercules started once more for the automobile, but in a half-hearted manner, hesitating, waiting for the Call. It came.

"The Laboratory," said the professor, as if calling on the deities. That ended Hercules' glowing aspirations. He turned, and retraced his steps leading back into the Chem building.

He heard the roar of the engine as the car pulled away from the curb. He turned once, and waved dissipatedly. One of the young women was watching him, with pity and disappointment in her eyes. Then the great doors of the edifice clanged shut behind him, and Hercules X. McGuthrie mounted the stairs to his laboratory, his dream of spring shattered.

"It's Spring," he squeaked. He had forgotten about spring since becoming a student.

At that moment, a car with no top (a convertible, I believe it is called) drove past with several young people of both genders in it. They were singing gaily, and one of the young men was actively engaged in emptying a large, brown bottle of its contents. At the sight, Hercules was impelled to lift his voice and join in the song. At this unexpected harmony (though slightly off-key, it must be admitted), the driver of the automobile stopped, and called out to Hercules.

As he started toward the car, with reckless abandon, a stooped, graying figure appeared around the corner of the building. It was Professor Schnickleheimer, one of the chemistry teachers. He called to Hercules to return to the lab.

But Hercules, and Spring, was not to be denied. He started toward the auto once more, fully intending to join the picnic. Then, from behind him, the Voice of Authority spoke:

"Hercules", bellowed the professor. "Her-cu-les", he intoned, much as the Fates in a Greek tragedy must have sounded.

NOTICE

In view of the expected warm spring weather the Monday night dances sponsored by the Student Union activities board have been cancelled for the rest of the spring quarter, but keep an eagle eye open for a couple of those invigorating spring terrace dances.

Pomeroy Named Dakota 'Y' Region President For '56

Twenty SC YM and YWCA members traveled to Jamestown College last weekend to attend the annual North Dakota district conference of the two organizations.

Theme of the meeting was "New Frontiers Of The Y".

Stan Elofson of SC and Mary Joan DeKrey of Jamestown College were in charge of arrangements for the convention. Rev. Harold Strandness, chaplain of Jamestown college, was the featured speaker.

Elected president of the Dakota "Y" region was Jim Pomeroy of NDSC. He succeeds Stan Elofson. Bob Kramer, instructor in physics at the college, was elected district advisor. He succeeds Rudy Otterson, chairman of the social Science department, as advisor for the group.

Apathy! That seems the only way to describe the feeling of this juvenile delinquent. Spring breezes may not be blowing, but there still lurks the feeling that this is really "bermuda weather". Only six weeks until graduation. Thank the powers that be.

So, our friends up north don't like to have their variety show compared in an unfavorable light with the incomparable Bison Brevities. Tears are being shed on campus. We sympathize with C. K. and Company. Actually all State students admit that the Follies are topnotch. Possibly our baldheaded friends can't take a joke anymore. Chuckle.

apparently doesn't like these infernally long winters. The big redhead decided that the sunny beaches of Florida were more to his liking and he has hied himself hence. How's that for aliteration.

Now the call is out for some jovial campus personality to take up the lagging reins on the sports desk and fill the gap. Track baseball, spring football, golf, and tennis are in full swing. Come along home Bill Baillie.

Another wandering State scholar passed through the cities recently. Scott Pederson, former boy stalwart of the Little Country Theater and a local radio station, presented himself on campus to renew old friendships. Apparently life on the outside is treating him well.

Newest social organization on campus, the North Dakota State chapter of the Mau Mau group is functioning satisfactorily. Any persons desiring membership is urged to contact head medicine man Bill Buck at the Mau Mau cave in the north pasture anytime of the day or night.

Education unlimited. Looking for a fine place to spend an evening next Friday or Saturday. Drop in for the performance of the "Emperor's New Clothes" at the LCT. Highbrow theater at its best is the offering—presented to you by the veteran bards of the prairies. Professionally directed and staged, the production is designed to appeal to only the most intellectual of the college throng. (Stifled murmurs.)

Although the Spectrum hates to steal someone else's humor, here's one courtesy of the State Engineer that we couldn't resist pilfering.

Kissing is just so much chemistry, according to Douglas Walkington, a chemist for Canadian Industries. It has to do with a craving for salt.

The cave man found that salt helped him cool off in the summer heat. He found, too, that he could get salt by licking his neighbor's cheek. Also that it was more interesting if the neighbor was of the opposite sex.

Then everybody forgot about salt.

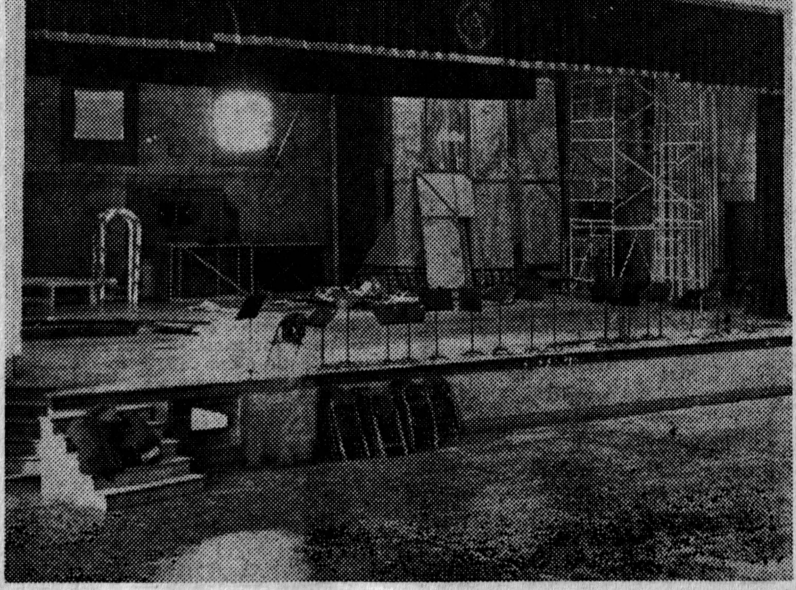

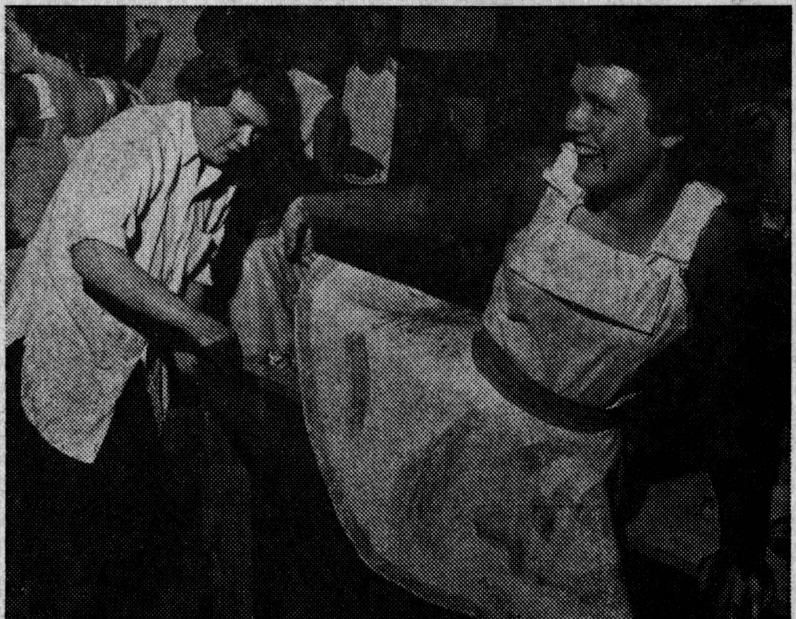

Many interesting comments have come into the office during the last week about the outline on the inimitable Bob Guyer's cartoon last week. Believe it or not—it actually happened.

House and hospitality committee of the student union activities board is planning a "This is how much this cost you" day for the union sometime later in the quarter. On display that day will be the prices of all the numerous articles that go to furnish the student center. Should alleviate some doubts as to where our money goes to.

Bowling. Bowling. That's the number one topic of discussion on campus this week. Wonder how some people can find enough energy to take part in that most strenuous of sports. There doesn't seem to be any run on seats in classes. Hmmm.

Picnic schedule for this weekend includes a call for all members of the Beta Tau Chowder and Marching Society to assemble this afternoon. Usual locale.

That's about it for this time around. Man, only two more of these marvelous masterpieces and a new face will take over on this page. Count the days.

Bison Brevities of 1956. Avis Palmer hurriedly applies the last touches of makeup to Donna Barstad before the curtain goes up.

Anxiety is registered on every face as cast members of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority-Kappa Psi fraternity wait to lead off the Brevities program.

It's all over for another year Saturday morning. Only the onerous job of cleanup remains as the campus variety show is wrapped up again.

Kampus Klues . . .

With Brevities over, the picnic season has emerged in full swing. I hope everyone has recovered from the plague that struck the campus last week so they can enjoy this wonderful picnic weather.

Capturing first place in the production act were the Kappa Kappa Gamma's and the SAE's; second place—Kappa Delta and Sigma Chi. First place in the 5 minute act—Gamma Phi Beta and second place—Kappa Kappa Gamma.

ADVENTURES IN SOCIAL SCIENCE: NO. 3

Today, ranging again into the fascinating world of social science, let us take up the subject of anthropology — the study of man and his origins.

The origin of man was indeed a vexing question until the Frenchman, Jean-Louis Sigafoos, discovered the skull and shinbone of Pithecanthropus Erectus in Java in 1891. (What Sigafoos was doing in Java is, incidentally, quite an odd little story. Sigafoos was a Parisian born and bred. By day one could always find him at a boulevard cafe, sipping Bière de Racine and ogling the girls; each night he went to a fashionable casino where he gambled heavily at roulette and jacks; in between times he worked on his stamp collection.

... the study of man and his origins...

(Well sir, one summer Sigafoos lost his entire fortune gambling at the casino, and he was seriously contemplating suicide when a ray of hope appeared in an unexpected quarter. It seems that Sigafoos, through the international stamp collectors journal, had long been in correspondence with a girl in Java, a mission-educated savage named Lotus Petal McGinnis, herself an enthusiastic stamp collector. The nature of their correspondence, though friendly, had been entirely philatelic. Now, suddenly, a new kind of letter came from Lotus Petal. She declared that although she had never laid eyes on Sigafoos, she loved him and wanted to marry him. She said she was eighteen years old, beautiful, and her father, the richest man in his tribe, would give half his fortune to the husband of her choice. Sigafoos, in his reduced circumstances, had no alternative; he sold his last few belongings and booked passage for Java.

(The first sight of his prospective bride failed to delight Sigafoos. She was, as she said, beautiful — but only by local standards. Sigafoos had serious doubts that her bright red pointed teeth and the chicken bones hanging from her ear lobes would be considered chic along the Champs Elysées.

(But sobering as was the sight of Lotus Petal, Sigafoos had an even greater disappointment coming when he met her father. The old gentleman was, as Lotus Petal had represented, the richest man in his tribe, but, unfortunately, the medium of exchange in his tribe was prune pits.

(Sigafoos took one look at the mound of prune pits which was his dowry, gnashed his teeth, and stomped off into the jungle, swearing vilely and kicking at sticks and stones and whatever else lay in his path. Stomping thus, swearing thus, kicking thus, Sigafoos kicked over a heap of old bones which — what do you know! — turned out to be the skull and shin of Pithecanthropus Erectus.)

But I digress... From the brutish Pithecanthropus, man evolved slowly upward, growing more intelligent and resourceful. By the Middle Paleolithic period man had invented the leash, which was a remarkable technical achievement, but frankly not terribly useful until the Mesolithic period when man invented the dog.

In the Neolithic period came far and away the most important development in the history of mankind — the discovery of agriculture. Why is this so important, you ask? Because, good friends, without agriculture there would be no tobacco, and without tobacco there would be no Philip Morris, and without Philip Morris you would be without the gentlest, mildest, sunniest, pleasantest, happiest smoke that money can buy, and I would be without a job.

That's why.

©Max Shulman, 1956

To their Neolithic ancestors, the makers of Philip Morris extend a grateful salute. And so will you when you try today's new gentle Philip Morris in today's new pack of red, white and gold.

Associated Women Students Present Year's Program

Elected to head the Associated Women Students of NDSC for the coming school year was Joann Johnson, a sophomore in home economics from Fargo. Other officers elected to the executive board of AWS include Joyce Ericksmoen, vice-president; and Gloria Olson, secretary-treasurer.

At the Monday meeting of the group the program for next year was presented to the delegates of all women's groups on campus.

Headlining the projects to be carried on are the continuation of the counseling system in Women's Residence hall and Ceres hall, creating a more active interest in student government by all members of the student body, and sending out brochures to all girls who will be entering SC next fall.

Plans are now underway to change the local constitution of AWS and eventually to submit the final draft to the national organization of Intercollegiate Associated Women Students for approval and full membership of the local group of women students in the IAWS.

Campus Spring Prom Set For May 16; Senate Discusses Freshman Orientation

The Student Senate is sponsoring the Spring Prom, formerly the Junior-Senior Prom, Wednesday, May 16. This informal dance shall be open to all students at NDSC, the various other colleges in the area and the general public at $1.25 a person. The renowned "Commanders" are playing.

Jerome Herman Named President Of Interfrat Council

Jerome Herman

Jerome Herman, a junior in pharmacy, is the new president of Interfraternity Council, governing body of men's Greek groups on campus.

A member of Kappa Psi fraternity, Herman is the former vice-president of that group. In addition he is treasurer of Kappa Psi next year, a member of Blue Key honor fraternity, Rho Chi honorary pharmacy fraternity, Pharmacy club, and is secretary-treasurer of Province 8 of Kappa Psi.

Other interfraternity officers number Vern Johnson, Sigma Phi Delta, vice-president; Wayne Lee, Tau Kappa Epsilon, treasurer; Norm Lemmon, Farmhouse, secretary; and Jim Feeney, Alpha Tau Omega, reporter.

Gamma Delta Religious Group Sets Retreat

The North Central Region of Gamma Delta is holding a three day retreat for its members. It will be held at Lutheran Island Camp at Henning, Minnesota, on May 4-6.

Gamma Delta is a college organization of the Missouri Synod Lutheran Church for college students. Topics and recreation will be enjoyed by all at the spring camp. There will be about a hundred students from ten different colleges. These colleges are North Dakota University, Minot State Teachers College, Minnesota University, Bemidji State Teachers College, Mankato State Teachers College, South Dakota State, South Dakota University, Augustana, Winnepeg and the host chapter, Fargo. The Fargo chapter consists of students from NDSC, Concordia, MSTC, and St. Luke's School of Nursing.

Jim Cook and Dick Tonn, both of NDSC, are the co-chairmen of the camp. The rest of the committees are: Registration—Dick Mahlke, Audrey Strassberg, Elaine Miller; Food—Bernice Weispenning, Roland Senechal, Myrth Weiser; Workshops—Duane Rubbert, Ken Michels, Marilyn Johnson; Recreation—Calvin Senechal, Beverly Wagner, Dalton Senechal, Darlene Ohnstad, Leonard Mueller; Program—Shirley Bierman, Eunice Neusiis, Harold Linke; Publicity—George Senechal and the Gamma Delta Staff.

President John Miller requested a traffic sign from the Fargo Police Department for the corner of 13th Street and 13th Avenue. The police are studying the problem at the present.

Freshman orientation was discussed at length and various suggestions were offered to better the system now employed at NDSC. It was finally decided that the various campus organizations should have a meeting and coordinate their various ideas and have a more united and efficient system.

The tennis courts were discussed at length but there seems to be various factors which are hindering the progress such as limited funds and a scarcity of building materials. It was the Senate's general opinion that they would like to go ahead with the project but have to determine a plan for obtaining money.

The scarcity of money throughout the various departments at this college were discussed and various solutions were offered. One suggestion brought up and generally agreed upon by the senators is that the students should approach the various representatives and senators in their counties in North Dakota and acquaint them with the NDSC's financial need.

The financial report of Homecoming was read and a profit of $693.87 was earned which shall be allotted to a scholarship fund. The various requirements for this recently established scholarship were read and shall be discussed at the next meeting May 8, 1956.

Word To The Wise -

Undecided Charlies are the bane of the waiting line in the Bison room. Remember, you don't need to wait while the person in front of you makes his or her choice of food. Step ahead. If you starve this year—it could be your own fault.

KDSC Disc Jockey Praised By Fan

Dear Sir:

Mike Jones deserves much praise for his presentation of a program of light classics, semi-classics, and his all around good choice of music as aired on Saturday afternoon over Campus Radio.

The background material he presented prior to each record was very informative and led to greater appreciation and understanding of the music.

By featuring more programs of this nature, the Campus Radio would be fulfilling its purpose as an educational tool of the college. By the same token, the hillbilly music played on Saturday afternoon is a definite insult to my intelligence. The mentality of the students enrolled here would be questioned by those outside of the college after listening to such ear-aching sounds.

If this "music" could masquerade under the guise of folk music, it would be in order as part of the educational facilities of this school. It does not take a music major to really understand that this type of noise is not folk music.

The continuous assault upon our ears by popular music would be readily alleviated by the interspersing of music of a more digestible nature, something in the light classical vein.

Enough interest could be created by the vast number of students on campus who enjoy and appreciate the classics to support a one-hour program each evening. This music of much aesthetic pleasure and educational value would be an unquestionable asset to the students and the school.

Yours truly,
Joan Evenstad

Newman Club Cleanup

Educational Value Of Picnics Pointed Out By Socializing Student Population

By Melissa Aardvark
"Do you think picnics are a detriment to higher education on the North Dakota State College campus?"

ANSWERS

Gordon Grossbeak, freshman in waste materials from Bessarabia. "Absolutely not. Picnics provide an excellent opportunity to get together and be friendly. (Hic.) Beshides, lotsh of them guys sing darn good at picnics. I'm for having them in place of classes. They sure are more entertaining."

Montmorency Royce the Third, sophomore in economics from Grassy Butte: "Dem picnics all right. My dad likes 'em too. He's a senior in farm implement maintenance out here. Started school in the fall of 1923. Only reason he keeps coming back to college is because of the picnics."

Susan Thunderstruck, graduate student in pins and needles from Polecat Flats: "I certainly oppose the opinions of any members of the student body that refer to picnics as tearing down our higher educational structure here at State. Actually, I think that picnics are the greatest boon to man woman relations since the invention of the sewing machine. Let's have more of them."

Fairhead Gartersnapper, senior in alcohol from Port Emma: "What picnics? What higher educational system? What college?"

"Of course not. College students need some release from the tension of classwork. What better way to let them relax than at a picnic. I'm 86 myself and I still make everyone of them."

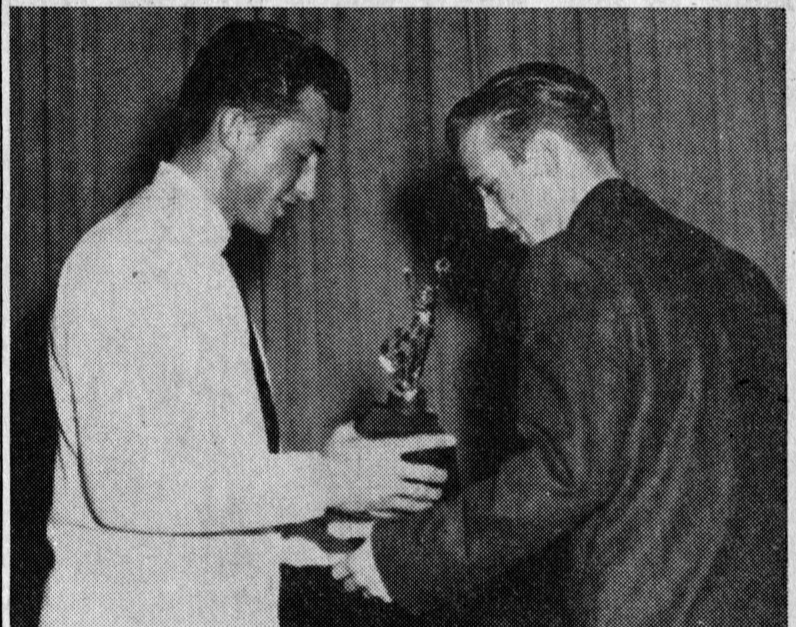

Yuri Timoshenko, scholar in rare tomes from Samarkand: "Although I have only been attending this number one school for three days, I find that the institution quaintly called picnicing to be one of the most enjoyable spare-time activities it has been my pleasure to join in. I am a member of a group organized to promote better use of spare time. How about a picnic tomorrow night?"

Rueben Fink, junior in human appreciation from Saylor's Landing: "Only thing wrong with picnics is that they don't serve enough food. Bring on the chow."

Sami Smirnov, sophomore in party life from Small Rock: "Man, these picnics are great. No, they don't hurt your school work. Who hits the books during spring quarter, anyway? Out where I come from we don't have enough people to have a picnic."

Yong Wing Low, senior in refrigerator cleaning from Franklin Island: "I don't like hot dogs or lemonade."

"Be careful Don!" Although Don Peterson's back is to the camera he's mighty happy over the trophy being handed to him by Bob Gion for the second place efforts of Kappa Delta sorority-Sigma Chi fraternity in the production act competition.

"Out On A Bender" - - - By Barff Weekend Features Baseball - Track

Cold breezes blowing, snow flurries, picnics plagued by shivers, gad man! What is this thing called spring? Cold weather or no, the athletic department here at Old State is keeping things rolling where spring sports are concerned.

Perhaps I am repeating what some other articles on this page are saying, but here are a few things you might keep in mind in planning your weekend.

Going south to escape this NoDak heat? Well now, you might as well stop off at Brookings and watch the Bison and the Jacks square off on the diamond. Bony and his boys left today, and will play tonight under the lights and tomorrow afternoon, under the sun, I believe. The sun, you know, that's the deal that makes the light when the street lights are off.

Or maybe you are heading west! Then stop off at Jamestown and take in the Jamestown Relays. Should be some real good running, jumping and—what else do they do at a track meet—I don't know. Anyway it ought to be good.

And it was surprised this head was to see that Soupbone Campbell and Don (shirt-flapping-in-the-wind) Augustin are not the type of athletes that stop training with the end of the season. Why only last Friday I saw them both down at Todd's training just like always.

Gad, this suspense is killing me. What suspense? Great Scott man, get hep, the Olde State ping pong tourney is still undecided. For three weeks now this column has been telling you that the results of said tourney would be out "next week". Well, again I say next week, and if not next week never. Who ever heard of cutting a spring picnic to play ping pong?

Have you all noticed that Barff is back at the sports editing job? Well he is. Remember that character who wrote this column last week? He is long gone. Rather than sit here and talk about the weather he took off for Florida. Have a ball, Jim.

Could go on indefinitely like this, but if you have read this far you are perhaps ready to quit anyway. See you at Lindeewood. Barff.

Tracksters Go West For Jimtown Relays

Tomorrow will find the Bison track men going west for the Jamestown Relays. The meet will feature both college and high school competition.

The pole vault event will open the meet at 9:30 tomorrow morning. Events will continue through the afternoon, and all final events will be held under the lights tomorrow evening.

Besides the track competition, there will be golf and tennis contests.

Coach Kaiser plans to take 14 tracksters, six tennis men and five golfers to the Jamestown meet.

ASME To Meet May 1

ASME will meet in the north conference room of the Student Union at 7:30 p.m. May 1st. Main subjects of the evening will be election of officers and planning of the annual spring party.

Harold Blomseth, program director, urges all members to attend.

Rothrock Charges Head South To SDS; Wahpeton Is Next

The NDSC baseball team will resume play this Friday night at Brookings, S. Dak. The Bison will meet the South Dakota State Jackrabbits under the lights Friday evening, and again Saturday afternoon.

This will be the first action for the Herd since their surprisingly successful southern trip.

Coach Rothrock and his charges will return to Fargo after the SDS games to open home play with a double header against Wahpeton School of Science Monday. These games will be held at Barnett Field.

The Herd has been doing a lot of practicing since returning from Arkansas, and the starting lineup is pretty well set at this time.

On the infield we find Warren Gullickson, catcher; Doug Walstad, 1st base; Howard Heil, 2nd base; Ron Zotnick, shortstop; and Dick Johnston, 3rd base.

On the mound to start the two SDS games will be Morrie Holm and Clarence Niskenen. Starters for the Wahpeton games will be Billy Thomas and Don Worner.

Rothrock reports that, in view of the fine record compiled by the Herd while on the southern trip, there is a chance to get into the NCAA playoffs this year. This, of course, hinges upon whether or not the Bison continue in their winning ways.

Golf, Tennis, Softball On Tap

With winter gone for good (?) and spring here to stay (we hope) the intramural picture again makes a change. Golf, tennis and softball are again on the agenda, softball having started Tuesday.

Two games opened the softball season Tuesday. They SPD nine and the SAE's tried to play a game but it was called because of darkness. The ATO and Kappa Psi diamond men were more successful in their try, the Tau's winning 12-1.

Fifteen teams have signed up for softball so far, and more are expected to enter this week. The two brackets that have been set up are as follows:

Bracket No. 1	Bracket No. 2
SPD	ATO
SAE	Kappa Psi
Theta Chi	Sigma Chi

and pessimistic viewpoints due to these past performances, things are looking better and better. Del Anderson is adding more and more men to his squad and is getting more depth to his entire field. However there are a few thin spots, but these should be strengthened before the team takes to the field.

Del is expecting a number of boys from various junior colleges this coming season. Some will be eligible immediately and should bolster any position on the team.

These boys have either promised Del they would be here for next season, or are very seriously considering joining the ranks by next season.

Here's the line-up so far. At end there are two lettermen, Ivan Lang, Anamoose, and Tom Kuklenski, Ironwood, Mich. Also at end are Marvin Miller, Wheaton, Minn., Jack Bernardy, Moorhead, Dick Kjelland, Fargo, and John Campagna, Bismarck.

At tackle SC has one letterman, Roger Gebhardt, from Wahpeton. The other tackles are Bob MacDonald, Winnipeg, Jerry Lob-singer, Fargo, Herman Nagel, Linton, Jerry Tharaldson, Moorhead, Dick Fabian, Cleveland, Ohio, Eugene Gleason, Chicago and Charles Marr.

For guard the returning lettermen are Bob Strong, LaSalle, Ill., Phil Kasowski, Casselton, and Jerry Konetshny, LaSalle, Ill. Other tackles are Don Remillong, Bismarck; Dan Johnson, Moorhead, Eugene Pellizaro, Stan- baugh, Mich., Chuck Hawk, Cleveland, Ohio, and Bill Hanlon, Aiken, Minn.

For center position SC boasts two returning lettermen, Tom Raukar, Hibbing, Minn., and Dick Tschider, Bismarck. Other centers include Bob Block, Lyons, Neb., and Dick Marabito, Cleveland, Ohio.

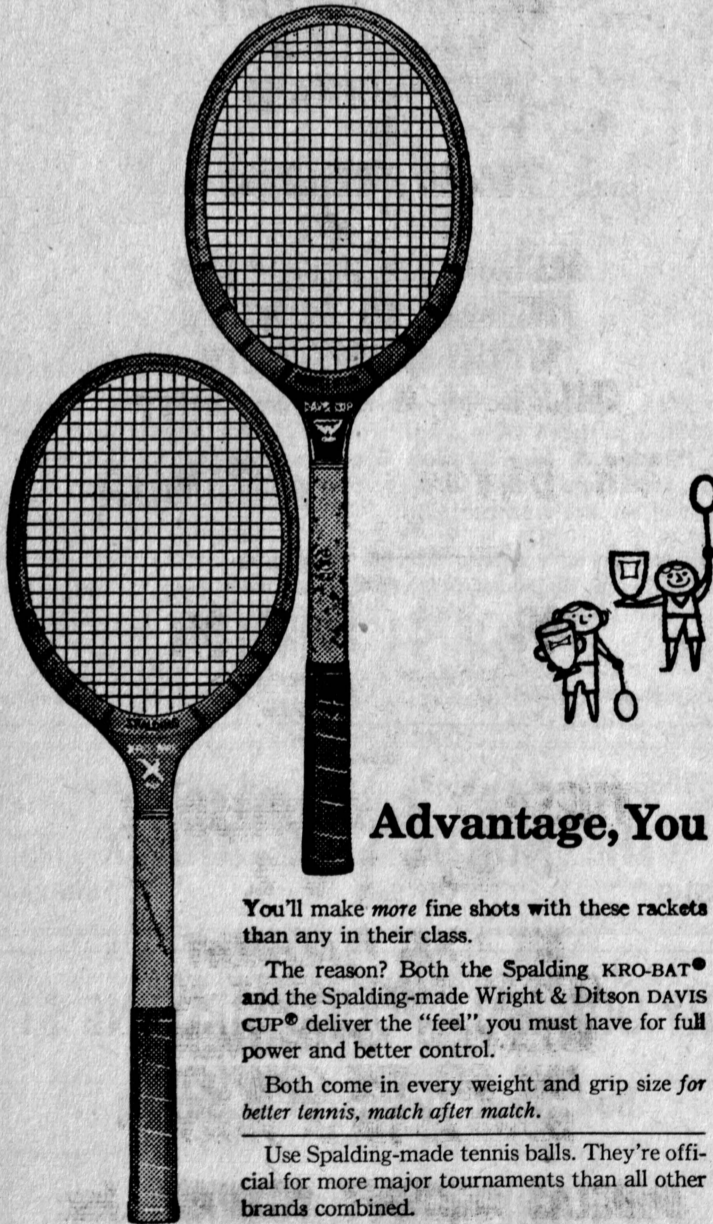

At quarterback four men vie for honors. They include Don Backley, Chicago, Ill., Lynn Parkell, Detroit Lakes, Charles Hyde, Wahpeton and Lloyd Larson, Chicago.

Fullback position finds Dick Sturdevant, Wahpeton, Dallas Kopp, Lisbon, John Joyce, Chicago, Wayne Worner, Wahpeton, and Terry Hansby, Cleveland, Ohio.

One letterman returns to the halfback spot. He is Gordon Friede, from Chinook, Montana. Also at halfback is Wayne Wall, Bottineau, Dean Sharpe, Bismarck, Ralph Winkelmann, Witter, Calif., Dick Brown, Winona, Minn., and Ralph Sevde, Willis-ton.

That's the line-up as it stands now. Each man in his position —13-26-39-HUPI! Let 'er rip!

Del is also looking for three football managers for the coming season. Anyone interested should contact him or his office.

Unique Italian Delicacy Brought To City By Trio of Adventurous State Students

Three connoisseurs of pizza have combined their talent to present to the public one of the finest morsels that ever enticed the palate. In an earnest effort to supplant lefse, these three pioneers in the pizza field of Fargo and Moorhead have enjoyed the compliments of the multitude who have dined at their Orpheum Pizza Shop on N. P. Avenue.

Starting with nothing but an intense liking for pizza, these three NDSC students; Sam "Personality Man" Kalanov, Roy "Elephant Belly" Cedarstrom, and Wayne "German" Irick, have created a thriving business.

Equipped with a well-guarded family recipe received from the lips of dying grandmother Irick, they set about to improve and perfect the recipe with every bit of their culinary art. After many hours of concentrated effort in the midst of pizza dough and pizza sauce, they finally came up with the masterpiece of delectability which they now serve.

Sam Kalinov, as a small child in the wheat fields of North Dakota, had an unsatiable longing for pizza to supplant the coarse black bread which insulted his taste buds. Throughout his five year army career as lieutenant of the head office, he managed to store up experience and bits of information to guide him on his business venture. He still cherished his unorthodox passion for pizza as he continued his studies at NDSC and finally took enough time off from his studying in the evenings to make and sample countless numbers of pizzas. Now a gourmet in the art of Pizza making, he has generously offered to share these taste delights with the general public for an extremely reasonable sum.

The plain nine-inch pizza retails at fifty cents; with added delicacies of pepponi and mushrooms at the nominal fee of sixty cents. Larger pizzas are slightly higher and although they don't have delivery service as yet, telephone orders are being taken.

Rolling dough with the agility of a nurse slapping babies bottoms is the Wahpeton star, Wayne Irick. A veteran of the air force, his overwhelming desire to make pizza dough forced him to quit flight school and rush back to engineering school in search of an ideal mate, someone who could make pizza sauce.

His search led him to the third and final member of the trio, Big Roy Cedarstrom, who specializes in grating cheese and washing dishes. He too, as a boy living on the rocks at Minot, shocked and shamed his family of true and loyal Swedes by declining the delights of lefse for the wonders of pizza.

This handsome trio not only have pizza on their hands, but also in their hearts. For a truly appealing, non-cooling taste treat, do not miss this utopia of Italian eating, the absolute ultimate in pizza charm.

After being greeted at the door of their establishment by these creative artists you will be able to chat with all your friends, indulge in a bit of refreshing liquid if you wish, and then sit down to the greatest treat this side of Rome—pizza at its very best.

Peter Rex Named To Head SC Tennis Team

Peter Rex of Fargo has been elected to captain NDSC's 1956 tennis team. Rex is a senior in Aeronautical Engineering.

The team will take part in the state tourney at Dickinson on May 11, and the NCC meet at Sioux Falls on May 18. There is a possibility of meets with St. Cloud, St. Johns, and Bemidji in Minnesota.

New Spec Staff Begins Operations With Next Issue

Schwartz is also a member of the student senate, commissioner of campus affairs of the student commission, a member of Blue Key honor fraternity, and was publicity chairman for the 1956 Little International Livestock Exposition.

New news editor of the campus weekly is Neal Bjornson, a sophomore in agriculture from Arvilla. A desk editor for the past two quarters, Bjornson is also a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity. Additionally, he is active in the Saddle and Siroin club.

Feature editor for 1956-57 is Beverly Pfeifer, a junior in arts and science from Moorhead. Formerly Beverly worked as copy editor of the Bison annual. She is a member of the student senate, commissioner of NSA affairs of the commission, and is vice-president of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Other staff positions have yet to be filled.

Alpha Gamma Delta Plans Special Affair

Following initiation ceremonies Saturday afternoon the Alpha Gam's will hold their Feast of Roses at the Graver Hotel at 6:30 p.m.

Area Student Leaders Meet To Discuss Problem of Increasing Enrollment

Student leaders with an eye to the future met recently at the University of Minnesota to lay the groundwork for a solution to the problems of increasing enrollment.

Representing NDSC at the meeting were former commissioner of National Students Association Affairs Dick Monson and Dr. Hale Aarnes, faculty advisor to the NSA commission on campus.

Delegates from thirty colleges in the Minnesota-Dakota region of the USNSA joined with educators in planning for the doubled enrollments expected to flood our universities and colleges in the next fifteen years.

After hearing panel discussions and speeches by prominent deans and teachers, the students held small group discussion meetings. These were designed to relate the effect of increasing enrollment to their particular college or university.

The entire system of higher education will have to be revised to absorb the increase, the students were told. Suggested measures included the following:

Twelve month college years, with six day weeks and fifteen hour days.

Shortening of class "hours". Larger classes, with assistants taking over some of the duties of the instructor to give him time for more personalized attention to the individual student.

A national scholarship foundation and "talent scouting" for bright high school graduates who would not be able to attend college without financial aid.

Influencing more qualified people to enter the teaching profession.

Hiring retired instructors. Broadening the functions of the colleges—with specialized schools offering courses in general education.

Revision of registration standards.

Students must take a great deal of responsibility upon themselves, according to Augsburg college dean Martin Quanbeck. This view met with general agreement from other speakers.

Junior colleges as a partial solution to the enrollment problem were advocated by Dean Charles E. Hill of Rochester junior college and Dean Morse of the University of Minnesota.

Both educators said they feel such colleges will give more high school graduates an opportunity for a college education. Dean Hill pointed to the success of the California junior college program, which makes it possible for 65 percent of the students completing high school to attend college. In Minnesota an estimated 31 percent of high school graduates receive a college education.

Industry's views on increasing enrollments were expressed by Samuel H. Cartwell, assistant personnel manager for Minneapolis-Honeywell Aero Division. He said industry is looking for a "broad base" of education.

Composition Contest Featured At EE Dinner Meeting Here

The student section of the Minnesota District of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers will feature a student paper contest at a dinner meeting in the student union ballroom at 6:30 tonight.

Approximately 30 engineers from the University of North Dakota, University of Minnesota, South Dakota State, and North Dakota State will be attending the meeting.

Earlier in the day a joint meeting with the group from UND will be held. This meeting will feature a coffee hour, a tour of NDSC facilities, and a discussion of the work being done at the two schools.
