Scouting Around

... Neal Bjornson

Rushing has officially ended for the fraternities on this campus, and with the first big order of business out of the way for the year most of the students will now turn their thoughts to the Homecoming activities which will be upon us in a few weeks.

The election of the Homecoming Queen and attendants will be held next Tuesday, October 8. For those who have never participated in a campus election, it will be necessary to present your activity ticket at the polling places before you are eligible to vote.

Homecoming this year should be quite an event. The Governor and his wife will be on campus to witness the festivities, the Bismarck-to-Fargo torch run will be staged for the second year, and the Alumni Association is staging a campaign to have more State grads return to campus than ever.

Seems as how college enrollments in this area are following the nationwide trend and continuing to rise. Concordia has a total of 1500 students going to school across the river, while the Upstate Academy has an enrollment of about 3500 for the current semester. These figures are new high for both schools. NDSC registration figures should top the 3000 mark when the official count is made this weekend.

The Lincoln Debate Society will be entering into international competition October 21 when they meet a squad of orators from the Cambridge Union Debating Team of England.

The motion for debate, "This House Deplores the Modern Pre-occupation with Material Progress," should give the student body food for thought. The debate will be held in Festival Hall and is open to SC students free of charge.

A word of congratulations to Jim Harmon, newly elected director of the Student News Bureau. A senior in industrial engineering, Jim will take over from Sonja Oimoen who has been serving in a temporary capacity this quarter.

Yours truly will be gone from the campus scene for a few days early in November as Pat Larson and myself have been named to represent the Bison and The Spectrum respectively at the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in New York City, November 7, 8, and 9.

The Bison hit the road for the first time this week as they travel south to take on defending NCC titlists Morningside. The Herd will be seeking its first win and first points of the current campaign in this encounter.

Homecoming Plans Control Student Senate

Student Senate was called to order in Conference Rooms 1, 2, 3 Tuesday night by President Eldon McLain. In opening the meeting McLain introduced Paul Bracklesburg, freshman class president, to the Senate.

Bracklesburg stated that he was sure the Senate could count on members of the freshman class for assistance in the work on the Homecoming activities.

It was reported that Alpha Phi Omega was willing, with financial assistance from Senate, to build the float for the Homecoming Queen. Beva Fegley moved to pay half the expenses of the float for the Queen.

In regard to the proposed budget for Senate, Commissioner of Finance Schnell, stated that he did not believe that a budget would be of any particular aid for Senate. He felt that if a budget had to be set up it should not be done until Homecoming.

Karen Edinger said that she couldn't understand how an organization of the Senate's stature could function without a budget. She then moved that a budget be set up for Senate as soon as the Homecoming activities were over.

Margaret Platt, NSA Commissioner, stated that her commission has planned the World University Service drive for the week of January 13, the leadership clinic for January 14, and the educational affairs conference for February 4. Bill Lantz moved that these dates be approved subject to change by the Commission of LSA.

McLain announced that the Homecoming convocation has been scheduled for 8:40 a.m. instead of 9:40 a.m.

The Governor and his wife will arrive on campus Saturday morning instead of Friday as previously planned. President Hultz will hold a luncheon for them between the parade and the game that day.

A discussion regarding when and where the Queen should be crowned led to a motion from Bob Thompson that the Queen be crowned at the halftime ceremonies at Dakota Field and an informal introduction be given them at the convocation Friday morning.

George Schwartz outlined the rules for queen elections and asked for volunteers to handle the ballot boxes at the various voting centers. The election will be next Tuesday from 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m.

In regard to the dance, Dick Monson reported that the Rahjaks will be contacted in regard to the coat check concession and he will inquire into the possibility of having the Letterman's Club sell soft drinks during the dance.

The next meeting of Student Senate will be held October 8.

Midwestern Universities Construct Student Family Housing Facilities

(I.P.) Reporting on the results of a survey of family housing facilities made of 12 midwestern schools, the director of housing at the University of Illinois, reveals that most of the schools are constructing family housing for married students because existing facilities of acceptable standards are not available at prices they can afford.

He outlined the following points in a program for student housing based on the most frequently given responses of the survey.

- Married student housing should be constructed by the schools.

- Such housing should be located near the campus and convenient to utility outlets and with good recreational areas for children and parents.

- Such facilities should be centralized to realize economy in construction and management.

- The units should be two-story, row-type apartment buildings of fire proof construction, equally divided between one and two bedroom units, half of each of which would be furnished.

- The rental rates should be about: Unfurnished, one bedroom, $70 per month; unfurnished, 2 bedroom, $80; furnished, one bedroom, $80; furnished two bedroom, $87.50.

- The building cost per unit should be between $9,000 and $10,000 and the project should be financed by the sale of bonds to be repaid over a period of years.

Colleges Blamed For Intellectual Lack

(I.P.) Too many of the nation's college graduates suffer from "intellectual malnutrition" and "cultural anemia" once they leave the campus of their alma mater, Rev. John Cavanaugh, C.S.C., former president of the University of Notre Dame declared at South Bend, Ind., recently.

The colleges themselves are largely to blame, Father Cavanaugh said, because they have treated their alumni "only as extra-curricular entities."

Alumni have cheered at football games and they have proved to be a loyal source of financial support, he observed, but their schools generally "have failed to help them intellectually."

Father Cavanaugh called for a literal revolution in alumni organization. He urged colleges and universities to devise programs that would give their graduates "something substantial".

"Alumni associations have for too long been like great storage bins for our surplus national brains. Only now do we realize that the concept of such a surplus was a fallacy, that our country is actually threatened with leadership starvation in the midst of plenty," he concluded.

YM-YW Bowls

The YMCA Camera Club dark room will be open from 7:00 p.m. to 9:00 p.m. on Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday evenings for those students interested in developing and printing their own pictures.

The darkroom is located in the basement of Churchill Hall, rooms K-4 and K-5. All members are welcome to taken advantage of this offer.

Eastern School Lists Recommendations In Regard To Additional Frats

(I. P.) Recognizing that the expansion of undergraduate enrollment on the University of Delaware campus may bring requests for establishing new chapters of national fraternities there, the Board of Trustees recently approved recommendations made by the Committee on Student Personnel Services and Welfare which provide for such requests.

Any national fraternity seeking to charter must meet the following conditions:

To receive consideration, a new group wishing to establish a chapter must be a recognized national social fraternity holding membership in the National Interfraternity Conference.

The fraternity as a national organization must have a strong standing as pertains to scholarship, finances, conduct, program, and principles. The fraternity's creed must not be in conflict with the university's program, policies or objectives.

The fraternity must show evidence of having reasonable alumni support in our geographical area.

The fraternity must give unequivocal and active support to all university policies, regulations, and goals now in evidence as well as to those which may be established in the future.

The fraternity must have the unqualified endorsements of the Interfraternity Council at the university and of the Dean of Students. The Board of Trustees will be authority for giving final approval or disapproval to any petition to establish a new fraternity here.

The fraternity must submit a plan acceptable to the university where-by adequate housing (by university standards) will be provided for the group within a limit of four years after the date the chapter is chartered. The fraternity house must contain satisfactory accommodations for a resident house mother, and such a person acceptable to the university must be employed beginning with the date the house is opened for occupancy.

The university will not approve any interim temporary housing arrangement nor can the university be expected to provide housing either through a dormitory section arrangement or through a university rental property. Individual members of such a fraternity will, of course, be eligible for housing in university dormitories on the same basis that all other students are eligible for such housing.

The fraternity's schedule of local and national charges for pledging, initiation, and dues must be acceptable to the university.

After preliminary approval is given by the university, a fraternity may proceed to establish a chapter either by colonization or by creating a local fraternity destined to become a chapter of the national.

If the chapter is to be established through a local, the plans for creating this local must have university approval and the record of the local in scholarship, conduct, and program must be entirely satisfactory before chartering of the local will be permitted.

Letters To The Editor:

Dear Sir:

The United States flag that flies from the Mall flag pole has been at half mast for several days this past week. Evidently it was flown at half mast to honor someone.

This form of recognition is indeed a nice gesture, but it would be even nicer if students were informed of the reason. Only too often do repeated inquiries fail to disclose an explanation.

This week, I assume the flag was flying at half mast to honor Dr. W. F. Sudro, former Dean of the School of Pharmacy here at NDSC. But it was a news item in the Fargo Forum that led me to draw this conclusion.

An announcement placed on the activity board or the bulletin board in the lobby of the Union would be a much more appropriate means of informing the student body of the reason for the lowered flag.

If there is reason enough to fly the flag at half mast, then there should also be reason enough to give the students an explanation.

Annual Student Ills

Collegiate illnesses can be categorized according to the day of the week!

First, comes Monday morning misery. A sign of the onslaught of this disease is the sight of a collegian, suitcase in hand, waiting for a bus Friday afternoon. First real symptoms are visible Sunday evening when the student feebly returns.

The cure? A complete day of rest.

Freshmen and sophomores get "I-ache-all-over-itis" on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Symptoms: sore throats, stiff necks, weak knees, unprepared assignments.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday are the healthiest days, and students who have been sick all week invariably recover Friday noon.

WHAT EVERY YOUNG COED SHOULD WEAR

Gather round, girls. Flip open a pack of Marlboros, light up, enjoy that fine flavor, that good filter, relax and listen while Old Dad tells you about the latest campus fashions.

The key word this year is casual. Be casual. Be slapdash. Be rakish. Improvise. Invent your own ensembles—like ski pants with a peek-a-boo blouse, like pajama bottoms with an ermine stole, like a hockey sweater with a dirndl.

(Dirndl, incidentally, is one of the truly fascinating words in the English language. The word originated on June 27, 1846, when Dusty Sigafoos, the famous scout and Indian fighter, went into the Golden Nugget Saloon in Cheyenne, Wyoming, to see Lily Langtry. Miss Langtry did her dance in pink tights. Dusty had never seen anything like that in his life and he was much impressed. He thought about her all the way home. When he got

When he got home his wife Feldspar was waiting home his wife Feldspar was waiting to show him a new skirt she had made for herself. "How do you like my new skirt, Dusty?" asked Feldspar. He looked at the large, voluminous garment, then thought of the pink tights on Lily Langtry. "Your skirt is darn dull," said Dusty. "Darn dull" was later shortened to dirndl, which is how dirndls got their name.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Marlboro and talking about the latest campus styles. Casual, we agree, is the key word. But casual need not mean drab. Liven up your outfits with a touch of glamor. Even the lowly dungaree and man-shirt combination can be made exciting if you'll adorn it with a simple necklace of 120 matched diamonds. With Bermuda shorts, wear knee-cymbals. Be guided by the famous poet, Cosmo Sigafoos (whose cousin Dusty invented the dirndl), who wrote:

*Sparkle, my beauty,
Shimmer and shine,
The night is young,
The air's like wine,
Cling to a leaf,
Hang on a vine,
Crawl on your belly,
It's time to dine.*

(Mr. Sigafoos, it should be explained, was writing about a glowworm. Insects, as everyone knows, are among Mr. Sigafoos' favorite subjects for poetry. Who can ever forget his immortal Ode To a Boll Weevil? Or his Tumbling Along with the Tumbling Tumblebug? Or his Fly Gently, Sweet Aphid? Mr. Sigafoos has been inactive since the invention of DDT.)

But I digress. We were smoking a Marlboro and discussing fashion. Let us turn now to headwear. The motif in hats this year will be familiar American scenes. There will be models to fit every head—for example, the "Empire State Building" for tall, thin heads; the "Jefferson Memorial" for squatty heads; "Niagara Falls" for dry scalps. Feature of the collection is the "Statue of Liberty," complete with a torch that actually burns. This is very handy for lighting your Marlboros, which is terribly important because no matter how good Marlboros are, they're nowhere unless you light them.

© Max Shulman, 1957

Whatever you wear, girls—and men too—you'll find the perfect accessory is Marlboro, whose makers take pleasure in bringing you this column throughout the school year.

Botany Professor Tells Of Giant Trees One On Display In College Library

By Dr. L. D. Potter

Each year many people visit the beautiful Coast Redwoods and the Giant Sequoias of California and marvel at their beauty.

Few realize that during the ancient period of the Miocene, some 50 million years ago, the Sequoia was widespread throughout North America and that it was present in North Dakota along with other great trees of a dense coniferous forest, the remnants of which are present today in some of the lignite beds and in places in the badlands as petrified stumps. Then the climate changed and these forests were reduced to the relative local stands of the Pacific Coast.

One species of Sequoia was known only from fossil material, and botanists believing it to be extinct gave it a name which according to botanical rules of nomenclature was to apply to a fossil species, namely Metasequoia.

This was in 1941. Five years later a Chinese forester, Mr. Wang-chan, discovered three living trees of this species thought to be extinct. Later a total of fifty-five trees were discovered. The living Metasequoia is a large tree, with heights up to 116 feet and diameters of 7½ feet. Like the Larch or Tamarack of Minnesota, it is deciduous, not evergreen, and is leafless during the winter months.

To prevent the extinction of this tree, once thought to be already extinct, seeds were brought to this country and distributed to several botanical centers. The botany department of NDSC several years ago obtained two seedling plants from the University of Minnesota and these have been growing in the department greenhouse since that time. This "Living Fossil" of Sequoia may now be seen on display in the lobby of the College Library.

MOST POPULAR GAME that ever went to college—that's Sticklers! Just write a simple riddle and a two-word rhyming answer. For example: What's a big cat shot full of holes? (Answer: peppered leopard.) Both words must have the same number of syllables—bleak freak, fluent truant, vinery finery. Send Sticklers, with your name, address, college and class to Happy-Joe-Lucky, Box 67A, Mt. Vernon, N. Y. Don't do drawings! We'll pay $25 for every Stickler we use in our ads—and for hundreds that never see print. While you're Stickling, light up a light smoke—light up a Lucky. Public Health Committee Takes Steps To Cope With Possible Flu Epidemic

A special 18 member Public Health Committee meeting was held in Bismarck last week to cope with an epidemic of Asian influenza should it occur in North Dakota.

The purpose of the joint meeting of the Public Health Committee of the North Dakota State Medical Assn. and the N. D. State Health Council was to make recommendations necessary to cope with Asian influenza should it develop in epidemic form in North Dakota.

At present, this type of influenza is a mild disease. However, because of the high attack rate and rapid spread of this influenza in other areas, the group encourages maximum use of the vaccine.

The joint committee emphasizes that vaccination is a voluntary procedure with distribution through regular pharmaceutical channels to licensed physicians. The State Department of Health has no funds for purchase or distribution of the vaccine and no special arrangements exist for provision of vaccine to any segment of the population.

The committee adopted the recommendations of the American Medical Assn. and the state and territorial Health Officers Assn. to be effective during this period of time when vaccine supplies will be limited. These are as follows:

(1) Those individuals whose services are necessary to maintain the health of the community. (2) Those individuals necessary to maintain other basic community services, and (3) persons with tuberculosis and others who, in the opinion of the physician constitute a special medical risk.

The committee called attention to the fact that studies in military services have released that present vaccine with one injection per individual is about 70% effective. Persons sensitive to eggs, chickens, or chicken feathers should under no circumstances receive the vaccine, the committee firmly advised, but rather should run the risk of contracting Asian influenza.

Hybrid Curio Found Amid College Activity

(ACP) Between the innocence of bobby sox and the sophistication of mink there lies a curious, carefree creature called a coed.

Coeds come equipped with assorted pedal pushers and hairdos, but they all uphold the same creed: to enjoy every minute of every hour of every college day.

Teachers fluster them, mothers protect them, little sisters idolize them, and boys worship them.

They can be found in all places; lounging on, draping around, leaning against, busting to, and traipsing from.

A coed is a curious mixture. To her admirers she has the mind of Einstein, the looks of Kim, the personality of Grace, and the figure of Marilyn. To the other coeds she has the form of a beer bottle, the personality of a wet mackerel, and the mind of a beetle.

She leads a martyr's life. No one else could stand time limits on phone calls, the frustration of a stolen bobbypins, and the pain of waiting for a date.

The coed loves weekends, formal dances, cashmere sweaters, red convertibles and men.

She doesn't like 8:00 a.m. classes, Monday mornings and deadlines on English themes. No one else derives more sheer pleasure from an extra hour of sleep on misty mornings, or from a new record.

No one else can pack into 24 hours, five classes, two hours study, three coffee breaks, a full length movie, and eight hours sleep.

The coed is here to stay with all her curiosities. She may remain a bobby soxer or attain the dignity of mink, but in between she is still that curious phenomenon . . . a coed.

Attain Goal Thru Self Improvement Five Steps Presented For Educators

Until educators take it upon themselves to put teaching on a par with other professions, their "plea for prestige and pay is immature, selfish, and an impotent request which will not be honored by the public."

B. J. Chandler, professor of education at Northwestern University, said this recently in an address, "Have we the courage to make teaching a profession?" pointing out that "teaching can achieve professional status only through the efforts and accomplishments of those who are engaged in this field of service".

He presented five steps for educators to follow in attaining this goal.

- Objective and penetrating self-approval.
- Adoption and enforcement of a code of professional ethics.
- Reorganization and revitalization of teachers associations.
- Improvement of in-service education.
- Bold and constructive leadership.

Professor Chandler criticized the myriad of teaching organizations and associations. "There are over 500 national and regional associations and over 100 on the state level", he said. We need a unified professional association, stiff requirements for admission, and emphasis of welfare objectives. This would get results that constituting ourselves as a pressure group and pleading for more money will never achieve.

"Can you imagine the American Medical Association or the American Bar Association trying to sell memberships as does the National Education Association and the American Federation of Teachers? This practice is disgraceful and it retards professional development of teaching. Then, too, both of these national groups continually shout salaries, tenure, and other welfare provisions. This robs us of our dignity, precludes real public respect, and accomplishes nothing except an occasional pittance or sop."

He also cited the need for a universally recognized code of ethics that could be enforced by a legally constituted ethics committee set up by the state legislature.

Did You Know? By Corky

The flying saucer of several years ago has sort of died down, with the exception of an isolated story on the back page of metropolitan late editions. I have such a story.

You, of the reading audience may or may not want to believe this, but I can do naught but pass it on for what it's worth.

We have, on this campus, a Martian!! A female Martian, no less. She does not have green skin, three arms, or pointed ears. She is, in fact, a very lovely girl and possesses all the attributes of the average Earth woman.

On a recent evening, I was squiring this young lady to a local movie downtown. Everything seemed to be normal, when I felt a strange sensation pass over me. I glanced sideways at my date, but she didn't seem to share my reaction. Thinking it to be a figment of my imagination, I returned my attention to the movie.

But the sensation persisted. I nudged my date with my arm. No response. I spoke to her softly. Still no response. Then I grabbed her arm and spoke again. But she appeared to be in an odd state of suspension.

By now, I knew something was definitely wrong. Continued efforts on my part failed to arouse her. I checked her pulse, it was strong and firm. She was breathing normally and her skin was warm to the touch. In spite of all these factors, she seemed to be "gone". That's all I can say, she was "gone".

I controlled my rising panic and somehow remained calm till the end of the movie. It was then, as if by magic, she returned from wherever she was.

Curiosity forbid me to remain silent and I questioned her of the circumstances in the theatre. It was then I got the shock of my life. "I am from Mars", she said. I questioned the girl further and learned that what she said is true.

She is a Martian! This girl had arrived from Mars several years ago and assumed the identity of an Earth girl. She said there are many such Martians on Earth and they are studying our culture.

They travel to and from Mars by a process known as "Kwimming." This is a means of teleportation, only faster. The mind surmounts the obstacles of the body and environment, and they literally think themselves back and forth. The process is almost instantaneous. This is what had happened in the movie. She had "kwimmed" to Mars.

She then told me of Mars. It is a land of infinite time. The sky is always a dark purple and there is no light, as such. Every object exudes its own means of light, sort of an aurora. They communicate by sight waves. There is no death or life on Mars. The Martians just are, that's all there is to it.

This Martian girl promised me I could go to Mars with her some day. I am eagerly awaiting clearance from her home planet so that I may make the journey.

This story is difficult to swallow, I know. But it did happen. I wasn't drunk. I haven't been studying too hard. I didn't dream it.

You just never know. The person standing next to you now, may be a Martian. They seem to be all around us. Who knows, perhaps I too am a Martian. Sleep well, my friends.

Bison Trampled As Panthers Paw Up

The NDSC Bison suffered their third consecutive defeat of the young season Saturday night as the ISTC Panthers rolled to an 18-0 victory.

The Panthers scored twice in the second period and added another in the second half. ISTC stuck to the ground almost exclusively. The Panthers attempted only two passes, completing one for six yards. The first two Panther touchdowns came on runs of 41 and 29 yards. Their final marker was scored on a two-yard plunge.

Most of the action in the first quarter took place in ISTC territory. The Bison drove down inside the ISTC ten the first time they had the ball but lost the ball on downs. The only other drive the Bison were able to put together came in the fourth quarter. However, the march was stalled on the two-yard line.

Fumbles again hurt the Bison as they lost the ball twice. Thus far, this season, the Bison have had ten fumbles recovered by the opposition. The miscues Saturday night may have resulted from the staunch Panther line play.

I-M Football Underway With 5 Winning Teams

Intramural touch football got underway with five games last week.

In the "A" league, AGR defeated Sigma Chi 12-0 and Coop defeated Theta Chi 12-0.

In the "B" circuit, Kappa Psi won on a forfeit from Farmhouse, 6-0. SAE defeated TKE 18-0. ATO and Student Union battled to a 6-6 tie. If the result of this game figures in the determination of a playoff team, it will be replayed.

The teams play Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week on the field directly north of the stadium.

Sports Of All Sorts

... by Clarence Anderson

Two questions are foremost in the minds of SC football fans. The first is what's wrong with the Bison? Secondly, who's going to score the first Bison TD of the year?

It's hard to understand why the team has failed so badly in their first three games. The team is largely the same squad that finished third in the North Central Conference last year. Only a small miracle can gain the Bison that high a finish in the race this year.

The unexpected loss of Lynn Parkel has hurt more than was originally hoped. The team evidently depended no Parkel for the major part of their offense.

Our coaching staff has had impressive records previous to coming to North Dakota State. Head coach Bob Danielson coached on four conference championship teams at South Dakota State. Assistant coach Don Johnson compiled an outstanding record at Columbia Heights.

The Iowa State Teacher's contest was reminiscent of the season opener against Concordia. Only in the first quarter did the Bison make any kind of a showing. True, the Herd put up a strong battle against the University of South Dakota. But even this showing was dimmed by the fact that several of the Coyotes were suffering from the flu. One of these was halfback Ray Schamber. He was by far the outstanding SDU back on offense. What would he do to the Bison in good physical shape?

Against ISTC the Bison line put on their poorest showing of the year. Panther linemen were repeatedly slipping through to smother the passer or nail the backs before the ball could be handed off.

Defensively, the line did a creditable job. But the defense as a whole put on a lackadaisical showing.

Pass protection seemed to be the most glaring offensive weakness in the Bison offense. Quarterbacks Walcher and Larson have had little or no time to look for a receiver in the open before being nailed. Supposedly, pass defense was the main weakness of the Panthers. The Bison quarterbacks just didn't have time to exploit this weakness.

North Dakota State is the only North Central Conference team which has failed to score this season. The team has missed several golden opportunities. The Bison attack clicks fairly well near mid-field but deep in the opponent's territory everything seems to go wrong.

Last weekend marked the first ISTC victory in their last nine games. The Panthers hadn't won a game since Oct. 6 last year and their last conference win was against SDU in 1955.

The performance of Jerry Kingery was one of the few bright spots Saturday night for Bison fans. Kingery, a 6'4" 195-pounder from Worthington, Minn., was recently shifted from end to the backfield. He reeled off several creditable gains in the late stages of the game.

A pat on the back for the student enthusiasm at Saturday night's game.

The Augustana Vikings have never defeated the Sioux in a conference football game at Grand Forks. Augustana entered the conference in 1941.

One consolation for the Bison football fans. We may have the best extra point kicker in the conference.

Another thought for the week: Let's hope the instructor's don't take roll while the World Series is on.

Leapfrog?

State end Don Basche assumes a leap-frog position before pouncing upon Iowa's left half Bob Hahn in last Saturday's game with Iowa Teachers at Dakota Field.

Bison Coach Straddles Fence In His Report On Herd's Loss To Iowa TC

Coach Bob Danielson expressed mixed emotion concerning the Bison loss to Iowa State Teacher's this past weekend. Danielson felt, optimistically, some progress has been made even though the team failed to score. He admitted the squad still has to come a long way before they can win.

Danielson was very dissatisfied with the play of the Bison line against the Panthers. He felt that the line play would have to improve immensely to be able to control the powerful Morningside running attack this weekend.

Morningside, Danielson stated bluntly, was the best in the conference. He described them as a big, strong team with good, hard-running backs. They aren't as fast a team as ISTC. The Maroons operate from variations of the Split-T, featuring passing and power plays through the line.

Don Johnson, assistant coach, who scouted the Maroons at Grand Forks, rates them as good or better than last year's championship outfit.

As indicative of the team weight, Danielson estimated Morningside's line to average about 215 lbs. Bulwarks in their line are the tackles, one at 240 and the other 225.

Gordon Friede is the only player on the injured list. The fleet half-back reinjured his left knee in the ISTC game.

Danielson was not entirely pessimistic about the rest of the season. As he put it, "We're going to click pretty soon and somebody will be in for a big surprise."

Challenge Issued To Students

American students face the responsibility to think and question.

When was the last time you challenged a statement your instructor made? Last week, last month, or last year?

If it is the latter, you are probably one of the easiest students to teach the instructor has. If you sit in your oaken chair absorbing the instructor's words and drawings like a sponge as the gospel truth, you will probably lose the knowledge just as fast when the pressure is put on you.

Everyone will agree that no human is perfect. Deductive reasoning from that point leaves us that teachers are human, therefore, they must be wrong once in a while. When the student lets some ideas or statements go by him without question, he is leaving himself open to accepting false and prejudice material.

Many times the small three letter word, WHY has caused spectacular events: Einstein, Columbus, and Galileo are just a few of the great people who asked themselves why and delved further to investigate.

Top Conference Spot Held By SDU With 2-0 Record

South Dakota University scored its second NCC win without a loss last Saturday with a 20-7 victory over Augustana in a game played at Vermillion.

In other conference action, defending NCC champs Morningside turned back North Dakota University 48-20 at Grand Forks and the Iowa Teachers scored an 18-0 upset over North Dakota State at Fargo. The Bison are now the only team in the conference that has failed to score.

In a non-conference game, Drake downed South Dakota State 25-7 in a game played at Des Moines.

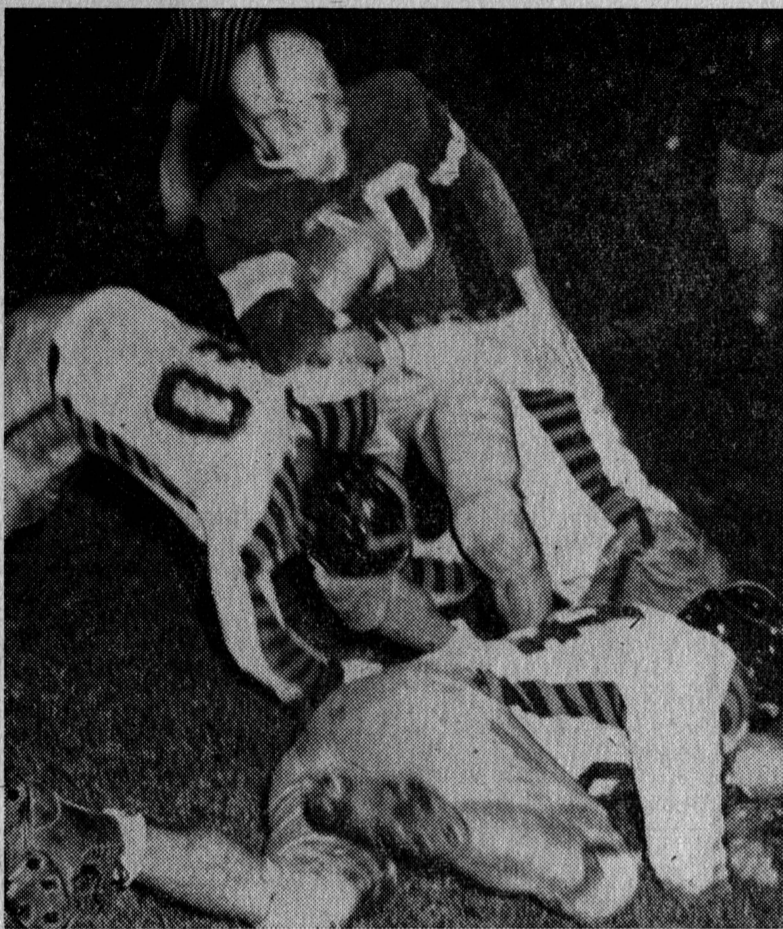

Perhaps the biggest thrill of the weekend was the 99 yard kickoff return by left halfback Jerry Jensen of Morningside against NDU.

The conference standings are as follows:

Team	W	L	Pct.	TP	OP
SDU	2	0	1.000	26	7
Morningside	1	0	1.000	48	20
SDS	1	0	1.000	23	20
Ia. Teachers	1	1	.500	38	23
NDU	1	1	.500	41	54
Augustana	0	2	.000	13	41
NDS	0	2	.000	0	24

Conference action this weekend will find North Dakota State at Morningside, South Dakota State at Augustana and South Dakota University at North Dakota University. Iowa Teachers will play a non-conference game at Northeast Missouri.

Now, to the Bottom of Things

Wayne Wahl, Bison half-back, carries the ball and one ISTC gridders in Saturday's game against the Panthers. Two other unidentified Iowa players lay low before the driving ball carrier.

Eastern College Lists Solutions For Crisis

In a recent report issued by Amherst College's Special Alumni Committee on Admissions, five proposals were made whereby the liberal arts college may respond to the coming crisis of the nineteen sixties without actual expansion. They are as follows:

Reduce the time required for lifted students. The four year requirement is not necessarily the best for all.

Admit gifted students with advanced credit. Under both these schemes some students will spend less than four years on campus, and thereby free some space for additional students.

Lengthen the academic year to make better use of physical facilities which are now idle for part of the year.

Train more secondary teachers. The small liberal arts colleges once provided a large number of such teachers and steps could be taken to increase the number being trained now.

Provide a center where teachers in the field could come for summer refresher courses.
