Johnson Urges Student Leaders To Throw Off "Cloak Of Apathy"

Keynoting the annual Student Senate leadership clinic, Leo Johnson, NDSC YMCA director, urged that present and future student leaders throw off the cloak of apathy which tends to cover much of this and other campus.

Dividing the apathy in existence into four areas, he pointed out that it existed in the area of social crisis, religion, in the business world, and in politics.

Turning to the subject as it applies to our campus, the general lack of involvement in campus activities on the part of many students, a drouth of controversial issues on the campus, and the fact that students care little for what has little to give directly to them.

Stressing the topic of his talk, "The Task of Leadership in the Age of Lethargy," Johnson stated that work as leaders begins, not ends at college. Things learned here are stepping stones to a greater responsibility—the leadership of a community, state, and nation.

Following the keynote, the 163 participants divided into various discussion groups to discuss various segments of the problem of student leadership. Topics included: Effective committee leadership; the executive council, how to get group participation, leading group discussions, Order, discipline and control; Problems of leaders as leaders; Program planning; Qualities, skills, responsibilities of a leader; Student leadership in college administrative functions.

Following the discussion groups the members of the groups reassembled in the ballroom for a summary session of the afternoon's activities.

ACT To Present Aesop's Fable Fair

The Little Country Theater will present the second of a series of plays for children, Aesop's Fable Fair, Saturday, Jan. 25 with performances at 10:00 a.m. and 2:00 p.m.

According to play personnel, Aesop's Fable Fair promises something of interest for any age group.

The music is written by John Watts, with script by Mrs. Quenten Doolittle, director.

The story concerns five children who go to a fair where three of Aesop's famous stories are brought to life. Marty Connelly will lead the children to the fair and other parts in the scene will be taken by children in the area appearing in their first small fry roles.

Appearing in the "Milkmaid and Her Pail" sequence will be Connie Mills and Mrs. Merlin Ludwig.

In the "Frog and the Ox" are Mickey Jordan and Carol Abrahamson. The two men and their donkey are Dale Jackson, Tom Joyal, Arthur Cervinka and Jim Lund.

Featured as the fair musicians will be Nancy and Judy Atkinson, Bill Baillie, Bob Brake, Mark Beeve, and Mr. Doolittle.

Ag. Engineers Plan Farm Equip. Show

Plans are under way for the Farm Equipment Show to be held February 15 in conjunction with the Little International.

According to show manager Earl Johnson there are many openings for exhibitors in all divisions.

Three prizes in each division plus grand champion and reserve champion awards will be given. Persons desiring to enter exhibits are to contact the respective division manager or leave their name in the Agricultural Engineering Building.

Division managers are: Arnold Leshovsky, power and machinery; Frank Hughes, utilities; Robert Madler, soil and water conservation; Pete Lazorenko, structures; and Klennes Anderson, historical. Entries must be in by January 21.

Model Man George Schwartz (left) receives the Model Man trophy from Ken Cornel at the IFC Ball which was held last Friday night. George, sponsored by Alpha Gamma Rho, was selected to hold the title by fraternity attendance and Panhel vote.

A large crowd danced to the music of Paul Hanson as the Greeks came forth to participate in the annual classic. The affair was held in the Crystal Ballroom.

76 Attend NDSC Ag. Short Course

Just 76 students registered for the NDSC Agricultural Short Course, which began Jan. 6, according to Peder A. Nystuen, director of short course. This is the smallest short course enrollment since the course originated in 1952.

Previous enrollment has ranged from 100 students in 1952 to the high of 127 in 1957.

Mr. Nystuen attributed the drop in enrollment to the fact that no housing was available on campus this year.

Short course consists of eight weeks of technical and practical training in agriculture. Courses offered do not carry regular college credit. Work is offered mainly for those persons interested in further training in agriculture who cannot take the regular college courses.

Mr. Nystuen said that short course has been a stepping stone toward a college education for many. In a survey conducted at the end of five years, it was found that eight percent of the shortcourse students had gone on to enroll in regular college courses.

Enrollment At NDSC Winter Quarter Sets New Record—3,120 Students

Enrollment at NDSC during winter quarter hit a new record high of 3,120 students, announced Burton Brandrud, director of admissions and records.

The official enrollment figure for the term shows a total of 2,568 men and 552 women. The School of Engineering again leads with 1107 students, one of whom is a woman. The Arts and Science school is the next largest with 702 students enrolled, Agriculture has 613, two being women, Home Economics has 276, Pharmacy 265, with 110 in Chemistry.

The freshman class is the largest with 874 students. There are 749 sophomores, 645 juniors, 526 seniors, 183 graduate students, 69 special students, and 74 agricultural short course students. 812 of the students are veterans.

Enrollment at a corresponding date last year was 2,870, and the past record enrollment was last fall with a total of 3,063 students.

Kepner Receives Rhodes Scholarship

Gordon R. Kepner, NDSC senior, has been awarded a Rhodes scholarship for study at Oxford University in England. He is one of the 32 college students in 28 states who have been awarded this scholarship.

Kepner, a physics major, was interviewed by a regional Rhodes Scholarship Committee at Spokane, selected in state competition at NDU.

The scholarship provides at least two years study at Oxford. Kepner will work in reactor physics.

Ring Day Set For Jan. 23

Ring Day, the second of its type, will be held again Thurs., Jan. 23, from 1:00-5:00 p.m. in the Student Union. The first Ring Day was held last Fall. Anyone interested in purchasing a ring or class pin can place their order that day.

The ring has a cut of "Old Main" on one side balanced by a Bison on the opposite side. Both symbols are representative of NDSC.

The price of the rings varies, depending on the type of stone and whether Greek letters on the stone are desired. A deposit of $15 is required with each purchase.

Crop Show To Be Held February 15

So you think you know how to show grain. Well here is your chance to prove it.

A crops show will be held on Feb. 15, in conjunction with the Little International.

The show consists of 4 divisions: 1. Small grains. 2. Grass and legumes. 3. Potatoes. 4. Silage and hay. Grand and reserve champion trophies will be awarded. There are three ribbons awarded in each division, as well as trophies in potatoes and a cash award in the malting Barley class.

Two-quart samples are needed for small grains, one quart for grass and legumes, 16 tubers for potatoes, and four quarters of silage. Cleaning facilities will be made available by the Agronomy club.

Contest rules are available beside the large display case just inside the front door of Morrill Hall.

Don Brusegaard is in charge of this year's show.

"Y" Officers Visit Campus Chapter

Three national and regional officers of YMCA and YWCA were on campus this week under the auspices of the North Central Area Association of College YMCA.

They are: Dr. Harold Colvin, associate secretary, national student council, YMCA; Ed Griffin, North Central area council, college YWCA; and Miss Eileen Linblad, Geneva region representative, YWCA.

They will meet with the campus YWCA and YMCA board of directors and other people connected with the local group. The group will help plan the group's program, give advice as to how to finance that program, and also talk of the possibilities of erecting a new building.

Showmen Receive Animal Assignments

Animals were assigned to Little International showmen Saturday, according to Howard Lahlum, show manager. The show will be in Shepard Arena Feb. 15.

Thirty animals were assigned in the hog division, 40 in both the sheep and beef divisions, and 16 in the dairy division.

The show will also feature entertainment, such as a cow cutting demonstration, a co-ed cow milking contest, and a fraternity calf tying contest, Lahlum said.

Scouting Around

... Neal Bjornson

By now all prospective student senate candidates have submitted their applications for candidacy, and the Commission of Campus Affairs is preparing for the work of interviewing the candidates. The purpose of these interviews is not to eliminate anyone from the race but to make all candidates aware of the responsibility involved and time require to adequately fulfill the demands of the position.

By doing this, George Schwartz and his committee hope to make the candidates aware of what faces them, and better prepare them to step into the positions to which they are elected.

A notice to all prospective journalists! Within the next two weeks, applications will be available for editors and business managers for the Spectrum and Bison Annual and director of the Student News Bureau. Election to the positions entails the submitting of a written application to the Board of Student Publications and an interview with the Board. Announcement of the new staff heads will be made at the Publications banquet early in the Spring quarter.

The Student Senate Leadership Clinic this week should have helped to make prospective leaders on this campus aware of the demand for their services. The need for new blood in the leadership circles of this campus is quite sharply pointed out when one considers that about the same number of people are involved in key activities now as there were when NDSC's enrollment was only about 2,000 students.

This has created a situation whereby a few students are burdened with more than they can handle. This leads to neglect of certain essential phases of student activities.

The introduction of more students to positions of responsibility will not only tend to better the campus, but will give these students an opportunity to serve the school and better themselves by association with other students which can be invaluable in later life.

Many students have become alarmed over the advent of Russian Sputniks, the failure of our own, and the subsequent emphasis on education. Government talk of federal aid to education has been common in recent weeks, and before too long some concrete plans should be forthcoming. Before anyone becomes unduly concerned with such actions, an analysis of what this can mean is in order.

Stepping up of technical education would mean, as some circles have stated, the relative neglect of instruction in the liberal arts fields. It must be remembered, that experience has proven people trained in the technical fields are essential for research and development, but industrial leaders have emphasized that the top management positions are frequently filled by men and woman trained in the humanities and other social sciences. This would tend to indicate a need to emphasize all phases of education.

However, let us remember that the freedom of choice, as it exists in this country, applies to education as well as other fields. By allowing the individual to choose his own field of endeavor, which is not generally the case in other countries, the United States will eventually come up with a combination to equal that of other countries of the world.

Letters To The Editor . . .

To the Editor:

The advent of the mimeographed sheet known as "Conflict" on this campus has caused a great deal of comment among the students. Perhaps one of the biggest areas of comment is the one concerning the authorship of articles in said sheet.

I know of several individuals who have been accused of writing for "Conflict". These individuals not only know nothing about it, but would not have anything to do with such a nefarious publication. I am one of these individuals and find it highly irritating to be accused of being associated with this radical, left-wing propoganda sheet of doubtful parentage.

If "Conflict" is of such interest and so constructive in its purpose, why not put your names on it, and save others the embarrassment? Only fools follow the leadership of shadows!

To the Editor:

I would like to make it clear to the student body that any complaints or suggestions anyone may have concerning student publications may be presented before the Board of Publications at any of its meetings. They are all open to the public, and are held on the second and fourth Tuesdays of each month at 4:00 p.m.

The Board of Student Publications is the publisher of the Student Publications and is always happy to receive any suggestions concerning how either of its publications may be improved.

If it is inconvenient to bring suggestions before the board, a signed letter to the Board is sufficient.

The Bison and the Spectrum are student publications and you paid for them through your activity tickets. Therefore, it is your privilege to criticize or commned them. We ask only that suggestions be directed to the controlling body, the Board of Publications, where they can be considered.

I think it is also appropriate to mention that during the time I have been on the board, no individual or group has appeared before the board to comment in any way. This may have been caused by the fact that the persons with suggestions believed the Board sessions closed to the public, but since this has now been rectified, I hope that anyone with a suggestion will feel free to present it.

Respectively submitted,
Bill Lantz,
Commissioner of Publications

Band Tour Feb 4

The NDSC "Gold Star Band" will begin its annual concert tour Feb. fourth.

The 65 piece band under the direction of William Euren will present concerts in six western North Dakota communities, including Bismarck and Mandan, returning to Fargo Feb. 7.

Student News Bureau Requests Participation For News Releases

There has been an amount of complaining concerning the press releases, or rather the lack of them, sent out by the Student News Bureau. The complaining has come from students or organizations who have done something newsworthy and haven't read about it in newspapers, either local or hometown. The reason they haven't seen it is simple: they themselves or their organizations haven't turned in the news to the News Bureau.

News concerning elections, pledging, selection of committee heads and any other campus happenings are released through the News Bureau to local papers and the hometown papers of the students involved.

News should come in before it happens if possible such as attending a future convention, soon after it happens, such as elections. If the news is a week late, it is 'old' news and few newspapers will use it.

The news must be in the Student News Bureau box in the Publications Office by Wednesday noon if it is to be released that week.

You are no doubt proud of your organization or you wouldn't belong to it and you are equally proud of its functions. That pride can be felt through the state by a simple task on your part—bringing your news to the Student News Bureau.

CAMPUS RADIO

By Joe Kobensky

"Music, the best on wax so you may relax." That's our motto at KDSC and if you've tuned the 750 spot during the past week, you'll know what I mean.

We got a terrific disc in the other day—something called "26 Miles" done by the Four Preps. If you get the opportunity to hear it sometime next week, I know you'll really "woof and tweet" about it—its that good.

Speaking of woof and tweet, there was quite an array of hi-fi equipment in the ballroom last Saturday. Seems as though the Student Union Activities Board sponsored the whole shindig and from the comments we heard it was well received by the campus conversants on hi-fi.

Got a new program director up here too. He'll be introduced to the staff at our regular staff meeting tomorrow morning. Good luck "X".

For all classical music fans, I suggest you tune in to Clyde Stauffer on Monday and Thursday evenings at 8:00. He's got an hour devoted to classical music. Along the same line, for those who like easy listening in the semi-classical and pop vein, twirl the dial to 750 spot on Thursday night at 9:30 and listen to Brad Brakke and Johnny Fleck.

IRC To Sponsor Radio Program

The NDSC Inter-Religious Council announced that it is now sponsoring a radio program every Wednesday from 10 to 10:30 p.m.

The group's first radio program was aired over KDSC Jan. 8th. Speaking for IRC were Carol Finstad, from Newman Club, and Jim Pomeroy, vice president of Wesley Foundation.

Carol explained IRC and it's objectives. She discussed IRC projects throughout the year, and future plans of the Inter-Religious Council.

Jim spoke on religious organizations within IRC. He named the officers within each religious group and told how to contact them. He announced when meetings were held, where the groups meet and the times they started.

Persons interested in taking part in a discussion group for this program, are urged to contact Milton Matzek, Carol Finstad or Beva Fegley.

The Student Body President Speaks . . .

By Eldon McLain

The announcement last week of the coming student government elections, brings to mind the fact that the present student administration has its days definitely numbered. To some of you, this is probably a long awaited occasion; and your views are probably justified in part. This becomes evident every so often, the last instance being the appearance of a so-called publication dealing with the parking situation on campus. But may I point out that no government has ever satisfied all its people and none ever will.

Getting back to this publication, however, may I point out that it did not bring out any phase of the problem that was not already known by the majority of the college community.

It did make some statements and charges which were completely unfounded. I don't know who wrote those things and I care less. Anyone who would hide behind pen-names and criticize and harass other people should not be expected to come up with a sound solution to any problem.

It is their privilege to say or print anything they wish and we cannot stop them from continuing to do so, but I suggest they acquaint themselves thoroughly with all factors dealing with the situation before they sound off.

It should be kept in mind that our school has taken a 40% jump in enrollment in just 3 years. For a community geared for average conditions the past 68 years, a change as drastic as this is bound to bring growing pains of many kinds. I cannot answer for the administration, but I can assure the students that all responsible people concerned are very aware of this problem and many others. It will only delay their actions if they have misguided "thorns" in their sides. I suggest these "thorns" try using their heads first instead of their mouths.

In regards to the coming student elections, I would like to congratulate George Schwartz and his commission on campus affairs on installing a review board for prospective candidates for student government positions.

This is not to pick certain favored people for Senate jobs but rather to impress upon the candidates the importance of being certain they have ample time to fulfill their very definite obligations as members of student government. This problem has been my main headache with the present members of Senate.

In all frankness, I think most students regard the student elections as a popularity contest; and I think they're right. This may be all right for a small school, but we are no longer a small school.

ment demand a great deal of mature thinking, personal sacrifice and time. Therefore, I believe the people who run for the positions should restrict their extra-curricular activities to just student government. I think that any member

Student Senate Plans Prospective Senator Interviews

The regular meeting of Student Senate was attended by prospective candidates for senate spots. Plans were set up to hold interviews of the prospective candidates at later dates. This interview will not disqualify anyone, but will serve to make them aware of duties and responsibilities of senator.

Campus tennis courts was the next order of business. Fred Flinders reported that the courts would be located west of the Field house. It is desired to construct eight courts, however plans are not being considered to build only four. The cost of materials and finishing work would amount to $1500 per court. This figure holds true only if student labor can be used in the construction. All plans are still tentative and must be approved by the Campus Planning Committee before further action can be taken.

The Name Change brochures concerning the changing of the name of the college from North Dakota Agricultural College to North Dakota State University have been drawn up and are now being published. They will be ready by the first of next week.

Fifteen thousand brochures are being printed. 5000 of these pamphlets will be sent to alumni and the remaining brochures will be distributed to students and people around the state.

A letter of resignation submitted by Margaret Platt was then read. Margaret is resigning her post as Commissioner of NSA as she will leave the campus to attend an eastern college. Noel Estenson was chosen to succeed Margaret in the commission post.

Last item of business conducted by the senators was the official appointment of Richard Knutson and Hilbert Pfeifer, freshmen in agriculture, to the Honor Case Commission.

of student government should be discouraged from remaining in another office on campus. This would positively mean a more conscientious and capable government system. This then is the purpose of the committee under George Schwartz; to impress upon the candidates the importance of their being able to devote all the effort required by their positions.

You have all heard something I'm sure, about an attempt to change the name of this institution from NDAC to NDSU. I hope, within a few days of the time you read this, you will have in your hands a brochure explaining the reasons for the proposed change. The brochure has been written by a student committee under the leadership of Joe Kobensky and the cooperation of the Communications Office. It is being paid for by student funds from Senate.

Fifteen thousand copies will be printed for distribution to all students and as many alumni and legislators as can be reached in an attempt to gain support for the proposal. We believe our reasoning is very sound and justifiable.

When you read it, do so very carefully and consider all factors before making your own decision. And remember, that decisions you make here on this campus effect many people long after you are gone from here.

Respectfully yours,
Eldon R. McLain,
President, Student Body

FIRE LIKE mad around campus these days. Many words well spoken at the Leadership Clinic regarding apathy and suitcase students and so on. Did my old heart good to hear many young sprouts 'round these parts take an interest in what's going on. 'Tis not a lost cause after all . . . sometimes seniors get the idea that when they leave things just can't go on, but these thoughts were disproved when the young 'ens were given a chance to air their ideas for a change. Hear there are multi candidates petitioning for Senate . . . with real leaders in the responsible positions on campus, there's no reason in the whole wide world that our campus can't become a mature group of students ready to face the problem of growing pains. Sometimes it takes seniors four years to "wake up and smell the coffee" quote Annerino Landers, and this department honestly believes that there are better things ahead for old State.

KD actives now include Kathy Barrett, Leora Bjerkness, Verna Busch, Dorene Fix, and Doris Folstrom.

WUS International Program Outlined Local Fund Drive To Be Held Feb. 3

World University Service, an international group which seeks to better conditions and promote education for students around the world, will sponsor its annual fund raising drive on campus Feb. 3.

Each year, in its program of action, World University Service aims to help complete projects of importance to students and academic communities of 40 nations.

Each member of WUS has a national committee, composed of college students and faculty members, who have an insight as to the educational and student needs of their nation. Each committee carries out a continuous evaluation of student lodging and living conditions, student health and facilities, academic and extra-curricular programs and needs, and individual and emergency student needs.

Each year, representatives from all national committees meet to jointly determine the program of action for the succeeding year. The program of action is keyed to meet the most urgent needs of students and to focus the attention of governments and other agencies and individuals on particularly aggravated situations.

This year's program will focus on several key problems: The construction and maintenance of dormitories and health centers in India, Nepal, Pakistan, Burma, Thailand, VietNam, and Indonesia; the construction of tuberculosis sanatoria and wards in Japan, Korea, and Hong Kong; provisions for continued support of the 1300 Hungarian students now in the United States; establishment of contact among the scattered and important universities in Africa south of the Sahara.

The WUS program will entail raising some $400,000 from the 700 American colleges and universities which support WUS annually.

All member nations of WUS contribute to the international program. All WUS projects are set up to provide initial impetus and partial support for local projects; local university students provide most of the necessary labor; a large share of the money needed is raised by the students within the university and governments usually provide land for dormitories and similar projects.

Roommates Defined By NDSC Coed

Roommates are available in various sizes, shapes and dispositions. Any one of them can, in the course of one year or less, help cause your success or failure in college.

Without intention a roommate can change your whole outlook on the correct temperature for the room. The ideal date, the hairstyle which suits you best and the brand of detergent you use when you wash your clothes.

A roommate can be the most understanding person in the world. Who but this sympathizing creature can make you smile even when you've just learned the "man of your dreams" has a date with one of your best friends. But it is the same roommate who will peck away at the typewriter at 1:30 a.m. when you're trying to get a few hours of "shut-eye" before that 7:45 class.

There's no nagging R.M. because she wore your black earrings the night you wanted them. Chances are that the same evening you ran short of hair pins while fixing your hair.

She'll agree to help clean the room if you are careful not to use one muscle less than she does in the process and if you'll promise again this week to shake the rugs outside because she "just washed her hair and doesn't want to catch cold."

A roommate will usually, but with some reluctance, run down the hall to press a skirt for you after you've convinced her that your date has been waiting for you for 10 minutes and you still aren't ready.

She is the one with whom you discuss the disadvantages of dieting before you make a jaunt downstairs to buy that chocolate candy bar and a coke.

You spend many a late hour with this "cell-mate" cramming for a final test and you can usually depend on her to keep shouting at you to keep you awake during the "wee" hours of the night.

No matter how "rosy" life with roommate may appear by spring quarter living with this noisemaker is almost unbearable. You welcome summer vacation as a refuge from roommates and college in general, only to find in a few weeks that you're looking forward to another year with both college and the "thing" called a roommate.

Merger Proposed

The president of the University of Minnesota, Dr. James L. Morrill, recommended Thursday, the transfer of Minnesota's five state colleges to the University of Minnesota.

The recommendation was made before the Legislative Commission on Higher Education, which was formed through an act of the 1957 legislature.

The colleges involved are Mankato, St. Cloud, Winona, Moorhead and Bemidji.

Dr. Morrill stated that it would be unwise to make the university a "graduate and professional school" and leave under-graduate education to the colleges.

Dr. Morrill hinted that the merger could be accomplished in a gradual manner.

Jan. Campus Clean-up

The roar of power saws heard last Friday and Saturday all over NDSC campus was a reminder of the tremendous clean-up operations necessitated by the June 20 tornado.

January is not the usual time to trim trees, according to Dwight Satermo, who works for the maintenance department, but because of extensive damage on the State College campus as a result of the tornado and the ideal weather, the maintenance department decided to finish the clean-up.

Native Dakotan Writes Historical Novel Depicting Life In Early West

George Gilbert Pummel, a native of the Dakota country, has brought to life scenes of the early West and the problems faced by the once great Indian nation, in his provocative historical novel, Dwellers of the Magic Mountains.

The author has called upon his memories of the rugged Black Hills territory to create this novel of a man's perseverance and faith.

This is the story of Jim Blake, a falsely accused embezzler, who, while seeking refuge from the law, comes to the Black Hills. It is here that he finds new hope, which blossoms into a new way of life.

Given strength by the beauty of his new home Jim goes on to build a prospering cattle ranch; he raises a family; and later, is crowned with even greater success when he is elected to Congress.

Westerners and outsiders, alike, will delight to this portrait of the frontier days and the people who settled the outposts, and their Indian neighbors.

Mr. Pummel, a retired businessman, who has been City Police Magistrate of Spearfish, South Dakota for the past seven years, was born in McLean County, North Dakota. Married, and the father of four, Mr. Pummel attended North Dakota State College at Fargo and, later, among other things, he was a banker, a rancher and a fuel dealer.

A member of the Masons (Scottish Rite) and the Gideon Society, Mr. Pummel has had some earlier writings. He has written another novel, The Land of Fulfillment, and poetry for several periodicals.

Medical School Candidates Advised To Take May College Admission Tests

Candidates for admission to medical school in the fall of 1959 are advised to take the Medical College Admission Test in May, it was announced today by Education Testing Service, which prepares and administers the test for the Association of American Medical Colleges.

Architect's Work Now On Exhibit At Library

On exhibit at the Library are wood sculpture and watercolors which were made by the senior and fifth year students in Architecture. The exhibit opened a week before Christmas. Every week new pieces are added.

The wood sculpture was done by the Architecture 501 and 502 classes, fifth year Architecture students, under the direction of Professors Henning and Chezick. Members of the classes are: John Sleight, Harold LaFleur, Richard Leverson, Donald Vermeland, Leon Hagerott, Seth Twichell, Robert Metz, and Michael Marczuk.

The watercolors were done by the Architecture 401 class, seniors in Architecture, under the direction of Professor Chezick. Members of the class are: Harlan Ormbreck, Robert K. Brown, Charles Huntley, Ann Ludwig, and Leon Hagerott.

These tests, required of applicants by almost every medical college throughout the country, will be given twice during the current calendar year. Candidates taking the May test, however, will be able to furnish scores to institutions in early fall, when many medical colleges begin the selection of their next entering class.

Candidates may take the MCAT on Saturday, May 3, 1958, or on Tuesday, October 28, 1958, at administrations to be held at more than 300 local centers in all parts of the country. The Association of American Medical Colleges recommends that candidates for admission to classes starting in the fall of 1959 take the May test.

The MCAT consists of tests of general scholastic ability, a test of understanding of modern society, and an achievement test in science. According to ETS, no special preparation other than a review of science subjects is necessary. All questions are of the objective type.

Copies of the Bulletin of Information which gives details of registration and administration, as well as sample questions, are available from pre-medical advisers or directly from Educational Testing Service, 20 Nassau Street, Princeton, New Jersey. Completed applications must reach the ETS office by April 19 and October 14, respectively for the May 3 and October 28 administrations.

Did You Know? By Corky

It happens to just about every guy that exists. I can't think of any guy who can escape this circumstance in this modern day world. He is bound to get trapped into this event at least once. What event? Well, see if you can figure out what event I'm talking about before you peek at the last sentence.

The car proceeded down 13th N., at a leisurely pace and turned into a beckoning drive-way. The white wall tires crunched on the gravel and for some reason or other this irritated the driver. "Get hold of yourself," he muttered under his breath, "you got nothing to be shook up about".

The driver's hands were damp as he guided the car into an open spot in the parking lot. His movements were all automatic, as his thoughts were concentrated in other channels. He lit a cigarette after he had turned off the engine of his car. A murmured curse escaped his lips when he realized that he had just put out a cigarette a few minutes before. "What's wrong with me?" he asked of himself "I'm much too nervous for my own good."

Pulling on his gloves, he took a few more violent drags from his cigarette and then ground it out in the ash tray. He did this automatically too, for again his thoughts had wandered.

Opening the car door, getting out, and slamming it shut was performed in an unconscious manner. He started around the front of the car when a light glared in his eyes. He had forgotten to shut off the headlights. Disgustedly shaking his head, he retraced his steps and snapped the switch. "Dang it, I've got to simmer down and collect my thoughts. People would think I'm in love or something the way I'm acting."

He walked slowly down the sidewalk. "I've got plenty of time," he said to himself, "no use hurrying." When his lower lip quivered when he saw the well lighted doorway. Now the young man realized his hands were clammy and cold. "Warm gloves are too warm," he reflected. "Why are my hands cold?" Oh well, nothing to worry about.

Assuming his best nonchalant attitude, he gave the door a hefty bang and sauntered into the building. Almost boisterously he walked up to the reception desk, only to bang his feet solidly against the desk bottom. The noise was like a bullet shot in the still room. A grin that came too fast creased his features and he laughed too loud.

The girl behind the desk smiled tolerantly and gave him a sympathetic look. "I understand," her smile seemed to say. "May I help you?" she said. "Yes, I'd like to contract," his voice broke, he cleared his throat and started over. "I'd like to contact Janet Thornton."

The girl behind the desk pushed a button, waited and then a buzz prompted her to say, "She'll be down in a minute". He heaved a sigh of relief, wiped his wet hands on his pants and slumped into a chair.

A few minutes passed and then a footstep on the stairs caused him to leap to his feet. Too late to back out now. Here she was. It was the poor guy's first date with the girl.

"Rough Rider" Quoted About Americanism

Americanism is a question of principle, of purpose, of idealism, of character; not a matter of birthplace, or creed, or line of descent. So spoke Theodore Roosevelt in 1908.

He also said, "There are two demands upon the spirit of Americanism, of nationalism. Each must be met. Each is essential. Each is vital, if we are to be a great and proud nation."

"The first is that we shall tolerate no kind of divided allegiance in this country. There is no place for the hyphen in our citizenship."

"The other is equally important. We must treat every good American — without regard to his creed as on a full and exact quality with every other good American and set our faces like flint against the creatures who seek to discriminate against an American, or to duty-first, the love of soft living and the get-rich-quick theory of life." (1917)

"I'd like to get a job here for a while," he said, "and then return to Iceland". Valgard plans to go into Medical Bacteriology after graduation.

Sports Of All Sorts

... by Clarence Anderson

Tomorrow afternoon will mark the home opener of NDSC's newest sport, wrestling. The Bison grapplers will meet the powerful Bemidji State College team in the Fieldhouse at 3:00 p.m.

Coach Tom Neuberger and the members of the team have put a lot of time into the sport in an effort to start the sport off at SC with a successful season.

The squad has been severely hampered by the lack of numbers, ineligibility and inexperience. Only four men represented the school in the meet with Bemidji Jan. 10. The addition of two new men has brightened the outlook for coach Neuberger somewhat. However, lack of spectators at the home opener would do little to raise the team spirit. Let's turn out to see what the Bison have to offer in this major sport.

Two North Central Conference games are on the local basketball slate this weekend. Tonight the University of South Dakota Coyotes invade the Bison stamping grounds. Saturday night the Morningside Maroons provide the opposition.

South Dakota University is tied for the conference lead with the S. Dakota State Jackrabbits with wins over Morningside and the University of North Dakota. The Coyotes have averaged 70 points in these two games as compared to 38.5 for their opponents. The effectiveness of the SDU's defense was demonstrated vividly last Saturday night when they held the Sioux to 30 points.

The Coyotes' starting squad averages 6'1". Key men on the team are the Daniels' brothers, both All-conference last year, at guard and Clay Kiewel, two-year letterman at forward.

Morningside has demonstrated mainly speed in their conference action thus far. The Maroons are mired in last place with losses to Augustana, South Dakota University and the University of North Dakota. "Big Man" on the team is Dick Yates, who is averaging 13 points in three NCC contests.

I managed to tear myself away from the books long enough to go across the Big Red to see the Concordia-St. John's basketball game last Saturday night. In light of the fact that the Bison have Concordia on their schedule for a return game, the Cobber performance was enough to pale any Bison fan. Concordia won 81-69 and their improvement over the pre-holiday battle with the Bison was tremendous.

Center Art Johnson appeared to be giving lessons in hook-shooting as he racked up a single game scoring record for a Cobber player with 36 points. Defensively, he blocked several shots and picked up one personal foul in the 35 minutes played. All this besides setting up other members of the Cobber squad for numerous open shots.

Looks as if the Bison will be for a busy evening the night of Feb. 14 when they face the Cobbers on the local court.

I wonder how the new changes for football will affect the game. For those of you who have heard, a team can now go for either one or two points after scoring a touchdown. The rule change concerning extra points states that the team which has scored has the choice of attempting the extra point by kicking, running or passing. A run or pass for the play will mean that the ball will be centered from the three-yard line and, if successful, will count two points. The main reason advanced for the change is to open up the game more and to cut down on the number of tie games.

Athletic director Les Luymes felt the change had both good and bad points. Stated Luymes, "I have heard enough about the rule change to declare myself definitely on it. It will create more spectators and will reduce the number of tie games. However, if the team must declare itself by assuming formation from which only one type of attempt can be made, they will be in trouble. The defense will be able to set itself for either a kick, run or pass.

"I do feel the change has cheapened the value of a touchdown. Team works hard for six points and can then get two more by going three yards."

Luymes continued, "The rule change which I would like to have seen is to bring the goal posts back up to the goal line. That would have brought the field goal back into the game. Then we'd have a real game."

North Central Conference Standings

North Central Conference action this weekend will get under way full scale for the first time this season. All seven of the member schools of the conference have games scheduled.

Friday games include SDU vs NDSC, Morningside at NDU, and ISTC at SDS. Action Saturday night pits the Bison against Morningside, SDU against the Sioux and SDU against Augustana.

North Central Conference standings as of Jan. 16 are:

	W	L
SDS	2	0
SDU	2	0
Augustana	2	1
ISTC	1	1
NDSC	1	2
NDU	1	2
Morningside	0	3

College Wrestling . . .

Collegiate wrestling, a sport which pits one man directly against another in his own weight group, came to NDSC. Tom Neuberger, coach of the SC grapplers, recently outlined the sport and plans for its first year on campus.

"Collegiate wrestling requires a lot of hard work with little in the way of monetary rewards", explained Neuberger. "But in terms of competition, educational value and conditioning, it's tops."

It differs from pro wrestling mainly in that no punishing holds are allowed in collegiate wrestling. You won't see the kicking, slugging or throwing an opponent all over the place which is glamorized so prominently in pro wrestling."

Maximum length of collegiate matches is nine minutes. The squad composed of eight men, one from each weight division. The weight divisions are 123, 130, 137, 147, 157, 177 pounds and heavyweight. This assures men of being matched against men of their own size and weight.

Neuberger went on further to explain the scoring system of wrestling. "There are two ways by which a wrestler can win a match. One is by pinning his opponent. The other is by outpointing him in the case of no pin in the match."

Wrestlers are awarded points as follows: two points for reversing a hold; two points for a takedown from a standing start; two points for near pins; one point for an escape from a hold.

In addition to the above, wrestlers are sometimes awarded points for penalties assessed against the opponent for illegal tactics. The wrestler with the highest total points at the end of the nine-minute match is declared the winner.

Team scores are figured as follows: pin, five points; victory by point system, three points; loss by the point system—two points.

"Getting a good wrestling program established takes time," Neuberger continued. "A good basketball player isn't developed in one season. In like manner, two or three years are required to develop a creditable degree of proficiency in wrestling. High school experience helps a collegiate candidate a great deal as it gives him that much of a head start."

Financially speaking, wrestling is a comparatively inexpensive sport. The big expense is the mat which normally costs about $2000. Forms for a team usually run about $100 a year. Aside from that, transportation to and from the mats is the only remaining expense of any consequence.

"A school could carry on a good time wrestling program quite easily for $1,000 a year," Neuberger stated.

Endurance and strength are the most important qualities of a wrestler. For a newly-installed program such as this one, Neuberger listed endurance as especially important. "To be a top-notch wrestler," Neuberger added, "speed, aggressiveness and wrestling instinct to the list."

Coach Neuberger's biggest problem in getting wrestling established has been a low turnout for the sport. Thirty-five prospects have recruited out since practice began in November. However, the number of men regularly reporting for practice has now dwindled to ten. This lack of talent in numbers of quantity has hindered the program considerably.

Qualification for matches is usually determined by the challenge method. Under this method, after a man wrestles in a meet he must first defeat any challengers in his weight class before he can wrestle in the next meet. If he is defeated in a challenge match, his opponent qualifies for meet competition. Neuberger cannot put this challenge method into complete operation because he has intrasquad competition in only two weight classes. Coach Neuberger summed up the problem by saying, "The quality of our wrestlers is alright, it's quantity that's lacking."

Another problem for coach Neuberger is that of previous experience. Only Bob Holmes, Dale Dunham and Dick Dougherty had wrestling experience in high school.

Conditioning of wrestlers is quite strenuous. A normal practice session is set up in this manner. The wrestlers start off with five minutes of individual warmup exercises. They do as many pushups, pullups and deep knee bends as they can. These are recorded to show improvement. The squad then practices holds and move on to full speed matches. Practice is terminated with more exercises and running.

Coach Neuberger is not overly optimistic about this season. "We can't expect to compete successfully against the schools where wrestling has been established for years. St. John's University will be about the best we'll meet, with Concordia and Bemidji close behind."

Gamma Delta Inducts New Members Sunday

Gamma Delta, Missouri Synod Lutheran youth group, will formally induct new members next Sunday, Jan. 19. Pictures for the Bison annual will also be taken.

The discussion, led by Rev. Schraeder, will be on "Creation".

In March the group will move back into their rebuilt Gamma Delta room at Immanuel Lutheran Church, 1258 Broadway.

Dick Bergquist was chosen editor of the Gamma Deltan, chapter publication. Joanne DeGier, present editor, has resigned.

Advanced Air Force ROTC Juniors Play Prof Winter Term

Juniors in the advanced Air Force ROTC class are taking over the instructors part in lecture sessions this quarter.

The students, under the supervision of Captain William Christianson, are learning the importance of communication.

Communication is needed more today than ever in the Air Force, says Captain Christianson. "You may be an excellent officer, but if you can't communicate with other people your career in the Air Force will be shortened," points out the captain.

All members of the class are required to give an eight minute speech on any military subject. Other members of the class criticize the speaker to improve his future performances.

The best speaker will be chosen at the end of the quarter by the members of the class. He will be awarded a personal plaque and his name will appear on a traveling trophy.

Junior Judging Team Plans Fort Worth Trip

The NDSC Junior judging team has been selected and members are preparing for their trip to Fort Worth, Texas, according to Merle Light, coach of the team.

The team will leave for Fort Worth on Jan. 18, where they will compete with 18 other colleges in the Collegiate Judging Contest held in connection with the Fort Worth Fat Stock Show.

They will visit several large farms on their trip down where they will have an opportunity to see some fine livestock and also practice judge.

Seven boys will make the trip according to Mr. Light. They include Gilbert Elken, Jerry Eissinger, Robert Cosh, Ronald Jacobson, Donald Odenback, Gerald Gernt-holz, and Wilfred Rosencrans.

If you answered "No" to all questions, you obviously smoke Camels — a real cigarette. Only 6 or 7 "No" answers mean you better get on to Camels fast. Fewer than 6 "No's" and it really doesn't matter what you smoke. Anything's good enough!

But if you want to enjoy smoking as never before, switch to Camels. Nothing else tastes so rich, smokes so mild. Today more people smoke Camels than any other cigarette. The best tobacco makes the best smoke. Try Camels and you'll agree!
