Original Acts Highlight Brevities; Show Scheduled For 3-Night Stand

By Neal Bjornson

The 1958 edition of the Blue Key sponsored Bison Brevities will go on stage in the NDSC Fieldhouse next Thursday, Friday, and Saturday. Curtain time for the first act is scheduled for 8:00 p.m.

Ten acts, five production and five pantomime, headline the event which is under the direction of Dale Nelson. Jim Feeney, Blue Key President, is producer of the show. Theta Chi and Kappa Kappa Gamma combine for a production known as the "Street of Dreams". Everyone passing along the street as a dream, and as the people go about their work they give voice to their dreams through song and dance. As they sing and work their dreams materialize, and with the finale the entire cast returns with an invitation to the audience to dream with them.

"In A Persian Market," the Alpha Gamma Rho and Kappa Delta production act, will carry the audience back to a Biblical slave market. Centered around a traveling player and a slave girl to whom he is attracted, the act portrays the feelings of the two lovers through music and song. Though unable to purchase his slave girl's freedom, the player finally acquires the wealth needed from his companion, a jester. As the curtain goes down, the couple are joined by the others in the market in rejoicing the great event.

An all-male cast highlights the TO's production, "Bowery Grenadiers." The singing Tau's portray a group of firemen from the Bowery, who lack but one thing—female companionship. Their somewhat arrogant leader, MacNamara, boasts of the crews prowess in battle—against fire or anything else, and the curtain closes on their theme song, "Bowery Grenadiers."

"Picnic Day," staged by Kappa Psi and Gamma Phi Beta, carries the audience back to the 1800's and the community picnics popular during the period. The act portrays the color of these picnics, the costumes, music and dances of the period. Filled with country music and folk dances, the act closes with the entire cast moving to the front of the stage and singing and dancing "Skip To My Lou My Darling." The final production act, staged by Kappa Alpha Theta and Sigma Alpha Epsilon, is billed as "Der Feiertag." Built around an old legend from the region south of the Bavarian Alps, the act portrays the love of two young people who come to life one day each year—the day of festival, Der Feiertag—to show to all young lovers the wisdom of restraint. The villagers hold their day of rejoicing in celebration of the magic of the awakening love scene, but a storm ends the celebrating—the storm symbolizes the increasing responsibilities of maturity.

Sigma Chi presents a humorous pantomime in their curtain act, "Murder in the Lighthouse." The act centers around the foul death of the aged lighthouse keeper, the threatening of his daughter by the villain, and her rescue by the bold, dashing hero.

"Paper Doll," Gamma Phi Beta's curtain presentation, sees a group of men flip over the proverbial paper dolls. They sing and dance with their newsprint mates until the act closes when the dolls return to the store windows from which they emerged.

"Shadow Fantasy," Kappa Kappa Gamma's entry in the curtain act field, centers around a pair of dancers and their shadows (also dancers). The original dancers are a pair of lovers who meet each other as the act closes.

"Steintime," the Kappa Psi five minute act, takes as its setting, a German Guesthouse where a group of men have gathered to discuss the happenings of the day and enjoy a tankard of ale. There is much singing and dancing in the typical old time German style.

The final curtain act, Theta Chi's "Spoofnic," is a satire of a typical Russian May Day celebration. The act will feature such things as the humble leaders of Russia, the form and grave of Soviet women athletes, the launching of Sputnik and others.

Clark Schenkenberger will serve as master of ceremonies for the three night production. Dale Jackson is directing the Kappa Kappa Psi pit band and Paul Hanson has arranged the Brevities music.

Tickets are on sale from the members of all Greek organizations and will be available at the door the nights of the show. Prices are $1.50 reserved and $1.25 general admission.

AGR's paint the finishing touches on their backdrop for the 1958 Bison Brevities. Kappa Delta joins with the AGRs in producing their act, "In a Persian Market." The production act has a Biblical setting, against which two lovers cavort through music and song. The annual Bison Brevities is set for April 24, 25, and 26.

SC Students Attend 'Student Union Plans Expansion Program', Announces Brostrom

Cy Puetz, student body president, Larry Swenson, Noel Estenson, and Jerry Schnell, student senate members, and Loretta Struble, Spectrum editor, journeyed to Gustavus Adolphus college over the week-end to attend the spring assembly of the National Student Association.

Discussion groups for students from North Dakota and Minnesota colleges were held as follows: conference on the role of religion in college, conference for prospective student body presidents, conference on international student affairs, student editors conference and conference on new student orientation.

The group left Fargo Friday morning and arrived back on Sunday evening.

'Student Union Plans Expansion Program', Announces Brostrom

"We know now we are going to expand. This is a big year of development for the Union. This is progress." These are the words of Dale Brostrom, director of the Memorial Union.

By next September, a new $100,000 expansion will have been added onto the union, Brostrom says. Architectural fees, general construction, electrical and mechanical installation, and a steam main running from the college power plant are all included in the $100,000 figure.

The dimensions of the addition will be 53 by 130 feet. The structure is designed to carry a second floor for possible later expansion.

The basement will be fully excavated, thus making space available for future expansion on that level.

The present bowling lanes will be moved to the ground floor of the new addition and will be equipped with completely automatic Brunswick pinsetters.

The space presently occupied by the bowling lanes will be remodeled to enlarge the Bison Room. An adequate kitchen and customer seating area will be gained in the change.

Low bidders are J. E. Krieg, general contractor; Sornsins company, mechanical contractor; and Reger Electric, electric contractor. Kurke Associates are the architects.

From the Editor's Desk

By Loretta Struble

With the ending of this week, NDSC students will heave a sigh of relief . . . once again mid terms are past history . . . now . . . only finals to get through . . .

The NSA conference last weekend was a thoroughly challenging experience. Meeting and discussing mutual problems with students from other colleges, was itself, worth the trip. NSA could do a lot for the student bodies, if enough persons were willing to give a little of themselves for this organization.

One of life's biggest problems seems to be the fact that everyone wants to be chief and no one wants to be Indians.

Stated specifically, and as applied to the Spectrum, we have had more applications for the various editorial posts than we could use . . . most of them were from people who had no earlier experience as reporters. This is a problem we have to live with, but I, personally, would have liked my applicants to have had reporting experience on this or any other publication before they sought "chieftain status".

The moral, if any, is that if you want to be chieftains, you can have an inside the teepee opportunity next year, provided you hunt and hoe corn with the regular Indians this year. There are lots of openings for reporters, photographers and sports writers. Our chiefs are forbidden to use war clubs on lesser Indians, but they do beat the drums for copy and snarl once in a while . . . much like professors.

The following editorial appeared in the Ransom County Gazette, April 10, 1958. F. J. Froeschle is editor and publisher:

We've had a change of heart.

Two years ago The Gazette editorially deplored the tendency on the part of some North Dakota Agricultural College departments to adopt the name North Dakota State College in news stories and printed literature.

We said at the time that in an agricultural state such as North Dakota there should be no hesitancy to be associated with the word agriculture, and to that extent our feelings haven't changed. Nor have our feelings changed toward the highly questionable practice of using a variety of names to identify the same institution.

But there does appear to be a very real question as to whether a diversified institution should be identified by one of its component parts.

Lawyers don't graduate from medical colleges; doctors don't graduate from law schools; ministers don't graduate from dental colleges, and while it may not handicap an engineer or pharmacist to graduate from an agricultural college, it probably fails to serve any good purpose in his behalf.

There are no statistics that show how many students failed to attend NDAC because it is facetiously referred to as the "cow college" by its detractors, but such are the things that contribute to the decisions a teenager makes when choosing a college.

There are some who believe that the word "agriculture" in the name of the school has been of immense value in obtaining appropriations from an agriculturally minded legislature, but there is also evidence that the word "university" is even more effective in jarring money loose from legislative appropriators.

Perhaps the weakest argument against a name change is that "two universities are too many for North Dakota." The fact is we have two universities, and changing names is not going to change that.

If the students, faculty and alumni of NDAC feel it is important to the school that the name be changed, it certainly isn't important to anyone else to make an issue of it.

And if the present name keeps even one prospective student from attending NDAC, both North Dakota and the cause of education will be served better by a change.

Regional NSA Conference Endorses North Dakota Mill Levy Resolution

The following resolution was passed, at the NSA Regional Spring Assembly last weekend, concerning the One Mill Levy in North Dakota. WHEREAS current physical facilities at North Dakota colleges are not now sufficient to adequately service the increasing numbers of students, and

WHEREAS, faced with the prospect of doubled enrollments at some institutions in the next few years, building programs must be quickly expanded to maintain present standards, and

WHEREAS, to provide funds for this expansion, a program to increase average annual building expenditures by 50% will be on the November election ballot;

AND WHEREAS, as the plan is to increase the real and personal property tax levy by one mill for the next fifteen years, with funds to be allocated for specific buildings by the North Dakota legislature, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED that the Minnesota-Dakotas Region urges adoption of this measure by the voters of North Dakota as a step forward, making college facilities adequate for increasing numbers of students. The region congratulates students at North Dakota institutions of higher education for working closely with administrators and faculty members on educational and fund raising programs for this measure.

Department of easy listening: Don't miss Friday and Saturday nights from 11 to 1. Joe Koeben-sky, exalted station manager, displays his best talents with terrific music and appropriate commentary alongside. From midnight to 12:30, Joe does "Philosopher's Corner." During this thirty minutes, soft instrumentals are played in the background, as he talks of everything from space to Indians. This is one of the best programs offered to students by campus radio, so be sure to tune in 750 this weekend.

Every Thursday noon, a student faculty lecture is held in Ceres Hall. Since many of the students are unable to hear of the excellent programs during this lecture hour, KDSC has arranged to capture them on tape and have them re-broadcast Thursday evenings, from 8 to 8:30.

The beginning of May will see appointments made for the various positions on the "executive staff" of KDSC. This will be done by election of the new station manager who will in turn make the appointments for the other positions on the staff.

Speaking of changes, it will surely bring about a change in the atmosphere around KDSC. It is going to seem mighty different with the old reliable seniors not around to lighten the load.

For a complete listing of programs on your campus station see the program log in this edition. Don't forget Joe K. Friday and Saturday nights. See you at 750.

NSA Plays Key Part On SC Campus

GUEST EDITORIAL

By Larry Swenson

Soon after World War II, an important meeting was held in Prague. The purpose was to decide and settle some pressing world-wide questions on higher education.

The year was 1946, the people attending were some 25 students from universities around the world. After concentrated meetings, the assembly adopted the official name, the International Student Union. They urged students of the various universities to return home and begin organizations which would encourage students to accept their responsibilities.

From this world conference an enthusiastic representative returned to help organize a student committee to promote a similar organization in the United States. The group would give the students across the nation some voice in the operation of their own campus. Through work of the student committee, a national convention was organized in 1947 at Madison, Wis. There, with the help of some 1,000 delegates, a constitution was drawn up and at last we American students were able to present a voice of students on student affairs.

It was the further decision of this convention that the organization be built on the philosophy that a student has a responsibility not only to himself, but to his fellow students and the entire educational community as well. The NSA has been able to maintain unwavering confidence in the individual student's ability to fulfill that responsibility.

The history of USNSA, show some unfortunate blots. During one of the national meetings, a person with communistic leanings spoke creating great unrest. From this talk arose all types of slanderous accusations which, after much work, were eventually cleaned up. The Association came out of its black days with a shining suit of armor and has since grown to be the most important student organization in the United States.

This, I hope, will clear up any misconception of our students of faculty concerning the Association.

The USNSA is still affiliated with an International organization. This organization is called the International Students Conference.

The International Conference, each year, appoints a committee called Co Sec which acts as a central exchange for world-wide problems of the National Union of Students. Co Sec fulfills duties such as publishing an international paper called "The Student", conducting NSA student exchange tours, and study tours, and promoting a yearly program of selecting leaders to come to the U. S. to study student governments.

You can see the importance of NSA here on our campus. It is from this beginning that NSA has grown to help us at NDSC, and provided students an opportunity to express ideas about responsibility and education, both nationally and internationally. I hope everyone on campus takes time to read this introduction to NSA and I hope sincerely that you students who are now aware of NSA will use it to your advantage. The NDSC Student Senate encourages you to come to any of its meetings, and more important, to bring to us your ideas, whether of local or international import.

The values of an organization like NSA can be clearly defined. Solving problems gives practical training and only when we contribute to NSA, can we expect to benefit. Whatever we contribute to the symbolic joining with other schools we can expect to gain.

The goals of NSA are to encourage student leadership.

What better way can this be accomplished than through development of student responsibility—to himself—to his fellow students—and most important, to the educational community of which he is an important part.

Threshing, Storage, And Crop Studies Will Be Held In New Agronomy Bldg.

"It started out to be a threshing shed and we would like to keep that idea," was the comment Dr. Glenn Smith made about the new Agronomy Plant Studies building, which is being built at the Agricultural Experiment Station this summer.

The new building, which is to be directly north of the Corn Seed House on the NDSC campus, will house studies in barley, durum wheat, hard wheat, and oats. It will be designed so that some threshing can be carried on inside during rainy weather. It will also be used for seed storage; weighing, cleaning, and classifying seed, and plant classification.

Dr. Smith, who is dean of the Graduate School at NDSC and principal plant breeder at the Experiment Station, stated that work is coming right along. He hopes to be in the new building by mid-July. "This would be in time for threshing and seed storage, and would eliminate unnecessary moving of seed," he said.

Mrs. Sam Stern Donates Cookbooks To Library

About 120 cookbooks are among collection of 350 books given to the NDSC library by Mrs. Sam Stern of Fargo.

The cookbooks are regional, national, and international in scope, and many were written by famous people in the gourmet field.

"Mrs. Stern's gift of cookbooks will be of great value to the School of Home Economics, as well as to the library," according to Dean Stallings, librarian.

One book, "Favorite Recipes from the United Nations," has 170 authentic recipes from all the member nations of the U. N. Another, "Cooking A La Ritz," was written by Louis Diat, a world famous chef whose dishes at the Ritz-Carlton Hotel in New York are well known among gourmets.

Among the early American cookbooks in the collection is "Williamsburg Art of Cookery," which contains 500 colonial recipes.

Other books in the collection include: "How to Cook and Eat in Russian," by Princess Alexandra Kropotkin; "Epicurean," luxurious tastes in eating and drinking; "White House Cookbook"; "Continental Cookbook"; "Around the World Making Cookies"; "Mennonite Community Cookbook"; "Pennsylvania Dutch Cookbook"; "Scandinavian Cookery"; and many others.

In addition to the cookbooks, the collection includes books on history, politics, literature, drama, and a variety of other subjects.

The building will be of concrete block construction with brick facing according to Richard Witz, architect for the Experiment Station. It will be a single story, flat roof unit.

The structure measures 60x116 feet with the main entrance in the southeast corner and a large door in the west end. Mr. Witz also is an agricultural engineer at the Experiment Station and an instructor in ag engineering at the college. He has designed most of the new buildings at the station, including the Agronomy and the Horticulture greenhouses, which are being completed now, and the Animal Nutrition barn to be built this year.

Dr. Smith gives the layout of the agronomy building as follows: entrance and washroom in the southeast corner with three plant study rooms along the east wall; the first for hard wheat and oats, the middle room for durum wheat and sawfly studies, and the northeast one for barley. These will be used for packaging, sorting, grading and classifying seed.

Along the south wall will be two long, narrow rooms; the east one used for cleaning and weighing seed and the other for threshing and classifying plants.

Along the north side will be a room for seed storage and a large room in the northwest corner for bundle and equipment storage. Dr. Smith pointed out that the design is such that the entire process can be carried on with a minimum of movement and congestion. Most of this work is carried on in the Corn Seedhouse at present with some of it being done in the Old Seedhouse and the Agronomy greenhouse.

The cost of the building will be approximately $50,000, reports Dr. Smith.

THE POSTMAN COMETH

I have recently received several letters from readers which have been so interesting, so piquant, so je ne sais quoi, that I feel I must share them with all of you. The letters and my replies follow:

SIR:

Maybe you can help me. I came up to college eight years ago. On my very first day I got into a bridge game in the student union. I am still in the same bridge game. I have never gone to class, cracked a book, or paid any tuition. All I do is play bridge.

To explain my long absence and keep the money coming from home, I told a harmless little lie. I said I was in medical school. This made Dad (my father) terribly proud. It also enabled me to keep playing bridge. We were both very happy.

But all good things must come to an end. Mine ended when I came home for Christmas vacation. I arrived to find that Sister (my sister) was in the hospital with an ingrown spleen. Dr. Norbert Sigafos, the eminent ingrown spleen surgeon, was scheduled to operate, but unfortunately he was run over by a hot-food cart on the way to the scrubbing room.

"Oh, never mind," chuckled Dad (my father). "Harlow (me) will fix Sister (my sister)."

Well sir, what could I do? If I told the truth I would make a laughingstock out of Dad (my father) who had been bragging about me all over town. Also I would get yanked out of school which would be a dirty shame just when I am beginning to understand the weak club bid.

There was nothing for it but to brazen it out. I got Sister (my sister) apart all right, but I must confess myself completely at a loss as to how to put her back together again. Can you suggest anything? They're getting pretty surly around here.

Sincerely,

Harlow Protein

Dear Harlow:

Indeed I do have the solution for you—the solution that has never failed me when things close in: Light up a Marlboro! Knots untie as you puff that fine rich tobacco. Shade becomes light as that grand flavor comes freely and friendly through that splendid filter. Who can stay glum when Marlboro gives you such a lot to like? Not I. Not you. Not nobody.

SIR:

Just off the campus where I go to school there is a lake called Lake Widgiwagan. Thirty years ago when my father was an undergraduate here he went fishing one day in Lake Widgiwagan and dropped his Deke pin in the water. He dived for days but never found it.

Just yesterday—thirty years later, mark you!—I went fishing in Widgiwagan. I caught a four-pound bass. I took the fish home, cut it open, and what do you think I found inside?

You guessed it! Two tickets to the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Sincerely,

Willis Wayde

Socially Speaking ... By Janet Kippen

Hello Staters! Did that sprinkle of snow last Saturday morning fool you too? I'll have to admit I looked a little ridiculous charging out of the dorm in my new Bermudas and tennis shoes and clutching my tennis racquet, only to be met by snow, sleet and what have you. I wasn't a bit worried tho'. In true North Dakota style, the weatherman pushed a different button and I was right in style by noon.

Members of the campus, you have my heartiest congratulations on your social work this week. In fact, according to rumors, some of you outdid yourselves at the game. As a result, I have been inspired to create a new sidelight to this monologue entitled "Say It Isn't So!" that you may read later on—if you keep on reading. I say "may" as we do have censors up here!

In the traditional style candles and candy were passed at the Kappa Delta house Monday night. Honored was Kay Shank for her recent engagement to Harvey Thorsgaard from Bottineau and Elaine Willy who now wears the ISA pin of Dale White.

Membership in Greek fraternities on our campus is increasing like the proverbial rabbits. Picnics and exchanges are few and far between lately. Could Brevities be the villain? Go to it, Greeks, for a bigger and better show. According to gossip, this production may be your last. The reaction of Brian McDaniel, director of the ATO act, to this rumor was one simple word, "Promise?!" My sentiments, exactly.

Dinner and dancing is on the agenda for the Gamma Phi's and KD's this evening. The setting: Moorhead Country Club, moonlight and music. The event: The first term party of the season. Have a ball, you lucky guys and gals.

Kappa Kappa Gamma honored their scholars Saturday evening at the annual recognition banquet. Receiving awards were Darlene Dietrich for the highest freshman average, Pat Moore Churchill for the outstanding senior, Lois Williams for the outstanding junior, and Ruth Mortenson for most improved scholarship.

Tekes have announced their sweetheart candidates. They are Marian Berg, Alpha Gamma Delta; Bev Mann, Gamma Phi Beta; Carol Olson, Kappa Alpha Theta; Vergene Anderson, Kappa Delta; Karen Knudson, Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Jan Melby, Phi Mu.

Say it isn't so! That the residents of 1155 12th Ave. N.—and friends—had an impromptu social gathering last Friday evening in typical spring style.

—that the Kappa Psi's set a new record of some sort when defeating the SPD's in a German-type game in Lindenwood last Friday night.

See what I mean, gang. It got by uncensored. Wasn't so bad after all, was it? But if any of you have access to any such unnotable news, see me. I may miss something even with my new tape recorder, telescope, and bloodhound. Remember, names make the news.

Now if I say much more, I'll be off the end of the page. So I leave you once again with but one thought in mind. "I shall return."

Ken Cornell Chosen AGD's Dream Man

Ken Cornell, past prexy of ATO was the lucky man to be chosen as the Alpha Gam Dream Man for this year. A trophy and best of all a kiss from all of the sisters was the reward for being accorded this honor. Monday night meeting this past week was something a little out of the ordinary, maybe.

Polls Tap Thoughts Of Young Americans

(ACP)—What do young Americans believe? The Western Reserve University Reserve Tribune comments on what the polls say we think.

Almost half the people between the ages of 16-21 believe wiretapping is O. K. One out of three believe a central government agency ought to censor movies, comic books, plays, radio, TV and newspapers—even dress. All this according to Eugene Gilbert, the expert youth surveyor.

There's more: In a recent issue of Editor and Publisher, a sampling of opinion from students at Purdue University revealed—60% favored censorship! 58% saw no harm in the third degree; 50% were ready to dispense with freedom of the press; 25% would grant police the right to search without warrant; 13% would restrict by law religious belief and worship.

Gilbert also found, according to an article in Look magazine, that young voters just turned 21 didn't know and didn't care whom they'd voted for in the last presidential election. Only two out of five said they'd have voted at all.

Does this mean what these figures imply? Seemingly people around 20 have already accepted the principles and framework of dictatorship. People like us students at Reserve.

Either we don't understand the freedoms of which this country was built 175 years ago, or we've already waived them.

Pollster Gilbert has this to say about the election statistics: "These are college students, mind you, who are supposed to be getting the best possible all-round education, part of which presumably covers civic affairs and the individual's responsibilities therein.

"What the apathy and confusion must be like among those first voters who have not had the benefit of a college education is too grim to think about."

This pliant acceptance of such Gestapo techniques, the willingness to have someone take over and control the body and soul of communication and thought is similar to what goes on here.

Students sit back and beckon to their instructors to lead them about by the nose intellectually, surrendering their right to question, disagree. How many of us don't sit back and swallow lecture hook, line and malarkey? How many of us prepare for class to be able to ask questions on the assignment, let alone do outside reading to match the prof's opinions against those of others or check original sources to see if his interpretation are accurate?

Phi Upsilon Omicron Conclave Scheduled

The local chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron, professional home economics fraternity, will be host to the Twentieth Biennial Conclave to be held on the NDSC campus, June 16 to 20, 1958.

An estimated 68 delegates and 40 guests from various parts of the United States are expected to attend this 50th anniversary conclave.

Program highlights will include the showing of North Dakota slides, a picnic at Itasca State Park, a Gold Rush party, and a Golden Anniversary Banquet on June 20.

Speakers for the conclave will include Eleanor Howe, editor-in-chief of "What's New in Home Economics," who will talk on "Our Challenge in Home Economics" and Caroline Budewig, Dean of Home Economics at NDSC who will speak on "The Great Idea of Home Economics."

Jan Brudvik To Make European Tour During Vacation Summer Months

How would you like to be making plans to tour Europe for the entire summer?

Jan Brudvik, NDSC junior in chemistry from Mayville, is doing this very thing, as she will be spending 12 weeks whirlwinding over the Continent through the summer months.

A St. Olaf student and former high school friend, Sylvia Groth, will accompany Jan on the trip. They will sail on June 2, from New York City on a student ship, the Grote Beer, and will begin the eightseeing venture in Europe, as they dock in Southampton, June 11th.

"I'm scared! We have reservations at Brussels for the return trip, but from Southampton to Brussels we're on our own," reports Jan on her intended trip.

Jan and Sylvia are avoiding the usual student tours to see Europe as they please. They will bicycle in each country and use the public transportation systems to travel from country to country.

Between them the two girls speak four languages. Jan speaks French and German, as well as English, and Sylvia is fluent in Spanish. However, Jan is looking for a little language trouble when they visit her relatives in Brudvik Norway. She claims, "They don't speak any English and I don't speak a bit of Norwegian. The visit with them ought to be hilarious! Any one for sign language?"

Their tour will include visiting every country in Western Europe and the major cities in each country.

Highlights of the trip will be a night at the Follies Bergere in Paris, hearing the Concordia Choir in Vienna, the National Festival in Wales and a "sneak flight" into East Berlin. They have made plans to visit the studios of Radio Free Europe, and have arranged tour of the Vatican through the American Embassy in Rome.

Lt. James Brudvik, Jan's brother and former student at NDSC, now stationed in Paris, where Jan and Sylvia plan to meet him August 1. Here they will forsake their bicycles and travel by automobile for the remainder of the tour, which will include Italy, Spain, France and Belgium.

The holiday will end in Brussels after a week at the World Fair. They board a plane for home August 21.

Lu Lin Enjoys Life On NDSC Campus

Despite being busy with chemistry graduate studies and lab assistance work, Lu Lin Chen finds time for an occasional movie and picnic. Translating lectures completely, remains a problem for her, although it is becoming easier, as her studies continue.

Lu Lin's present home is in Formosa, where her father is associated with shipping and trading industries in the Far East. Lu Lin's family consist of her parents, a brother who is a Formosan University chemistry student, and another brother and two sisters who are high school students.

Although more science and mathematics are taught in Chinese high schools, than in the U. S., Lu Lin thinks the amount of material covered is about equal, as more emphasis is put on these subjects in U. S. colleges.

The Chinese high school and college students are quite westernized in their dress, Lu Lin says. The age at which the Chinese girls begin to wear lipstick varies but it is usually not worn before they are 18-20 years old.

Eight months without seeing one's family seems a long while for a college student. Lu Lin may continue her studies in the U. S. until she receives her Ph.D. degree, before returning to Formosa.

Sports Of All Sorts

By Roger Lutz

Well, since the last paper came out the only team that went into battle for "good old State" was the track squad, and they went down to defeat at the hands of the North Dakota Sioux.

The three teams participating in the triangular indoor meet were North Dakota State, North Dakota University and Valley City State Teachers College; and the Sioux had little trouble in gaining the win. The Bison managed to scrape up 29 points, though, which was enough to nudge Valley City for second place. It might be interesting to note the fact that of those 29 points, Bison freshmen accounted for 15 of them. This does not speak well for the varsity and gives some indication of the material coach Tom Neuberger has to work with. Neuberger pointed out, though, that the boys looked quite a bit better in this match than they did in their first one.

Just to show that all NDSC teams don't have to wind up the season with a poor record, the bowling team under the direction of Gordy Teigan has ended the year with a very respectable record. Over-all in sixteen games they came through with victories in twelve of them. The team which included Bob North, John Sawyer, DuWayne Baranyk, Loren Stangeland, Lloyd Larsen and Lowell Barnum, wound up in fourth place in region 7 league play which is not too outstanding, but they did win first place in the Louie C. Strack league, which is composed of eight colleges in North Dakota.

Victories for the Bison neglers were chalked up against North Dakota University twice, Jamestown College twice, Bismarck Junior College once, Mankato State College once, LaCrosse State College once, Eau Claire State College once, and Dickinson Teachers College once. They split with Valley City Teachers College, lost once to St. Mary's College, and lost twice to the University of Minnesota, both of which were close matches.

In defeating the North Dakota University team, the Bison once again regained the Brunswick Traveling Trophy which the Sioux have had for the last three years. This trophy is similar to the Nickle Trophy which the football teams pass back and forth.

DuWayne Baranyk had the second high average in region 7, as he fired at a clip of 188 pins a game, and he also had the high series with a 665 set.

Prospects look good to coach Teigan for future seasons, as Baranyk is only a freshman and three of the other regular members will be back next year. In the stages of planning is a trip to the University of Wisconsin and Marquette next year. If arrangements are made, this trip will take place between quarters. More power to a winning sports team. We haven't seen too many of them recently at NDSC.

The tennis team started competition this past Tuesday. Representing State were Larry Dodge, Jack Bergene, Ross Fortier, and Errol Quick. I don't have the results for you in this column but if you'll squint your eyes elsewhere in the sports section, you'll find out who won. The match was against Concordia, and future contests will be against Bemidji and the University of North Dakota.

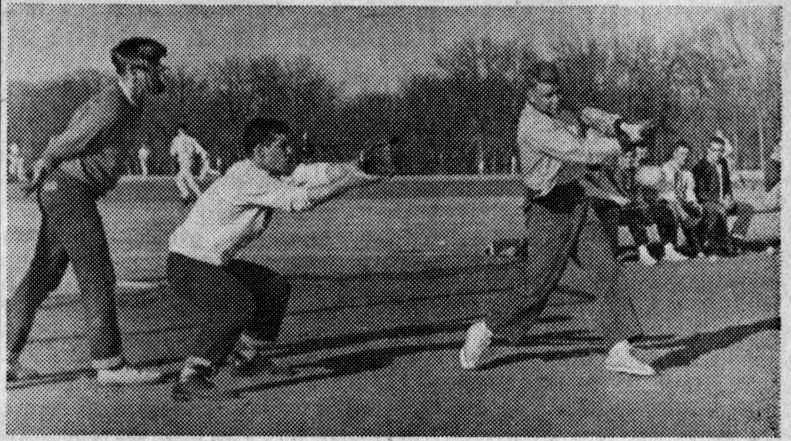

Coach E. E. Kaiser of the golf team has announced that tryouts for the golf team will be held this coming Wednesday. Anyone interested in trying out for the team should be at the Edgewood golf course anytime after 1:30 on Wednesday. A match will be held the following Friday, the 23rd.

Moving over to intramurals for a while now. Schedules have been set up for intramural golf and tennis, and play will begin soon. Softball has been organized and going strong for a couple of weeks now. Currently leading in group A are the SAE's with two wins and no losses. Four teams are deadlocked in bracket B with one win each.

Ping pong playoffs have been scheduled and should be played soon. Competing will be SAE No. 2 going against the Coops, and ATO, who will tangle with the Sigs.

And with that little note I have run out of news for this week. Things are always developing though, and I'll have more next week.

Battling it out are SAE's and Kappa Psi's I-M teams. Jerry Walter batting and Bill Suckerman catching.

NDSC Library Is Popular In 2 States As Concordia, MSC Students Invade

The NDSC library is one of nine libraries located in Fargo and Moorhead, but it is the most complete and up-to-date of the nine.

It is the only one with a complete documentary depository; it has the biggest staff; and it buys more books and spends more money than any of the others.

The increase in the number of volumes in the library in the past ten years has gone from 80,000 in 1948 to 130,000 today—an increase of almost 62 per cent.

To assist students in finding information, there is an average of four and one-half index or information cards on file for every book. There is a card for each author, each subject, and the title.

Within the last week 120 new trays or card files, costing $1,700, were added to the card cataloging department. This makes a total of 480 trays. Each tray has approximately 1200 cards on file. The old library had 120 trays.

To keep the library up to date, there are 12 full-time and 14 part-time employees on the staff.

An hourly tabulation is taken to find out how many students are using the library. It ranges from about six late Friday afternoon to 250 in the evenings. On Sunday, the number of students studying varies from 40 to 130.

The popularity of the library was especially evident two years ago, when an influx of Concordia and MS students invaded the library. Every third book was checked out to a Concordia or MS student.

Then, two weeks later one-third of the overdue notices went across the river. The next day one-third of the phone calls were from one of these sources.

The invasion was partially stopped by charging the Concordia and MS students 50 cents for a library permit card.

Highlights of the convention included addresses by Missile Expert Thomas Lanphier, vice president of Convair Aircraft, Major General James Briggs, Superintendent of the U. S. Air Force Academy at Denver, and Lt. General Dean Strother, Commander of the Air University. Their talks dealt with the futures of the young cadets as "men in space".
