TIME TO BEAR DOWN

Three Convos Scheduled For Year; Chinese Official Slated For Sept. 29

A recent member of Chiang Kai-shek's cabinet will lead off the fall term convocations for NDSC students. He is Dr. K. C. Wu, former governor of Shanghai and later of Formosa. The convo is scheduled for September 29.

Featured also are three major campus convos. First is the annual Homecoming rally for the Montana State game. Next is the Religious Emphas Week convo to be held fall term for the first time. Finally, the campus will recognize Veterans' Day with a special convocation.

Application For Scholarships Due Now, Says Dean

Dean of the School of Engineering, Dean Mirgain, has announced that applications should be made for the Laverne Noyes Scholarships at the earliest opportunity.

Anyone who is a blood relation of a veteran of World War I is eligible to apply for the grants. The applications must be made at the beginning of the school year, and the scholarship will continue throughout the year.

Students who received the scholarship last year and wish to do the same for the current school year must reapply.

The grants are for $25 per quarter. Application blanks may be picked up in the Office of Admissions and Records and should be returned to that office at the earliest possible opportunity.

All convos are at 9:40 a.m. in Festival Hall. Morning classes are rearranged to make time for them. Clip and save this schedule of classes for convocation mornings:

- 1st hr.—8-8:45
- 2nd hr.—8:50-9:35
- Convo—9:40-10:25
- 3rd hr.—10:30-11:15
- 4th hr.—11:20-12:05.

EE Chairman Named

The appointment of Prof. Edwin M. Anderson as chairman of the department of electrical engineering at NDSC has been announced by Dr. Fred S. Hultz, NDSC president.

Anderson has been acting chairman of the department during the past year. He was also acting chairman during the 1955-56 school year, while R. N. Fairman, department chairman, was on leave.

The new chairman joined the NDSC staff in 1949. He has Bachelor of Science and Master of Science degrees from the University of Denver, and he has worked on his doctorate at Purdue University.

Book Exchange Opens!

Alpha Phi Omega service fraternity is again operating the Book Exchange in the Library. Members have set up shop on the main floor and a schedule of open hours is posted on the door.

The A Phi O Book Exchange is a non-profit service to all college students. Students may set their own price on text books and leave them at the Exchange to be sold.

Spectrum Notice!

Starting next week the Spectrum will head a column entitled NOTICES. Anyone wishing to have a notice put in the paper drop it into the editors box in the Spectrum office and entitle it Notice.

All material must be in the Spectrum office by one o'clock Tuesday evening. This will include all columns (sports, social, etc.). No delay will be permitted.

All copy should be typewritten or at least in legible form. A scrap of paper with some scribbling on it is not a story—it is merely a "tip" of some news.

Articles containing personal opinion must be signed by the writer.

No unauthorized personnel will be permitted in the office.

SC Faculty Fireside Plan Party For Thurs., Sept. 25

The Faculty Firesides program of NDSC YMCA-YWCA will begin Thursday, Sept. 25, with a fireside meeting at the home of Burton Brandrud, NDSC director of admissions and records.

The purpose of the firesides, according to Leo Johnson, YMCA Secretary, is to give students and faculty members a chance to get acquainted informally.

Students who wish to attend have only to drop in at the Y office in the library and sign up. The group will meet at the library at 8 p.m. and then drive to the Brandrud home.

Additional Faculty Firesides will be sponsored at later dates.

FRESHMAN OFFICERS

A part of the Freshman orientation program of Student Senate, the elections were operated on the same pattern as the national

It's always nice to get back to school in the fall to renew old acquaintances and to make new ones. Of course—there's always a catch . . . classes have started, too. Looks like most of us will be hitting the books from now on. Guess we can't forget that, cause it piles up in a hurry. Still good to be back . . .

Looks like everyone would like to see more sidewalks on campus. That's the way it would seem to anyone visiting the campus. The way people are cutting across the lawns, a person would think that this was a high school and not an institution of higher education.

The Bison grid men see action again tomorrow night as they take on Augustana. Let'll all get out and cheer the Herd on to another victory. They did their share last Saturday night so now it's up to us to give them some support.

A word to the students who are registering late . . . Don't forget to have pictures taken for your activity cards. Those little cards get you into all of the athletic contests.

Alpha Phi Omega is sponsoring an all-college dance after the game Saturday night. Music will be furnished by Paul Hanson. All the proceeds go to the Crippled Children's School in Jamestown, so let's have an even larger crowd than last week . . .

There seems to be quite a lot of student apathy on campus again this year. The Name Change Committee is trying to raise money for a publicity campaign before the election. Many of the students on campus have refused, for one reason or another, to buy them. If they are really interested in their school, the least they could do is to buy a button to help out . . . Let's really get behind the name change. It affects all of the students, not just a few.

Something for Nothing

People of this cotton picken' campus!

I have come not to praise Caesar, but to bury him. I do this with no reservations but with full conviction that this is just and necessary for the betterment of the campus for us all.

Caesar is the beast of neglect and indifference which will envelop and destroy us while we lie in waste. He can creep up silently and slowly erase the desire of men to exist or to think as free separate, individuals who have the gift of choosing and rejecting the wishes and pressures of the masses. Caesar could be your master, unless, you strike back with weapons that you possess but don't use.

Many of you may be weak at heart and dwell in the fear of standing up for something. Some don't have the weapons or the know-how on how to destroy this monster. Many do not care one way or another and snuggle into their own little two by four world.

But I hope that there are some who will strike with me at Caesar now and then if he should show his evil head on campus again. This is a university where people come to progress and learn not sit back and let the world pass by.

I say arise! Throw off the irons, be ye not weaklings, conformists and purposeless manikins. Blow your bugle, and beat your drum. Stand out from the crowd. You could be the person to stand against the world and defeat the monster, and defeat him before he can gain a foothold. Resistance will spread but only if you try.

You could be the hero. You could have women falling adoringly at your feet or have men cheer you as you pass.

You are the crusader for a better world.

This may be far fetched but I assure you basically it is true. One way to try is to join the Spectrum staff. This is one of the best ways to be informed and possess the power to fight Caesar. The Spectrum working class does not claim to be pillars of society nor slayers of the dragon, but they sure have the opportunity to hold down Caesar. The Spectrum staff needs help in order to complete the mission of burying Caesar. Here is where the students can bring forth the issues and be informed. Here is where you can see what is going on and stick your fingers in the making of the campus. Here you may be an influence and use and a direct force in what goes on around campus.

Do not, then, stand and chide me but join me in burying Caesar, the monster of indifference and neglect, by joining the Spectrum staff or for the matter any campus group which would fit your talent and a need of campus.

As of last Monday, KDSC is on the air with another year of new and better programing for the student body. Twenty prospective staff members have been chosen for a two week trial. They will have an opportunity to do their own programs during the next two weeks, then a final decision on them will be made. As in the past years, more people have tried out for campus radio and we are unable to accept them all. Those that did not make the staff this time are urged to try again at the start of next quarter if they have the real desire to become a part of the KDSC family. Due to the fact that a scholastic average of some sort is required to be on the staff we, of course, lose some of our talent now and then.

A meeting has been scheduled with officials of KOBB at Concordia and KMSC at Moorhead State, so the second year of Tri-College network isn't far in the future. Once again, the programs will be one-half hour from each of the three student stations in the two cities. This is the only inter-state college network in the nation. Last year much time was devoted to the ironing out of technical difficulties involved in transporting programs from station to station. With everything pretty well on the correct method, this year's programing should be expanded and run more fluently. Be sure to listen to KDS to find out the start of this year's network.

Bill Bergquist, first quarter freshman, has been accepted on the staff of KDSC. When I asked Bill his first impression of campus radio, his reply was, "Quite conveniently located on the second floor of the Union, and I like the friendly atmosphere, especially the lap sitting games while spinning discs over the air." Maybe Bill isn't too correct in his assumptions, but KDSC does have it's good times.

Be sure to tune in at this column next week to find out all the dirt you missed when you flicked off the knob to study a bit.

LOOKING AT STATE

With D. Anthony

A big welcome to the "Krazy Kats" of KDSC, its good to hear the voice of the State College Student back on the air again. For those of you new to this institution, KDSC broadcasts from 750 on your radio dial, the best in music, news and sports.

Again we sink into the daily grind of classes with the horrible prospect of tests drawing near. Mid-terms are a few short weeks away, but, thank goodness, they are all over before the Homecoming parade, game and what-not.

Here in the Spec office, the mumble of the Annual Staff and the clatter of typewriters reverberate against the skulls of the intellectuals that wander in and out like lost sheep. Come to think about it, there are so few intellectuals nowadays that they must feel like lost sheep.

And speaking of sheep, let me be the first this year to commence the annual war on sheep. The type of sheep of which I speak are two legged and go by the name of students. These poor creatures each and every year crop up like highly undesirable weeds, in spite of effort to rid the campus of them. You will soon be able to follow the sheep as they trace paths hither and yon across the grass, completely disregarding the sidewalks. When you see these sheep trampling the grass as they play or wander aimlessly to and fro, be sure and greet them with a loud "Baaa". Its only what they deserve. The campus workers have done a beautiful job in landscaping the grounds and planting new grass in old "Sheep trails". Its up to all of us to keep our campus green and neat. Somewhere in the rules and regulations there is a law which provides a fine for playing on the grass of the malls and lawns. Maybe its time it was enforced.

Observations From The Lily Pad

By Ralph Kennedy

Many students on many of the nation's campuses are stupid! That's right, stupid, dumb, etc. We're not though, are we? Course not! We're brilliant, or at least above average.

According to a recent private survey, the men of obvious lesser intellectual powers, such as UND students, are forced to spend at least fifteen hours per week on the books. We, on the other hand, manage quite well on about three or four hours. Mind you, we have a fine academic rating. We're just bright!

However, the male contingent of State U has sought out and found just the thing to occupy their idle hours. They party! Not just the conventional tea and crumpets or biscuits, no sir. It may look like tea, and some guys drink it like tea, but believe me its not tea! No sir, it's coffee—of course.

Naturally, after having guzzled or sipped a goodly portion of coffee, certain members of such frequent parties decided that it would be a real gallant move to invite some women to their party. So, they did.

Who to call? Jane and her sophomore roommate? No sir, college girls are much too wild for such affairs.

Better to call some of the more quiet, conservative girls of the working group. Even better than that is to just happen to know a nurse, or two or twelve, who is on a week's vacation. You just can't be too careful who you invite to your party. I heard about a college girl who actually laughed out loud at one of the larger functions. Can you imagine that! You won't find the nurses or working girls carrying on like that! Not on your life.

Sad as it may be, one must take intermittent breaks from the gaieties to attend a lecture. We don't intend that anyone become so thoroughly engrossed that he should miss or cut a class.

I-M Football Starts

Organizations interested in entering teams in Intramural touch football: there is a meeting for all in Room 204 of the Fieldhouse at 4:15 on September 22. Entry fee is $3.00 per team. Regular play will start Tuesday.

NOW IS THE TIME for all you fellows to come to the aid of your countrymen. Translated, why not start dating those new gals on campus before they get that old "Suitcase" disease? A weekday student and a weekend at home make for a bad mixture at college. Take an old pro's advice and stick around for the fun on weekends. You'll love it!

We covered last summer's events this time—if you're wondering what is happening on campus every week, just turn to this corner of the Spectrum and find out what you and everybody else did in the way of socializing. See you down in the Union!

Student Poll Reveals New Wardrobes Not College Prerequisites

By Annafay Rodgers
Minnesota Daily

You freshmen may be wondering and worrying about campus fashions as you have completed your first week of college.

But wait before you rush to your parents crying, "I need a new wardrobe." You don't. Your high school wardrobe, with a very few additions, will be all right for college. College fashions differ very little from high school attire.

A poll of freshman girls on campus, asked what they had bought to take to college with them, showed that all of them had only added two or three skirts and a few sweaters or blouses to their wardrobes.

You will find, as in high school, the favorites of the coeds for campus wear are versatile and interchangeable skirts, sweaters and blouses. Some of the favorites of campus men are long sleeved pull-over sweaters, sport shirts, without ties, grey flannels and white bucks.

Wait to buy most of your clothes until you've been on campus a little while. During the first few weeks of school the weather is warm, and cottons are worn. After that woolens will come out and then you can decide what you like of the popular styles.

You don't have to follow all the fads in clothing to be in style. Instead, see how they will fit your personality and budget. In selecting clothing always remember:

Don't feel that you have to "dress to your teeth" to impress the members of fraternities and sororities. But the Sunday afternoon teas and meetings are dressier occasions. At this time the heels, hats, gloves and suits should come out of the closet.

A suit is a good item for both fellows and coeds to own. The men especially, will find a suit, with a white shirt and a knit tie, perfect for any of the special occasions like Homecoming parties, dinners and "boy-girl-get-togethers." But leave your suit home for the class room.

Homecoming parties and dances will give coeds a chance to dress up. Failles, taffetas and silk shantung are a few of the materials that are used in date dresses. A knit or wool suit will always be in style for any of special occasions too.

Coeds can use the same formals they had in high school. Only two of the freshman girls interviewed had bought new ones.

Simplicity is the keynote for campus wear. Casual clothing is what most college students like. Never overdress on campus. Relax and be natural.

A must in the midwest is a warm coat. It is a good investment. Of the 15 girls interviewed, 14 had bought a new coat.

The main requirement for a coat is that it be warm. There are a variety of styles to choose from so get what will look best on you and be most practical for your budget. The same coat usually serves for both dress and casual occasions for most coeds.

Jeans are seldom worn on campus. Even for the football games in the early fall, the coed wears a skirt and sweater, or a wool suit. When the cold wins come, warmer coats are donned.

Knee high socks were very popular with the coeds this last year. Eleven of the 15 freshman girls had bought some. They come in a variety of colors, and even imitate the argyle patterns on he-men's socks.

ONCE MORE UNTO THE BREACH

Today begins my fifth year of writing this column, and what an eventful five years it has been! What things have these old eyes not seen! What great discoveries have rocked the world—the anti-proton, for instance, and the anti-neutron, and high-low split, and Brigitte Bardot!

In these five years it has also been discovered that American smokers like two kinds of cigarettes—filter and non-filter. The Philip Morris Company makes both kinds. I mention the Philip Morris Company because they pay me to mention the Philip Morris Company. They sponsor this column. I write it and then they give me money. Then I take the money and pay my grocer, my butcher, my gardener, and my four madrigal singers. In this way full employment is maintained and we avoid a repetition of the Panic of 1873 when bread riots killed over 98 million people in Muncie, Indiana, and millions of others were reduced to ghost-writing Ph. D. theses to keep body and soul together.

But enough of gloom. Let us get back to cheerful subjects, like the products of the Philip Morris Company. For those of you who wish filter cigarettes there is Marlboro, which now, more than ever, gives you a lot to like—a brand new improved filter and a wonderful flavor that comes breezing right through. For those of you who wish non-filter cigarettes, there is Philip Morris, a mild natural blend, flavorful, fresh, and thoroughly agreeable. For those of you who can't decide between filters or non-filters but have an affinity for packages, I should like to point out that both Marlboro and Philip Morris come in both the crushproof Flip-Top Box and the good old-fashioned Soft Pack, and you will surely want several of each for your collection.

Speaking for myself, I smoke both Marlboro and Philip Morris in both packs. What I do is make kind of a fun thing out of it. In my bedroom I have four signs, one on each wall, which say in turn: "PHILIP MORRIS—SOFT PACK", "PHILIP MORRIS—FLIP-TOP," "MARLBORO—SOFT PACK" and "MARLBORO—FLIP-TOP". When I get up in the morning I put on a blindfold and then my faithful cat Rover spins me around six times and then, with many a laugh and cheer, I walk forward with my finger outstretched and the first sign I touch is the cigarette I smoke that day!

...This little game has been a great source of merriment...

As you can imagine, this little game has been a great source of merriment to Rover and me, except for one untoward incident one morning. I was stumbling around in my blindfold and fell out the window right on top of a man named Fred R. Timken, a census taker, and broke all his lead pencils. He was cross as a bear, and though I offered him both Philip Morris and Marlboro in both the Flip-Top Box and Soft Pack, he refused to be mollified. In fact, he refused to put my name down in the census, so when you read population figures of the United States, will you please add one?

But I digress. We were speaking of Philip Morris and Marlboro who will bring you this column throughout the school year. In this space I will take up vital aspects of undergraduate life, like high-low split and Brigitte Bardot, and it is my fondest hope that the column will be half as much fun for you as it is for me.

The makers of Marlboro and Philip Morris welcome you to another year of fun and games from Old Max, and another year of good smoking from us. Filter or non-filter, pick what you please—and what you pick will please you.

THE BUREAU OF USELESS INFORMATION

By Gene Price

Peace!

And indeed it is with pleasure that we welcome you ever-lovin' readers to the Bureau. We can now report a completely satisfactory infiltration of all campus media here at North Dakota State, with the vastly successful inception of the daily Bureau programs. We might remind those of you who remain as yet unexposed that you too may partake of the wondrous delights of this program, coming to you transcribed from the International Headquarters of the Bureau at 6:15 every day at 750 on your very own radio dial.

But now, without further ado, I'd like to introduce Mr. Xavier Hosenose, local Office Counselor and noted Terraryist, who will acquaint you with our next item of business.

"Thanks, Gre. We now present a real treat of interest to all prospective Bureau Apprentices. The first valuable award presented by the Bureau goes to Mr. David Bragg, world-famous polygot and Electioneer Extraordinaire, who below will present a report to the nation on his past summer's work as crew chief on the USS barge, Name-Change. I give you now Mr. Bragg."

"It was mentioned in the Bureau column last week that a treatise on the "Protect the Night-crawler" Association would be forthcoming. However, due to a recent conversation of mine, it seems to be a bit out of line. Instead, I will briefly relate a tale that will boil the blood of even the most calm.

"It has come to my attention that a certain group of persons on this campus are taking a negative attitude toward something that is of supreme importance to the institution. I speak of the "Name Change." These persons are not opposed to it, but consider it unable to pass and convey these opinions to others. This type of attitude is as bad publicity as paying for word of mouth often travels faster than normal means of communication, and is much more difficult to overcome.

"The committee and administration feel that the measure has an excellent chance of passing, but we need all the help that we can get. This means pushing by every means possible.

"We do have persons against us, but we also have many for us. Our stiffest opposition comes from several narrow-minded newspaper men around the state, one of whom is the father of a student on campus. It is people like this whom each student can influence through speaking to the people around home towns and getting them to our way of thinking through the medium of letters to editors, etc. Let's all get behind this thing and push. Adopt a positive attitude, but not over-confidence, since only through everyone's combined and individual efforts can we hope to succeed."

Thank you very much for those inspirational words, brother Bragg, and rest assured that your potted palm WILL be watered every day. We are proud to name you our first Bureau of Useless Information Apprentice of the year. You will receive your valuable award very soon, making you the envy of all the kids in your neighborhood. We might note also, at this point, that you too, dear reader, are eligible to win this valuable award. Put your contribution in the Editor's box in the Spectrum office, labeled clearly, "for the Bureau".

And watch this column next week for news of an exciting new contest for the entire campus. Also appearing next week will be a short report from Miss Patricia Larson, internationally-touted oastist and marine-life expert (also Bison Co-editor) who will deliver a set of instructions for all those wishing to subscribe to her new magazine, The Outdoor Cyclist. Don't miss this, and much other exciting Useless Information. And remember to stay tuned to KDSC at 6:15 every evening for the regular Bureau broadcasts.

And now, in keeping with our tradition over the years, we now submit for your consideration this week's syndicated "Gem of Worthless Wisdom":

"Only one case of polio was reported in Denmark last year. It was a thirteen-year-old boy who had not been vaccinated."

Frosh Face Challenge In Activities

Minnesota Daily

As a student new to college life, you will have many dilemmas to face. One is whether you should be a joiner of the innumerable extra-curricular activities.

How big a choice of activities do students have? The number varies with the size of the school.

These organizations include the usual music, dramatic and athletic groups. The different groups fall roughly into several classifications, such as governing boards, student publications, academic and professional fraternal groups, residential and cooperative organizations, religious and inter-faith groups, recognition and honorary organizations and special interest groups.

Going to and participating in athletic events, concerts and plays and school-sponsored dances also may be considered student activities. Others are planning and participating in special events.

Student activities are usually considered a part of the school's educational program. Rules and policies on activities are established by a student-faculty committee under the direction of a dean of student affairs or similar staff member.

In planning extra-curricular activities, you should consider many things. Of prime importance is how much time is required by any organization. Students in drama spend hours on practice and stage work. Some groups on the other hand, require little more time than is spent at their regular meetings. This is true of many departmental and professional groups. Others involve detailed committee and service work. For instance, publications require an indeterminate length of time, as much as you are willing to give. By joining organizations gradually you can best find the amount of time needed for non-academic activities.

Cost is another consideration. Many activities cost nothing to participating students. Committee work for charity drives and special events, such as Homecoming, require only time and ideas. Other groups need donations to support their activities. Certain clubs have set fees and dues for membership.

How can new students get into organizations at a new school? Students may either seek club membership themselves, or their membership may be solicited. Information concerning requirements may be obtained directly from the organization.

How does participation in activities affect grades? A study made several years ago in Oberlin college, Ohio, reported that outside activities do not "seem to have any generally disastrous effect upon the course work of the students concerned." Also, non-participation was found to have little effect on scholastic performance. College activities resemble those in which high school students participate, except that they are on a larger scale.

Most schools have musical organizations including band, orchestra, choir and dancing groups. Girls at many schools who are interested in modern dance may participate in Orchesis.

Religious groups, where students may worship together, also maintain special social activities for their members. There are denominational groups, normally Catholic, Protestant and, at larger schools, Jewish on every campus, also YW and YMCA groups.

Activities promote social adjustment, personality development and citizenship training. They offer much to students who enter them intelligently and diligently. There is satisfaction from participation in itself, aside from any material benefits which may result.

LSA Begins Services

Beginning Sunday, September 21, morning worship services will be held at 11:00 o'clock in the new Campus Lutheran Center.

Arne Kvaalen, Lutheran Campus Pastor, will speak on the theme "If Death Is Not Final . . ."

Arlen Dahlen, president of the church council announces the formation of a choir under the direction of Dale Lund, a graduate student with five years experience in high school music.

Coffee and rolls will be served prior to the service, beginning at 10:15.

Rides Provided For Gamma Deltans

Every Sunday rides will be provided to church and Gamma Delta for all the Missouri and Wisconsin Synod Lutheran students. Cars will stop at Dinan Hall at 9:45 and 4:45 so all interested students should meet in the dorm lounge.

Gamma Delta bible class is held at 10 a.m. in the Gamma Delta room at the rear of the church.

The Gamma Delta meetings are held at 5:00 p.m. All freshmen desiring membership should attend the introductory classes to be held the next four Sunday at 4:00 p.m.

Fall Fashions Featured

Probably as important a concern as having a good college wardrobe is having clothing you can afford. The Straus Co. takes much pride in serving the college trade with the latest in fashions at a budget level all students can afford.

Fall features include an all wool tweed topcoat with a zipout lining for just $39.50. All wool slacks in the popular Ivy League styling at $13.95. Those bulky knit sweaters, so good for football games have been reduced this year to just $8.95. Do you need some classroom shirts? We now have cotton Ivy League shirts with the three button collar at $4.00. These are but a few of the newly featured clothing at our store. Won't you stop in and shop around?

We are happy to announce the appointment of Dan O'Hearn to our college clothing staff. Dan comes to us from the K. G. Men's Store in Dickinson. His previous clothing experience makes him a very able asset to our regular staff.

Let's all support the name change, also remember to spread news of the importance of the Mill Levy.

Concordia Loses To Fired Up Bison

A spirited Bison football team displayed terrific finesse last Saturday night, as some six thousand fans saw them come out on top of an 8-6 contest. Going into the game a 12 point underdog, the determined Herd handed the fans quite a surprise as they seemed to handcuff the strong Cobbers.

Immediately after the opening kickoff, the Herd started a drive. Continued plunges by fullback Curt Quenette, and halfbacks Wayne Wall and Gary Ahlgren somewhat puzzled the Cobber defenders, and 63 yards were under the Bison belts after a dozen plays. A fourth down miscue, however, halted the Bison bid and gave Concordia the ball on the 21 yard line. All too often last year this happened and resulted in defeat after defeat. The determined Herd did not let down but continued to harrass the Cobbers. Concordia managed a first down from the 21, but a tight Bison defense forced a punt and gave the Herd a second chance with the ball.

Last Year's Track Men Receive Awards

Track coach Tom Neuburger has announced that a poll has been taken of last year's track team members and several honors and medals have been awarded.

Neuburger sent post cards to the various tracksters last summer. They selected the boys who they thought deserved the awards. Lanny Brantner, from Georgetown, was selected as next year's team captain.

Bob Williams was declared the most valuable participant of last year's team. Williams hails from Fergus Falls, Minnesota. Glen Gilbertson of Crosby was picked as the most improved runner, and Bob Rollins of Billings, Montana, was selected as the most deserving member of the team.

Coach Neuburger was called on to select the team member he considered the most coachable. Neuburger said that it was a tough decision but he narrowed his choice down to two boys: Don Remillong of Bismarck and Lanny Brantner of Georgetown.

The photo appearing on this page pictures last year's team; all are expected back this year to form the nucleus of the squad.

Wrestling is still a comparatively new sport here at NDSC but popularity is picking up fast. Anyone interested in wrestling is urged to go out for the team.

Seven other meets have been scheduled and they are as follows:

Nine freshmen and three varsity members compose this year's team, so far. Neuberger has pointed out that five members are necessary for the varsity team, so there are open positions to be filled. If any of you have any running ability you should contact Coach Neuberger in the near future.

Oct. 4—Triangular meet with MSC and Mankato Teachers at Moorhead.

Oct. 11—Homecoming. The runners will most likely run the torch from Bismarck. A meet might possibly be held at Bemidji this weekend. The runners will decide what they want to do.

Work has started on conditioning and a few organized practices have been held in preparation for the first meet on the 28th.

Oct. 18—North Dakota University homecoming.

Sports Of All Sorts

By Roger Lutz

Well, we finally did it. The memory of eight straight losses was wiped out last Saturday night as the Bison came through with a huge victory over the Concordia Cobbers. The score which was 8-6 does not indicate a tremendous victory but if you consider the fact that our team was a 12 point underdog you can call this win a spectacular victory.

have good representation, but it could be better next week against Augustana, our next opponent.

Coach Bob Danielsen had praise for the boys. He said that he had a bunch of determined boys out there against the Cobbers, and it was this determination that brought home victory.

Curt Quenette, fullback co-captain, received praise as the driving mainstay of the team.

Asked what he expected from next week's foe, Augustana, Danielsen pointed out that the last time Augustana journeyed up here from Sioux Falls they ran into a brick wall and were smothered by the Herd.

Not too sure of his bench strength, Danielsen will have to make replacements wisely. He is expecting, though, to see JC transfer Pat Rosatti in future contests use some of his speed. He is also looking for some help from Al Edoff. Jerry Hoffman, who reported late should be seeing some action in the center spot to give regular Tom Egan an occasional rest.

Coach Danielsen, asked who he thought was the toughest team, went along with everyone else and named South Dakota State as the toughest contender in the conference. He also went along with popular sentiment and named ISTC and NDU as top contenders. He jokingly said that ISTC gets better material accidentally than we get trying.

Collegiates Express Views On Senior Women Off-Campus Housing Plan

What's your opinion of senior girls staying off campus?

While browsing around campus the other night I asked a few of the students what their opinion was in regard to this question. They were varied.

Lloyd Larsen states, "I think it's great. It might give the senior girls a chance for independence and it will allow them to learn how to budget their own money and time. Dorm life has it's restrictions. By living off campus they can make up their own minds as to what is right and wrong."

Mary Maloney and Georgia Saar, who have tried it, felt that it is inconvenience to study with people coming in and out at varied hours. They didn't like carrying all their books to school. Worst of all, they missed being in close contact with their friends and dorm life.

Gary Tomasson didn't like the idea either. He said, "it shows lack of planning by the proper authorities."

Parker Erickson had the opposite view. He felt that the seniors, having achieved maturity, should be able to handle any situation that comes up and therefore should be able to have the privilege of staying off campus.

Jan Brudvik went further yet by stating, "I don't think that we should have hours because we are over 21 and are supposed to be able to take care of ourselves. My roommates and I like where we are living and staying off campus. At Concordia they are on their own."

The last person I talked to was Muriel Blue, who has to look forward to staying off campus. In her words she thought it was "lousy." "It is too expensive. Freedom isn't essential; 1:00 is late enough. If girls want to stay out later they can stay off campus for the night. I'm not sure though; I haven't tried it yet."

What is your opinion? Why not write a letter to the editor or come up and talk to her?

Bright Colors Greet Returning State Coeds In Girls Dormitories

Miss Matilda B. Thompson, Dean of Women, announced that during the summer the girls dormitories received a face lifting. In Dinan Hall leaf green, tomato coral, and gold were chosen as colors to be used for upholstering the davenport and chairs. Two hat trees are to be located in Dinan Hall at the end of the main floor lounge and the visitors are expected to hang their hats and coats on these.

Many of the bedroom floors in Ceres Hall have been sanded and the walls and woodwork in Mrs. Kirsts' apartment were redone.

A new davenport and chair were also added to the lounge of Ceres Hall.
