

Rev. Bob Richards, Athletic Pastor, To Speak Here Today

By Roger Lutz

Students of North Dakota State University will have an opportunity to hear Rev. Robert E. Richards speak this afternoon at 2:00 at the Fieldhouse.

A native of Illinois, Richards is presently a minister-at-large for the Church of the Brethren.

He received his B.A. degree at the University of Illinois in 1947 and his M.A. from the same institution in 1948. He later did graduate study at Bethany Biblical Seminary in Chicago.

Rev. Richards has a long background of athletic participation and fitness. He won the pole vaulting championship in the Olympic games of 1952 and 1955. He attained his greatest height at the Millrose Games in New York in February, 1957, clearing the bar at 15'6".

In 1956 Richards was selected by the Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of America's top ten young men "making outstanding contributions to their profession and the welfare of the people."

Richards is now leading a grass roots program which includes mass participation activities being conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce chapters in towns and cities throughout the U. S. Fourteen different sports projects with appeal to all interests are included—among them a "Junior Champ" plan.

The "Junior Champ" is Richard's answer to Russia's challenge to American Olympic Track and field supremacy. He believes that every boy and girl in any community should have an opportunity to participate. He travels from city to city setting up "Junior Champ" days which are designed to resemble the Olympic games in pageantry and competition.

In his lecture, which is entitled

"The Response to the Challenge", Richards will relate many interesting experiences citing how life's greatest lessons form the big picture on the sports scene. He is regarded as the top public speaker in the athletic world.

Rev. Richards' lecture will appeal to all teachers, regardless of their area of teaching or their level of teaching. Parents and students will also enjoy this inspirational speaker. Coaches throughout the state are encouraged to make it possible to have their teams hear Rev. Richards.

Anyone interested in hearing Rev. Richards speak can go to the field house at 2:00 today. There is no admission.

Vet's Club To Dedicate WW Cannon As Memorial To All NDSC Veterans

The NDSC Vet's Club will dedicate a memorial to all NDSC veterans on Veterans' Day, Nov. 11.

In the form of a 90 mm World War II anti-tank gun, the memorial with its appropriate plaque will be located on a cement pad south and east of the NDSC field house. The weapon, which weighs about 10,000 pounds and measures over 20 feet in length, will point southwesterly, with its side plaque directed toward the corner of 13th street and the campus drive.

It was originally planned to have the weapon in position before homecoming last Saturday, but the cement pad base was not dry enough to support the load. Club Commander John Seelhammer said efforts would be made to emplace the gun before Oct. 19, but dedication will not be held until Veterans' Day.

The project was launched by last year's Vet's Club and through the cooperation of the NDSC ROTC department, the gun was obtained from the government arsenal at Rock Island, Ill., this fall.

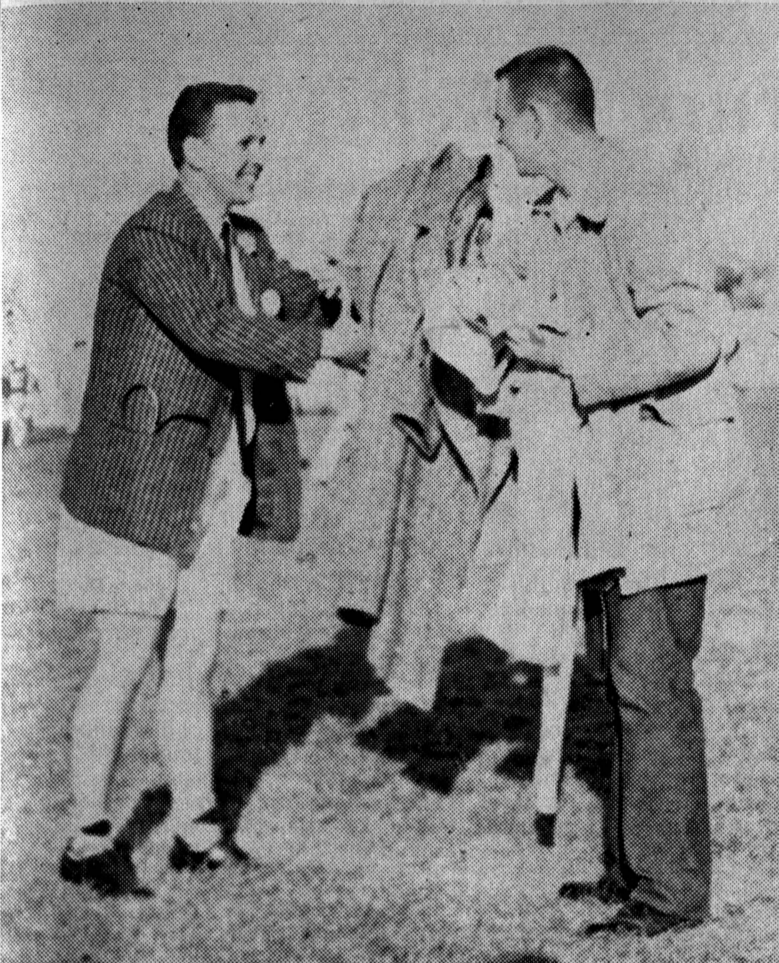

Seelhammer said the club was fortunate in obtaining the weapon as only a few are available for this purpose.

Transportation costs from the Illinois arsenal came to $289 and $121 was paid out to demilitarize the gun. Installation is estimated at $160, with 100 more expected to be paid for the plaque, bringing the total cost to about $670.

The club of last year left $175 towards the project and the Gilbert C. Grafton Post No. 2 of the Fargo American Legion has donated $200 to help defray expenses.

The plaque will carry the following message, with the suitable name to be filled in after the Nov. 4 election, at which time a proposal to change the school's name from the Agricultural College at Fargo to North Dakota State University of Agriculture and Applied Science will be voted on.

"A memorial to all NDSU (NDAC) veterans. May their contribution to college, state and nation, help bring peace and brotherhood to mankind."

It's a little too cold out to be losing your pants, isn't it Cy? It has been traditional for the last three years that at the end of the Homecoming game the president of the student body of the losing school give his pants to the winning school. Here Cy Puetz, president of the SC Student Senate gives his pants to a representative from Montana State.

Bison Chalk Up '58 Homecoming Name Change Theme Runs From Convo Through Floats

"Students of North Dakota State University" were the opening words of the speech given by President Hultz at the homecoming convocation last Friday.

Pres. Hultz stressed the importance of changing the name of N. D. Agricultural College to North Dakota State University of Agriculture and Applied Science, and the opposition that North Dakota University is giving this project.

The highlight of his speech centered around the U's reaction toward our name change. He showed the front page of The Dakota Student, the U's newspaper, which was headlined "Council Votes Unanimously Against AC Name Change." President Hultz then turned to the back page which stated in bold, black letters, "Vote No." The paper also acknowledged the fact that it was printed without knowledge of the administration.

School Of Ag. Lets Building Contract

The school of Agriculture recently announced that contracts had been let and construction started on a new Animal Research Center. The center, which will contain departments for swine nutrition, sheep nutrition, and 2 beef cattle research projects, is being built on the Animal Husbandry Research farm west of the college. Construction is hoped to be completed by early summer.

Money for the center was appropriated by the recent 35th legislature. The cost will be about $240,000.

Sigma Phi Delta and Sigma Chi placed first and second in fraternity house decoration competition.

"Time Square" was the theme of the SPD first place entry. The main attraction was the neon sign which flashed "Time to Change."

The Sigma Chi's theme, "Still Welcome Alums of the 20's" displayed an old fashioned corn whiskey still.

The six other entries were: "Latest Scoop, Bison Hoop Bobcat Troop", Alpha Gamma Rho; "Time to Change", Alpha Tau Omega; "Have the Cats Got a Chance? Like a Snowball in H", Kappa Psi; "Bison Powder Bobcats", Tau Kappa Epsilon; "Bison Make the Bobcats Go Around," Theta Chi; and "Time to Change," Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Floats and pretty girls were the main eye-catchers of the 1958 NDSC Homecoming Parade Saturday, Oct. 11.

Homecoming Queen JoAnn Garaas and her two attendants, Janet Christopher and Janice Kearney led the parade. Miss North Dakota of 1958, Helen Korhage, and fraternity sweethearts added more royalty to the homecoming festivity.

Other attractions of the hour-long parade with the NDSC Gold Star Band, torch runners, student officers and organization representatives, visiting bands, decorated cars, and floats.

Godwin Chosen By Oratorio Society To Conduct Handel's "Messiah" In Dec.

The Fargo-Moorhead Oratorio Society has selected Mr. Robert Godwin of the NDSC Music Department faculty to conduct this year's annual performance of "The Messiah." This famous oratorio by George F. Handel will be presented at the First Lutheran Church of Fargo on the evenings of December 6 and 7. Mr. Godwin is teacher of voice and director of the college Concert Choir.

Two NDSC students have been selected to sing solo parts in this great work: Dale Jackson, tenor, and Thomas Burroughs, bass. Both Staters are enrolled in Arts and Sciences; Dale is a senior and Tom, who is a recent transfer from Lawton, Oklahoma, is a second term freshman.

Rehearsals of "The Messiah" will begin next Monday evening, October 13th, at the First Lutheran Church at 7:30, and will continue to be held each succeeding Monday night until performance time. All students on the campus who have a desire to participate in the work are encouraged to attend rehearsals.

Hayride Saturday

The United Campus Christian Fellowship will have a hayride this Saturday, October 18. Cocoa and cookies will be served after the ride. Everybody interested in going meet at the SC Student Union at 7:30. Everyone is welcome.

From the Editor's Desk

By Loretta Struble

When this issue of the Spectrum reaches the hands of its readers, many NDSC students will be preparing for the journey north.

This weekend the Bison battle against the UND Sioux for the Nickel Trophy. It's been quite a while since the 75-lb. trophy has been able to call NDSC home. In fact, most of us don't even remember when it was. Maybe this year we won't have to say, "wait until next time."

A word of caution to those going to the UND Homecoming. Don't forget the Non-Aggression Pact that was made last spring between our two schools! Let me emphasize again that any trouble caused at UND by our students would be sure to bring publicity that would hamper our name change campaign. We're trying to prove to the people of North Dakota that we are mature and responsible citizens, and worthy of "university" status. Go up there and have a ball—but be careful.

The 1958 NDSC Homecoming is now a memory . . . but it was one of the most successful yet. The Homecoming committee deserves a big pat on the back for their job of making this year's festivities a big success. There is one thing in particular that could be improved upon, though . . . That is the lack of enthusiasm on the part of the students. Is it too much to ask that the students cheer for the Bison or at least sing the school song?

Something for Nothing

THE TIME IS NOW! There has been no other time in our college's history when so few people can do so much, and with such lasting results, as our student body can do now. We have but two weeks left to present our case to the people of North Dakota, justifying the name change, and we must do it in the face of opposition. We must arm ourselves with facts and truths, and go forth on a crusade to spread the SC truths to all. We can write home to parents, friends, newspapers, and anyone who we feel, can help our quest for true identification. We must champion our own cause with common sense and logic which will awaken people to the reasoning behind our desire to identify our institution with all the purposes it stands for. When we are home we can talk about it, explain it and interest people in helping us in any way they can but especially in casting a yes vote on November 4th. The key is you and the time is now. This weekend the Bison go North to face the Sioux on the gridiron at their homecoming and many students will follow. Those who go to cheer the team will be representing the college and its student body with their conduct and actions. They will especially be in the public eye, due to the recent publicity, pro and con, concerning our name change. It therefore behooves us to act like gentlemen and refrain from name calling, property destruction or other acts of foolishness and hostility for the sake of all and the college. If we must vent our feelings toward anyone or for any reason, let us do so by cheering long and loud for the team in their efforts toward dampening the university's homecoming. Let's be proud, and make the people of North Dakota proud that we have a student body such as ours and a college such as ours. JEREMIAH

Why do you like to study in the library?

I can do my studying efficiently here because it is quiet, the lighting is good, and the table and chairs are comfortable.

The source of material is readily available along with a good view of the campus "honeys".

I don't generally study here except for courses which have text books on reserve. It is easier to keep my mind on my work at home than it is at the library.

I come here mostly for kicks; such as the "sweater parade" and the "skrewball novelties" usually floating around the library.

I'd say it's for the atmosphere and of course it's usually reasonably quiet and concentration doesn't always come easy.

Puetz Cites Importance Of Pact

As a "Dear Students Letter" I, Cy Puetz, want to make known at this time that Student Senate with myself, are fully aware of the entire campaign against Name Change being carried on by the University of North Dakota.

I am in agreement with no phase of the campaign being waged by the University. The one thing in our favor is the ineffectiveness of their misleading and completely irrelevant anti-campaign propaganda.

Student Senate, with the name change committee, has taken the necessary time to answer the University and all other opposition to the campaign with letters and pro-name change information.

We hope that more students will write to their hometown editors about the name change. Before mailing your letter you should have them checked in the Name Change Office in the basement of Old Main.

THIS WEEKEND, however, we are asking that all of you students here on NDSU campus to help with our campaign. We're not asking much, just that you stay out of any kind of trouble in or near Grand Forks, that would reflect back on our campus at this crucial time.

Last spring we signed a non-aggression pact with the university promising that no damage, defacement or destruction would be caused by either of the respective schools against the other.

I hope and realize that you students are aware of the importance of our sticking to this agreement, especially now as we are seeking the name change. The turn cheek policy will have to be put into effect this weekend.

Let's all have a good time and bring the "pants" back this weekend.

MSU Alum Speaks For Name Change

Dear Editor:

Your newspaper of Friday, September 26 indicated a note of opposition to the proposed name change of North Dakota State. This reaction, while natural enough, is a decidedly negative approach to this matter. It appears that UND fears a loss of prestige commensurate with the added prestige NDAC will gain by the name change. This fear is groundless, as I will try to indicate by several examples.

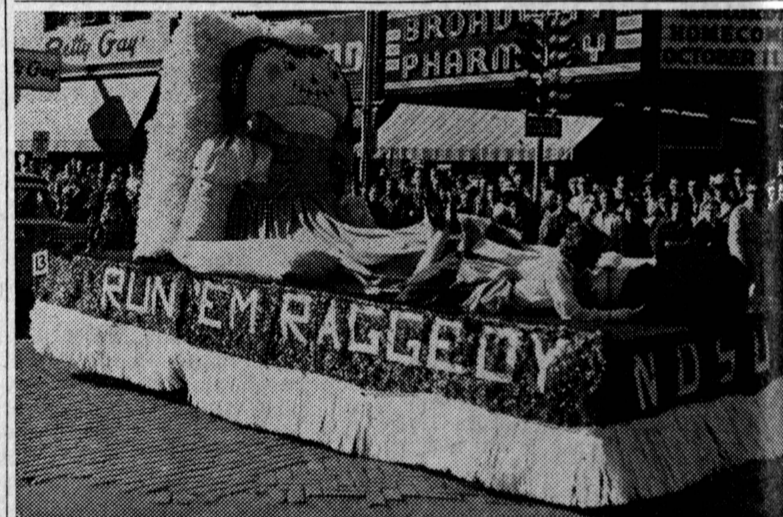

The University of Michigan violently opposed a name change of Michigan State College for essentially the same reasons you oppose NDAC's change. Despite this opposition, MSC became MSU in 1955 for the simple reason that it met all the qualifications necessary to be called a University. U of M, as a result, lost no prestige, except that associated with the futile protest to the name change. Although bitter rivals on the athletic field, Michigan's two great universities now co-exist peacefully with little or no confusion resulting from the name change.

The same thing occurred when Northern Illinois State Teacher's College wanted their name changed to Northern Illinois University. This name also became a reality despite much opposition, and none of the opposing schools have been hurt by it.

Based on the above text, I would like to interject the following opinion for what it is worth. Providing NDAC meets the requirements of a University, I believe it would behoove UND to support the name change. NDAC would gain additional prestige by the change; UND would lose nothing, and might even gain prestige through a display of sportsmanship on this matter; and finally, the State of North Dakota would benefit by gaining another university. You can't beat this type of logic!

Sincerely yours,
John H. Beuter

Socially Speaking . . .

By Janet Kippen

It's all over but the shouting now—or should I say the post-mortems! Homecoming was a most successful day, with hardly a blur to mar it. The Theta Chis had a little trouble getting their 20 foot purple lady down Broadway, the game was tremendous with the exception of the final score, and the parties were bigger and better than ever. I'm pretty sure all the Staters put in a good weekend—did anyone check to see if there were any alums around?

Minard Hall Hosts Reminders Of Past

By Joe Hilber

While wandering in Minard Hall one afternoon, I happened upon a treasure—the Cass County Historical Society Museum. I discovered three rooms filled with pictures, paintings, and other reminders of the colorful past of North Dakota and the United States. All were located in the northwest corner of first floor.

Director of the museum is Miss Hoag, a retired school teacher. She has been the director since it came to Minard Hall in 1955. Miss Hoag retains memories which our generation would classify as history. This and the research done by Miss Hoag and her assistant, Miss Owens, provides a store of knowledge with which they answer most visitor's questions.

It would take days to discover the many secrets enclosed in the museum. On repeated visits one can learn things that a one time quest would never happen upon.

There was the day I blew a civil war bugle and the time I saw the inside of a large trunk with numerous compartments designed to accommodate the clothes and articles of a Dakota Territory lady. These and other items ranging from ancient Indian tools to antique organs hold enough secrets to keep visitors returning for years to come.

'U' Menu Features Bison Meat

College Poets Sponsor A Contest to Publish Original Student Work

The American College Poetry Society is giving students a chance to publish their original poetry. They are preparing, for publication, an anthology of outstanding poetry composed by American and Canadian college students.

Contributions must be the original work of the student. The student shall retain literary rights to the material. It may deal with any subject.

Entries which are not accepted for publication cannot be acknowledged, nor can the Society compensate students for the poetry published.

All entries must be postmarked on or before midnight, December 1, 1958, to be considered, and the decisions of the Society judges are final. Send entries to Alan C. Fox, American College Poetry Society, Box 24463, Los Angeles 24, California.

National Defense Education Act Of '58 Allows Students To Borrow $1,000

Would you like to borrow up to $1,000 per year without putting up any security for 3% annually which starts to accrue after graduation? It sounds too good to be true? Well, it is possible through the National Defense Education Act of 1958.

Primarily this legislation is designed to strengthen the national defense by encouraging and assisting in the expansion of educational programs to meet critical national needs.

To qualify for a loan, a student must show that he needs the money. He must be capable of maintaining good standing in his course of study and he must be accepted as a full time student at the institution of higher learning. Students who plan to become teachers or who have superior capacity in science, mathematics, engineering, or modern foreign languages will be given special consideration.

Repayments on the loan will begin one year after the student ceases to pursue a full-time course of study at an institution of higher education or after duty of up to three years in the Armed Forces.

The student has ten years in which to repay the loan (not including up to three years in the Armed Forces). The liability to pay shall also be cancelled if the borrower dies, or becomes totally or permanently disabled.

Students interested in such a loan may obtain further information by writing to the U. S. Commissioner of Education, Washington, D. C.

Recently the pheasant hunting season opened in North Dakota. It happened to be on a weekend. The usual crew of suitcases went home but this weekend everybody did. Hardly anyone around here. Not all was a lost cause though because hunting was reported to be fine. Just about every guy I talked to got his limit with no trouble at all. Sad!

Minds of men work in a varied and interesting assortment of patterns. All of us are familiar with the thoughts of great poets whose words have been set down in print and read by the masses. Equally familiar are mathematicians who have paced the way toward modern science. Then there's the group of slightly less intelligent persons whose words appear solely on wash-room walls.

By this time most of you have probably discovered the purpose and function of the bulge which grew out of the ground and attached itself to the south side of the Union. There must have been a great deal of rainfall in the valley this summer to allow such a monster to grow. Certainly is a beautiful addition and such majesty in architecture. Anybody seen a stray pharmacy building around?

Richard Lyon's new book of verse shows more University stature than Ag. College

Richard Lyons, an assistant professor of English at NDSC does fanciful piping of a modern, fairly sophisticated sort in his slim booklet of verse, "One Squeaking Straw."

This little in-gathering of modern bucolics derives its title from something the Roman, Vergil, said: "All you were good for was to stand at the crossroads and scrape a miserable tune out of one squeaking straw."

That saying could reveal the idle feelings of a young poet whose work-day duties were on a campus where most of the students were devoting their time to utilitarian courses in preparation for technical professions.

It also suggests quite well the mood, not over-serious, of the poetical piping that Lyons has time to do on the campus at Fargo, in whatever moments a teacher can find for reverie. He calls these brief pieces "Eclogues," which means they purport to be bits of conversation by shepherds.

There is nothing very rude, or very agricultural, about the shepherd who sings in "One Squeaking Straw." His poems are clever. His craftsmanship and sophistication are sufficient to have gained publication in the "New Yorker," the periodic verse anthology, "Discovery," and several literary quarterlies.

Insofar as these poems reflect a regional aspect, they do so as the poet's personal response to vagaries of the northern climate and to the flat, dirty floor of the Red River Valley. The "shepherd" is quite sensitive to cold and heat and to the "mobby winds" when "the top soil scuds across the sky" and when "April comes to smutch the landscape with the land."

Let no one say this modern Roman rustic, rusticating in the Valley of the Red, is not a poet. Here's a sample from a poem that originally was published in "Prairie Schooner," University of Nebraska Press—

The sky hangs low
Above the land as gray as dead
Thistles in a marsh of accusation, slow
Waving in the brittle wind. My head
Hums. My legs are thistle stiff.
But it is warm
Here, Ceres, in this double bed,
This private landscape like a eclogue farm
Under the spreading wavelengths of alarm.

Father Durkin Explains His Wearing Apparel

Who is the handsome, well dressed fellow around campus who looks like Gregory Peck?

Lots of girls have been asking this question and have been cooled off with the information, "Oh, that's Father Durkin, Newman Club advisor."

What attracts the girls, no doubt, is that Father Durkin can frequently be seen wearing a bright tie with his conventional dark suit or a light waist coat and nice sport shirt.

"It's all very simple," Father Durkin has explained in his Religion 216 class, "law prescribes that clergymen and other members of religious groups teaching in North Dakota public schools may not wear distinguishing clothing."

NDSC Will Again Exhibit Cattle At Chicago International In Nov.

NDSC will again exhibit its best beef cattle and sheep at the world's largest livestock show, the Chicago International, in November.

NDSC has placed high in the show in the past, winning several ribbons in the first five placings, including the top prize. Several sheep have won firsts and a pen of 3 Shorthorn steers was once first. Many seconds, thirds, fourths and fifths have been won, too. "This year the cattle are the best we've ever had and the sheep are up to par," reports M. L. Buchanan, head of the animal husbandry department.

Bob Magill, herdsman at the beef cattle barn, will show a pen of three Shorthorn steers, two Angus and two Shorthorn steers in the carcass contest. In this class the animals are judged after they are slaughtered according to the amount and quality of the meat they possess. Magill will also show two yearling Shorthorn bulls and two Shorthorn heifer calves. Clint Kopp, sheep herdsman, will take rams and ewes of three breeds—Hampshires, Suffolks, and Columbias.

Minnesota Warden Is Speaker At YM-YW Meeting

By David Ward

The superintendent of the St. Cloud Reformatory in Minnesota gave a talk on the "Urge to Punish" at the regular Thursday afternoon YM-YWCA faculty-student uncheon, October 9.

He first discussed the attitudes of people outside prisons and reformatories toward those inside. He described this attitude as of three types, first there are those who think of a prisoner as someone who is no longer entitled to the treatment accorded ordinary humans, then those who consider imprisonment as punishment enough and that the prisoner is entitled to practically all the privileges given people outside of prison, finally there are those whose opinions fall somewhere in between these two groups.

After discussing the attitudes, he went on to discuss the reasons for them which he considered mostly caused by tradition (prisoners had always been treated like that, therefore that was the proper way to treat them.)

He gave a short history of imprisonment and then described the methods used at the St. Cloud reformatory. These included the finding of what sort of social and family problems there are, and an account of his life history. After this, the degree of custody in which he is to be held is determined. Maximum custody would mean that the prisoner is to be treated as prisoners usually are, while minimum means he is to be left practically to his own devices. There are also several grades in between.

NDSC Students Tour Fargo Forum Plant As Communications Class Field Trip

Have you ever stopped to consider how much work and skill goes into the publishing of a single edition of a metropolitan paper?

Students enrolled in Communications 201 and 303 recently toured the Fargo Forum plant in order to better understand how a city paper is put together.

Mr. LaVerne Nies, communications instructor, led groups of students through the Forum building. Some of the departments visited were the advertising department, morgue and library, sports desk, and pressroom.

Many students who participated in the tours seemed surprised at the intricate workings of the paper and the coordination of the staff.

Norma Carlson stated, "I thought the teletypes were fascinating. It was interesting to see the people working at their various jobs and to see the paper in action."

Kay Ormiston was impressed by the Forum's elaborate files. She said, "The morgue interested me the most. I thought it was incredible that they had all that data on so many people."

Making stereotype plates was another mechanical function of the paper the students watched. Norma Jean Devick stated, "The thing that I was impressed most with was the melted lead used to make the stereotype molds. It really surprised me that the cardboard mats used for patterns didn't burn up."

H. Ec. Senior Tries For Double Major In Dietetics, Educ.

By Janice Fewell

Is it possible to get a double major and graduate in four years? Marian Wichmann says it is.

Marian is a home economics senior from Casselton with majors in dietetics and home economics education. She says that the way to get two majors is to begin with one major and use electives toward a second one.

"After I graduate this spring, I'd like to teach foods and nutrition in a high school or else do foods demonstration work," says Marian.

In 1956 Marian transferred to NDSC from the University of Minnesota. She said she thought that the classes at the U were too large and that "NDSC's campus has a warmer and more friendly atmosphere." She enjoys bowling, swimming, and, naturally, cooking.

Rev. Markman Featured Speaker At UCCF Meet

"What does wholly human mean?" Rev. Charles Markman led a discussion on "Fragmentation and Relationships" at the United Christian Campus Fellowship, Sunday evening.

Rev. Markman said a broken relationship was the result of three things. He pointed out that people fear sanity more than insanity and used the example of Legion who had seven demons. Secondly sin, our thoughts and actions concerning it, cause fragmentation. A division of the self, he stated, will keep one from being whole. The self's relationship with himself, with another person, and with God are all areas where he may break down.

This led to a discussion on whether a fragmented human can be wholly human. Markman added that God gives one an understanding of the standards of wholly human, and it was concluded that no one could ever become wholly human.

This was one in a series of programs on "Fragmentation and Wholeness" for this quarter. Next week Rev. Leo Johnson will lead "Fragmentation and Conformity."

The meeting was preceded by a supper, a song fest, and a worship service.

Students Take Part In UND-SC Panel

Representing NDSC on a panel discussion concerning music education in this state held at the UND Sunday, October 12, were Nancy Atkinson, Dorothy Elofson, and Mitzi Mallarian, accompanied by their advisor, Mrs. Clara Croal.

During the meeting, the students on the panel performed for each other. Mitzi Mallarian gave a series of Chopin numbers and Nancy Atkinson was a member of a piano duet.

The panel was designed to bring out new ideas as well as old ones concerning the role of the music teacher in our public schools.

Sports Of All Sorts

By Roger Lutz

North Dakota State football fans were treated to what many people agree was the football game of the season last Saturday, as the Herd put on a terrific display of football before falling to the hands of the Montana State Bobcats 33-20. The Bison were in the game all the way, but a few defensive bad breaks spelled defeat in the homecoming clash. Montana came into the game a powerful team and strong favorites to run away with things, but a fired up Bison team kept them guessing, and only in the final moments of the fourth quarter did things get out of the reach of the Herd.

Coach Bob Danielsen has much praise for his team and I cannot help but agree that the team we saw on Saturday was out there giving its best. "The boys put forth a good effort," commented Danielsen, "and we had an opportunity to win, but those few bad breaks were too much to overcome." Both teams scored twice on passing plays.

Once again the Herd was able to get by in the penalizing department. Montana had five penalties for 25 yards while the Herd did not draw any penalties. So far in all of the games played, the Herd has drawn only six penalties for a total of 56 yards, while Bison opponents have drawn 21 penalties for 171 yards.

Coach Danielsen praised end Bill Bartels for his efforts in the game. He also said that Don Remillong did a fine job and of course Curt Quenette played his usual outstanding game. Jerry Kingrey, co-captain end for the Bison was forced to miss the game due to a hip injury, but he is expected to be ready for action tomorrow against the North Dakota Sioux.

It is pretty well agreed that the Bison performed very well on the defense. Montana completed only three of ten passes which speaks well for the Herd. There is one sad thought here, though. Of the three completed passes for Montana, two of them went for touchdowns. Nine fumbles kept the game wide open, though, and surprises were always present.

Tomorrow night will pit the Herd against North Dakota University at the Sioux homecoming. This Sioux team made a strong bid to be North Central Conference football champions last Saturday as they overwhelmed the highly rated defending champion South Dakota State by a score of 30-12. It was State's first NCC loss of the year after one victory. The Sioux work mainly with an unbalanced line off a split "T". The two teams will be rather evenly matched as far as weight and speed are concerned, but they do have a terrific half-back in the person of Jim Jarrett. Coach Bob Danielsen regards him as one of the best backs in the conference. Quarterback Steve Pia-secki missed the game due to his hand injury, but his replacement, Bob Falos, did an outstanding job.

The Bison-Sioux football game is traditionally a whopper and no one can predict a winner. The rivalry between the two teams is intense, and it would be well to have a good sized delegation to back them. As a result of beating South Dakota State, the Sioux have set themselves up as the team to beat; and I think we have the team to do it. With a few breaks and a lot of support our team could come back from Grand Forks with a win and also with the Nickle trophy which rides on the game each year.

Augustana's Vikings last Saturday night upset previously undefeated Iowa State Teachers College, 26-15, in a North Central Conference football game. This defeat left the NDU Sioux the only undefeated NCC contender. In other North Central Conference action South Dakota University's Coyotes barely slipped by the Morningside Maroons 8-0.

The North Dakota State University Baby Bison saw action for the first time last Monday night as they tangled with the Concordia Cobber freshman team. The Cobbers came through with a 13-0 win. This was the first game for the boys and the lack of experience didn't help their cause, but it is very evident that there is much potential here and future contests should produce some real good football. These are the boys that will make up our future teams so it is important that a close watch be kept on them.

The Bison will have three more games to play after tomorrow's encounter at Grand Forks. On the following weekend the Herd will tangle with South Dakota State here in Fargo. On November 1, the Herd will journey down to San Antonio, Texas, for a game with Trinity University. The final game will come on Nov. 8, when the Herd will go to Vermillion, South Dakota, to take on the South Dakota University Coyotes. The two games with the South Dakota teams will be NCC contests.

Let me add a word of praise and also a word of thanks to the boys who ran the torch from Bismarck last week. Few people realize the effort these boys must put out to make that run, and few people also realize the interest these runners get on their journey. Hundreds of people stop on the highways to watch these boys do their stuff.

Letterman's Club Selects Quenette As The First Athlete Of The Week

Curtis Quenette was selected by the Lettermen's Club to be the first "Athlete of the Week." This is a series of articles which will appear each week about an athlete who has performed outstandingly during the week.

Quenette, who is a junior, hails from West Fargo where he played high school ball. Curt is 6-1, and he weighs 185 pounds. He was selected for this honor by way of his outstanding performance in last Saturday's game with Montana State. Curt carried the ball 24 times which is a lot for any man to undertake. Along with his terrific running, his defensive game was also outstanding. Bobcat passers had a terrific time completing passes in the vicinity of Quenette.

Curt made national statistics of small colleges in the U. S. recently. He was among the top ground gainers for small colleges, and his punting average is also among the top of the nation. Coach Bob Danielsen has always included Curt when picking outstanding players of the various games.

Trailer City Solves Married Students Housing Problems

By George Olson

Just 113 married students at NDSC have solved the housing problem with house trailers. The most recent statistics show that the three NDSC trailer courts have a total of 113 trailers. Stadium trailer court is the largest with 80 trailers, West trailer court has 19 trailers, and Northwest trailer court has 14.

West trailer court is the newest addition. It was completed late last summer. It has a capacity of 60 trailers. Nineteen students have parked their trailers up to this time, and the number is steadily increasing.

Stadium and West trailer courts each offer a wash house completely furnished with washing machines and dryers. Sewage, water, and electrical facilities are available for each trailer in these two courts.

NDSC Baby Bison Suffer 13-0 Defeat At Hands Of Concordia Freshmen

The NDSU Baby Bison suffered a 13-0 loss from the Concordia freshmen in a game played at Dacotah Field last Monday evening. The Cobbers scored twice in the first half completing the scoring action for the game. During the second half neither team got beyond the opponent's thirty yard line and it became a purely defensive effort.

The team, according to Les Luymes, didn't play anywhere near their capabilities. "We're going to be a lot better football team before the year is over, you can bet on that," promised Coach Luymes. He also stated that partial justification for the loss was the fact that the team got a late start and also have spent considerable time with the varsity.

SC Runners Carry Torch To Festivities

"I'd like to run again next year, but I want to be in better shape," was the comment of Neil Hamilton, one of the 41 runners who carried the Homecoming torch from Bismarck to Fargo this past weekend. Neil, a freshman in preventive medicine from Courtney, traveled with 21 other boys to the state capital, arriving in Bismarck about 8 p.m. Thursday evening. Upon their arrival they were guests of Harold Schaffer, President of the Gold Seal Wax Company at a banquet at the Prince Hotel.

At 10 Friday, Mrs. John Davis, wife of Governor Davis, who was on a political campaign at the time, lit the torch and the run was under way. The runners ran one-half mile stretches at a time and a total of five to five and one-half miles in all. At Jamestown the original runners were replaced by 20 others who carried the torch the rest of the way to Fargo, in time for the Homecoming festivities.
