NAME CHANGE, MILL LEVY MEASURES DEFEATED

Joyce Flissler, New York Violinist, To Appear On NDSC Lyceum Program

Joyce Flissler, violinist with the New York Philharmonic Orchestra, will be the entertainer for the second Lyceum in this year's Lyceum Series. The recital will take place Tuesday, Nov. 13, in Festival Hall, at 8:15 p.m. Students will be admitted free on their activity cards.

According to the New York Herald Tribune, "she is a brilliant, disciplined, extremely musical violinist."

Major Gen. Inspects NDSC Army ROTC

Major General Joseph H. Harper, Deputy Commanding General of the 5th Army, visited the NDSC campus last week.

According to Captain Horner of the Army ROTC department, the general was visiting this section of the 5th Army area to inspect the Army Reserve and National Guard facilities.

He arrived Oct. 30 by plane and was met at the airport by Col. H. L. Snavely, professor of military science and tactics.

General Harper conferred with President Fred Hultz and inspected the Army ROTC program of the college. The General said he was favorably impressed with the facilities and training.

Prior to becoming deputy commander of 5th Army, General Harper was the chief of the military assistant advisory group to the Philadelphia Department of Defense.

Fred Waring's 'Hi-Fi Holiday' Attracts Appreciative Audience

Fred Waring's "Hi-Fi Holiday," with all the Pennsylvanians, drew an audience which completely filled the NDSC Field House Sat. night, Oct. 1.

Waring, who has directed the Pennsylvanians since he was seventeen, has his own style of music and in "Hi-Fi Holiday" he created an entirely different concept of musical impression from the stage.

Approximately 20 members composed the vocal group along with the instrumentalists, which were only a selected group of the whole orchestra.

The program was presented entirely in high fidelity, which was demonstrated to the audience at the opening of the show. Waring said a third dimension was added to music by revealing tone values which acoustically echoed around the audience. The system is set up with six custom-built loudspeakers placed around the fieldhouse.

The show was characteristic of Waring's productions in that it included all types of entertainment, both light and classical.

A varied selection of numbers were presented by members of the vocal group as well as the instrumental. To end the show, the Pennsylvanians presented popular and traditional selections from holidays throughout the year, beginning with New Year's and ending with the Christmas Season.

She has given recitals in Mexico and Brazil and has just returned from a tour of France. On all three of the tours she was received with overwhelming response. All thought she was "Magnificent."

She has appeared in concert at the National Gallery of Art in the nation's capital.

St. Thomas President Speaks At RE Convo

Father Shannon, president of Saint Thomas Military Academy, spoke at the Religious Emphasis Week convocation held Tuesday. His talk was entitled "The Role of Religion in the Life of a Student."

Father Shannon said that the student should have some acquaintance with the function of religion in the government. He stated: "A student should want to know the causes of all things; he should ask why and thereby get back to the ultimate cause—your creator and mine. He should have an intellectual appreciation of who God is."

In regard to dating, Father Shannon posed this question, "Is there some code of respect for the other person?" He said that respect observed in courtship will result in respect in marriage.

In closing, Father Shannon asked the students to ask themselves, "Is segregation wrong? Do Hungarians deserve their freedom? and Are there abiding moral principles which we must acknowledge?"

Waring and the Pennsylvanians had been in Fargo in previous years but were welcomed back again this year with an audience which listened with such intensity that a pin dropping could have been heard.

Look For . . .

A Silver Lining

The people have spoken!

The votes have been cast and the ballots counted. And at first glance it would be easy to come to the conclusion that the North Dakota Agricultural College has suffered a serious defeat.

But let us not look lightly at the election result. Let's examine the score and see what the score really is.

Rather than having suffered a serious defeat, we have been offered by the voters of North Dakota an encouraging response. And this is not semantic doubletalk.

The fact is that the proposal to change the name of the college was defeated by a relatively small number of votes. At last count, before all returns were in, the decision was rendered by as few as eight persons per precinct. When this is viewed in its proper perspective, alongside the overwhelming "No" votes cast against the other amendments, it becomes apparent that the defeat was registered by voters who, bewildered by an overly long ballot, cast a consecutive string of negative votes on all amendments.

We can be encouraged by the great number of votes cast in favor of the name change. This suggests that we have made a favorable impression in the minds of the voters of North Dakota. It suggests that the present has had its moment of darkness but that the future is a bright one and the path from here is one lighted by optimism.

Let us not be downcast. Instead, let us thank the voters of North Dakota for their wise encouragement. Let us thank them for their recognition that we are, have been, and will continue to be a University in our actions, in our service, in our purpose, and in our devotion to the people of this great state.

Annual Military Ball Set For Nov. 22; Les Anderson's Band To Provide Music

Les Anderson and his band will play at the Military Ball to be held Nov. 22 at the Field House.

The annual fall event is sponsored each year jointly by the Association of United States Army, Arnold Air Society, Guidon and the Angel Flight. The dress for the event, as usual, will be a military uniform or formal evening clothes. However, this does not limit the attendance to members of the ROTC Corps, as the entire campus is invited.

John Huntley, chairman of the Military Ball committee said most of the arrangements for the first formal dance of the year have been completed.

A highlight of the evening will be the selection of a queen from candidates sponsored by the fraternities on campus. Voting for the queen will take place at the door on the night of the ball.

According to John Huntley, the following committees and their chairmen have been appointed: Finance, William Fraase; Queen contest, Harold Eberhard; Program, Orville Kensok; Decorating, Jack Heltemus; Tickets, Philip Krajeck and Invitations, Diane Aslakson.

Tickets are on sale in advance by Advanced Cadets in Army or Air ROTC and will be on sale at the door.

North Dakota voters rejected the NDAC name change by a narrow margin in last Tuesday's general election.

Returns still are coming in at this writing but six out of every 13 North Dakotans who voted on the issue approved the measure. Seven out of 13 voted no. Total "Yes" vote was 61,470; "No", 71,960.

Every other initiated measure lost by a much larger margin than the name change.

Cass county, with 128 of 130 precincts reported, gave the measure 20,525 "Yes" votes to 5,761 "No" votes.

Campus leaders, most of whom realized that an initiated measure has a tremendous amount of purely negative opposition from the moment it appears on the ballot, were generally cheerful about the outcome. It is felt that when you have a minority support the size the name change proposal apparently has, you cannot be termed "defeated" in the long term view.

General campus feeling seems to be "let's wait awhile and then see what steps we need to take, if any."

Many campus leaders expressed gratitude for the wonderful unity and statewide support the students received in their bid for the name change.

"We can't help but benefit from our enhanced stature with the people of North Dakota," commented Dave Bragg, Name Change chairman.

The One Mill Levy measure was behind by a margin of 16,678 as of five o'clock Tuesday night.

Former SC Student Killed In Accident

A student at NDSC, Bob Norman, was one of two persons killed in a Halloween automobile accident.

Five young men were injured and Norman and his brother were killed when a speeding car crashed into the rear of another on a rural road near Hawley, Minn.

Another car which was parked facing the stalled car was also hit when the speeding auto careened off the first car, side-swiped the second, and then went rolling sideways down the road and through the ditch until it came to rest almost 100 feet away.

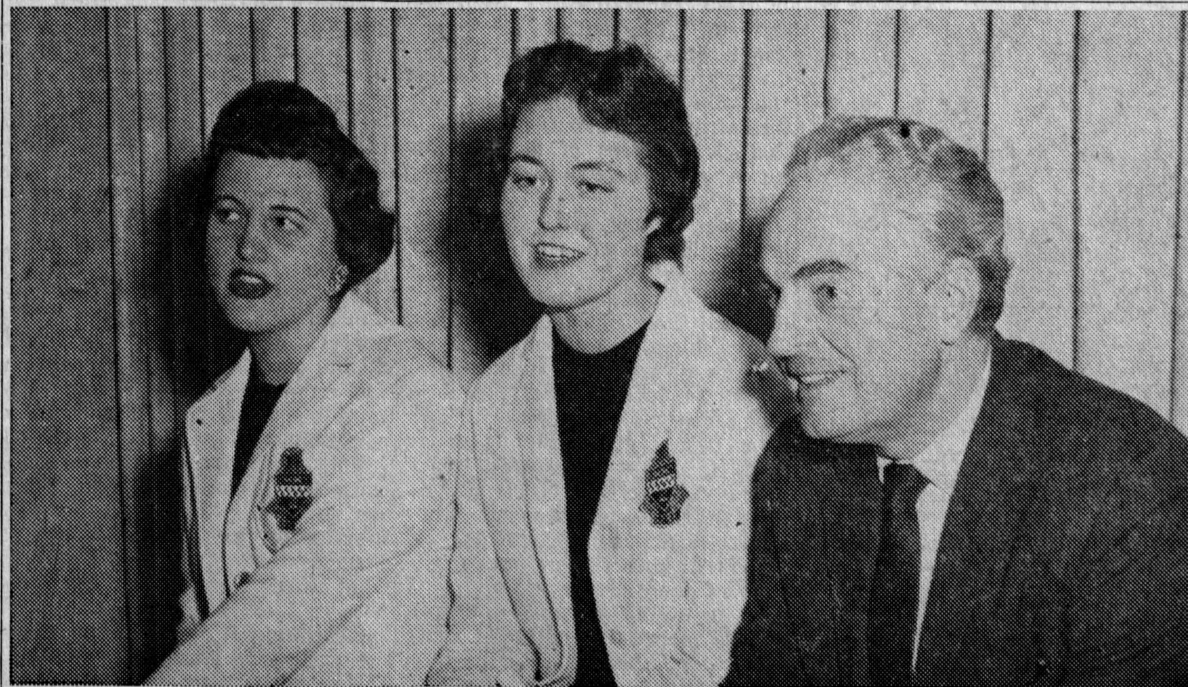

All five of the men were thrown clear of the wreckage, the driver landing almost 50 feet away without getting killed. Two of the men were able to walk away, one died instantly and the other died before the ambulance arrived.

Bison Room Grows

Dale Brostrom, director of Memorial Student Union has announced that expansion of the Bison room will begin immediately.

From an outward appearance, what is being accomplished will not be noticed. The sewer is one of the first improvements along with lighting, floor covering, and kitchen equipment.

It is expected to be finished by Jan. 1. Brostrom expressed his desire to be able to serve the students better with the new improvements.

Well, we lost the name change. The name change failed to get a majority, even if it failed by a comparatively small majority.

On first impulse it would seem that we should be downcast about the name change vote. Actually, we can say we won a victory. We did make impressive gains. Let's look at a few of them.

We know that Fargo and many other communities are strongly behind us. Our students, alumni, faculty, administration and community relationships are the best they have been for years. Let's keep that unity.

Because we do not have the name change does not mean we are not a university. We should aspire to the highest level of university student behavior. We also must re-examine our whole concept of our role in North Dakota so that every part of our school truly functions as close to the University ideal as possible.

We should not fail to give thanks to our many friends who must share with us a feeling of disappointment that our name change attempt failed. For the help of those many, many people, on the farms, in the cities, in professional organizations, working people and housewives, we must say, "We had a lot of support and we appreciate it. Thanks much."

The students in particular are to be congratulated for their conduct in the campaign. They did not resort to name calling and distortion or physical violence which is easy when emotions run high.

Rather many students learned an excellent political lesson in how to campaign decently, effectively and wholeheartedly.

We know that most students will hesitate to return to the childish bickering and name calling which has frequently marked our relations with our neighbor to the north. Even when such things occur in fun, outsiders misjudge us. We can keep our adult status.

We owe great thanks to President Fred Hultz, the deans of the various schools and the dozens of faculty and administration people who gave students so much help in the campaign. I'm sure we feel closer to them for it.

Eleven Staters Travel To Chicago Nov. 13-15 For Press Convention

Eleven delegates from NDSC's publications will attend the Associated Collegiate Press Convention in Chicago, Nov. 13-15. The featured speaker for the three-day event is Al Capp, creator of 'Lil Abner.

Loretta Struble, Bob Thompson, Marilyn Marschke, Jan Kippen, Glorian Hieb, Pat Larson, Allyn Hart, Kathy Shepard, Sharon Shepard, Margaret Owens and Verne Nies, communications instructor and trip advisor will leave Wednesday afternoon. The delegation is the largest NDSC has sent to the annual convention.

Sessions on reporting, head-line writing, newspaper makeup, year-book layout, and advertising will be offered and representatives from the printing and advertising industries will be there to show the delegates new techniques.

Several thousand college and university students from all over the U. S. and Canada will attend the convention which will be held at the Conrad Hilton Hotel.

NOTICE

Gamma Delta will not meet this Sunday.

SAE's Winners In Opening Matches

Sigma Alpha Epsilon No. 1 volleyball team opened its campaign with a close victory over Tau Kappa Epsilon Thursday night. TKE won two of the three games but was low on total points with 37. SAE had 38 points.

TKE were victorious the first game by a score of 15-10. SAE came back the second game to take a decisive 15-7 victory. In the final game the lead changed hands several times with the TKE's coming out on top 15-13.

The SAE No. 2 team also was victorious in their opening match, beating the Co-op's 44-35.

College 'Y's' Plan Social Action Day

Saturday, Nov. 1, the NDSC YMCA-YWCA was host to a state planning session to plan the Conference on Social Action.

It was decided to emphasize the picture of "Mental Health" in North Dakota at the conference which will be held Feb. 14, 1959. Jamestown "Y" associations will be hosts.

Social Action Day is sponsored by the YMCA-YWCA's of North Dakota to bring to light through study problems which face us as a society. Sometimes a definite plan of social action can be taken but its primary emphasis is to inform.

The Spectrum Asked:

What change would you like to see made on the campus?

A change I'd like to see next is the blacktopping of the parking lots.

A new sorority house for the Gamma Phi's in the vicinity of the new SAE House.

I think the students should try to start a "faculty evaluation" where each member of the faculty would be evaluated every year. The evaluation could include appearance, teaching techniques, etc.

I'd like to see rafters in Old Main fixed before the roof collapses and we lose our VIP's.

I would like to see improved interest in sports on the campus. I think this is one thing that we are really lacking.

Journalists Tell Their Ideas Of Who Today's Student Is (ACP)—Who is today's student? What does he believe? Hardly a magazine remains which has not attempted some definition of Joe College: 1958.

Here two college journalists outline their ideas of what the student is according to what he feels.

The first article is by Laura Carr, co-managing editor of Western Reserve University RESERVE TRIBUNE, Cleveland.

Silence Versus Sapathy

And then there's the story of the man who went to his psychiatrist. In the usual battery of Rohrschach, T.A.T.'s and I.Q. Tests, the good doctor drew a triangle on a sheet of paper and showed it to his patient, asking "What does that remind you of?"

The man looked at it and answered promptly, "Sex".

The doctor got the same response when he had drawn a circle, a rectangle, and an ellipse, and said "Son, you need help."

"But doctor," the patient protested, "You're the one that's drawing the dirty pictures."

This sort of suggestive analysis, in the age of the engineering of consent, the depth study, motivational research and the "p.r." man, has now been applied to (the student) in a somewhat dirty picture of apathy. He is, according to his critic, one of the beat generation, or the angry young men, or, as a recent issue of TIME puts it, one of the no-nonsense kids . . .

All of these accusations seem to point nowhere in particular except to those generalizations proffered by your grand-daddy and mine about "this younger generation." Today's students have been called the "silent generation" for their lack of literary champions, the loud and clear voices of earlier campuses, which were regarded as symbols of unity.

If this generation appears to have nothing to say, no radical philosophies to offer, perhaps those students of the past were too quick to voice their new-found theories. Theirs might have been the hasty sin of sapathy. The quick answer is not the forte of the student of today. He must retrench, for new ideas cannot grow without strong roots in the knowledge of the past.

Did vigorous outbursts of oratory and bravado from the ivory towers do much to change the world? Despite the righteous bonfires of the thirties, scrap metal went to the Orient, and American businessmen sold celluloid toys MADE IN JAPAN.

College students were expected to be noisy, zany, and idealistic; out in the cold, cruel world, they would soon learn to be realists. The occasional spark of genius was an element treated as lightly as the hazing prank.

The great Albert Schweitzer, who seems to have achieved serenity in a world which had forgotten this gifts, was once asked what he thought of the future of Europe, Schweitzer, musician, doctor, and theologian, hunched his shoulders and said: "My business is ethics, not prophecy. What's the use of talking about it? Perhaps all the talkers will be toppled in the end."

There is danger in silence which becomes a habit, wherein intellect atrophies. It is this problem with which critics of the college student are concerned. Although Amherst psychologist Robert Birney may be right in his statement that college students are "too concerned with their psychological well-being," it does not seem that the student's egocentricity stops there. His intellectual aims are searching for a credo which will serve our complex existence.

Must we then, accused of "sapathy," speak out to indict the future, when the past has proven successful in creating a world threatened by atomic destruction?

The second is by Pete Baptiste in THE COLUMNS, Westminster College, Fulton, Mo.

What's Wrong with Conformity?

(Our) hallowed halls have long been ringing with the cries of nonconformity. Nonconformity of thought, nonconformity of mind—nonconformity of anything.

Being a confirmed conformist this distresses me greatly. If this popular myth gains momentum there is no telling what may happen.

Already many of our larger colleges and universities are filled to the brim with seedy looking, beat generation type nonconformists who dedicate their lives to writing ridiculous poems and philosophy, rebelling against anything accepted, living with extravagant absurdity.

Now I would like to turn my thoughts . . . to the other 99 44/100 per cent of the world. The world of the conformist. He goes thru life unhappy. He is unhappy because he is part of a vast group of people who are also unhappy.

They are supposedly unhappy because they are not recognized. They are supposedly unhappy because they mouth the thoughts of others. The fact that they think basically what others think has nothing to do with it. Well, I think basically the same things other people think, I conform, and I am blissfully happy.

Now let us turn our attention to that oft-desecrated American institution, Suburbia. The typical fellow marries the girl next door and moves to Suburbia. The picture is complete—the ranch house, two car garage, wife in short, and (the nonconformity advocate shudders to think of it) a barbecue pit.

What is wrong with the ranch house, two-car garage, wife in shorts and sturdy, well-constructed brick barbecue pit? Yet the advocate of nonconformity believes this to be a bad influence—it conforms people. Well, if all people conformed in that manner, it would be a hell of a happy world.

Yet I suppose I must concede that nonconformity is necessary in this world for a certain degree of change. Yet I wonder if Hegel, Freud and Pasteur were going to our school whether or not they would have a belt in the back.

Diane Myer Wins Home Ec Scholarship

Diane Myer of Pillsbury is this year's recipient of the Clara Cerveney Memorial Scholarship given at the Fargo-Moorhead Zonta Club, women's service club.

Diane, a freshman in home economics at NDSC, was a guest at a dinner given by the Zonta Club in the Founders Room of the home economics building at NDSC recently.

The scholarship is given each year to a freshman student majoring in home economics at NDSC. It is given on a basis of scholarship, character, need, and promise of success in her chosen field of home economics.

LSA Skating Party

The Lutheran Student Association is having a roller skating party Friday evening, Nov. 7, according to Arlan Dahlin, a member of the recreation committee.

All those interested in coming should meet at the Lutheran Center at 8 p.m. Rides to the roller rink will be arranged for those who don't have cars.

Socially Speaking . . .

By Janet Kippen

It seems as though the time has come for NDSC collegians to study—I sure don't have a thing to say. All of our energies were poured into the election campaigns of the week, I know, so you're all excused for leaving the social column with no copy.

Pledge presentations of the coming Sunday are those of Phi Mu, Kappa Psi, Alpha Gamma Delta, and Alpha Tau Omega, all from 2-4 p.m.

Looks like there were some parties this week after all. The SPDs hosted the Phi Mus at a Halloween Party for the orphans of Children's Village. The SAEs and KDs got together on Thursday for some fun and frolic. I hear they had a real great time enjoying their younger days again. The SPD's threw a Western Casino party for the AGD's this week.

Monday night exchanges were the KDs and Tekes, Kappas and SPDs, SAE and Phi Mu, Thetas and Kappa Psis, AGDs and Sigma Chis. Another couple of weeks and everyone will have made the rounds. I've heard rumors that the governing body of the sorority system is out with its little hatchet to cut off exchange dinners. Any opinions?

Former stater and Alpha Gam Loretta Bugbee and Jerry Stock, Theta Chi alum will tie the knot at the First Methodist Church tonight, Nov. 7.

Phi Mu pledge presentations will be held in the Founder's Room at the Home Economics Building on Sunday, rather than at the chapter house. New pledges of Phi Mu are Marilyn Scott, Francine Minnehan and Kathy Pfeifer.

According to a recent survey by the Automobile Manufacturers Association, 4,250,000 passenger cars were scrapped in 1957. What most of us wouldn't do for just one try at that junkpile!

Fred Waring and his daughter Dixie were guests of honor at the Theta house Saturday evening before Waring's concert. New pledge at the Theta house is Kayleen Stedmen of Williston.

Kappa Psi fraternity will hold its annual fall term party at the Moorhead Country club Saturday evening. Esther Lithun, an Alpha Phi from NDU, is now wearing the Kappa Psi pin of Blayne Mhyre.

Term partying this evening are the AGRs.

And to cut a long story short, that's all she wrote! See you 'round.

Courses In Social Work To Be Offered In Fargo

Students with an interest in social work will have an opportunity to enroll in two courses to be offered in Fargo. One is entitled "Child Welfare," and the other is "Public Welfare". The courses, which will meet on Saturday, beginning November 8, will run for 15 weeks; each will carry three semester hours of credit. A junior or senior student might profitably enroll in one or both courses. Credits could be transferred to apply to the NDSC diploma.

The first meeting will be Saturday at the Cass County Children's Social Service Center at 57 N. 11th Avenue in Fargo.

The instructor will be Professor Ernest Norman of the Division of Social Work at UND.

Students wishing further information can see Dr. Courtney Cleland at 317 Minard Hall or write the Director of Extension at UND, Grand Forks.

Brooklyn Pastor Relates Experiences At LSA Meeting

A crackling fire provided pleasant atmosphere Sunday evening at the Lutheran Student House.

Pastor H. Loddigs, a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., and now an instructor at Lutheran Bible Institute in Minneapolis, Minn., discussed his experiences as a prisoner in a Japanese prison camp.

"Go therefore and make disciples of all nations . . . teaching them to observe all that I have commanded you; and lo, I am with you always . . ." Matthew 28:19-20.

With these words in mind Pastor Loddigs and his wife left for China in 1940. He taught in a Nationalist school and preached for several congregations. When the Japanese invaded he was taken to a concentration camp. Here he stayed for three years and one month.

Many of the situations Pastor Loddigs spoke of were not pleasant, however, he stated that war is a realistic situation. "We, in America, are sitting in the lap of luxury and do not realize the full implications."

His purpose is telling what people can do to help themselves in similar situations for people never know when and if this might happen.

Pastor Loddigs stayed on campus Monday and Tuesday, giving talks for breakfast inspiration, Hi Noon Focus, and also Tuesday evening.

Miss Elvira Smith Attends National Dietetics Meeting

Miss Elvira Smith, head of the Food and Nutrition department of Home Economics, attended the 41st annual convention of the National Dietetics Association. This convention, attended by representatives of state organizations from all states, was held Oct. 21-24 in Philadelphia.

Miss Smith said that one important thing coming from the meetings, was the fact that a great variety of positions are open to dieticians today who complete their required educational courses in a college that is accredited by the National Dietetics Association. Both the NDU and NDSC are accredited by the association.

Some of the newer trends discussed in food preparation were: preparation by use of electronic energy, dehydration and freezing which had good results although fruits did not seem to lend themselves to the process as well as vegetables, etc., high temperature for short time treatment, temperature and vacuum drying process, treatment of foods with antibiotics to prevent spoilage, and the freezing and drying method. For an example the freeze and dry method the demonstrated showed a piece of meat no more than two inches square and one-fourth inch in thickness. The piece of meat, a chop, had the general shape, size and color of the original and could be reconstructed to the original size, color, and flavor by a process that replaces the moisture removed.

Among a number of NDSC graduates Miss Smith met was Patsy Mason of Rolla, N. D., who graduated last June. Patsy is now interning at the Shadyside Hospital, in Pittsburgh, Penn.

Mary Lee Moffit Wins 'Wool' Contest

Miss Mary Lee Moffit, NDSC sophomore majoring in home economics, won first place in the district "Make-It-With-Wool" contest at Jamestown Nov. 1.

An all expense trip to the state contest Dec. 6 on the University campus at Grand Forks was awarded to Mary Lee.

She modeled a black chemise style dress with gold accessories. The garment was constructed in textiles and clothing 226 under the supervision of Mrs. Alice Rising, textiles and clothing instructor.

The "Make-It-With-Wool" district contest for the Fargo area will be Nov. 22, at the NDSC home economics building.

Gamma Deltans Attend Meeting

The regional Gamma Delta Convention is being held this weekend at Mankato, Minn.

There will be a regional business meeting and elections of regional officers. Local candidates for regional office are: Jerold Gemar, president; Wayne Hankel, vice president; Joanne DeGier, secretary, and Gerald Puppe, treasurer.

Halloween Party Held By GD's

Gamma Deltans, a Lutheran Church College organization affiliated with the Missouri Synod, from MSC, Concordia, and NDSC were at the annual Halloween party held Friday evening at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Fargo.

Members and guests came prepared to "bob" for apples and participate in other games. Wayne Hankel called the games and Bev Cook was in charge of recreation.

Members on the lunch committee were Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Cook and Mr. and Mrs. Roland Senechal.

Ten Coeds Initiated Into SC Angel Flight

Angel Flight initiated 10 members on Wed., Oct. 29. The initiates are: Mary Sheets, Mary Etta Graham, Jean Erickson, Glorian Hieb, Sharon Campbell, Audrey Paul, Mary Lee Moffit, Nancy Williams, Beth Bohnet, and Nancy Euren.

Angel Flight is the NDSC honorary women's organization that serves as a hostess group for the Air Force ROTC.

What's Ivy League Done For Me?

Have you asked yourself this lately? Can you honestly say that at some time or other this past two years you have not been confronted or subjected to the influence of this term in college wear.

In this manner you are not necessarily conforming but rather acting on your best behalf.

This Fall we at Straus Co. are proud to announce that hangers and shelves, our cupboards and racks all include such modern trends of styling.

Boat neck sweaters with polished cottons leaving off the buckle and adding flaps to the pockets head our new listing. Also new topcoats and 4 button suits add to compliment our complete Ivy League stock.

Also watch for the return of the Bowler Hat. This comes from before the raccoon coat era.

With Name Change and Mill Levy ahead of us all—make your next check or ballot to Straus this fall.

Chemical Tech. School To Conduct Workshop At Grafton High School

The School of Chemical Technology will be represented by three staff members at the High School Chemistry Workshop in Grafton on Saturday of this week.

Dr. R. E. Dunbar will deliver the main address of the morning on reasons for studying science, and chemistry in particular, at the high school level. He will lead round table discussions in the afternoon on the place of organic chemistry in the high school program.

Dr. C. W. Fleetwood will demonstrate glass fabrication throughout the day. Prof. F. H. Sands will lead round table discussion on the role of the Periodic Table in high school chemistry instruction. Prof. Harald Bliss of the Grafton High School is in charge of the Workshop. About 200 chemistry teachers of eastern North Dakota and Minnesota are expected to participate in the day's activities.

SPD's Push 'NDSU'

Sigma Phi Delta, professional engineering fraternity, was the first campus organization to promote the name change 100 percent. On one evening, the total fraternity membership, actives and pledges, canvassed several precincts in the Fargo Area in an effort to get out the voters on Nov. 4.

A door to door appeal was made to inform the voters of the name change and why NDAC deserves to change.

Ag. Engineers Meet

The American Society of Agricultural Engineers met Oct. 30. The name change was discussed. Warner Johnson gave suggestions for promoting it. The group decided to support the Engineering Council's plan to transport voters to the polls.

Warren Jamison and Arlyn Kraft were appointed to make arrangements for the annual ASAE banquet to be held Dec. 11.

The annual bowling match between ASAE students and faculty was set for Nov. 14.

A committee, with Dennis Meyer as chairman and Merline Van Dyke as assistant, was set up to explore the possibilities of obtaining a mailbox and filing cabinets for ASAE use. Cecil Watson showed slides taken on the field trip last spring.

YMCA Student-Faculty Meeting Features Discussion On High Schools

What course do you think benefited you the most in high school?

This was the basis of a discussion at the NDSC YMCA faculty luncheon, Oct. 20, by Ken Whiting and Del Colwell.

Some conclusions reached were that there is a need for an expedient vocational education in the smaller schools. There is a desire for more participation type sports, such as tennis, which can be kept up after leaving school. Smaller schools are not able to adequately provide for the students needs.

The method used in gaining data was to take names of graduates from 1941-1945 and 1951-1955 from 30 class A, B and C schools and sent them questionnaires asking them to list the courses they felt of greatest and least value to them.

Student Says Army Reserve Is Way To Get Well Rounded College Education

By James L. Tibert

How can a fellow get a well rounded college education?

According to Robert Axvig, a junior at NDSC, one way is to join the Army Reserves.

He said, "One of the greatest advantages to be gained is that it is an easy way to complete your military obligations." Other advantages Robert mentioned were that you learn a skill, you learn fellowship, you have opportunity to travel, you become an asset to your country in time of war, you are paid while learning, and the Army Reserve offers an excellent retirement plan.

Robert said that when learning a skill, you go through intensified training consisting of lectures and on the job training which makes you a better qualified man in your field.

Another point Robert emphasized was that you learn to work with others as a team. This fellowship is not only helpful in the reserves but it can be carried over in civilian life.

A third point that he presented was that you have opportunity for travel in the reserves. He said that two weeks out of each year are spent at various Army camps throughout the states.

A fourth point he mentioned was that, "You become an asset to your country in time of war, because you are qualified to defend it as you will have had the training for the job."

A fifth point which is of importance is that you are paid while learning. Robert said this is helpful in that it gives you added income while attending college.

Robert said, "The last and probably the most important advantage is that you can enter upon the most stable retirement plan ever offered." He said that by simply going to meetings four times a month for 20 years, you will earn a nice retirement fund at age sixty-five based on the rate you held when last active in the reserves.

Elken Rates High In Judging Contest

A college livestock judging contest was held Nov. 1 by members of the junior and senior judging teams.

Gilbert Elken was high individual in the contest with a score of 562 out of a possible 600. Donald Odenbach was second high individual and Gerald Gerntholz was third.

In beef cattle judging Gene Harrington and Gilbert Elken tied for first place. Gerald Gerntholz was high individual and Donald Odenbach second in sheep judging. In the swine division Gilbert Elken was high man and Donald Odenbach second.

Gilbert Elken was highest in total reasons score and Ronald Jacobson was second.

Nursery School Offers Experience For Children As Well As SC Coeds

By George Olson

Who are the youngest students on the campus, the freshmen?

No, they are a group of children from two and one half to five years of age, who can be seen trudging into the west wing of Ceres Hall at 9 a.m. each morning.

At 11:30 a.m. they leave the building carrying an assortment of clay, colors, painted pictures, a handful of sand, or any of the other objects so valuable to a child of this age.

According to Mrs. Virginia Merrifield, director of the nursery school, it was first opened by the School of Home Economics at NDSC in Jan., 1955. Its purpose is to give children of the same age an opportunity to play and associate together under supervision.

They have a variety of educational toys, sand boxes, slides, and other toys to play with.

For the college students, who have laboratory at the nursery school, it offers them experience of parenthood, and in professions in which understanding of human nature is important. They also offer a program to help the parents understand their child's problem and behavior.

The NDSC nursery school enrolls approximately 30 students each quarter. These students are accepted in order of application from a waiting list. Students who have been enrolled the previous quarter have priority.

Suitcase Students Still Problem At SC; Many Reasons Given For Migration

Seventy-two of the 117 girls in Ceres Hall packed their bags last weekend and went elsewhere for the two days. Dormitory records show that this was just another typical weekend.

Freshman girls gave varied answers when questioned why they went home the past weekend. No reports mentioned homesickness.

Some girls who live near Fargo, like Marsha Bergman from Argusville, N. Dak., agree that it is cheaper to go home weekends to eat than to stay on campus. She said also the atmosphere is more conducive to sleeping.

Phyllis Christmas, from Napoleon, N. Dak., said "I go home at least once a month because I feel it is my obligation to my parents."

One of the few girls who remained in the dormitory was Lois Woyak from Jamestown, N. Dak. She said that her working schedule and band practice prevent her from leaving too often.

Student Counselors realize the seriousness of the situation and are trying to prevent it by creating more interest in church groups and other useful organizations which would occupy the girls' weekends.

Fairy Tale Presented At Children's Theater

Rumplestiltskin, a fairy tale story, was presented by NDSC students at the Little Country Theater on Saturday, Nov. 1.

Miss Jane Higgins, a speech and theater major, directed the play which was the first presentation of the Children's Theater.

Members of the cast were Suzi Thorkelson, Darlene Dietrich, Carol Finstad, Michael Alm, Ray Rogalla, Dennis Chisholm, and John Hurley.

After the first performances on Saturday the cast mingled with the children in the audience, who were thrilled at being able to talk with the characters and ask them questions.

There will be a repeated performance on Saturday, Nov. 8.

Chemise Is Out, Say Fashion Experts

By Karen Zielsdorf

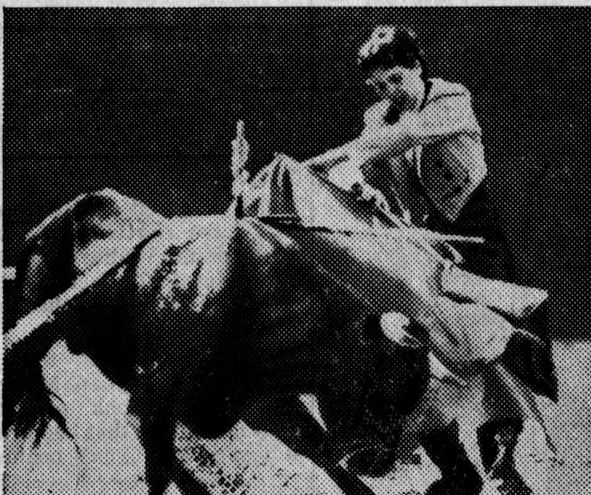

The chemise dress is going out of style! That's the latest news from the fashion world.

As always, after an extreme break in accepted fashion, we have a period of refinement. The current adaptation of the chemise is the relaxed sheath with an empire waistline. High or low belting are the favored ways of defining the raised waistline.

Fashion experts explain the reason for the chemise and its adaptations this way. When you have a fashion break you have to go really extreme. This is not always the best but it is the only way to make an impression on the public—half way measures are not effective.

You can count on this, girls—the relaxed look is here to stay for several years, so plan your wardrobes accordingly.

Indian Student, Sharad Dave, Gives His Views On America

"India is progressing through democracy," according to Sharad Dave, mechanical engineering graduate student at NDSC.

Dave is from Bhavnagar, Bombay State, India. He received his basic education there and later graduated from L. D. College of Engineering, Ahmedabad, India.

Dave wants to go back to India and apply what he has learned in this country. India, he says, is progressing rapidly in an industrial revolution. In the past few years, he states, assembly plants have been put into operation for American, German, and Italian cars. Although petroleum prices are high now, recent oil discoveries in India should lower prices and create a larger demand for cars. When this happens, Dave believes India will begin to manufacture her own automobiles.

Asked what he thought of America, Dave said that he was impressed with the beautiful scenery. He has visited New York, Niagara Falls, Chicago and many other interesting places.

Dave also likes the attitudes of the people in America. "The people here are easy to meet and are friendly toward strangers," he said. "I have noted, however, that everyone is always in a hurry, but maybe this is a sign of progress."

Main sports in India are hockey (played on the ground instead of the ice), cricket and soccer. He was very surprised to see our football games. He feels that "football" is really a misnomer here as the ball is kicked so seldom.

Former SC Professor Of Entomology Dept. Gives Bug Collection

Have you noticed the pretty, but pesty bugs on display in the library this week? The display was given to Dr. R. L. Rost, associate professor of entomology here by Dr. J. A. Monro, former NDSC entomology department chairman.

The exhibit consists of an atlas moth from the collection of moths, butterflies and beetles from the Philippine Islands. A long horn beetle and a rhinoceros beetle are among the display, according to Dr. Monro, both beetles are pests to fiber growers in the Philippines.

Dr. Monro was an instructor here for 25 years between 1926 and 1951. He left his job here for a more fascinating and challenging job of hunting for bugs. He is now planning to travel to Italy where he will take over as coordinator of an insect control project in Asia.

Refugee Worker Speaks To UCCF; Raises Questions On Refugee Problem

"What are we going to do about European refugees from communism? What is our responsibility for these people?" Miss Borg Hanson put these questions to the United Campus Christian Fellowship group Sunday, Nov. 2. She has just returned from working with refugees in Europe.

For six months Miss Hanson worked with people in Switzerland; Germany for a year; Austria a year and a half. Refugees came to the displaced persons center where they stayed three days or until they were determined political or economic refugees by "a sort of a trial."

"Mean" Mess In Math

Confusion comes before control in the dictionary and in at least one math course.

Overheard recently outside Minard were two students who had just endured the rigors of an examination in Math 329 and as part of it were evidently asked to find three common figures in statistics, the mean, median, and mode.

The question was asked of one if he had been able to find the three figures. The reply was, I found the mean alright but I am not so sure of the "modian" and the "mede."

Political refugees, those whose lives were in danger, were sent to smaller centers where they stayed until they were screened for United States, Canadian or Austrian acceptance. Economic refugees, those who found a Communist life intolerable, could not be helped but were allowed to remain in the camps.

Before being accepted by a country, the people were screened for physical defects and their backgrounds checked and approved. The U. S., the most strict, would not accept anyone with a spot on their screen or who did not have relatives in America.

While waiting for screening and approval or for the re-establishment of their country, four or five families live together in a room about 15 feet square. Some remain for as long as five years. They have found security and are content to stay.

"Our responsibility is to help these people," Miss Hanson says. Financial aid is being given, but to establish them in a free country, the guarantee that our Voices of America and Free Europe promised them, is our job.

The discussion was preceded by lunch and a brief worship service.

Lyon's Book of Verse Available At Library

"One Squeaking Straw," a volume of poems written by Richard Lyons, NDSC English instructor, is now available in the college library.

Five hundred copies were printed for the North Dakota Institute for Regional Studies, North Dakota Agricultural College, with two books available for checking out and several for sale.

The poems depict the various seasons of the year. Many of the poems in the book are reprints from magazines that had previously published Mr. Lyon's poems.

"Couples Club" Holds First Meet

The first meeting of the Couple's Club, organized by the NDSC YMCA, will be held Nov. 13, at 6 p.m. in the Gardner Hotel.

The purpose of this club is to provide an extra-curricular outlet designed to meet the needs of married students.

The activities and events involved will be determined by the members.

Cost of the first meeting is underwritten by the YMCA.

Students interested contact the "Y" office for reservations before noon on Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Bison Fly To Texas For San Antonio Game

Breakfast in Fargo, lunch in the air and dinner in San Antonio, Texas. Almost unbelievable but, nevertheless, it was an experience of the NDSC Bison last weekend as they went by plane to San Antonio for a football game with Trinity University.

The Bison boarded a Braniff Airways plane at 10 a.m. Friday. Kansas City was the first stop which was made at about 1 p.m. After a short stop for refueling, the Bison again took to the air and were served lunch soon after leaving. At 4 p.m. the plane again landed for refueling at Dallas, Texas. This was the last stop before arrival in San Antonio at 5:30 p.m.

Saturday, members of the team visited points of interest within the city, including the "Alamo" and the San Antonio zoo.

The game was played in the Alamo stadium which has a seating capacity of 22,500.

The Bison left San Antonio at 11:30 p.m. on Saturday and arrived back in Fargo at 7:30 Sunday.

During the course of the trip, the Bison were in Kansas and Texas and flew over Minnesota, Iowa, Missouri and Oklahoma.

First Annual Swine Day Held At SC

The first annual swine day was held on Wednesday, Nov. 5. It was sponsored by Northwest Farm Management Association, North Dakota Swine Producers, North Dakota State University, and County Livestock Associations.

Speakers were: Dr. Dinusson, who spoke on crude fibers in swine rations; Dr. Hauge, who spoke on research gestation rations for sows and marketing of swine in North Dakota. Dr. Taylor spoke on the swine outlook on price and numbers.

Only Sprint In Sports?

(ACP)—Someone is always ready to talk about school spirit or the lack of same. On that subject, Jerry Russom recently included this commentary in his column in the Long Beach State College Forty-Niner:

"One of my more intellectual friends brought up a point the other day that stimulates some serious thinking. He asked why the spirit of a college or university must always be connected with its sports program.

"Citing a definite lack of pride in intellectual conquests, he added that he would like to put on a pair of Bermudas, stand in the middle of the campus, and lead a few yells for the Philosophy department.

"He's right too. All over the United States, with the possible exception of a few schools which are solely academic, the value and standing of an institution is based on its "spirit" and its football team.

"Here at Long Beach State we have heard so much about the lack of spirit on the part of the students that it is beginning to leave a bad taste in the mouth. Why should a person have to sit in the bleachers and yell his lungs out to prove that he is loyal to his college?

"I am not advocating the overthrow of football or of the time-honored "spirit". This type of loyalty is just as vital to the school as intellectual spirit. It is especially important to a certain type of student. I do feel, however, that we should realize that Long Beach State has many students to whom this rah-rah bit is not essential.

Sports Of All Sorts

By Roger Lutz

I don't think there is much to be said about last Saturday's football game other than the fact that the Herd was not at any time in the ball game. Eighty to six is pretty poor in any man's league. We can only hope that the team can bounce back for a good performance at Vermillion, tomorrow night where they will tangle with the South Dakota University Coyotes. This game last Saturday prompted me to file through the record books and locate other high scoring setbacks suffered by an SC team. In 1955 the Herd bowed to Mississippi Southern 58-0; in 1954 the University of Wichita racked up a 59-0 win; Marquette trampled the Herd in 1950 by a 57-0 score and in 1949 they captured a 66-0 win.

On the brighter side I found a chuckle when I studied the scores of the games of the 1903 Bison football team. They beat Barnesville 72-0, SDS 85-0, Hamline 47-0, and the Flandreau Indians 105-0. It must have been fun watching those games. An all time high was reached in 1912 when under the coaching of Arthur Rueber the Bison team romped to a 112-0 win over the Wahpeton Indians. Of course football has changed considerably since those days, but the record book still stands. Since the first game was played in 1894 up until the last game in 1957, Bison football teams have garnered 5342 points while Bison opponents have scored 5335 points.

Tomorrow night the Herd will tangle with the SDU Coyotes who are currently in a four way tie in NCC standings for fourth place with NDSC, ISTC, and SDS. Last Saturday the Coyotes were swamped by ISTC 53-0 so both teams will move into tomorrow night's game with a determined bid to make amends for a previous game. Eleven lettermen including last year's regular George McKeon form the nucleus of the team; a squad from which coach Danielsen expects much trouble. Last year the Coyotes won 4, lost 4, and tied 1. Quarterback Jim Reid, also a starter last year, may miss the game due to an injury sustained in a contest a few weeks ago.

The Augustana Vikings put a stop to the winning ways of the North Dakota University Sioux team last Saturday when they came through with a 23-10 win. Although the contest had no effect on the final league standings it prevented the Sioux team from completing a perfect NCC season. Sophomore quarterback Jim Luce completed 10 of 19 passes for 126 yards to keep the Sioux on the move. Luce also kicked a 29 yard field goal.

Objectives Listed For I-M Program

One objective of the Intramural Department has been to acquire space and develop fields so that every student at North Dakota State would have the opportunity to compete in some form of competitive sports. We are more interested in the men participating than who wins the games. To teach sportsmanship, fair play and respect for the will of others is the goal of this department.

Through practice a man develops a liking for sports which gives him courage, provides him with fitness of body and creates a sports habit which will carry over in later life to serve as a wholesome recreation for his leisure time. The student who takes full advantage of the opportunities provided in this program will have an opportunity to keep physically fit and mentally relaxed.

Through this program we also hope that you will be able to enjoy friendly competition with new friends which will make your stay at NDSC a pleasant one.

Coach Kaiser Comments On Intra-mural Program

"The intra-mural program is coming along very nicely so far this year," stated advisor Erv Kaiser. "The program also seems to be growing and developing."

The touch football season was completed recently with a total of thirteen teams entered. The program went along smoothly and seemed to be well organized. The ATO's edged out the AGR's for first place while the SUAB and the Co-op's pulled down third and fourth places respectively.

A new and, as yet, entirely experimental program on the agenda for this year is wrestling. Mr. Kaiser and the intra-mural board have been working on plans and qualifications for this new sport recently and if everything goes as scheduled it should go into effect in the near future. The success of this program is dependent mainly on the participating organizations and the enthusiasm they show.

The basketball program will start the first part of winter quarter. All indications to date promise a successful year for this part of the program.

The intra-mural board, composed of representatives of all participating organizations, meets every Monday at 4:15 to make plans for the upcoming events to be sponsored by the board. "This board deserves much of the credit for the success of the program," says Mr. Kaiser.

SC Cross Country Runners Win

Oddvar Helgersen led the North Dakota State College cross country team to a win last week against Valley City as the squad came up with a 11-24 win. Once again Helgersen led the field over the three mile hilly course; his time was 15 minutes, 49 seconds. Bob Bower and Bob Williams came in second and third place respectively behind Helgersen to lead the fourth man by a large margin. Coach Tom Neuberger said that the outstanding performances of Bower and Williams put the Bison well ahead of any Valley City finishers. He said that Helgersen showed his usual excellent performance in the run, but he pointed out that the other two runners finished closer to him than in any previous meet.

Because of his efforts in this meet, Bower was chosen to be this week's athlete of the week. Helgersen continued his winning streak in this meet. He has yet to be defeated in a cross country run this year.

Athlete Of The Week

Freshman Bob Bower was elected by the Lettermen's Club to athlete of this week. Bower finished second in the cross country meet last week in the winning Bison effort over Valley City.

Track coach Tom Neuberger said that Bower, pound for pound, has more courage than any athlete in school here. Bob, who is 18 years old in his first intercollegiate competition ran the two mile run in 9 minutes and 45 seconds which is the third fastest two mile ever run in North or South Dakota. This is a tremendous achievement for a boy of his age, as long distance running is easier for older persons, according to Neuberger. Neuberger said: "Bison fans should expect tremendous performances by this young redhead as he matures."

A physical education major, Bob hails from Bremmer, North Dakota. He went to high school at Oak Grove where he was an outstanding high school distance runner.

Neuberger Challenges Thirty-four Wrestlers

"I'll be surprised to see twenty-five percent of the men who go out for wrestling, around here when the season is over" was the challenge of Tom Neuberger, wrestling coach, to prospective wrestlers at the organizational meeting held last Wednesday evening. There are at present 34 men out.

"Wrestling is a hard sport. It takes better all-around conditioning than any other sport we offer at North Dakota State" according to Neuberger. "Strength, endurance and agility are important. In some sports you may be fairly successful and be lacking in one of these phases of physical fitness, but not in wrestling," said Neuberger.

Tom said that every wrestler should work out several times a week to prepare himself for regular practice which begins Nov. 10.

Larry van Sickle is captain of the team with Rog Tweiten, manager. There are three other lettermen returning besides van Sickle. They are Mark Ashton, Dick Dougherty, and Ron LeRol.

Seventeen wrestling matches have already been scheduled for NDSC which is participating in its second year of the sport.

The motto of the wrestling team is "Lean and Mean".

The 1958-59 scheduled is as follows:

N. D. State Loses To Trinity Univ.

Trinity University, led by Wes Gideon, potential little All-America candidate, rolled over the North Dakota State College Bison last Saturday 80-6. The Bison, who were outweighed by some 20 pounds per man were unable to offer any defense to the strong Trinity team. With only two exceptions, the Tigers scored every time they had the ball.

One thing can be said in the favor of the Herd, and that is the fact that they were able to score while trailing 80-0. Pat Rosatti capped a 66 yard drive to score from the 1 on the last play of the game. Keeping the pressure on all the time, the hard driving Tigers of Trinity racked up 23 first downs to eight for the herd. They accounted for 428 yards rushing and 150 yards by way of passing for a total of 578 yards gained against 136 yards for the Bison. The Herd was completely unable to muster up any sort of an offensive at all as they were forced to put 10 times. The fact is, the only part of the statistical department in which the Bison looked good at all was in the penalty column. Trinity was penalized a total of 50 yards while the Herd was penalized 10 yards.

Gideon passed for two touchdowns, ran for one and kicked four conversion attempts and ran for one.

Do you let other people tell you what filter cigarette is best for you, rather than making up your own mind?

YES NO

The fact is, men and women who make up their own minds—who think for themselves—usually smoke VICEROY. Their reason? Best in the world. They know only VICEROY has a thinking man's filter and a smoking man's taste.

*If you have answered "NO!" to six of the above questions—you are a man who thinks for himself!

The Bell System will visit the campus for the purpose of interviewing prospective graduates in electrical, mechanical and industrial engineering, as well as mathematics and physics. The following Bell System Companies will be represented: Western Electric Company, Inc., Sandia Corporation, Northwestern Bell Telephone Company and the Bell Telephone Laboratories. Employment opportunities are present in the fields of manufacturing and production, research and development, and operations.

Friday, November 14, 1958

The Trane Company will be represented on campus by Mr. George Robbins, who will interview engineering students interested in sales engineering, product engineering, industrial engineering and home office sales management positions. Sales engineering is the primary interest of Trane Company during this visit. The Trane Company engineers and manufactures heating, ventilating, air conditioning and heat transfer equipment.

Friday, November 14, 1958

U. S. Naval Ordnance Test Station, China Lake, California, will visit the campus seeking interviewing with senior students graduating in the fields of engineering, physics, chemistry or electronic science. The electronic science option requires twelve semester hours in electronics or one year of electronics experience plus degree in physical science, engineering or mathematics. Summer job applicants will be interviewed during the spring visit.

Friday, November 14, 1958

Corps of Engineers personnel representing the Garrison, St. Paul and the Missouri River Basin area will be on campus to talk to civil, mechanical, industrial and electrical engineering students. Any student seeking general information about employment opportunities with the Corps of Engineers is invited to visit the Placement Office and arrange for an interview.

Hungarian Fighters Forgotten By Others

Two years ago Hungarian students began a revolution. Ray Rohrbaugh writes about it in West Virginia Wesleyan College Pharos:

"For the most part the deeds are forgotten. The scene shifted away from Hungary and a new play came to the stage. Actions once praised as so courageous now rest only in casual setting of another drama.

"Personally, I can't forget so easily. At the time of the revolution one of my closest friends was a college student who had escaped Czechoslovakia. I remember his yearning well. Had he the means, and I as well, we might both have gone to Europe on the spot and joined the students. We might, but we didn't.

"And that is largely how the whole thing went. No one did. No one even remembers. The passions kindled soon flickered and burned out in the mist of time..."

Poll Considers Football Coaches' Pay

(ACP)—The life of a college football coach is apt to be a very hectic one, especially if he does not produce winning teams year after year. Generally they are given short-term contracts and their bargaining position depends a good deal upon their record of producing winning teams. And since their occupational longevity is so doubtful they usually rate a pay scale higher than that of the highest ranking college professor.

In order to get an idea of what collegians think about this difference in pay scale, Associated Collegiate Press asked the following question of a representative national cross-section of college students:

College football coaches are usually paid more than the highest ranking professor. Do you think this difference in salary is justified?

The results:

	Men	Women	Total
Yes	24%	15%	20%
No	64%	72%	67%
Undecided	12%	13%	13%

There appears to be some sex difference in the figures shown, with the coeds leaning more toward the side of the professors. Of all students favoring the coaches' point of view however, the following statement by a Villanova University (Villanova, Pa.) senior is very representative: "The coach is gambling that he will be around next year, the professor isn't." Here are a few other typical statements:

"The coach earns it; the relative salaries in the different fields cannot justifiably be compared," is the feeling of a junior attending Newark College of Engineering (Newark, N. J.), while a University of Nebraska (Lincoln) senior looks at it this way: "A college will never have to worry about losing a professor because he is mediocre. Coaches are under a constant mental strain which cannot be measured by monetary standards." And a Wartburg College (Waverly, Iowa) junior believes "the work of the coach is harder; his is a 12 month and 24 hour job."

Among students favoring the professor's point of view two general feelings stand out: 1) the feeling that the professor has more time and money invested in his job, and 2) the feeling that education is more important than football and should be rewarded accordingly. Here are a few remarks typical of these and other opinions expressed.

"The professor works harder to attain his position than a coach," is the view of a freshman coed at Christian College (Columbia, Mo.). And a Mississippi College (Clinton) sophomore coed states: "Because of the more extensive and intensive education of a professor I think the difference in salary is by no means justified." The feeling of a sophomore at Northern Illinois State College (DeKalb) is expressed this way: "The fundamental college goal is education, sports are a secondary feature, consequently the service of a professor is more valuable."

"The professor contributes more to society than a football coach," is the view of a freshman coed attending Moorhead State Teachers College (Moorhead, Minn.), while a Long Beach City College (Long Beach, Calif.) sophomore says: "I don't think it is justified because studies should be considered more important than sports in college." And a Brooklyn College (Brooklyn, N. Y.) senior comes up with this: "Football coaches aren't overpaid, college professors are underpaid."

Students finding themselves undecided on this question generally say they can't make up their minds, or else they feel the comparison is not valid. Here are several comments indicative of this latter position:

A CAMPUS-TO-CAREER
CASE HISTORY

He's been on his way up from the day he started work

James C. Bishop got his B.S. in Electrical Engineering from the University of Illinois on June 23, 1953. On July 1, he went to work as a lineman in the Illinois Bell Telephone Company management training program. On July 2, he was "shinnying" up telephone poles.

And he's been "climbing" ever since. A planned rotational training program, interrupted by a stint in the Army, took Jim through virtually every phase of plant operations.

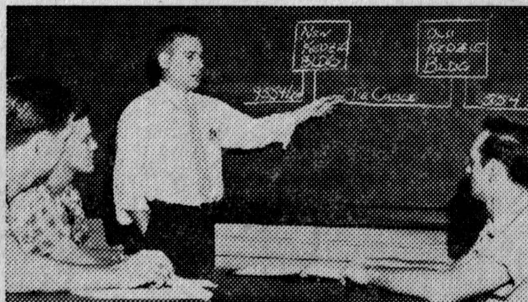

He was promoted to Station Installation Foreman in July, 1957. Then came more training at company expense—in human relations and other supervisory subjects—at Knox College.

Since early 1958, Jim has been Central Office Foreman in the Kedzie District of Chicago, which embraces about 51,000 telephone stations. He has 19 men reporting to him.

"I was hired as 'a candidate for management,'" he says. "I know I'll get the training and opportunity to keep moving ahead. How far I go is up to me. I can't ask for more than that."

Jim Bishop holds training sessions regularly with his men. At left, he discusses cable routes in connection with the "cutover" of his office to dial service. At right, he and a frameman check a block connection on the main frame.
