By Loretta Struble

As the quarter draws to a close, there are mixed emotions on campus. The students are happy to be through with classes for a few days but are worried about their marks. They wonder if they could have done a little better job on that term paper or studied a little more for that last test . . . Next quarter they will turn over a new leaf and get all of their studying done on time!!!

Congratulations to Sara Riley, the 1958 Military Ball Queen.

Thanksgiving means a variety of things. It means that we get a few days off from school. It is a chance to go home and stuff ourselves with home cooking. But, most important of all, it is a day of thankfulness. A day to give thanks to our Creator for all His blessings: for the opportunity to go to college . . . for being able to live in a country like the United States . . . for our homes, parents, and friends and all of the other things we enjoy.

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving . . . See you next quarter!

A Student Asks, Are We Letting Freedom Slip Through Our Uncaring Fingers?

By James Carr

Are we letting freedom — this freedom for which our forefathers gave their all—slip through our uncaring fingers? Are we by carelessness and indifference letting our great heritage slip away? This is something we can ill afford and something all thinking Americans need to turn their well educated though often times indolent minds to preventing.

When men believe and know that freedom is a God-given right, then we will be ready to do anything necessary to keep it. Never before in the history of our country have so many people enjoyed so many blessings. We have much to be thankful for but let us remember, Freedom is not free, we must work to hang onto our most prized possession.

Thanksgiving is usually a family day, celebrated with big dinners and joyous reunions. Many people travel hundreds of miles to spend the day with their parents. The very mention of Thanksgiving often calls up memories of kitchens and pantries crowded with good things to eat. Thanksgiving is also a time for serious religious thinking, church services, and personal prayer.

Ebling To Speak At FFA Friends' Night Banquet

The term "Friends' Night Banquet" will be an important topic of conversation among members of the collegiate chapter of the Future Farmers of America for the next three weeks.

The annual affair will be held on Wed., Dec. 10 in the Memorial Union Ballroom beginning at 6:30 p.m.

Guest speaker will be Mr. Claude Ebling of Minneapolis, Minn., who works in public relations for the Soo Line Railroad and has spoken previously at FFA conventions and banquets in the two state area.

The banquet is organized much the same as the High School FFA Parent and Son Banquet except friends are substituted for the parents in the Friends' Night Banquet.

ISA To Sponsor Dogpatch Party

The Independent Student Association is sponsoring their fall term party in the "Dogpatch" style, Friday, December 8. It's a Daisy Mae-ask Little Abner affair, where the girls ask the fellows.

The term tests will be over, so the group plans to dance, have an intermission with a program and serve punch afterwards at the informal party to be held in the Moose Lodge clubroom at 8 p.m.

Costumes to fit any occasion will be permissible, but all must come to enjoy themselves. Admission of $1 will be charged and tickets can be purchased in advance from ISA members. Everyone on campus is welcome.

Markman Speaks To UCCF On Tariff Policies

Rev. Charles E. Markman addressed the United Campus Christian Fellowship Sunday evening, Nov. 23, "Give and Take of Trade."

A brief outline of the history of trade shows that the tariff was first used for both revenue and protection. Today it protects home industries from lower foreign prices.

"As college students and future voters you should be aware of where U. S. tax money goes," Rev. Markman continued, "and what it is used for." He quoted figures from the national budget pointing out that not enough is used for foreign aid.

To trade with other people you must have good communications with them. They would be unwilling to exchange if another country will not buy their products. If they have a poor economic level they may need aid, financially.

He also voted that the U. S. depends on other countries for goods vital in its industries—such as iron and nickel. Trade is essential to obtain many necessary materials.

Students who are aware of and concerned with the government activities will be well-informed and better able to vote intelligently, stated Rev. Markman. In a small but important way life can be made better for others and the individual himself.

The address was preceded by a supper and brief meeting.

Socially Speaking . . .

By Janet Kippen

Everything packed? Pencils? Books? Notes? Typewriter and paper to finish that last term paper? Then you're all set to rush home tonight for the relaxing Thanksgiving weekend to come. What a laugh.

Thanksgiving is beginning to become synonymous with finals. Who can even enjoy eating a decent home-cooked dinner, with chemistry for an appetizer, some statics for the entree, and a large helping of calculus for dessert?! Oh well, we've lived through it once before, we may do a repeat performance. Still think they should revise our class scheduling or move Thanksgiving ahead a week!

What finals don't do to a happy, lively, active little college community. You can see their effects imprinted on every scowling face, displayed by every sagging eyelid, and heard in the traditional torrent of griping. In the union, in the classroom, in the dorm, in the Greek houses, there is not much that's going right anymore. Everyone is definitely in favor of progressive education (no tests) and Jon Dewey is our hero.

Teachers are very unpopular at this time of the season. Notebooks, scrapbooks, reports, and all the various other devices of busywork so essential to our education drives us to distraction; and lastly, social life assumes a new low. Not dead, mind you, never let that be said. An amusing thing to notice is that the union is more crowded final nights than most any other time of year. Guess most everyone thinks they deserve a break!

Well, be sure to get your No-Doze and tranquilizer early, while the stores are still well-stocked. Get that drop slip in before you flunk. And finally, though this is hard for me to say, as social promoter superior—"Don't let your social life interfere with your studies". Hit the books, and we'll make up for lost time December 5!

Ministers Who Speak At YM Luncheon Visit Taverns To Get Information

If you saw a couple of shifty looking individuals sneaking around taverns in West Fargo and vicinity November 20 about 11 p.m., don't be alarmed, it was only the Reverend Arne Kavelen and the Reverend Leo Johnson collecting material for a talk on the importance of taverns to small town social life to be given at the YMWCA faculty student luncheon.

As a result of their short research problem the two pastors reached the conclusion that to the tavern owners and the people who frequent them the tavern is something that is necessary to their life and could not be gotten along without. They also felt, however, that teachers and preachers should not be seen in such places.

Another conclusion reached by Leo and Arne was that the church should pay more attention to these people instead of merely labeling them hopelessly evil and ignoring the fact that many of their members are often to be found there.

In conclusion it was stated that if time had allowed to make a more general and deeper survey they would have been able to make a much more definite statement as to what part the Tavern plays and whether it should be replaced.

Sports Of All Sorts

By Roger Lutz

Time is drawing near for the 1958-59 basketball season to start. December 6 marks the opening game when the herd will tangle with the Concordia Cobbers. Coach Chuck Benson has summed up the progress of the team with the comment that they have not progressed too satisfactorily. Benson pointed out that the team shooting on the whole leaves much to be desired. But despite rough play at times, they have shown periods of satisfactory offensive play.

The success of the team could depend very much on the center spot, a position which could be weak for the Herd. Hib Hill is currently the number one prospect for this spot, but 6'5" Art Niska, up from the freshman team of last year, is pressing hard for this spot. Benson feels that Hill has not produced the scoring which is necessary for this important position.

Six foot three inch John Foss is giving all indications that he should return to the scoring form of his sophomore year. Foss was one of the scoring mainstays two years ago, but fell off somewhat last year. Benson feels, however, that Foss is once again returning to his old form.

Sophomore Marvin Bachmeier is showing quite a lot of promise from the guard spot and should provide quite a scoring punch for the Herd. Bob Brown, Jerry Kingrey, and Dick Faught, along with the previously mentioned boys, should form the nucleus of the Bison squad this year. Kingrey and Faught will most likely hold down the two forward positions. The combined defensive potential possessed by these two individuals will pretty much decide the fate of the Herd on the backboards. Coach Benson pointed out that as soon as they get the football kinks out, they should be ready for a good year. Their scoring potential is not too great, but it is hoped that with continued practice it will pick up.

Actually, Benson has the alternative of two possible starting line-ups. One would put Hill or Niska at the center spot, Kingrey and Faught at forwards, and Brown and

Tom Neuberger Is Youngest SC Coach

Tom Neuberger doubles as trainer and head cross-country coach during the fall quarter. The youngest Bison coach, Neuberger also coaches wrestling and track.

Neuberger was graduated from Canistota, S. D. high school in 1948. He received his Bachelor's degree from South Dakota State in 1952 and earned his Master's degree there in 1955. He has also attended the University of Colorado and the State University of Iowa and has only a thesis remaining for a doctorate from the latter institution.

Neuberger earned two letters in wrestling and three letters in both cross-country and track. He still holds several South Dakota State track records, and the North Central Conference half-mile record.

He also served in the Army from 1952-54 and was physical training instructor and track coach at Fort Benning, George, while stationed there.

Foss at the guard spots. Another possible lineup could find Dick Faught in the center spot, Foss and Kingrey at forward posts, and Brown and Bachmeier at the guard positions.

This lineup would give the Herd a greater scoring potential, but would make them weaker on the defense with a sacrifice to height.

Benson plans to use a tight defense with hopes of controlling the boards. Such play might tend to offset the mediocre scoring which the team has shown thus far. The defensive will be centered mainly around a man to man situation. Coach Benson said that with the speed and talent for ball handling possessed by Bachmeier and Brown, a fast break will be utilized as much as possible. The main scoring punch for the team should come from John Foss and Marv Bachmeier, with Bob Brown adding his touch for the cause. Much of the rebounding and general defense under the bucket will be left to Kingrey and Faught.

Other members of the fourteen man team have continued to show improvement. Benson cited Dick Bucholtz and Tom Day for their efforts and added that these two have shown form which might indicate that they will be a help to the team.

Quenette, Remillong On All Conference Team

Fullback Curt Quenette and guard Don Remillong of the NDSC team have been named to the All Conference football squad. Twenty two berths were named at the NCIA fall meeting. Quenette, who was a co-captain on this year's squad, was practically the mainstay of the team with his hard running and his outstanding defensive work. Quenette ranked high among conference punters, and was the most consistent ground gainer for the Herd. Head coach Bob Danielson praised the efforts of Quenette in all contests.

Remillong, on the other hand, was one of the defensive mainstays in the Bison line this year. Coach Danielson cited Remillong many times for his outstanding defensive work in plugging the middle of the line. Danielson pointed out that in holding back, Remillong did not show up much in the eyes of the Spectator, but his steady work in this position prevented any foes from sustaining a drive through the middle.

Both are juniors this year, and will be back for more action next season.

Also at this meeting, NDSC received the Glenn Rogers Sportsmanship trophy.

Athletic Director Is Former N. Dak. Coach Of The Year

L. Les Luymes has been the head coach of the NDSC athletic program.

Les came to North Dakota State in 1956. He doubled as Athletic Director and Head Football Coach his first year, and his gridders compiled the first winning season for a Bison football team since 1952. The Bison compiled a 5-4 record that year, and Luymes was picked as North Dakota "Coach of the Year" He now confines his coaching to handling the freshman football team. The Baby Bison tied two games this year while losing one.

Luymes graduated from Central College, Pella, Iowa with a B.A. degree in commerce and physical education, in 1941. While at Central College, he won three football letters as a tackle and also earned three letters in basketball and two letters in track. He was given all-Iowa Conference mention twice and was selected as Outstanding Senior Athlete his last year in college.

Before coming to North Dakota State, Les coached at Colo High School, Colo, Iowa from 1941-42, served in the Navy from 1942-46, was athletic director and coach at Northwestern Junior College, Orange City, Iowa, and was head football and basketball coach at St. Cloud Teachers College for eight years. At St. Cloud his football teams won five straight football championships.

Luymes has earned his Master's Degree in physical education at the State University of Iowa and has only six credit hours and his thesis remaining towards a doctorate.

Les and his wife, Evelyn, have three children, Jan, eight; Craig, five; and Beth, three.

According to Erv Kaiser, intramural director, the volleyball program went smoothly. This was due in part to the fact that from four to six games were played per evening. A schedule such as this enabled the program to be completed by the end of the quarter.

One of the objectives of the intramural board is to keep the intramural program continuous. Now that volleyball has been completed basketball and wrestling will commence with the winter quarter.

Mr. Kaiser also urged any organization that wishes to enter the basketball program to do so before Monday, Dec. 1. Forty entries have been received to date and a few teams are still needed. At the
