SC Sharivar Rated "Very Successful"

By Arlene Christianson

Sharivar for 1960 is over and before all the work that they did passes from the minds of the faculty and students the central committee would like to thank them for their efforts.

Despite Saturday's rain the overall crowd exceeded that of last year due in part to the Sunday attendance. Few of the people present registered and for the reasons given no accurate registration count is available. However, home economics, alone, registered more than a thousand people.

Four state officials: C. P. Dahlg, lieutenant governor; John Erickson, state treasurer; Leslie Bergum, attorney general; and Ben Meyer, secretary of state, were present at the President's luncheon Saturday.

Next year's central committee will be chosen from applications which can be obtained at the Spectrum office. The selection will be held by theomination of campus affairs. Any experience will be an advantage in applying for one of the 18 positions as co-chairman of the central committee, chairman of a school, or the activities or publicity committee.

There were a couple of things about applications which can be obtained at the Spectrum office. The selection will be held by theomination of campus affairs. Any experience will be an advantage in applying for one of the 18 positions as co-chairman of the central committee, chairman of a school, or the activities or publicity committee.

Another interested in making next year's event a success will be the committee. The best (come rain or come shine) is up to apply for a position on the central committee. The involvement of campus affairs. Applications may be picked up at the Spectrum office and are to be returned there. Any experience will be an advantage in applying for one of the positions.

The final event of the week will be the Saturday's Greek Picnic picnic at Lindenwood Park Park Main feature of the picnic will be the Mock Olympics, consisting of a tug-of-war, three-legged race and a balloon shoot. Jerry Woods and John Mortensen are chairman of Saturday's events.

Othello, Shakespearean Tragedy, Plays

For Weekend In Little Country Theatre

Jealousy, which Shakespeare so aptly called "the green-eyed monster", is the motivating force of the tragedy "Othello" which opened for a four night run Wednesday, April 27, at the Little Country Theatre. Curtain time is 8:15.

Othello, a general in the Venetian army, finds the handkerchief of his wife Desdemona in his friend Cassio's room. It has been planted there by the villainous Iago to make Othello jealous.

Iago knows what Othello doesn't realize until too late—that jealousy can destroy a man and all that he holds dear. The working out of Iago's plot to destroy Othello makes this drama one of Shakespeare's most fascinating plays.

Othello will be played by Ronald Katz. Suelin Ringsak will play the part of Desdemona. Mr. Ron Bunnquist, of the Speech and Drama faculty, will direct the play.

The displays were good. My favorite was the glass blow- up in chemistry. The paint in the laboratory was great- good color and good design. The rain drop of hot water was another wonderful touch.
A GUIDE FOR THE LOVELESS

Gentlemen, take warning. June is almost upon you—June, the month of brides. Have you got your girl yet? If not, don't despair. You don't have to be rich or handsome to get a girl. All you have to be is kind, considerate, thoughtful, and obliging—in short, a gentleman.

For example, don't ever call a girl for a date at the last minute. Always give her plenty of advance notice—like three months for a note on your date, six months for a note for a prom, a year for a public execution. This shows the girl that she is not your second or third choice and also gives her ample time to arrange for her costume.

And when you ask for a date, do it with a bit of Old World gallantry. A poem, for instance, is always sure to please a young lady, like this:

I think you're cute.
Daphne La France.
I'll put you on a lift,
And take you to a ball.

In the unlikely event that you don't know any girls named Daphne La France, try this:

Think you're cute.
Winifred Jopp.
I'll put you on a wait,
And take you to a hop.

In the extremely unlikely event that you don't know a Winifred Jopp either, try this:

Think you're cute.
Isabel Prall.
I'll put you on a wait,
And take you to a ball.

If there is no Isabel Prall, Winifred Jopp, or Daphne La France on your campus, it is quite obvious why you've had trouble finding dates all year; you've enrolled in an all-male school, you old idiot!

Next let us take up the question of etiquette once you are out on a date with Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne. The first thing you do, naturally, is to offer the young lady a Marlboro. Be sure, however, to offer her an entire Marlboro—not just a Marlboro butt. Marlboro butts are good of course, but whole Marlboros are better. You get an extra inch or two of fine favorable tobacco—and I mean flavorful. Do you think flavor went out when filters came in? Well, you've got a happy surprise coming when you light a Marlboro. This one really delivers the goods on flavor, and when you hand Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne a whole, complete, brand-new Marlboro, she will know how highly you regard and respect her, and she will grow misty and weak with gratitude, which is very important when you take her out to dinner, because the only kind of coed a college man can afford to feed in a weak and misty coed. Latest statistics show that a coed in a normal condition eats one and a half times her own weight every twelve hours. At the end of your date with Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne, make certain to get her home by curfew time. That is gentlemanly. Do not leave her at a bus stop. That is rude. Deliver her right to her door and, if possible, stop the car when you are dropping her off.

The next day send a little thank-you note. A poem is best.

Like this:

For a wonderful evening, many thanks,
Isabel, Winifred, or Daphne.
I'll take you out for some more merry pranks
Next Saturday if you'll help me.
