ALL TRAFFIC STOPPED during Monday's snow storm. Stalled cars were everywhere on campus . . . from parking lots to the middle of the street.

First Snow Stops Classes at NDSU

By Phyllis Christman

And the snow came down, and it kept right on coming. One of the worst storms since 1947 hit the NDSU campus Monday morning. School was dismissed by 10 p.m. and everyone was either trying to get home or enjoying their vacation in the Union or in their dormitories.

Erling Thorson, superintendent of buildings and grounds, says this is the first time since 1947 that the school has been closed because of snow.

The storm continued all day Monday, blocking the roads, cars, students and staff on the campus. School was dismissed on Tuesday and the card playing went on for another day.

All of the dormitories were full with people on the couches and extra people in the rooms. Mrs. Piers kept receiving calls all evening from people requesting rooms so they could spend the evening in a bed instead of a chair in the Union.

Many of the professors stayed in the various lounges in their particular buildings. LaVerne Nies, assistant professor of communications, complained that the 5 and 1/2 foot couches in Minard weren't quite long enough for him and consequently a stiff neck resulted.

The Union had a busy evening with over 50 people staying in the various lounges and ball room. They slept on chairs, sofas and the like. Students, staff, and the Union crew were all represented.

Socks, playing cards, magazines, and paper back books were in great demand at the bookstore. The hooded sweatshirts were in such demand that the supply ran out Monday afternoon.

A football game was played Monday afternoon between the Sigma his and Thetas; the snow soon won out and they adjourned to drink coffee and play cards.

Many of the students were not prepared for the snow and consequently their tennis shoes took a real beating.

Students have no excuses now for late term papers or unfinished projects. Everyone seemed to enjoy the extra two days of vacation for various reasons, even if the snow wasn't too welcome.

State Takes First in Team and Individual at Livestock Show

North Dakota State University's Collegiate livestock judging team has won the World Series of all judging contests—the International Livestock Show held in Chicago this past week.

Not only did the team place first, but Richard Knutson was high man in the entire contest. Keith Bjerke placed sixth as an individual and James Carr tied for seventh.

The team placed second in sheep, second in beef and fifth in swine.

The NDSU team has placed in the top 10 several times in past years, but this is the first time it has won highest in the contest.

As individuals Knutson placed second in swine, Bjerke placed second in sheep and fourth in cattle;

James McGill placed fifth in cattle.

The total number of points accumulated by the team totaled 4557. Next highest team was Oklahoma with 4542.

The championship trophy, a large bronze bull almost too heavy for a man to lift, will be installed in a place of honor in Sheppard Arena, campus headquarters for collegiate livestock judging. In addition the team also won a trophy given by the Berkshire Association for being the top judges of Berkshire hogs, and a trophy from the Suffolk Association for being the top judges of Suffolk sheep.

The teams ranking behind North Dakota State University were in this order: Oklahoma, Iowa, Kansas and Illinois.

Eveleth Gets Fulbright

Dr. D. F. Eveleth, Chairman of the Department of Veterinary Medicine at NDSU has been granted a Fulbright Lectureship at the University of Cairo for a period of six months, beginning Feb. 1, 1961.

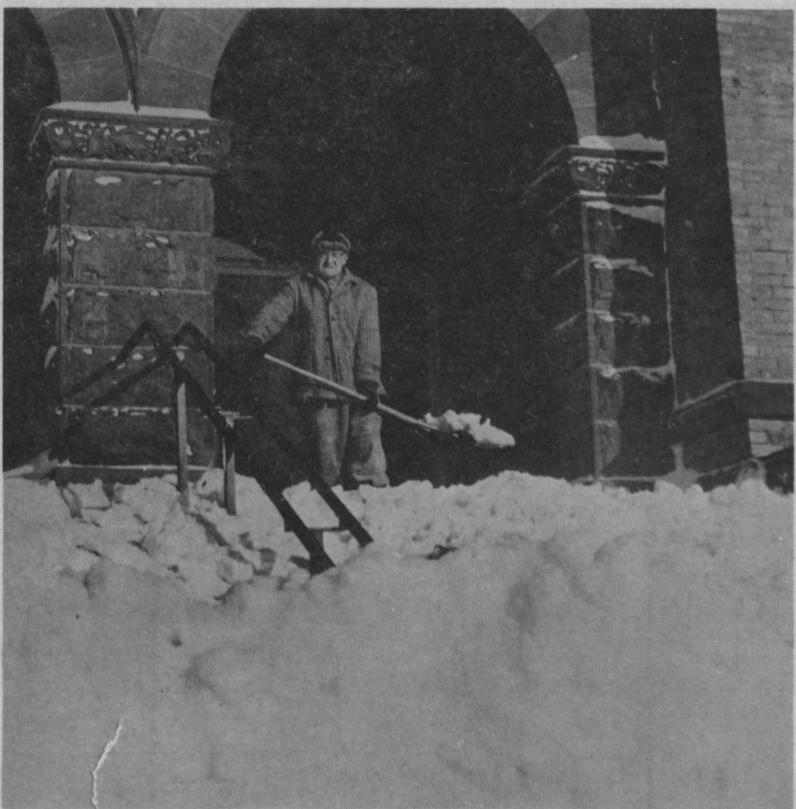

While at the University of Cairo Dr. Eveleth will be instructing and advising graduate students in Veterinary Pathology.

He has been professor of Veterinary Science and Chairman of the Department of Veterinary Science at NDSU since 1943. He was also a veterinarian at the Experiment Station.

Dr. Eveleth has taught at Western Reserve University, Iowa State University, the University of California and the University of Arkansas. In addition he has written over 100 articles which have appeared in both state and national publications.

He received his B.S. and M.A. from the University of California and his Ph.D. from Western Reserve University. He also received a D.U. from Iowa State University.

Russell Appointed A & S Head at Wash.

Dr. Seth W. Russell, dean of arts and sciences at NDSU, was appointed chairman of the Arts and Science Division of the American Association of Land-Grant Colleges and State Universities at the 74th annual convention in Washington, D. C. last week.

Dean Russell, who served as secretary of the division for two years, said the Arts and Sciences Division will prepare a history of the Colleges of Arts and Sciences in Land-Grant Universities during his term of office.

"This history will evaluate the role arts and sciences have played in education in the past century in order to determine their role in the next century," according to Dean Russell. He said emphasis will be on history because of the observance currently being planned for the Land-Grant Centennial in 1961.

Dean Frank C. Mirgain from the school of engineering, represented President Hultz at the meeting, and also reported on activities planned for the Centennial of Land-Grant Universities. He said all divisions of the association were making plans to review their histories and that a special celebration would mark the opening of the centennial at next year's convention in Kansas City.

Dr. D. F. Eveleth, Professor and Chairman of Veterinary Science at NDSU, served as chairman of the Veterinary Science Division of the Association for the past year and is now on the Executive Committee for two years. He reported their division was emphasizing putting education to work and will continue this theme during the centennial.

Dean F. C. Budewig of the School of Home Economics also took part in the convention program as chairman of a committee to study the contributions of home economics to the entire university.

Others attending the convention from NDSU were Dean G. S. Smith of the Graduate School; Dean A. G. Hazen, Agriculture; Director E. J. Haslerud, Extension Service; Mrs. Naurine Higgins, State Leader, Home Economics and Donald F. Schwartz, Assistant Director of Communications.

Editorial

By Evanne Grommesh

Perhaps you may enjoy a few of these comments made to me at the National Press Convention in Chicago last week where over 1000 college students from all over the country came to learn new ideas for their publications.

"Oh, North Dakota—my you're a long way from home. Do you have to go through Canada on your way back?" — So I proceeded to tell them about the Eskimos, igloos . . .

I got into a conversation about the name change with a boy from some university in Colorado. He said that one of the colleges in their state also had just changed their name to university. So I asked him just how he as another university student felt toward this rival school changing their name. He said this . . . "I guess I thought it was fine. You see, we are so concerned with our university and its progress we don't have time to bother ourselves about the other colleges in the state."

Then I got into a discussion with a southern student about the sit-ins at the Woolworth lunch counters by the Negroes.

He said this . . . "I'm all for integration as I believe most southerners are. The thing is it will take time. You can't tell people that they're supposed to feel a certain way about another person and expect them to change over night."

"These sit-ins are wrong. The Negroes come in in the morning and just sit all day long. Is that fair? Why can't the owner of a store serve who he wants to. And so if the owners have to serve the Negroes—I wonder how they feel? They know they aren't wanted there. Why should they want to go there and feel uncomfortable?"

"In Tennessee where I'm from there wasn't any trouble at all because there wasn't any organized resistance by Negroes or the whites. Integration is coming along just fine."

He also felt that much of the rioting against the Negroes was organized by the Negroes themselves.

He seemed very bitter about the stand that many of the northern writers had taken against the southern whites. He said that Negroes aren't treated any better in the north.

Surprisingly enough, when I got home and was thinking about the situation a television debate came on with a fellow by the name of Kilpatrick vs. King, the man who is the head of NAACP.

They brought out another interesting aspect of the current integration problem. Kilpatrick mentioned that there was a law against these organized sit-ins or forcades—as King called them.

King said that if it was a bad law the people shouldn't obey it. Kilpatrick asked about who was to judge the good or bad of a law. He wondered if everyone had the right to do this. No one would be obeying any laws—or maybe King reserved that right for himself.

Kilpatrick said Negroes weren't proud of their race. King didn't comment.

And around—and around.

It's funny how you sort of forget a thing when it's not in the papers. I had forgotten about the sit-ins until last week. Course again I suppose we just hear of the difficulties of integrating the two races and perhaps just the northern view point and not about where things are going smoothly. Who knows?

Letter to the Editor . . .

Dear Editor: Why do so many university students forfeit an important part of their education for a few cups of coffee in the union? On Friday, Nov. 18, one of the most well-known Italian pianists, Ornella Santoliquido, and Massimo Amfi-theatrof, cellist, presented a miniature recital during convocation. This was a good time to see and hear these highly regarded artists. It appears that students go only to convocations that interest them. I'm sure that cheerleaders were glad to get a lot of support from

NDSU students who appeared for the homecoming rally. Festival Hall also was filled for the name change convocation. Isn't there something wrong then when so few students are interested in more educational programs? It was unfortunate to miss the performance, but I'm sure that the students who attended and didn't care for the music did appreciate the information contained in the program. A short life sketch was given of several composers and some of the musical terms written in Italian, the international language of music, were explained. These little bits of information may be the only contact some students ever will have in this area of culture. I'm sure that many would protest if the union and the library were closed during convocation, but maybe a regimentation of this sort is necessary. I think the only answer to the situation is for each person to work on himself, and attend convocations even if he doesn't feel in the mood at 9:40 a.m. one morning. JUDI AMOTH

Should our "Electoral College" system of selecting a president be abolished?

The recent election has shown the flagrant inadequacies of our electoral system: such as the possibility of a candidate receiving a majority of the popular vote and yet losing the election. We should either abolish the electoral college system or have a reapportionment of congressional districts on a group of party states and national level.

Yes, the people know what they want without a change in the history of our country. Obviously it is outdated.

Don't be fooled! Electoral college is outdated. Let's change the name to "Electoral University." Therefore, I petition that . . . No, I don't think that it should be eliminated because if the popular vote were close, complete chaos would result and it would take a long period of time to determine the winners of the presidential election.

KEY IDEAS

"A BLUE KEY MEMBER SPEAKS"

By L. BRUCE ANDERSON

Overheard at "J. B." last week:
He: What do you think of the play?
She: It's tremendous. I mean, after all, the critics loved it.
He: Thank you for your opinion.

How is one to determine the worth of an object? By thorough investigation only.

As I write I have before me an object which may or may not be valuable. You could learn whether it is or is not valuable by asking me . . . or could you? By so doing you would obtain my opinion as to whether or not it is valuable. This is true of asking anyone about an object. You get opinions but not necessarily satisfactory answers.

You could ask what the object is. I could answer by telling you that it is a math book. This really would help you very little, for it would still leave questions as to the content of the book; whether it is easily understood; and whether it is interesting. My statement would simply throw the object into the general group known as "math books". From this you could not logically deduce the particular book's worth.

If you were with me now, I could show you the book, but, as you've heard said, "you can't tell a book by its cover."

There is actually only one sure way to determine the value of this book. That is by examining it yourself and spending some not too small amount of time trying to discover whether it is interesting, easily comprehended; and what its content is.

The same procedure applies to determining the worth of any object or, for that matter, any individual. You could ask many people whether they considered this individual "someone of value". All you would gain from this would be many opinions concerning the person, quite a few of which would be contradictory.

All too often the people whom you ask would place the person in a general group, as I attempted to do with the group "math book", such as "he's a football player", "she's a Kappa", or (sin of sins) "he's from the U".

You could have the individual pointed out to you. Again "you can't tell a book . . ."

The only way in which to determine if, by your standards, the individual is "someone of value" is to meet him, talk with him, try to understand him, and learn what his thoughts are.

Too many of us don't investigate other people but rather take another's word on what they're worth. I've been guilty of it, I'm certain you have been. Don't do it again. Don't take anyone else's opinions, the individual's group affiliations, or his appearance to be the factors determining his worth.

Investigate for yourself and possibly find, in the individual, something of value.

Broadway Actress Appears At Lyceum

Miss Dorothy Stickney, a former North Dakotan, will appear at Festival Hall on Saturday, Dec. 3 as the next attraction on the Golden Anniversary Lyceum Series.

The production follows the childhood, college days, and tragic death of the Pulitzer Prize poet.

"A Lovely Light" is directed by Miss Stickney's husband, Howard Lindsay, who is known for his writing of the current Broadway hit, "The Sound of Music." Miss Stickney and Lindsay started their career together in one of the best loved and best known productions to be presented, "Life With Father", which ran on Broadway for eight years.

Miss Stickney was born in Dickinson, North Dakota, in 1903. Her father was a prominent physician in that community for many years.

Students may pick up their tickets for this attraction at the Little Country Theatre or at the box office that evening by presenting their student activity card. The program begins at 8:15 p.m.

"THE INTELLIGENCE QUOTIENT OF NED FUTTY"

Chloe McFeeters was a beautiful coed who majored in psychology and worked in the I.Q. testing department of the University. She worked there because she loved and admired intelligence above all things. "I love and admire intelligence above all things" is the way she put it.

Ned Futty, on the other hand, was a man who could take intelligence or leave it alone. What he loved and admired above all things was girls. "What I love and admire above all things is girls" is the way he put it.

One day Ned saw Chloe on campus and was instantly smitten. "Excuse me, miss," he said, tugging at his forelock. "Will you marry me?"

She looked at his duck-tail haircut, his black-rimmed glasses, his two-day beard, his grimy T-shirt, his tattered jeans, his decomposing tennis shoes. "You are not unattractive," she admitted, "but for me beauty is not enough. Intelligence is what I'm looking for. Come to the I.Q. testing department with me."

"Will you marry me?"

"Of course, my tiger," cried Ned and giggled and smote his thigh and bit Chloe's nape and scampered goatlike after her to the I.Q. testing department.

"First, I will test your vocabulary," said Chloe.

"Be my guest," laughed Ned and licked her palm.

"What does juxtaposition mean?"

"Beats me," he confessed cheerfully and nibbled her knuckles.

"How about ineffable?"

"Never heard of it," guffawed Ned, plunging his face into her clavicle.

"Furtive?"

"With fur on?" said Ned doubtfully.

"Oh, Ned Futty," said Chloe, "you are dumb. Consequently I cannot be your girl because I love and admire intelligence above all things."

He flung himself on the floor and clasped her ankles. "But I love you," he cried in anguish. "Do not send me from you or you will make the world a sunless place, full of dim and fearful shapes."

"Go," she said coldly.

Lorn and mute, he made his painful way to the door. There he stopped and lit a cigarette. Then he opened the door and started away to his gray and grisly future.

"Stay!" called Chloe.

He turned.

"Was that," she asked, "a Marlboro you just lit?"

"Yes," he said.

"Then come to me and be my love," cried Chloe joyously. "You are not dumb. You are smart! Anybody is smart to smoke Marlboro, the filter cigarette with the unfiltered taste which comes to you in soft pack or flip-top box at prices all can afford at tobacco counters, drugstores, groceries, restaurants and trampoline courts all over America. Ned, lover, give me a Marlboro and marry me."

And they smoked happily ever after.

Receives Award

Melvin J. Nordstrom, EE sr, has been awarded the Max Hughes Memorial Scholarship for the academic year of 1960-61, according to Edwin M. Anderson, professor and chairman of the department of electrical engineering.

The award of $75 is given annually to a student majoring in electrical engineering at NDSU and is made on the basis of scholarship, student participation and financial need. It is presented by the Red River Valley Sub-section of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, in memory of the late Max Hughes.

How about a list of reasons for not studying before finals—as if anyone needed additional excuses!!

Men and women take notice! The Union will be the scene for the wool contest style show on Saturday at 1:00 p.m.

The big Bison will make their first hometown appearance Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. Watch out, Concordia.

Festival Hall will be the scene for the lyceum featuring Dorothy Stickney. The program begins at 8:15 p.m.

The SPD term party will be held in the K. C. Hall in Moorhead on Friday evening. The men are dressing to show what "hard times" the engineers have.

Despite the cold weather some stagers have managed to keep an active love life.

Co-op Eddie Volk is now pinned to senior Doris Bentson.

Vacation afforded time for several marriages—Bob Kippen, Co-op, to Merlyn Thompson of Willow City and Dave Hoff, Co-op to Irene Amb of Portland.

Kappa Psi Roger Schmesek is now married to Bobbie Bergum from Grand Forks. Bea Warner, KAT, exchanged vows with Kappa Psi, Dick Sharpe.

Well, Debbie Reynolds finally married Harry Karl—little ceremony, little publicity, much money.

An outsider could tell what days we have final exams because they're followed by days of parties and more parties. For example—exams end Thursday. On Thursday eve the Theta hCi's and Sig Chi's join at the Crystal for a Calypso Term party.

On the same evening the KAT's party at the Valley Room of the FM. The Alpha Gam's and Gamma Phi's have their term party together on Friday at the Frazer Armory. The Alpha Gam dream man will be selected from one of these six: Don Strachan, Sig Chi; Mike Saba, ATO; Pete Otte, Kappa Psi; Tom Anderson, sophomore Stater and Wayne Hammond, Theta Chi.

The SAE's will be decked in sheets Saturday, Dec. 10 when they celebrate at their Greek term party in the Comstock Hotel.

The same night we'll find the KD's at the K.C. Hall in Moorhead.

Vets Club Adopts Korean Orphan

The NDSU Vet's Club received notification that they have become parents by proxy to an overseas orphan.

The child assigned to them is an eight year old South Korean girl by the name of Im Chung Sun. She lives in the town of Taegu, South Korean, in an orphanage called Chun Kwang Bo Yook Won.

Orphan of Hurricane

Taegu was hit hard by the war as were most South Korean cities, and in 1959 was hit by the full force of hurricane Sara. Most of the city was destroyed by the winds and the resulting floods and is again in the process of rebuilding.

The orphanage to which Im is assigned was completely destroyed by the storm and had to be rebuilt. It is now expanding as fast as funds allow in an effort to care for all the homeless children in the area.

The financial aid the Vet's Club provides pays for the education of Im as well as for her care. The schooling provided runs from the first year primary to third year high school.

Six Years Old

Im is in the first grade and is listed as doing good. Her favorite subject is reading and her favorite type of playing is skipping rope.

The Vet's Club will act as Santa Claus for Im this year by way of gifts sent from and through the Club to her.

LUCKY STRIKE PRESENTS: DEAR DR. FROOD:

DR. FROOD'S THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: "Life ain't all beer and skittles," as the saying goes—but if enough students got together, maybe skittles could make a big comeback.

Dear Dr. Frood: I just don't understand the men in this college. Not one of them has ever asked me for a date. I am intelligent and easy to get along with. Enclosed is my snapshot. What do you think is wrong?

Left Out

DEAR LEFT: After considering this problem from every angle, I can only conclude that you have enormous feet.

Dear Dr. Frood: According to my figures over ninety-five per cent of the students here are below average. What is wrong?

Math Major

DEAR MATH: You are obviously going to a below-average college.

DON'T BREAK TRADITION, WARNS FROOD! One of the proudest traditions on the American campus, reports Dr. Frood, is smoking Luckies. Today college students smoke more Luckies than any other regular. According to Dr. Frood, "Any student who breaks this tradition not only robs himself of the full pleasure of smoking—but also could, conceivably, bring 'the Curse of Frood' down upon the entire student body."

Dear Dr. Frood: I don't speak from personal experience, but I understand all the men in this college are wolves. What do you think a respectable girl like me—with a good old-fashioned upbringing—should do about this situation?

Strait Laced

DEAR STRAIT: Drop your handkerchief.

Dear Dr. Frood: When I entered college as a freshman this fall, my father gave me a very large sum of money to cover room, board, tuition, books and all other expenses for four full years of college. Because of an unfortunate series of poker games, however, the money is now completely gone. How would you suggest I handle this situation?

Ten High

DEAR TEN: I feel confident that your father will give you another chance if you go up to him like a man, tell him you are sorry, admit your mistake and promise him that your luck will change.

Dear Dr. Frood: Do you think it is safe for a girl to walk home alone from a college dance?

Coeds Win In Contest

Six NDSU Home Economics students won top honors in the district "Make It Yourself With Wool" contests and will participate in the 10th anniversary state contest Saturday, Dec. 2, at NDSU.

Doris Benson, Valerie Vinje and Charlene Anderson were chosen to represent the Fargo District in the contest held November 18. Dixie Halverson took first place in her district contest held in Devils Lake and Judy Halverson won in the Grand Forks district. Joan Virden placed first at Valley City.

Jeanette Reitmeyer won first place in her district contest held in Thief River Falls, Minn. She was awarded an expense paid trip to the Minnesota state contest in Minneapolis November 25 where she placed seventh.

Awards for outstanding workmanship in the senior division in the Fargo district went to Carol Schoonouer, Margie Olson, Kathy Vigesaa, Cynthia Sether, Ceceile Myhra, Nancy Carlson and Myrna Anderson.

Judging was based on the garment construction, style and modeling. Out of a possible 100 points 65 were based on the costume on the girl and 35 were on quality workmanship. Points were deducted for imperfections.

A special lamb luncheon will be held at noon in the Union and each girl will model her outfit in the Style Review at 1 p.m.

This year's winner will compete in the national contest in Denver, Colo. Contestants must use 100% American-loomed wool fabrics and the work must be entirely by them. Only winners of district contests are eligible for the state contest.

Bogey Bowling Tops SU Days

By Nancy Flatt

Often acclaimed as the center of our campus interest is the Memorial Student Union, and this was definitely true during Union Days Nov. 17-18. The Student Union Activities Board was in charge of the festivities and scheduled a number of events to keep the Union "jumping."

Luck rather than skill was needed to win the Blind Bogey Bowling Tournaments which were a main feature of Union Days.

Usually from the bowling alley came cries of "I won, my score is higher than yours," but this was completely immaterial in the Blind Bogey Bowling. The winners were decided at the end of the afternoon when sealed envelopes were opened which contained the winning combinations. Such things as lowest score at the end of the third frame decided the winners, rather than the usual skill.

Six winners took home prizes after the two afternoons of bowling. The prizes were two pair of bowling socks to each winner. Recipients were Mike Saba, Jim Stockman, Dick Lundstrom, Doug Ward, Robert Berg and Gary Spangelo.

Variety was not left out of Union Days and it was the main attraction at the Variety Show held Thursday night. All the sororities and a number of the fraternities worked up acts for the show.

DON'T BE FOOLED BY THE DISGUISE, it's really two NDSU Coeds telling the crowd at the Student Union Variety Show "what every man should know." The two girls are Bev Sundeen and Bonita Bohnsak.

Viewing Intramurals

By Fred Wright

Intramural activities were somewhat halted by Thanksgiving vacation and the first, and I hope last, blizzard of the year. The volleyball playoffs were postponed and bowling leagues were cancelled.

However, the storm brought with it more than four feet of snow. The winter sports, basketball and ping pong, will start December 13, the first week after registration. Rosters and entry fees are due by Monday, December 5.

The Pharmacy Club leads all of the bowling teams with 12,945 total pins. Jerry Lingen, who bowls for TKE I, has the highest average at 196. He has bowled in 16 games and has 3,141 total pins.

Engineer's League: AIEE II over ASAE I three games to one, AIEE II over AIEE I three games to one, ASAE II over AIEE I three games to one and SPD split with ASCE two games apiece.

Classic League: Co-op II over Kappa Psi II three games to one, SPD over Sigma Chi III three games to one, SAE III over TKE II three games to one and Farm House III split with Churchill I two games apiece.

Major League: Gamma Delta over ATO II three games to one, Farm House II over Sigma Chi II three games to one, AGR II over Vet's Club I three games to one and Dakota Hall I over Stockbridge I four games to none.

BISON BITS

The NDSU basketball team opened the 1960-61 season at Des Moines, Iowa against Drake last night and will return in time to make their home debut against the Concordia College Cobbers tomorrow night at the fieldhouse.

Following the Saturday night contest the Bison will host the Phillips Oilers Tuesday, Dec. 6.

So the 15 member squad of the Bison are in for some tough competition, perhaps the toughest they will encounter all year.

Coach Chuck Bentson felt that these exhibition games would give his team an idea as to how they stand. He he said, "playing such veteran clubs gives us a good test."

Bentson also thought that they would have a good game with Concordia tomorrow night. He felt, "If Concordia can best St. Cloud on St. Cloud's home court they must have something."

He also said that the Cobbers will be a more experienced ball club than our own Bison but will be at a height disadvantage.

These factors plus the fact that the Bison will be returning from a tiresome road journey and the Cobbers will be playing their third game should make tomorrow night's ball game a thrilling battle.

The Bison will really not be in full force for this week's games. All-American Marv Bachmeier is suffering from a bad ankle and Soph. forward Wayne Langen is ineligible because of lack of residency. If it weren't for Langen's ineligibility he would likely be considered a starter.

The NDSU basketball team should definitely "be a team to beat" in the North Central Conference this year. When Bentson was approached as to what he thought of the other clubs in the NCC, he said, "Iowa State Teacher's College are undoubtedly the favored of the league, followed by South Dakota State, South Dakota University, and Augustana."

Sewing Course Job Interviews Is Available

Miss Emily Reynolds, acting chairman of the Textiles and Clothing department in the School of Home Economics, has announced that freshman clothing construction courses will be available to a few non-majors winter and spring quarters.

However, it is necessary to take a pre-test for sectioning purposes. These tests will be given by appointment the week of December 5-8. Call NDSU Extension 252 for an appointment with Mrs. Alice Rising, who will administer the pre-test.

Fundamental clothing problems, T. & C. 124, is a five credit course; it will be given to those whose pre-test indicates little or no background in clothing construction.

Fundamental clothing problems, T. & C. 128, a three credit course will be the same subject matter which is covered in T. & C. 124, but to those who by indication of the pre-test, have more clothing construction background.

Also Textiles and Clothing 127, Textiles, is available to non-majors without taking a pre-test. There will be two sections of T. & C. 127 offered.

Textiles 124 will be offered at 9 a.m. on Monday and Wednesday;

The Malta Irrigation District, Malta, Montana is currently seeking to employ a graduating engineering student with some irrigation operation and maintenance experience. This work would be under Region 6 of the Bureau of Reclamation and would begin at the annual salary of $5,200 dollars with increases each year. Duties would include making surveys for canal cleaning and construction, drainage surveys and technical assistance to water users.

Any interested student should contact the Placement Office for additional information.

The city of Oakland, California has openings for junior engineers in the Street Department and in the Port Department. All interested Civil Engineering students are requested to contact the Placement Office and obtain the necessary application forms. Starting salaries for these positions are $553.00 and $550.00 per month.

Health Survey Consultants, Inc. are interested in contacting undergraduate students on Tuesday and Thursday; and from 1 to 3 p.m. on Friday.

T. & C. 128 will be offered from 10 to 12 a.m. on Tuesday and Thursday and at 8 a.m. on Friday.

Druid: Pangloss, what are you doing in bed—it's afternoon.
Pangloss: I was up late last night.
Druid: Didn't you have class today?
Pangloss: Yes, but I was too tired.
Druid: Why didn't you go to bed earlier?
Pangloss: I didn't want to miss anything.
Druid: My, my, you really live in the present, don't you?
Pangloss: No, no, not at all, but Eclectos insulted me and I had to make my point.
Druid: What was the discussion?
Pangloss: Well, I told Eclectos that I wanted to get my degree and he said "that's fine, but what do you want to do when you grow up?"
Druid: Well, I can see why you don't get up in the morning.

Do you have a good name for the bookstore? You may win $10.

"This place has been called so many things for so long, it's about time we give it a name," says Dick Kasper, manager of the campus bookstore.

Everyone has a chance to give his suggestion for the new name. Entries are to be left at the bookstore with the complete name and address of the person who made it before December 3.

After the closing of the contest, entries will be judged by a group of Union staff members.
