Sharivar Program Continues; Students To Appear On Radio

Some of the newest and oldest things under the sun will be combined in Sharivar according to Bruce Anderson and Ona Carlson, co-chairmen.

New under the sun will be the replica Echo Satellite, a fresh-from-the-assembly-line sports car to be subjected to laboratory tests by mechanical engineers, new products including Stramit, a straw wallboard made in North Dakota, new farm and industrial equipment, potato flakes, and a review of spring clothes from the world of fashion.

Under the “old” category will be found a piece of spruce wood estimated at being 10,000 years old found near Fargo recently, a collection of shoes dating back to the last century and representing 24 countries, a collection of 34 types of iron, fossils hundreds of thousands of years old, and medieval literature.

A “cloud chamber” that isolates radioactive particles, cocktail glasses and other items produced on-the-spot in a glass blowing demonstration, the fermentation of alcohol, and pieces which were made in the paint chemistry laboratories will be subjected to tests to determine how they stand up to heavy impacts and attacks by scrub brushes and mops, as laboratories will be subjected to alcohol, and paints which were demonstrated, the fermentation of alcohol, and pieces which were made in the paint chemistry laboratories will be subjected to tests to determine how they stand up to heavy impacts and attacks by scrub brushes and mops, as laboratories will be subjected to laboratory tests by mechanical engineers, new products including Stramit, a straw wallboard made in North Dakota, new farm and industrial equipment, potato flakes, and a review of spring clothes from the world of fashion.

MOVING THE PROPS FOR “SOUTH PACIFIC” into the Field House wasn’t the easiest task as these three NDSU students found out. This back drop was carried from the Sheppard Arena to the Field House by Byron Barneshen, Ken John and Kirby Erickson.
Guest Editorial:

Despite the fairly extensive presentation of the dormitory location in The Red River Scene and several issues of The Spectrum, it is my feeling that many people on campus still do not understand the concerns of those of us opposed to the present sites.

As a whole, I would like to further explain our actions and point of view.

First of all, despite the fact that a delay in this matter creates a difficult situation for all persons involved, we are firm in our stand that our present dormitories are not located in the best interest of the long-term needs of the University.

Very Much At Stake

The planned expenditures are very considerable, a permanent dormitory should be an accomplishment needed and far too much is at stake for the future growth of NDSU to take a short term view in this matter.

We suggest, for instance, that the already existing master plan has not been given sufficient consideration.

Because the space near the new greenhouses already has been preempted for other purposes, the new agricultural science building must be badly located. Not only is it on a con siderable distance from Merrill Hall, but it also is removed from the other buildings that are an integral part of the work to be done in this new structure.

The people involved in the situation is important. If other sites for instructional buildings or dormitories or non-teaching structures, we still do not understand the real concern.

AAS Will Have Problems

In terms of present planning, the facilities needed for Arts and Sciences, for example, are supposed to be built at a considerable distance from both the Library and Minned Hall.

Because other universities have realized the irony of this type of situation, because other architects have pointed out the need for functional planning and because we do not believe in such enlightened expansion, we cannot accept the idea of a new dormitory being built on the campus.

What About Food Service?

A second concern of the faculty members is related to the nature and location of the dormitories themselves. At this point it appears that we will need to house an increasing number of students in on-campus facilities. Since this is the case, it is absolutely necessary that very careful planning go into providing these facilities.

Countless colleges and universities have faced this problem and their experience indicates what we might consider here. Initially there is a need to keep the number at a size large enough to provide dormitories with plenty and the other food service facilities. It would be unfortunate if the locations of the Union and Ceres Hall were simply the models to cope with the noon rush, and yet we prepare to erect two more dormitories without attempts to alleviate this situation.

Moorehead State College, with an enrollment amounting to less than half our own, is about to construct a new food service unit east of Dahl Hall. Eventually this student common will be in the center of a dormitory quadrangle and will serve three other units similar to Dahl Hall.

MSC Will Benefit

This type of planning is similar to that used on most other campuses and will make possible a more pleasant eating experience for a greater share of the student body at Moorhead State.

The question arises then as to whether the dormitories themselves would be used for our new dormitories. There is no room available in the Old Campus area to provide separate dining rooms in each of these units would be too expensive. Furthermore, any two of these buildings could not also provide for the needs of future dormitories located elsewhere on our campus.

Yet another concern relative to the dormitories involves the location of dormitory planning and recreation programs of these units. The University of Wisconsin provides an outstanding example of overall planning in these respects.

The men's dorms at that school were located adjacent to tennis courts, large parking facilities and large open areas that could be used for band and other athletic activities. In addition, the individual dormitories at Wisconsin were built to house between 70 and 80 students. This latter decision was made after consultation with the University counseling staff. These official findings of the unit would expedite academic counseling, provide for the in-person, hands-on counseling among the house residents and make the necessary functional sites similar to those held in the fraternity and sorority house.

It is in the opinion of a great many that a dormitory is perhaps too expensive for us to use at NDSU. Still, in terms of the other points discussed here, I wonder if we should not do additional long-term plans for our proposed new dormitories.

There are other reasons that have been presented as to why the dormitory locations are not considered to be desirable. They include the potential traffic on 12th Avenue North, need for off-street parking on campus, and concern for unforeseen and unforeseeable future planning of the University.

Re-Evaluation Asked

To many of us these and the points made above constitute a reasonable basis for re-evaluating the present plans for dormitory construction. We are earnest in our petition and we wish to be fair to all concerned.

We do not question the recommendations of the Board of Higher Education in this matter, and I for one will accept what they consider to be the best judgment.

I think, however, that our case be given consideration. If it is true, yet I have only assumed that the Board and the Administration are prepared to prove that they have served the interests of the University, the students and the people of North Dakota.

Sincerely,

Stanley N. Murray

RETRACTION

The closing date of the April 16 issue was Friday, May 12, 1963.

The students opining its dormitory locations has not died down.

However, whether or not the current campaign succeeds in changing the locations, it has brought into the spotlight a few more important issues.

First, is the long-range campus plan worth the money? Will it meet the needs of the University and North Dakota 10, 20 and even 50 years from now?

No, it's impossible to make a decision on million these days. If it is, then I am afraid, why do all more money for pipe tax is far too expensive . Furthermore, any the celebrities take in the spring cause they are not able to take advantage of the day off.

And certainly the charges and defenses offered in this matter raise another question. How exactly are buildings planned on the NDSU campus? How are they determined? Who is in charge of advising?

There are obvious there are glaring weaknesses in the planning report of the student body and at least 25% of the student body would stand up and be counted as opposing it.

Coed Receives $100 Scholarship

Alice Dill, H Ec fr, received a $100 scholarship for her sophomore year from the North Dakota State Association of Future Homemakers of America at its 14th state convention dinner Apr. 7 at the Elks Club in Fargo.

At NDSU, Miss Dill has been active in Tryota, in college drama club, and in Lutheran Student Association. In high school she was active in FHA and received the state homemakers degree in 1963.

The scholarship award is based on professional promise during the freshman year in college and on evidence of need for financial assistance to further college education in home economics.

THE DEAN YOU SAVE MAY BE YOUR OWN

Now in the waning days of the school year when the hardest heart grows mellow and the air is charged with nostalgia, let us pause for a moment and pay tribute to that overworked and underappreciated campus figure, your friend and mine, the dean of students.

Policeman and confessor, shepherd and or­acle, counselor and pal, the dean of students is by far the most enigmatic of all academici­ans. How can we understand him? Well sir, perhaps the best way to take an average day in the life of an average dean. Here, for example, is what hap­pened had Thursday to Dean Killey N. Damer of Duluth­A and M.

At 6 a.m. he woke, dressed, lit a Marlboro, and went up on the roof of his house of the Founder which had been placed there during the night by high-spirited under­graduates.

At 7 a.m. he lit a Marlboro and walked briskly to the campus. (The Dean had not been driving his car since it had been placed on the roof of the girls dormitory by high-spirited under­graduates.)

At 7:45 a.m. he arrived on campus, lit a Marlboro, and climbed the bell tower to remove his secretary who had been placed there during the night by high-spirited under­graduates.

At 8 a.m. he reached his office, lit a Marlboro, and met with Der­bert Sig­fusso, editor of the student newspaper. Young Sigfusso had been writing a series of editorials urging the United States to annex Canada. When his editorials had evoked no response, he had taken matters into his own hands. Accom­panied by his sports editor and two copy monitors, he had gone over the border and conquered Manitoba. With great patience and several excellent Marlboros, the Dean persuaded him on the roof of the mining and metallurgy building.

At 10 a.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and went in quest of an intramural softball game on the roof of the law school where a campus baseball diamond had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates.

At 12 noon the Dean had a luncheon meeting with the pres­ident of the university, the business manager, and the chair­man of the English department at the bottom of the campus swimming pool where the faculty dining room had been placed during the night by high-spirited undergraduates. Marlboros were passed after lunch, but not lit owing to the dampness.

At 2 p.m. back in his office the Dean lit a Marlboro and received the Canadian minister of war who said that unless young Sigfusso gave back Winnipeg, Canada would march. Young Sigfusso was summoned and agreed to give back Winни­peg if he could have Saskatchewan. The Canadian minister of war at first refused, but finally agreed after young Sigfusso placed him on the roof of the mining and metallurgy building.

At 3 p.m. the Dean lit a Marlboro and met with a delegation from the student council who came to present him with a set of matched luggage in honor of his fifty years’ service as dean of students. The Dean promptly packed the luggage with his clothing and Marlboros and fled to Utica, New York, where he is now in the aluminum siding game.

To the dean of students and all you other hard-working academic types, here’s the new word in smoking pleasure from the makers of Marlboro—king-size unfiltered Philip Morris Cigarette. Welcome aboard!

BYE!!

Socialism! Socialism! This is the cry of many college students. It results in riots. mob action, who knows what all and just because of the word "I." Probably you're guilty of using that word. What are you trying to do... start a riot on campus? So, we've taken steps and notice the "we" accent to the column? We've made the change and the results? We'll see!

And it won't take very long. Latest news is that three couples have fallen victim to our ideology. A new diamond seals the "we" idea for Ellen Bureh, KKG, and Carl Larson, AGR.

Deciding to be communal, with pinnings are GPS, Jackie Bakkum and Kappa Psi, John Studsrud. Also Teke Rodney Ri... and Junior Judy Rehovsky.

Have you ever realized the possibilities of a training ground for the communal system that we have at NDSU? Take the dorms, now "we," as subject for some people... but anyway, the "we" idea flourishes. Roommates, two dresses, two beds, everything alike and personality conforming... including the couples in the lounges. Stil... think we need new dorms... growing campus, you know.

Growing fraternity also... From the AGR's seven new pledges. They are John Cunningham, Fred Kvomme, Vernon Lee, Robert Ross, David Rinke, Lawrence Spong and Orlan Swenson.

Not to be left out are the Kappa Psi's and their new pledges George Freeman and Dennis Raldot.

The word from the Greek women this week is of a new active at the Gamma Phi house, namely Julia Belford.

New initiates of Alpha Gamma Delta are Marlen Berg, Nicole Gullikson, Dorothy Harro, Marlene Watts and Sandra Waxler.

Scholastically we hear from the Kappa's about honors awarded at the University of North Dakota. Most superior scholarship, Marie McKinnon; highest pledge average, Marlys Skarsvag; representative junior, Bonnie Nordhe and representative senior, Nancy Atkinson.

Has anyone heard about the "bed-pushing enthusiasts at Moorhead State? This is certainly a topic that could arouse much comment; however, any comment would arouse more comment which in turn could lead to... who knows. We don't advocate this activity for the students since we still favor the college charge of packing up students between bunk beds. This is not only more economical than bed-pushing but seems to offer many possibilities in all directions.

Greek activity during the past week consists of a Monday night dinner exchange between the KD's and the AT's. Could it be that the Greeks are saving all their energies for the future Greek Week?

They're rioting in Lauderdale, seems that college students all over the country everyone know of their exist... enthuse and less admirable qualities that typify the college student his peculiar way of life... we love it!!

Our socially minded brains are now drained. No clever witcisms spring up for a smashing ending. But wait... we forgot the weather... hmmm, yes... well GOOD BYE!!

Fashion Cents
Don't Need to be Slave to Fads
by Bonnie Lillegard

"All American women can have beautiful clothes" sayeth an old clothing legend. But do we look beautiful in them?

As Miss Emily Reynolds, professor of textiles and clothing at NDSU so aptly said, "Too many of us do not see ourselves as others see us. Either our ego-refuses to believe that the image in the mirror is ourself or we are not aesthetically sensitive."

"To be fashionable does not mean being a slave to fads and fashion. The truly fashionable man or woman avoids extremes... sensitive to quality and is meticulous in his grooming. Being well dressed takes time, energy, and planning. Money is important only in so far as one plans its purchases within their budget."

Mass production has given us a wide range of styles from which to choose and at a reasonable price. From this selection we must discriminate as to which of these clothes are best for us in line, proportion, colors, and texture.

Clothes can be used as tools to hide figure faults or to put emphasis on good points.

Instead of red and yellow as the current situation, the truly fashionable ones buy clothes in these colors. Clothes are supposed to be secondary to our personalities. But bright colors worn in large areas may completely overwhelm the personality of a person. Even the quiet person who loves bright, gay colors, would prefer using these colors in smaller areas such as shoes, gloves or jewelry.

Marjorie Odegaard to Attend Citizenship Encampment

Marjorie Odegaard, H.E. soph, will attend the Encampment for Citizenship in New York City June 23 to Aug. 5.

Miss Odegaard received a $230 scholarship which covers the entire registration fee for the encampment sponsored by the American Ethical Union which is one of the members of the union.

The purpose of the encampment is a means where students from the United States and other countries can learn about each other, consider each other's problems and views on social, economic and political aspects of our country by living together for six weeks," said Miss Odegaard.

Discussion will include problems such as segregation, citizenship, current events, economic troubles and politics," pointed out Marjorie. "We wish to get your idea about our country, but we wish to receive this opportunity to tour New York City, visit the United Nations building and to see several Broadway plays.

Marjorie is a second NDSU student in the past two years to receive this opportunity to attend the encampment in New York. Two years ago, Elmos Norem, chem sr, attended this camp.

A student is good alumnus.

In his speech entitled "Alumni Responsibility to the College," Crahan emphasized the importance of participating in college activities. He stated, "You are not going to have a right to dictate...The alumni group has a right to inquire into college activities."

The function of the Alumni Board is to support the institution as much as possible. Crahan said while the alumni group has the right to inquire into college activities, it does not have the right to dictate.

In spite of its limited income, the Alumni Board's primary objective is to establish student grants.

Crahan, speaking of NDSU students, said he has noticed a superiority complex among them and added that they have nothing for which to apologize.

The final talks in the series for "Y" luncheons were "A Comparison of Our Graduates with Others from Similar Institutions" by Mr. Eustice and Dr. Quentin Stodola on Mar. 30 and "Faculty-Administration Relationships in the University" by Dr. Glenn Fisher on Apr. 6, according to Leo Johnson, YMCA executive secretary.

People, Sets and Props Combine

"And they became one!" With rehearsals, sets and orchestra moved into the Field House, the final picture of "South Pacific" is coming into focus.

Sherwood Peterson, director of the stage crew, and his crew have moved the stage sections from Sheppard Arena and have put them into permanent sets in the Field House. Construction work so far has been done in the arena and the Agricultural Engineering building. Volunteers and Blue Key members make up the crew of about 20 men who have been doing the carpenter work. The architects have been doing the painting. Byron Gackle drew up the plans for the sets.

A feeling of accomplishment is apparent now that the parts are being put together. "For awhile we were tearing things apart as we were putting them together," states Peterson. Speaking for the crew, he says, "We've made a lot of mistakes, but things are going better now. Our biggest problem is to get help on the sets.

On Wednesday, the risers from the Civic Auditorium will be assembled in the Field House. With this arrangement, a seating capacity of 2,300 will be available each night. All seats except the first 14 rows will be on the risers. All seats are numbered with the exception of the "thrust" seats in the Field House and the Little Country Theatre.

The lighting posed quite a problem when about 30,000 watts were needed and only 6,000 watts were available with the current resources of the Field House and the Little Country Theatre.

Each summer NDSU hosts the North Dakota Boy's State. A number of counselors are hired to assist in this program. The manager of men's housing, Tom Neuberger, is assisting the American Legion to prepare candidates for these positions. The dates for this activity are June 11-18. Mr. Neuberger if you would like to apply for this opportunity. The pay is approximately ten dollars a day. Prior to and following Boy's State the Future Farmers and 4-H have conventions. Interested individuals may also be able to secure counselorships with these groups.

As "South Pacific" goes into its final stages, here are a few reminders. Tickets are on sale at Daveau's in Fargo and in the Union lobby. The fraternity and sorority trophies for ticket sales, the Sharivar scholarships and the introduction of dignitaries will precede the overture Saturday night.

The group will fly July 23 to the Holy City of Rome, Italy. Five days will be spent viewing historical religious places and ancient Roman paintings and sculptures. The group will fly July 28 to Athens, Greece to see the Olympic Games. From Athens the group will fly July 29 to Cairo, Egypt. This summer may be the last time many of the historical sights along the Nile river can be seen, explained Miss Weesner, chairman related department.

The North Dakota Turkey Federation will construct a new 40 by 80 foot building west of the ND State campus, on the poultry research farm, within the next few months. The new building will be used to carry on the North Dakota Poultry Research Center's Turkey Production Test, according to Dr. Lee Bryant, chairman of the NDSU poultry department.

Any turkey breeder may enter birds in the test; however, he must furnish enough eggs to get 500 pullets and pay his $100 entry fee. The Red River Valley will furnish the eggs and give the turkey breeder 500 pullets. All birds will be fed and managed the same. Winners will be killed at 22 weeks of age and tons at 25 weeks. The measures taken will be bone measurements, width and depth of body as well as yield. United States grade will be determined. Breeders will be able to make a comparison of their flock.

The building equipment will cost $8,000. All expenses will be paid by the North Dakota Turkey Federation. There will be room for 18 entries. Fifteen entries have been accepted for the coming year. The federation will use the building and facilities six months each year. Similar tests have been successful at Minnesota, Nebraska, Kansas, North Carolina and Texas.

Dr. Fred Elliott, Michigan state agronomist, is guest speaker at the agriculture agronomy seminar in Morrill Hall until Apr. 15. Dr. Elliott is speaking on cytogenetics and plant breeding. The agriculture agronomy seminar is especially held for graduate students and staff members, but the public is urged to attend.

11,000 Tons Coal Used

Fifty thousand dollars — gone up in smoke!

More than 11,000 tons of lignite have been burned on campus from Sept. 1 until today, said Harold Anderson, manager of the NDSU power house. He reported that demands for heat pushed coal consumption at the power house to 99 tons on one especially cold day in January.

The lignite is mined at Noonan, N. D. and shipped by rail to loads used since last September

Publicity for NDSU

The intramural scene at NDSU has been rather hectic as of late. Because of the bad weather last week, all outside activities were postponed, thus causing a delay in the over-all program. The original softball program which was set up several weeks ago has also been changed. Instead of there being two leagues, as was originally planned, there will be three. This was done to allow more games to be played in a shorter length of time.

Bob Danielsen Starts Football Workouts

Spring football workouts at NDSU began Monday, Apr. 10, and Coach Bob Danielsen saw 27 members of his 1960 squad among candidates for the 1961 team. Included in that total were 21 lettermen and six 1960 squad members who did not letter. Candidates from the fresh squad and other football hopefuls were also invited to participate in spring workouts.

Danielsen and Assistant Coach Don Johnson will put their squad through 20 practice sessions between Apr. 10 and May 13, the tentative date for the Varsity-Alumni spring game.

Co-captains of the 1961 squad are Dave Gentzkow, fullback, and John Stalpes, halfback. By positions, the returning lettermen are:

- Tackles: Rodney Coyle, Willis Harmon Krause, and Robert Yaggie
- Guards: Richard Kaercher, Walter Rossman
- Centers: Jack Gerlach, Bob Jenkins, and Tom Reynolds

NDSU Places First in Three Track Events

Erck won the 60 yard high hurdles and the 60 yard low hurdles. Dieterle won the 60 yard dash.

Other NDSU players that placed were Neal Jacobson and Mike Anderson. Jacobson placed third in the 60 yard high hurdles and Anderson placed third in the shotput.

Local Bank Uses Campus Scenes on Checks

NDSU is receiving some unexpected publicity from the Merchants National Bank and Trust Company of Fargo through a new checking account service.

The bank wanted to publicize some facet of the Fargo community and since the checks will be used by the account holders, all over the U.S., they decided to use pictures of NDSU on the checks.

Blended into the background of the checks are pictures of: the Memorial Union, at the top, the Administration Building, on the right; the Home Economics Building, on the left; and Dakota Field in the center. At the bottom of the checks are the words: Home of North Dakota State University. The account is called "Mer-cheque" and is a dime-a-time checking account for people who only write a few checks a month.

Dear Dr. Frood:

DEAR DR. FROOD: I am a sophomore majoring in architecture. Our college has just completed a magnificent carillon tower. Yesterday, while examining the blueprints, I was horrified to discover that the tower will collapse at 3:30 P.M., June 3, 1964. I have taken my calculations to the dean, to the architects, to the builders, to the president of the college. No one will pay any attention to me. I am desperate. What can I do to avert disaster?

Frood

Dear Frantic: You've done your best, son. Now, for your own peace of mind, won't you join me in a short trip to Las Vegas to see what kind of odds we can get?

Dear Dr. Frood: I've been writing poems to a certain girl for about five months. Yesterday I found out that this girl and her friends get together to read my poems and laugh at them. Do you think I should stop writing to her?

Frood

Dear Upset: Definitely not. There are all too few humorous poets writing today.

Tom Neuberger
Stresses Dress
For Track Team

By Neal Jacobson

Neatness, perseverance, self-discipline, promptness, responsibility, and willingness to work hard are the basic qualities that Tom Neuberger, after much research at North Dakota State University, desires to develop in his athletes. This explains the vigour of the training rules for his Cinderella.

Neuberger feels that by setting his boys to dress properly on road trips, he's aiding them, NDSU, and the spirit of the squad. These athletes are men now and are representing the school, therefore it's only right to expect them to dress accordingly,” commented Neuberger. A reward for dressing sloppily is the carrying of the athletic equipment used during the meet. Also, a member of the team can merit this duty by being late for departure in the mete or late to regular practices sessions. Often lateness for departure results in being left behind.

"No extra points are given on meals on trips is probably one of the reasons we have no fairs out for track,” explained Neuberger. “Collegiates find it hard to give up their mid-day snacks.” To aid the athletes self-discipline traits, Neuberger lets the track men buy all their own meals if caught buying a free meal.

The earning of 15 points and taking five or less cuts during the season are requirements for receiving an award at the end of the season. For each one extra point has to be obtained. Points are earned by placing in meetings. A first place gives five points, a second, four, a third, three, a fourth, two, and fifth, one. Neuberger feels that some stipulation must be put on the number of cuts an athlete may have, for springtime offers too many distractions. “Hard work, perseverance, and desire are necessities in developing both, especially in track,” expressed Neuberger.

Bachmeier’s Jersey Has Been Permanently Retired

and major honors received, eight interested in the college and plans for it. For, but his many great games obliterate the few bad ones.

In recognition of this great athlete, the college retired the famous 24 jersey worn by Marvin Bachmeier in his years at NDSU. “The famous number will only be seen in a glass case situated in the fieldhouse.

This is the first time in the history of the college that a number of a great athlete has been retired.

This undoubtedly means that the college recognizes him as one of the greatest players ever to perform on the campus.

We, along with everyone else, salute this great athlete and say “thanks” for your contributions to North Dakota State University.

NDSU Students Attend Workshop On Recreation

Thirteen NDSU students took part in a recreation workshop Saturday, Apr. 8, at the Student Union, sponsored by the University 4-H Club. Kenneth Olson and Dwight Palmer, both of the state 4-H office, conducted the workshop.

The importance of organized recreation, the equipment needed and how to direct games, mixers, and square dances was stressed at the workshop, said Olson.

Students who had had previous leadership experiences attended the morning workshop. They practiced directing recreation and learned to do advanced dances.

The beginner's group learned how to direct and took turns leading dances.

The purpose of the workshop was to assist all the fraternities.

Peace Corps Applications Available

Peace Corps volunteer questionnaires are available to students and faculty in the Communications Office, downstairs in Old Main.

The questionnaires, when filled out and sent to Washington, will be reviewed to determine the number of qualified persons available for Peace Corps project. Ultimately the questionnaires, together with other tests and interviews, will enable the corps to make tentative selection of volunteers for specific projects. There will then be a training period in the United States for the volunteers.

U. S. citizens, 18 years old or over, including married couples without children, may file questionnaires. Volunteers should have technical ability, physical stamina and emotional stability. Proficiency in a foreign language often will be necessary. The usual length of service will be two years.

According to Olson, "was to have the students get behind the microphone and actually call. This is invaluable training in learning to direct recreation."

NDSU students attending were: Judi Frey, Jim Nelson, Myrna Anderson, Marie McKinzie, Jackie Olson, Lois Condit, Nick Rice, Cecile Myhra, Alva Manning, Dave Delter, Elvera Elness, Judy Halverson, and Edward Schmidt.

Olson and Palmer will continue their leadership training for students next Saturday, Apr. 15, at the Student Union in conference rooms 1-2-3. Advanced session is from 8:12 a.m. and the beginner's session will be from 1:50 p.m.
