"Beaver Burning Bonfire Billed As Biggest Blast, Boasts Bassin"
Editorial

American higher education has been increasingly in the news this fall.

There has been a good deal of probing into the role of higher education. Considerable concern has been shown about the problems of getting competent students into school and keeping them there. Some concern also is evident about a somewhat contradictory problem.

Is it how higher education is going to handle the students it already has or will get shortly.

The University of Minnesota, for example, is bulging under an enrollment of around 30,000 students. The efforts to handle them have meant classes in the afternoons, evenings and on Saturdays for many professors who considered 3 p.m. "nailed" as quitting time. What this has meant to the student who "wants to keep his afternoons and evenings free" for work or play one can only imagine.

A group of Minnesota college presidents was interviewed for a story in last Sunday's Minneapolis Tribune. "Why Aren't More Girls Going to College?"

One of the main answers turns out to be "lack of money." Increased tuition costs, increased housing costs and other inflation factors hit the women student probably no harder than the men students, but the women are less likely to borrow on their future. Parents also are less likely to subsidize women students than men.

But it was emphasized that women as much as men are going to need training beyond high school in the complex, mobile, highly specialized times ahead.

North Dakota's own board of higher education took time out from its pressing job of picking a new NDSU president, authorizing new dormitories and keeping a watchful eye on the taxpayer's dollar to direct a study of campus structures to determine which would be suitable for fallout shelters in the event of a thermomorphic attack.

Probably the most dramatic news has come from the University of Miami in Florida, the "Suntan U" of happy memory for many, many students who sought pleasure as much as learning on the bright Florida sea coast. A lot of new students won't have many of those happy memories.

A new executive vice president, Dr. James Goddard, former director of the Illinois Commission of Higher Education, was directed by the trustees to change the reputation of the school: to place emphasis on the university's very solid educational and research capabilities and accomplishments, and to direct the school to solved the social aspects. This, it seems, is being done with a capital "D." For an example, a Fargo Forum story dateline Miami last Sunday, May 17, pointed out the new rules at Miami U. Outlawed are such things as "Jackie Kennedy hairstyles, student parking and picnicking anywhere on campus, Tohirts, slacks, sandals, men's shorts shorter than two inches above the knees, eye shadow, beehive hairdos and fraternity parties farther than 20 miles from the campus.

The trend seems apparent. Colleges and universities are more and more starting to put emphasis on those who are interested in education and less and less on entertaining those who are interested in entertainment.

Job Interviews

MINNESOTA HONEYWELL REACTOR COMPANY will be represented on campus by Howard E. Eckstrom, corporate director of employment. He will interview for all divisions of the company, offering employment opportunities in design and development engineering, sales, manufacturing engineering and industrial engineering. Primary consideration will be given to December and March graduates; however, spring graduates with a special interest in Honeywell are welcome.

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE will send representatives to our campus seeking contact with students interested in career opportunities with the Foreign Service. Any student interested in filling application to take the examination this year will be given assistance and general information on assignments. Any undergraduate student interested in future appointments is also requested to contact the placement office on their campus to meet with the department representatives. The service requires officers trained in public and business administration, economics and related subjects in addition to individuals with a background in history, political science, language and area studies.

NOTE: All senior and graduate students are again urged to complete employment credential files at the placement office.

STUDENT AND FACULTY attended the YWCA "Campus Coffee" last Tuesday in Melrose Lounge in the Union. The coffee hours are held every Tuesday from 4 to 5 p.m. and are open to the public. Guest speakers or discussion groups are featured.

Besides, that we have received complaints that this building of that did not get any Spectrum this week, and usually it is because the copies go so quickly. Don't get us wrong, we wait and do appreciate your comments."
The GIRL I LEFT BEHIND ME

It happens every day. A young man goes off to college, leaving his home town sweetheart with vows of eternal love, and then he finds that he has outgrown her. What, in such cases, is the honorable thing to do?

Well sir, you can do what Rock Sigafoos did. When Rock left Cut and Shoot, Pa., he said to his sweetheart, "Well sir you can do what Rock Sigafoos did."

He knew that anyone who smoked Marlboros was modern and advanced and so stumped with brains as a ham with cloves. Good sense tells you that you can't beat Marlboro's exclusive selectrate filter, and you never could beat Marlboro's fine flavor. This Rock knew.

So all day he followed Fata around campus and listened to her talk about Franz Kafka, and then in the evening he went back to the dormitory and found this letter from her home town sweetheart Tess:

"Dear Rock,

Us kids had a keen time yesterday. We went down to the pond and caught some frogs. I caught the most of anybody. Then we hiked rides on trucks and did lots of stuff like that. Will, I must close now because I get to Whitlock's fence."

Your friend,

Tess"

Well sir, Rock thought about Tess and then he thought about Fata and then a great sadness fell upon him. Suddenly he knew he had outgrown young, innocent Tess, her heart now belonged to smart, sophisticated Fata. Rock, being above all things honorable, returned forthwith to his home town and walked up to Tess and looked her in the eye and said maudlin, "I do not love you any more. I love a girl named Fata Morgana. You can hit me in the stomach with all your might if you like.""

"That's okay, boy," said Tess unsympathetically, "I don't love you neither. I found a new boy."

"What is his name?" asked Rock.

"Franz Kafka," said Tess.

"A splendid fellow," said Rock and shook Tess's hand, and then he thought about Franz Kafka, and then in the evening he went back to the dormitory and found this letter from his home town sweetheart Tess:

"Dear Rock,

now resides at the Villa Nazareth.

AWS Council Plans Fall Meet; Coeds Urged to Attend

Association of Women Students Council met Monday evening and discussed plans for the fall AWS mass meeting set for Oct. 26.

The council is composed of a representative from each of the organizations for women on campus. Every girl registered at NDSU is automatically a member of AWS.

The Intercollegiate Association of Women Students, which AWS is a member, is the only national women’s students government group in the United States. The AWS program at NDSU tries to assist women to accept, adjust to and develop the potential within themselves.

In a message to women students in the recently published AWS brochure, Dean of Women, Matilda Thompson, said, “I am deeply aware of the pressure on university girls today. Therefore, I too, am interested in a program which will help you to function in a creative way.”

“Realize yourself for what you are, an intelligent, sensitive and ideal young woman with your future before you. Who can predict what you may accomplish?” Dean Thompson urges all women students to take an active part in AWS at NDSU.

New Trend

This new design trend in men's hats is being featured this fall with a sculptured swirl on the crown and a high rolled brim on sides and back.

HATS HAVE BEEN KNOWN to cause riots, results in imprisonment in Siberia, and even win brides. Some famous historical styles are shown here, but there are others that may strike modern man as even more curious. On some hats, men wore models of ships; other hats had gold, pearls and precious stones placed in the crown!

If you think women's hats are bizarre, consider some famous hats of men: the hat worn by freemen of Rome (barred to Jews); the crown is also unusual, since it has a modified telescope treatment in back, which becomes an off-center, raised effect in front.

HOW THEY STARTED

It's curious how some hat styles began. William Bowler, an English hatter, in 1850 designed a hard, round felt hat with a flat brim and a low, modified-crowned crown. The Earl of Derby made it popular by wearing it to the races at Epsom Downs — whence the Derby hower.

In 1811, Louis Kosuth, a Hungarian patriot, and his followers arrived in New York wearing large, black, soft-felt hats, trimmed with buckles and plumes. The soft-felt hat caught on, and today felt is the material used in most hats.

Almost every scientifically trained man can find stimulating and rewarding career opportunities within the broad spectrum of Pratt & Whitney Aircraft activities.

From the solid foundation of 36 years as a world leader in flight propulsion systems, P&W development activities and research investigations today are far ranging. In addition to continuing and concentrated development effort on air breathing and rocket engines, new and exciting avenues are being explored in every field of advanced aerospace, marine, and industrial power applications.

The reach of the future ahead is indicated by current programs. Presently, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft is exploring the fringe areas of technical knowledge in supersonic aerodynamics, thermonuclear and thermo-electric conversions, hyper sonic propulsion, fuel cells and nuclear power.

To help move tomorrow closer to today, we continually seek ambitious young engineers and scientists. Your degree? It can be in: MECHANICAL & AERONAUTICAL, ELECTRICAL & ELECTRONIC, CHEMICAL & NUCLEAR ENGINEERING & PHYSICS, METALLURGY & CERAMICS, MATHEMATICS & ENGINEERING SCIENCE OR APPLIED MECHANICS. The field still broadens. The challenge grows greater. And a future of recognition and advancement may be here for you.

For further information regarding an engineering career at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, consult your college placement officer or write to Mr. R. P. Azinger, Engineering Department, Pratt & Whitney Aircraft, East Hartford, Conn.
Chinese Adopting Western Ideas

"If the Chinese are agressive, it is because they have learned the Western art so well," said Dr. Francis L. K. Hau, chairman of the department of anthropology at Northwestern University at convocation Sept. 28 at Festival Hall. Dr. Hau's topic was "A View on China and Why People are Thinking Against Chinese Culture." Being a Chinese, he had an intimate knowledge about his country. Dr. Hau was born in Manchuria, educated in China and England and taught in southwestern China before coming to the United States in 1944.

It explained that every society has a way of life and as time passes, this way of life changes. He went on to compare East and West cultures.

Chinese art is literally paintings of non-human subjects. The people depend on the principles of clothes, hairdos and makeup to reveal the individual.

Western cultures almost always use human subjects and try to reveal their emotional files.

Chinese novels contain realistic problems of life whereas Western novels tend to overdo religion and polytheist problems of life whereas Western countries believe in one true God.

The family centers around the father and son in China. In the United States, home life centers around the husband and wife relationship.

Dr. Hau said that every individual seeks three things besides food, water and shelter. These are sociability, security and status.

In China these three things are usually found in their own family groups. If they are not, they must go outside their groups to obtain these. In Western cultures, we must go outside of the small group.

Freedom and equality are not produced in Chinese culture. Dr. Hau said that there is going to be more poverty because the people do not have the aspirations for freedom. People can be happy as slaves if they know no other way of life.

All the rebellions and reactions against the West in China have been "brewing" for years. These stem from the fact that the West wants China to take on new ideas. "China must have new things - new ways of life," says the West.

It is not an East-West struggle today. It is a Western struggle in which the East is involved.

He was graduated from Luther Theological Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., with a Bachelor of Theology, and received a Master of Systematic Theology in New York. This past summer he attended graduate school at Pacific Lutheran Theological Seminary in Berkeley, Calif.

The Lutheran Campus Mission of North Dakota, with approval of the Lutheran Foundation Board of NSDU, called Pastor Kvinge. The campus ministry is offered to students on the campus as well as to interested faculty members. According to Pastor Kvinge, "There are 1500 Lutheran students on campus from churches affiliated with the National Lutheran Church."

"The young people are full of real fine spirit and genuine enthusiasm," stated the pastor. "I enjoy working with them very much."

Pastor "Stan," as the LSA'ers call him, is married and has two children, Heidi, seven, and Nathan, four.

A five-point program of worship, study, evangelism, service, and recreation is planned by Pastor Kvinge and officers of the LSA.

"This campus ministry to Lutheran students is a cooperative effort of several Lutheran synods," said Pastor Stan. The National Lutheran Council church gives financial and service support to this campus ministry in advisory and auxiliary capacities.

"Leadership - Effective Group Behavior" is the topic of a leadership workshop, sponsored by the Commission of Inter-Campus Affairs, Saturday, Oct. 7 from 9 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. in the ballroom of the Memorial Union.

By observing and discussing role-play situations concerning problems encountered by students, participants will see leadership in action. By seeing groups in action and being shown methods of observing group action, it is hoped that the workshop participants will be able to broaden their concepts as to what constitutes good leadership and will become more effective members of the groups to which they belong.

All campus organizations are invited to send representatives to the workshop. Persons interested in attending should contact Ray Hendrickson, Commissioner of Inter-Campus Affairs, or leave their names in the University YMCA Office.

The first prize will be $2,000-00 and the second prize will be $1,000-00 plus five Honorable Mention awards of $100.00 each. All entries are to consider and discuss the following points:

2. The "Bill of Rights" and its privileges and limitations.
3. The individual's obligations to a government which derives its just power from the consent of the governed.
4. Can an individual's actions affect the fortunes of a nation? Give an example from the last 25 years.
5. From the same period, give an example of a nation whose fortunes were adversely affected by general indifference to patriotic ideals.

BISON BITS

NDSU Bison Face Tough Panthers

By SHERRY BASSIN

Tomorrow night Dakota field will be the scene of a 60 minute sudden death, one full match between two highly ranked football teams.

The highly "touted" State College of Iowa Panthers will come to town tomorrow and it is expected they won't be coming to wrestle.

The peculiar point involved is that Iowa will face our North Dakota State University Bison and our Bison are hoping that the result will indicate they should have brought their wrestling team.

Whatever we are hoping for will not decide the final outcome, but one thing the fans can be sure of and that is an exciting, hard fought football game is likely to take place at Dakota field tomorrow night.

The Iowans will make the trip with 17 returning lettermen from last year's North Central championship squad.

LETTERMEN START

Both teams will start a letterman at each position. The Panthers will start seven seniors and four juniors as compared to eight starting seniors and three juniors for the Bison.

The Iowa club will almost be a duplicate of the club that beat NDSU 18-7 at Cedar Falls last year.

TEAMS ARE COMPARABLE

The average overall weight of SCI is 194 pounds. This is just one pound lighter than NDSU's 195. Their line averages 201 as compared to our 204, while our backfield averages two pounds lighter, 181-183.

Both teams have won their first two games this year and needless to say both will be looking forward to adding to their winning list.

DEFENSE LOOKS GOOD

The Panther's defense made an impressive showing last week in not allowing the opposition to cross the 50 yard line in the entire 60 minutes of play. Mankato State was the victim and lost 19-0.

Well, the defending NCC champions State College of Iowa Panthers will be here after enjoying one of the finest football seasons in the school's history and according to indications this far, the Panthers are still running wild.

DON'T FORGET THE BISON

In the meantime, while Iowa has been causing more notice than the Berlin crisis, the Bison have opened the eyes of those concerned.

In their two games played this year they have scored 62 points while their defense has allowed only 12. As a note of interest, since the name change, the Bison have a for and against average of 123-19, two lighter, 181-183.

BISON ROSTER RECOGNITION

The Bison backfield has been performing like diesel engines with wide open throttles. In the two games played this year, big "Diamond" Dave Gentzkow has rolled up 246 yards in 49 carries. John Staples has averaged the yardage with 220 yards in 36 tries and Roger Viliareal has gained 86 yards for 27 attempts.

The NDSU offense has gained 706 yards while the opposition has moved for 219 yards against the Bison.

Besides this impressive backfield, the Bison boast a solid, hard-hitting line. They have had their lapses but this sometimes happens.

In last Saturday night's game against SDI, we thought that lineman Bob Vaggie and George Thole played particularly good ball for the green and yellow. They seemed to be at the right place at the right time which usually stems from playing "heads up ball".

There are many other names I could mention that are synonymous with good ball playing.

Thus, all indications point toward an exciting football game tomorrow night and you better be there.

STEAM HEAT for the new girls' dormitory seems assured as workmen connect the big utility pipes in the ditch you cross going from Old Main westward on the campus south side.

29 Keglers Report for Bison Bowling

Candidates for the bowling team at North Dakota State University attended workouts this week with 29 students reporting for the organizational meeting for the squad.

This is the ninth season that NDSU has had a bowling team, and during the past eight years, Bison bowlers have won 85 matches and lost 32. Last season, Coach Gordon Tiegens led the team to its best season, winning 14 matches and losing four.

Two of the members of that team are among the candidates for the 1961-62 squad — Larry Anderson, Stan Pfeifer and Jim Anderson. Stan Pfeifer, a member of the team two years ago, is also a candidate.

Spencer Druin is the only other senior candidate for the squad. Sophomores working out for the squad are: John Peterson, and Jerry Sjue.

Junior candidates are: Albert Berger, Larry Duurstadt, Elroy Foltstad, Charles Forslund, Adrain Rorbel, and Bryan Thompson.

TWO OF NDSU's dynamic backfielders are shown during practice for tomorrow night's game against the State College of Iowa at Decatur Field. John Staples and Dave Gontiskow, co-captains of the 1961 team, have already acquired much yardage for the Bison and add much to the team's hopes for a winning year.
