Sevrinson Receives Award; Honor Students Recognized

"I've come up this aisle many times, but never for an occasion like this," said Charles A. Severinson, dean of students, when he accepted the Blue Key Doctor Of Service Award at the 27th annual Honors Day convocation in Festival Hall Wednesday.

The award was presented by Don Bischof, president of Blue Key and master of ceremonies. The Doctor of Service is an annual award given to an administrator or an instructor who has given outstanding service to the college and the state. A portrait of the Doctor will be placed in a special gallery in the library.

Collette Buhr, president of Senior Staff announced the new members for that organization. They are Betty Dahm, Marlys Dietrich, Nancy Flatt, Lorna Gunderson, LaDonna Hagen, June Huetter, Sandra Johnsgard, Helen Raney and Carol Solberg.

Mrs. Herbert R. Albrecht has been selected as an honorary member of Senior Staff.

291 fellowships, scholarships and awards were presented or recognized at the convocation. Included were the Rhodes Scholarship to David Schindler, AAS sr and two fulbright scholarships to Mark Siefken who is studying in Germany and Allen Bjergo, who will study in Norway.

Dr. Paul C. Sandal, associate professor of agronomy received the Alpha Zeta Agricultural Teacher Award.

The Danforth Agricultural Freshman Award went to Palmer Holden and George Duemeland, Ag jr, received the Danforth Summer Fellowship.

Tau Beta Pi Freshman awards were given to four students with the highest scholastic average in engineering. They are Edwin Anderson, John Bjornholt, William Broste and James Klusman.

Betty Dahm, Michael Canning, Carroll Nelson, Robye Lahlum and Dennis Brovold were named as the top scholars in the junior class.

Honors day is sponsored annually by Blue Key and Senior Staff. The awards and honors day committee headed by Dr. John Hove, included Leo Hertel, Dean Matilda B. Thompson and Ernst Van Vlissingen.

University Council Changes Rules

At its April meeting, the University Council amended two academic regulations concerning student registration and dropping of courses. The following amendments are changes from existing regulations as printed in the catalog:

1. A student will be permitted to register for 19 credit hours per term without petition instead of the 18 hour limit previously in effect. The excess credit hour fee of $2.00 per hour will apply to registrations in excess of 19 hours, not 18.

2. Students no longer will be permitted to drop a course after the fourth week of a term. The existing regulation permits a student to withdraw from a given course after the fourth week with the approval of the student's advisor and academic Dean. The new regulation means that the student must have his drop slip approved and in the Admissions and Records Office prior to the first day of the fifth week of classes. Drop slips presented after the fourth week cannot be accepted. This regulation goes into effect with the 1962 summer sessions.

In other action, the University Council deleted the entire section on attendance from the catalog and replaced it with a single regulation, "It is the responsibility of the student to meet the attendance requirements of his individual classes." The Council also amended the section of the catalog pertaining to outside work programs. These regulations were changed to eliminate the specific work hour limits but to retain a provision that students permitted to hold part time jobs may be required to limit their registrations each quarter and consequently need additional quarters to complete graduation requirements.

These regulations, as amended, are to become effective with the 1962 summer sessions.

Commissioning Set For May 18

Major General Frank Hamilton Britton, U. S. Army XIV Corps Commander, will speak at ROTC commissioning ceremonies in Festival Hall, Friday, May 18 at 4 p.m.

Twenty-eight Army ROTC cadets and six Air Force ROTC cadets will be commissioned Second Lieutenants at this time.

Guidon and Angel Flight, two women auxiliary military service organizations, will sponsor a reception at the Memorial Union following the commissioning ceremonies. Cadets and their family and friends, state and city officials, military personnel and campus administrators will be guests at the reception.

Revision of the Senate Constitution will be voted on Monday, May 7. All students are urged to fulfill their responsibilities by voting. The revision needs a two-thirds majority to pass. The revised constitution was in the April 19 issue of the Spectrum.

Johns Hopkins Professor To Speak At Science Meeting

North Dakota Academy of Science will open its 54th annual meeting today May 4, in the Memorial Union.

The two-day meeting will be under the direction of Dr. J. Frank Cassel, chairman of the department of zoology at NDSU and president of the academy. Scientists throughout the area will attend the meeting and present papers on research and their recent findings.

Dr. Bentley Glass, professor of biology at Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, Md., will be the guest speaker at the annual dinner meeting Friday evening. He will speak on "Biological Effects of High Energy Radiation."

Dr. Glass is a specialist on human genetics and has been a member of the committee on effects of atomic radiation of the National Academy of Sciences since 1955. He is editor of the "Quarterly Review of Biology" and a member of the board of directors of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and past president of AAUP.

The dinner meeting is a joint meeting of the Academy, the Red River Valley Section of the American Chemical Society and the Sigma Xi Club at NDSU.

MAKING MUSIC on instruments which are 500 years old is the profession of the Antiqua Players who will perform at convocation May 8. Performers are: Helene Shifrin Reps, Roberta Sterne, Frank Traficante and Colin Sterne.

Schulz Appointed Director Of NDSU Extension Service

Arthur H. Schulz has been appointed as director of the Cooperative Extension Service at NDSU announced Dr. H. R. Albrecht, NDSU president, following the approval of the State Board of Higher Education at a meeting April 26.

Schulz has had 22 years experience in extension work with North Dakota farm people before receiving the head position.

The new extension head served in extension agent positions in Adams and Towner counties during 1940-41 and returned to NDSU in 1941 as agricultural engineer with the Extension Service. He served in that capacity, supervising a staff of several assistants and associates until his appointment as assistant director of Extension Service in May 1961. Upon the retirement in July 1961 director, E. J. Haslerud, Schulz was designated to serve in an acting capacity as director. He will become director May 1.

Schulz graduated from NDSU with a bachelor of science degree in agricultural engineering in 1940. He also holds a master of science degree in agricultural engineering from NDSU.

President Albrecht also announced several changes of title of present staff members in the Extension Service to be effective May 1. The shift in titles was made to better reflect the administrative responsibilities of these staff members.

R. B. Widdifield, program leader will become associate director in charge of extension programs; Paul R. Kasson, county agent leader will become assistant director in charge of county programs; C. R. Montgomery, 4-H and YMW leader will become assistant director for youth programs and Mrs. Naurine Higgins, home economics leader will become assistant director for family living and related home programs.

Antiqua Players To Perform May 8

NDSU faculty and students will hear unfamiliar music created by the Antiqua Players at convocation, Tuesday, May 8.

Such instruments as the psaltery, the cromorne, and the viola gamba will recreate music played 500 years ago.

According to F. G. Schoff, convocation committee member, a sizable business in Europe and the United States is being developed to make careful modern reproductions of the old instruments. "Some of them, like recorders, aren't difficult to play. Quite a few people buy them to use at home for fun," he said.

Each of the Antiqua Players is an expert on a number of the instruments. Performers are: Helene Shifrin Reps, Roberta Sterne, Frank Traficante and Colin Sterne.

The program will include music from Spain, Italy, England and Flanders.

Spectrum Comments On Fourth Sharivar Praises Student Work

Sharivar is over for another year. One of the things Sharivar does best, it seems, is to bring out the leadership and the fellowship qualities of the student body.

When you consider the hours and hours of toil, the careful planning and the successful execution of myriad tasks, and the spirit that permeated the campus during all the phases of this great event, you can truly appreciate what it means to be part of a great institution.

The Sharivar Central Committee, of course, deserves the highest praise one can give. So do the other "heavy time contributors" like Blue Key, like "Damn Yankees" directors and cast and all the other faculty, administration members and students who worked to make Sharivar a success.

So, we the Spectrum staff, want to add our praise to the chorus, "You did a good job."

The Spectrum Staff

Suggests Research

A letter to the editor this week poses an interesting challenge to a new university. . . research.

The writer suggests that some studies be made to find out where Sharivar is fulfilling its purposes, and where it is failing.

We think it is undeniable that this fourth year attendance, was better than average despite bad weather.

On the other hand, not even the most optimistic supporter of Sharivar can consider the scant few hundred high schoolers scattered about Festival Hall during the Convocation as reassuring.

This, as we understand it, was the place the real "sales pitch" was made.

Along with Mr. Kramer, we think some studies are in order, but with the idea in mind that we use the information to make a still better Sharivar.

What do you think?

The Spectrum Staff

Letters To The Editors

Sharivar's Purpose Should Be Analyzed

Is Sharivar doing the job it was created to do?

That is the question that entered my mind as I observed the number of high school students on campus this weekend. It is my opinion that the Sharivar central committee, plus a delegation of faculty and administration should analyze the situation before scheduling another Sharivar.

There are some important points to consider:

● Are we drawing enough high school students to our campus to make Sharivar pay?

● Should Sharivar be aimed at the graduating high school seniors who may have already made up their minds as to which college or university they are going to attend or should it be aimed at the high school juniors?

● Should Sharivar be scheduled during a different time of the year?

● Should some of the events which presently make up Sharivar be changed or dropped?

These are just a few of the things which could be studied.

If the results prove positive, Sharivar can continue and grow to be a tradition.

If changes need to be made, some facts will be available on which to base them.

If the results are negative, I think that the university might consider dropping Sharivar because of its terrific cost in time and money.

Delmer Kramer

Student Production Praised By Student

Congratulations to all Blue Key members and their committees on another successful production.

Unless we have had the opportunity of being a part of such a great experience, I think it is hard for us to appreciate the time, work and cooperation that goes into eight weeks of intense concentration on achieving a production worthy of compliment and praise.

Being an enthusiastic observer, it was a great thrill to sit on the side lines as the show shaped up and was perfected. I love to see the cast and crew achieve great satisfaction working together under such excellent leadership and direction.

I know that each member of the Damn Yankee production will always hold these last few weeks as a profitable and worthwhile experience. Many hours and time, when well spent and appreciated are worth one wasted hour.

The Spectrum Asked:

Do you think Sharivar is worth the time and effort put into it by the NDSU students and faculty?

By JOE SCHNEIDER

No. There is a lot of time and money wasted in putting on Sharivar because most high school seniors know by this time of year which college or university they plan to attend.

"If the time and money put into Sharivar causes favorable public reactions, which I think it does, I say that Sharivar is worth the effort."

AAS fr

No. For the time that the students put in on it and the amount of high school students that attend, it is not worth it. All the high school students spend their time in the Union bowling and playing pool.

John Cox

Yes, the only factor lacking is more support by college students. If Sharivar is to continue on campus the students should adopt a gung-ho policy toward the program.

Controversial Issue In Senate Results In Heated Discussion

By JOE SCHNEIDER

The Student Senate, at their meeting last Tuesday, discussed several important issues pertaining to Sharivar, The Married Students, Monday Night Dances and other current issues, including the newly formed Legislative Research Committee.

SHARIVAR EVALUATION

During an open discussion concerning the effectfulness of Sharivar, NDSU's spring festival, many comments were brought up before the Senate by members and the advisors.

Sherry Bassin, student body president, said that he felt Sharivar was quite successful due to the number of high school students who came to our campus during the weekend.

A point was raised that maybe Sharivar was being directed at the wrong high school class. It is evident that at this time of year most seniors have already selected the college they plan to attend, thus Sharivar is failing in one of its main aims, that of encouraging graduating seniors to attend NDSU.

When it was suggested that high school juniors be invited, Don Schwartz, senate advisor, said that Sharivar is not only aimed at the high school seniors, but also parents and younger high school students. He stated the difficulty of obtaining mailing lists from any class other than the graduating one is an important reason why we don't attract more underclassmen.

Phil Hetland, the other faculty advisor, suggested that Sharivar be done away with. He disapproved of staging a carnival for the enjoyment of high school students. Because college is supposed to be an institute of higher learning, it does seem foolish that we try to convince the high school students that college is just like what they are used to, stated Hetland.

A point was then raised that maybe an open house should just be planned, and have high school students tour the campus while the college students are attending classes.

George Dumeland, finance chairman, suggested that this might not be a bad idea in view of the fact that next year the Senate will be in a financial bind.

The discussion turned back to Schwartz who quickly pointed out the bad points of the proposed system. For one thing, Schwartz stated, right now tours are always available to students who want to visit the campus. If large groups of students started going through buildings, classes would be interrupted. This is unfair to both the instructors and the college students.

No further discussion was taken on this issue, and it was left to be discussed at a later date.

CAMPUS CHARITY DRIVE

The Inter-campus Affairs report, read by Bill Findley, caused a great deal of comment among the Senators.

In the report, concerning the uniting of all the campus charity drives into one large one to be called Campus Chest Drive, Findley pointed out the success it has had on other campuses.

Bassin set up a proposal which read that the Senate, by okaying Findley's report, would be agreeing to okay the campus fund drive and the disbandment of all other charity drives on campus.

The point was then brought up questioning what power Senate has in telling organizations like Alpha Phi Omega they could not hold any more charity drives such as their annual Ugly Man Contest.

After several members voiced their disapproval of the proposal which would okay the United Campus Fund, it was dropped and the committee report was okayed. But the committee would have to do some checking into the charity drive situation before any definite action would be taken.

DEAD COMMITTEES

The next issue on the agenda was a report by Larry Salmon, representative to the Faculty-Housing Committee. Salmon said, "I won't give you a report on the committee because it would only take about two minutes."

Salmon pointed out the many disadvantages of the committee he was placed on last year. "I have found that I had enough complaints from students to fill a notebook, however the committee would not touch them because they claimed they did not fall under their jurisdiction," said Salmon. The fallacy of the committee was that the two points which they covered were both of minor importance to most of the students and this meant that the students in the housing units on campus had no place to go to voice their complaints. "The solution to this and other dead committees on campus would be to put student representation on them," stated Salmon.

"The new Married Students Organization has solved many of the problems which were not handled by the old committees," says Salmon.

One of the problems currently facing the married students right now is play ground space for their children. They claim they can not find anyone who will give them permission to use the playground equipment behind the Student Health Center on the weekends.

SOFTBALL

Two weeks ago the Intramural Board asked the Student Senate for money to erect backstops for their intramural program. The senate told the board that before any action would be taken, a cost estimation would have to be presented to them.

BISON BOUNDARIES

Roger Helgoe, speaking for the Board of Publications, told of their evaluation results concerning the student handbook titled, Bison Boundaries. From a survey taken on campus, most students hardly use the book. The majority (215-21) of the students feel that if Bison Boundaries must exist, it should be combined with the Student Directory.

FORMER SENATOR PROPOSES

Dave Foley, a former Senate member presented three proposals to the Senate last Tuesday. Contained in his paper, was a teacher and class evaluation proposal.

Bassin, thanking Foley for his concern, turned his material over to the Legislative Research Committee. Jim Olson said that if the Senate didn't take any action on these proposals, they will just be wasted, and five years from now some other person will present the same proposals to the senate.

MONDAY NIGHT DANCES

Realizing the problem of the suitcase student, Student Senate tried to put a motion across to reschedule the current Monday Night dance to the weekend. J. D. Johnson took over the floor and stated that the Senate has no right to change the night of the dance because they have no power over SUAB who runs the dances. He stated that the most the Senate could do would be to ask SUAB to reschedule the dances.

Phil Hetland said, "I believe that if you (Senate) don't have the authority to assert yourself you might as well disband." Hetland believes that the Senate does not use its power is forcing some issues such as the Monday Night Dance. "They are afraid to step on anybody's toes," stated Hetland. Regardless of their power, Johnson succeeded in preventing the Senate from changing the dance from Monday to the weekend.

DEANS LIST

The senate has adopted a deans list for the benefit of any student who can maintain a 3 point overall average for two quarters in a row. The list will be displayed to the public much like the probation list is now being handled.

SOCIAL NOTES

By JOE SCHNEIDER

Once a year the fraternities and sororities on campus nominate a member from their organization to represent them as candidates for Greek Royalty. A whole week is set up to provide the Greeks a chance to get together and have a good time. Last Monday night the organizations met in the Student Union Ballroom to hear the results from the voting for Greek Week King and Queen. Although the audience was little out of hand, this can be expected due to the competition which exists among the different fraternities and sororities. What wasn't to be expected, however, was the caliber of jokes which were presented to the audience by the masters of ceremonies.

Although the job of MC is not an easy one, and he is expected to entertain the audience, the type of low humor which was displayed was disrespectful not only to all the women present, but also to the Dean of Women and the Dean of Men.

If there was ever a good reason why independents could criticize the Greeks, it was last Monday night.

Congratulations are in order to Roger Helgoe SAE, and Betty Kay Bitterman GPB, who are presiding over the campus this week as Greek Week royalty. Bob Norum SAE pledge, and Judy Van Vlissingen KAT, have been selected as outstanding pledges for the past year.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity will hold its sweetheart ball Saturday night. Candidates for sweethearts are Lane Gunner, KAT, Ene Koivastik GPB, Maxine Jordheim GPB, Patty Dodge KAT and Mary Ann Hanson, Independent.

The TKE's entertained the Gamma Phi Betas at a picnic last Tuesday night.

Over at the SAE's dormitory, pledge Dave Swanson is engaged to Jan Brehmer, a student at St. Lukes. Every fraternity has a custom which is put into use when a pledge gets pinned, but it never has been told what happens when he becomes engaged. Makes a person stop and wonder.

Co-ed Seeks Answer To Transfer Problem

"Isn't there any solution to the problems faced by us transfer students?" remarked Doreen Johnson, AAS jr., in a recent interview.

Doreen transferred to NDSU this quarter from Dickinson State Teachers College. She has been confronted with many of the problems of a transfer student.

Doreen thinks something should be done about the situation. Many students are transferring to NDSU each quarter from other colleges. Each is faced with conflicts between their fields of study in one college and the corresponding field at NDSU.

Some have greater problems than others, depending on the college they transfer from and the course of study which they enroll in at NDSU.

Doreen places their conflicts in three general categories; number of credits assigned to corresponding courses, material covered in these courses and requirements for graduation in the corresponding fields of study.

Considering the first bracket, Doreen remarked that most of her four credit courses at DSTC transferred to NDSU as three hours. Therefore, the extra hours she accumulated would apply only as graduation requirements and not in the area of study they were taken. This leaves her with more hours to take in those areas.

After looking over the courses she has yet to take, Doreen discovered she must go to college beyond twelve quarters to complete her bachelor of science degree requirements.

One solution to this problem may be to set up a system throughout an area covering large and small colleges whereby the courses would be identical in number of credit hours and text books used.

Larger universities could set up a type of extension program covering all smaller junior and teachers' colleges in their area. A system on this order could erase many of the problems now faced by transfers. Also, it would raise the standards of higher education affecting and benefiting many people.

Works Of Camus Discussed By Schlueter

"Literature of the Absurd" was a talk given at the UCCF Coffee Hour Wednesday, April 25, in the Student Union. Paul G. Schlueter, Moorhead State College English instructor, was the speaker.

Schlueter's talk covered the ideas and writings of Albert Camus, a modern French author. Camus was born in 1913 and died in 1960. He won the Nobel Prize for Literature in 1957. Schlueter stated that Camus is one of the most influential of modern writers.

"Camus," said Schlueter, "sees the human spirit desiring to understand the world and life, but never quite able to do so." The more we try to make some sense from our existence, the more absurd life appears, according to Schlueter.

Schlueter stated that in his books, Camus rejects the idea that God and the supernatural give purpose to life, but also feels atheism isn't the answer. The answer lies somewhere between these extremes. Camus sees suicide as a defeat of man. Schlueter explained that this modern literature expresses pessimism of life, but provides no solution.

Schlueter said that, to Camus, the world is a fouled up mess with no solution of straightening or understanding the mess.

The average human life is hopeless, pointless and without meaning. Man is alien in this world which doesn't satisfy him.

Schlueter gave a review of Camus', "The Stranger". Joseph Meursault, an absurd hero who is an Algiers clerk, finds no meaning in life. He lives for one pleasure after another. In his life, Meursault strives for quantity, not quality of experiences.

....When in a fight, Meursault kills an Arab. After the killing, Meursault feels neither happy nor sad. Meursault is arrested and sentenced to the guillotine. For the first time Meursault is interested in life. He thinks of all the people who will watch his execution. Before this, Meursault had been a stranger to the world and saw death as freedom. Now, he realizes that he really was happy in life. Meursault sees that experiences and conflict give purpose to life and that indifference toward life makes for absurdity.

OLD AND YOUNG showed interest in the Sharivar exhibits last weekend. A "may be" future farmer of America tries her hand at steering a John Deere combine which was displayed in front of the agricultural engineering building. Who knows, she may be a prospective student for the College of Agriculture.

BOOTHS AND BOOTHS ranging from caricatures to a tub of water for dunking Gamma Phi made up the Sharivar Carnival, a new feature of Sharivar this year. Other features included a pie throwing contest with a human target; a wild woman's cage; basketball; a jail for visitors, both innocent and guilty; and a freak show. According to Larry Maring, chairman of the carnival committee, participating organizations did not do a "booming business" moneywise but did provide unusual entertainment for the Sharivar visitors. The carnival was held in Sheppard Arena.

Once again SHARIVAR has been a tremendous success due to the hard work and devotion put into it by all the students on the various SHARIVAR committees.

We wish to express our sincere thanks to all the students and faculty.

Symbols Suspected Of Being Rain Gods

Along with black cats on Friday the 13, open umbrellas indoors and walking under ladders comes Sharivar and the rain. NDSU students have begun to wonder about Sharky and Sharon-maybe they are some kind of rain gods because for the fourth year in a row, they have brought spring showers to NDSU.

The focal point of Sharivar festivities was the high school convocation Saturday morning with Governor William Guy as guest speaker.

"Higher education is no longer a luxury," said Guy, "it is a necessity." He stated that the national unemployment problem is not the result of a lack of jobs, but a lack of qualified people to fill them.

The Governor stressed the need for students to develop character as well as obtain grades while in college.

Another highlight was Blue Key's "Damn Yankees." "A lot of us are sorry the thing is over," said Dwayne King, student director. "It leaves me with a void and I would have liked to see the show have more runs," King said.

Incidentally, it was the stage crew who noticed the "stranger" in the first dance routine in the Saturday night show. A couple of extras were in the scene and although no one knows for sure what the motive was, many people suspect they were planning to kidnap one of the leading performers.

Five high school seniors received Sharivar scholarships at the final performance of "Damn Yankees." They are Milton Schumacke, Drayton; Bob Muehlhausen, Fargo; Dwain Greigore, West Fargo; Louis Schornack, Hillsboro and Donald Beeks, Washburn.

For the first time, a carnival was held in conjunction with Sharivar. "It was a huge success," said Larry Maring, head of the Carnival committee, "It was hard to get student groups to participate in the beginning, but it turned out very well."

Another first was Amateur Radio Day, held Sunday which gave the local hams a chance to show their skill. "Everything connected with the Ham Fest went even better than expected," stated Jim Fromke program chairman. They plan to continue it as an annual event.

Degree Offered In Home Economics

Students at NDSU can now earn a masters degree in child development and family relations, according to Miss Caroline Budewig, dean of home economics.

The State Board of Higher Education recently approved the course changes which will go into effect when school convenes this fall.

"We have a qualified staff in the area of child development and family relations as well as the facilities to make it possible to offer major work in the department at both the undergraduate and graduate levels," stated Miss Budewig.

The program change will cross list courses in home economics and arts and science. A student may receive a degree in arts and science and minor in the area of child development and family relations or may major in child development and minor in arts and science.

"Strong supporting courses in other departments as well as a cooperative arrangement with the Merrill Palmer Institute in Detroit are also available," stated Dr. William Hawkinson, chairman of the department.

The name of the department has been changed from home management and child development to child development and family relations to indicate the change in emphasis. The name change conforms to departmental designation used by the American Home Economics Association.

The curriculum change involves the addition of five new courses at each level, the deletion of three courses, and the change of titles and descriptions of three others. The new courses at the undergraduate level are: family relations, readings in child development, readings in marriage and family life education, field observations, and seminar.

On the graduate level the new courses are: child development and guidance III, child development and guidance IV, dynamics of parent-child relations, seminar, and graduate thesis and research.

"The College of Home Economics believes that the child development and family relations department should serve the entire university as well as our own major students" stated Miss Budewig. "Therefore we plan to make these courses available to students in all departments of the university as a part of general as well as professional education".

"NDSU Tops U Of Manitoba In Engineering", Student Says

"A close relationship between student and instructor is one reason why the NDSU College of Engineering is superior to that of the University of Manitoba," stated John Huzy, CE soph., who attended the University of Manitoba for a year.

Huzy pointed out that the engineering classes at the U of Manitoba numbered 100 or more students per class. This made it difficult for a person to get assistance from an instructor when the time came for additional explaining of material that wasn't understood.

Huzy further stated that due to these large classes the only effective way for a student to get to talk to his instructor was to make an appointment. Even then the instructor could see the student for about 15 minutes because of his tight schedule.

Frequent tests and adequate instructor organization are two other reasons why Huzy believes that the engineering curriculum at NDSU is better than that of the U of Manitoba.

Huzy further stated that there are several differences between the students and the way the material is taught in the two colleges. He said that at the U of Manitoba there is a competitive relationship between engineering students and the students who are enrolled in the School of Arts and Sciences. This spirit makes each student work harder.

At the U of Manitoba the student works less in the beginning of the term and increases his working rate during the last month. At NDSU the material is taught in such a manner that a person must concentrate on the material uniformly throughout the quarter if he expects to get good grades according to Huzy.

How To Appear Educated

Finals are not too far away. Although the emergence of spring has interrupted the study schedules of many, students may soon begin pushing the panic button.

For the benefit of these students, the following suggestions have been extracted from the January, 1962, issue of the Educational Forum. The validity of these suggestions should be judged by all readers with discretion.

HOW TO APPEAR EDUCATED

- Do not use the word "why?". "Why?" is almost a subversive word because it impugns the authority of the source.

- Keep eyes and ears open for names. There are a few "outstanding" professors with whom every "educated" person should be familiar. No harm can come to you if you read what they write. If that is a hardship for you, read, instead, what others have written about what they have written.

- Remember, one is almost always accepted at face value. If you don't open your mouth and reveal what might be the real truth, you pass safely with the first impression. If you must say something, make it something "gleaned from your model". Learn to listen.

- You had better not say what you think until you have a doctorate and tenure or at least five million dollars. It could be risky.

- You must be able to repeat ideas from "Thee Authority". Memorize the words right out of the book and look as if you agree when you recite them.

- Don't get yourself into the position of having drawn a conclusion of your own. It is utterly indefensible and you will go down in everyone's book as a genuine dolt.

- Remember that almost no one ever reads a learned journal. It is the most scholarly writing in the world and the objectivity of this kind of writing may needlessly upset you. The journal will serve its purpose if people "think" you have read it.

Bison Alumni Start Work On Monday

Workouts for the Bison alumni football squad are scheduled to begin Monday in preparation for their game against the varsity on May 12.

Letters are being sent to alumni in the area who might be interested in playing in the annual game. Last year, the varsity won 21-0.

Harmon Krause and Dave Gentzkow, members of last fall's Bison squad, are coordinators of the alumni squad. They ask any former Bison players who might be interested in playing to contact them.

Krause said that about 20 former Bison players have already indicated they will participate.

"We'd like to have three teams for the game," Krause said. "If we can get that many players we should be able to alternate enough to give the varsity a real game," he said.

Highlight of the meet will be the appearance of Olympic decathlon champion, Rafer Johnson.

Bison Fail In Bid To Retain Title

Despite three first place victories by Oddvar Helgeson, the NDSU Bison failed to defend their college crown in the Jamestown Quarterback Relays at Jamestown Saturday. Dickinson TC scored 51 points to dethrone the Bison, who finished second with 41 points. UND totaled 26 2/3 points for third place in a field of nine entries.

Oddvar Helgeson copped the two-mile, the mile and the 880 yard events in a one man show for the Bison. NDSU's Brian Dieterle won the 100 yard dash.

The Bison also took two relay events for six first place finishes. However, the Bison lacked the good balance of Dickinson as the Savages garnered points in all but one of the fourteen events.

NDSU also showed a decided weakness in the field events. The Bison managed only a second place finish in the broad jump event.

First field trip

LESSON 7- Keep moving

One of the most important rules of girl watching is this: keep moving. In fact, it is always a good idea not only to move, but to appear to be going somewhere. (This is especially important on group field trips.) Beautiful girls, although they enjoy being watched, are instinctively suspicious of strollers and downright fearful of loiterers.

The man who is walking briskly, who looks like he's "going places," makes a better girl watcher. For one thing, he sees more total girls and in the end he enjoys his hobby more. (If you are planning an extended field trip—to Paris and Rome, for example—be sure to pack a couple of cartons of Pall Mall.)

Intramural Mutterings

By JOE SCHNEIDER

A tennis tournament has been scheduled for the 5 and 12 of this month at Island Park tennis courts announced the Intramural Board at their meeting last Monday.

The double elimination process will be employed when the teams start out at 8 Saturday morning. Through the use of this method, each team will have to lose two games before they are dropped from the competition.

A motion was presented by the TKE representative, stating that each team will be allowed only one man for singles and that this man playing singles would be one of the two in the doubles. After a discussion period, it was decided that each team could make up its own mind concerning the use of two or three players on their team. The motion was passed and another one was presented which read that only the first three players could play the whole tournament instead of having other players come in during the course of the play-offs. The ATO and SAE representatives controlled the floor during the following discussion and they succeeded in defeating the proposal.

The first round were divided up to play thusly:
 Chem Club vs. AGR
 ATO vs. Co-op
 ATO 2 vs. Kappa Psi
 TKE vs. SPD
 Theta Chi vs. SAE 1
 SAE 2 vs. Sigma Chi
 ATO 3 standby

The winners of the different sets will play the winners of other ones so that the final games will be filled with the best teams.

The results from last weeks softball games read as follows:
 Tuesday:

Vets 12 — SPD 1
 Kappa Psi 18 — Sigma Chi 0
 Theta Chi 16 — AGR 8
 AIE 8 — TKE 4
 ATO 8 — Chem Club 2
 ASME 11 — PreVets 9
 Wednesday:
 SAE 12 — Farmhouse 3
 Vets 3 — ASCE 0
 Co-op 9 — Kappa Psi 8
 AIA 14 — Chem Club 3
 Sigma Chi 28 — SPD 14
 TKE 8 — ATO 3

Thursday:
 Kappa Psi 10 — AGR 0
 Kappa Psi 12 — ASME 3
 Co-op 14 — PreVets 0
 Theta Chi 18 — Sigma Chi 5
 ASCE 17 — Farmhouse 7
 SPD 11 — SAE 10

Bison Lose Close Contest

THE PITCHER bore down and the fielders were carefully poised, but they failed to stem the attack launched by MSC last Wednesday. A combination of good MSC hitting and weak NDSU fielding resulted in a 12-10 defeat.

combination of good MSC hitting and weak NDSU fielding resulted in a 12-10 defeat.

SPOTLIGHT ON SPORTS

By DENNIS KALDOR

Under not-so-hot weather conditions NDSU athletic teams conducted a not-to-hot weekend of sports activities last Friday and Saturday. They came close several times but never quite seemed to hang on until victory was reached. The Bison teams failed to score a victory in any of their encounters last weekend.

Baseball coach Ross Fortier is well pleased with the hitting and pitching of his squad but fielding is still a serious problem.

"We still make far too many errors and we make them at crucial stages of the game," stated Fortier in regards to his team's performance against S. D. State. In the 2 games with

S. D., the third was rained out, the Bison made 7 errors. This was undoubtedly the deciding factor in the two defeats, for the Bison out hit S. D. in both contests. Wayne Haberlach gave up only 3 hits the second game, but was still the loser as his team got 7 hits and committed 3 errors.

This pair of defeats cuts the chances of the Bison in the conference to a very slim margin. We must sweep the series with UND on May 10-11 to insure at least a tie in the northern half of the conference.

The Bison will play 3 games this weekend, a double header this afternoon with Bemidji will start at 1:30 and a single game tomorrow will start at the same time.

The track squad failed in their bid to retain their title as champions of the Jamestown Relays last Saturday when they lost to Dickinson T. C. by 10 points. According to coach Herb Blakely the team gave a reasonably good showing but failed to measure up to the pace set by Dickinson. It could be that the boys were just a wee bit nervous for they dropped the baton in the 440 and the 880 relays.

Needless to say, Blakely is eagerly looking forward to another chance at Dickinson in the Bison-Jaycee meet this Saturday. I hear that he's had the relay runner soaking their hands in glue all week.

A very cold, wet and uncomfortable sports writer stood in the rain and mud at the Moorhead Country Club last Friday and watched the Bison golf squad suffer through 18 holes of torture. Enough of this firsthand reporting nonsense from me. Had the Bison won the tourney, the Moorhead Invitational, I might be able to say that it was an afternoon well spent.

Coach Erv Kaiser's squad came in third place with a 410 behind MSC, 403 and UND, 409.

Wilman Advises Prospective High School Instructors

"What is your purpose in education?" Clyde Wilman, principal of the senior high schools of Fargo, asked the secondary education class last week. Wilman said school boards are looking for teachers who plan to make teaching their life's work. They don't want those who use education as a stepping stone to another job.

According to Wilman, school boards look for physical characteristics such as punctuality, good personal appearance, time management, lesson organization and ability to utilize new teaching methods. "School boards also look for the subjective attitude of the prospective teacher," said Wilman. They want to know the relationship between students and teachers and between teachers and administrators. They want teachers who are enthusiastic with youngsters before and after school.

A teacher must have good mental and physical health. "If you don't like kids, don't have any and don't teach," was the advice given by Wilman.

The school board receives their first impression of the prospective teacher by looking at his credentials. Wilman warned that those planning to apply for jobs should make certain their credentials are in good order. These credentials include a statement of health, home life, grades, activities and marital status.

According to Wilman, a teacher need not have straight A's to get a good job. Grades should be fairly good and the person should have a well-rounded source of knowledge. "The ability to work with people is one of the most important factors in being a teacher," said Wilman.

Wilman said the turnover of teachers is higher in the elementary level than on the high school level because many of the young women who are hired, substitute marriage for their teaching career.

Wilman, when speaking of future requirements of teachers, pointed out that most urban areas now require master's degrees for starting teachers.

"We are a pressure group," stated Wilman. "There are local, state, and national teachers' organizations which influence school boards to increase wages and provide better teaching conditions.

Wilman's concluding suggestion was, "I hope you will rely on the experienced instructors you encounter for advice. They have years of teaching experience behind them and their advice may prove to be valuable to a beginning teacher".

Betty Lamp Awards Received By Coeds

Four NDSU home economics students have been named as the first recipients of the Betty Lamp Award. This award is a charm given by the Tryota Club to the outstanding co-ed in each year of home economics. The Betty Lamp is the symbol of home economics.

The four co-eds, selected jointly by the home economics staff and the Tryota Council are: Carol Melhoff, fr; Marlette Anderson, soph; Evonne Currie, jr; and Toni Woodmansee, sr.

The students are selected on the merits of genuine interest in the profession of home economics, participation in home economics activities, general leadership and scholarship.

Tryota is the professional college home economics club to which all students enrolled in home economics may belong.

18 Strike Up The Music

"The Statesmen" Make Debut During Sharivar Jam Session

By David Nesvold

Sharivar visitors who attended what was billed as a "jam session" on Saturday afternoon were pleasantly surprised. "The Statesmen", formed in Nov., 1961, put forth with what must be called the finest big-band sound in the area. This was their first public appearance.

The group hasn't yet acquired the high polish, I'm sure they'll attain in a short time, but they did emit the primary requisites for success — a good sound. "The Statesmen" already have a sizeable repertoire of excellent numbers including "One O'Clock Jump" and other immortal standards dating from the era of the big-bands.

Alf Clausen is the leader of the 18 member group. "The Statesmen" is composed entirely of NDSU students. If you missed them Saturday, or would like to hear them again, drop a line to the music department.

Career Cues:

"An interest in student activities can pay you dividends later on!"

Gibson F. Dailey, Asst. to the President
George A. Fuller Company

"Extracurricular activities never really interested me... architecture and construction always did. It's a paradox, though, because as it turned out student activities gave me a big jump on my career in construction.

"Studies educated me. But college activities provided the confidence I needed to approach the business world. Looking back, it was these activities that really gave me my first knowledge of people, administration, leadership.

"Working for the college newspaper, fun magazine, and engineering bulletin taught me writing—a gift I use today in the promotion and getting of new business. Student Council brought the chance to work with other men—a daily occurrence now. Penn's theatrical group and engineering shows helped me relax in front of an audience then—and help me find my voice when I'm talking to large groups now.

"True, today's heavy college curriculum doesn't allow much time for activities. There wasn't much time for them in my day either. I burned a lot of midnight oil on architectural studies, but difficult as they were I still found time for student activities.—I'm mighty happy that I did.

"If you have time during the rest of your years in school to take an interest in activities—do it! It's certain to pay big dividends in an inspiring future in the business of your choice."

Gibson Dailey started with the George A. Fuller Company, the largest building construction firm in the country, right after college. Today he is assistant to the president. Gib started smoking Camels while still on the campus of the University of Pennsylvania. He's been a Camel smoker ever since.
