Vol. LXIII, No. 20

North Dakota State University, Fargo, North Dakota

February 13, 1963

High School Day, Parents Day Change Plans For Sharivar 1963

Some changes are being planned for Sharivar 1963, the University's open house scheduled for April 26-28.

Two special events have been initiated with Sharivar this year. A new High School Day program will be presented on Saturday, April 27, and a special Parents Day, planned and keyed for the parents of NDSU students, will be presented on Sunday, April 28.

Purpose of the Two Special Events

The purpose of High School Day program will be to encourage able students to attend college and to select NDSU if they find that our program parallels their interests and needs. The High School Day committee will be in charge of all events and entertainments planned for high school students. Parents Day is planned for parents of NDSU students and will provide informal contact between faculty and parents. Some displays are already in progress and new ideas for more displays are being incorporated. Seminars, lectures, laboratories, and discussions, are some of the areas of investigation.

Student Central Committee Formed

The student central committee, which is headed by Ray Jutila, ME jr, and Tracey Robson, AAS jr, as co-chairman, has met several times, since December, in an effort to coordinate committees from six different schools and areas of study on campus.

Members of the student central committee are: Ken Nelson, Business Manager; Carol Berg, Secretary; Ron Bardal and Chuck Burk, Engineering; Hugh Hallam and Kathy Thomas, Pharmacy; Jan Dunlop and Mary Nelson, Home Economics; Carol Anstett and Ken Bartsch, Arts and Science; Duane Berglund and Larry Corah, Agriculture; Wendy Christopherson and Bob Leslie, Chemistry; Sue Kurke and Nick Jones, Activities; Ene Koivastik, Jean Pulkrabek and Mike Canning, Publicity. Dr. J. T. Schulz, Entomology, and Donald F. Schwartz, Communications, are advisors to the central committee.

Faculty Coordinators Appointed

The general open house committee organization has been changed to provide opportunity for active faculty participation. Faculty open house coordinators have been appointed by the deans of each of the six colleges. They are: Dr. Josephine Bartow, Home Economics; Melvin L. Forthun, Engineering; Peder Arnold Nystuen, Agriculture; Stephen M. Sleight, Pharmacy; Dr. Carl Slater, Chemistry and Dr. Richard Mease, AAS. Faculty coordinators are responsible for working with department chairmen and student committees for planning and coordinating college open house activities.

Faculty and Students

Accomplish General Coordination

General coordination of all activities will be accomplished by faculty and student committees. A general steering committee composed of the faculty coordinators, chairmen of Parent's Day and High School Day and faculty advisors to the student central committee, forms one committee. The student central committee composed of the student co-chairmen of college open house committees, student vice chairmen or Parents Day and High School Day and two faculty advisors forms the second committee. The faculty advisors to the central committee will act as liaison people with the faculty steering committee.

The idea of joint student-faculty committees with a faculty chairman and student vice-chairman is new to Sharivar. According to Donald F. Schwartz, student central committee advisor, "If Sharivar is acceptable, next year we might have all committees follow this pattern and combine student central committee and the faculty steering committee under one faculty chairman."

Sharivar was instituted to develop understanding of this university. The high school students who develop an interest in NDSU in this process are a by-product of an overall effort on the part of all concerned.

Scripts Now Available For "The Pajama Game"

by Frank Bernhoff

Plans are progressing for the Blue Key production of "The Pajama Game," the brilliant Broadway hit musical of labor, love and management.

Scripts are now available and all who are interested may contact Dave Herstad, student director, before the tryouts slated for February 23 and 25 in Festival Hall. Students exhibiting acting ability are urged to give the ham in them a chance to erupt, and explode the production of "Pajama Game" into and even greater success than last year's "Damn Yankees."

Work will soon advance on the sets under the careful scrutiny of Dick Moorhead, producer, and Bryan Gackle, director. "The abstract, very suggestive, and colorfully designed" sets must be ready to move to the fieldhouse by Friday, April 12, according to Moorhead, where Larry Schulze, the musical's stage manager, awaits their completion.

"Where does one find a knife-throwing act? What stage trick might be accomplished to gain the effect of realism in the scene?" These may be questions haunting the mind of Bryan Gackle along with the problem of making about one-hundred pairs of pajamas materialize for use on stage.

Foreign Policy To Be Discussed At Convo

A former Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs will be on campus for a convocation at 9:40 a.m., Tuesday, February 19.

Andrew Berding will speak on foreign policy, drawing from his own experiences a wealth of firsthand illustrative material.

Twenty years of "wit sharpening journalistic experience" at home and abroad followed by almost as long in United States government positions provide the background for his authority on foreign policy problems.

Berding received his Bachelor of Arts degree from Xavier University and a B. A. and Master of Arts degree from Oxford.

During the years of increasing strength of the authoritarian government in Germany and Italy, (1933-37) he was Bureau Chief of the Associated Press in Rome. Upon returning to the United States he was Associated Press's Chief State Department Correspondent until becoming radio commentator and editorial writer for the Buffalo Evening News in 1940.

Joins Armed Service

After Pearl Harbor, he was assigned to intelligence work overseas in the United States Army Air Force.

He earned the rank of lieutenant colonel, the Legion of Merit, the Bronze Star and the French Croix de Guerre for his distinguished service as chief of counter intelligence for OSS in Italy.

Since World War II Berding has been chief of information for ECA in Washington; director of information, Office of Defense Mobilization, Mutual Security Agency and Department of Defense; and deputy director, US Information Agency.

Selected by Eisenhower

President Eisenhower selected him as Assistant Secretary of State for Public Affairs in the Department of State early in 1957. He remained at this post until he retired from government service.

Berding, in collaboration with the former Secretary of State, authored "The Memoirs of Cordell Hull". He is currently working on a book dealing with United States foreign relations.

He is a member of the Boards and Executive Committees of Meridian House Foundation and the Foreign Students Service Council in Washington, D. C. He is also a member of the National Press Club and the Overseas Writers Club.

Sounds Of Ragtime Music To Entertain Students

by Kerry Hawkins

The happy sounds of ragtime will fill the air in Festival Hall at North Dakota State University when Max Morath, one of the country's leading exponents of the infectious music of turn-of-the-century America performs for the Student Union Activities Board on March 1.

Morath, presiding at a battered upright piano and dressed in a 1908 suit, will be singing and playing the best of America's ragtime lore, discoursing along the way with humor and satire on the personalities, fads and customs of those forgotten years.

Ideal Spokesman

Dubbed the "ideal spokesman" for ragtime by Variety magazine, Morath admits that ragtime and the happy, optimistic years from which it sprang have completely captivated him.

Though he was born in 1926, a full generation away from the early ragtime years, he devotes all his time to the study and performance of this rollicking music of a younger America.

Morath played an informal concert at the SUAB convention at St. Olaf last year and was an immediate hit.

TV Series

Morath is author and performer of the TV series "The Ragtime Era," produced on video-tape for the National Educational TV Center in New York by Denver's KRMA-TV. These twelve half-hour programs which tell the story of

Morath

Fun and laughter, mingled with lively songs and intriguing dances permeates the entire production. This delightful, riotous musical was synthesized on Broadway with comic Eddie Foy, Jr., cast as efficiency expert, who steps out of character to discuss the situation with the audience. John Raitt, a brilliant vocalist, but from past television "spectaculars", a less talented actor, was cast in the role of Sid Sorokin, factory supervisor. Sid falls in love with Babe Williams (Janice Page), chief advocate of a seven and one-half cent raise at the Sleepite Pajama Factory.

Blue Key directors know from past musicals that our campus teems with talent that will compare favorably with Broadway. It may be YOU that is hording this vast degree of untapped ability! So be on hand for tryouts February 23 and 25 and be discovered!

The music and the personalities of the ragtime years have reached an estimated 30,000,000 viewers on educational and commercial channels the country over. Tickets for the general public and NDSU students will go on sale for the straight price of $1.50.

Letters to the Editor

Coach Bentson Saluted By Student Body Head

To the Editor:

A salute to a good coach!! If the basis for a good basketball coach is dependent upon his win-loss record, then Coach B. C. "Charlie" Bentson of the North Dakota State University Bison is an exception.

In his fourteen year career at NDSU, Coach Bentson has been plagued by a scarcity of quantity and limited quality. During my four years on campus, I have been fortunate enough to miss only one game. Never have I seen a coach with the ability to get more out of a team.

When things aren't running smoothly, it seems that Coach Bentson is always capable of making the most of a situation. When the future looked like a "bed of roses," it seems Chuck was plagued with injuries, ineligibilities, and lack of financial backing.

There is no doubt that everyone had high hopes for the almost completed 1962-63 season. I doubt if anyone had more of a desire to win than this particular man, not so much for his own glory, but mainly because of his feelings for NDSU. Chuck is a man of true character and would like nothing better than to do his part for the University. In my book, he has been doing his part for this University, but I doubt that the reverse is true.

I think if one were to analyze the situation, he would find that we have been failing miserably. I noticed that everyone became excited when winning the conference championship seemed possible; I also noticed that the gym was packed with exuberant fans generating an abundance of spirit. If this spirit was an example of the feeling for good old NDSU, then maybe Chuck should be given a chance to develop a conference winner. By giving him this chance, I mean, as the expression goes, "Get some added horses."

In the recent UND-NDSU series, a particular play with only two seconds remaining almost evened the game for the Bison. Chuck obviously called this play and this without a doubt is an example of his desire to win.

Perhaps B. C. Bentson may have some shortcomings, but these are more than outweighed by his good characteristics.

I say again, Chuck Bentson is a great coach and a great guy. He deserves a better chance.

Release Clause Petitions Draw Nelson's Views

To the Editor:

The following sign appeared on a bulletin board in Churchill Hall last week.

Stop!

Do you support Communism?

Do you want a dictatorship?

Do you want to pay for your meals when you go home on a weekend?

Would you like to see all the private, social, and religious organizations on campus shut down?

If the answer to the questions is "NO!" sign the petition for a release clause!

The petition seeks to establish a "release allowing students to break the dorm feeding contract during the second week of school in the fall quarter for those students who wish to fulfill Greek and religious feeding contracts."

Last week I was asked to sign such a petition. Upon declining, I was asked, "So you're anti-Greek, are you?" All I ask is that the "forced feeding fighters" explain to me rationally why I should sign their petitions.

KEY IDEAS "A BLUE KEY MEMBER SPEAKS" logo

by Bill Findley

Leaders must possess those traits of knowledge, understanding, and diplomacy necessary to become an effective leader. But these are basic qualifications. The possession of good, wholesome attributes does not insure one's becoming an effective leader. The ability to lead is an attribute in itself. For example, Hitler was a very effective leader but did he possess many virtues?

What are some characteristics of good leadership?

Weigh and study an idea. In order to arrive at a logical and effective answer to a problem, one must carefully consider every aspect of the condition. Never divorce thinking from action; rather you should integrate the two. A consensus is more important than the rule or law mainly because it is decided upon long before the rule or law is set down. The rules and laws are more or less a reminder that the consensus has been accepted.

Be a good listener. The leader who can remain quiet and allow his subordinates to contribute will be more effective than one who cannot.

Be consistent. Subordinates must be able to anticipate their leaders desires, moods and idiosyncrasies. If a man knows what is expected of him, he will endeavor to fulfill this expectation. When you are wrong, admit it. Everyone knows you are human.

The leader must be an expert in human relations. He must be firm but fair. He must consider the safety, feelings, compulsions, and desires of the people under his control. "No man is an island." He must know he is wanted and even more important, that he is needed. Without him your goal could not be realized.

Needless to say these are only a few characteristics of a good leader. These and many more must be integrated into a code of ethics or a set of concensis that knows no boundary, that has no finite limit. The success of a leader will depend on his ability to integrate knowledge, with which to work, and prudence, with which to discern; One without the other is ineffective.

Philosopher, Lao Tzu says:

"A leader is best

When people barely know that he exists, Not so good when people obey and acclaim him, Worst when they despise him.

Fail to honor people, they fail to honor you. But of a good leader who talks little, When his work is done, his aim fulfilled, They will all say, "We did this ourselves."

Keep these ideas in mind when voting for your student government representatives next week.

Married Students' Mayor Bergquist Urges Investigation Of Candidates

To the Editor:

As mayor of the married students, I felt it my duty to phone the three presidential candidates and ask them "What are your feelings toward the married students and how do you feel you could help them by being elected student body president."

Ken Nelson has no specific points concerning married students in his platform. He stated, "I just decided to run Wednesday afternoon (February 6) and I haven't given it much thought." However, he went on to say that if he were elected, he would appoint Bill Findley as chairman of a committee to investigate the possibilities of a commission of married students, and he also mentioned that he would look into the possibilities of senators being elected from their fields of interest and not by a popularity vote. He implied that senators should be elected from dormitories and from the married student's section as well.

Harold Korb stated that he was caught unprepared and that he hadn't considered a program for the married students. He went on to say, "I do not have a point of action in mind to help them, and I am not acquainted with the conditions which exist in the married student's section." However, he thought the married students should have more voice in Student Senate and that the principles of his opponent's (Findley) platform may be sound as married students need representation, but the Commission of Married Students does not belong in our commission form of government.

Bill Findley stated that he was aware of the fact that married students take their problems directly to the administration. However, he feels there is a definite advantage in taking their problems to Student Senate before going to the administration with them.

He stated, "I would like to see a Married Student Commission established, thus giving them a representative in Senate and a vote on the Finance Commission."

An analysis of these phone conversations enlightened me on the concern each candidate has for the married students. This is a very important point I will consider in voting for the candidate of my choice. I feel each and every student should take it upon himself to investigate the merits of a candidate's platform as well as the merits of the candidate himself. An informed voter is an intelligent voter, so be informed before you vote on February 20.

Senate Issues, Spectrum Coverage Credited For Increased Candidacies

by Jim Olson

This year, 37 hopefuls have filed petitions for the 12 senate seats to be filled in next Wednesday's election.

Fifteen students are trying for the six one year senate positions; 22 students are trying for the six two year openings.

The 37 candidates represent a marked increase over the number of students that sought election to Student Senate in previous years. Last year, 26 candidates filed for election. The year before that, 24. While NDSU's enrollment increase could account for a small rise in the number of candidates, this year's number of senatorial hopefuls far exceeds any proportional increase caused by the larger student body.

While the reasons behind the large number of candidates this year are, at best, speculative, the following situations are presumed to have played a large part:

* Student Senate has had before it many controversial issues which have aroused student interest. Such issues as contract feeding, Monday night dances, student traffic court, campus parking and debate appropriations have caused a great deal of student comment.

* Changes in university policy made by the new administration have disturbed many students. More and more of these students are looking to their government to represent their rights to the administration.

* The personalities of many senators and commissioners, and the student body president, Sherry Bassin have aroused interest on campus. This year, Senate had several colorful and vocal students whose statements—often sharp, sometimes pointed, and on occasion directly critical of the administration and other senate members—provided accounts which rivaled our national assembly.

* The issues, the personalities, and the comments have been covered by the Spectrum as never before. Every Senate meeting has been covered and reported in depth. In addition, Joe Schneider's column, "Over the Back Fence," consistently commented on, and often criticized, Senate actions.

The large number of candidates will naturally stiffen competition for election. It is expected that campaigning will be carried out on a scale never before seen at NDSU.

Commission of Campus Affairs Too Involved In Presidential Race

To the Editor:

With no malice intended, no conscious favoritism or zealous sense of duty, I would like to point out what may be an unfortunate circumstance in approaching student government elections.

It is my understanding that the Commission of Campus Affairs is in charge of organizing and running the student body elections. To be specific, one of their burdens is the responsibility "for carrying out all student affairs and determining the eligibility of all candidates."

The unfortunate circumstance is that three members of this commission are so virtually involved in the election.

Presidential candidate Harold Korb is commissioner of elections. Korb's campaign manager, Roman Kline, is a member of that commission. A second presidential hopeful, Ken Nelson, is also a member of this commission.

Is it plausible that the commission which conducts the elections prefer two candidates and a campaign manager toward this effort, however meager it may be, at what is popularly called student government? Something is amiss.

The two presidential candidates have only good intentions, I am sure. But such a ludicrous oversight by these individuals is a perfect example of the occurrences which give to students the impression that campus elections are nothing more than popularity contests. It would seem prudent, at the least, for influential participants to resign well in advance of elections their positions on such a commission.

If the Student Senate is to perform at all responsibly its only valid function—consider, debate and legislate a representative student opinion—it must be formed, conducted and led both ethically and representatively.

David Nesvold

"Collegiate" is the word for Betty Kay Bitterman and Harold Korb, who were chosen as NDSU's 1963 Betty Coed and Joe College. The election was held at the SUABI Gras dance sponsored by SUAB February 8, in Memorial Union. Music for the dance which was held in conjunction with Winter Week, was provided by the Vikings.

IRC To Sponsor Seminar Trip

The Inter-Religious Council will sponsor a citizenship seminar trip to Washington, D. C., and New York City during the spring quarter break.

Any NDSU student may register for the nine day trip, which will begin on March 9 via charter bus.

Many Stops Planned

Stops in Chicago and Valley Forge will be made enroute to Washington. The group will tour the White House, visit with State Department and FBI officials and observe executive departments in action. They will also meet with tri-state legislators, attend Congressional sessions, tour the Supreme Court and will be guests of a Latin American embassy.

Enroute to New York, stops will be made at Philadelphia and Mount Vernon. In New York City, the group will visit the United Nations, meet with delegates and attend sessions.

Stops at West Point, Niagara Falls and Detroit, Michigan are scheduled for the trip home.

Time has been reserved in the schedule each day for individuals to engage in private touring, attendance at plays, or to visit friends.

Register February 24

Registration must be made by February 24th and filed with Robert Bergman, Stockbridge 327.

Trip expenses of $90 per student will include hotel accommodations, transportation and the tours. Participants should budget an additional $35 minimum for personal expense and food.

Scholarship aid will be available for those who need assistance. Local church and service organizations are making funds available for the trip.

Phi Kappa Phi Awards $2500 In Scholarships

Members of Phi Kappa Phi, national honorary society, may now apply for the national Phi Kappa Phi Award, according to Mr. Charles Collins, faculty advisor. The award is given to ten students in the form of $2500 scholarships each, to be used for their first year of graduate study.

One nomination from each college and university, who has a Phi Kappa Phi chapter, is sent to a national committee which chooses ten of the these nominations to become the recipients of the scholarships.

This award is open only to Phi Kappa Phi members and the nominations must be in by February 25. Graduate study in law, medicine and theology are excluded.

Four Scholarships Open For Engineers

Four Minnesota Mining and Manufacturing Company scholarships will again be available to students in College of Engineering for the 1963-64 academic year.

These scholarships are valued at $250 each and are awarded on the basis of academic attainment and financial need.

The regular university scholarship forms can be used in submitting applications. These forms are available in the Registrar's Office or in the office of the Dean of Engineering. Applications should be submitted before March 1.

Awards will be announced by the University Scholarship Committee during the spring quarter.

SU Alumnus, Sorlie Receives Diploma

Major Donald M. Sorlie, a 1950 graduate from NDSU and a Fargo resident, was one of nine potential space pilots or researchers to receive a diploma as a graduate of Air Force Research Pilot School in a ceremony at Edwards Air Force Base, California.

Presentation was made by J. L. Atwood, president of North American Aviation Inc., Los Angeles.

Sorlie, a twice decorated Korean War fighter pilot, an ex-North Dakota Air National Guardsman and a fifteen year Air Force veteran, has been assigned as chief of the Air Force Flight Test Center's Manned Spacecraft Operations Branch at Edwards Air Force Base, California.

medicine and theology are excluded.

NDSU members of Phi Kappa Phi may get their application forms from Dean Stallings at the library. Stallings is the chairman of the Honors and Scholarship Committee in Phi Kappa Phi. The committee picks the nomination from NDSU to be sent to the national committee.

Wayne Kessler, an NDSU graduate, won such an award in 1955. He used this scholarship in graduate study of pharmaceutical chemistry.

THE CURSE OF THE CAMPUS: NO. 2

As was pointed out last week, one would think that with all the progress we have made in the education game, something might have been done by now about roommates. But no. The roommate picture has not brightened one bit since Ethan Goodpimple founded the first American college.

(Contrary to popular belief, Harvard was not the first. Mr. Goodpimple started his institution some 75 years earlier. And quite an institution it was, let me tell you! Mr. Goodpimple built schools of liberal arts, fine arts, dentistry, and tanning. He built a lacrosse stadium that seated 102,000. Everywhere on campus was emblazoned the stirring Latin motto CAVE MUSSI—"Watch out for moose." The student union contained a bowling alley, a clock, and a 16-chair barber shop.

... and as for shaving, they didn't

(It was this last feature—the barber shop—that, alas, brought Mr. Goodpimple's college to an early end. The student body, being drawn from the nearby countryside, was composed chiefly of Pequots and Iroquois who, alas, had no need of a barber shop. They braid their hair instead of cutting it, and as for shaving, they don't. The barber, Tremblatt Follicle by name, grew so depressed staring all the time at 16 empty chairs that one day his mind finally gave way. Seizing his vibrator, he ran outside and shook the entire campus till it crumbled to dust. This later became known as Pickett's Charge.)

But I digress. We were discussing ways for you and your roommate to stop hating each other. This is admittedly difficult but not impossible if you will both bend a bit, give a little.

I remember, for example, my own college days (Berlitz, '08). My roommate was, I think you will allow, even less agreeable than most. He was a Tibetan named Ringading whose native customs, while indisputably colorful, were not entirely endearing. Mark you, I didn't mind so much the gong he struck on the hour or the string of firecrackers he set off on the half-hour. I didn't even mind his singeing chicken feathers every dusk and daybreak. What I did mind was that he singed them in my hat.

To be fair, he was not totally taken with some of my habits either—especially my hobby of collecting water. I had no jars at the time and just had to stack the water any-old-where.

Well sir, things grew steadily cooler between Ringading and me, and they might have gotten actually ugly had we not each happened to receive a package from home one day. Ringading opened his package, paused, smiled shyly at me, and offered me a gift.

"Thank you," I said. "What is it?"

"Yak butter," he said. "You put it in your hair. In Tibetan we call it gree see kidstuff."

"Well now, that's mighty friendly," I said and offered him a gift from my package. "Now you must have one of mine."

"Thank you," he said. "What is this called?"

"Marlboro Cigarettes," I said and held a match for him. He puffed. "Wow!" he said. "This sure beats chicken feathers!"

"Or anything else you could name," I said, lighting my own Marlboro.

And as we sat together and enjoyed that fine flavorful Marlboro tobacco, that pure white Marlboro filter, a glow of good fellowship came over us—a serene conviction that no quarrels exist between men that will not yield to the warmth of honest good will. I am proud to say that Ringading and I remain friends to this day, and we exchange cards each Christmas and each Fourth of July, firecrackers.

Vaccine Clinic To Be Held February 27

The first of three oral immunization clinics will be held at the Fieldhouse on Wednesday, February 27, from 3 to 6 p.m.

Sabin Oral Vaccine (type 1) will be administered at the first clinic. This is being sponsored by the First District Medical Society of the North Dakota State Medical Association in conjunction with similar clinics to be held in the city of Fargo on Sunday, February 24.

All of these clinics are open to the public so that everyone will have an opportunity to receive the vaccine on either date.

There will be a charge of 25 cents for each dose to cover the cost of conducting the clinics, but it will be given free to those unable to pay.

Public Health authorities recommend that everyone receive all three types of the oral vaccine.

The date to remember is February 27. The time is 3 to 6 p.m.

Mono Cases Occur But No Epidemic

Each year, sporadic cases of infectious mononucleosis occur on the campus. This gives rise to many unfounded rumors and myths about this disease.

Infectious mononucleosis is an acute infection, benign in nature, and of unknown cause. It is characterized by irregular fever, sore throat, swollen lymph glands, and in occasional cases an enlarged spleen and liver.

It rarely occurs in epidemic form in individuals over 12 years of age. Sporadic cases are more common and may be seen in any age group. Men are afflicted more frequently than women.

The contagiousness of the disease is low; it is quite exceptional for members of a patient's family or his intimate associates to contract the infection. It has been reported, that it is acquired by saliva, but this is disputed.

The diagnosis is made by a number of blood tests which may be performed in the Student Health laboratory.

The duration of the illness is variable. The fever and other symptoms are usually over in from one to three weeks, but some cases may be prolonged for several weeks or even months.

There is no specific treatment for this illness. Bed rest and hospitalization are rarely needed except in severe cases with high fever and other complications. The general prognosis for this illness is excellent; relapses are very rare, but do occur.

A Phi O Pledges Six

Alpha Phi Omega National Service Fraternity has announced the admittance of six pledges.

The pledges are Lanny Oxtan, Jack Witz, Don Homuth, Steve Nelson, Les Lorentzen and John Dell.

Officers for the group include Lanny Oxtan, president, Steve Nelson, vice president, Don Homuth, secretary.

These pledges, nearing the end of their pledgeship, will soon become active members in Alpha Phi Omega.

American Campuses More Democratic Comments NDSU German Professor

When Hitler came into power it was a matter of "conform or disappear." Dr. Leo Hertel, chairman of modern languages at North Dakota State University, thought it best to disappear.

He left Germany in 1934. There he had been associated with a daily newspaper which was not pro-Hitler.

In September 1934, he arrived in Duluth, Minnesota, the hometown of his wife, Elsa. He had met her while she was studying at the University of Munich.

Before coming to NDSU and North Dakota's "invigorating climate" in 1952, Hertel taught at Dakota Wesleyan University in South Dakota and Franklin College in Indiana. From 1943-1944, he worked with psychological warfare in the Washington Office of Strategic Service.

When comparing the German and American education system Hertel said, "The German system is more comprehensive and more general in educational philosophy than the American system which is more specialized."

"Life on an American campus is more democratic and free; therefore, campus life is more enjoyable. The contact between the student and the teacher is closer and more personal which is an advantage."

Hertel attended the universities at Breslau, Berlin and Cologne. He received his bachelor's degree from the Classical Gymnasium, (German equivalent to our college) located in Glogau. His Ph.D. was obtained at the University of Munich.

He commented that this hopping from institute to institute was typical of German students before they "finally settle down."

Commenting about students, Hertel said, "I like them if they work, attend classes, show a great deal of curiosity and read instead of looking at TV."

He continued saying that the academic atmosphere on our campus could be enhanced by frequent discussions between different student groups. He would like to see more discussions because "they are good for development of 'esprit de corps' and loyalty among students and to the institution."

The Hertels have a cabin in the woods of northern Minnesota. This is where they spend their summers. Also on the agenda for every summer is a canoeing trip in Quetico National Park, Canada. Mrs. Hertel waterpaints while Dr. Hertel paddles. He commented that sometimes her paintings get wet.

Mrs. Hertel teaches German at Concordia. Besides teaching German at NDSU, Dr. Hertel teaches philosophy and is editor of the North Dakota Institute of Regional Studies.

They have two daughters. Margaret is married and Karin is on a Fulbright Scholarship studying at the University of Wurzburg in Germany.

We're looking forward to meeting you

We'll be on the campus on the dates listed below, ready to give engineering and science seniors information on space-age careers in a dynamic industry.

If you are looking for a company offering assignments on programs of unique interest and career potential, you'll be interested in the advantages Boeing can offer you.

Boeing, for instance, is a major contractor on such advanced programs as the Saturn S-IC first-stage rocket booster, the X-20 Dyna-Soar manned space glider, the solid-fuel Minuteman ICBM, and the Bomarc defense missile system. Boeing is also the world's foremost designer and builder of multi-jet aircraft, including the eight-jet B-52H missile bomber, the KC-135 tanker-transport, the C-135 cargo-jet, and the famous Boeing 707, 720 and 727 jetliners. In addition, Boeing's Vertol Division is one of America's leading designers and builders of helicopters.

Research projects at Boeing are under way in such advanced fields as celestial mechanics, solid state physics, nuclear and plasma physics, flight sciences, space flight and propulsion.

Expanding Boeing programs offer exceptional opportunities to holders of B.S., M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in aeronautical, mechanical, civil, electrical-electronic and industrial engineering, and in engineering mechanics, engineering physics as well as in mathematics and physics. Assignments are available in Washington, Pennsylvania, Kansas, Louisiana, Alabama, California and Florida.

You'll work in a small group where individual ability and initiative get plenty of visibility. You'll enjoy many other advantages, including an opportunity to take graduate studies at company expense to help you get ahead faster. Drop in to your Placement Office and arrange for an interview. We're looking forward to meeting you!

Campaign Managers Announced; Candidates Express Opinions

By Jim Olson

Bill Findley, candidate for student body president, has announced that Russ Maring and Dave Pollock will be his co-campaign managers.

Findley said that his campaign will be centered on "cooperation without appeasement with the administration" and on "Senate becoming a truly effective voice of all students, not just a few."

Findley said that he expects a hard campaign. "We'll be running scared in this election," commented Findley. "I expect to be working very hard for every vote; we hope that a good campaign can get our views across to the students."

Korb Chooses Kline

Harold Korb has selected Roman Kline as his campaign manager to spearhead efforts for Korb's election as student body president.

Korb is disturbed with the "concentration of the work load of student government on a few people." He feels that this is a bad situation. Korb is of the opinion that some of the work could be done by other students who could report their activities to Senate. It is Korb's hope that this plan would include more students in campus activities. Candidate Korb also urged a "clearer definition as to our (student government) relations with the administration and faculty committees."

According to Korb, his campaign will be centered around attracting votes from the "regular, rank and file students in addition to potential student leaders." Korb is optimistic as this campaign begins. He classed his election chances as "good."

Nelson Interested in Debate Finance

Presidential candidate Ken Nelson, vice president of the Lincoln Debate Society, has adopted a stand calculated to aid the society's financial problems.

This year, the Commission of Finance and Student Senate adopted a hard line in allocating money to the debate team. Originally the debate team was allocated only $200 of the $600 it had requested.

Although the society's allocation was subsequently increased, Nelson feels that, "Debate as an activity should not be dependant on the whims of student government. Debate should be continued whether members of student government see the value of it or not." Nelson was asked: "Do you feel that Senate has a right to investigate and question groups that the student body financially supports?" He answered, "Definitely." He explained that, "Perhaps debate should receive its financial support from the administration."

While Nelson favors moving the debate team from senatorial control to the administration, he does not favor moving the judging team in like manner. The judging team, like the debate team, presently receives an allotment from Senate.

Nelson explained his stand by saying that, "Debate is not an extracurricular activity. Being a member of the judging team is."

Korb and Findley Disagree

Harold Korb and Bill Findley, candidates for student body president, are in disagreement on at least one phase of student government.

"On what basis would a senator or the student body president vote? Should the officers of student government follow the students' wishes or should they vote as they personally feel?" Korb and Findley disagree on the answers to these questions.

Korb's View

Harold Korb feels that Senate members should "do what we think is right in our judgement." He explained that decisions should be based on "what we consider to be the best for the student body and the University."

In explaining his stand, Korb said that a senator should "vote his convictions." He pointed out that if a person is elected, that person has the confidence of the students. Said Korb, "If a Senate member feels one way on an issue and if the student body feels another way, the senator should vote the way he thinks." Korb added that student opinion is difficult to determine.

Findley's Views

Bill Findley's stand on this issue is exactly opposite of Korb's. Findley is of the opinion that, "The number one job of Student Senate is to carry out the will of the students." He added "A person on Senate should represent the student's views, not his own."

Findley explained: "We could have a perfect democracy if the entire student body held meetings periodically. Of course, this is not practical. To solve the problem, people are elected to represent the students. Therefore, senators are obligated to respect student wishes."

President Bassin Will Not Endorse

Sherry Bassin, North Dakota State University student body president, will not be endorsing any hopefuls to succeed him in office.

President Bassin, whose term expires at the end of winter quarter was asked by the Spectrum if he would back any presidential hopefuls. He replied, "No, I'm not going to publicly endorse a candidate. I have personal feelings on who would do a good job, but I don't feel they should be made public."

However, Bassin does have some definite opinions on the forthcoming elections. He said, "If a bad candidate is elected, it will be the fault of the people who voted for him and more important the fault of the students who don't vote at all."

The Student Body President urged students to "pick a candidate whom they think will do a good job. Vote for a candidate for what he is and is capable of doing, not what he belongs to." Bassin explained that he thinks Greek loyalty should not be an issue in this election.

BILL FINDLEY

Activities and organizations memberships include Blue Key, Student Senate, Commissioner of Inter-Campus Affairs, 1962 Sharivar activities co-chairman, Inter-Fraternity Council, American Institute of Industrial Engineers and advertising co-manager of the Spectrum. He has received the NDSU Distinguished Service award, the Sharivar Scholarship Certificate of Merit and the North Dakota Foundation Scholarship. As a freshman, he served as class vice-president.

Platform

1. Cooperation without appeasement among independents, married students, Greeks faculty and administration. I am strongly in favor of a collective meeting, bi-annually, between officers of all organizations on campus and the administration. This would, I believe, solve many problems which are due strictly to lack of communication.
2. I would propose the instigation of a Commission of Married Students which would give them an active voice in student government. This would enable them to benefit from fees which are built up in great share from their own present contributions.
3. The parking problem on campus has long been an issue. I would propose banning next year's freshman students from having cars on campus (except in special cases) which would allow opening of the student union parking lot to free parking. This would necessarily have to be done in all major state operated institutions of higher learning.
4. I would be in favor of a comprehensive evaluation program of teaching practices on our campus. Many times a student is not receiving the education he should be, due to poor teaching practices. This program could be carried out in a diplomatic manner which would benefit both students and faculty, which would offer good reason for the high cost of our education, and which would exhibit the student's interest in receiving the best education possible. Constructive criticism offered in the right tone and received in the same manner could not help but be beneficial to all concerned.

HAROLD KORB

Activities and organization memberships, include pledge president, active vice-president and president of TKE, outstanding fraternity pledge and outstanding TKE pledge of 1961, Blue Key Master Freshman Award, Student Senate, Commissioner of Campus Affairs, vice-president of student body and Campus Committee. He has served on the Commission of Athletics and is now serving on the Inter-Fraternity Council, the Committee on Student Affairs. He is a member of Blue Key, Kappa Kappa Psi and Gold Star Band.

Platform

1. I propose to increase participation in student government through appointment of qualified students other than senators and commissioners to standing faculty and student committees in order to closer unite the student government with the student body.
2. I propose that Student Senate cooperate with Blue Key Fraternity in a program to recruit quality students for North Dakota State University.
3. I propose to increase alumni participation in University affairs through Spectrum distribution to alumni and through a drive to make personal contacts with alumni. An informed and interested alumni group will do much toward improving our University and raising its status nationally.
4. I propose to strengthen Student Senate by completely outlining the duties, responsibilities and authority of the Senators and Commissioners and their relation to the administration and all faculty committees.

KEN NELSON

Activities and organization memberships include vice-president of the Lincoln Debate Society, Sharivar business manager, Blue Key, Commission of Campus Affairs, Commission of Finance, YMCA and the International Relations Club. Presently a counselor in Churchill Hall, he has served as freshman class president, president of the Inter-Religious Council and vice-president of the Bison Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship.

Platform

1. I promise to represent the entire student body, both independents and Greeks.
2. I promise to work with the students and the administration for the best solution to the forced feeding problem.
3. I promise to support the improvements of athletics on this campus.

Students Prepare For

Main Show - February 16

It looks like things are pretty well organized for Saturday evening judging by the expressions on the faces of Duane Preston, president of Saddle and Sirloin, left; Harold Spickler, assistant manager of the show; and Ray Meyer, Little International manager, right, as they talk things over in Sheppard Arena.

Checking the fit of Yvonne Helland's garment for the home economics style show is Kay McGuiness. The style show will be held in the home economics auditorium at 1:30 p.m. on Saturday.

Banquet Kicks Off Weekend

Hall of Fame Banquet

The results of months of planning and preparation for the Little International Livestock Show will be presented to the public this weekend. The Hall of Fame Banquet at 6:30 p.m., Friday in the Memorial Union kicks off the activities.

Ray Schnell, "Man of The Year in North Dakota Agriculture," and NDSU's four judging teams will be honored at the banquet. Leonard Davis, former member of the Hall of Fame, will be the guest speaker.

Royalty

Queen Sue Haas, and her attendants, Gwen Johnson and Kay McGuiness, will reign over the weekend activities.

4-H and FFA Judging Contests

Crop and livestock judging contests for 4-H and FFA members will begin with registration at 8 a.m., Saturday. The livestock judging will be in Sheppard Arena, while the crops contest will be held on the top floor of Memorial Union.

Engineering Show

The Agricultural Engineering Show will be on from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Agricultural Engineering building. Students are competing in four divisions: originality, preparation, educational value and presentation of the exhibit.

There will be historical exhibits of farm machinery. Refreshments will be served to visitors throughout the day.

Home Economics Show

The bread baking contest featuring North Dakota products will be held 9-12 a.m. in the Home Economics building.

The style show will highlight present day styles, beginning at 1:30 p.m. and will last two hours.

A coffee hour will follow the style show, beginning at 3:30 p.m.

Collegiate Crops Contest

The crops contest, open to NDSU students, will be judged Saturday afternoon, beginning at 1 p.m. in the meats laboratory in Sheppard Arena. Entries will be accepted until 11 a.m. that day.

Special Events

Included in the Saturday evening festivities will be the coed's greased pig catching contest in which a two member team from each of the sororities and coed dormitories on campus will attempt to catch a slippery squealing hog and put it in a barrel.

There will be a calf tying contest between the men's fraternities on campus. In the calf scramble the men will have to catch, throw and tie the legs of a wild calf.

A cutting horse contest will demonstrate the skill and coordination required between horse and rider when cutting a cow out of the herd.

Showmanship Contest

The Saturday night contest will begin at 7:30 with the grand entrance of the Queen and officials of the show.

More than 100 showmen will be competing for the title of "Grand Champion Showman." The winner will be selected from the champions of the four divisions: beef, sheep, dairy and swine.

Little International Staff

People behind the scenes include: Ray Meyer, manager; Harold Spickler, assistant manager; Lannis Bergsgaard, Hall of Fame manager; Jan Peterson and James Voll, advertising; Darryl Eastvold, master of ceremonies; John Oster and Lorrie Jerde, catalog; Duane Preston, ring manager; Ron Leno, arena manager, Richard Clemenson, business manager; and Larry Corah, trophies and awards.

Directors for the show are: Howard Leland, publicity; Marvin Jarmen and Melvin Leland, ticket sales; Jim Cook, special events; Jack Salzsieder, queen contest; Stuart Bond, technical; Vernon Boeshans and John Topp, 4-H and FFA contests.

History of Little International

North Dakota State University Saddle and Sirloin Club received its name from the International Saddle and Sirloin Club in Chicago which founded the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago and a Hall of Fame in connection with their show.

Dr. J. H. Sheppard of NDSU was a member of this founding group. It was from this club and sheppard that he derived the basic idea for the Saddle and Sirloin Club, the Hall of Fame, and the Little International at NDSU.

The first Little International was held in 1923, and from then until 1942 there were 20 annual shows at NDSU. There were no shows during the World War years.

The club was reactivated in 1944 and the Little International show began again in 1937, and has been held annually since.

The first show on record was presented in 1924. There is no record of the 1923 exhibition.

In 1924 there were ten beef cattle, nine dairy cattle, nine poultry entries, and 12 horses, with a total of 46 showmen entered. This year there will be 126 animals and 191 showmen in four divisions consisting of beef, sheep, dairy and swine.

Practicing for the home economics bread baking contest to be held at 9 a.m. Saturday are, left to right, Judith Decker, Diane Wilhelm and Judy Klefstad.

Preparing samples for the 4-H crop contest which will take place at 8 a.m. Saturday are, left, and John Berdahl.

This model potato warehouse, which has been entered in the agricultural engineering contest, was prepared by Ronald Carlson.

Little International

Activities

International agronomy show became a feature of the Little International in 1951. The agricultural engineering and home economics shows were added in 1951. In 1953 the Little International was held in the newly constructed Sheppard arena.

In 1953 the shows were held in the NDSU Fieldhouse. In preparation for the show the fieldhouse floor was covered with tar paper, over which were placed the doors from box cars. Sawdust was spread over the floor. The entire fieldhouse was cleaned and the show was ready for the following week.

Profits from the Little International go to support NDSU judges competing in such shows as the American Royal Livestock Show at Kansas City, and the International Livestock Exposition in Chicago.

The Hall of Fame was started in 1923 as a means of honoring outstanding men in agriculture. Their portraits are hung in the Sheppard Arena. Forty men have been honored throughout the past 36 shows. Ray Well of Dickinson, will be the honored this year.

Sheep division superintendent Harvey Peterson (standing) points out some handling techniques to arena manager Ron Leno.

A special feature of Little International is the greased pig contest. Pictured here is a sample of what the girls can expect when they participate in this annual event Saturday night.

"Easy does it," says Russ Danielson, superintendent of the swine division, as he and Douglas Swisher, brush in hand, attempt to gentle this Duroc hog.

Receiving some pointers from Paul Martin (center) on proper clipping methods is Marvin Jarmin. Looking on are the only two girls entered in the beef division of the contest, Phebe Kirmis, left, and Sharon Hauge.

"Keep her back straight," says Lawrence Spong, dairy division superintendent, to Paul Summer, dairy showman.

The clowns will also be there on Saturday night to keep things lively. The one with the hat is Jack Salzseider.

For the FA crops judging contest, at 8 a.m. morning, are Darwin Lee, and...

Receiving finishing touches, the agricultural engineering show on Satur...

Sigma Alpha Iota Holds February Musicales

by Jean Pulkrabek

Omicron Chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota held its February musicale last Tuesday in Ptunam Hall.

Susan Hofstrand, HE jr, gave a most enlightening review of "Stravinsky — A Tribute" by Everett Helm.

Sigma Alpha Iota's research topic this year is "Challenges to Tradition" and to keep up with the changing times, they presented several works by Stravinsky.

Music has been and is changing since 1900. The accent now is on 20th century composition and it has been said that students need more contact with the new as well as the old music. There is a new language in which one speaks of a density, rarefaction of texture, aural and visual logic. This new music really began with Debussy who challenged tradition in several ways.

Debussy deplored over romanticizing in any form, especially in his own music which he wanted played in a pure style, simple, elegant and with exacting tempo and sensitive pedaling. Phebe Kirmis, AAS soph, played Debussy's "Clair de Lune" in such a manner.

Stravinsky, who was a challenger to tradition, celebrates his 80th birthday this year. He believed that music should speak for itself, melodically, rhythmically and harmonically.

Another feature in the musicale was soprano, Sandra Flom, HE sr, singing "The Piper" by Michael Head. Ginger Mease sang "Rugladiose, Odorose" by Scarletti. Patricia Dodge, AAS soph, changed the pace with a spicy Cuban number "Maleguena" by Ernesto Lecuona.

Sigma Alpha Iota has planned many similar events for the future with the hope that the public will be encouraged to attend and enjoy the efforts and music of these students.

"Secret of Being Well Dressed" Lesson Taught in Adult Class

by Jean Pulkrabek

Many people have never stopped to think what textures and color mean to them. For this reason Judy Saunders and Janet Anderson, HE srs, taught a lesson on the subject to a group of 20 student wives.

"Secrets of Being Well Dressed" was the title of the meeting which was held last Wednesday in the Home Economics building.

The class was one of a series taught by students enrolled in home economics education 472. Five meetings are being presented to the student wives this quarter. The women have responded extremely well in attending the meetings, according to Dr. Josephine Bartow, instructor of 472. The areas covered have dealt with current fashion trends, figure types, line, texture and color. Meetings in the future will feature "Buying Know How" and "Accessories - What to Wear When."

The point Janet Anderson and Judy Saunders felt was important in their "Texture and Color" lesson, was that texture includes many different qualities in a fabric. One must remember how it looks, whether it is shiny or dull, transparent or thick feels smooth, rough, pebbly, ribbed or fuzzy. A material may act stiff or drape in soft folds. All of these qualities describe texture.

Dull textures absorb light and shiny textures reflect light according to the coeds. Textures create an effect on figures and make them look taller or thinner. Shiny

HE Senior Bows Volleyball Tournament 12 Game Series; Sponsored By Officials Wins Tourney

Rae Ann Winlaw, HE sr, bowled 1761 in a twelve game series to win the Women's Bowling Tournament last Saturday in NDSU's Memorial Union.

Rae Ann leads the five women who will compete in the Regional Bowling Tourney to be held February 22, at St. Olaf's College, Northfield, Minnesota. Following Rae Ann were: Gail Anderson, HE soph, and Bobby Quick, AAS jr, both bowling 1704 for twelve games. Janice Score, AAS jr, with 1679 for twelve games, and Janet Anderson, HE sr, with 1665 for twelve games are the two other members of the five women's group.

Curt Rupert, AAS jr, won all but one table tennis match to win first place over Don Smedstad, AAS fr, in the table tennis tournament the same day. Smedstad won all but two of his games. Both Rupert and Smedstad will play off in the Mankato State College Regionals, Mankato, Minnesota, February 15 and 16.

The only remaining tourney to be held this month, sponsored by the American Association of College Unions is a bridge tournament on February 24. The tournament is to be of a "Par Bridge" type play, whereby the hands are previously set up and distributed.

The players bid on their own, then check to see how the bidding should have been. Points are given for the correctness of the bidding. Play is then commenced following the correct bid and the first trick is given in the instructions.

From this point the hand is continued without assistance.

After completion of the hand, points can be obtained according to the instructions as to the nearness of correct playing.

Winners of the bridge tourney are determined by the number of points scored.

The names of high scorers are sent to the Association of College Unions for determination of the national winners.

The Red River Valley Board of Women officials will sponsor a volleyball tournament to allow several Moorhead State and Concordia women the chance to receive their rating as officials.

The tournament, to be held February 16, will include the junior and senior high schools in Fargo, Moorhead and West Fargo area.

The event is being hosted by the NDSU women physical education major and minors with Kathy Brademeyer, AAS soph, as the chairman of the planning committee consisting of Sonja Zueger, AAS jr, Sherry Quinnild, AAS jr, Connie Buhr, AAS fr, and Phyllis Barnick, AAS fr.

Schools participating in this high school volleyball tournament will be the Agassiz Junior High School from Fargo, the North and South Junior High Schools from Moorhead, Shanley, Fargo, Moorhead and West Fargo high schools.

NOTICES

Lincoln Debate Society

The Lincoln Debate Society will meet today from 4-6 p.m. in the Administration Building, room 207. This year's debate topic is: "Resolved; the non-Communist nations of the world should establish an economic community."

All undergraduates are invited to take part in the Society, or to observe a debate.

Amateur Radio Society

The NDSU Amateur Radio Society will hold a regular meeting on Thursday, February 14, at 7 p.m. in conference room A in the Memorial Union.

Newman

A question and answer period will conclude the religion and life series sponsored by the Newman Foundation on Tuesday, February 19 at 7:15 p.m. Members of the NDSU faculty have been the guest speakers for this series held at St. Paul's Student Center.

In memory of St. Valentine's Day, a dance will be held Friday, February 15 from 9 until 12 p.m. in the center.

For a special occasion (as yet not announced) a special menu is being planned for Sunday, February 17. The meal will be served starting at 5:30 p.m.

Applicants Wanted

Applicants are wanted for the positions of program director, station manager and technical director with radio station KDSU. Apply at the station.

Gamma Delta

Gamma Delta is holding a progressive supper on February 17, at 5 p.m. The cars will be leaving Immanuel Lutheran Church. Vespers will follow at the Church.

Groups Requesting Funds

All groups requesting funds from Student Senate for the 1963-64 school year may present their budgets to the Commission of Finance for approval.

For further details contact George (Skip) Duemeland.

Photo Salon

To allow more people to get their entries in for the photo salon, the due date has been set back one week to February 18. Entry blanks and more information are available through the "Y" office in the library.

Agricultural Economics Club

The Agricultural Economics Club will meet Thursday, February 14 in Morrill Hall, room 210 at 7:30 p.m. Arden Burbidge, Park River, North Dakota, will speak on the topic "A Farmers View on the Necessity of Resource Management." He is president of the Northwest Farm Managers Association.

Lunch will be served. All interested persons are welcome, especially agricultural economics majors.

Winter Quarter Dinner

The Winter Quarter Dinner Party for faculty women will be held on Wednesday, February 13.

The Home Extension Agents will be on campus at that time and have been invited to attend. Everyone shall meet at 5:30 p.m. in the Founders room of the Home Economics building. The dinner will be prepared and served by Miss Sheldon's class in quantity cooking. The price is $1.75.

It is hoped all faculty women on campus will be present and make a special effort to know these staff members who are located in the state.

Notice

"Live each day as if it were your last," will be the topic presented by Betty Grosz at student led Vespers tonight at 8:30 p.m.

A Beatnik party will be held Friday night beginning at 8:30 p.m. Come in costume.

"The Risk of Involvement" is the topic to be presented by Rev. Olson Sunday evening at 6:45 following the cost supper. All students are invited to discuss this topic with Rev. Olson.

Pharmacy Wives

The Pharmacy Wives will meet on February 19, at 8 p.m. in the library of Sudro Hall.

Hostesses are Mrs. Linda Carlson and Mrs. Clea Rickett.

INCF

A valentine surprise will be held after the regular meeting of the Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship tomorrow night. The meeting will start at 6:45 in Meineke lounge. A student led discussion on the Bible concept of Christian fellowship will be given at the meeting.

Physical Education Club

The monthly meeting of the Physical Education Club will be held Thursday, February 14, 7 p.m. in the Memorial Union ballroom.

At 7:30 the public is invited to attend a fencing demonstration in the ballroom, presented by the Selberg Fency Academy.

National Defense Money

National Defense money for the spring quarter will be released on February 25. This money must be picked up before registration. Please comply.

Open Forum

Due to presidential candidate debates, the open forum will not be held tonight.

Stationery Sale

The NDSU Physical Education Club is selling block print stationery done by Gwen Frostic, a handicapped painter. The prints are soft hues depicting different seasons of the year. All of the proceeds from this sale are being used to finance the Arlene Kalk Physical Education Scholarship. This stationery is available by contacting any physical education member before March 1.

SUAB

There will be an informal discussion given by Steve Ward and Bob Thorson on "Volume Six" and other works on February 17, at 2:30 in the Memorial Union. Everyone is invited to take part in the discussion and listen to readings of their works.

Bridge Tournament

The A.C.U. National Intercollegiate Bridge Tournament will be held Sunday, February 24, in the Student Union.

Registration will be held in the Student Union Program Office.

Over the Back Fence

by Joe Schneider

It appears that the battle over contract feeding is drawing to a close, with the Greeks violently afraid that the president will not grant them their release clause.

Lack of Communication

It seems that most of the trouble over the contract feeding problem is due to a lack of understanding among the students concerning where the administration stands. Robert Crom, assistant to the president, is currently in charge of a committee which has spent a great deal of time drawing several suggestions to present to the president on the matter.

At the time of this writer's deadline, no positive remarks could be made as to how the committee stands on the release clause. Crom states that the committee's report has not as yet gone to the president, even though their work is done. By the time this edition of the paper hits the campus, however, the report should have been given to the president for his decision.

Until this time, there will be no statement to the general student body as to what action the committee has decided to take concerning the release clause.

Several unbiased rumors have been traveling around campus, mainly with the Greek population, concerning the president's reaction to the demand for the release. Many people feel the president is entirely unfair in his treatment of the students.

However, this cannot be truthfully said, because the president hasn't committed himself one way or another. The whole thing boils down to a lack of communication between the president and the students in general.

It is hard to blame students for disliking a man who does not make his feelings evident in situations which will affect their existence on campus. However, we must realize that the president is in a rough position, that being a new administration head and having to cope with many problems which were left over from the previous administration, he still should try and let his public have an idea as to where they stand.

People are always suspicious of something they know little or nothing about, and this appears to be the main problem facing the NDSU student. As far as the students are concerned, the president is all in favor of not having a release clause, although he has never come out and said anything more than that he definitely wants contract feeding.

Oh Those Buttons

Harley Horsager, TKE and senator, has been both complimented and criticized for his committee's buttons which scream out for a release clause. Other than SAE's who are waiting for an IFC approval, all the Greeks and many of the independents are wearing the buttons.

Jim Vorachek, ATO, and chairman of the student committee for a release clause from contract feeding, told the Student Senate last week that the president was very upset over the buttons.

In a meeting with the president last Wednesday, Vorachek told how the president had one of the buttons on his desk. This was the day after the buttons appeared on campus. Although there is a lack of verbal communication between the president and the students, at least he appears to know what they are doing.

As far as the meeting goes, Vorachek was told by the president that the conversation was strictly private and was not to go any farther than his office.

When the student's only human link with the president on contract feeding is not allowed to tell about his conversations, this adds to the resentment.

The buttons actually will not do any good, other than show the feelings of many of the students over a contract with no possible release.

Worthy Effort

As well as the buttons, a petition has been circulating which reads that the students who sign it are in favor of the release clause. Horsager originally intended them to dig out the president, but it appears that this idea is going to be forfeited in favor of the state legislature.

However, these petitions will not appear if the clause is allowed, according to Horsager.

Election Promises

With Senate elections upon us, the students at NDSU are once again being exposed to senseless campaigning promises and high sounding cries of school devotion.

The Greeks are stacking the ballots with their members in hope that a few of them will be elected to represent them on the highest legislative body on campus.

It is the job of each and every student, especially the Greeks, to ask and demand an answer from every candidate concerning his views on subjects which will certainly come up before the new Senate. The reasons we stress Greeks is that they are more exposed to the candidates through the traditional talks which each hopeful senate candidate makes at every house.

If the Greeks will only make an effort to see to it that the candidate they choose to run for office is sincere in his beliefs, then the next year's Senate could probably be the most effective one this school has ever seen.

Although the Greeks control the Senate at this time, it is very feasible that the independents could place several of their candidates in office if they get out and vote. In the past, the independent turn-out at the polls has been very disappointing.

Good Candidates

Certain qualities are expected of a presidential candidate. Some of these include a firm knowledge of what the Senate's purpose and duties are; a previous position on Senate, if possible; a genuine interest in student government, opposed to a Johnny-come-lately attitude, and a general interest in helping the student body achieve what they want for their school.

Another campaign issue which would be brought out into the open is the selection of the new commissioners. Every new president must pick a group of capable students to handle his commission posts. This situation is comparable to the United States' President's cabinet.

A voter should investigate the presidential candidates and try to determine the quality of the commissioners he would pick. Will he pick all fraternity brothers, or close friends who have little or no knowledge of the importance of their jobs? Several of the present candidates have poor backgrounds in this matter, and it is worth investigating to be sure the commissioner positions, which are considered more important than the Senate spots by many, will be filled with the most capable men.

Outgoing Crew

The old president and his band of commissioners are almost through on this campus as influences on Senate.

There are not very many students who can find a great deal of old commissioners led by Sherry Bassin, outgoing Student Body President.

Although Bassin is a Kappa Psi, he wisely picked very capable and hard working men for his commissioner posts who were not members of his fraternity.

George Duemeland, one of Bassin's contenders in the last year's presidential election, was picked to head the most powerful commission, finance. Two of the present presidential candidates, Bill Findley and Harold Korb, each were heads of committees. It is not unfair to comment that this experience in these positions will greatly aid them in their campaign for office.

Prediction

Due to the deadline date for this column (can't afford to have another 'Under' the Back Fence), a prediction as to the outcome is not in order. There are still several good candidate possibilities who might decide to run on a write-in ballot. You older students will remember that last year a write-in candidate almost won the presidential position. It could happen again.

Vote

As in years past, the ever present cry, "Vote" can be heard. Although we hate to be like Literary Society's publication "Volume Six" and use old material, we must in this case.

The only way the student body can be assured that the best men are elected is to get out and cast their ballots. It appears that anybody can complain about this school, but it takes a different type of person to try and improve it. Support your candidate, and vote.

Area Colleges Will Participate In Conference

The first annual Tri-College Conference on Student Teaching will be held March 1, in the North Dakota State University Memorial Union.

The conference is planned for school personnel working with student teachers from the three area colleges, Concordia, Moorhead State and NDSU, who are sponsoring the event. The three institutions plan to hold a joint conference annually, alternating as hosts.

Dr. Gordon Mork, director of student teaching at the University of Minnesota, will be the featured speaker at the evening session. All teachers and school personnel interested in teacher education and the student teaching program are invited to participate.

Three sessions will be held throughout the day. The afternoon session is planned for teachers and school personnel who have student teachers in their school. Sectional meetings on various subjects at both the elementary and secondary levels will be held following the opening panel discussion on "Orienting the Student Teacher to the School and Helping Him to Assume Responsibility."

A special session will be held at 5 p.m. for school personnel who have not previously had student teachers in their schools. The program will focus on the characteristics of a good student teaching program.

In charge of the program from each education department are: Dr. Harold Dordal, Concordia College; D. T. E. Smith, Moorhead State; and Dr. Calvin Eland, NDSU.

"Pajama Game" got into the act at the 'U' series convocation last Friday. Tryouts for this year's all college production will be held Saturday and Monday, February 23 and 25.

Placement Office

Job Interviews

Wednesday, Thursday, Friday
February 13, 14 and 15

Remington Rand Univac, St. Paul, Minnesota, will again send Gordon Bourne to NDSU seeking personal interviews with electrical engineering degree candidates.

Students interested in Remington Rand Univac are invited to register for interviews.

Wednesday, Thursday
February 13 and 14

McDonnell Aircraft, St. Louis, Missouri, will be represented on campus by Donn Tankersley who will seek employment interviews with senior and graduate mathematics, physics and engineering students.

Friday, February 15

California State Personnel Board is offering career employment opportunities to graduating civil engineering students. Contact Placement prior to the above interviewing date to arrange an interviewing appointment.

Monday, February 18

Minnesota and Ontario Paper Company of Minneapolis will visit the campus this year requesting interviews with mechanical, electrical and industrial engineering students.

Monday and Tuesday
February 18 and 19

Shell Oil Company, Houston, Texas, is seeking young graduates interested in sales positions. Applications with background in general agriculture, agricultural economics, chemistry and biological sciences are well suited to this program of agricultural chemical sales.

Monday, February 18

Rural Electrification Administration continues to need additional candidates to fill existing openings in power transmissions and communications. Requirements call for all applicants to have completed a bachelors degree in electrical engineering.

Tuesday, February 19

Deere and Company, Moline, Illinois, will be represented by E. H. Case, director of college relations for the Deer Company. Case will return to NDSU for the purpose of interviewing senior and graduate engineering students. The Central Engineering Division has need for mechanical or industrial graduates interested in facilities engineering. Interested students are invited to register for interviews.

Wednesday, February 20

International Business Machines Corporation will interview technical students for research, development and manufacturing operations in all IBM plant and laboratory locations. Neal Waldo, regional sales manager, will also be available to interview all students interested in sales opportunities with the IBM organization.

Wednesday, February 20

Universal Electric, Owassa, Michigan, will again be represented on campus by Harold Meiers, vice president of the company. Meier offers electrical engineering graduates opportunities as technical sales representatives, design engineering and manufacturing assignments involved in the production of small precision electric motors.

First Trust Company, St. Paul, Minnesota, is involved in many different types of endeavors, e.g. investment analysis, accounting, audit control, trust and probate administration, tax accounting and machine accounting. The company is seeking to employ a number of trainees majoring in business economics with some emphasis on accounting. All interested economics students are urged to visit with Langevin, company personnel manager, during his visit to campus.

A. C. Spark Plug, (The Electronics Division of General Motors) Milwaukee, Wisconsin, will send L. R. Burns to NDSU seeking interviews with all engineering, physics, mathematics students at all degree levels.

This is a first visit to our campus and all interested students are invited to apply for summer employment.

Yellowstone Park and Yosemite National Park are seeking students to do service work over the summer months.

Cargill Incorporated, Minneapolis, Minnesota, is seeking to employ an individual for the summer months to serve as a field manager in the Vegetable Oil Division. He should be an agronomist with some graduate work completed. The position will involve travel giving advice to farmers who have contracted acreage for production of sunflower.

The Bureau of Employment Security, operating under the Department of Labor, now has a large number of openings for recent graduates majoring in business economics, agricultural economics, mathematics, sociology or psychology. These assignments would begin at GS-7 or GS-9 levels with Kansas City, Missouri, or Washington, D. C., the most probable place of employment. All interested students should contact the Placement Office for assistance in filing applications.

Working on plans for a "new" Sharivar 1963 are Tracey Robson, AAS jr, and Ray Jutala, ME jr, co-chairmen of the Student Central Committee. One of the highlights of Sharivar, to be held April 26-28, will be the Blue Key production of "The Pajama Game."

Home Economics Extension; Career With Many Facets

by Jean Pulkrabek

There are careers that have many surfaces and facets which are like the small faces of a gem. The facets add color and sparkle to life and to earning a living.

Such a career is in Home Economics Extension, including agriculture, which is full of adventure and opportunity. One will find opportunities almost any place she goes. After receiving training in the Midwest, one may go east to work or stay in the home state. Any county in the United States, including Puerto Rico has work to offer in this field.

Out of School Education

Home Economics Extension is an out-of-school educational service for families, adults and youth. The purpose has been stated as the desire to help them make their homes and communities the best possible places in which to live and grow as happy, useful citizens. Persons in extension may be called a home demonstration agent, a home advisor, an extension home economist or a 4-H club agent. All these titles hold true to the same purpose.

The color and sparkle is added to life by meeting and working with so many wonderful people, with boys and girls, young people, men and women, both rural and urban. Lasting friendships are formed by working with these people. Extension agents are thought of as friends as well as professional workers.

SU Has Place For The "Lost"

The following articles have been turned into the campus "lost and found" department in the program director's office in Memorial Union:

Watch, black silk scarf, car keys, men's glasses, Catholic prayer book, top coat, cigarette lighter, charm bracelet, black leather gloves.

A pair of women's black glasses has been found and may be picked up at the Dean of Women's office by the owner.

Any unclaimed article should be turned into the lost and found department, or if you have lost something, notify the department.

THE BELL TELEPHONE COMPANIES SALUTE: JERRY JOHNSON

Recently, Northwestern Bell promoted Jerry Johnson (B.S.E.E., 1960) to District Equipment Engineer in Omaha. On this new job, Jerry supervises a staff of eleven engineers and four clerks. Quite an achievement for an engineer with the company only two years.

Jerry showed exceptional ability from his first assignment as an Outside Plant Engineer. There he gained attention for his capable handling of a special cable project. This led to a promotion to Service Transmission Engineer, the job that preceded his most recent step up.

Jerry Johnson and other young engineers like him in Bell Telephone Companies throughout the country help bring the finest communications service in the world to the homes and businesses of a growing America.

Senate Discusses Contract Feeding, Parking Problem

by Joe Schneider

The president's and Student Senate stands on contract feeding were the main topics of discussion at the Senate meeting Tuesday, February 5.

Jim Vorachek, chairman of the student committee on contract feeding, representing Student Senate, IFC and the Panhellenic Council, reported his findings concerning the proposed release clause asked by many students.

Vorachek told Senate how his committee met with administrative representatives from the University of North Dakota to discuss suggestions which will be submitted to President Albrecht concerning a release clause. Their recommendation, according to Vorachek, favored release from the dorm's feeding plan for students who have other feeding contracts or some type of disease.

He went on to say that Robert Crom, head of the committee set up by Dr. Albrecht to investigate contract feeding, had voted to approve a release clause. After these findings have been reported to the president, he will appear before the Board of Higher Education for their final approval before any positive action is taken.

When asked what the president's reaction to the student committee against contract feeding was, Vorachek said, "I do know that he is not too pleased with the button campaign." He was referring to the buttons being worn by many students around the campus which read, "Fight Forced Feeding, We want a release clause."

Jim Olson, Commissioner of Legislative Research, asked Vorachek what would happen if the president does not okay the release clause. "Does this mean we have lost the battle?" Olson asked.

Vorachek replied, "We may lose the battle, but not the war."

Petition

Harley Horsager, senator, moved that the Student Body President send a letter to Dr. Albrecht expressing the Senate's approval of the presently circulating petition. The clause stated in the petition says that the students do not want contract feeding without a release clause. Horsager added that this letter would not have to be sent if the petitions are not presented to the president, providing that he comes out in favor of release.

Vorachek again rose before the Senate and told of a meeting he had with "The president's mouthpiece," Robert Crom, who says that these organizations are trying to bully the president into signing the release clause. Vorachek also said that the deans are unofficially for the clause.

Olson stated, "It's our job to back committees or organizations who are working to fight for this release clause. I urge its passage."

After more discussion, the motion passed.

Senate's Disapproval

Dave Milbrath, senator, moved that Senate state its disapproval of the button campaign around the campus. Although he stated that he was in favor of a release clause, Milbrath said that all these buttons are doing is to infuriate the president.

Harley Horsager, head of the button campaign and a senator, said, "It looks to me like Student Senate is a scared, wishy-washy organization."

Harold Korb, Commissioner of Campus Affairs said, "I think that the button campaign has been orderly. I think if we kill this, we are trying to kill school spirit. I think the campus needs a little fire in things like this."

"I say, let it continue," said Olson. "It is not up to us to approve or not to approve everything that happens on this campus."

In bitter opposition, Judy Jensen said, "We can't go along with everything the student body does, or we will be in pretty bad shape."

When Sherry Bassin, Student Body President, called for the roll call vote, only five senators voted in favor of Milbrath's motion. Following this, Olson presented a motion reading "That Student Senate take no stand on this button campaign."

It was quickly passed.

Distressing News

"I have a very distressing report," said Jim Olson, as he prepared to present to Senate his results of an attempt to allow campus parking after dark and a student traffic court to be set up.

Olson reported that he has made no progress, because the faculty committee, through which we are supposed to go, has never met.

He said that one of the members of his commission had written a letter to Knute Henning, chairman of the department of architecture and head of the faculty committee, about a possible meeting. Olson stated that Henning had promised in a return letter that the committee would meet sometime in the first three weeks of January, but this never happened. "To our knowledge, this committee has not met this academic year," commented Olson. He went on, "I feel that these faculty committees are a basic weakness of our college." He asked Senate's approval on his taking the request for a traffic court and campus street parking directly to the president.

Commented Bassin, "Obviously something has to be done."

Permission was granted by the Senate.

Poor Showing

Kerry Hawkins, senator, asked his colleagues how many of them had attended the Student-Faculty Tea held the preceeding Friday in the Memorial Union. After only two hands were raised, he commented that they had all been invited and urged them to attend the next one.

"There weren't many faculty members there," said Hawkins, "but there were more faculty than students." He went on to say that he felt this hurts student-faculty relations, and how this probably shows the opinion of the students towards strengthening their position with the faculty.

Carleton College recently had a 90 per cent turn out at their student body elections. Lets see North Dakota State University do as well.

Fast action is the scene of the first out of four games between North Dakota State University and University of North Dakota. Here Lyndon Langen, the Bison's high scoring man with 15 points, attempts to block the shot of Gary Tabel and ends up with a fist in his jaw for his trouble. In the close game with the Bison winning by two points, 68-66, the teams played hard with the Sioux being penalized by having to have two of their starters foul out in the final minutes of the game. Other Bison players in the picture are Dave Lee, Wayne Langen, behind his brother, and Curt Holt of the Sioux.

First Out Of Four Series Goes To Bison Over Sioux

by Neal Jacobson

North Dakota State edged UND, 68-66, in the first meeting of the four game series Friday at the Bison Fieldhouse. This was the 86th victory for NDSU as opposed to 98 for the Sioux.

The invading North Dakotans entered the ball game as a four point underdog but didn't seem to have read the local papers as they steam-rolled to an advantage of ten points late in the first half and led 37-32 at intermission. The major reason for the pattern of the opening half was the fact that UND played an aggressive defense, and a well patterned offense which was run until a good shot was able to be taken. The ability of the Sioux to fire from close range was due to the inept Bison man-to-man defense which appeared to lag for the first 20 minutes.

After a short halftime talk from Coach Chuck Bentson, during which he explained, in so many words to his chargers that their defense wasn't up to par, the Buffalo put on a tenacious showing of defensive ability and brought NDSU back into the lead.

The fireworks continued until the last buzzer as UND had control of the ball for the final six seconds while trailing by two. After intensive work in the huddle during a time out by Sioux Coach Bill Fitch, the invading five took to the floor and worked what appeared to be the perfect play. Sophomore guard Bob Glas fired a 15 foot jump shot which fell short as the buzzer sounded.

Pacing the Bison scoring effort was 6'7" center Lyndon Langen with 15 tallies. Bob Tuchsherer, Wayne Langen, and Ron McLeod added to the balanced attack with 14, 12 and 10 respectively. NDSU managed to hit at a 47 per cent clip from the floor.

The University of North Dakota also had four men in double figures. Curt Holt lead all scorers with 18, followed by Larry Hanson with 15, Gary Fabel with 13 and Ron Winter with 12. The Sioux hit at an over-all 40 per cent rate, dropping in 24 of 60 attempts.

NDSU had a slight 37-36 rebounding advantage. The Langen brothers spearheaded the Bison boardwork with 12 and eight respectively while the Sioux were paced by Hanson with ten and Holt with eight.

For the first time in many games, the Bison won the contest on free throws. With each team hitting 24 fieldgoals, the decisive count came from the charity line as SU managed 20 of 27 while the Sioux dropped in an amazing 18 of 20.

Attend the second half of the U Series at Grand Forks next weekend to cheer the Herd on to victory.

Track Schedule Adds 5 Meets

Track Coach Tom Neuberger announced the addition of five Midwest schools to the Bison 1963 track schedule.

The Bison will meet Iowa State University at Ames, Iowa, on March 11 in indoor action. The following day they will meet tough Drake as they arrive in Des Moines, Iowa to take part in a dual meet. On March 13 they'll move into Minnesota for three more meets. There NDSU will face Mankato State on the 13, Carleton College at Northfield, Miss., on the 14 and Macalester in St. Paul on the 16 before returning home.

This addition of 5 meets gives the Bison a 19 track slate, one of the most attractive in years.

Bison Drop 2nd Game of 'U' Series In Tense Overtime

by David Pollock

The first two games of the bitter "U" series are over and its a split. Considering both performances, Friday night, not so good on Saturday night.

fact gathered from the two games is the spirit and desire of the sophomore players.

Earlier in the month Coach Bentson predicted the series would be a toss-up. So far he's right. Bentson commented he was disappointed in our throwing the ball away and expressed doubt over its ceasing. A long the same lines was the regret over the losses at the free-throw line. Had the Bison made one more than they did in the Saturday night game, they would have had another victory.

The hustling and hard playing of Bob Tuscherer and Bob Reslock deserves commendation. At times Tuscherer was a one-man team, first stealing the ball, then getting a rebound or sinking a basket. Reslock was in there fighting, taking and contributing his share in the action packed game.

Brothers Lynden and Wayne Langen worked hard also. They led the Bison rebounding attack both nights. Wayne managed nine points in the action on Saturday night before fouling out.

Ron McLeod should be about ready to pull out of the slump he's been in. The last hot effort he had was in the South Dakota State game. Since then, he's missed his 23.5 NCC scoring pace. He did receive rough treatment and thick guarding, but part of the cause is also just missing the mark.

Forward Neal Jacobson put on a nice performance in the second game, pulling down 15 points, six of them in a row. He sparked the Bison in the second half, helping to pull them out of the 10-point deficit. Neal missed action in preceding games because of an ankle injury.

Dave Lee and Lee Grim, both sophomores, also came through with some good scoring and fighting. Dave made a couple of great rebounds while Grim scored when it was needed.

As far as statistics, only the Friday night games at both home courts count in NCC compilation. So, if we get three out of the four we are accredited two wins and UND would get two losses. Let's keep up the fighting spirit and support, and hand UND the two losses.

UND's Glas (55) and Bob Tuscherer (20) go up together for a lay-up while Lynden Langen (50) stands poised to rebound in Saturday's second game of the rough "U" series played at NDSU.

Saturday's Game

Two points for the second night in a row spelled the difference between victory and defeat. Saturday UND won the second game of the "U" series 71-69 in an overtime period at NDSU Fieldhouse.

The contest followed much the same pattern as Friday night's action except for the final score. The Sioux bounced to an impressive 10 point lead early in the first half and it appeared as if the odds-makers, who had installed the Bison as five-point favorites, were in for a shellacking along with the Bison. The story was changed when the half-time buzzer sounded as the Herd were trailing by one point.

The opening minutes of the second half again found the Bison on the short end of the score, but when the final seconds of the regulation game ended the score was deadlocked 65-65.

The brief five minute overtime period was jammed with action as the Bison took a 2-point lead with less than two minutes to go. UND came back and tied it at 69 all and regained possession of the ball with 25 seconds remaining. After a time out, the Sioux held the ball for a last second shot which was successful by Jack Marron.

A final well planned play by the Herd in the last three seconds failed and the scoreboard read 69-71 in favor of UND.

Men in double figures for the Bison were Bob Tuscherer with 16, Neal Jacobson 15 and Ron McLeod 14.

Athletic Situation Discussed

The following are paragraphs taken from an article written by Eugene Fitzgerald, Fargo Forum Sports Editor.

"We should be doing better than we are." This according to Fitzgerald, was Dr. Albrecht's most drastic criticism of the lack of success NDSU athletic teams have had. "No decisions have been made," Dr. Albrecht added.

"I doubt in the coming two years that we will have a sufficient increase in revenue through appropriations or otherwise to add much more money to the athletic budget.

But I'm not too sure money is the answer to all our problems. We are not in the best situation personnel wise or financially by comparison with some other schools in the North Central Conference. Neither are we the worst," stated Dr. Albrecht.

Dr. Albrecht said that actually there has been no strong alumni pressure seeking to improve the athletic situation.

In reading over this article, I'm sure many people are pleased that the athletic situation is at least being discussed if nothing else.

Some of these rumors are the fond wishes of many people, but people sometimes do not want their fond wishes publicized, hence the lack of factual material to support the rumors. I for one, would like to see some changes made. Maybe I should make a plea for letters to support my stand.

If anyone had any doubts as to the support and loyalty of area people and students, they should have tried to find an empty seat at the fieldhouse this past weekend.

The president of NDSU was there both nights and is considered by many to be a great fan of the team, and when he says we should be doing better than we are, I heartily agree.

Money is thought to be not the whole reason for our athletic problems. It is true some worthy organizations are increasing their scholarships, but most of these scholarships are very limited.

There also is a sound suggestion that NDSU build up one sport to be top, and one sport alone, then work on other areas of athletic competition.

Considering the statement by Dr. Albrecht that there has been no strong pressure seeking to improve the situation, I suggest that any interested persons start making themselves heard loud and clear; for if responsible people show an interest, maybe NDSU athletics will be helped. The returns would be of benefit to everyone in North Dakota.

World Entertainer to Debut At NDSU In One-Woman Show

A headliner in the world of entertainment who has sent people rolling in the aisles on five continents will debut at the North Dakota State University Festival Hall on February 28.

Anna Russell, the international concert comedienne, will give her famed one-woman show as part of her 11th coast-to-coast tour. Miss Russell, who once studied for serious opera, has brought gales of laughter from audiences in Australia, South Africa, the British Isles and Europe as well as the United States.

"Funniest Woman"
In The World

Miss Russell, who is sometimes described as "the funniest woman in the world," usually gives about 100 performances a year. She applies to her light-hearted interpretations of the world's best known operatic and concert music a magical spoofing that keeps her audiences spellbound.

In addition to her concert performances, Miss Russell has appeared on many television shows, made a number of recordings, written two books, and appeared in several of dramatic productions. The most recent of her dramatic roles was in "The Pendulum," which was a hit of the 1961 season in New York.

Students will be able to obtain free tickets to Miss Russell's performance on their activity cards after February 20.

Faculty Members Attend Meeting

John A. Callenbach, associate director of the Agricultural Experiment Station, and Dr. Donald Schwartz, professor of chemistry at NDSU, recently attended a meeting for the directors of the Summer Science Training Program for High Ability Secondary School Students in Salt Lake City, Utah.

The program is a special project in science education sponsored by the National Science Foundation. The program is designed for talented tenth, eleventh and twelfth grade students who are chosen to participate in the program on the basis of their academic achievement and interest in the project. The purpose of the program is to provide these students with experience they would not receive in high school or college, and to influence them in choosing a science career.

Twenty students will take part in the program at NDSU. These students will do actual research work in the fields of entomology, microbiology and chemistry under the supervision of the research staff.

Callenbach is the director of the research participation program in entomology and microbiology. Schwartz will head the chemistry program. The program at NDSU will last ten weeks. Six students are registered in entomology and microbiology and fourteen in chemistry.

Award Presented to E. G. Anderson

Ernest G. Anderson, professor of electrical engineering at North Dakota State University and an amateur radio operator, has been presented with an award by President Albrecht.

The award, sponsored by the NDSU Amateur Radio Society, is the first of its kind to be presented in this area and has officially started the North Dakota State-County Award program. It is presented according to the number of counties in North Dakota that the operator has had two-way contact with by way of amateur radio.
